Tafheemul Quran

An Introduction to the understanding of the Quran

Tafheemul Quran is the most prominent exegesis, tafseer and explanation of the Quran by Syed Abul Aala Maududi. Tafheemul Quran was originally written in Urdu. The English rendering of the Urdu meanings of the Arabic Quran was first done by Muhammad Akbar Muradpuri and Abdul Aziz Kamal. The explanatory portion which is the Tafseer of the Quran was translated from Urdu into English by Muhammad Akbar Muradpuri. The Introduction of the Tafseer written by Syed Abul Aala Maududi in Urdu was translated in English by Zafar Ishaq Ansari. The complete Tafheemul Quran is a combination of both, the translation of the Quran and the Tafseer.

The following work is the enhancement in several areas.

* The image-based Tafheemul Quran has been transformed into text-based high resolution graphic English and Arabic font document. The resulting optimization also allows electronic portability across Computers, Smart Phones and Electronic Book Readers.

* The Arabic text of the entire Quran has been replaced by high resolution font based Uthmani Script. Arabic text has also been verified for accuracy.

* In the last decade of 20th century, the hard copy of Tafheemul Quran was transformed into editable soft copy text using OCR (Optical Character Recognition Hardware/Software). However, in those days the OCR being primitive, introduced a fairly large number of inaccuracies in the spellings, grammar and punctuation. In many places the words were changed to the extent that the entire sentences did not make any sense. Later on, when Internet became widely available, many Islamic Web sites copied this English part of the Tafheemul Quran, added poor quality scanned Arabic and made it available to the readers on line. No effort was made towards any correction. As a result, Tafheemul Quran available on almost all the web sites is full of errors.

A major effort has been done here. The entire Tafheemul Quran has been reviewed. All spelling, grammar, and punctuation errors have been corrected. Where necessary, vocabulary and words has been replaced to contemporary English. We hope this brings the entire Tafheemul Quran close to an error free document.

* Syed Maududi's translation of the Quran from Arabic into Urdu was based on his unique approach which was not based: 'ayat by ayat'. He took the freedom of translating several ayats together based on a subject, topic or event. This approach, when later, translated from Urdu to English created opportunity for additional work in two areas. First, translating Quranic Arabic into Urdu and then Urdu into English caused loss of the exact Arabic meanings of several words in each Surah as they should have been understood in contemporary English. Second, subdividing the translation of multiple ayats into individual ayats caused a major misalignment of the meanings. An effort has been made to rectify this.

In order to rearrange and bring the closest Quranic Arabic meaning into contemporary English, the English translation of the Arabic Quran has been revised with the help of the following authentic translations. Extreme care has been exercised to ensure that the meanings that Syed Maududi had intended in his original work do not change.

* The Meaning of the Glorious Quran, An explanatory Translation (Revised) by Mohammad Marmaduke Pickthall.

* The Glorious Quran, Translation and Commentary by Allama Abdullah Yusuf Ali.

* The Noble Quran in the English Language. By Muhammad Taqi al-Din al-Hilali and Muhammad Muhsin Khan.

* The Quran: The First American Version. By Thomas B. Irving (Taalim Ali).

* The Quran with corresponding English Meaning. Sahih International.

* The PDF, in 114 Surahs files as well as eBook and iBook can be downloaded on Personal Computers, Smart Phones, and Electronic Book Readers and can be permanently stored without the need for reading on line via Internet.

* There are no restrictions. This work is available free of cost. CDs can be made and distributed. Web sites can copy and redistribute without seeking any permission.

* My sources of studies, references, and material collection for this work included Wikipedia, Department of Religious Studies, University of Southern California, Islamicnet and hard copy print (six volumes) of Tafheemul Quran translated in English by Muhammad Akbar Muradpuri.

* In the course of several years of effort of transforming and enhancing the Tafheemul Quran in the present format, I constantly received help, guidance and encouragement from several of my dear friends and acquaintances. I greatly appreciate Umar Ahmed for providing valuable assistance in reviewing my work, Saeed Malik (Author of a very precious book, A perspective on the Signs of Al-Quran) for his advice on numerous topics, and Ilyas Choudhry for helping further elaborate the biological sciences related discussion by the author of Tafheemul Quran in the matters of human embryology.

* It will be unfair if I do not express my appreciation to my wife Brenda, daughter Sabeena and son Javed. After my full time job in the fast lanes of Silicon Valley, my evenings and weekends, while working on Tafheemul Quran and other Quranic related projects, have been mostly absent from their lives. A human being cannot pay back the sacrifices endured by others for a noble cause such as this. May Allah reward them of their patience and understanding.

May Allah Subhanuhu wa ta'ala accept this effort.

Tafheemul Quran

An Introduction

By

Syed Abul Aala Maududi

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

ذَلِكَ الْكِتَابُ لَا رَيْبَ فِيهِ هُدًى لِّلْمُتَّقِينَ ﴿١﴾

الَّذِينَ يُؤْمِنُونَ بِالْغَيْبِ وَيُقِيمُونَ الصَّلَاةَ وَمِمَّا رَزَقْنَاهُمْ

يُنْفِقُونَ ﴿٢﴾ وَالَّذِينَ يُؤْمِنُونَ بِمَا أُنزِلَ إِلَيْكَ وَمَا

أُنزِلَ مِنْ قَبْلِكَ وَبِالْآخِرَةِ هُمْ يُوقِنُونَ ﴿٣﴾ أُولَٰئِكَ

عَلَىٰ هُدًى مِّن رَّبِّهِمْ وَأُولَٰئِكَ هُمُ الْمُفْلِحُونَ ﴿٤﴾

This is the book which contains no doubt, (it is) guidance for the heedful who believe in the Unseen, keep up prayer, and spend from what We have provided them with; Who believe in what has been sent down to you as well as what was sent down before you; while they are certain about the Hereafter, such people hold guidance from their Lord, such will be successful. (The Quran 2:2-5).

This introduction has been written with two objectives: First to acquaint the reader with certain matters which he should grasp at the very outset so as to achieve a more than superficial understanding of the Holy Book. Second, to clarify those disturbing questions that commonly arise in the mind of the reader during the study of the Quran.

Unique Book

We are accustomed to reading books that present information, ideas and arguments systematically and coherently. So when we embark on the study of the Quran, we expect that this book too will revolve around a definite subject, that the subject matter of the book will be clearly defined at the beginning and will then be neatly divided into sections and chapters, after which discussion will proceed in a logical sequence. We likewise expect a separate and systematic arrangement of instruction and guidance for each of the various aspects of human life. However, as soon as we open the Quran, we encounter a hitherto completely unfamiliar genre of literature. We notice that it embodies precepts of belief and conduct, moral directives, legal prescriptions, exhortations and admonition, censure and condemnation of evildoers, warning to the deniers of the truth, good tidings and words of consolation and good cheer to those who have suffered for the sake of God, arguments and corroborative evidence in support of its basic message, allusions to anecdotes from the past and the signs of God visible in the universe. Moreover, these myriad subjects alternate without any apparent system; quite unlike the books to which we are accustomed. The Quran deals with the same subject over and over again, each time couched in a different phraseology. The reader also encounters abrupt transitions between one subject matter and another. Audience and speaker constantly change as the message is directed now to one and then to another group of people. There is no trace of the familiar divisions into chapters and sections. Likewise, the treatment of different subjects is unique. If an historical subject is raised, the narrative does not follow the pattern familiar in historical accounts. In the discussion of philosophical or metaphysical questions, we miss the familiar expressions and terminology of formal logic and philosophy. Cultural and political matters, or questions pertaining to man's social and economic life, are discussed in a way very different from that usual in work of social sciences. Juristic principles and legal injunctions are elucidated, but quite differently from the manner of conventional works. When we come across an ethical instruction, we find its form entirely differs from anything to be found elsewhere in the literature of ethics. The reader may find all this so foreign to his notion of what a book should be that he may become so confused as to feel that the Quran is a piece of disorganized, incoherent and unsystematic writing, comprising nothing but a disjointed conglomeration of comments of varying lengths put together arbitrarily. Hostile critics use this as a basis for their criticism, while those more favorably inclined resort to far-fetched explanations, or else conclude that the Quran consists of unrelated pieces, thus making it amenable to all kinds of interpretations, even interpretations quite opposed to the intent of God Who revealed the Book.

What kind of book is the Quran? In what manner was it revealed? What underlies its arrangement? What is its subject? What is its true purpose? What is the central theme to which its multifarious topics are intrinsically related? What kind of reasoning and style does it adopt in elucidating its central theme? If we could obtain clear, lucid answers to these and other related questions, we might avoid some dangerous pitfalls, thus making it easier to reflect upon and to grasp the meaning and purpose of the Quranic verses. If we begin studying the Quran in the expectation of reading a book on religion, we shall find it hard, since our notions of religion and of a book are naturally circumscribed by our range of experience. We need, therefore, to be told in advance that this Book is unique in the manner of its composition, in its theme and its contents and arrangement. We should be forewarned that the concept of a book that we have formed from our previous readings is likely to be a hindering, rather than a help, towards a deep understanding of the Quran. We should realize that as a first step towards understanding it we must divest our minds of all preconceived notions.

Divine Guidance

The student of the Quran should grasp, from the outset, the fundamental claims that the Quran makes for itself. Whether one ultimately decides to believe in the Quran or not, one must recognize the fundamental statements made by the Quran and by the man to whom it was revealed, the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) to be the starting point of one's study.

These claims are: The Lord of creation, the Creator and Sovereign of the entire universe, created man on earth (which is merely a part of His boundless realm). He also endowed man with understanding, with the ability to distinguish between the good and evil, with the freedom of choice and volition, and with the power to exercise his latent potentialities. In short, God bestowed upon man a kind of autonomy and appointed him His vicegerent on earth. Although man enjoys this status, God made it abundantly plain to him that He alone is man's Lord and Sovereign, even as He is the Lord and Sovereign of the whole universe. Man was told that he was not entitled to consider himself independent and that only God entitled to claim absolute obedience, service and worship. It was also made clear to man that life in this world, for which he has been placed and invested with a certain honor and authority, was in fact a temporary term, and was meant to test him; that after the end of this earthly life man must return to God, Who will judge him on the basis of his performance, declaring who has succeeded and who has failed. The right way for man is to regard God as his only Sovereign and the only object of his worship and adoration, to follow the guidance revealed by God, to act in this world with the consciousness that earthly life is merely a period of trial, and to keep his eyes fixed on the ultimate objective, a success in God's final judgment. Every other way is wrong. It was also explained to man that if he chose to adopt the right way of life and in this choice he was free, he would enjoy peace and contentment in this world and be assigned, on his return to God, the Abode of eternal bliss and happiness known as Paradise. Should man follow any other way, although he was free to do so, he would experience the evil effects of corruption and disorder in the life of this world and be consigned to eternal grief and torment when he crossed the borders of the present world and arrived in the Hereafter. Having explained all this, the Lord of the Universe placed man on earth and communicated to Adam and Eve, the first human beings to live on earth, the guidance which they and their offspring were required to follow. These first human beings were not born in a state of ignorance and darkness. On the contrary, they began their life in the broad daylight of divine Guidance. They had intimate knowledge of reality and the Law which they were to follow was communicated to them. Their way of life consisted of obedience to God (i.e. total submission) and they taught their children to live in obedience to Him (i.e. to live as those who submit to God).

In the course of time, however, men gradually deviated from this true way of life and began to follow various erroneous ways. They allowed true guidance to be lost through heedlessness and negligence and sometimes, even deliberately, distorted it out of evil perversity. They associated God with a number of beings, human and non-human, real as well as imaginary, and adored them as deities. They adulterated the God-given knowledge of reality (al-ilm in the Quranic terminology) with all kinds of fanciful ideas, superstitions and philosophical concepts, thereby giving birth to innumerable religions. They disregarded or distorted the sound and equitable principles of individual morality and of collective conduct (Shariah in Quranic terminology) and made their own laws in accordance with their base desires and prejudices. As a result, the world became filled with wrong and injustice. It was inconsistent with the limited autonomy conferred upon man by God that He should exercise His overwhelming power and compel man to righteousness. It was also inconsistent with the fact that God had granted a term to the human species in which to show their worth, that He should afflict men with catastrophic destruction as soon as they showed signs of rebellion.

Moreover, God had undertaken from the beginning of creation that true guidance would be made available to man throughout the term granted to him and that this guidance would be available in a manner consistent with man's autonomy. To fulfill this self assumed responsibility, God chose to appoint those human beings whose faith in Him was outstanding and who followed the way pleasing to Him. God chose these people to be His envoys. He had His messages communicated to them, honored them with an intimate knowledge of reality, provided them with the true laws of life and entrusted them with the task of recalling man to the original path from which he had strayed (These men were the Prophets and Messengers of God). These Prophets were sent to different people in different lands and over a period of time covering thousands and thousands of years. They all had the same religion; the one originally revealed to man as the right way for him. All of them followed the same guidance; those principles of morality and collective life prescribed for man at the very outset of his existence. All these Prophets had the same mission; to call man to this true religion and subsequently to organize all those who accepted this message into a community (ummah) which would be bound by the Law of God, which would strive to establish its observance and would seek to prevent its violation.

All the Prophets discharged their mission creditably in their own time. However, there were always many who refused to accept their guidance. On the other hand, those who did accept it became a submitting community (That is, a group of people committed to the true guidance of God as revealed to His Prophets). The community with total submission to the commandment of one God is referred to as a Muslim community. Here the word Muslim is not used in the sense of the followers of the last Messenger of God, Muhammad (peace be upon him), but in the wider sense, meaning all those who, at various periods, committed themselves to live in submission to God. However, over a period of time, this community of those who had submitted to the will and commands of God gradually degenerated causing the Divine Guidance to be lost, distorted or adulterated.

At last the Lord of the Universe sent Muhammad (peace be upon him) to Arabia and entrusted him with the same mission that He had entrusted to the earlier Prophets. This last Messenger of God addressed the followers of the earlier Prophets (who had by this time deviated from their original teachings) as well as the rest of humanity. The mission of each Prophet was to call men to the right way of life, to communicate God's true guidance afresh and to organize into one community all who responded to his mission and accepted the guidance vouchsafed to him. Such a community was to be dedicated to the two-fold task of molding its own life in accordance with God's guidance and striving for the reform of the world. The Quran is the Book which embodies this mission and guidance, as revealed by God to Muhammad (peace be upon him).

General Theme

If we remember these basic facts about the Quran, it becomes easy to grasp its true subject, its central theme and the objective it seeks to achieve. Insofar as it seeks to explain the ultimate causes of man's success or failure the subject of the Book is MAN.

Its central theme is that concepts relating to God, the universe and man, which have emanated from man's own limited knowledge run counter to reality. The same applies to concepts which have been either woven by man's intellectual fancies or which have evolved through man's obsession with animal desires. The ways of life which rest on these false foundations are both contrary to reality and ruinous for man. The essence of true knowledge is that which God revealed to man when He appointed him as His vicegerent. Hence, the way of life which is in accordance with reality and conducive to human good is that which we have characterized above as the right way. The real object of the Book is to call people to this right way and to illuminate God's true guidance, which has often been lost either through man's negligence and heedlessness or distorted by his wicked perversity.

If we study the Quran with these facts in mind it is bound to strike us that the Quran does not deviate one iota from its main subject, its central theme and its basic objective. All the various themes occurring in the Quran are related to the central theme; just as beads of different color may be strung together to form a necklace. The Quran speaks of the structure of the heavens and the earth and of man, refers to the signs of reality in the various phenomena of the universe, relates anecdotes of bygone nations, criticizes the beliefs, morals and deeds of different people, elucidates supernatural truths and discusses many other things besides. All this the Quran does, not in order to provide instruction in physics, history, philosophy or any other particular branch of knowledge, but rather to remove the misconceptions people have about reality and to make that reality manifest to them. It emphasizes that the various ways men follow, which are not in conformity with reality, are essentially false, and full of harmful consequences for mankind. It calls on men to shun all such ways and to follow instead the way which both conforms to reality and yields best practical results. This is why the Quran mentions everything only to the extent and in the manner necessary for the purposes it seeks to serve. The Quran confines itself to essentials thereby omitting any irrelevant details. Thus, all its contents consistently revolve around this call.

Background

Likewise, it is not possible fully to appreciate either the style of Quran, the order underlying the arrangement of its verses or the diversity of the subjects treated in it, without fully understanding the manner in which it was revealed. The Quran, as we have noted earlier, is not a book in the conventional sense of the term. Allah did not compose and entrust it in one piece to Muhammad (peace be upon him) so that he could spread its message and call people to adopt an attitude to life consonant with its teachings. Nor is the Quran one of those books which discusses their subjects and main themes in the conventional manner. Its arrangement differs from that of ordinary books, and its style is correspondingly different.

Makkan Surahs

The nature of this Book is that Allah chose a man in Makkah to serve as His Messenger and gave him the task to preach His message, starting in his own city (Makkah) and with his own tribe (Quraish). At this initial stage, instructions were confined to what was necessary at this particular juncture of the mission. Three themes in particular stand out: Directives were given to the Prophet (peace be upon him) on how he should prepare for his great mission and how he should begin working for the fulfillment of his task. A fundamental knowledge of reality was furnished and misconceptions commonly held by people in that regard, misconceptions which gave rise to wrong orientation in life were removed. People were exhorted to adopt the right attitude towards life.

Moreover, the Quran also elucidated those fundamental principles which, if followed, lead to man's success and happiness. In keeping with the character of the mission at this stage the early revelations generally consisted of short verses, couched in language of uncommon grace and power, and clothed in a literary style suited to the taste and the temperament of the people to whom they were originally addressed, and whose hearts they were meant to penetrate. The rhythm, melody and vitality of these verses drew rapt attention, as such was their stylistic grace and charm that people began to recite them involuntarily. The local color of these early messages is conspicuous, for while the truths they contained were universal, the arguments and illustrations used to elucidate them were drawn from the immediate environment familiar to the first listeners. Allusions were made to their history and traditions and to the visible traces of the past which had crept into the beliefs, and into the moral and social life of Arabia. All this was calculated to enhance the appeal the message held for its immediate audience. This early stage lasted for four or five years, during which period the following reactions to the Prophet's message manifested themselves: A few people responded to the call and agreed to join the ummah (community) committed, of its own volition, to submit to the Will of Allah. Many people reacted with hostility, either from ignorance or egotism, or because of chauvinistic attachment to the way of life of their forefathers. The call of the Prophet (peace be upon him), however, did not remain confined to Makkah or the Quraish. It began to meet with favorable response beyond the borders of that city and among other tribes.

The next stage of the mission was marked by hard, vigorous struggle between the Islamic movement and the age old ignorance (Jahiliyah - all those world-views and ways of life which are based on the rejection or disregard of the heavenly guidance which is communicated to mankind through the Prophets and Messengers of Allah; the attitude of treating human life - either wholly or partially - as independent of the directives revealed by Allah) of Arabia. Not only were the Makkans and the Quraish bent upon preserving their inherited way of life, they were also firmly resolved to suppress the new movement by force. They stopped at nothing in the pursuit of this objective. They resorted to false propaganda; they spread doubt and suspicion and used subtle, malicious insinuations to sow distrust in people's minds. They tried to prevent people from listening to the message of the Prophet (peace be upon him). They perpetrated savage cruelties on those who embraced Islam. They subjected them to economic and social boycott, and persecuted them to such an extent that on two occasions a number of them were forced to leave home and emigrate to Abyssinia, and finally they had to emigrate en masse to Al-Madinah.

In spite of this strong and growing resistance and opposition, the Islamic movement continued to spread. There was hardly a family left in Makkah, one of whose members at least had not embraced Islam. Indeed, the violence and bitterness of the enemies of Islam was due to the fact that their own kith and kin - brothers, nephews, sons, daughters, sisters, brothers-in-law and so on - had not only embraced Islam, but were even ready to sacrifice their lives for its sake. Their resistance, therefore, brought them into conflict with their own nearest and dearest. Moreover, those who had forsaken the age old ignorance of Arabia included many who were outstanding members of their society. After embracing Islam, they became so remarkable for their moral uprightness, their veracity and their purity of character that the world could hardly fail to notice the superiority of the message which was attracting people of such qualities.

During the Prophet's (peace be upon him) long and arduous struggle, Allah continued to inspire him with revelations possessing at once the smooth, natural flow of a river, the violent force of a flood and the overpowering effect of a fierce fire. These messages instructed the believers in their basic duties, inculcated in them a sense of community and belonging, exhorted them to piety, moral excellence and purity of character, taught them how to preach the true faith, sustained their spirit by promises of success and Paradise in the Hereafter, aroused them to struggle in the cause of Allah with patience, fortitude and high spirits, and filled their hearts with such zeal and enthusiasm that they were prepared to endure every sacrifice, brave every hardship and face every adversity.

At the same time, those either bent on opposition, or who had deviated from the right way, or who had immersed themselves in frivolity and wickedness, were warned by having their attentions called to the tragic ends of nations with whose fates they were familiar. They were asked to draw lessons from the ruins of those localities through which they passed every day in the course of their wanderings. Evidence for the unity of Allah and for the existence of after-life was pointed to in signs visible to their own eyes and within the range of their ordinary experience. The weaknesses inherent in polytheisms, the vanity of man's ambition to become independent even of Allah, the folly of denying the after-life, the perversity of blind adherence to the ways of one's ancestors regardless of right or wrong, were all fully elucidated with the help of arguments cogent enough to penetrate the minds and hearts of audience. Moreover, every misgiving was removed, a reasonable answer was provided to every objection, all confusion and perplexity was cleared up, and ignorance was besieged from all sides till its irrationality was totally exposed. Along with all this went the warning of the wrath of Allah. The people were reminded of the horrors of the doomsday and the tormenting punishment of the Hell. They were also censured for their moral corruption, for their erroneous ways of life, for their clinging to the ways of ignorance, for their opposition to truth and their persecution of the believers.

Furthermore, these messages enunciated those fundamental principles of morality and collective life on which all sound and healthy civilizations enjoying Allah's approval had always rested. This stage was unfolded in several phases. In each phase, the preaching of the message assumed ever wider proportions, as the struggle for the cause of Islam and opposition to it became increasingly intense and severe, and as the believers encountered people of varying outlooks and beliefs. All these factors had the effect of increasing the variety of the topics in the messages revealed during this period. Such, in brief, was the situation forming the background to the Makkan Surahs of the Quran.

Madani Surahs

For thirteen years the Islamic movement strived in Makkah. It then obtained, in Al-Madinah, a haven of refuge in which to concentrate its followers and its strength. The Prophet's (peace be upon him) movement now entered in its third stage. During this stage, circumstances changed drastically. The Muslim community succeeded in establishing a full-fledged state; its creation was followed by prolonged armed conflicts with the representatives of the ancient ignorance of Arabia. The community also encountered followers of the former Prophets, i.e. Jews and Christians.

An additional problem was that hypocrites began to join the fold of Muslim community; their machinations needed to be resisted. After a severe struggle, lasting ten years, the Islamic movement reached a high point of achievement when the entire Arabian peninsula came under its sway and the door was opened to the world-wide preaching and reform. This stage, like the preceding one, passed through various phases each of which had its peculiar problems and demands. It was in the context of these problems that Allah continued to reveal messages to the Prophet (peace be upon him). At times these messages were couched in the form of fiery speeches; at other times they were characterized by the grandeur and stateliness of majestic proclamations and ordinances. At times they had the air of instructions from a teacher; at others, the style of preaching of a reformer. These messages explained how a healthy society, state and civilization could be established and the principles on which the various aspects of human life should be based. They also dealt with matters directly related to the specific problems facing Muslims. For example, how should they deal with hypocrites (who were harming the Muslims and the Muslim community from within) and with the non-Muslims who were living under the care of the Muslim society? How should they relate to the People of the Book? What treatment should be meted out to those with whom the Muslims were at war, and how should they deal with those with whom they were bound by treaties and agreements? How should the believers, as a community, prepare to discharge their obligations as vicegerents of the Lord of Universe?

Through the Quran the Muslims were guided in questions like these, were instructed and trained, made aware of their weaknesses, urged to risk their lives and property for the cause of Allah, taught the code of morality they should observe in all circumstances of life - in times of victory and defeat, ease and distress, prosperity and adversity, peace and security, peril and danger. In short, they were being trained to serve as the successors of the mission of the Prophet (peace be upon him), with the task of carrying on the message of Islam and bringing about the reform in human life. The Quran also addressed itself to those outside the fold of Islam, to the People of the Book, the hypocrites, the unbelievers, the polytheists. Each group was addressed according to its own particular circumstances and attitudes. Sometimes the Quran invited them to the true faith with tenderness and delicacy; on other occasions, it rebuked and severely admonished them. It also warned them against, and threatened them with punishment from Allah. It attempted to make them take heed by drawing their attention to instructive historical events. In short, people were left with no valid reason for refusing the call of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

Such, briefly, is the background of the Madani Surahs of the Quran. It is now clear to us that the revelation of the Quran began and went hand in hand with the preaching of the message. This message passed through many stages and met with diverse situations from the very beginning and throughout a period of twenty three years. The different parts of the Quran were revealed step by step according to the multifarious, changing needs and requirements of the Islamic movement during these stages. It therefore, could not possibly possess the kind of coherence and systematic sequence expected of doctoral dissertation.

Moreover, the various fragments of the Quran which were revealed in harmony with the growth of Islamic movement were not published in the form of written treatises, but were spread orally. Their style, therefore, bore an oratorical flavor rather than the characteristics of literary composition. Furthermore, these orations were delivered by one whose task meant he had to appeal simultaneously to the mind, to the heart and emotions, to the people of different mental levels and dispositions. He had to revolutionize people's thinking, to arouse in them a storm of noble emotions in support of his cause, to persuade his companions and inspire them with devotion and zeal, and with the desire to improve and reform their lives. He had to raise their morale and steel their determination, turn enemies into friends and opponents into admirers, disarm those out to oppose his message and show their position to be morally untenable. In short, he had to do everything necessary to carry out his movement through to a successful conclusion. Orations revealed in conformity with the requirement of a message and movement will inevitably have a style different from that of a professional lecture. This explains the repetitions we encounter in the Quran. The interests of a message and a movement demand that during a particular stage emphasis should be placed only on those subjects which are appropriate at that stage, to the exclusion of matters pertaining to later stages.

As a result, certain subjects may require continual emphasis for months or even years. On the other hand, content repetition in the same manner becomes exhausting. Whenever a subject is repeated, it should therefore be expressed in different phraseology, in new forms and with stylistic variations so as to ensure that the ideas and beliefs being put over find their way into the hearts of the people. At the same time, it was essential that the fundamental beliefs and principles on which the whole movement was based should always be kept fresh in people's minds; a necessity which dictated that they should always be repeated continuously through all stages of the movement. For this reason, certain basic Islamic concepts about the unity of Allah and His Attributes, about the Hereafter, about man's accountability and about reward and punishment, about prophethood and belief in revealed scriptures, about basic moral attributes such as piety, patience, trust in Allah and so on, recur throughout the Quran. If these ideas had lost their hold on the minds of the people, the Islamic movement could not have moved forward in its true spirit. If we reflect on this, it also becomes evident why the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not arrange the Quran in the sequence that it was revealed.

Order

As we noted, the context in which the Quran was revealed in the course of twenty three years was the mission and the movement of the Prophet (peace be upon him); the revelations correspond to the various stages of this mission and movement.

Now, it is evident that when the Prophet's (peace be upon him) mission was completed, the chronological sequence of the various parts of the Quran - revealed in accordance with the growth of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) mission - could in no way be suitable to the changed situation. What was now required was a different sequence in tune with the changed context resulting from the completion of the mission. Initially, the Prophet's (peace be upon him) message was addressed to people totally ignorant of Islam. Their instruction had to start with the most elementary things. After the mission had reached to a successful completion, the Quran acquired a compelling relevance for those who had decided to believe in the Prophet (peace be upon him). By virtue of that belief they had become a new religious community - the Muslim ummah. Not only that, they had been made responsible for carrying on the Prophet's (peace be upon him) mission, which he had bequeathed to them, in a perfect form, both on conceptual and practical levels. It was no longer necessary for Quranic verses to be arranged in chronological sequence. In the changed context, it had become necessary for the bearers of the mission of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to be informed of their duties and of the true principles and laws governing their lives. They also had to be warned against corruptions which had appeared among the followers of earlier Prophets. All this was necessary in order to equip the Muslims to go out and offer the light of Divine Guidance to the world steeped in darkness. It would be foreign to the very nature of Quran to group together in one place all verses relating to specific subject; the nature of the Quran requires that the reader should find teachings revealed during the Madani period interspersed with those of the Makkan period, and vice versa. It requires the juxtaposition of early discourses with instructions from the later period of the life of the Prophet (peace be upon him). This blending of the teachings from different periods helps to provide an overall view and an integrated perspective of Islam, and acts as a safeguard against lop-sidedness.

Furthermore, a chronological arrangement of the Quran would have been meaningful to the later generations only if it had been supplemented with explanatory notes and these had to be treated as inseparable appendices to the Quran. This would have been quite contrary to Allah's purpose in revealing the Quran; the main purpose of its revelation was that all human beings, children and young people, old men and women, town and country dwellers, laymen and scholars should be able to refer to the Divine Guidance available to them in composite form and providentially secured against adulteration. This was necessary to enable people of every level of intelligence and understanding to know what Allah required of them. This purpose would have been defeated had the reader been obliged solemnly to recite detailed historical notes and explanatory comments along with the Book of Allah. Those who object to the present arrangement of the Quran appear to be suffering from a misapprehension as to its true purpose. They sometimes almost seem under the illusion that it was revealed merely for the benefit of students of history and sociology.

Compilation

The present arrangement of the Quran is not the work of later generations, but was made by the Prophet (peace be upon him) under Allah's directions. Whenever a Surah was revealed, the Prophet (peace be upon him) summoned his scribes, to whom he carefully dictated its contents, and instructed them where to place it in relation to the other Suras. The Prophet (peace be upon him) followed the same order of Suras and verses when reciting during ritual Prayer as on other occasions, and his companions followed the same practice in memorizing the Quran. It is therefore a historical fact that the collection of the Quran came to an end on the very day that its revelation ceased. The One who was responsible for its revelation was also the One who fixed its arrangement.

The one whose heart was the receptacle of the Quran was also responsible for arranging its sequence. This was far too important and too delicate a matter for anyone else to become involved in. Since Prayers were obligatory for the Muslims from the very outset of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) mission, (It should be noted that while five daily Prayers were made obligatory several years after the Prophet (peace be upon him) was commissioned, Prayers were obligatory from the very outset; not a single moment elapsed when Prayers, as such, were not obligatory in Islam) and the recitation of the Quran was an obligatory part of the Prayers, Muslims were committing the Quran to memory while its revelation was continued.

Thus, as soon as a fragment of the Quran was revealed, it was memorized by some of the companions. Hence the preservation of the Quran was not solely dependent on its verses being inscribed on palm leaves, pieces of bone, leather and scraps of parchment - the material used by the Prophet's (peace be upon him) scribes for writing down Quranic verses. Instead those verses came to be inscribed upon scores, then hundreds, then thousands, then hundreds of thousands of human hearts, soon after they had been revealed, so that no scope was left for any devil to alter so much as one word of them. When, after the death of Prophet (peace be upon him), the storm of apostasy convulsed Arabia and the companions had to plunge into bloody battles to suppress it, many companions who had memorized the Quran suffered martyrdom. This led Umar to plead that the Quran ought to be preserved in writing, as well as orally. He therefore impressed the urgency upon Abu Bakr. After slight hesitation, the latter agreed and entrusted the task to Zayd ibn Thabit al-ansari, who had worked as a scribe of the Prophet (peace be upon him). (For an account of the early history of the Quran see Subhi-al salih, Mabahith fi Ulum al-Quran, Beriut, 1977, pp. 65 ff Ed). The procedure decided upon was to try and collect all written pieces of the Quran left behind by the Prophet, as well as those in the possession of the companions. (There are authentic traditions to the effect that several companions had committed the entire Quran, or many parts of it, to writing during the lifetime of the Prophet. Especially mentioned in this connection are the following companions of the Prophet: Uthman, Ali, Abd Allah bin Masud, Abd Allah bin Amr al Aas, Salim themawla of Hudhayfah, Muaudh bin Jabal, Ubbay bin Kaab, and Abu Zayd Qays bin al-Sakan.) When all this had been done, assistance was sought from those who had memorized the Quran. No verse was incorporated into the Quranic codex unless all three sources were found to be in complete agreement, and every criterion of verification had been satisfied. Thus an authentic version of the Quran was prepared. It was kept in the custody of Hafsa (a wife of the Holy Prophet) and people were permitted to make copies of it and also to use it as the standard of comparison when rectifying the mistakes they might have made in writing down the Quran.

Difference of Dialects

In different parts of Arabia and among its numerous tribes there existed a diversity of dialects. The Quran was revealed in the language spoken by the Quraish of Makkah. Nevertheless, in the beginning, people of other areas and other tribes were permitted to recite it according to their own dialects and idioms, since it facilitated its recitation without affecting its substantive meaning. In course of time, in the wake of the conquest of a sizeable part of the world outside of the Arabian peninsula, a large number of non-Arabs entered the fold of Islam. These developments affected the Arabic idiom and it was feared that the continuing use of various dialects in the recitation of the Quran might give rise to grave problems. It was possible, for instance, that someone hearing the Quran in unfamiliar dialect might pick a fight with the reciter, thinking that the latter was deliberately distorting the Word of Allah. It was also possible that such differences might gradually lead to the tampering of the Quran itself. It was also not inconceivable that the hybridization of the Arabic language, due to the intermixture between the Arabs and non-Arabs, might lead people to introduce modifications into the Quranic text, thus imparting the grace of the Speech of Allah. As a result of such considerations, and after consultations with the companions of the Prophet (peace be upon him), Uthman decided that copies of the standard edition of the Quran, prepared earlier at the order of Abu Bakr, should be published, and that publication of the Quranic text in any other dialect or idiom should be proscribed. The Quran that we possess today corresponds exactly to the edition which was prepared on the orders of Abu Bakr and copies of which were officially sent, on the orders of Uthman, to various cities and provinces. Several copies of this original edition of Quran still exist today.

Anyone who entertains any doubt as to the authenticity of the Quran can satisfy himself by obtaining a copy of the Quran from any bookseller, say in West Africa, and then have a hafiz (memorizer of the Quran) recite it from memory, compare the two, and then compare these with the copies of the Quran published through the centuries since the time of Uthman. If he detects any discrepancy, even in single letter or syllable, he should inform the whole world of his great discovery! Not even the most skeptical person has a reason to doubt the Quran as we know today is identical with the Quran which Muhammad (peace be upon him) set before the world; this is an unquestionable, objective, historical fact, and there is nothing in human history on which the evidence is so overwhelmingly strong and conclusive. To doubt the authenticity of the Quran is like doubting the existence of Roman empire, the Mughals of India, or Napoleon! To doubt historical facts like these is a sign of stark ignorance, not a mark of erudition and scholarship.

Universality

It is well known that the Quran claims to be capable of guiding all mankind. Yet the student of the Quran finds it generally addressed to the people of Arabia, who lived in the time of its revelation. Although the Quran occasionally addresses itself to all mankind, its contents are, on the whole, vitally related to the taste and the temperament, the environment and history, and the customs and usages of Arabia. When one notices this, one begins to question why a Book which seeks to guide all mankind to salvation should assign such importance to certain aspects of a particular people's life, and to the things belonging to a particular age and time. Failure to grasp the real cause of this may lead one to believe that the Book was originally designed to reform the Arabs of the particular age alone, and it is only the people of later times who have forced upon the Book an altogether novel interpretation, proclaiming that its aim is to guide all mankind for all time. Some might say this with no other purpose than to vent their irrational prejudice against Islam. Leaving such people aside, a word may be said to those whose critical comments are motivated by the desire to understand things better. The latter would do well to study the Quran carefully, noting down any places where they find that it has propounded any doctrine or concept, or laid down some rule for practical conduct, relevant for the Arabs alone and exclusively conditioned by the peculiarities of a certain place or time. If, while addressing the people of certain area at a particular period of time, attempting to refute their polytheistic beliefs and adducing arguments in support of its own doctrine of the unity of Allah, the Quran draws upon facts with which those people were familiar, this does not warrant the conclusion that its message is relevant only for that particular people or for that particular period of time. What ought to be considered is whether or not the Quranic statements on refutation of the polytheistic beliefs of the Arabs of those days apply as well to other forms of polytheism in other parts of world. Can the arguments advanced by the Quran in that connection be used to rectify the beliefs of other polytheists? Is the Quranic line of argument for establishing the unity of Allah, with minor adaptations, valid and persuasive for every age? If the answers are positive, there is no reason why a universal teaching should be dubbed exclusive to a particular people and merely because it happened to be addressed originally to that people and at that particular period of time. No philosophy, ideology or doctrine consists only of mere abstractions and is totally unrelated to the circumstances in which it developed. Even if such an absolute abstraction were possible it would remain confined to the scraps of paper on which it was written and would fail totally to have an impact on human life. Moreover, if one wishes to spread any intellectual, moral and cultural movement on an international scale, it is by no means essential, in fact it is not even useful, for it to start on a global scale. If one wishes to propagate certain ideas, concepts and principles as the right bases for human life, one should begin by propagating them vigorously in the country where the message originates, and to the people whose language, temperament, customs and habits are familiar to its proponents. It will thus be possible to transform the lives of the people into a practical model of the message.

Only then will it be able to attract the attention of other nations, and intelligent people living elsewhere will also try to understand it and to spread it in their own lands. Indeed, what marks out a time-bound and a particularistic national doctrine from an eternal universal one, is the fact that the former either seek to exalt a people or to claim special privileges for it or else comprises ideas and principles so vitally related to the people's life and tradition as to tender it totally inapplicable to the conditions of other peoples. A universal doctrine, on the other hand, is willing to accord equal rights and status to all, and its principles have an international character in that they are equally applicable to other nations. Likewise, the validity of those doctrines which seek to come to grips merely with questions of a transient and superficial nature is time-bound. If one studies the Quran with these considerations in mind, can one really conclude that it has only a particularistic national character, and that its validity is therefore time-bound?

Complete Code

Those who embark upon a study of Quran often proceed with the assumption that this Book is, as it is commonly believed to be, a detailed code of guidance. However, when they actually read it, they fail to find detailed regulations regarding social, political and economic matters. In fact, they notice that the Quran has not laid down detailed regulations even in respect of such oft repeated subjects as Prayers and Zakah (Purifying alms). The reader finds this somewhat disconcerting and wonders in what sense the Quran can be considered a code of guidance. The uneasiness some people feel about this arises because they forget that Allah did not merely reveal a Book, but that He also designated a Prophet (peace be upon him). Suppose some laymen were to be provided with the bare outlines of a construction plan on the understanding that they would carry out the construction as they wished. In such a case, it would be reasonable to expect that they should have very elaborate directives as to how the construction should be carried out. Suppose, however, that along with the broad outline of the plan of construction, they were also provided with a competent engineer to supervise the task. In that case, it would be quite unjustifiable to disregard the work of the engineer, on the expectation that detailed directives would form an integral part of the construction plan, and then to complain of imperfection in the plan itself. (This analogy should elucidate the position of the Prophet (peace be upon him) vis-a-vis the Quran, for he clarified and elaborated the Quran, supplementing its broad general principles by giving them precise and detailed forms, and incorporating them into practical life, his own as well as that of his followers.

The Quran, to put it succinctly, is a Book of broad general principles rather than of legal minutiae. The Book's main aim is to expound, clearly and adequately, the intellectual and moral foundations of the Islamic program for life. It seeks to consolidate these by appealing both to man's mind and to his heart. Its method of guidance for practical Islamic life does not consist of laying down minutely detailed laws and regulations. It prefers to outline the basic framework for each aspect of human activity, and to lay down certain guidelines within which man can order his life in keeping with the Will of Allah. The mission of the Prophet was to give practical shape to the Islamic vision of the good life, by offering the world a model of an individual character and of a human state and society, as living embodiments of the principles of the Quran.

The Quran is strong in the condemnation of those who indulge in schismatic squabbling after the Book of Allah has been revealed, so causing a weakening of faith; (See Quran 98:4, 3:105, 42:14) yet there has been considerable disagreement over the correct interpretation of the Quranic injunctions, not only among the later scholars, but even among the founders of the legal schools and Successors (The word Successors has been used as the equivalent of Tabeun, i.e. those who benefited from the companions of the Prophet). Indeed, disagreement can be traced back even to the times of the companions of the Prophet (The word companions has been used as an equivalent of Sahabah, i.e. those, who in state of belief, enjoyed the companionship of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

One can hardly point to a single Quranic verse of legal import which has received complete unanimity as regards to its interpretation. One is bound to ask whether the Quranic condemnation applies to all who have disagreed in this way. If it does not, then what kind of schism and disagreement does the Quran denounce? This is quite a problem and its ramifications cannot be considered at length here. The reader may rest assured that the Quran is not opposed to differences of opinion within the framework of a general agreement on the fundamentals of Islam and broad unity of Islamic community. In addition it is not opposed to disagreement arising from an earnest endeavor to arrive at the right conclusions on a particular subject; the only disagreements condemned by the Quran are those arising out of egotism and perversity, leading to mutual strife and hostility.

The two sorts of disagreements are different in character and give rise to different results. The first kind is a stimulus to improvement and the very soul of a healthy society. Differences of this kind are found in every society whose members are endowed with intelligence and reason. Their existence is a sign of life, while their absence serves only to demonstrate that a society is made up not of intelligent men and women but rather of blocks of wood. Disagreements of the second kind, however, are of altogether different character and lead to ruin and destruction of the people among whom they arise. Far from being a sign of health, their emergence is symptomatic of a grave sickness.

The first kind of disagreement exists only among scholars who are all agreed that it is their duty to obey Allah and His Prophet. They also agree that the Quran and the Sunnah are their main sources of guidance. Thus, when scholarly investigation on some subsidiary question leads two or more scholars to disagree, the disagreement is not upon fundamentals of faith; or when two judges disagree in their judgment, the disagreement is not on questions on which their opinion has been expressed. They do not accuse those who disagree with their opinion of having left the fold of true faith. What each does is rather to proffer his arguments showing that he has done his best to investigate the matter thoroughly. It is then left to the courts (in judicial matters) and to public opinion (if the matter relates to the community at large) either to prefer whichever opinions seems sounder, or to accept both opinions as equally permissible. Schism occurs when the very fundamentals are made a matter of dispute and controversy. It may also happen that some scholar, mystic, mufti, or leader ponders and weighs in on a question to which Allah and His Messenger have not attached any fundamental importance, exaggerating the significance of the question to such extent that it is transformed into a basic issue of faith. Such people usually go one step further, declaring all those who disagree with their opinion to have forsaken the true faith and set themselves outside the community of true believers. They may go even so far as to organize those who agree with them into a sect, claiming that sect to be identical with the Islamic community, and declaring that everyone who does not belong to it is destined to hell-fire.

Whenever the Quran denounces schismatic disagreements and sectarianism, its aim is to denounce this later kind of disagreement. As for disagreements of the first category, we encounter several examples of these even during the life of the Prophet (peace be upon him). The Prophet (peace be upon him) not only accepted the validity of such disagreements, he even expressed his approval of them. For this kind of disagreement shows that the community is not lacking in capacity for thought, for inquiry and investigation, for grasping or wrestling with the problems it faces. It also shows that the intelligent members of the community are earnestly concerned about their religion and how to apply its injunctions to practical problems of human life. It shows too that their intellectual capacities operate within the broad framework of their religion, rather than searching beyond its boundaries for solutions to their problems. And it proves that the community is following the golden path of moderation. Such moderation preserves its unity by broad agreement on fundamentals, and at the same time, provide its scholars and thinkers with full freedom of inquiry so that they may achieve fresh insights and new interpretations within the framework of the fundamental principles of Islam.

Suggestions for Study

The Quran is a book to which innumerable people turn for innumerable purposes. It is difficult to offer advice appropriate to all. The readers to whom this work is addressed are those who are concerned to acquire a serious understanding of the Book, and who seek the guidance it has to offer in relation to the various problems of life. For such people we have a few suggestions to make, and we shall offer some explanations in the hope of facilitating their study of Quran.

Anyone who really wants to understand the Quran irrespective of whether or not he believes in it, must divest his mind, as far as possible, of every preconceived notion, bias or prejudice, in order to embark upon his study with an open mind. Anyone who begins to study the Quran with a set of preconceived ideas is likely to read those very ideas into the Book. No Book can be profitably studied with this kind of attitude, let alone the Quran which refuses to open its treasure-house to such readers.

For those who want only a superficial acquaintance with the doctrines of the Quran, one reading is perhaps sufficient. For those who want to fathom its depths several readings are not enough. These people need to study the Quran over and over again, taking notes of everything that strikes them as significant. Those who are willing to study the Quran in this manner should do so at least twice to begin with, so as to obtain a broad grasp of the system of beliefs and practical prescriptions that it offers. In this preliminary survey, they should try to gain an overall perspective of the Quran and to grasp the basic ideas which it expounds, and the system of life it seeks to build on the basis of these ideas. If, during the course of this study, anything agitates the mind of the reader, he should note down the point concerned and patiently persevere with his study. He is likely to find that, as he proceeds, the difficulties are resolved (when a problem has been solved, it is advisable to note down the solution alongside the problem). Experience suggests that any problem still unsolved after a first reading of the Quran are likely to be resolved by a careful second reading. Only after acquiring a total perspective of the Quran should a more detailed study be attempted. Again the reader is well advised to keep noting down the various aspects of the Quran's teachings. For instance, he should note the human model the Quran extols as praiseworthy, and the model it denounces. It might be helpful to make two columns, one titled as praiseworthy qualities, the other titled as blameworthy qualities, and then to enter into the respective columns all that is found relevant in the Quran.

To take another instance, the reader might proceed to investigate the Quranic point of view on what is conducive to human success and felicity, as against what leads to man's ultimate failure and perdition. An efficient way to carry out this investigation would be to note under separate headings, such as conducive to success and conducive to failure, any relevant material encountered. In the same way, the reader should take down the notes about the Quranic teachings on the questions of beliefs, morals, man's rights and obligations, family life and collective behavior, economic and political life, law and social organization, war and peace, and so on. Then he should use these various teachings to try to develop an image of the Quranic teachings vis-a-vis each particular aspect of human life. This should be followed by an attempt at integrating these images so that he comes to grasp the total scheme of life envisaged by the Quran.

Moreover, anyone wishing to study in depth the Quranic view-point on any particular problem of life should, first of all, study all the significant strands of human thought concerning the problem. Ancient and modern works on the subject should be studied. Unresolved problems where human thinking seems to have gotten stuck should be noted. The Quran should then be studied with these unresolved problems in mind, with a view to finding the solutions the Quran has to offer. Personal experience again suggests that anyone who studies the Quran in this manner will find his problems solved with the help of verses which he may have read scores of times without it ever crossing his mind that they could have any relevance to the problems at hand. It should be remembered, nevertheless, that full appreciation of the spirit of the Quran demands practical involvement with the struggle to fulfill its mission. The Quran is neither a book of abstract theories and cold doctrines which the reader can grasp while seated in a cozy armchair, nor is it merely a religious book like other religious books, the secrets of which can be grasped in seminaries and oratories. On the contrary, it is the blueprint and guidebook of a message, of a mission, of a movement. As soon as this Book was revealed, it drove a quiet, kind-hearted man from his isolation and seclusion, and placed him in a battlefield of life to challenge a world that had gone astray. It inspired him to raise his voice against falsehood, and pitted him in a grim struggle against the stand-bearers of unbelief, of disobedience to Allah, of waywardness and error. One after the other, it sought out everyone who had a pure and noble soul, mustering them together under the standard of the Messenger (peace be upon him). It also infuriated all those who by their nature were bent on all mischief and drove them to wage war against the bearers of truth.

This is the Book which inspired and directed the great movement which began with the preaching of a message by an individual, and continued for no fewer than twenty three years, until the Kingdom of Allah was truly established on earth. In this long and heart-rending struggle between the truth and falsehood, this Book unfailingly guided its followers to the eradication of the latter and the consolidation and enthronement of the former. How then could one expect to get to the heart of Quranic verses, without so much as stepping upon the field of battle between faith and unbelief, between Islam and ignorance? To appreciate the Quran fully one must take it up and launch into the task of calling people to Allah, making it one's guide at every stage. Then, and only then, does one meet the various experiences encountered at the time of its revelation. One experiences the initial rejection of the message of Islam by the city of Makkah, the persistent hostility leading to the quest for a haven of refuge in Abyssinia, and the attempt to win a favorable response from Taaif which led, instead, to cruel persecution of the bearer of the Quranic message. One experiences also the campaigns of Badr, of Uhad, of Hunayn and of Tabuk. One comes face to face with Abu Jahl and Abu Lahab, with hypocrites and Jews, with those who instantly respond to this call as well as those who, lacking clarity of perception and moral strength, were drawn into Islam only at a later stage. This will be an experience different from any so-called mystic experience. I designate it the Quranic mystic experience. One of the characteristics of this experience is that at each stage one almost automatically finds certain Quranic verses to guide one, since they were revealed at similar stage and therefore contain the guidance appropriate to it. A person engaged in this struggle may not grasp all the linguistic and grammatical subtleties, he may also miss certain finer points in the rhetoric and semantics of the Quran, yet it is impossible for the Quran to fail to reveal its true spirit to him. Again, in keeping with the same principle, a man can neither understand the laws, the moral teachings, and the economic and political principles which the Quran embodies, nor appreciate the full import of the Quranic laws and regulations, unless he tries to implement them in his own life. Hence the individual who fails to translate the Quranic precepts into personal practice will fail to understand the Book. The same must be said of any nation that allows the institutions of its collective life to run contrary to the teachings of Quran.

It is not intended here to survey all the questions that may arise in the mind of a student of Quran. Many questions relate to the specific Surahs or verses, and are explained in the notes to these in various commentaries. This introduction confines itself to basic questions related to the understanding of the Quran as a whole.

A Brief Life History of Syed Abul Aala Maududi

Syed Abul Aala Maududi (September 25, 1903 - September 22, 1979), also known as Molana (Maulana) or Shaikh Syed

Abul Aala Maududi, was a Sunni Pakistani journalist, theologian, Muslim-revivalist leader and political philosopher, and a major 20th century Islamic thinker. He was also a prominent political figure in his home country (Pakistan). He was also the founder of Jamaat-e-Islami the Islamic revivalist party.

Early life

Syed Maududi was one of the descendants of Khwaja Qutb ad-din Maudud al-Chishti, a notable of the Chishtiyya Tariqa. Muinuddin al-Chishti of Ajmer (Rahmatullahi Alayh) was Qutb ad-din's khaleefa, one of those who were ordered and given permission by him to guide the people who wanted to learn.

Syed Abul Aala Maududi was born on September 25, 1903 (Rajab 3, 1321 A.H.) in Aurangabad, then part of the princely state of Hyderabad (presently Maharashtra), India. Syed Abul Aala Maududi was born to Maulana Ahmad Hasan, a lawyer by profession. Syed Abul Aala Maududi was the youngest of his three brothers. His father descended from the Chishti line of saints; in fact his last name was derived from the first member of the Chishti Silsilah i.e. Khawajah Syed Qutb ul-Din Maudood Chishti (d. 527 AH). At an early age, Syed Maududi was given home education. He received religious nurturing at the hands of his father and from a variety of teachers employed by him. He soon moved on to formal education and completed his secondary education from Madrasah Furqaniyah. For his undergraduate studies he joined Darul Uloom, Hyderabad (India). His undergraduate studies, however, were disrupted by the illness and death of his father, and he completed his studies outside of the regular educational institutions. His instruction included very little of the subject matter of a modern school, such as Western education. He reportedly translated Qasim Amin's The New Woman into Urdu at the age of 14 and about 3500 pages from Asfar, a work of the mystical Persian thinker Mulla Sadra.

Journalistic career

After the interruption of his formal education, Syed Maududi turned to journalism in order to make his living. In 1918, he was already contributing to a leading Urdu newspaper, and in 1920, at the age of 17, he was appointed editor of Taj, which was being published from Jabalpure (now Madhya Pradesh). Late in 1920, Maududi went to Delhi and first assumed the editorship of the newspaper Muslim (1921-23), and later of al-Jamiyat (1925-28), both of which were the organs of the Jamiyat-i Ulama-i Hind, an organization of Muslim religious scholars. According to Israr Ahmad he worked for sometime at Darul Islam, an Islamic research academy.

In 1941, Syed Maududi founded Jamaat-e-Islami (JI) in British India as a religious political movement to promote Islamic values and practices. After the Partition of India, JI was redefined in 1947 to support an Islamic State in Pakistan. JI is currently the oldest religious party in Pakistan. With the Partition of India, JI split into several groups. The organization headed by Syed Maududi is now known as Jamaat-e-Islami Pakistan. Also existing are Jamaat-e-Islami Hind, Bangladesh Jamaat-e-Islami, and autonomous groups in Indian Kashmir, and Sri Lanka.

Syed Maududi was elected Jamaat's first Ameer (President) and remained so until 1972 when he withdrew from the responsibility for reasons of health.

Political Struggle

In the beginning of the struggle for the state of Pakistan, Syed Maududi and his party were against the idea of creating a separate state of Pakistan. He did criticize other leaders of the Muslim league for wanting Pakistan to be a state for Muslims and not an Islamic state. After realizing that India was going to be partitioned and Pakistan created, he began to support the idea. Syed Maududi moved to Pakistan in 1947 and worked to turn it into an Islamic state, resulting in frequent arrests and long periods of incarceration. In 1953, he and the JI led a campaign against the Ahmadiyya community in Pakistan resulting in selective declaration of martial law. He was arrested by the military deployment, which included Rahimuddin Khan, and sentenced to death on the charge of writing a seditious pamphlet about the Ahmadiyya issue. He turned down the opportunity to file a petition for mercy, expressing a preference for death rather than seeking clemency. Strong public pressure ultimately convinced the government to commute his death sentence to life imprisonment. Eventually, his sentence was annulled.

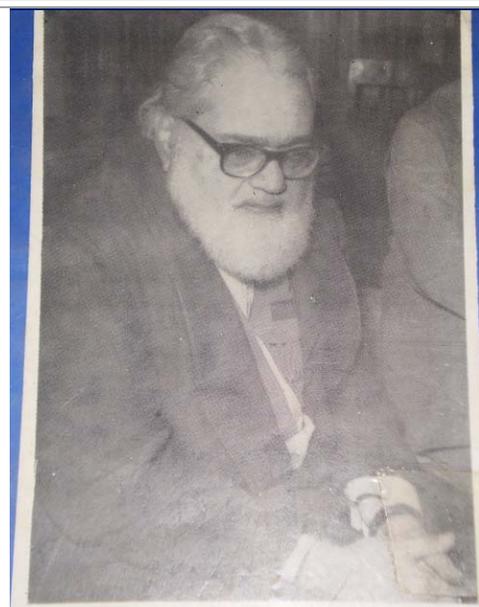

Syed Maududi wrote over 120 books and pamphlets and made over a 1000 speeches and press statements. His magnum opus is the translation and Tafseer of the Quran known as Tafhimul Quran in which he intended to give the Quran a practical contemporary interpretation. It became widely read throughout the subcontinent and has been translated into several languages around the globe.

Last Days

In April 1979, Syed Maududi's long-time kidney ailment worsened and by then he also had heart problems. He went to the United States for treatment and was hospitalized in Buffalo, New York, where his second son worked as a physician. During his hospitalization, he remained intellectually active. Following a few surgical operations, he died on September 22, 1979, at the age of 76. His funeral was held in Buffalo, but he was buried in an unmarked grave at his residence in Ichhra, Lahore after a very large funeral procession through the city.

May Allah shower His Mercy upon him

الفَاتِحَة Al-Fatihah

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of Allah, Most Gracious, Most Merciful

Name

This Surah is named Al-Fatihah because of its subject matter. Fatihah is that which opens a subject or a Book or any other thing. In other words, Al-Fatihah is a sort of preface.

Period of Revelation

It is one of the earliest revelations to the Prophet (peace be upon him). As a matter of fact, we learn from authentic traditions that it was the first complete Surah which was revealed to Muhammad (peace be upon him). Before this, only a few miscellaneous verses were revealed which form parts of Al-Alaq, Al-Muzzammil, Al-Muddaththir, etc.

Theme and Subject Matter

This Surah is in fact a prayer which Allah has taught to all those who want to make a study of His Book. It has been placed at the very beginning of the Book to teach this lesson to the reader: if you sincerely want to benefit from the Quran, you should offer this prayer to the Lord of the universe.

This preface is meant to create a strong desire in the heart of the reader to seek guidance from the Lord of the universe, Who alone can grant it. Thus Al-Fatihah indirectly teaches that the best thing for a man is to pray for guidance to the straight path, to study the Quran with the mental attitude of a seeker-after-truth and to recognize the fact that the Lord of the universe is the source of all knowledge. He should, therefore, begin the study of the Quran with a prayer to Him for guidance.

From this theme, it becomes clear that the real relation between Al-Fatihah and the Quran is not that of an introduction to a Book but that of a prayer and its answer. Al-Fatihah is the prayer from the servant and the Quran is the answer from the Master to his prayer. The servant prays to Allah to show him guidance and the Master places the whole of the Quran before him in answer to his prayer, as if to say, “This is the Guidance you begged from Me.”

1. In the name of Allah, the Merciful, the Compassionate.*¹

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

*¹ One of the many practices taught by Islam is that its followers should begin their activities in the name of God. This principle, if consciously and earnestly followed, will necessarily yield three beneficial results. First, one will be able to restrain oneself from many misdeed, since the habit of pronouncing the name of God is bound to make one wonder when about to commit some offence how such an act can be reconciled with the saying of God’s holy name. Second, if a man pronounces the name of God before starting good and legitimate tasks, this act will ensue that both his starting point and his mental orientation are sound. Third, and this is the most important benefit, when a man begins something by pronouncing God's name, he will enjoy God's support and succor. God will bless his efforts and protect him from the machinations and temptation of Satan. For whenever man turns to God, God turns to him as well.

2. Praise^{*2} be to Allah, the Lord^{*3} of the entire universe.

الْحَمْدُ لِلَّهِ رَبِّ الْعَالَمِينَ

*2 As we have already explained, the character of this Surah is that of a prayer. The prayer begins with praise of the One to whom our prayer is addressed. This indicates that whenever one prays one ought to pray in a dignified manner. It does not become a cultivated person to blurt out his petition. Refinement demands that our requests should be preceded by a wholehearted acknowledgement of the unique position, infinite benevolence and unmatched excellence of the One to Whom we pray. Whenever we praise someone, we do so for two reasons. First, because excellence calls for praise, irrespective of whether that excellence has any direct relevance to us or not. Second, we praise one who, we consider to be our benefactor; when this is the case our praise arises from a deep feeling of gratitude. God is worthy of praise on both counts. It is incumbent on us to praise Him not only in recognition of His infinite excellence but also because of our feeling of gratitude to Him, arising from our awareness of the blessings He has lavished upon us. It is important to note that what is said here is not merely that praise be to God, but that all praise be to God alone. Whenever there is any beauty, any excellence, any perfection, in whatever thing or in whatever shape it may manifest itself, its ultimate source is none other than God Himself. No human beings, angels, demigods, heavenly bodies, in short no created beings, are possessed of an innate excellence; where excellence exists. It is a gift from God. Thus, if there is anyone at all whom we ought to adore and worship, to whom we ought to feel indebted and grateful, towards whom we should remain humble and obedient, it is the creator of excellence, rather than its possessor.

3 In Arabic the word Rabb has three meanings: (i) Lord and Master; (ii) Sustainer, Provider, Supporter, Nourisher and Guardian, and (iii) Sovereign, Ruler, He Who controls and directs. God is the Rabb of the universe in all three meanings of the term.

3. The Merciful, the Compassionate.*4

الرَّحْمَنُ الرَّحِيمُ

4 Whenever we are deeply impressed by the greatness of something, we try to express our feelings by using superlatives. If the use of one superlative does not do full justice to our feelings, we tend to re-emphasize the extraordinary excellence of the object of our admiration by adding a second superlative of nearly equivalent meaning. This would seem to explain the use of the word Rahim following Rahman. The form of the word Rahman connotes intensity. Yet God's mercy and beneficence towards His creatures is so great, so extensive and of such an infinite nature that no one word, however strong its connotation, can do it full justice. The epithet Rahim was therefore added to that of Rahman.

4. The Master of the Day of Recompense.*5

مَلِكِ يَوْمِ الدِّينِ

*5 God will be the Lord of the Day when all generations of mankind gather together in order to render an account of their conduct, and when each person will be finally rewarded or punished for his deeds. The description of God as Lord of the Day of Judgment following the mention of his benevolence and compassion indicates that we ought to remember another aspect of God as well, namely that He will judge us all, that He is so absolutely powerful, that on the Day of Judgment no one will have the power either to resist the enforcement of punishments that He decrees or to prevent anyone from receiving the rewards that He decides to confer. Hence, we ought not only to love Him for nourishing and sustaining us and for His compassion and mercy towards us, but should also hold Him in awe because of His justice, and should not forget that our ultimate happiness or misery rests completely with Him.

5. You alone do we worship*6, and You alone do we turn for help.*7

إِيَّاكَ نَعْبُدُ
وَإِيَّاكَ نَسْتَعِينُ

*6 The term ibadah is used in three sense: (i) worship and adoration; (ii) obedience and submission; and (iii) service and subjection. In this particular context the term carries all these meanings simultaneously. In other words, we say to God that we worship and adore Him, that we are obedient to Him and follow His will, and also that we are His servants. Moreover man is so bound to none save God, that none but He, may be the subject of man's worship and total devotion, of man's unreserved obedience, of man's absolute subjection and servitude.

*7 Not only do we worship God, but our relationship with Him is such that we turn to Him alone for help and succor. We know that He is the Lord of the whole universe and that He alone is the Master of all blessings and benefactions. Hence, in seeking the fulfillment of our needs we turn to Him alone. It is towards Him alone that we stretch forth our hands when we pray and supplicate. It is in Him that we repose our trust. It is therefore to Him alone that we address our request for true guidance.

6. Direct us on to the Straight Way.*8

أَهْدِنَا الصِّرَاطَ الْمُسْتَقِيمَ

*8 We beseech God to guide us in all walks of life to a Way which is absolutely true, which provides us with a properly based outlook and sound principles of behavior, a Way which will prevent our succumbing to false doctrines and adopting unsound principles of conduct, a Way that will lead us to our true salvation and happiness. This is man's prayer to God as he begins the study of the Quran. It is, in short, to illuminate the truth which he often tends to lose in a labyrinth of philosophical speculation; to enlighten him as to which of the numerous ethical doctrines ensures a sound course of conduct; to show which of the myriad ways and by-ways is the clear, straight, open road of sound belief and right behavior.

7. The way of those whom You have favored,^{*9} who did not incur Your wrath, who are not astray.^{*10}

صِرَاطَ الَّذِينَ أَنْعَمْتَ عَلَيْهِمْ
غَيْرِ الْمَغْضُوبِ عَلَيْهِمْ وَلَا
الضَّالِّينَ

9 This defines the ‘Straight Way’ which we ask God to open to us. It is the way which has always been followed by those who have enjoyed God’s favors and blessings.

10 This makes it clear that the recipients of God’s favor are not those who appear, briefly, to enjoy worldly prosperity and success; all too often, these people are among those whom God has condemned because they have lost sight of the true path of salvation and happiness. This negative explanation makes it quite clear that innaam (favor) denotes all those real and abiding favors and blessings which one receives in reward for righteous conduct through God’s approval and pleasure, rather than those apparent and fleeting favors which the Pharaohs, Nimrods and Korahs (Qaruns) used to receive in the past, and which are enjoyed even today by people notorious for oppression, evil and corruption.

البقرة Al-Baqarah

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of Allah, Most Gracious, Most Merciful

Name

Al-Baqarah (the Cow) has been so named from the story of the cow occurring in this Surah (Ayats 67-73). It has not, however, been used as a title to indicate the subject of the Surah. It will, therefore, be as wrong to translate the name Al-Baqarah into “The Cow” or “The Heifer” as to translate any English names into their equivalents in other languages or vice versa. This would imply that the Surah dealt with the subject of “The Cow”. Many more Surahs of the Quran have been named in a similar way because no comprehensive words exist in Arabic (in spite of its richness) to denote the wide scope of the subjects discussed in them. As a matter of fact, all human languages suffer from the same limitation.

Sequence

Though it is a Madani Surah, it follows naturally a Makki Surah Al-Fatihah, which ended with the prayer: “Show us the straight path.” It begins with the answer to that prayer, “This is the Book (that)...is a guidance.”

The greater part of Al-Baqarah was revealed during the first two years of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) life at Al-Madinah. The smaller part which was revealed at a later period has been included in this Surah because its contents are closely related to those dealt with in this Surah. For instance, the verses prohibiting interest were revealed during the last period of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) life but have been inserted in this Surah. For the same reason, the last verses (284-286) of this Surah which were revealed at Makkah before the migration of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to Al-Madinah have also been included in it.

Historical Background

In order to understand the meaning of this Surah, we should know its historical background:

1. At Makkah the Quran generally addressed the mushrik Quraish who were ignorant of Islam, but at Al-Madinah it was also concerned with the Jews who were acquainted with the creed of the Unity of Allah, prophethood, revelation, the Hereafter and Angels. They also professed to believe in the law which was revealed by Allah to their prophet Moses (peace be upon him), and in principle, their way was the same (Islam) that was being taught by Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him). But they had strayed away from it during the centuries of degeneration and had adopted many un-Islamic creeds, rites and customs of which there was no mention and for which there was no sanction in the Torah. Not only this: they had tampered with the Torah by inserting their own explanations and interpretations into its text. They had distorted even that part of the word of God which had remained intact in their Scriptures, and they taken out of it the real spirit of true religion, and were now clinging to a lifeless frame of rituals. Consequently their beliefs, their morals and their conduct had gone to the lowest depths of degeneration. The pity is that they were not only satisfied with their condition but loved to cling to it. Besides this, they had no intention or inclination to accept any kind of reform. So they became bitter enemies of those who came to teach them the right way and did their best to defeat every such effort. Though they were originally Muslims, they had swerved from the real Islam and made innovations and alterations in it and had fallen victims to hair splitting and sectarianism. They had forgotten and forsaken Allah and begun to serve mammon. So much so that they had even given up their original name "Muslim" and adopted the name "Jew" instead, and made religion the sole monopoly of the children of Israel.

This was their religious condition when the Prophet (peace be upon him) went to Al-Madinah and invited the Jews to the true religion. That is why more than one third of this Surah has been addressed to the children of Israel. A critical review of their history, their moral degeneration and their religious perversions has been made. Side by side, with this, the high standard of morality and the fundamental principles of the pure religion have been put forward in order to bring out clearly the nature of the degeneration of the community of a prophet when it goes astray. This was to draw clear lines of demarcation between real piety and formalism, and the essentials and non-essentials of the true religion.

2. At Makkah Islam was mainly concerned with the propagation of its fundamental principles and the moral training of its followers. But after the migration of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to Al-Madinah, where Muslims had come to settle from all over Arabia and where a tiny Islamic state had been set up with the help of the Ansar (local supporters), naturally the Quran had to turn its attention to the social, cultural, economic, political and legal problems as well. This accounts for the difference between the themes of the Surahs revealed at Makkah and those at Al-Madinah. Accordingly about half of this Surah deals with those principles and regulations which are essential for the integration and solidarity of a community and for the solution of its problems.

3. After the migration to Al-Madinah, the struggle between Islam and un-Islam had also entered a new phase. Before this the believers, who propagated Islam among their own clans and tribes, had to face its opponents at their own risk. But the conditions had changed at Al-Madinah, where Muslims from all parts of Arabia had come and settled as one community, and had established an independent city state. Here it became a struggle for the survival of the community itself, for the whole of non-Muslim Arabia was bent upon and united in crushing it totally. Hence the following instructions, upon which depended not only its success but its very survival, were revealed in this Surah:

- a. The Community should work with the utmost zeal to propagate its ideology and win over to its side the greatest possible number of people;
- b. It should so expose its opponents as to leave no room for doubt in the mind of any sensible person that they were adhering to an absolutely wrong position;
- c. It should infuse in its members (the majority of whom were homeless and indigent and surrounded on all sides by enemies) that courage and fortitude which is so indispensable to their very existence in the adverse circumstances in which they were struggling and to prepare them to face these boldly;
- d. It should also keep them ready and prepared to meet any armed menace, which might come from any side to suppress and crush their ideology, and to oppose it without minding the overwhelming numerical strength and the material resources of its enemies;
- e. It should also create in them that courage which is needed for the eradication of evil ways and for the establishment of the Islamic way instead.

That is why Allah has revealed in this Surah such instructions as may help achieve all the above mentioned objects.

4. During this period, a new type of Muslims called “munafiqin” (hypocrites) had begun to appear. Though signs of duplicity had been noticed during the last days at Makkah, they took a different shape at Al-Madinah. At Makkah there were some people who professed Islam to be true but were not prepared to abide by the consequences of this profession and to sacrifice their worldly interests and relations and bear the afflictions which inevitably follow the acceptance of this creed. But at Al-Madinah different kinds of munafiqin (hypocrites) began to appear. There were some who had entered the Islamic fold merely to harm it from within. There were others who were surrounded by Muslims and, therefore, had become Muslims to safeguard their worldly interests. They, therefore, continued to have relations with the enemies so that if the latter became successful, their interests should remain secure. There were still others who had no strong conviction of the truth of Islam but had embraced it along with their clans. Lastly, there were those who were intellectually convinced of the truth of Islam but did not have enough moral courage to give up their former traditions, superstitions and personal ambitions and live up to the Islamic moral standards and make sacrifice in its way.

At the time of the revelation of Al-Baqarah, all sorts of hypocrites had begun to appear. Allah has, therefore, briefly pointed out their characteristics here. Afterwards when their evil characteristics and mischievous deeds became manifest, Allah sent detailed instructions about them.

Theme: Guidance

This Surah is an invitation to the divine guidance and all the stories, incidents etc. revolve around this central theme. As this Surah has particularly been addressed to the Jews, many historical events have been cited from their own traditions to admonish and advise them that their own good lies in accepting the guidance revealed to the Prophet (peace be upon him). They should, therefore, be the first to accept it because it was basically the same message that was revealed to Prophet Moses (peace be upon him).

Topics and their Interconnection

Ayats 1-20. These introductory verses declare the Quran to be the Book of guidance: enunciate the articles of the faith (belief) in Allah, prophethood and life-after-death; divide mankind into three main groups with regard to its acceptance or rejection, believers, disbelievers and hypocrites.

Ayats 21-29. Allah invites mankind to accept the guidance voluntarily and to submit to Him, the Lord and the Creator of the universe, and to believe in the Quran, His guidance, and in the life-after-death.

Ayats 30-39. The story of the appointment of Adam as Allah's vicegerent on earth, of his life in the garden, of his falling a prey to the temptations of Satan, of his repentance and its acceptance, has been related to show to mankind (Adam's offspring) that the only right thing for them is to accept and follow the guidance. This story also shows that the guidance of Islam is the same that was given to Adam and that it is the original religion of mankind.

Ayats 40-120. In this portion invitation to the guidance has particularly been extended to the children of Israel and their past and present attitude has been criticized to show that the cause of their degradation was their deviation from the guidance.

Ayats 121-141. The Jews have been exhorted to follow Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) who had come with the same guidance and who was a descendant and follower of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) whom they highly honored as their ancestor, and professed to follow as a prophet. The story of building of the Kaabah by him has been mentioned because it was going to be made the qiblah of the Muslim community.

Ayats 142-152. In this portion, the declaration of the change of qiblah from the Temple (Jerusalem) to the Kaabah (Makkah) has been made as a symbol of the change of leadership from the children of Israel to the Muslim community, which has also been fore-warned to guard against those transgressions against the guidance that had led to the deposition of the Jews.

Ayats 153-251. In this portion practical measures have been prescribed to enable the Muslims to discharge the heavy responsibilities of the leadership that had been entrusted to them for the promulgation of guidance. Salat, fasting, Zakat, Hajj and Jihad have been prescribed for the moral training of the ummat (Muslim community). The believers have been exhorted to obey authority, to be just, to fulfill pledges, to observe treaties, to spend wealth etc. in the Way of Allah. Laws, rules and regulations have been laid down for their organization, cohesion and conduct of daily life and for the solution of social, economic, political and international problems. On the other hand, drinking, gambling, lending money on interest etc. have been prohibited to keep the ummat safe from disintegration. In between these, the basic articles of the faith have been reiterated at suitable places, for these alone can enable and support one to stick to the guidance.

Ayats 252-260. These verses serve as an introduction to the prohibition of lending money on interest. The true conception of Allah, revelation, and life-after-death have been emphasized to keep alive the sense of accountability. The stories of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) and of the one who woke up after a sleep of hundred years have been related to show that Allah is All-Powerful and is able to raise the dead and call them to account. The believers, therefore, should keep this fact in view and refrain from taking interest on money.

Ayats 261-283. The earlier theme has been resumed and the believers have been exhorted to spend in the Way of Allah in order to please Him alone. In contrast to this, they have been warned against the evils of lending money on interest. Instructions have also been given for the honest conduct of day-to-day business transactions.

Ayats 284-286. The basic articles of the faith have been recapitulated here at the end of the Surah, just as they were enunciated at its beginning. Then the Surah ends with a prayer which the Muslim community needed very much at that time when they were encountering untold hardships in the propagation of the guidance.

1. Alif. Lam. Mim.*¹

*¹ Letters of the Arabic alphabet like Alif, Lam, Mim, called the muqattaat, which are prefixed to a number of the Surahs of the Quran, were in common use in the Arabic literature of the period when the Quran was revealed. The poets and rhetoricians made use of this style. Instances of this can even be found in the pre-Islamic prose and poetry which has survived. As their significance was appreciated by all concerned, none objected to or questioned their use, because it was no enigma to them. Even the bitterest opponents of the Quran, who never missed an opportunity, did not raise any objection against their use. But as their use was abandoned with the passage of time, it became difficult for the commentators to determine their exact meaning and significance. An ordinary reader, however, need not worry about their meanings because they make no difference as far as the guidance of the Quran is concerned.

2. This is the Book about which there is no doubt,^{*2} a guidance for those who fear (Allah).^{*3}

ذَٰلِكَ ٱلْكِتَٰبُ لَا رَيْبَ ۚ فِيهِ
هُدًى لِّلْمُتَّقِينَ ﴿٢﴾

^{*2} Its simple meaning is: “No doubt, this is the Book of Allah”, but it may also imply that this is the Book which contains nothing doubtful. It is not like the common books on metaphysics and religion which are based on mere speculation and guess work. Therefore even their authors cannot be free from doubts concerning their own theories, in spite of their assertion that they are convinced of them. In contrast to them, this Book is based on the truth: its Author is He who possesses full knowledge of the reality. Therefore, there is indeed no room for doubt about its contents.

3 That is, though there is nothing but guidance in this Book, there are a few pre-requisites for benefiting from it. The first pre-requisite is that one should be inclined to avoid vice, and should seek and practice virtue. But there is no guidance in the Quran for the people who do not bother to consider whether what they are doing is right or wrong, who follow the ways of the world, or their own whims and lusts, or move aimlessly in the ways of life.

3. Those who believe in the unseen,^{*4} and establish prayer,^{*5} and spend out of what We have provided for them.^{*6}

الَّذِينَ يُؤْمِنُونَ بِالْغَيْبِ وَيُقِيمُونَ
الصَّلَاةَ وَمِمَّا رَزَقْنَاهُمْ يُنْفِقُونَ

4 The second condition for obtaining guidance from the Quran is that one must believe in the unseen, those realities which cannot be perceived by the senses and which do not come within human experience and observation, e.g. the essence and attributes of Allah, Angels, Revelation, Heaven, Hell, etc. These things must be taken on trust from the experts (Prophets) just as we do in many cases in the physical world. Therefore, only such a person, who believes in the unseen, can benefit from the guidance of the Quran. As for the one who believes only in those things which can be seen, tasted and smelled, or can be measured and weighed, cannot get any guidance from this Book.

5 The third condition to benefit from the Quran is that one should be willing and ready to put into practice the teachings of the Quran. As the Salat (prayer) is the first and foremost obligatory duty enjoined by the Quran. It is the practical proof and permanent test of the sincerity of one's faith. Therefore, after a person's profession of Islam, the moment he hears the call to the prayer (which sounds regularly five times a day from every mosque in the Muslim world), he should join the congregation for the Salat, because this determines whether he is sincere in his profession or not. If he does not attend to the call and does not join the congregation, it is an indication that he is not sincere in his profession. It must also be noted that iqama-tus-salat (the establishment of prayer) is the comprehensive term. It means that Salat should be performed in congregation and that permanent arrangements should be made for it in every habitation; otherwise Salat will not be considered to have been established, even if every inhabitant of a place offers the Salat individually.

*6 The fourth condition to benefit from the Quran is that one should be willing to part with one's money according to the instructions of the Book in order to render the rights of Allah and man and should make monetary sacrifices for the cause of Islam which he has accepted.

4. And those who believe in that which has been revealed to you (Muhammad) and that which was revealed before you,^{*7} and they are certain of the Hereafter.^{*8}

وَالَّذِينَ يُؤْمِنُونَ بِمَا أُنزِلَ إِلَيْكَ وَمَا أُنزِلَ مِنْ قَبْلِكَ وَبِالْآخِرَةِ
هُمْ يُوقِنُونَ

*7 The fifth condition is that one should believe in the truth of all those Books which Allah sent down by revelation to the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and the Prophets (peace be upon them) before him at different times in different countries. Those who do not believe in any kind of guidance from Allah, cannot at all benefit from the guidance of the Quran. Likewise those who profess to believe in the necessity of guidance from Allah but do not turn to revelation and the prophets for it, or who dub their own theories as divine light, cannot obtain any guidance from it. Moreover, guidance is also denied to those who believe only in that revealed Book or Books in which their forefathers believed and reject all other guidance received from the same source. Apart from all such people, the Quran guides only those who believe that they stand in need of divine guidance as well as admit that it does not come to every man individually, but reaches humanity only through the prophets and revealed Books. Then those who want guidance should not be slaves to any racial or national prejudices but should be seekers after truth and should submit to it wherever and in whatever form they find it.

8 This is the sixth and last condition. Hereafter is a comprehensive word which applies to the collection of many beliefs, which are as follows: (a) Man has not been created irresponsible in the world but he is answerable to Allah for all his deeds here; (b) The present world order is not everlasting, but has to come to an end at a time only known to Allah; (c) After the present order has been brought to an end, Allah will create a new world, when He will bring back to life all human beings, born from the beginning of creation till resurrection, simultaneously and will call them to account for their deeds, and then will reward them justly according to what they had done in the world; (d) Those, who will be judged as good by Allah, will go to Paradise, and those who will be judged as bad will be cast into Hell; (e) The criterion of success or failure is not the prosperity or adversity of this worldly life, but successful in actual fact will be he who comes out successful in Allah's final judgment, and a failure for him who is a failure there. Those who do not believe, in the life-after-death with the above implications, cannot benefit from the Quran because the one who entertains even the slightest doubt about these, not to speak of rejecting them, can never follow the way of life which the Quran prescribes.

5. Those are on guidance from their Lord. And those, they are the successful.

أُولَئِكَ عَلَىٰ هُدًى مِّن رَّبِّهِمْ
وَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْمُفْلِحُونَ

6. Certainly, those who disbelieve,^{*9} it is the same to them whether you (O Muhammad) warn them, or do not warn them, they will not believe.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا سَوَاءٌ عَلَيْهِمْ
ءَأَنذَرْتَهُمْ أَمْ لَمْ تُنذِرْهُمْ لَا
يُؤْمِنُونَ

*9 That is, they refused to believe and fulfill all or any of the above mentioned six conditions.

7. Allah has set a seal upon their hearts, and upon their hearing, and on their eyes there is a

خَتَمَ اللَّهُ عَلَىٰ قُلُوبِهِمْ وَعَلَىٰ سَمْعِهِمْ وَعَلَىٰ أَبْصَارِهِمْ covering.*¹⁰ And for them is a great punishment.

غَشَوَةٌ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ عَظِيمٌ

*10 It does not mean that Allah had sealed up their hearts, so they refused to believe. But it means that when they rejected the above mentioned prerequisites of belief and chose and adopted for themselves a way contrary to the one presented by the Quran, Allah sealed up their hearts and ears. The Quran simply states a law of nature: if one takes a biased view of something and deliberately nourishes prejudices against it in his mind, he can neither see any virtue in it, nor hear anything in its favor, nor open his heart to consider it dispassionately. This is the law of nature and, as it is Allah's law, the act of sealing up of the hearts and the ears and the covering of the eyes has been attributed to Him.

8. And among mankind there are some who say: "We believe in Allah and in the Last Day," while they are not believers.

وَمِنَ النَّاسِ مَن يَقُولُ ءَامَنَّا بِاللَّهِ وَيَوْمَ الْآخِرِ وَمَا هُمْ بِمُؤْمِنِينَ

9. They deceive Allah and those who believe, and they do not deceive except themselves, and they do not perceive (it).*¹¹

يُخَدِّعُونَ اللَّهَ وَالَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَمَا يُخَدِّعُونَ إِلَّا أَنفُسَهُمْ وَمَا يَشْعُرُونَ

*11 They deceive themselves by imagining that their duplicity will safeguard their interests but obviously their policy will prove harmful in this world as well as in the next. A hypocrite might succeed in deceiving some people for some time but he cannot deceive all people for all times. When such a person is exposed, he loses all honor once and for all. As to the Hereafter, mere lip service will carry no weight there because it is deeds alone that matter there.

10. In their hearts is a disease, then Allah increased their disease.*12 And for them is a painful punishment because they used to lie.

فِي قُلُوبِهِمْ مَرَضٌ فَزَادَهُمُ اللَّهُ
مَرَضًا وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ بِمَا
كَانُوا يَكْذِبُونَ ﴿١٠﴾

*12 “A disease”: the disease of hypocrisy; and “Allah increased their disease” means that He does not punish the hypocrites for their hypocrisy immediately, but gives them respite so that when their duplicity appears to succeed apparently they become more and more convinced of its efficiency and they go on becoming more and more hypocritical in their attitude and conduct.

11. And when it is said to them: “Do not cause corruption on the earth,” they say: “We are only reformers.”

وَإِذَا قِيلَ لَهُمْ لَا تُفْسِدُوا فِي
الْأَرْضِ قَالُوا إِنَّمَا نَحْنُ
مُصْلِحُونَ ﴿١١﴾

12. Beware, it is indeed they who are the corruptors, but they do not perceive (it).

أَلَا إِنَّهُمْ هُمُ الْمُفْسِدُونَ وَلَكِن
لَّا يَشْعُرُونَ ﴿١٢﴾

13. And when it is said to them: “Believe as the people have believed,”^{*13} they say: “Should we believe as the foolish have believed.”^{*14} Beware, it is they who are the foolish, but they do not know (it).

وَإِذَا قِيلَ لَهُمْ ءَامِنُوا كَمَا ءَامَنَ
النَّاسُ قَالُوا أَنُؤْمِنُ كَمَا ءَامَنَ
السُّفَهَاءُ ۗ أَلَا إِنَّهُمْ هُمُ السُّفَهَاءُ
وَلَكِن لَّا يَعْلَمُونَ

13 That is, “Just as the other people of your nation have accepted Islam truly and sincerely, so should you also accept it truly and honestly, if you profess to accept it”.

14 They regarded as fools the people who had accepted Islam sincerely and exposed themselves to troubles, hardships, and dangers. In their opinion it was nothing but foolishness to earn the hostility of the whole country merely for the sake of truth and righteousness. They considered it wisdom not to bother about the right and the wrong at all but to look only after one’s own interests.

14. And when they meet those who believe, they say: “We believe,” and when they are alone with their evil ones,^{*15} they say: “Indeed we are with you, we were only mocking.”

وَإِذَا لَقُوا الَّذِينَ ءَامِنُوا قَالُوا
ءَامِنَّا وَإِذَا خَلَوْا إِلَىٰ شَيْطَانِهِمْ
قَالُوا إِنَّا مَعَكُمْ إِنَّمَا نَحْنُ
مُسْتَهْزِءُونَ

15 Shayatin, plural of Shaitan, is an insurgent, haughty and devilish person, or an evil genius. This word is used both for the men and the jinn. Though it has mostly been used in the Quran for the jinn devils, in some places it has also been applied to human devils, and from the context it can easily be judged where it refers to human and where to jinn devils. Here it refers to the Arab chiefs who were in the forefront in their opposition to Islam.

15. Allah (Himself) mocks at them, and He prolongs them in their transgression, (while) they wander blindly.

اللَّهُ يَسْتَهْزِئُ بِهِمْ وَيَمُدُّهُمْ فِي طُغْيَانِهِمْ يَعْمَهُونَ ﴿١٥﴾

16. It is those who purchased error for guidance, so their transaction has brought no profit, nor were they guided.

أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ اشْتَرُوا الضَّلَالََةَ بِالْهُدَىٰ فَمَا رَنَحَتْ تُجْرَتُهُمْ وَمَا كَانُوا مُهْتَدِينَ ﴿١٦﴾

17. Their example is as the example of him who kindled a fire, then when it lighted all around him, Allah took away their light and left them in darkness, (so) they could not see.^{*16}

مَثَلُهُمْ كَمَثَلِ الَّذِي اسْتَوْقَدَ نَارًا فَلَمَّا أَضَاءَتْ مَا حَوْلَهُ ذَهَبَ اللَّهُ بِنُورِهِمْ وَتَرَكَهُمْ فِي ظُلْمَةٍ لَا يُبْصِرُونَ ﴿١٧﴾

*16 The parable means that when a person, Muhammad (peace be upon him), spread the light of truth that discriminated right from wrong and virtue from vice, those who used their faculties properly began to distinguish between these things. But the hypocrites, who were blinded by self-interest, could not see the right path even with the help of this light. “Allah took away their light”, should not cause one the misunderstanding that the responsibility of not seeing the truth did not lie on them. Allah deprives of the sight only him who is not himself a seeker after truth, who chooses error for himself instead of guidance, who shuts his eyes to the truth. When they themselves turned away from the light of truth and chose to wander only in the darkness of falsehood, Allah also let them go astray.

18. Deaf, dumb, blind,^{*17} so they will not return (to right path).

صُمُّ بَكْمٌ عُمَىٰ فَهُمْ لَا يَرْجِعُونَ

*17 “Deaf” to hear the truth, “dumb” to speak the truth and “blind” to see the truth.

19. Or like a rainstorm from the sky, wherein is darkness, and thunder, and lightning. They thrust their fingers in their ears against the thunderclaps, for fear of death. And Allah is encompassing the disbelievers.^{*18}

أَوْ كَصَيْبٍ مِّنَ السَّمَاءِ فِيهِ ظُلُمَاتٌ وَرَعْدٌ وَبَرْقٌ يَجْعَلُونَ أَصْبِعَهُمْ فِي آذَانِهِمْ مِّنَ الصَّوَاعِقِ حَذَرَ الْمَوْتِ ۗ وَاللَّهُ مُحِيطٌ بِالْكَافِرِينَ

*18 By thrusting their fingers into their ears, they delude themselves for a while that they have escaped destruction. But they cannot, in fact, save themselves because Allah, with all His powers, is encircling them on all sides.

20. The lightning almost snatches away their sight.

يَكَادُ الْبَرْقُ تَخْطَفُ أَبْصَارَهُمْ

whenever it lights up (the way) for them, they walk therein. And when darkness comes upon them, they stand still.*¹⁹ And if Allah willed, He could have taken away their hearing,*²⁰ and their sight. Certainly, Allah has power over all things.

كَلَّمَا أَضَاءَ لَهُمْ مَشَوْا فِيهِ وَإِذَا
أَظْلَمَ عَلَيْهِمْ قَامُوا وَلَوْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ
لَذَهَبَ بِسَمْعِهِمْ وَأَبْصَرِهِمْ
إِن شَاءَ اللَّهُ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ

19 The first parable depicts those hypocrites who in their inmost hearts did not believe in Islam at all, but had become Muslims for the sake of self-interest or expediency. The second parable gives a description of those hypocrites who were suffering from doubt, suspicion and lack of faith. Though they were not entirely unbelievers, they practiced Islam only to the extent which might not involve them in trouble. In this parable rainfall stands for Islam which came as a blessing to humanity; pitch darkness, thunder and lightning stand for the impending obstacles, the threatening dangers and the glaring difficulties which were being experienced on account of the strong resistance from the opponents of Islam. When the situation eased a little, they began to move onward on the path of Islam, but when the clouds of difficulties began to appear, or when they were given such commands as were against their self-interest or their superstitious beliefs and prejudices, they again stood still in sheer perplexity.

20 That is, Allah could, if He so willed, totally deprive these hypocrites also of the power to see the truth just as He deprived the hypocrites described in the first parable. But Allah does not do so because it is His will to give them respite to see the truth and hear the truth to the extent they want to see and hear it. That is why He left them with only as much power as they made use of in seeing and hearing the truth.

21. O mankind,^{*21} worship your Lord, who created you and those before you, so that you may become righteous.^{*22}

يَا أَيُّهَا النَّاسُ اعْبُدُوا رَبَّكُمُ
 الَّذِي خَلَقَكُمْ وَالَّذِينَ مِنْ قَبْلِكُمْ
 لَعَلَّكُمْ تَتَّقُونَ

21 Though the Quran invites all human beings to its message, to benefit or not to benefit from it depends on whether the people are really willing and inclined to benefit from it and on Allah's grace accordingly. Therefore, in the preceding verses distinction has been made between the people to show as to which of them can benefit from the guidance of this Book and which cannot. Now, the actual message for which the Quran was revealed is presented before all mankind.

22 From errors of judgment and action in the world and from the punishment of God in the Hereafter.

22. He who made the earth
 a resting place for you, and the sky a canopy, and
 He sent down water (rain) from the sky, then brought forth thereby of the fruits

الَّذِي جَعَلَ لَكُمْ الْأَرْضَ فِرَاشًا
 وَالسَّمَاءَ بِنَاءً وَأَنْزَلَ مِنَ السَّمَاءِ مَاءً فَأَخْرَجَ بِهِ مِنَ الثَّمَرَاتِ

as provision for you. So do not attribute equals to Allah, while you know (it).^{*23}

رِزْقًا لَّكُمْ فَلَا تَجْعَلُوا لِلَّهِ أُندَادًا
وَأَنْتُمْ تَعْلَمُونَ

23 That is, when you yourselves admit and acknowledge that all this has been done only by Allah, then you should serve and worship Him alone. “So do not attribute equals to Allah” means to hold others besides Allah as worthy of some kind of service and worship. As will be explained by the Quran below, there are certain kinds of worship which should exclusively be performed for the sake of Allah; associating others with these is the shirk for the eradication of which the Quran was sent down.

23. And if you are in doubt about that which We sent down (the Quran) to Our servant (Muhammad), then produce a Surah the like thereof,^{*24} and call your witnesses besides Allah if you are truthful.

وَإِنْ كُنْتُمْ فِي رَيْبٍ مِّمَّا نَزَّلْنَا
عَلَىٰ عَبْدِنَا فَأْتُوا بِسُورَةٍ مِّنْ
مِّثْلِهِ وَادْعُوا شُهَدَاءَكُمْ مِّنْ
دُونِ اللَّهِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ صَادِقِينَ

24 This challenge had been given several times in the Quran at Makkah. It was meant to convince the opponents that the Quran is divine word and could not be produced by human mind. Now it was reiterated at Al-Madinah. See Yunus: Ayats 38-39, Hud: Ayats 13-14, Bani-Israel: Ayat 88, At-Tur: Ayats 33-34.

24. So if you do not, and you can never do (it), then fear the Fire, that whose fuel is people and stones, prepared for the disbelievers.*25

فَإِنْ لَّمْ تَفْعَلُوا وَلَنْ تَفْعَلُوا
فَاتَّقُوا النَّارَ الَّتِي وَقُودُهَا
النَّاسُ وَالْحِجَارَةُ أُعِدَّتْ
لِلْكَافِرِينَ

*25 The allusion means: You alone will not become fuel for Hell, but the idols of stone which you worship as deities in the world, will also be there with you to show that they had no share whatever in Godhead.

25. And give good tidings to those who believe and do righteous deeds, that for them are Gardens underneath which rivers flow. Whenever they are provided there from with a provision of fruit, they will say: "This is what we were provided with before,"*26 and they will be given this in resemblance. And for them will be therein pure companions.*27 And they will abide therein forever.

وَبَشِّرِ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا
الصَّالِحَاتِ أَنَّ لَهُمْ جَنَّاتٍ
تَجْرَى مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ
كُلَّمَا رُزِقُوا مِنْهَا مِنْ ثَمَرَةٍ
رِزْقًا قَالُوا هَذَا الَّذِي رُزِقْنَا
مِنْ قَبْلُ وَأُتُوا بِهِ مُتَشَبِهًا
وَلَهُمْ فِيهَا أَزْوَاجٌ مُطَهَّرَةٌ وَهُمْ
فِيهَا خَالِدُونَ

*26 It will be a pleasant surprise for the dwellers of Paradise to have fruits just like the ones with which they were familiar on the earth. Of course, they will be much more delicious. For instance, they will be like mangoes, pomegranates, oranges, etc., in shape and color and the dwellers of Paradise will at once recognize them as such but they will be infinitely more delicious than the mangoes, pomegranates and oranges of the world.

*27 The word azwaj (sing. zauj) as used in the original is used both for the husband and for the wife: the wife is zauj for the husband, and the husband is zauj for the wife. In Paradise the spouses will be joined on the basis of piety. For instance, if a certain man lived a pious life in this world, but his wife did not, their marriage will be dissolved in the Hereafter, and the pious man will be united with another pious woman whose marriage had similarly been dissolved and so on. But if both the husband and the wife led pious lives here, they will continue to live as husband and wife forever in Paradise.

26. Certainly, Allah disdains not to describe the example of that of a mosquito, or of that even more insignificant than this.*²⁸ So as for those who believe, they know that this is the truth from their Lord. And as for those who disbelieve, they say: “What did Allah intend by this as an example.”*²⁹ He misleads

﴿ إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يَسْتَحْيِي أَنْ يَضْرِبَ
مَثَلًا مَّا بَعُوضَةً فَمَا فَوْقَهَا
فَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا فَيَعْلَمُونَ
أَنَّهُ الْحَقُّ مِنْ رَبِّهِمْ وَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ
كَفَرُوا فَيَقُولُونَ مَاذَا أَرَادَ
اللَّهُ بِهَذَا مَثَلًا يُضِلُّ بِهِ

many thereby, and He guides many thereby.^{*30} And He misleads not thereby except those who are disobedient.

كَثِيرًا وَيَهْدِي بِهِ كَثِيرًا وَمَا
يُضِلُّ بِهِ إِلَّا الْفَاسِقِينَ ﴿٣٠﴾

28 Here an objection has been answered without making a mention of it. The objection was that if the Quran had been the Book of Allah, it would not have adduced illustrations from such insignificant things as gnats, spiders, ants, bees, etc.

29 Those people who do not want to understand the reality and do not seek the truth, get entangled in the words of such similitude, draw wrong conclusions and go astray from the truth on account of their own perversion. On the contrary, the seekers of the truth, who are possessed of insight, ponder over the wisdom contained in them and are convinced that these sublime things can only be from Allah.

30 “Fasiq”: disobedient, the one who transgresses the bounds set by Allah.

27. Those who break the covenant of Allah after ratifying it,^{*31} and sever that which Allah has ordered to be joined,^{*32} and they cause corruption on the earth.^{*33} It is those who are the losers.

الَّذِينَ يَنْقُضُونَ عَهْدَ اللَّهِ مِنْ
بَعْدِ مِيثَاقِهِ وَيَقْطَعُونَ مَا أَمَرَ
اللَّهُ بِهِ أَنْ يُوَصَلَ
وَيُفْسِدُونَ فِي الْأَرْضِ
أُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْخَاسِرُونَ ﴿٣١﴾

31 The edicts or instructions issued by a sovereign to his subjects are called ahd according to the Arabic idiom, because they are obligatory on them. In this verse the word ahd has been used in the same sense. Allah's ahd is His standing command to mankind to submit to Him, to obey Him and worship Him alone. The ratification of the same refers to the covenant to which the whole of mankind agreed at the creation of Adam: it was that they would submit to Allah. (See Al-Aaraf: Ayat 172).

32 That is, these people break off the relations which Allah has enjoined to be established, and upon the establishment and strength of which depends man's individual and collective well being. This concise sentence is so vast in meaning that it covers the whole of the moral world, ranging from relations between two persons to international relations. "Breaking off relations" not only implies violation of human relations but it also implies abuse of relations in any way, because the result will be the same if and when these relations are not observed rightly and properly. The Quran, therefore, abhors not only their violation but also their abuse as it causes chaos, conflict, and disorder in the world.

33 In these sentences the full definition of fasiq has been given: he is one who breaks off or violates relations between man and Allah or between man and man, and thus produces chaos on the earth.

28. How can you disbelieve in Allah when you were dead, and He gave you life.

كَيْفَ تَكْفُرُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَكُنْتُمْ
أَمْوَاتًا فَأَحْيَاكُمْ ثُمَّ يُمِيتُكُمْ

Then He will give you death, then (again) He will bring you to life, then to Him you will be returned.

ثُمَّ يُحْيِيكُمْ ثُمَّ إِلَيْهِ تُرْجَعُونَ

29. He it is who created for you all that is on the earth. Then turned He to the heaven, and made them seven heavens.*³⁴ And He is the All knower of every thing.*³⁵

هُوَ الَّذِي خَلَقَ لَكُمْ مَا فِي
الْأَرْضِ جَمِيعًا ثُمَّ أَسْتَوَىٰ إِلَى
السَّمَاءِ فَسَوَّاهُنَّ سَبْعَ سَمَوَاتٍ
وَهُوَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمٌ

34 It is not easy to determine the significance of the seven heavens. In every age man has been formulating different theories about the heaven and the expanse of space surrounding the earth and beyond it according to his observations and speculations, which have been always changing. Hence it will not be correct to link anyone of these with the seven heavens referred to in the Quran. It may either mean that God has divided the whole universe beyond the earth into seven permanent spheres, or that the part of the universe in which the earth lies consists of seven spheres.

35 Here, the people have been warned of two things. First, that they cannot, and should not, adopt an attitude of disbelief and rebellion against Allah, who knows everything and from whom nothing that one does remains hidden. Second, that the God who knows everything is, in fact, the source of true knowledge. Anyone who turns away from Him, will surely go astray into the darkness of ignorance. When none beside Him is the source of knowledge, and none beside Him can provide the light by which one may walk one's way of life, what is then the good of turning away from Him.

30. And^{*36} when your Lord said to the angels:^{*37} "Indeed, I will make a vicegerent^{*38} upon the earth." They said: "Will you place upon it one who will cause corruption therein, and will shed blood,^{*39} while we glorify Your praise and sanctify You."^{*40} He said: "Surely, I know that which you do not know."^{*41}

36 In the foregoing verses, man has been asked to submit to Allah because He is his Creator and Sustainer and has power over his life and death, and because He is the Master and Ruler of the universe in which he lives. In these verses, he has been exhorted to submit to Him because he is His vicegerent on the earth. As such, he is not only bound to serve Him but also to obey and act according to the guidance sent down by Him. For, if he did not do so and yielded to the temptations of Satan, his eternal enemy, he would be guilty of the worst crime of rebellion against Allah and meet with evil consequences. Incidentally, the Quran here throws light on the truth about man and his correct position in the universe and presents the chapter of human history, which man could not have ascertained in any other way. The important results that this chapter yields, are far more precious than the results which man tries to obtain by excavating miscellaneous bones from the earth and joining them together by speculation and conjecture.

37 Malak: literally means a messenger, which is translated farishta (angel). Angels are not mere abstract powers without personality; they are beings with personalities and are so to speak the agents of Allah, who employs them for the administration of His Kingdom. Ignorant people mistook them for associates in Godhead; others thought they were related to God and started to worship them as deities.

38 Khalifah: one who exercises the delegated powers on behalf of another as his vicegerent. Khalifah thus is not the master, but deputy of the Master; his powers are not his own but delegated to him by the real Master. He has therefore no right to have his own will but he is there to fulfill the will of the delegating authority. It would be dishonesty and treason, if he assumed sovereign powers, or used them according to his own whim, or if he acknowledged another as his sovereign and submitted to his will.

39 This was not an objection but a query raised by the angels, for the angels dare not object to any scheme of Allah. From the word Khalifah they had understood that the one, who was about to be created, was going to be entrusted with some powers, but they could not understand how an autonomous creature could fit in this totalitarian system of the universe. They also could not understand how that part of the universe, in which someone was entrusted with autonomy, could be free from disorder.

40 By this, the angels did not mean to say that they should be entrusted with the vicegerency because they deserved it. They simply meant to say, “We are carrying out orders obediently, faithfully and earnestly and are keeping the whole universe clean and in order, and sing hymns of Your praise and sanctify You as Your humble servants. Therefore, we are unable to understand what need then is there for a vicegerent.” The word tasbih has a double meaning: it means to sanctify as well as to work earnestly and do one’s utmost. Similarly taqdis also means both to sanctify and to purify.

41 This was the reply to the second doubt of the angels: You cannot understand the need and wisdom of the appointment of a vicegerent as I do. Your services do not suffice for the purpose that I have in view. I want something more than the services you have mentioned. That is why I am going to create a being on the earth and endow him with some powers.

31. And He taught Adam the names,^{*42} all of them. Then He showed them to the angels and said: “Inform Me of the names of these, if you are truthful.”

وَعَلَّمَ ءَادَمَ الْأَسْمَاءَ كُلَّهَا ثُمَّ
عَرَضَهُمْ عَلَى الْمَلَائِكَةِ فَقَالَ
أَنْبِئُونِي بِأَسْمَاءِ هَٰؤُلَاءِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ

صَدِيقِينَ

42 Nomenclature is the means by which human mind grasps the knowledge of things. Hence, the whole information of man, in fact, consists of assigning names for things. Thus, teaching Adam the names of all things was meant to impart their knowledge to him.

32. They said: “Glory be to You, we have no knowledge except that which You have taught us.^{*43} Indeed, it is You, All Knower, the All Wise.”

قَالُوا سُبْحَانَكَ لَا عِلْمَ لَنَا إِلَّا
مَا عَلَّمْتَنَا إِنَّكَ أَنْتَ الْعَلِيمُ
الْحَكِيمُ

43 It appears that the knowledge of each angel and of each species of angels is confined only to his or its own special sphere. For example, the angels who deal with the air, know everything about the air but nothing about water. The same is true about the angels who are responsible for other spheres. In contrast to them, man has been granted comprehensive knowledge. He may not know as much about these things as the angels in charge of a special sphere do but the comprehensiveness of knowledge that man has been granted has not been granted to the angels.

33. He said: “O Adam, inform them of their names.” Then when he had informed them of their names,^{*44} He said: “Did I not say to you that I know the unseen of the heavens and the earth. And I know that which you reveal and that which you have concealed.”

قَالَ يَتَعَادُمْ أَنْبِيَهُمْ بِأَسْمَائِهِمْ
فَلَمَّا أَنْبَأَهُمْ بِأَسْمَائِهِمْ قَالَ أَلَمْ أَقُلْ لَكُمْ إِنَّي أَعْلَمُ غَيْبَ

السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ وَأَعْلَمُ مَا
تُبْدُونَ وَمَا كُنْتُمْ تَكْتُمُونَ ﴿٣٣﴾

44 This demonstration was the answer to the first doubt of the angels. Thus Allah, so to say, informed them: I am not giving Adam only authority but also knowledge. The chaos that you apprehended from his appointment is only one aspect of the matter. It has its good aspect also, which is more weighty and valuable than the evil aspect, and a wise man does not give up a greater good because of a lesser evil.

34. And when We said to the angels: “Prostrate before Adam,” so they prostrated,^{*45} except Iblis.^{*46} He refused, and was arrogant, and he became of the disbelievers.^{*47}

وَإِذْ قُلْنَا لِلْمَلَائِكَةِ اسْجُدُوا لِآدَمَ
فَسَجَدُوا إِلَّا إِبْلِيسَ أَبَى
وَاسْتَكْبَرَ وَكَانَ مِنَ الْكَافِرِينَ

45 This was symbolic of the submission and subjugation to man of all the angels appointed to manage the earth and that part of the universe which is connected with it in any way. As man was being appointed vicegerent in this part by Allah’s command, it was ordained that all the angels, who worked in it must, as far and as long as Allah willed, cooperate with him in their respective spheres whether he wanted to use the powers given to him rightly or wrongly. This implied: You must help him in whatever he wants to do, irrespective of whether it is right or wrong. If he wants to commit theft or offer the prayer, or intends to do another good or evil, you must cooperate with him in both cases as long as We allow him to act according to his will and choice. This may be illustrated by the example of a government officer. He is obeyed within his jurisdiction by every official but no sooner is he deposed by the government than those very officials, who carried out his orders promptly cease to obey him. They even handcuff him and take him to prison, if the government so orders. The command given to the angels to bow down before Adam was in the same nature. Possibly the word sajdah (bowing down) here is symbolic of only submission, but this also is possible that the angels were ordered to perform some such act actually to signify their subordination, and this seems to be more correct.

46 Iblis, dejected and desperate. As a term it is the name of the Jinn who disobeyed Allah and refused to bow down to Adam as a symbol of subordination to him and his offspring and asked Allah to grant him the opportunity of tempting mankind up to the last day. He is also called ash-Shaitan (Satan). He is not merely an abstract power of evil but is a being with his own personality like that of man. He was not an angel as is commonly understood but was one of the jinn who form a distinct species of their own separate from the angels. (See Al-Kahf: Ayat 50).

47 From the words of the text it so appears that probably Iblis was not alone in refusing to bow down before Adam, but a group of the jinn also was bent upon disobedience.

Iblis has been particularly mentioned because he was their chief who led the rebellion. But this verse can also be translated as: He was of the disbelievers. In this case, it would mean that there already existed a group of rebellious and disobedient jinn and Iblis belonged to it. The word shayatin in the Quran has generally been used for these jinn and their species, and wherever there is no basis for taking shayatin to imply men, this same jinn satans are implied.

35. And We said: “O Adam, dwell, you and your wife in the Garden, and eat there from in abundance, from wherever you will. And do not go near this tree,^{*48} lest you become among the wrongdoers.”^{*49}

وَقُلْنَا يٰٓءَادَمُ اَسْكُنْ اَنْتَ
وَزَوْجُكَ الْجَنَّةَ وَكُلَا مِنْهَا رَغَدًا
حَيْثُ شِئْتُمَا وَلَا تَقْرَبَا هَذِهِ
الشَّجَرَةَ فَتَكُونَا مِنَ الظَّالِمِيْنَ

48 This shows that Adam and Eve were first kept in the Garden for a trial of their inclinations before they were to be sent to the earth, the place where they were appointed as vicegerent. A tree was chosen for this purpose and they were forbidden even to go near it. They were duly warned that if they violated the command, they would be considered guilty of iniquity in the sight of Allah. The discussion as to what tree it was and why they were forbidden to go near it, is unnecessary. They were not forbidden because there was something intrinsically evil in the tree itself by which Adam and Eve could be harmed. It was chosen for the purpose of trial to see how far they remained constant on obedience to Allah's command as against the temptations of Satan. For this purpose it was enough to select a tree. That is why Allah has not mentioned the name and any characteristics of the tree. The Garden was a very suitable place for this trial because it was meant to show to man that Paradise alone was the fit place for Allah's vicegerent, but if he yielded to satanic temptations, he would deprive himself of it. The only way to regain it was to oppose the enemy successfully who was always on the look-out to mislead him.

The tree has not been named or pointed out specifically in the Quran because there was nothing intrinsically evil in the tree itself. It was merely chosen for the purpose of trial.

*49 The Arabic word zalim is very comprehensive in its meaning. Zulm is violation of a right or duty, and zalim is one who violates a right or duty. Anyone who disobeys Allah really violates three basic rights. First, he violates the rights of Allah Who is worthy of obedience. Second, he violates the rights of all those things and beings whom he employs in this disobedience, e.g. his own limbs and faculties, his fellow beings and those angels who contribute to the fulfillment of his will and all those things which he uses for the performance of the work of iniquity, for they have a right to be used only in accordance with the will of the real Master but it is an act of iniquity, if he abuses the powers he has over them. Lastly, he violates his own rights on himself, for his own self has a right that he should do his best to save it from destruction. He is also guilty of iniquity against himself when he brings the wrath of Allah on himself by his disobedience. That is why the Quran, in many places has used the term zulm for sin and zalim for the sinner.

36. Then Satan made them slip from there, and caused them to be expelled from the state in which they had been. And We said: “Go down, one of you to the other as enemy.^{*50} And there shall be for you on earth a dwelling place and provision for a time.”

فَأَزَلَّهُمَا الشَّيْطَانُ عَنْهَا
فَأَخْرَجَهُمَا مِمَّا كَانَا فِيهِ وَقُلْنَا
أهْبِطُوا بَعْضُكُمْ لِبَعْضٍ عَدُوٌّ
وَلَكُمْ فِي الْأَرْضِ مُسْتَقَرٌّ وَمَتَاعٌ
إِلَىٰ حِينٍ

50 That is, Satan shall be the adversary of man and man the adversary of Satan. The fact, that Satan tries his utmost to beguile man from the path of Allah to the path of destruction, is a clear proof that he is the arch enemy of man. On the other side, man’s humanity demands that he should fight Satan as his enemy. But it is a pity that man is so beguiled by the temptations of Satan that he begins to take him as his friend. This does not mean that their mutual enmity has really been changed into friendship. It only means that man has been beguiled by his opponent and caught in the snare which has been laid for him.

37. Then Adam received from his Lord words, and He accepted his repentance.^{*51} Indeed, He is فَتَلَقَىٰ آدَمُ مِنْ رَبِّهِ كَلِمَاتٍ

فَتَابَ عَلَيْهِ إِنَّهُ هُوَ التَّوَّابُ

the One who forgives, Most Merciful. *52

*51 When Adam felt sorry for his guilt and wanted to repent and return to Allah, he could not find appropriate words for asking Allah's pardon. Then Allah took pity upon him on account of his grief and helplessness and taught him the appropriate words. The Arabic word taubah means both "to turn back" and "to turn to". When applied to man, it means that he has turned back from rebellion to submission, and, when it is ascribed to Allah, it means that He has again turned with compassion to the penitent person.

*52 Here the Quran rejects the theory that the consequences of sin are inevitable and every man shall bear these anyhow. This is one of those self invented, misleading theories which have done great harm to humanity. As a result of this, one loses for ever all hope of reform, when once one is involved in sin. Even if he feels sorry for a past sin and wants to make amends for it and changes his life for the better, this theory confronts him with despair: there is no hope for you because you are doomed for ever: you must bear the consequences of what you have done in the past. In contrast to this, the Quran says, "It lies absolutely in Allah's power to reward a virtue or to punish a sin. If you are rewarded for a virtue, it is not on account of the natural result of your virtue, but it is through Allah's grace. He has full power to reward it or not. In the same way, if you are punished for a sin, it is not because of the inevitable consequences of the sin but because Allah has full power to punish or pardon it. Of course, being All-Wise, He does not use these powers indiscriminately, but takes into consideration the intention of the doer. If He rewards a virtue, He does so when He sees that His servant performed the good deeds to please Him. And if He rejects an apparent virtue, He does so because He knows that it lacked sincerity. In the same way, He punishes the crime which is committed in a spirit of rebellion and is not followed by self reproach but by an evil desire to commit more crimes. He, however, exercises His grace, and forgives the sins for which His servant feels sorry and makes up his mind to change for the better. It is thus clear that the rejection of the theory of the inevitability of punishment for sin holds out new hopes of reform for sinners. Even the worst criminals and the staunchest unbelievers need not despair of forgiveness from Allah, provided that they confess their sins (of course, before their Lord and not before a priest), feel ashamed of their disobedience, give up their attitude of rebellion and adopt the attitude of submission instead.

38. We said: "Go down from here, all of you."^{*53} Then whenever there comes to you a guidance from Me, and whoever follows My guidance, then there shall be no fear upon them, nor shall they grieve."

قُلْنَا أَهْبَطُوا مِنْهَا جَمِيعًا فَإِمَّا
يَأْتِيَنَّكُمْ مِنِّي هُدًى فَمَنْ تَبِعَ
هُدَايَ فَلَا خَوْفٌ عَلَيْهِمْ وَلَا
هُمْ يَحْزَنُونَ

53 The repetition of this command after forgiveness is very significant. In the preceding verse, it has been said that Adam repented and Allah accepted his repentance. Thus Adam was not only absolved from the sin of disobedience, but his future descendants also were made immune from its effect. There was, therefore, no need for Allah to crucify “His only son” for the atonement of the sin of Adam and of his offspring. On the contrary, Allah not only accepted his repentance but also appointed him as His Messenger to show guidance to his children. The repetition of the command, “Go down from here”, shows that the real purpose of Adam’s creation was to make him vicegerent on the earth. He was kept in the Garden merely for trial and training, (see E.N. 48). That is why he was not kept in the Garden after the acceptance of his repentance. He was sent to the earth not by way of punishment but as a matter of course.

39. “And those who disbelieve, and they deny Our revelations,^{*54} those are the companions of the Fire. They will abide therein forever.”^{*55}

وَالَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا وَكَذَّبُوا بِآيَاتِنَا
أُولَٰئِكَ أَصْحَابُ النَّارِ هُمْ فِيهَا
خَالِدُونَ

^{*54} Ayaat is plural of ayat, which literally means a sign or a symbol that points to something. The Quran has used this word in four different senses. At some places, it means merely a sign or symbol. At other places, the different phenomena of nature have been termed as ayat of Allah, because each phenomenon points to the reality which is hidden behind such curtains. Then the miracles which were given to the Messengers have also been called ayat (signs) because these showed that they were the representatives of the Ruler of the universe. At some places the verses of the Book have been called ayat because they point not only to the truth and the right but also to the Great Author of the Book. It is not only the subject matter of the Book but also its words and mode of expression and its style that point to its Author. The meaning of the word ayat in a particular place becomes clear from the context in which it occurs.

55 The law of Allah, contained in Ayats 38-39 about the guidance, has been in force ever since the creation of man and will remain so up to the last day. It has been called Allah's covenant in Ayat 27. It is meant to warn man not to invent a way of life for himself but to follow the guidance of his Lord, for he is His servant as well as vicegerent. And there are only two means of knowing this: either a man should receive direct revelation from Allah, or follow the one who has received revelation from Him. There is no third way of knowing Allah's Will. Therefore, every other way than these two is not only wrong but also rebellion which will lead ultimately to Hell. The story of the creation of man and the advent of mankind has been described in six other places in the Quran: Al-Aaraf: Ayats 11-25; Al-Hijr: Ayats 26-48; Bani-Israil: Ayats 60-65; Al-Kahf: Ayat 50; Ta-Ha: Ayats 116-123, Suad: Ayats 71-85. It will be useful to read the same story in the Old Testament (Genesis, Chapters 1 to 3). The comparison of the Quranic version with the Biblical one, will conclusively show that the Quran has remained intact in its pure, original and unadulterated form just as it was revealed by Allah, while the Bible has been tampered with. It will also be interesting to contrast the conversation between Allah and the angels as has been given here in the Quran with that cited in the Talmud. The latter is not only void of spiritual values but is also ridiculous. According to it when the angels asked Allah why He was going to create man, He answered that He was doing that so that good people should be born on the earth. He did not mention the birth of bad people lest the angels should withhold their permission for the creation of man.

40. O Children of Israel, ^{*56} remember My favor which I bestowed upon you, and fulfill My covenant (with you), I shall fulfill (My obligations to) your covenant. And fear Me.

يَبْنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ أَذْكُرُوا نِعْمَتِي
الَّتِي أَنْعَمْتُ عَلَيْكُمْ وَأَوْفُوا
بِعَهْدِي أَوْفِ بِعَهْدِكُمْ وَإِيَّايَ
فَارْهَبُونِ

*56 Israel means the servant of Allah. This was the title that Allah had bestowed upon Jacob, who was a son of Isaac, and a grandson of Abraham (peace be upon them all). His descendents are called children of Israel. Up to verse 39, it was an introductory discourse meant for all mankind. From verse 40 to verse 121 is a new discourse in which the children of Israel have been especially and particularly addressed. In some places it has also been directed towards the Christians and the mushriks of Arabia and in between towards the people who believed in the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him). In order to understand the full significance of this address, the following should be kept in view. First, it aims to appeal to those few followers of the former prophets, who were still capable of reforming themselves to believe in the truth which the Prophet (peace be upon him) had brought and to cooperate with the mission which he had been appointed to perform. They are, therefore, told that the message of the Quran is the same as of the Scriptures of the former Prophets, and the mission of the Prophet (peace be upon him) also was the same as theirs. It means to say: First this mission was entrusted to you so that you may put the Message into practice and then invite the world to accept it. But, not to speak of carrying out the mission, you discarded the guidance and went on degenerating. The past history of your community and its present moral and religious degeneration are a standing witness against you. Now Allah has sent another servant of His with the same Message and mission and there is nothing new or strange in this for you. You should not, therefore, oppose the truth knowingly. The best thing for you is to accept it and cooperate with those who are doing the same work that was once entrusted to you. Secondly, it aims to argue the Jews out of their wrong position and to expose their moral and religious degeneration thoroughly. Therefore, it proves conclusively that their attitude towards Islam was absolutely wrong; for they were opposing it, whereas they knew that its fundamentals were exactly the same as of their religion and that there was nothing in the teachings of the Quran that was different from or opposed to the teachings of the Torah in principle. It also shows that they had utterly failed to follow the guidance which was given to them and fulfill the obligations of the leadership entrusted to them. As a proof thereof, such incidents have been cited as they could not deny. Moreover, this address unraveled the plots they were hatching, the doubts they were arousing, the crooked arguments they were advancing and the evil machinations they were contriving to defeat the mission of the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him), though they knew it to be from Allah. This also exposed their piety, for it lacked sincerity and righteousness and was motivated by obduracy, prejudice and self-worship. It also proved beyond any shadow of doubt that they did not really want virtue to thrive. This produced the desired effect: it opened the eyes of the righteous element among the Jews and put an end to the spiritual and moral superiority they enjoyed against the common and polytheistic Arabs of Al-Madinah. Besides, when they themselves were once exposed, they were so dismayed that they dared not oppose Islam openly with the courage of conviction. Thirdly, in the preceding verses, mankind had been invited to accept the guidance of Allah. Now the example of the Israelites is being cited to show the consequences of discarding that guidance. The reason why the Israelites have been held out as an example is that they are the only community whose history during the last four thousand years has been a living object lesson for all the nations of the world. In its history one can see all the ups and downs which result from following the divine guidance or from discarding it. Fourthly, though the appeal is addressed to the Jews, it is also meant to forewarn the Muslims against the pitfalls of degeneration into which the followers of the former Prophets had fallen. That is why, on the one hand, the moral weaknesses of the Jews, their wrong notions about religion, their wrong ways of thinking and living, have been pointed out, one by one. While, on the other, the demands of the true faith have been stated so that the Muslims are able to see the right way clearly and avoid wrong ways. The Prophet (peace be upon him) knew by divine inspiration that, by and by, the Muslims also would follow the same ways that had been pointed out in this discourse. Therefore, according to a tradition, he forewarned that they would discard the guidance and follow, step by step, the communities of the former prophets, that is, the Jews and the Christians, in their wrong ways. It is a pity that they have not paid any heed to this warning and adopted the same ways of degeneration.

41. And believe in that which I have sent down, confirming that which is with you, and do not be the first to disbelieve in it, and do not trade my verses for a small price,^{*57} and fear Me.

وَأَمِنُوا بِمَا أَنْزَلْتُ مُصَدِّقًا لِمَا
مَعَكُمْ وَلَا تَكُونُوا أُولَٰ كَافِرِينَ
وَلَا تَشْتَرُوا بِعَايَتِي ثَمَنًا قَلِيلًا
وَإِيَّايَ فَاتَّقُونِ

*57 “Small price”: worldly gains for the sake of which these people discarded the commandments and precepts of Allah. As a matter of fact, even the whole wealth of the world put together is worthless, if it is gained in exchange for Allah's guidance.

42. And do not cover the truth with falsehood, nor conceal the truth while you know (it).

وَلَا تَلْبِسُوا الْحَقَّ بِالْبَاطِلِ
وَتَكْتُمُوا الْحَقَّ وَأَنْتُمْ تَعْمُونَ

43. And establish the prayer,^{*58} and give the poor due,^{*59} and bow with those who bow down (in worship).

وَأَقِيمُوا الصَّلَاةَ وَآتُوا الزَّكَاةَ
وَارْكَعُوا مَعَ الرَّاكِعِينَ

*58 In order to understand this verse, it should be kept in mind that the Arabs were generally illiterate and uneducated people. As against them, education was common among the Jews, who had among them great scholars renowned even beyond Arabia. That is why the Arabs were overawed by the scholarship of the Jews, more so because their scholars and rabbis made a great show of their learning and piety and reinforced it with the practice of charms and amulets. The people of Al-Madinah in particular were overawed by the learning of the Jews, for they were surrounded by big Jewish tribes and came in contact with them day and night. As a result, they were immensely influenced by them just as illiterate people usually are influenced by the neighbors who are more educated, more civilized and more religious in character. Such were the conditions when the Prophet (peace be upon him) presented himself as a Prophet and began to invite the people to Islam; naturally the illiterate Arabs turned to the Jews for guidance in this matter, and said: “You are the followers of a Prophet and possess a Book, so tell us what you think of this man and his teachings, who claims to be a Prophet.” This question was repeatedly asked of the Jews by the people of Makkah, and when the Prophet (peace be upon him) came to Al-Madinah, here also many people visited the Jewish scholars again and again to ask them the same question. But their scholars never gave them the right answer. For they could not say that the doctrine of tauhid that Muhammad (peace be upon him) was preaching was wrong, nor that the knowledge which he imparted about the prophets, scriptures, angels, and the Hereafter was wrong, nor that there was something wrong about the moral principles that he taught. They were neither ready to admit in plain words the righteousness of the teachings of the Prophet (peace be upon him); nor had they the courage to refute it openly; nor were they willing to profess the truth candidly. Instead, they devised a subtle strategy to oppose it: they created one suspicion or the other about the Prophet (peace be upon him), his followers and his mission; they would concoct allegations against him and his followers and make false propaganda against them or raise frivolous objections so as to involve them in useless discussions. That is why they have been warned not to conceal the truth by covering it with falsehood, nor suppress it by spreading suspicions and by raising silly objections, nor mix it up with falsehood.

59 The Salat and the Zakat have always formed the essential elements of the revealed religion (Islam). Like all other Prophets, the Israelite Prophets also had strictly enjoined these, but by and by the Jews became wholly neglectful of them. They gave up the performance of Salat in congregation and the majority of the people did not even offer it individually. Instead of paying Zakat, they started charging interest on money.

44. Do you enjoin the righteousness upon mankind and you forget yourselves, while you recite the Scripture. Will you then not understand.

﴿ أَتَأْمُرُونَ النَّاسَ بِالْبِرِّ وَتَنْسَوْنَ أَنْفُسَكُمْ وَأَنْتُمْ تَتْلُونَ الْكِتَابَ أَفَلَا تَعْقِلُونَ ﴾

45. And seek help through patience and prayer.*60 And truly, it is hard except for those who humbly submit (to Allah).*61

﴿ وَأَسْتَعِينُوا بِالصَّبْرِ وَالصَّلَاةِ وَإِنَّهَا لَكَبِيرَةٌ إِلَّا عَلَى الْخَاشِعِينَ ﴾

*60 That is, “If you face some difficulties in following the righteous way, sabr and Salat will help remove the difficulties and strengthen you to walk the way easily.” Lexically, sabr means to check and tie, but in usage it stands for patience, perseverance, endurance and fortitude. The Quran uses this word to express that fortitude, that moral strength, that firmness of purpose and decision, that determination, moral discipline and self-control which enable a person to proceed with patience and courage in the face of afflictions, privations and temptations on the way he chooses in accordance with the dictates of his conscience. What the Quran means to stress is that the Muslims should develop this moral quality in themselves and should observe the Salat regularly to reinforce it from without.

*61 Salat is a hard task, only for the one who is disobedient to Allah and does not believe in the Hereafter. But it is a joyful duty for the one who is willingly and happily obedient to Allah and who believes that one day he will meet Him. It is expected that this will lead him on the paths of virtue and piety.

46. Those who are certain that they will meet their Lord, and that to Him they will return.

الَّذِينَ يَظُنُّونَ أَنَّهُمْ مُلَاقُوا رَبِّهِمْ
وَأَنَّهُمْ إِلَىٰ رَبِّهِمْ رَاجِعُونَ ﴿٤٦﴾

47. O Children of Israel, remember My favor which I bestowed upon you, and that I preferred you over the worlds (people).^{*62}

يَبْنَىٰ إِسْرَائِيلَ أَذْكُرُوا نِعْمَتِي
الَّتِي أَنْعَمْتُ عَلَيْكُمْ وَأَنِّي
فَضَّلْتُكُمْ عَلَىٰ الْعَالَمِينَ ﴿٤٧﴾

*62 It refers to the period when the Israelites were the only people in the world who possessed the knowledge of the truth from Allah and were, therefore, made leaders of the people of the world and were required to invite all other nations to His submission and to guide them on the right way.

48. And fear a Day (when) a soul will not avail to (another) soul at وَاتَّقُوا يَوْمًا لَّا تَجْزِي نَفْسٌ عَنْ

نَفْسٍ شَيْئًا وَلَا يُقْبَلُ مِنْهَا

all, nor will intercession be accepted from it, nor will compensation be taken from it, nor will they be helped.*63

شَفَعَةٌ وَلَا يُؤْخَذُ مِنْهَا عَدْلٌ
وَلَا هُمْ يُنصَرُونَ

*63 In this verse the Israelites have been warned to guard against their wrong notion about the Hereafter, for this was the main cause of their degeneration. They were under the delusion that they would win salvation just because they were the descendants of great Prophets and had relations with great saints and pious and righteous people. That is why they neglected the religion and involved themselves in sin. Here they are being disillusioned and warned that they will not escape the consequences of their evil deeds by virtue of their relation with some holy person or his intercession in their behalf. That is why immediately after reminding them of the favor (Ayat 47) they have been warned that they shall be punished like the guilty people who lived in this world without belief in the Hereafter.

49. And when*64 We saved you from Pharaoh's people,*65 who were afflicting you with dreadful torment, slaughtering your sons, and keeping your women alive. And in that was a great trial from your Lord.*66

وَإِذْ نَجَّيْنَاكُمْ مِنْ آلِ فِرْعَوْنَ
يَسُومُونَكُمْ سُوءَ الْعَذَابِ
يُذَبِّحُونَ أَبْنَاءَكُمْ وَيَسْتَحْيُونَ
نِسَاءَكُمْ ۚ وَفِي ذَٰلِكُمْ بَلَاءٌ مِّنْ
رَّبِّكُمْ عَظِيمٌ

*64 The events recalled here were well known to all and sundry among the Jews. Therefore, only brief references have been made to these historical events to show that they had remained ungrateful and had persisted in evil deeds in spite of the continuous favors showered upon them by Allah.

*65 “Aal-i-Firaun” includes both the people of Pharaoh's own family and the people belonging to the ruling class of Egypt.

*66 It was a trial of their character. They were made to pass through the fire of the test to see whether they were pure gold or a base metal. Moreover, they were put to the test to see whether they would be grateful to Allah after their miraculous escape.

50. And when We parted the sea for you, then We saved you and drowned the people of Pharaoh while you were looking on.

وَإِذْ فَرَقْنَا بِكُمْ الْبَحْرَ
فَأَنْجَيْنَاكُمْ وَأَغْرَقْنَا
فِرْعَوْنَ وَأَنْتُمْ تَنْظُرُونَ

51. And when We did appoint for Moses forty nights.^{*67} Then you took the calf in his absence,^{*68} and you were wrong doers.

وَإِذْ وَعَدْنَا مُوسَىٰ أَرْبَعِينَ لَيْلَةً
ثُمَّ اتَّخَذْتُمُ الْعِجْلَ مِنْ بَعْدِهِ
وَأَنْتُمْ ظَالِمُونَ

*67 When after their escape from Egypt the Israelites entered the Sinai Peninsula, Allah invited the Prophet Moses to Mount Tur for forty days and forty nights to give him laws, instructions and commands for the guidance of the people who had recently been liberated from slavery.

(For details, see Exodus, 24-31). It should, however, be noted that the Tur, referred to here, is not the modern port of Tur on the eastern shore of the Gulf of Suez.

68 Cow-worship was very common in Canan, Egypt and the neighboring countries. When the Israelites degenerated and became slaves of the Copts after the death of the Prophet Joseph (peace be upon him), they learned this evil practice from their rulers along with other evils.

52. Then We forgave you, even after that, so that you might be grateful.

ثُمَّ عَفَوْنَا عَنْكُمْ مِّنْ بَعْدِ ذَلِكَ
لَعَلَّكُمْ تَشْكُرُونَ ﴿٥٢﴾

53. And when We gave Moses the Scripture, and the criterion^{*69} that you might be guided.

وَإِذْ ءَاتَيْنَا مُوسَى الْكِتَابَ
وَالْفُرْقَانَ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَهْتَدُونَ ﴿٥٣﴾

69 Furqan: A criterion for distinguishing truth from falsehood. Here it stands for the knowledge and understanding of religion which enables a person to discern between right and wrong, truth and falsehood.

54. And when Moses said to his people: “O my people, indeed, you have wronged yourselves by your taking the calf (for worship), so turn in repentance to your Creator, and kill (the guilty among) yourselves.^{*70} That will be better for you with your وَإِذْ قَالَ مُوسَى لِقَوْمِهِ يٰقَوْمِ

عَلَيْكُمْ إِنَّهُ هُوَ التَّوَّابُ

70 That is, those who made the calf a deity and worshipped it.

55. And when you said: “O Moses, we will never believe you until we see Allah plainly.” So the thunderbolt seized you while you were looking on.

وَإِذْ قُلْتُمْ يَمُوسَىٰ لَنْ نُؤْمِنَ لَكَ
حَتَّىٰ نَرَىٰ اللَّهَ جَهْرَةً فَأَخَذَتْكُمُ
الصَّاعِقَةُ وَأَنْتُمْ تَنْظُرُونَ

56. Then We raised you up after your death, so that you might be grateful. ^{*71}

ثُمَّ بَعَثْنَاكُم مِّنْ بَعْدِ مَوْتِكُمْ
لَعَلَّكُمْ تَشْكُرُونَ

71 When Moses went up to Mount Tur for forty days and forty nights, he was also told to bring with him seventy of the chiefs of Israel. Then Allah bestowed upon him the Book and criterion and gave him the stone tablets with instructions and commandments inscribed on them for the guidance of the people, and he presented these to the chiefs. The Quran says that at that time some wicked people from among them began to say: “How can we believe, on a mere statement of yours, that Allah has had a talk with you?” At this Allah became angry with them and punished them. But the Bible says, “And they saw the God of Israel: and there was under his feet as it were a paved work of sapphire stone, and as it were the body of heaven in his clearness.

And upon the nobles of the children of Israel he laid not his hand: also they saw God, and did eat and drink”. (Exodus, 24: 10-11). Strange though it may appear, the same Bible also tells us that Moses said, “I beseech thee, shew me thy glory. And He said, “Thou canst not see my face, for there shall no man see me, and live.”

57. And We caused the clouds to overshadow you, and We sent down on you^{*72} the manna and the quails,^{*73} (saying): “Eat of the good things with which We have provided you.” And they wronged Us not, but they did wrong to themselves.

وَضَلَّلْنَا عَلَيْكُمُ الْغَمَامَ وَأَنْزَلْنَا
عَلَيْكُمُ الْمَنَّاءَ وَالسَّلْوَىٰ كُلُوا مِنْ
طَيِّبَاتِ مَا رَزَقْنَاكُمْ وَمَا ظَلَمُونَا
وَلَكِنْ كَانُوا أَنْفُسَهُمْ يَظْلِمُونَ

*72 That is, We sheltered you with clouds when you entered the Sinai Peninsula and had no place of shelter from the heat of the sun. One should remember that the Israelites had emigrated in large numbers from Egypt and had no place in the Sinai Peninsula to hide their heads, not to speak of houses and tents. Had Allah not kept the sky cloudy for a long time, they would have perished by the scorching heat of the desert sun.

*73 Manna and salva were the natural relief provisions supplied by Allah to feed the Israelites in the wilderness. Manna fell on the ground like dew-drops and salva flew in thousands like quails. There was such a plenty of these provisions that a whole nation lived on them for forty years and was never confronted with starvation or famine. In modern times even a well developed and resourceful country finds it extremely difficult to make adequate food arrangements for a few hundred thousand emigrants if they happen to enter it suddenly and unexpectedly.

58. And when We said: “Enter into this township,^{*74} then eat therein wherever you will to your heart’s content, and enter the gate in prostration, and say: ‘Forgive us,’^{*75} We will forgive you your sins, and We will increase for those who do good.”

وَإِذْ قُلْنَا أَدْخُلُوا هَذِهِ الْقَرْيَةَ
فَكُلُوا مِنْهَا حَيْثُ شِئْتُمْ رَغَدًا
وَأَدْخُلُوا الْبَابَ سُجَّدًا وَقُولُوا
حِطَّةً نَغْفِرْ لَكُمْ خَطِيئَتَكُمْ
وَسَنَزِيدُ الْمُحْسِنِينَ

74 The identity of the town has not so far been determined. As this incident took place when the Israelites were still wandering in the Sinai Peninsula, most probably it was situated somewhere there. But it is also possible that it might have been Shittim which was situated on the eastern bank of the Jordan, opposite to Jericho. According to the Bible, the Israelites conquered this city during the last years of Moses and committed debaucheries. Consequently, Allah inflicted a terrible punishment on them in the form of an epidemic which killed twenty-four thousand of them.

75 They were told not to enter the town like cruel and ruthless tyrants but to go in meekly and with humility like God-fearing people, just as the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) did at the conquest of Makkah. Hittatun can have two meanings: You should enter the town:

- (1) Begging Allah's forgiveness for sins, and;
- (2) Granting general amnesty and refraining from plundering and murdering the inhabitants.

So call upon your Lord for us, that He bring forth for us of that which the earth grows, of its herbs, and its cucumbers, and its corn, and its lentils, and its onions.” He said: “Would you exchange that which is lower for that which is better.*77 Go down to a settled country, then indeed, you will have that which you have asked for.” And humiliation was covered on them, and misery, and they drew on themselves the wrath from Allah. That was because they used to disbelieve in the signs of Allah,*78 and killed the prophets without right.*79 That was because they disobeyed and used to transgress the bounds (of Allah).

78 They rejected the revelations in different ways: (a) They refused to accept anything as revealed, if it went against their own ideas or desires; (b) they brazen-facedly violated the clear injunctions of Allah, knowing fully that they were discarding His commandments; and (c) they distorted and twisted the meaning of revelations in order to suit their desires and lusts.

79 The history of the Israelites abounds in instances of the persecution of their own Prophets. We cite here a few from the Bible:

(1) After the death of the Prophet Solomon, the kingdom of the Israelites was split into two states: the kingdom of Judah with its capital at Jerusalem; and the kingdom of Israel with its capital at Samaria. As the two were often at war with each other, the things came to such a pass that the kingdom of Judah asked for help from the Aramaic kingdom of Damascus against their own brethren. At this the Prophet Hanani by God’s command severely rebuked Asa king of Judah for relying on the king of Syria instead of relying on “the Eternal your God.” But Asa instead of heeding the warning sent the Prophet of God to the prison house. (2 Chronicles, 16: 1-10).

(2) When the Prophet Elijah rebuked the Israelites for serving and worshipping Baal, and asked them to serve and worship One God alone, they became his mortal enemies. King Ahab of Samaria threatened to kill him because his idolatrous wife incited him against the Prophet Elijah. In terror he ran for his life to the mountains in the Sinai Peninsula. During the period of affliction, he said, "I have been very jealous for the Lord God of hosts: for the children of Israel have forsaken thy covenant, thrown down thy altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword; and I, even 1 only, am left; and they seek my life, to take it away". (1 Kings, 19: 1-10).

(3) King Ahab sent another Prophet, Micaiah, to prison for speaking out the truth. "And the king of Israel said, take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon, the governor of the city, and to Joash the king's son; and say, "Thus saith the king, put this fellow in the prison, and feed him with bread of affliction and with water of affliction, until I come in peace." (1 Kings, 22: 26-27).

(4) When the people of Judah began to worship idols openly and to do what was evil in the sight of Allah, the Prophet Zecharia raised his voice against these evils, saying: "Why transgress ye the commandments of the Lord, that ye cannot prosper because ye have forsaken the Lord, he hath also forsaken you. And they conspired against him, and stoned him at the commandment of the king in the court of the house of the Lord." (2 Chronicles, 24: 20-21).

(5) When the Israelite state of Samaria was destroyed by the Assyrians, and the Jewish state at Jerusalem was threatened with imminent danger, the Prophet Jeremiah began to bewail and warn his people of their degeneration and its evil consequences. He lamented and cried, "Mend your ways otherwise you will meet with a far worse doom than Samaria." In answer to this the Jews cursed him, beat him and imprisoned him. They accused him of treachery against the nation and shouted, "You are deserting to the Chaldeans." He was arrested and flogged and confined in the dungeon cells. Then they put him into an underground cistern, lowering him down with ropes so that he should sink in the mud and die on the spot from starvation. (Jeremiah, 15: 10, 18: 20-23; 20:1-18 and Chapters 36 to 40).

(6) About the Prophet Amos, it is written that when he rebuked the Israelite state of Samaria for its evil and immoral doings and warned them of their evil acts, "These are the people who have preferred the worldly life to the life in the Hereafter. Therefore their torment shall not be lightened, nor shall help be given to them (from any quarter)." He was served with the notice: "O thou seer, go, flee thee away into the land of Judah and prophesy there." (Amos, 7: 10-13).

(7) When John the Baptist raised his voice against the immoralities which were being openly practiced in the court of Herod, king of Judah, he was arrested and bound in prison. Then at the request of Herodias, his wife, who had a grudge against him, he sent one of the guards to bring his head. The man went and beheaded him in the prison and brought his head on a dish to be presented to her. Thus, the Prophet of God was killed without any cause. (ark, 6: 17-29).

(8) The last victim of the evil designs of the high priests and the elders of the Jews was Jesus Christ, who took them to task for their sins and hypocrisies and advised them to lead a righteous life. For this crime of his, they plotted against him: bought Judas, one of his twelve disciples, and sent a large mob with swords and cudgels to seize him and take him away to the house of the high priest. After binding him, they led him off, and handed him over to Pontius Pilate, the Roman Governor. They tried to procure false evidence against him in order to have him put to death. They had become so hard-hearted that they asked Pilate to release Barabbas, a murderer, as a boon at the festival but to “crucify him”. In this verse, the Quran briefly refers to this most shameful chapter of the history of the Israelites and declares that they fully deserved the curses and condemnation of Allah. They chose their worst offenders against law and morality and made them their chiefs and leaders, and sent their most pious and righteous men to the gallows.

62. Certainly, those who believe (in the Quran), and those who are Jews, and Christians, and Sabaeans, whoever believed in Allah and the Last Day and did

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَالَّذِينَ
هَادُوا وَالنَّصْرَى وَالصَّبِئِينَ
مَنْ ءَامَنَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ righteous deeds, shall then have their reward with their Lord, and there shall be no fear upon them, nor shall they grieve.*80

وَعَمِلَ صَالِحًا فَلَهُمْ أَجْرُهُمْ
عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ وَلَا خَوْفٌ عَلَيْهِمْ وَلَا
هُمْ يَحْزَنُونَ

*80 The context in which this verse occurs shows that the Quran is not laying down here the details of the creed and righteous deeds, which one should believe and practice in order to earn salvation. These things have been described in their proper places. Here, the object is to refute the self-delusion of the Jews that salvation was their sole monopoly. They were suffering from the delusion that they had some special relationship with God; therefore whoever belonged to their race, would go straight to Heaven, irrespective of his creed and deeds, and all other people were born to become fuel of Hell. To remove this misunderstanding of theirs Allah declares that salvation does not depend upon one's connection with any group but on one's right beliefs and good deeds. Whoever goes before Allah with these provisions will find his reward with Him, for Allah's judgment will be based on one's real worth and not on the census registers.

63. And when We took your covenant and We raised above you the Mount,*81 (saying): "Hold that which We have given to you firmly, and remember that which is وَإِذْ أَخَذْنَا مِيثَاقَكُمْ وَرَفَعْنَا

فَوْقَكُمْ الطُّورَ خُذُوا مَا
ءَاتَيْنَاكُمْ بِقُوَّةٍ وَاذْكُرُوا مَا فِيهِ therein, so that you may become righteous.”

لَعَلَّكُمْ تَتَّقُونَ

*81 The way this incident has been described at different places in the Quran, shows that it was at that time a well known incident among the Israelites, but now it is difficult to understand and know what actually happened. One may, however, understand that at the time of making the covenant at the foot of the mountain a dreadful situation was created and it so appeared that the mountain was going to fall upon them. A similar scene has been depicted in Surah Al-Aaraf: Ayat 171. (See E.N. 132 of Al-Aaraf). Although its description in the Bible is a little different from that of the Talmud, it depicts the scene very vividly: “And mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke, because the Lord descended upon it in fire: and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly.” (Exodus, 19: 18). “And all the people saw the thundering, and the lightning, and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking: and when the people saw it, they removed, and stood afar off. And they said unto Moses, speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God speak with us, lest we die.” (Exodus, 20 :18-19).

64. Then you turned away after that. So if it had not been for the grace of Allah upon you and His mercy, you would have been among the losers.

ثُمَّ تَوَلَّيْتُمْ مِنْ بَعْدِ ذَلِكَ
فَلَوْلَا فَضْلُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ
وَرَحْمَتُهُ لَكُنْتُمْ مِنَ الْخَاسِرِينَ

65. And indeed, you knew those who transgressed in the Sabbath amongst you.^{*82} So We said to them: “Be you apes,^{*83} despised.”

وَلَقَدْ عَلِمْتُمُ الَّذِينَ اعْتَدَوْا مِنْكُمْ فِي السَّبْتِ فَقُلْنَا لَهُمْ كُونُوا قِرَدَةً خَاسِئِينَ

82 Sabbath: Saturday. The Israelites were enjoined to keep the Sabbath as “a sign between me and you throughout your generations” for a perpetual covenant. “Six days thy work be done; but in the seventh is the Sabbath of rest, holy to the Lord: whosoever doth any work in the Sabbath day, he shall surely be put to death.” (Exodus, 31: 12-17). But when the Israelites became corrupt morally and religiously, they began to desecrate it openly and began to do business without hesitation on the Sabbath.

83 This incident has been described in detail in Al-Aaraf. There is a difference of opinion as to what actually happened. Some are of the opinion that they were physically transformed into apes, while others hold the view that from that time onward they began to behave like apes. The words of the Quran, however, indicate that it was not a moral but a physical metamorphosis. In my opinion their bodies were transformed into those of apes, but their human minds were left intact in order to subject them to extreme torture.

66. Then We made this an example for those who were present, and those who succeeded them, and an admonition for the righteous.

67. And when Moses said to his people: “Indeed, Allah commands you that you slaughter a cow. They said: “Do you take us in ridicule.” He said: “I seek refuge in Allah, that I should be among the ignorant.”

وَإِذْ قَالَ مُوسَىٰ لِقَوْمِهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ يَأْمُرُكُمْ أَنْ تَذْبَحُوا بَقْرَةً قَالُوا أَتَتَّخِذُنَا هُزُؤًا قَالَ أَعُوذُ بِاللَّهِ أَنْ أَكُونَ مِنَ الْجَاهِلِينَ

68. They said: “Call upon your Lord for us that He may make clear to us what (cow) it is.” He (Moses) said: “Verily, He (Allah) says, it is a cow neither old nor virgin, (but) median between that. So do what you are commanded.”

قَالُوا ادْعُ لَنَا رَبَّكَ يُبَيِّنْ لَنَا مَا هِيَ قَالَ إِنَّهُ يَقُولُ إِنَّهَا بَقْرَةٌ لَّا فَارِضٌ وَلَا بَكْرٌ عَوَانٌ بَيْنَ ذَلِكَ فَافْعَلُوا مَا تُؤْمَرُونَ

69. They said: “Call upon your Lord for us that He may make clear to us what its color is.” He (Moses) said: “Verily, He (Allah) says, it is a yellow cow, bright in its color, pleasing to the beholders.”

قَالُوا ادْعُ لَنَا رَبَّكَ يُبَيِّنْ لَنَا مَا لَوْنُهَا قَالَ إِنَّهُ يَقُولُ إِنَّهَا بَقْرَةٌ صَفْرَاءٌ فَاقْعُ لَوْنَهَا تَسْرُّ النَّظِيرِينَ

70. They said: “Call upon your Lord for us that He may make clear to us what (cow) it is. In fact, cows are much alike to us. And surely, if Allah wills, we will be guided.”

قَالُوا ادْعُ لَنَا رَبَّكَ يُبَيِّنْ لَنَا مَا هِيَ إِنَّ الْبَقَرَ تَشَبَهَ عَلَيْنَا وَإِنَّا إِن شَاءَ اللَّهُ لَمُهْتَدُونَ ﴿٧٠﴾

71. He (Moses) said: “Verily, He (Allah) says, it is a cow, neither yoked to plow the land, nor to irrigate the crops. Whole, without blemish on it.”

قَالَ إِنَّهُ يَقُولُ إِنَّهَا بَقْرَةٌ لَّا ذَلُولٌ تُثِيرُ الْأَرْضَ وَلَا تَسْقِي الْحَرْثَ مُسَلَّمَةٌ لَّا شِيَةَ فِيهَا ۚ قَالُوا أَلَّعَنَّ جِئْتَ بِالْحَقِّ ۚ فذَنبُوهَا وَمَا كَادُوا يَفْعَلُونَ ﴿٧١﴾

They said: “Now you have come with the truth.”

So they slaughtered it, though they almost did not do (it).^{*84}

84 The Israelites were commanded to sacrifice a cow in order to rid them of the sanctity and worship of cow which they had adopted from the pagan nations around them. It was a test of their faith: if they really believed in Allah as their only Deity and did not make anyone or anything else the object of their worship, they should break the idol of their former worship with their own hands. But this proved to be a very hard test. They tried to evade and avoid the sacrifice because their belief in One God had not become firm as yet. They went on asking one detail after the other in order to put it off, but the more questions they asked the more they were driven into a tight corner. So much so that at last they were specifically told to sacrifice that very golden colored cow, which was being specially chosen for worship at that time. The Bible also mentions this incident, but does not tell how the Israelites tried to put it off by asking a number of unnecessary questions.

72. And when you killed a man, then disputed over it. And Allah was (bound) to bring forth that which you were hiding.

وَإِذْ قَتَلْتُمْ نَفْسًا فَادَّارَأْتُمْ فِيهَا
وَاللَّهُ مَخْرُجٌ مَّا كُنْتُمْ تَكْتُمُونَ

73. So We said: “Strike him (the slain man) with a part of it (the cow).” Thus Allah brings to life the dead, and He shows you His signs so that you may understand.*85

فَقُلْنَا أَضْرِبُوهُ بِبَعْضِهَا كَذَلِكَ
يُحْيِي اللَّهُ الْمَوْتَى وَيُرِيكُمْ
آيَاتِهِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَعْقِلُونَ

85 The wording of the Quran clearly shows that the murdered man came to life for a little while and told the name of his murderer. However, there is some ambiguity concerning the method applied for discovering the murderer, that is, the striking of the dead body of the murdered man with a piece of the sacrificed cow. A method similar to this described in Deut. 21: 1-9, confirms the interpretation put forward by the ancient scholars, that is, the dead body was struck with a piece of the flesh of the sacrificed cow and it came to life. In this way, a sign of Allah was shown and at the same time it was demonstrated that the object of their worship was so powerless that its slaughter did not cause any harm. On the contrary, its slaughter proved useful.

74. Then after that your hearts became hardened, so they being like rocks, or even worse in hardness. And indeed, of the rocks are that, out of which rivers gush forth. And indeed, of them (rocks) are that, which split open so the water comes out from them. And indeed, of them (rocks) are that, which fall down for fear of Allah. And Allah is not unaware of what you do.

ثُمَّ قَسَتْ قُلُوبُكُمْ مِنْ بَعْدِ

اللَّهِ وَمَا اللَّهُ بِغَافِلٍ عَمَّا

75. Do you have any hope that they would believe^{*86} in you, and indeed there was a faction among them who used to listen to the word of Allah (Torah), then they used to change it, even after what they had understood it, while they were knowing.^{*87}

أَفَتَطْمَعُونَ أَنْ يُؤْمِنُوا لَكُمْ

كَلِمَ اللَّهِ ثُمَّ تَحَرَّفُونَهُ مِنْ
بَعْدِ مَا عَقَلُوهُ وَهُمْ يَعْلَمُونَ

86 Here the addressees are the new converts of Al-Madinah, who had embraced Islam only recently. They had become interested in the Prophet (peace be upon him) because they had often heard from the neighboring Jews about prophethood, revelation, angels, divine law etc. They had also heard from them that they were expecting a new Prophet whose followers would prevail over the whole world. That is why the people of Al-Madinah turned to the Prophet (peace be upon him) when they heard of him and entered into the fold of Islam in large numbers. Naturally, they expected that the Jews, who possessed revealed Scriptures and who themselves had foretold the coming of a Prophet, would be the first to welcome Muhammad (peace be upon him) as a Prophet and would be in the forefront of his supporters. When, contrary to their expectations, the Jews did not come forward, the new Muslims themselves went to them and invited them to accept Islam, but they failed to persuade them. The hypocrites and the opponents of Islam used this rejection as an argument against Islam itself. They argued like this: there must be something suspicious about it: had Muhammad (peace be upon him) really been a Prophet, these pious and learned followers of the earlier Scriptures, would not have rejected him knowingly, and ruined their Hereafter. In order to counteract the mischief caused by this fallacy, the past history of the Jews has been related to show that nothing better could be expected of them. This also cautioned the simple Muslims against cherishing any hope that the Jews of their city would in a body welcome Muhammad (peace be upon him) as the Prophet about whom prophecies have been made in their own Books. They have been warned that they should not entertain such expectations from the people whose history has been so and so. This was necessary because they were liable to become disheartened because of the rejection of Islam by them. As to the Jews, they had become so degenerate and hard hearted that they were not moved even by those verses which melted the hearts of the pagans who formerly used to kill their own daughters. Not only this, these hard hearted Jews made fun of those very verses also. Therefore, the zealous Muslims were warned that they should understand the real condition of the Jews, who had corrupted the truth to suit their own desires and then had the audacity to have their hopes centered on the religion which they had themselves perverted. It was wrong to entertain any vain hopes that such people would accept the truth as soon as it was presented before them.

87 “Faction among them”: their rabbis and jurists. “Word of Allah”: the Torah, Psalms and other Books which they had received through their Prophets. The Jewish scholars not only twisted, distorted and misinterpreted the revealed Scriptures, and read into them the meaning they wanted to read, but they also tampered with the actual words of the text.

76. And when they (Jews) meet with those who believe, they say: “We believed.” And when they are alone, with one another, they say: “Do

وَإِذَا لَقُوا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا قَالُوا
ءَامِنًا وَإِذَا خَلَا بِبَعْضِهِمْ إِلَى
بَعْضٍ قَالُوا أَتُحَدِّثُونَهُمْ بِمَا فَتَحَ

you tell them of what Allah has disclosed to you, that they (Muslims) may argue with you about it before your Lord.*88 Have you then no understanding.”

اللَّهُ عَلَيكُمْ لِيَحْجُبُوا بِهِ
عِنْدَ رَبِّكُمْ أَفَلَا تَعْقِلُونَ ﴿٧٦﴾

*88 When they met secretly, they warned each other not to disclose to the Muslims those passages of the Torah and other Scriptures which contained prophecies about the Prophet (peace be upon him). They also warned each other not to inform the Muslims about those verses and teachings of their holy Books which, they feared, would expose to objection their own present condition and attitude for they were afraid that the Muslims would present these as arguments against them on the Day of Judgment. This is an instance of the kind of belief they held about Allah's knowledge. They were under the delusion that if they succeeded in hiding the truth and their corruption of the Scriptures in this world, there would be no possibility of bringing a case against them in the next world. That is why in the parenthetical clause that follows they have been asked whether they really believed Allah to be unaware of the affairs of the people.

77. Do they not know that Allah knows that which they conceal, and that which they proclaim.

أَوَلَا يَعْلَمُونَ أَنَّ اللَّهَ يَعْلَمُ مَا
يُسْرُونَ وَمَا يُعْلِنُونَ ﴿٧٧﴾

78. And among them are illiterates, who do not know

وَمِنْهُمْ أُمِّيُونَ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ

the Scripture, except wishful thinking. And they do nothing but conjecture.*89

الْكِتَابَ إِلَّا أَمَانِيَّ وَإِنْ هُمْ إِلَّا
يُظُنُّونَ

*89 This refers to the common people of the Jews, who were totally ignorant of the teachings of their own Scriptures. They had neither any knowledge of the fundamentals of religion, nor of the regulations concerning morality and rules of everyday life, nor of the principles leading to ultimate success or failure. And the pity is that they had formed their own notions about religion without this knowledge and were living on false hopes.

79. Then woe be to those who write the Scripture with their own hands, then they say, "This is from Allah," that they may sell it for a small price.*90 Then woe be to them for that which their hands have written, and woe be to them for that which they earn.

فَوَيْلٌ لِلَّذِينَ يَكْتُبُونَ الْكِتَابَ
بِأَيْدِيهِمْ ثُمَّ يَقُولُونَ هَذَا مِنْ
عِنْدِ اللَّهِ لِيَشْتَرُوا بِهِ ثَمَنًا قَلِيلًا
فَوَيْلٌ لَهُمْ مِمَّا كَتَبَتْ
أَيْدِيهِمْ وَوَيْلٌ لَهُمْ مِمَّا
يَكْسِبُونَ

*90 This refers to what their learned people did. They not only perverted their Scriptures to suit their desires and vanities, but also blended with the text of the Bible their own interpretations, their national history, their superstitions, their self made theories, philosophies and laws. Then they presented all this mixture before the people as if it were actually from God. Every historical fiction, every interpretation, every man made creed, and every bye law that had somehow entered into the Holy Book, became the word of God, and it was absolutely obligatory for every Jew to believe in all these things and, if one did not, he was declared to be a renegade or a heretic.

80. And they say: “Never will the Fire touch us, except for a certain number of days.^{*91} Say (O Muhammad): “Have you taken a covenant with Allah, so that Allah will not break His covenant. Or do you say about Allah that which you do not know.”

وَقَالُوا لَنْ تَمَسَّنَا النَّارُ إِلَّا أَيَّامًا
مَعْدُودَةً قُلْ أَتَّخَذْتُمْ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ
عَهْدًا فَلَنْ يُخْلِفَ اللَّهُ عَهْدَهُ ۗ أَمْ
تَقُولُونَ عَلَى اللَّهِ مَا لَا
تَعْلَمُونَ

91 There was a general belief among the common Jews and their religious leaders that they would not be sent to Hell in spite of their wrong beliefs and evil deeds just because they were Jews. They thought that even if any punishment was imposed on them, it would be for a few days only after which they would be sent to Paradise.

81. Nay, but whoever has earned evil, and his sin has surrounded him. Then such are the companions of the Fire. They will abide therein forever.

أَصْحَابُ النَّارِ ۗ هُمْ فِيهَا
خَالِدُونَ

82. And those who believe and do righteous deeds, such are the companions of the Garden. They will abide therein forever.

وَالَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا
الصَّالِحَاتِ أُولَٰئِكَ أَصْحَابُ
الْجَنَّةِ هُمْ فِيهَا خَالِدُونَ

83. And when We took a covenant from the Children of Israel, (saying): “Do not worship (any) except Allah, and be good to parents, and the kindred, and the orphans, and the needy, and speak good to mankind, and establish prayer, and give the poor due. Then you turned away, except a few among you, while you are backsliders.”

وَإِذْ أَخَذْنَا مِيثَاقَ بَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ
لَا تَعْبُدُونَ إِلَّا اللَّهَ وَبِالْوَالِدَيْنِ

وَالْمَسْكِينِ وَقُولُوا لِلنَّاسِ
حُسْنًا وَأَقِيمُوا الصَّلَاةَ وَآتُوا
الزَّكَاةَ ثُمَّ تَوَلَّيْتُمْ إِلَّا قَلِيلًا
مِّنْكُمْ وَأَنتُمْ مُّعْرِضُونَ

84. And when We took your covenant, (saying): “Do not shed your blood, nor expel yourselves (each other) from your homes.” Then you acknowledged, and you are a witness (to it).

وَإِذْ أَخَذْنَا مِيثَاقَكُمْ لَا
تَسْفِكُونَ دِمَاءَكُمْ وَلَا تُخْرِجُونَ
أَنفُسَكُمْ مِّن دِيَارِكُمْ ثُمَّ أَقْرَرْتُمْ
وَأَنتُمْ تَشْهَدُونَ

85. Then, you are those who kill yourselves (each other), and expel a faction of you (your people) from their homes, supporting (one another) against them by sin and transgression. And if they come to you as captives, you would ransom them, although it was forbidden to you their expulsion. Then do you believe in part of the Scripture, and disbelieve you in part.*92 Then what is the recompense of those who do so among you, except disgrace in the life of the world, and on the Day of Resurrection they will be sent back to the severest of punishment. And Allah is not unaware of what you do.

ثُمَّ أَنْتُمْ هَٰؤُلَاءِ تَقْتُلُونَ
 أَنْفُسَكُمْ وَتُخْرِجُونَ فَرِيقًا مِّنْكُمْ
 مِّن دِيَارِهِمْ تَظَاهَرُونَ عَلَيْهِمْ
 بِالْإِثْمِ وَالْعُدْوَانِ وَإِن يَأْتُوكُمْ
 أُسْرَىٰ تَفْدُوهُمْ وَهُوَ مُحْرَمٌ
 عَلَيْكُمْ إِخْرَاجُهُمْ أَفْئُتُونُونَ
 بِبَعْضِ الْكِتَابِ وَتَكْفُرُونَ
 بِبَعْضِ ۗ فَمَا جَزَاءُ مَن يَفْعَلُ
 ذَٰلِكَ مِنكُمْ إِلَّا خِزْيٌ فِي
 الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا وَيَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ
 يُرَدُّونَ إِلَىٰ أَشَدِّ الْعَذَابِ ۗ وَمَا
 اللَّهُ بِغَافِلٍ عَمَّا تَعْمَلُونَ

*92 As a concrete example of this may be cited the strange conduct of the different clans of the Jews, who lived in the neighborhood of Al-Madinah. Before the migration of the Prophet (peace be upon him), they had entered into alliances with the neighboring Arab clans, Aus and Khazraj. When one Arab clan went to war with the other clan, their respective Jewish allies also went to war against each other. Thus Jews waged war upon Jews, whereas this was clearly against the teachings of their Scriptures which they knowingly violated. But when the Jews of one clan fell into the hands of the other clan as prisoners of war, they would redeem them after taking ransom for them. When they were questioned about this inhuman trade of their own brethren, they tried to justify it, saying that it was allowed by the Scriptures. It is strange that they forgot the same Scriptures which they brazen facedly violated by going to war against each other. Thus on the one hand, they accepted that part of the Scriptures which allowed ransom for prisoners and, on the other hand, rejected that part which prohibited war against their own brethren in faith.

86. Such are those who have bought the life of the world (in exchange) for the Hereafter. So the punishment will not be lightened from them, nor will they be helped.

أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ اشْتَرُوا الْحَيَاةَ
الدُّنْيَا بِالْآخِرَةِ ۗ فَلَا يُخَفَّفُ
عَنَّهُمُ الْعَذَابُ وَلَا هُمْ يُنصَرُونَ

87. And certainly, We gave Moses the Scripture, and followed up with a succession of messengers after him. And We gave Jesus, son of Mary, clear signs, and We supported him with the Holy spirit.^{*93} Is it that, whenever وَلَقَدْ ءَاتَيْنَا مُوسَى الْكِتَابَ

وَقَفَّيْنَا مِنْ بَعْدِهِ بِالرُّسُلِ
وَءَاتَيْنَا عِيسَى ابْنَ مَرْيَمَ الْبَيِّنَاتِ
وَإَيَّدْنَاهُ بِرُوحِ الْقُدُسِ ۗ أَفَكُلَّمَا

there came to you a messenger with that which you yourselves did not desire, you were arrogant. Then a group you disbelieved, and (another) group you killed.

جَاءَكُمْ رَسُولٌ بِمَا لَا تَهْوَى
أَنْفُسُكُمْ أَتَكْبِرْتُمْ فَفَرِيقًا
كَذَّبْتُمْ وَفَرِيقًا تَقْتُلُونَ

93 Ruh-ul-Qudus (Holy Spirit) may refer to revelation or to angel Gabriel who brought it to the Prophets or to the Holy soul of Jesus Christ (peace be upon him) which Allah had created pure. “Clear signs” refer to his miracles and to his wonderful personal qualities and his miraculous birth, which were to every lover of truth a clear proof of the fact that he was a true Prophet (peace be upon him) of Allah.

88. And they say: “Our hearts are covered over.”^{*94} Nay, but Allah has cursed them for their disbelief. So little is that which they believe.

وَقَالُوا قُلُوبُنَا غُلْفٌ بَل لَّعَنَهُمُ
اللَّهُ بِكُفْرِهِمْ فَقَلِيلًا مَّا يُؤْمِنُونَ

94 By this they meant to say, “We are so staunch in our faith that we are not going to be influenced by anything that you might say to the contrary.” All those are slaves of irrational prejudices, delude themselves like this. They regard such an obstinate attitude as a sign of their firm faith and, therefore, a virtue. In fact, there can be no greater vice than to stick to one’s own traditional creeds and beliefs even though there are strong arguments against them.

89. And when there came to them a Book (the Quran) from Allah, confirming that which is with them, though before that they used to ask for a victory over those who disbelieved. Then when there came to them that which they recognized (to be the truth), they disbelieved in it.*95 So the curse of Allah is upon the disbelievers.

وَلَمَّا جَاءَهُمْ كِتَابٌ مِّنْ عِنْدِ اللَّهِ
 مُصَدِّقٌ لِّمَا مَعَهُمْ وَكَانُوا مِنْ
 قَبْلُ يَسْتَفْتِحُونَ عَلَى الَّذِينَ
 كَفَرُوا فَلَمَّا جَاءَهُمْ مَا عَرَفُوا
 كَفَرُوا بِهِ ۗ فَلَعْنَةُ اللَّهِ عَلَى
 الْكَافِرِينَ

95 Before the advent of the Prophet (peace be upon him), the Jews were looking forward with great longings to a prophet about whom there were many prophecies in their own Scriptures. They used to pray: “May he come soon so that we should triumph over the disbelievers and regain our lost glory”. The people of Al-Madinah themselves bore witness that the Jews lived in this expectation. It had become a bye word with them to proclaim: “Let the pagans tyrannize over us as much as they like. When that Prophet comes, we will settle accounts with them.” Accordingly, when the people of Al-Madinah learnt that Muhammad (peace be upon him) had declared himself to be a Prophet, they recalled these things and thought that he might be the very Prophet about whom they had heard so much from the Jews. So they said to one another, “Let us go and accept him lest the Jews should forestall us.” That was the reason why the Muslims of Al-Madinah could not understand the attitude of the Jews who, instead of accepting him as the Prophet for whom they had been so anxiously waiting, had become his greatest opponents. As to the fact that they did recognize the Prophet (peace be upon him), many proofs were furnished at that very time. The most authentic evidence is that of Safiyyah (one of the wives of the Prophet, may Allah be pleased with her), who was the daughter of one learned Jew and the niece of another. She says, "When the Prophet (peace be upon him) migrated to Al-Madinah, my father and uncle went to see him. When they returned home, I heard the following conversation between them: Uncle: Is he really the same Prophet about whom there occur prophecies in our Books? Father: By God, he is the same. Uncle: Are you quite sure of it? Father: Yes. Uncle: Then what is your intention? Father: I will oppose him as long as I live and will not let his mission succeed.

90. How evil is that for which they have sold their own selves,^{*96} that they would disbelieve in that which Allah has revealed (the Quran), grudging that Allah would send down of His favor upon whom He wills from among His servants.^{*97} So they have drawn on themselves wrath upon wrath. And for the بِئْسَمَا أَشْتَرُوا بِهِ أَنْفُسَهُمْ أَنْ

يَشَاءُ مِنْ عِبَادِهِ فَبَاءُوا بِغَضَبٍ
عَلَى غَضَبٍ ۗ وَلِلْكَافِرِينَ
عَذَابٌ مُهِينٌ

disbelievers there is a humiliating punishment.

96 The verse may also mean: “What a miserable thing it is for which they have sold off their future life and salvation in the Hereafter.”

97 They wished that the Prophet (peace be upon him) should have been one of their own race; therefore, they refused to accept him when he was raised among a race which they considered to be inferior to theirs. This meant that Allah ought to have consulted them before appointing His Messenger, and when Allah did not do so, and in His bounty appointed one He chose by Himself, they were offended.

91. And when it is said to them: “Believe in that which Allah has revealed,” they say: “We believe in that which was revealed to us.” And they disbelieve in that which came after it, though it is the truth confirming that which is with them. Say (O Muhammad): “Then why did you kill the prophets of Allah before, if you are believers.”

وَإِذَا قِيلَ لَهُمْ ءَامِنُوا بِمَا أَنْزَلَ
اللَّهُ قَالُوا نُوْمِنُ بِمَا أَنْزَلَ عَلَيْنَا وَيَكْفُرُونَ بِمَا وَرَاءَهُ وَهُوَ

إِنْ كُنْتُمْ مُؤْمِنِينَ ﴿٩١﴾

92. And certainly, Moses came to you with clear signs, then you took the calf (for worship) after he was away, and you were wrongdoers.

﴿٩٢﴾ وَلَقَدْ جَاءَكُمْ مُوسَىٰ
بِالْبَيِّنَاتِ ثُمَّ أَخَذْتُمُ الْعِجْلَ

مِنْ بَعْدِهِ وَأَنْتُمْ ظَالِمُونَ

93. And when We took your covenant, and We raised the Mount above you, (saying): “Hold to that which We have given you firmly, and hear (Our Word).” They said: “We hear and we disobey.” And was made to absorb in their hearts (the worship of) the calf because of their disbelief. Say: “Evil is that which your faith enjoins on you, if you are believers.”

وَإِذْ أَخَذْنَا مِيثَاقَكُمْ وَرَفَعْنَا فَوْقَكُمْ الطُّورَ خُذُوا مَا آتَيْنَاكُمْ بِقُوَّةٍ وَأَسْمِعُوا قَالُوا سَمِعْنَا وَعَصَيْنَا وَأَشْرَبُوا فِي قُلُوبِهِمُ الْعِجْلَ بِكُفْرِهِمْ قُلْ بَسْمًا يَأْمُرُكُمْ بِهِ إِيمَانُكُمْ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ مُؤْمِنِينَ

94. Say: “If the home of the Hereafter with Allah is exclusively for you, instead of (other) people, then wish for death, if you are truthful.”*98

قُلْ إِنْ كَانَتْ لَكُمْ أَلْدَارُ الْآخِرَةِ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ خَالِصَةً مِّنْ دُونِ النَّاسِ فَتَمَنَّوْا الْمَوْتَ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ صَادِقِينَ

98 This was a retort which implied that if they really were sure and enamored of the Hereafter, they would not dread death, but would prefer it to the life in this world. They, however, were (and are) so much given to this worldliness that they were terrified by the very thought of death and the Hereafter.

95. And never will they wish for it, ever, because of that which their own hands have sent forth. And Allah is All Aware of the wrongdoers.

وَلَنْ يَتَمَنَّوْهُ أَبَدًا بِمَا قَدَّمَتْ
أَيْدِيهِمْ ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ بِالظَّالِمِينَ ﴿٩٥﴾

96. And you will surely find them the most greedy of mankind for life,^{*99} and (even) more than those who associate partners (to Allah). Everyone of them wishes if he could be given life of a thousand years. But it would not remove him in the least from the punishment, even (grant) of a life. And Allah is All Seer of what they do.

وَلَتَجِدَنَّهُمْ أَحْرَصَ النَّاسِ

مِنَ الْعَذَابِ ۗ أَنْ يُعَمَّرَ ۗ وَاللَّهُ
بَصِيرٌ بِمَا يَعْمَلُونَ ﴿٩٦﴾

*99 The literal translation of the word ala hayat-in is any kind of life. It means that they wished to live without giving any consideration to the kind of life they led. It did not matter whether that was a life of honor and grace, or a life of dishonor and disgrace.

97. Say: “Whoever is an enemy to Gabriel,^{*100} for indeed he brought it (Quran) down to your heart by

قُلْ مَنْ كَانَ عَدُوًّا لِجِبْرِيلَ

Allah's permission,^{*101} confirming that which was (revealed) before it,^{*102} and a guidance and glad tidings^{*103} for the believers.”

مُصَدِّقًا لِّمَا بَيْنَ يَدَيْهِ
وَهُدًى وَبُشْرَىٰ لِلْمُؤْمِنِينَ

100 The Jews not only reviled Muhammad (peace be upon him) and the believers, but also spoke abusively of Gabriel, the chosen divine messenger. They said. “He is our enemy: He is not an angel of blessings but of affliction.”

101 As Gabriel revealed the Quran to Muhammad (peace be upon him) by Allah's command, so by abusing Gabriel they actually abused Allah.

102 That is, “You abuse Gabriel for no other reason than that he has brought down the Quran, whereas the Quran confirms the teachings of the Torah; so, in a way, you abuse the Torah as well.

103 In the preceding verses, the Jews have been warned of the consequences of their attitude towards the Quran and the mission of the Prophet (peace be upon him). In this part of the verse, they have been admonished to consider the matter from another point of view. As the Quran shows the way to right guidance and brings good tidings to the believers, it is sheer folly to oppose it and reject it. Thus, they harm none but themselves by depriving themselves of the true success which follows its acceptance.

98. “Whoever is an enemy to Allah, and His angels, and His messengers, and Gabriel, and Michael, then indeed, Allah is an enemy to the disbelievers.”

مَنْ كَانَ عَدُوًّا لِلَّهِ وَمَلَائِكَتِهِ وَرُسُلِهِ وَجِبْرِيلَ وَمِيكَالَ

فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ عَدُوٌّ لِلْكَافِرِينَ ﴿٩٨﴾

99. And indeed We have sent down to you manifest verses, and none disbelieve in them except those who are disobedient.

وَلَقَدْ أَنْزَلْنَا إِلَيْكَ آيَاتٍ بَيِّنَاتٍ
وَمَا يَكْفُرُ بِهَا إِلَّا الْفَاسِقُونَ

100. Is it (not true) that every time they took a covenant, a party of them threw it away. But most of them do not believe.

فَرِيقٌ مِّنْهُمْ ۚ بَلْ أَكْثَرُهُمْ لَا

101. And when there came to them a messenger from Allah, confirming that which was with them, a party of those who had been given the Scripture, threw the Scripture of Allah behind their backs as if they did not know.

وَلَمَّا جَاءَهُمْ رَسُولٌ مِّنْ عِنْدِ

102. And they follow that which the devils had recited during the kingdom of Solomon. ^{*104} And Solomon did not disbelieve, but the devils disbelieved, teaching people magic, and that which was sent down to the two angels in Babylon, Harut and Marut. And they (the two angels) did not teach (it) to anyone, till they had said: "We are only a trial, so do not disbelieve (in the guidance of Allah)."^{*105} Then from these two (angles) they learned that by which they could cause separation between man and his wife.^{*106} And they could not harm through it any one, except by Allah's permission. And they learned that which harmed them, and did not benefit them. And surely they knew that whoever purchased it (magic), will not have in the Hereafter any share. And surely evil is that for which they have sold themselves, if they only knew.

كَفَرُوا يُعَلِّمُونَ النَّاسَ السِّحْرَ

أَنْفُسَهُمْ لَوْ كَانُوا
يَعْلَمُونَ

104 Shayatin may refer both to the devils from among the jinn or to the devils from among human beings. Here it refers to both. When the Jews fell to the lowest depths of degeneration, morally and materially, and lost all the noble qualities because of their captivity, ignorance, poverty, homeless wanderings, etc. they turned to magic, sorcery, enchantment, witchcraft and other black arts and occult sciences. They began to adopt methods through which they could attain all their ends without putting in any kind of labor and toil. Then the devils began to beguile them by ascribing the origin of the occult sciences to Solomon and proclaimed that Solomon owed his wonderful kingdom and his extraordinary powers to the occult sciences which they were teaching the people. Jews at once succumbed and welcomed these as a great boon: so much so that even their rabbis began to practice magical arts. Consequently they lost all their interest in the Scriptures and would not listen to those who invited them to Allah's guidance. Here the Quran refutes not only the false accusation of sorcery against Solomon, but also the other charges leveled against him in the Bible (Kings, Chapter 11). According to it, Solomon was a lover of women and his wives seduced him to follow foreign gods, and he did what was evil in the eyes of the Eternal and put up shrines and idols of their gods. The Quran refutes these charges, so as to say, Solomon was never involved in any practices of disbelief, and only that one who was a disbeliever could be guilty of love of women, worship of gods and idols, and what was evil in the eyes of the Eternal.

*105 The incident referred to in this verse has been interpreted in different ways, but what I have been able to understand is this: It appears that when the Istraelites were captives in Babylon, Allah sent two angels in human guise to test them. Just as the angels were sent to the people of the Prophet Lot (peace be upon him) as handsome boys, so they were sent to the Israelites as saints and religious guides. For this purpose, they might have set up an institution to teach magic and might also be warning everyone who came to learn these things, saying: We are holding out these temptations merely for your trial. You should not, therefore, ruin your Hereafter by seeking this science. But in spite of this warning, the people came to them in large numbers for talismans, charms and amulets. There is nothing strange in the coming of angels in human guise. Being agents of divine kingdom, they are endowed with extraordinary powers to perform their respective duties. As to the question why they taught magic to the people, we can understand this by an illustration. It is like the case of the police who sometimes arrange to hand over signed currency notes to corrupt officials as bribes in order to catch them red handed. Just as there is nothing wrong in this, so there is nothing wrong in what the angels did for the trial of the degenerate Jews.

106 The greatest demand on this occult science was for an amulet or a device to help separate a wife from her husband in order to entice her. This shows how depraved they had become. Their greatest enjoyment was to make love with other people's wives and to separate them from their husbands. This was the worst form of depravity because it struck at the root of family life which is the very foundation of society. If the relations between husband and wife are sound, the whole society will be sound and solid. But if they are bad, the whole society will become rotten. Thus they were the worst offenders because they cut at the root of those relations on which depended their own solidarity and that of their society. A tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) says that Satan sends his agents to the four corners of the world. When they come back to him to report, they relate the deeds they have performed. One says that he has created such and such dispute, and the other says that he has spread chaos and so on, but Satan goes on commenting, “You have done nothing.” Then comes another who says; “I have caused division between a man and his wife.” Satan hugs him and says, “You have indeed done a great deed.” In the light of this tradition, it becomes clear why the two angels were sent to the Israelites with the charm that caused division between man and wife; that was, in fact, the very standard which could measure accurately their moral degradation.

103. And if they had believed and feared (Allah), then the reward from Allah would have been better, if they only knew.

وَلَوْ أَنَّهُمْ ءَامَنُوا وَاتَّقَوْا لَمَثُوبَةٌ
مِّنْ عِنْدِ اللَّهِ خَيْرٌ لَّوْ كَانُوا
يَعْلَمُونَ

104. O those who believe, ^{*107} do not say (to the Prophet): “Raina (word of insult but sounding as ‘listen

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا
تَقُولُوا رَاعِنَا وَقُولُوا أَنْظِرْنَا to us’),” but say “Look upon us,” and listen.*108 And for the disbelievers there is a painful punishment.

وَأَسْمَعُوا
وَلِلْكَافِرِينَ
عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

*107 From this verse onward, the believers have been warned to be on their guard against the different kinds of mischief which the Jews were fomenting against Islam and the Islamic community. Besides this, doubts and suspicions which were being disseminated by them in the minds and hearts of the Muslims have been removed and those special problems which came up for discussion between the Muslims and the Jews have been dealt with. Here it should also be kept in view that when the Prophet (peace be upon him) came to live at Al-Madinah, and Islam began to spread in the country around it, the Jews tried to involve the Muslims in various kinds of religious disputes and theological controversies. They also tried to affect the simple and sincere Muslims with the same disease from which they themselves were suffering, that is, the malady of hair splitting and asking frivolous and irrelevant questions. For this purpose, they attended even the meetings of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and resorted to cunning and subtle talk, which showed how depraved they had become.

*108 Whenever the Jews came to attend the Prophet’s (peace be upon him) assembly, they showed every kind of outward respect to him but surreptitiously tried their best to insult and slight him. They would use ambiguous words derisively or twist them into an insult by a slight mispronunciation. For instance, if they wanted to invite his attention to any particular thing they would say “Raina” which means “Just pay attention, please,” but it has other meanings also. In Hebrew there was a word of similar sound which meant, “Listen, may you become deaf,” and in Arabic itself it also meant, “a proud and ignorant person.” Besides this, in colloquial speech it meant, “If you listen to us, we will listen to you.” Then with a little twist of the tongue it could be turned into “Raiyana” which means “Our shepherd”. In order to guard against the use of such ambiguous words as sounded complimentary but might be abused by wicked people. The believers were advised to say, “unzurna” means “kindly pay attention to us,” which could serve the same purpose without having any secondary bad sense like “raina”. They were also advised to listen attentively to the Prophet (peace be upon him) so that there should be no need of inviting his attention.

105. Neither wish those who disbelieve among the people of the Scripture, nor those who associate others (with Allah), that there should be sent down to you any good from your Lord. And Allah selects for His mercy whom He wills. And Allah is the owner of great bounty.

مَا يَوَدُّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا مِنْ أَهْلِ
الْكِتَابِ وَلَا الْمُشْرِكِينَ أَنْ يُنَزَّلَ

وَاللَّهُ يَخْتَصُّ بِرَحْمَتِهِ مَنْ
يَشَاءُ ۗ وَاللَّهُ ذُو الْفَضْلِ الْعَظِيمِ

106. We do not abrogate any verse, or cause it to be forgotten, ^{*109} (but) We bring better than it, or similar to it. Do you not know that Allah has power over all things.

109 This is the answer to an objection which the Jews raised to create doubts in the minds of the Muslims. They argued like this: The Quran says that the former Scriptures had been sent down by Allah and that it also has been sent down by Him. If it is so, why does the Quran then give such commands as differ from those contained in the former Books? How can the same Allah give different commands at different times? Besides, they said, the Quran asserts that the Jews and the Christians have forgotten a part of the teachings sent down to them. How is it possible that the teachings of Allah could be obliterated from memory? They did not raise these objections for the sake of arriving at the truth but for the sake of creating mischief. Allah answers their objections thus: “I am the Sovereign and My powers are unlimited. I can repeal any order of Mine or allow it to be forgotten, but I substitute for it something that serves the same purpose better or at least equally well.”

107. Do you not know that it is Allah to whom belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth. And you do not have, other than Allah, any protector, nor helper.

108. Or do you intend that you ask your messenger (Muhammad) as Moses was asked before.^{*110} And whoever exchanges faith for disbelief, then indeed, he has strayed from a right way.

110 The Jews were addicted to hair splitting. They put subtle and unnecessary questions to the Muslims and would incite them to inquire about the same from the Prophet (peace be upon him). As they intended merely to create mischief, Allah warned the Muslims not to follow their example. The Prophet (peace be upon him) also advised the believers not to indulge in the pastime of making fine distinctions and asking unnecessary questions because such things had ruined the communities that went before them. They should do what they were asked to do and refrain from what they were prohibited. They should not waste their powers and energies in useless pursuits but attend to important matters.

109. Many of the people of the Scripture wish if they could turn you back as disbelievers after your belief. Out of envy from their own selves, after what has become manifest to them of the truth. So forgive and overlook,^{*111} until Allah brings His command. Indeed, Allah has power over all things.

وَدَّ كَثِيرٌ مِّنْ أَهْلِ الْكِتَابِ

لَوْ يَرُدُّونَكُمْ مِنْ بَعْدِ إِيمَانِكُمْ

111 That is, their enmity and jealousy should not incite you to lose your balance of mind and involve you in arguments, discussions and disputes with them. You should not lose your dignity and waste your precious time in such useless pursuits but should go on doing the right and wait patiently for Allah's judgment. You should remember Allah and do good deeds because these are the things that will avail you before Allah and not those things and the like.

110. And establish prayer, and give the poor due. And whatever you send forth before (you) for yourselves of good, you will find it with Allah. Indeed, Allah is All Seer of what you do.

112 It means, in fact these are merely their own wishes, but they assert these as if they were actually going to happen.

*113 It refers to the idolaters of Arabia, who were ignorant of the Scriptures, and sanctuary for mankind and enjoined the people to dedicate to worship the place where Abraham (peace be upon him) used to stand for prayer.

114. And who is more unjust than the one who forbids, in the places of worship of Allah, that His name should be mentioned therein, and strives for their ruin. Those, it was not for them that they should enter them (places of worship) except in fear.*114 For them in this world is disgrace, and for them in the Hereafter is a great punishment.

وَمَنْ أَظْلَمُ مِمَّن مَّنَعَ مَسْجِدَ

خِزْيٌ وَلَهُمْ فِي الْآخِرَةِ عَذَابٌ
عَظِيمٌ

*114 That is, the places of worship should not be in the hands of such transgressors, who become their trustees, but under the management of those who possess power and fear Allah. This arrangement will prevent the wicked people from doing any mischief there for fear of retribution. It also implied that the disbelievers of Makkah had quite unjustly prevented their own brethren (who had embraced Islam) from entering the Kabah which they themselves called the House of Allah.

115. And to Allah belong the east and the west. So wherever you turn, there is the Face of Allah.*115 Indeed, Allah is All Encompassing, All Knowing.*116

*115 That is, Allah is not confined to any one direction, east or west, but is Master of all directions and places. If a particular direction is fixed for worship, it does not mean that Allah resides in that direction only. There is, therefore, no need to enter into disputes as to why a certain direction and place has been fixed instead of the other or why faces were at first turned towards a particular direction but now are being turned towards a different direction and a different place.

*116 Allah is neither limited, nor narrow minded, nor short sighted, nor indigent, as they suppose He is. On the contrary, His Kingdom is boundless and so are His vision and generosity. He also knows which of His servants remembers Him and also where and when and with what intention.

116. And they say: “Allah has taken unto Himself a son.” Be He glorified. But to Him belongs whatever is in the heavens and the earth. All surrender with obedience

118. And those who have no knowledge say: "Why does not Allah speak to us, or (why not) comes to us some sign."*¹¹⁷ So said those before them, similar to their words. Their hearts are alike.*¹¹⁸ We have indeed made clear the signs for the people who believe with certainty.*¹¹⁹

يُوقِنُونَ ﴿١١٨﴾

117 They demanded that either Allah Himself should come before them and say, "This is my Book and these are my instructions for you to follow." Or, He should show such a sign to them as would conclusively demonstrate that Muhammad (peace be upon him) was really a messenger of Allah and that what he presented was revealed to him by Allah.

118 That is, the objections and demands of those who are opposing the truth today are not new. These are exactly the same as have always been put forward by those who go astray from the right way, as all the wicked people of all ages think alike and follow the same line of argument.

119 The demand that Allah Himself should speak to them was so absurd that it needed no reply. As to the other demand that Allah should show them a sign, Allah answers that He has shown many clear signs but those who are not inclined to believe cannot see them.

119. Certainly, We have sent you (O Muhammad) with the truth, as a bringer of good tidings, and a warner.^{*120} And you will not be asked about the companions of Hell fire.

120 Not to speak of the other signs, the most conspicuous sign was the personality of Muhammad (peace be upon him) himself. They knew everything about his life before prophethood; the conditions of his country and nation and the circumstances and environment under which he was brought up and how he spent the first forty years of his life before his appointment as a prophet.

120. And the Jews will never be pleased with you, nor the Christians, until you follow their religion.^{*121} Say: “Indeed, the guidance of Allah, it is the (only) guidance.” And if you were to follow their desires after what has come to you of the knowledge, (then) you would not have against Allah any protector, nor a helper.

مِنَ اللَّهِ مِنْ وَلِيٍّ وَلَا نَصِيرٍ ﴿١٢٠﴾

121 That is, the reason why these people are displeased with you is not that they are sincere seekers after truth and that you have failed to make it as clear to them as it should have been. On the contrary, they are offended with you just because you have made the truth so clear that no loophole has been left for them to make religion a concern for the gratification of their desires and lusts. Therefore leave them alone and do not try to reconcile them because it is not possible to please them unless you also adopt the same attitude towards religion as they have adopted. They would have been very happy with you, if you had acted hypocritically like them and made God worship a cloak for self worship. It is impossible to please them unless you follow their example in your beliefs and practices.

121. Those to whom We have given the Book, they recite it with its true recital. Those (are the ones who) believe in it.^{*122} And whoever disbelieves in it, then such are those who are the losers.

122 The reference is to the pious among the people of the Book, who study the Quran honestly and sincerely and accept as true what is true according to the Book of Allah.

122. O Children of Israel, *123 remember My favor which I bestowed upon you, and that I preferred you over the worlds (people).

يَبْنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ أَذْكُرُوا نِعْمَتِي
الَّتِي أَنْعَمْتُ عَلَيْكُمْ وَأَنِّي
فَضَّلْتُكُمْ عَلَى الْعَالَمِينَ

*123 From here begins a new discourse. In order to understand it, the following should be kept in mind:

(1) After Noah, Abraham (peace be upon them) was the first prophet who was appointed by God to spread the universal message of Islam (submission to One God). He began his mission in his own country, Iraq, and invited the people to Islam (submission to One God). Then he visited Syria, Palestine, Egypt and Arabia with the same mission. Afterwards he appointed his deputies in different places. He deputed Lot (peace be upon them), his nephew, to Trans-Jordan, Isaac (peace be upon them), his son, to Syria and Palestine, and Ismail (peace be upon them), the elder son, to Arabia. Then he was commanded by Allah to build at Makkah the house of worship which is called the Kabah and to make it the centre of his mission.

(2) From the two sons of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) sprang two nations Ismailites and Israelites. The former were the descendants of Ishmael (peace be upon him) who settled in Arabia. The Quraish and some other Arab clans were his direct descendants but even those Arab clans which were not his descendants claimed to be Ismailites because they were more or less influenced by his mission. The latter, the Israelites, were the descendants of Jacob, son of Isaac. Jospheh, Moses, David, Solomon, John, Jesus (peace be upon them all) and many other prophets rose from among them. They were called Israelites after Israel, the second name of Jacob (peace be upon him). Some other people who accepted their religion also merged into them. All the Prophets of Israel, including Jesus (peace be upon him), preached Islam (submission to One God), but when the Israelites became degenerate and lost their religion (Islam), they invented Judaism and later Christianity.

(3) Abraham (peace be upon him) was appointed to invite the world to surrender to One God and to reform the people in accordance with God's guidance. He himself surrendered and acted upon the knowledge he received from God and exerted his utmost to propagate that knowledge and to persuade all the people to submit to the Sovereign of the universe. Therefore he was made the leader of the world. Afterwards, this leadership, with all its responsibilities, was transferred to the Israelites, the descendants of Isaac and Jacob (peace be upon them). This was the special favor which the Israelites were asked, over and over again, to remember. Accordingly, during the time of Solomon (peace be upon him), the Holy Temple at Jerusalem became the centre and the qiblah (the place towards which face was to be turned during prayer) of all the worshippers of God, as long as the Israelites remained the leaders of this mission.

(4) In the foregoing address (Ayats 40-121), Allah has charged the Israelites with their sins of omission and commission during their leadership. Therefore the Quran points out their moral condition and tells them plainly, “You have proved yourselves quite unworthy of the favor shown to you. You have not only neglected to perform the obligations of leadership but have also discarded the guidance of Allah from your own lives. Now the things have come to such a pass that you have become a community utterly unfit for leadership.”

(5) Now they are being told that leadership is not the privilege of the descendants of Abraham as such, for none has any exclusive claim to it by the mere accident of birth. It was bestowed only upon those who submitted to Allah and followed His guidance like Abraham (peace be upon him). As they have swerved from that way, and proved utterly unworthy of leadership, they are deposed from it.

(6) It also implied that the non-Israelite followers of the Prophet Moses and Jesus (peace be upon them), who were proud of their relationship with Abraham (peace be upon him) had also swerved from the way of Abraham (peace be upon him). Similarly, the idolaters of Arabia, who were also proud of their relationship with Abraham and Ismail (peace be upon them) have been told that they too were utterly unworthy of leadership, for they, too, had swerved from the way of Abraham and Ismail (peace be upon them).

(7) Now that the Israelites had been deposed from leadership, the argument proceeds to show why Muhammad (peace be upon him) was raised as a Prophet from among the descendants of Ismail, in answer to the prayer of Abraham and Ismail. It is, because he followed the same way as was followed by Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob and all the Prophets (peace be upon them) before him. He and his followers believed in all the prophets sent by Allah, and invited the world to the same way that was shown by the former prophets. Therefore the followers of this Prophet alone were worthy of that leadership.

(8) With the transfer of leadership, it was essential to change its centre as well. As long as the Israelites were the leaders, the Holy Temple at Jerusalem was the centre and qiblah of all the followers of the truth. That was why the Holy Prophet (peace be upon them) and his followers also used to turn their faces at first towards it at prayer. But when the Israelites were deposed from leadership, the Holy Temple automatically ceased to be the qiblah. It was therefore, declared that the Kabah at Makkah, where Muhammad (peace be upon him) started his mission, is to be the qiblah in future. As it also was the centre of Abraham's (peace be upon him) mission, neither the Israelites nor the Arabs could object to it because both acknowledged Abraham (peace be upon him) as their Prophet and ancestor. Thus there was no reason left for them to raise any objection against making the Kabah the centre of the divine mission. But the fact is that obdurate people will continue arguing against the truth even after knowing it to be the truth.

(9) After declaring the Muslims to be the leaders, with the Kabah as their centre, Allah gives instructions (Ayats 153-286) for their guidance to enable them to carry out their obligations as leaders of the world.

123. And fear a Day (of Judgment) when no soul will avail (another) soul at all, nor will compensation be accepted from it, nor will intercession benefit it, nor will they be helped.

وَاتَّقُوا يَوْمًا لَا تَجْزِي نَفْسٌ عَنْ
نَفْسٍ شَيْئًا وَلَا يُقْبَلُ مِنْهَا عَدْلٌ
وَلَا تَنْفَعُهَا شَفَعَةٌ وَلَا هُمْ
يُنصَرُونَ ﴿١٢٣﴾

124. And when Abraham was tried by his Lord with certain words (commands),^{*124} so he fulfilled them. He (Allah) said: “Surely, I have appointed you a leader for mankind.” He said: “And of my descendants.” He (Allah) said: “My covenant does not reach the wrongdoers.”^{*125}

﴿١٢٤﴾ وَإِذِ ابْتَلَىٰ إِبْرَاهِيمَ رَبُّهُ
بِكَلِمَاتٍ فَأَتَمَّهُنَّ قَالَ إِنِّي
جَاعِلُكَ لِلنَّاسِ إِمَامًا قَالَ وَمِنْ
ذُرِّيَّتِي قَالَ لَا يَنَالُ عَهْدِي
الظَّالِمِينَ ﴿١٢٤﴾

124 At different places, the Quran has described in details the hard test to which Abraham (peace be upon him) was put before he was made the leader and guide of mankind. When he passed successfully through all those trials and proved himself fit and capable of performing this great responsibility, he was exalted to this high position. Ever since the truth was revealed to him, his whole life was a series of sacrifices in its cause. He sacrificed everything which is valued in life, and encountered every kind of danger in the way of truth.

125 That is, this promise shall apply only to those of your descendants who will be good and capable, and not to those who will be transgressors. Thus, obviously, the misguided children of Israel and the idolatrous children of Ishmael were not entitled to this promise.

125. And when We made the House (Kaaba) a place of return for mankind, and a safety. (Saying): “And take, from the place where Abraham stood, as a place of prayer.” And We commanded to Abraham and Ishmael that: “Purify My house for those who go around, and those who stay therein and those who bow down (and) prostrate.”^{*126}

وَإِذْ جَعَلْنَا الْبَيْتَ مَثَابَةً لِّلنَّاسِ
وَأَمْنًا وَاتَّخِذُوا مِن مَّقَامِ
إِبْرَاهِيمَ مُصَلِّينَ وَعَهْدَنَا إِلَىٰ
إِبْرَاهِيمَ وَإِسْمَاعِيلَ أَن طَهِّرَا
بَيْتِي لِلطَّائِفِينَ وَالْعَاكِفِينَ
وَالرُّكَّعِ السُّجُودِ

126 The purification of the House was not only to be from rubbish but also from all kinds of false worship so that the name of Allah alone should be glorified in it. The real purification of Allah’s House is that no other name than His should be mentioned in it. For the worship of anyone else or the invoking of any other name for help really polluted the House. This verse charges, in a subtle manner, the Quraish with the crime of keeping idols in the Kabah and worshipping them instead of Allah. It implies that these idolaters who were proud of being the heirs of Abraham and Ismail (peace be upon them) were not discharging the obligations of that heritage. Hence they, like the Israelites, have forfeited all rights to the promise of Allah made to Abraham (peace be upon him). It refers to the idolaters of Arabia, who were ignorant of the Scriptures, and sanctuary for mankind and enjoined the people to dedicate to worship the place where Abraham (peace be upon him) used to stand for prayer.

126. And when Abraham said: “My Lord, make this a secure city, and provide its people with fruits, those among them who believe in Allah and the Last Day.” He (Allah) said: “And whoever disbelieves, so I shall give him enjoyment for a little while,^{*127} then I shall force him to the punishment of the Fire. And (it is) an evil destination.”

وَإِذْ قَالَ إِبْرَاهِيمُ رَبِّ اجْعَلْ
هَذَا بَلَدًا ءَامِنًا وَارْزُقْ أَهْلَهُ
مِنَ الثَّمَرَاتِ مَنْ ءَامَنَ مِنْهُمْ بِاللَّهِ
وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ قَالَ وَمَنْ كَفَرَ
فَأَمْتَعُهُ قَلِيلًا ثُمَّ أَضْطَرُّهُ إِلَى
عَذَابِ النَّارِ وَيُسَّ الْمَصِيرُ

127 When Abraham (peace be upon him) prayed to Allah to provide his descendants with the necessities of life, he excluded from his prayer the would be transgressors, because Allah had excluded them from His promise of leadership. Allah, however, removed his misunderstanding immediately, saying, “There is a great difference between the two things. While the righteous leadership will be bestowed upon the true believers only, the necessities of life will be given to both the believers and the unbelievers.” It also implies that the possession of wealth is not the standard to judge whether Allah is pleased with one or not. If one is given abundance of wealth, it does not necessarily mean that Allah is pleased with him and considers him to be worthy of leadership as well.

127. And when Abraham was raising the foundations of the House, and Ishmael. (Saying): “Our Lord, accept (this) from us. Indeed, You are the All Hearer, the All Knower.”

وَإِذْ يَرْفَعُ إِبْرَاهِيمُ الْقَوَاعِدَ مِنَ

مَنَاسِكَنَا وَتُبْ عَلَيْنَا إِنَّكَ أَنْتَ
التَّوَّابُ الرَّحِيمُ

129. “Our Lord, and raise in them a messenger from among them, who shall recite to them Your verses, and shall teach them the Book and wisdom and purify

رَبَّنَا وَابْعَثْ فِيهِمْ رَسُولًا مِّنْهُمْ them.*128 Indeed, You are

أَنْتَ الْعَزِيزُ الْحَكِيمُ

*128 “Purify them”, purify their beliefs, ideas, deeds, habits, customs, culture, politics, in short, every aspect of life.

*129 As Allah has full powers and perfect wisdom, He granted this prayer of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) and made Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) His Messenger.

130. And who would be averse to the religion of Abraham, except him who befools himself. And We had indeed chosen him in the world. And indeed, in the Hereafter, he will be among the righteous.

وَمَنْ يَرْغَبُ عَنْ مِلَّةِ إِبْرَاهِيمَ إِلَّا

الْآخِرَةِ لَمِنَ الصَّالِحِينَ

131. When his Lord said to him: “Submit.”*130 He said: “I have submitted myself to the Lord of the Worlds.”

إِذْ قَالَ لَهُ رَبُّهُ أَسْلِمْ قَالَ
أَسْلَمْتُ لِرَبِّ الْعَالَمِينَ
١٣١

*130 The word used in the text is aslim, that is, become a Muslim, or adopt the attitude of Islam (surrender to the will of God). Thus a Muslim is one who surrenders himself completely to God and obeys Him; who acknowledges God alone as His Lord, Master, Sovereign, Ruler, Lawgiver and God of worship; and who adopts the way of life prescribed by Him. Islam is the religious system based on this creed and attitude. This was the religion of all the Prophets who came to different countries and different nations.

132. And Abraham enjoined the same (submission to Allah) upon his sons, and Jacob, (saying):^{*131} “O my sons, indeed, Allah has chosen for you this religion,^{*132} so do not die except while you have submitted.”^{*133}

وَوَصَّىٰ بِهَا إِبْرَاهِيمُ بَنِيهِ
وَيَعْقُوبُ يَبْنِيَّ إِنَّ اللَّهَ اصْطَفَىٰ
لَكُمْ الدِّينَ فَلَا تَمُوتُنَّ إِلَّا وَأَنْتُمْ
مُسْلِمُونَ

131 Special mention of Jacob (peace be upon him) has been made because the Israelites were his direct descendants.

132 The Arabic word deen has a much wider scope than the English word religion. It covers life in its entirety, and no aspect of individual or community life is outside its realm.

133 Though Jacob’s (peace be upon him) death has been described in details in the Bible, no mention has been made of this last will of his. It, however, has been given in details in the Talmud and its substance is more or less the same as that contained in the Quran: At the time when Jacob (peace be upon him) quitted this world, he summoned his sons and said to them, “Serve the Lord your God, and He will deliver you from all trouble, even as He delivered your fathers. Teach your children to love God, and observe His commandments, for God will guard those who do justly and walk in righteousness through all his ways.” The sons of Jacob (peace be upon him) responded, “All that you have commanded us, our father, we will do. May God be with us.” And Jacob (peace be upon him) answered: “The Lord will be with you if you shall depart not from His Ways to the right hand or the left.” The same thing about the Prophet Jacob’s (peace be upon him) will has been cited in Midr. Rabbah, “Have you any doubts in your hearts concerning the Holy One, Blessed be He.” They said, “Hear O Israel, our Father. As there is no doubt in thy heart, so neither is there in ours. For the Lord is our God, and He is One.”

133. Or were you present when death approached Jacob, when he said to his sons: “What will you worship after me.” They said: “We shall worship your God, and the God of your fathers, Abraham, and Ishmael, and Isaac, One God, and to Him we have submitted.”

134. That was a nation which has passed away. For them is that which they earned, and for you is what you earn. And you will not be asked of what they used to do. *134

تِلْكَ أُمَّةٌ قَدْ خَلَتْ لَهَا مَا
 كَسَبَتْ وَلَكُمْ مَا كَسَبْتُمْ وَلَا

134 That is, though you are their descendants, you have no real connection with them; nor have you any right to claim relationship with them, when you have swerved from their way. Allah will not ask you what your forefathers did but He will ask you what you yourselves did. What we call our actions and deeds are, according to the Quran, our earnings, because every action and every deed either produces a good result or a bad consequence. If it is good, Allah will be pleased with us and give us its due reward. If it is bad, He will inflict due punishment upon us. The Quran refers to actions and deeds as earnings in order to focus attention on the serious results produced by them.

135. And they say: “Be Jews or Christians, you will be guided.” Say: “Nay, (we follow) the religion of Abraham, the firm in faith, and he was not of those who associate partners (with Allah).”^{*135}

وَقَالُوا كُونُوا هُودًا أَوْ
 نَصْرَىٰ تَهْتَدُوا ۗ قُلْ بَلْ مِلَّةَ
 إِبْرَاهِيمَ حَنِيفًا ۗ وَمَا كَانَ مِنَ
 الْمُشْرِكِينَ

135 In order to understand the true significance of this answer, two things should be kept in mind:
 (1) Judaism and Christianity were born long after the death of Abraham (peace be upon him). Judaism, with its special rituals, peculiar regulations, etc., took its birth and name some four hundred years before Christ. As to Christianity, it took its name and adopted its special creed and form long after the recall of Jesus (peace be upon him). Thus it is clear that their claim that one must become a Jew or a Christian in order to obtain guidance was historically untenable. For in that case, Abraham, Jesus and all the other Prophets (peace be upon them) and all the good people who had passed away long before the birth of Judaism and Christianity could not be counted among the rightly guided persons for the simple reason that these religions did not exist at the time they lived. Thus, it was obvious that the Jews and Christians could not say that these Prophets were not rightly guided, nor could they claim that they followed Judaism or Christianity. As a corollary to this, true guidance did not, even according to them, consist of the particular features which divided them into two distinct religions, but it was that eternal universal way which has been shown by all the Messengers of Allah and which has always been followed by the good people of all ages.

(2) It also meant to warn the Jews and the Christians that both practiced shirk and had, therefore, swerved from the way of Abraham (peace be upon him), who did not associate any other object with Allah in his worship, his reverence, his submission and his obedience to Him. They could not deny this because their own Scriptures bore testimony to it.

136. Say (O Muslims):
“We believe in Allah and that which has been sent down to us, and that which was sent down to Abraham, and Ishmael, and Isaac, and قُولُوا ءَامَنَّا بِاللَّهِ وَمَا أُنزِلَ إِلَيْنَا

وَمَا أُنزِلَ إِلَىٰ إِبْرَاهِيمَ وَإِسْمَاعِيلَ
وَإِسْحَاقَ وَيَعْقُوبَ وَالْأَسْبَاطِ

Jacob, and the tribes, and that which was given to Moses and Jesus, and that which was given to the prophets from their Lord. We make no distinction between any one of them,^{*136} and to Him we have submitted.”

وَمَا أُوتِيَ مُوسَىٰ وَعِيسَىٰ وَمَا
 أُوتِيَ النَّبِيُّونَ مِنْ رَبِّهِمْ لَا
 نُفَرِّقُ بَيْنَ أَحَدٍ مِنْهُمْ وَنَحْنُ لَهُ
 مُسْلِمُونَ

136 “We make no distinction between any one of them”, means that we believe in all the Prophets of Allah and reject none. It is obvious that all the Prophets who came from Allah brought the same truth and invited the people to the same guidance and the right way. Hence anyone who follows the truth must accept all the Prophets. Those who accept one Prophet and reject the other really reject even the one whom they profess to accept. Had they followed the universal Guidance taught by Moses, Jesus and other Prophets (peace be upon them), they could not have rejected any other Prophet, i.e. Muhammad (peace be upon him). As a matter of fact, they were not following the teachings of any Prophet, but merely professing to accept their own Prophets just because their fathers did so. Thus their real religion was prejudice, race worship and blind imitation of their forefathers.

137. So if they believe in the same that which you believe in, then indeed they are (rightly) guided. And if they

فَإِنْ ءَامَنُوا بِمِثْلِ مَا ءَامَنْتُمْ بِهِ فَقَدْ أَهْتَدُوا وَإِنْ تَوَلَّوْا فَإِنَّمَا turn away, then they are only in schism. So Allah will be sufficient for you against them. And He is the All Hearer, the All Knower.

هُمْ فِي شِقَاقٍ فَسَيَكْفِيكَهُمْ
اللَّهُ وَهُوَ السَّمِيعُ الْعَلِيمُ

138. (Take) color (religion) of Allah,^{*137} and whose color (religion) can be better than Allah's. And we are His worshippers.

صِبْغَةَ اللَّهِ وَمَنْ أَحْسَنُ مِنْ
اللَّهِ صِبْغَةً وَنَحْنُ لَهُ عَابِدُونَ

137 It may also mean, "We took Allah's color." Before the advent of Christianity, it was a custom among the Jews to give a bath to those who accepted Judaism. It meant to imply that all the sins of the baptized person were washed away and he had received a new color of life. This same custom was later on adopted by the Christians and it was termed Baptism, which is a ceremonial immersion in water or an application of water as an initiatory rite or sacrament of the Christian church. It is applied not only to the new converts but also to all new born babies. The Quran says that there is nothing substantial in this ceremonial coloring, since it is not necessary for salvation. For this purpose one should take color from Allah by adopting His way and submitting to His law.

139. Say (O Muhammad): "Do you argue with us about Allah, and He is our Lord and your Lord."^{*138} And for

قُلْ أَتَحَاجُّونَنَا فِي اللَّهِ وَهُوَ رَبُّنَا وَرَبُّكُمْ وَلَنَا أَعْمَلْنَا وَلَكُمْ us are our deeds, and for you are your deeds. And we are sincere to Him.”*139

أَعْمَلُكُمْ وَنَحْنُ لَهُ مُخْلِصُونَ

*138 That is, what we only say is that Allah is Lord of all of us, and we should all submit to Him. Why should you then have any dispute with us concerning Allah? Is it a thing concerning which you should have any dispute with us? As a matter of fact, it is we who have a cause of dispute and not you, for it is you (and not us) who associate other objects of worship with Allah. The original Arabic words may also mean: “Are you having a dispute with us for the sake of Allah?” It would then mean: “If you really are having a dispute with us for the sake of Allah and not for the sake of prejudice or worldly interests, it can be settled amicably.”

*139 That is, you are responsible for your deeds and we are for ours. If you have associated other partners with Allah in His Godhead and if you worship and obey them, you are free to do so but you yourselves will bear its consequences. As to the dispute between us, it can be ended if you allow us the same freedom of worship that we allow you. When we do not dispute with you about your associating other gods with Allah, you should at least concede us the right to worship the One Allah without associating any partner with Him, Whom we have chosen for exclusive worship and submission.

140. Or do you say that Abraham, and أَمْ تَقُولُونَ إِنَّ إِبْرَاهِيمَ

Ishmael, and Isaac, and Jacob, and the tribes were Jews or Christians. Say: “Do you know more, or (does) Allah.*140 And who is more unjust than one who conceals a testimony which he has from Allah. And Allah is not unaware of what you do.”*141

وَمَا اللَّهُ بِغَافِلٍ عَمَّا تَعْمَلُونَ

*140 This question was addressed to the common people of the Jews and Christians, who in their ignorance sincerely believed that all these great Prophets were Jews or Christians.

*141 This question was addressed to their scholars, who were not ignorant of the fact that Judaism and Christianity with their special rituals, etc., were the products of a later age. In spite of this they were under the delusion that the truth was confined to their own sects, and they kept their common people under the delusion that salvation depended on those beliefs, ways and regulations, which had been invented, long after the Prophets, by their own rabbis and priests, spiritual leaders and interpreters. Whenever they were confronted with the question: “To which of these sects of yours did Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and other Prophets (peace be upon them) belong?”, they would never answer this directly. For they could not claim that those Prophets belonged to their particular sect as they knew that history proved that claim to be absurd. But, in spite of this established fact, they could not admit it in clear words that the Prophets were neither Jews nor Christians, because this would have automatically refuted their claims.

141. That was a nation which has passed away. For them is that which they earned, and for you is that which you earn. And you will not be asked of what they used to do.

تِلْكَ أُمَّةٌ قَدْ خَلَتْ لَهَا مَا

142. The foolish among the people will say: “What has turned them away from their qiblah which they used to face.”*142 Say: “To Allah belong the east and the west. He guides whom He wills to a straight path.”*143

❖ سَيَقُولُ السُّفَهَاءُ مِنَ النَّاسِ
مَا وَلَّيْنَاهُمْ عَنْ قِبَلَتِهِمْ الَّتِي كَانُوا

يَهْدِي مَنْ يَشَاءُ إِلَى صِرَاطٍ
مُسْتَقِيمٍ

*142 After the Hijrah the Prophet (peace be upon him) continued to turn his face in the prayers towards the Temple (at Jerusalem) for about 16 or 17 months; then he was commanded to turn his face towards the Kabah (at Makkah). This change of the qiblah (direction for prayers) with its implications has been described in details in the succeeding verses.

143 Those foolish people who did not have the sense to appreciate the true significance of this change began to raise different kinds of objections in order to create doubts in the minds of the believers. Being narrow minded, they thought that Allah was confined to a particular point or direction and the change of qiblah meant turning away from Him. This absurd objection has been removed by the declaration that the east, the west, and all the other directions belong to Allah. The fact that the qiblah lies in a certain direction does not mean that Allah is confined to that direction only. Those people who are blessed with guidance cannot entertain such narrow ideas.

143. And thus We have made you a middle nation, that you may be witnesses against mankind, and the messenger may be a witness against you.^{*144} And We did not make the qiblah which you used to face, except that We might know him who follows the messenger, from him who would turn back on his heels.^{*145} And indeed, it is difficult except for those whom Allah has guided. And Allah would never cause your faith to be wasted. Indeed, Allah, towards people, is Kind, Most Merciful.

اللَّهُ لِيُضِيعَ إِيمَانَكُمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ بِالنَّاسِ لَرَءُوفٌ رَحِيمٌ

*144 This is the declaration of the leadership of the Muslim community. It refers both to the guidance of Allah which was sent through Muhammad (peace be upon him) and to the change of the qiblah. It was by following the guidance that the Muslims achieved those excellences which led to their appointment as the community of the Golden Mean, and it was the change of the qiblah from the Temple to the Kabah that was an indication that the Israelites had been deposed from the leadership and the Muslims had been appointed to it. Therefore the change of the qiblah from the Temple to the Kabah was not merely a change of direction as the foolish people took it to be, but it was really the formal declaration of the change of leadership from the Israelites to the followers of Muhammad (peace be upon him).

The word ummat wasat is so comprehensive in meaning that no English word can correctly convey its full sense. It is a righteous and noble community which does not go beyond proper limits, but follows the middle course and deals out justice evenly to the nations of the world as an impartial judge, and bases all its relations with other nations on truth and justice.

The meaning of, We have appointed you as ummat wasat so that you may be witnesses in regard to mankind and the Messenger may be a witness in regard to you, is: On the Judgment Day, when all mankind will be called to account together, the Messenger, as Our authorized representative, will give evidence in regard to you to prove that he had imparted to you, by word and by deed, without any reservation, the whole teaching of sound thought, righteous deed and justice given by Us. Then you, being representatives of the Messenger, in your turn, will be required to give evidence to prove that you had done your utmost to impart, by word and deed, to mankind whatever the Messenger had imparted to you just as you had received it from the Messenger.

Thus, a person or group's being appointed by God a witness by itself amounts to its being exalted to the office of leadership and religious guide in the world. Though it is a position of honor, it carries very onerous responsibilities with it. It requires that the Muslim community should become a living witness of piety, truth and justice before the world just as the Prophet (peace be upon him) bore witness before it, and its words and deeds should suffice to demonstrate to the world the meaning of truth, justice and piety. It also implies that it is a great responsibility for which the Muslim community is accountable. Just as the Prophet (peace be upon him) was responsible for conveying the guidance of Allah, so the Muslims are responsible for conveying it to the people of the world. If they fail to prove in the court of Allah that they have discharged this responsibility to the best of their ability, they will be condemned there. And they along with their evil geniuses and accomplices shall be accountable for all the evils which prevailed during their term of leadership, if they had shown any relaxation in the performance of their obligation as witnesses of the truth. On the Day of Judgment, Allah will surely ask, “What did you do to prevent it when you saw the epidemic of sin, tyranny and impiety breaking out in the world?”

145 The change of the qiblah also served to separate the believers from the slaves of prejudice and racialism. On the one side, there were the Arabs who were not ready to give up their own Kabah and to adopt the Temple at Jerusalem as the qiblah. They were tried first. It was a hard test but the sincere believers passed successfully through this and the worshippers of the idol of nationalism failed. Now when the qiblah was changed from Jerusalem to the Kabah, those Jews and Christians who had embraced Islam were put to the test. It was very difficult for them to accept any other qiblah than the one of their forefathers. Thus the worshippers of race, who turned back from Islam were separated from the worshippers of Allah and finally the worshippers of Allah only remained with the Prophet (peace be upon him).

144. We have certainly seen the turning of your face (O Muhammad) toward heaven. So, We shall surely turn you to a qiblah that you will be pleased with. So turn your face toward Al Masjid al Haram, and قَدْ نَرَى تَقَلُّبَ وَجْهِكَ فِي

السَّمَاءِ فَلَنُوَلِّيَنَّكَ قِبْلَةً تَرْضَاهَا
فَوَلِّ وَجْهَكَ شَطْرَ الْمَسْجِدِ
الْحَرَامِ وَحَيْثُ مَا كُنْتُمْ فَوَلُّوا

wherever you (O Muslims) may be, so turn your faces toward it.*146 And indeed, those who have been given the Scripture know that it is the truth from their Lord. And Allah is not unaware of what they do.

وَجُوهَكُمْ شَطْرَهُ وَإِنَّ الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ لَيَعْلَمُونَ أَنَّهُ الْحَقُّ مِنْ رَبِّهِمْ وَمَا اللَّهُ بِغَفِيلٍ عَمَّا يَعْمَلُونَ

*146 This is the commandment for the change of the qiblah, which was enjoined in Rajab or Shaban, A.H. 2. When this was revealed, according to Ibn Saad, the Prophet (peace be upon him) was leading the Zuhr (early afternoon) prayer in the house of Bishr bin Bara bin Maarur where he had gone in response to an invitation. This verse was revealed when he had gone through half of the prayer. He at once turned his face towards the Kabah during the prayer and those who were saying their prayers, following his lead did the same. Afterwards, it was announced publicly in Al-Madinah and its suburbs that the qiblah had been changed. Bara bin Azib says that at one place this announcement was heard at a time when the people had bent down in the prayer. But when they heard the commandment, they turned about in the same posture towards the Kabah. Anas bin Malik says that the people of Bani Salamah heard of the change of the qiblah next morning at a time when they had already gone through half of the prayer. As soon as they heard the announcement: Beware, the qiblah has been changed to the Kabah, the whole congregation turned about towards the Kabah.

In this connection, it should also be kept in mind that the Holy Temple at Jerusalem is to the north of Al-Madinah and the Kabah at Makkah to the south of it. The Imam (who led the prayer) must have walked to the rear of the congregation, who had to turn about and also to move about a little in order to adjust the rows. All these things have been related in detail in the traditions.

Moreover, it is quite clear from “We have certainly seen the turning of your face (O Muhammad) toward heaven” and “So, We shall surely turn you to a qiblah that you will be pleased with”, that the Prophet (peace be upon him) used to pray for, and was expecting this change. For he himself was feeling that the term of the leadership of the Israelites had come to an end and consequently Jerusalem had also ceased to be the centre. Therefore Kabah which had been set up by the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) should be the qiblah.

AlMasjid AlHaram means the “Inviolable place of worship and reverence”. It refers to that place of worship at Makkah which has the Kabah in its centre.

The commandment “So turn your faces toward it (the Kabah)” does not mean that one should turn one’s face exactly to the point of the Kabah from every part of the globe. Obviously it is very difficult for everyone to do so at all times from all places of the globe. That is why the Quran directs us to turn our faces towards the Kabah and not to the point of the Kabah : We should do our best to find out the exact direction of the Kabah: then if we are satisfied that a certain direction is most probably the correct direction, we should turn our faces towards it. But when it is not possible to ascertain the exact direction (for example, in a boat or a train, etc.) one should turn ones face to the probable right direction, and if during the prayer the correct direction is found out, one should turn one's face towards it at once.

145. And even if you were to bring to those who have been given the Scripture every sign, they would not follow your qiblah. Nor would you be a follower of their qiblah. Nor are some of them followers of the qiblah of others. And if you were to follow their desires after that which has come to you of the knowledge, indeed, you would then be among the wrongdoers.*147

وَلَيْنَ أَتَيْتَ الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ
بِكُلِّ آيَةٍ مَا تَبِعُوا قِبْلَتَكَ وَمَا
أَنْتَ بِتَابِعٍ قِبْلَتِهِمْ وَمَا بَعْضُهُمْ
بِتَابِعٍ قِبْلَةَ بَعْضٍ وَلَيْنَ آتَبَعْتَ
أَهْوَاءَهُمْ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا جَاءَكَ
مِنَ الْعِلْمِ إِنَّكَ إِذَا لَمِنَ
الظَّالِمِينَ

*147 That is, you cannot convince by argument those who are disputing with you about the wisdom of the change of the qiblah because they are not disposed to listen to any reasoning on account of their deep prejudices and obduracy: nor can you end this dispute by adopting the qiblah of anyone of them; for all of them have different qiblahs, and, as a Prophet of Allah, you cannot make compromises on the principle of give and take. Therefore the only thing you have to do is to adhere to Our commandments strictly and firmly. If you turn away from these, you will be transgressing the limits of prophethood and showing ingratitude towards the favor of leadership with which We have blessed you.

146. Those to whom We have given the Scripture recognize this as they recognize their sons.*¹⁴⁸ And indeed, a party of them conceal the truth and they know (it).

الَّذِينَ آتَيْنَاهُمُ
الْكِتَابَ يَعْرِفُونَهُ
كَمَا يَعْرِفُونَ
أَبْنَاءَهُمْ
وَإِنَّ فَرِيقًا
مِّنْهُمْ لَيَكْتُمُونَ
الْحَقَّ وَهُمْ
يَعْلَمُونَ

148 This Arabic idiom “recognize this as they recognize their sons” is employed when one knows something with certainty and has absolutely no doubt about its identity. The metaphor has been derived from the fact that none can make any mistake in recognizing one’s own children. Here it has been used to show that the learned people of the Jews and Christians knew it as a fact that the Kabah was built by the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him), just as they knew their own children. They also knew that the Holy Temple at Jerusalem was built by the Prophet Solomon (peace be upon him) some 1,300 years after the Kabah was built by the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him). The Kabah, therefore, had priority and superiority over the Temple and the Jews and the Christians should have no difficulty in recognizing and acknowledging it as the qiblah in the light of the above historical facts.

147. (This is) the truth from your Lord, so do not be of those who doubt.

الْحَقُّ مِنْ رَبِّكَ فَلَا تَكُونَنَّ مِنَ
الْمُمْتَرِينَ ﴿١٤٧﴾

148. And to each there is a direction, he turns to it, so hasten towards what is good.*149 Wherever you may be, Allah will bring you all together. Indeed, Allah has power over all things.

وَلِكُلِّ وِجْهَةٌ هُوَ مُوَلِّئُهَا
فَاسْتَبِقُوا الْخَيْرَاتِ ۚ أَيْنَ مَا
تَكُونُوا يَأْتِ بِكُمْ اللَّهُ جَمِيعًا
إِنَّ اللَّهَ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ ﴿١٤٨﴾

*149 There is a subtle gap between the first sentence and the second, which has been left for the reader to fill. Everyone who wants to offer his prayer must turn his face to one or the other direction. But the real thing that matters is not the direction of the face at prayer but those virtues which are to be gained by offering the prayer. Hence the thing that really matters is the spirit and real purpose of the prayer and not any particular direction or place.

149. And from wherever you go out (for prayer, O Muhammad) turn your face toward Al Masjid al Haram. And indeed, it is the truth from your Lord. And Allah is not unaware of what you do.

وَمِنْ حَيْثُ خَرَجْتَ فَوَلِّ
وَجْهَكَ شَطْرَ الْمَسْجِدِ الْحَرَامِ
وَإِنَّهُ لَلْحَقُّ مِنْ رَبِّكَ ۚ وَمَا اللَّهُ
بِغَافِلٍ عَمَّا تَعْمَلُونَ ﴿١٤٩﴾

150. And from wherever you go out (for prayer, O Muhammad) turn your face toward AlMasjid al Haram. And wherever you may be (O Muslims), turn your faces toward it, so that people may not have an argument against you,^{*150} except for those who do wrong among them. So do not fear them, and fear Me. And that I may complete My favor^{*151} upon you, and that you may be guided.^{*152}

وَمِنْ حَيْثُ خَرَجْتَ فَوَلِّ
وَجْهَكَ شَطْرَ الْمَسْجِدِ الْحَرَامِ
وَحَيْثُ مَا كُنْتُمْ فَوَلُّوا
وُجُوهَكُمْ شَطْرَهُ لِئَلَّا يَكُونَ

تَخْشَوْهُمْ وَاخْشَوْنِي وَلَا تَمَّ
نِعْمَتِي عَلَيْكُمْ وَلَعَلَّكُمْ تَهْتَدُونَ

150 That is, We have reiterated this commandment lest anyone of you should turn his face to any other direction in the prayer and give to opponents cause to say, “These people of the ummat wasat claim that they are witnesses of the truth but their behavior falsifies it. While they profess that the commandment about the change of the qiblah has come from their Lord, they do not act upon it”.

151 The blessing refers to the blessing of leadership which Allah had wrested from the children of Israel and invested in the Muslims. This is the greatest reward which is given to any community when it adopts and follows the righteous way and is entrusted by Allah with the work of guiding the world on the path of virtue. Here Allah tells the Muslims, “The change of qiblah is symbolic of the change of leadership. You should, therefore, observe this commandment strictly, lest leadership should be wrested from you on account of your disobedience or ingratitude. This favor will be conferred on you in perfection, if you obey the commandment.”

*152 That is, you should expect this blessing if you submit to this commandment about the change of the qiblah. This promise is very encouraging for a servant of Allah. The assurance gives him great consolation that he should expect such a great reward from his King, if he obeys His commandments with all his heart and soul.

151. Just as We have sent among you a messenger from yourselves, reciting to you Our verses, and purifying you, and teaching you the Book and wisdom, and teaching you that which you did not know.

كَمَا أَرْسَلْنَا فِيكُمْ رَسُولًا
مِّنْكُمْ يَتْلُوا عَلَيْكُمْ آيَاتِنَا
وَيُزَكِّيكُمْ وَيُعَلِّمُكُمُ الْكِتَابَ
وَالْحِكْمَةَ وَيُعَلِّمُكُم مَّا لَمْ
تَكُونُوا تَعْلَمُونَ ﴿١٥١﴾

152. So remember Me, I will remember you. And give thanks to Me, and do not be ungrateful.

فَاذْكُرُونِي أَذْكُرْكُمْ وَاشْكُرُوا لِي
وَلَا تَكْفُرُونِ ﴿١٥٢﴾

153. O those who believe, *153 seek help through

يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا اسْتَعِينُوا patience and prayer.

Indeed, Allah is with those who are patient. *154

بِالصَّبْرِ وَالصَّلَاةِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ مَعَ
الصَّابِرِينَ

*153 After their appointment to leadership, the believers from hereon are given such instructions and directions as are essential for training and enabling them to discharge the duties of that position of responsibility. They are first of all warned that leadership is not a bed of roses but a bed of thorns. They will be confronted with difficulties, hardships, and trials at the very outset and will have to undergo untold sufferings and losses. But if they went through all those ordeals with patience and proceeded on in the way of Allah, they would be blessed with countless blessings and rewards by Him.

*154 That is, patience and prayer will generate in you the power which is required to bear that burden of responsibility with which you have been entrusted. Patience will give you that strength and courage under the afflictions, privations and temptations which you are bound to encounter and that moral strength and endurance which will surely be needed in Allah's way, which is full of dangers. The prayer will train you in discipline and other moral qualities which are essential for the right type of leadership.

154. And do not say of those who are killed in the Way of Allah: "They are dead." Nay, they are وَلَا تَقُولُوا لِمَنْ يُقْتَلُ فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ أَمْوَاتٌ بَلْ أَحْيَاءٌ وَلَكِنْ لَّا living, but you do not perceive.*155

تَشْعُرُونَ
١٥٤

155 It is forbidden to refer to those who are martyred for Allah's sake as dead because the very word death and its thought are very discouraging, and kill the spirit of self-sacrifice and the urge to fight in the Way of Allah. Instead, the Muslims are told to believe that those who fall martyrs in the Way of Allah in fact enjoy eternal life. And this is a reality which revitalizes and keeps alive the spirit of courage and valor.

155. And certainly We shall test you with something of fear, and hunger, and loss of wealth, and lives, and fruits. And give glad tidings to those who are patient.

وَلَنَبْلُوَنَّكُمْ بِشَيْءٍ مِّنَ الْخَوْفِ

وَالْأَنْفُسِ وَالْثَّمَرَاتِ ۗ وَبَشِّرِ
الصَّابِرِينَ
١٥٥

156. Those who, when a calamity befalls them, say: "Indeed, we belong to Allah, and indeed to Him we will return."*156

الَّذِينَ إِذَا أَصَابَتْهُمُ مُصِيبَةٌ قَالُوا
إِنَّا لِلَّهِ وَإِنَّا إِلَيْهِ رَاجِعُونَ

156 These words are to be uttered merely with the tongue, but we should believe sincerely from the core of our hearts that "Indeed, we belong to Allah." Thus, if anything is sacrificed in the Way of Allah, if is spent rightly because it has gone to His service to Whom it really belonged. "Indeed, to Him we will return": We shall not live here forever but shall have to leave this world one day. Thus, sooner or later we must die and go to Allah. It is, therefore, far better to fight in His Way and lay down our lives for His sake than to pass our lives in self seeking and self worship and then die of some disease or accident.

157. Those are, upon whom are blessings from their Lord, and mercy. And it is those who are rightly guided.

أُولَئِكَ عَلَيْهِمْ صَلَوَاتٌ مِنْ رَبِّهِمْ وَرَحْمَةٌ وَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ
الْمُهْتَدُونَ ﴿١٥٧﴾

158. Indeed, As Safa and Al Marwah are among the symbols of Allah. So whoever is on pilgrimage to the House (of Allah) or Umrah,^{*157} it is then no sin for him that he goes between them,^{*158} And whoever does good voluntarily, then indeed, Allah is Appreciative, All

﴿١٥٨﴾ إِنَّ الصَّافَا وَالْمَرْوَةَ مِنْ شَعَائِرِ

فَلَا جُنَاحَ عَلَيْهِ أَنْ يَطَّوَّفَ
بِهِمَا وَمَنْ تَطَوَّعَ خَيْرًا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ
شَاكِرٌ عَلِيمٌ ﴿١٥٨﴾

157 Hajj is pilgrimage to the Kabah during the fixed days of the month of Dhul-Hijjah and Umrah is the voluntary visit to the Kabah in other than the Hajj days. Directions about Hajj and Umrah are being given at this place because the Kabah had recently been made the qiblah and naturally questions and problems connected with it had arisen.

158 The running between Safa and Marwah (the two hills) near the Kabah was one of the rituals taught by Allah to Abraham in connection with Hajj. But afterwards when the people began to associate false gods with Allah, they built temples on Safa and Marwah and dedicated these to two idols, Asaf and Nailah, and went round them in reverence to them. When the Arabs embraced Islam, a question arose whether running between Safa and Marwah was one of the original rituals of Hajj or whether this had been invented by the worshippers of false gods and whether they would not be guilty of practicing shirk by running between the two hills.

Besides this, a tradition related by Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) says that the people of Al-Madinah had an old aversion to running between Safa and Marwah even before they accepted Islam for they were devotees of Manat and did not worship Asaf and Nailah. Therefore, now when the Kabah was made the qiblah, Allah removed their misunderstanding concerning the running between Safa and Marwah and told them that this ritual had really been connected with Hajj ever since the time of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) and was not the invention of the ignorant people after him.

159 That is, it is far better to run between the two hills with a willing heart to please Allah than as a mere compliance with a command from Him.

159. Indeed, those who conceal what We have sent down of clear proofs and the guidance, after what We had made it clear for the people in the Scripture. They are those cursed by Allah and cursed by those who curse.*160

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ يَكْتُمُونَ مَا أَنْزَلْنَا مِنَ الْبَيِّنَاتِ وَأَهْدَىٰ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا

بَيْنَهُ لِلنَّاسِ فِي الْكِتَابِ أَوْلِيَاكَ
يَلْعَنُهُمُ اللَّهُ وَيَلْعَنُهُمُ اللَّاعِنُونَ

160 The greatest crime of the Jewish scholars was that they had made the teachings of their Scriptures the monopoly of their rabbis and professional scribes. Not to speak of imparting these to the gentiles, they did not teach them even to the common Jews. As a result, the Jews began to practice non-religious things because of their ignorance. Even then, their rabbis did not do anything to reform and educate them. Instead of this, they went on, directly or indirectly, certifying every non-religious practice as legal merely for the sake of winning and retaining popularity. The Muslims are being forewarned that as leaders of the world they should propagate and spread the guidance given to them and should not keep it back from the common people as the Jewish rabbis and scribes did.

160. Except those who repent and correct themselves, and make manifest (the truth). Then those, I will accept their repentance. And I am the One who accepts repentance, the Merciful.

161. Certainly, those who disbelieve,*161 and die

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا وَمَاتُوا وَهُمْ

while they are disbelievers, it is they on whom is the curse of Allah, and of angels, and of mankind, all together.

كُفَّارٌ أُولَئِكَ عَلَيْهِمْ لَعْنَةُ اللَّهِ
وَالْمَلَائِكَةِ وَالنَّاسِ أَجْمَعِينَ

161 The literal meaning of the word kufr is to conceal. By and by it came to be used for the concealment of the truth and then for its rejection, as the antonym of iman. Iman means to believe, to accept and to admit, and kufr means to disbelieve, to reject and to oppose. According to the Quran, one shall be guilty of kufr.

- (1) If one does not believe in Allah at all or refuses to accept Him as the supreme authority or as one's Master and that of the entire universe, or as the only God of worship, or
- (2) If one professes to acknowledge Allah but refuses to accept His commandments and guidance as the sole source of the knowledge of truth and of law, or
- (3) If one accepts on principle the guidance of Allah, but refuses to accept the authority of the Messengers whom Allah has sent with His commandments and guidance, or
- 4) If one accepts a particular Messenger (or Messengers) and rejects others according to one's whim or prejudices, or
- (5) If one discards the whole or any part of the Islamic creed, or its code of life, or the teachings of the Messenger, or
- (6) If one accepts all these things in theory but discards the commandments of God deliberately in practice and persists in this conduct and leads a life of rebellion instead of submission.

All the above modes of thought and action are rebellion against Allah and are kufr according to the Quran. Besides the above usages, the Quran sometimes uses the word kufr in the sense of ingratitude as an antonym of shukr. Shukr means that one should be grateful only to Him who has bestowed the blessing, should appreciate His favor, should use and spend the blessing only according to His will, and should submit to Him completely and faithfully like a loyal servant. On the contrary, kufr or ingratitude is that one should either refuse to acknowledge the favor of one's benefactor, and should regard it as a result of one's own ability, or as a favor, and result of the influence of another one, or should depreciate the blessing bestowed by Him and waste it, or should use the blessing against His will, or should adopt an attitude of rebellion against him in spite of His favors and blessings. Such an attitude of kufr is generally described as ingratitude, disloyalty, rebellion and treason.

162. Abiding forever therein. The punishment will not be lightened from them, nor will they be reprieved.

164. Indeed, in the creation of the heavens and the earth, and the alternation of the night and the day, and the ships which sail through the sea with that which benefits mankind, and that which Allah sends down of rain from the sky, giving life thereby to the earth after its death, and dispersing therein every (kind of) of moving creatures, and (in) the changing of the winds, and the clouds held between the sky and the earth are sure signs (of Allah's Sovereignty) for people of understanding.*162

162 Anyone who does not look around like an animal but makes an intelligent observation of the great system of the universe that is working day and night before his very eyes, and is not blinded by prejudice or obduracy, can see many a sign pointing to the reality. He will certainly see that it is being ruled only by the All-Powerful, All-Wise Sovereign. He can also understand that Allah alone is the God of the whole universe and that there is absolutely no room for any kind of interference or partnership, for no one else has any quality or power or authority to entitle him to the claim of Godhead.

165. And among mankind are those who take other than Allah as equals (to Him).^{*163} They love them as they (should) love Allah. And those who believe are stronger in love for Allah.^{*164} And if only they, who have wronged could see, when they will see the punishment, that all power belongs to Allah, and that Allah is severe in punishment.

وَمِنَ النَّاسِ مَن يَتَّخِذُ مِنْ
دُونِ اللَّهِ أُنْدَادًا يُحِبُّونَهُمْ كَحُبِّ
اللَّهِ وَالَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا أَشَدُّ حُبًّا لِلَّهِ
وَلَوْ يَرَى الَّذِينَ ظَلَمُوا إِذْ يَرُونَ
الْعَذَابَ أَنَّ الْقُوَّةَ لِلَّهِ جَمِيعًا
وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ شَدِيدُ الْعَذَابِ

163 “Who take other than Allah as equals to Him”: they ascribe some of the exclusive qualities and powers of Allah to others and render all or some of His exclusive rights to false gods. For instance, though Allah alone has control over all the forces of nature and has the power to fulfill all the needs of His creatures and to hear their prayers and requests, and although He alone knows all that is open or hidden, yet they invoke others for help or attribute all or some of these powers and qualities to others than Allah and thus set up compeers to rank with Him.

Again it is the exclusive right of Allah that His subjects should acknowledge Him as the supreme authority, bow down their heads before Him and fear Him alone in open and secret. But as they render all or some rights to others than Allah, they set up compeers with Him. In fact, Allah alone is entitled to prescribe what is lawful and what is unlawful, what is clean and what is unclean. He alone has the authority to define the rights and duties of His subjects, lay down commands and prohibitions for them, etc. Therefore those who arrogate to themselves any of these rights shall be guilty of shirk. Again, He alone deserves to be acknowledged as the Sovereign and, as His subjects, the people should consider His commandments to be final and turn to Him for guidance; therefore those who ascribe any of these rights to others than Allah, set up compeers with Him; likewise those institutions or persons who claim to possess any of these qualities or rights or assume to themselves any of these qualities or rights or demand that others should accede these to them, set themselves as compeers with Allah, whether or not they put forward formal claims to Godhead.

*164 Belief in Allah demands that one should prefer His will to one's own will or to that of others, and cherish His love so dearly as to be ready to sacrifice all other affections for its sake.

166. When those who have been followed would disassociate themselves from those who followed (them). And they would see the punishment. And all the ties (of relationship) would be cut off from them.

إِذْ تَبَرَّأَ الَّذِينَ اتَّبَعُوا مِنَ
الَّذِينَ اتَّبَعُوا وَرَأَوْا الْعَذَابَ
وَتَقَطَّعَتْ بِهِمُ الْأَسْبَابُ

167. And those who followed will say: “If indeed another return (to worldly life) was (possible) for us, we would disassociate from them as they have disassociated from us.”*165 Thus will Allah show them their deeds as regrets for them. And they will never get out from the Fire.

وَقَالَ الَّذِينَ اتَّبَعُوا لَوْ أَنَّنَا
كَرَّةً فَنتَبَّرًا مِنْهُمْ كَمَا تَبَرَّأُوا مِنَّا
كَذَلِكَ يُرِيهِمُ اللَّهُ أَعْمَلَهُمْ
حَسْرَاتٍ عَلَيْهِمْ وَمَا هُمْ
بِخَارِجِينَ مِنَ النَّارِ

*165 This helpless end of the ring-leaders and those who misguide others, and their followers has been specially mentioned here to warn the Muslims to be very careful in selecting and electing their leaders and guides. The former communities went astray because they followed wrong leaders and evil guides. The Muslims should, therefore, learn a lesson from their end and discriminate between leaders and misleaders and should not follow the latter.

168. O mankind, eat of that which is lawful (and) good on the earth, and do not follow the footsteps of the devil.*166 Indeed, he is an open enemy to you.

يَأْتِيهَا النَّاسُ كُلُّوا مِمَّا فِي
الْأَرْضِ حَلَالًا طَيِّبًا وَلَا تَتَّبِعُوا
خُطُوَاتِ الشَّيْطَانِ إِنَّهُ لَكُمْ
عَدُوٌّ مُبِينٌ

*166 They have been told to break all those restrictions which superstition and ignorance had imposed upon articles of food and drink.

169. He only commands you to evil and indecency, and that you should say against Allah that which you do not know.*167

إِنَّمَا يَأْمُرُكُمْ بِالسُّوءِ وَالْفَحْشَاءِ
وَأَنْ تَقُولُوا عَلَى اللَّهِ مَا لَا
تَعْلَمُونَ

167 That is, Satan makes people believe that these superstitious customs and restrictions upon food and drink are a part of religion and have been enjoined by Allah, although there is no authority to show that they are from Him.

170. And when it is said to them: “Follow that which Allah has sent down,” they say: “Nay, we will follow that upon which we found our fathers.”*168 Even though their fathers were (such as who) did not understand anything, nor were they guided.

وَإِذَا قِيلَ لَهُمْ اتَّبِعُوا مَا أَنْزَلَ
اللَّهُ قَالُوا بَلْ نَتَّبِعُ مَا أَلْفَيْنَا
عَلَيْهِ ءِآبَاءَنَا ؕ أَوْلَوْ كَانِ
ءِآبَاؤُهُمْ لَا يَعْقِلُونَ شَيْئًا وَلَا
يَهْتَدُونَ

168 The only authority they have for their superstitious practices is that these have been the customs of their forefathers, and the foolish followers consider this a good authority.

171. And the example of those who disbelieve, is as the example of him who shouts to that (flock of sheep)

وَمَثَلُ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا كَمَثَلِ الَّذِي يَنْعِقُ بِمَا لَا يَسْمَعُ إِلَّا which hears nothing except a call and a cry.*169 (They are) deaf, dumb, blind, so they do not understand.

دُعَاءٌ وَنِدَاءٌ صُمُّ بِكُمْ عُمَى
فَهُمْ لَا يَعْقِلُونَ

*169 This parable has two aspects:

(1) That these people are like those herds of cattle which merely hear the call and cry of the drovers and move about at the sound of their call without understanding the meaning of their words.

(2) That preaching before them is like preaching to the cattle which only hear the sounds but do not comprehend the meaning and the implication of the words that are spoken to them. The words used are comprehensive and cover both the aspects.

172. O those who believe, eat of the good things which We have provided you, and be grateful to Allah if it is (indeed) Him you worship.*170

يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا كُلُوا
مِنْ طَيِّبَاتِ مَا رَزَقْنَاكُمْ وَأَشْكُرُوا
لِلَّهِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ إِيَّاهُ تَعْبُدُونَ

*170 The Believers are enjoined to break all sorts of unnecessary, improper and unlawful restrictions imposed by the pundits, the priests, the rabbis, the clergies, the forefathers, etc.

For if they really believe in Allah, as they profess, they should abstain from eating only what Allah has forbidden and eat, without any hesitation, only what Allah has declared lawful.

According to a tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him), “One who offers the Salat in the way we offer, turns his face towards the qiblah to which we turn our face, and eats what we have slaughtered, is a Muslim.” Therefore if one has any scruples regarding the eating of those things which Allah has declared lawful, he has not as yet become a true Muslim, even if he offers the Salat, turning his face towards the Kabah. He should give up the prejudices and superstitions of ignorance if he really and sincerely has become a Muslim. For the very observance of old traditions and customs is a proof that he is still imbued with the poison of ignorance.

173. He has forbidden to you only carrion, and blood, and flesh of swine, and that which has been immolated to other than Allah.*¹⁷¹ So whoever is forced by necessity, without willful disobedience, nor transgressing, then it is no sin for him. Truly, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.*¹⁷²

إِنَّمَا حَرَّمَ عَلَيْكُمُ الْمَيْتَةَ
وَالدَّمَ وَلَحْمَ الْخِنزِيرِ وَمَا أُهِلَّ
بِهِ لِغَيْرِ اللَّهِ فَمَنْ أَضْطُرَّ غَيْرَ
بَاغٍ وَلَا عَادٍ فَلَا إِثْمَ عَلَيْهِ إِنَّ
اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

171 This applies both to the flesh of the animal which is slaughtered in the name of any other than Allah and to the food which is offered as a vow to any other than Allah. As a matter of fact, everything whether animal, corn, or another eatable, actually belongs to Allah and is given by Him. Therefore it should be offered as charity, or as vow, only in His name as a mark of gratitude to Him. If it is offered in any other name, it means that one regards it also, instead of Allah, or along with Allah, as supreme and the bestower of favors and blessings.

*172 In this verse, permission for the use of an unclean thing has been given on three conditions:

(1) It must be really a case of extremity. For instance, if one is dying of hunger or thirst or if one's life is in danger because of some disease and there is nothing available except an unclean thing, one is permitted to take it.

(2) One should not cherish any desire in one's heart to break the law of Allah.

(3) One should not take even a bit more than what is absolutely necessary. For example, if in a certain case, a few bits or drops of an unclean thing can save life, then nothing more than this absolute minimum should be taken.

174. Certainly, those who conceal what Allah has sent down of the Book, and purchase therewith a small gain, those, they eat into their bellies nothing but fire.*173

And Allah will not speak to them on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them.*174 And for

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ يَكْتُمُونَ مَا أَنْزَلَ
اللَّهُ مِنَ الْكِتَابِ وَيَشْتُرُونَ
بِهِ ثَمَنًا قَلِيلًا أُولَئِكَ مَا
يَأْكُلُونَ فِي بُطُونِهِمْ إِلَّا النَّارَ
وَلَا يُكَلِّمُهُمُ اللَّهُ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ وَلَا يُزَكِّيهِمْ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ them will be a painful punishment.

173 These were their learned people, who, in spite of possessing the knowledge of the divine Book, kept it back from the common people, and were responsible for all the superstitions, false customs and unnecessary restrictions which were prevalent among them and which gave birth to new codes of law. Besides this, they were also guilty of another crime. They did not utter a word against the evil practices which began to spread as a result of that ignorance which had been deliberately created among them. Not only this: the majority of them considered this sorry condition to be advantageous to themselves and so let the commandments of Allah remain hidden from the people.

174 Here the false claims and misrepresentations of the so called spiritual leaders and saints have been refuted. By every possible device they try to impress upon the common people that they are very pious and holy. And the common people also believe them to be so. They presume that their followers believe that they will secure pardon for them by their intercession with Allah on their behalf. Allah warns that He will neither speak to these spiritual leaders nor consider them pious and holy, not to speak of granting them the authority of intercession.

175. Those are the ones who purchased error for the guidance, and punishment for the forgiveness. So how patient are they (in the pursuit) to the Fire.

أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ اشْتَرُوا الضَّلَالََةَ بِالْهُدَى وَالْعَذَابَ بِالْمَغْفِرَةِ

176. That is because Allah has sent down the Book (the Quran) with the truth. And indeed, those who disputed over the Book are far away in dissension.

177. Righteousness is not that you turn your faces toward the east and the west.*175 But righteousness (is in him) who believes in Allah, and the Last Day, and the angels, and the Book, and the prophets. And gives wealth out of love for Him, to the relatives, and the orphans, and the needy, and the wayfarer, and to those who ask, and to set slaves free. And establishes prayer, and gives the poor due. And those who fulfill their promise when they make a promise. And (those who) are patient in tribulation and adversity, and at the time of battle. Those are the ones who are the truthful. And it is those who are the righteous.

175 In order to show the futility of excessive emphasis on external religious forms, it has been pointed out, as an instance, that there is no real virtue in the mere act of turning faces to the east or to the west in prayer. For the mere performance of some religious rites or formalities or show of piety is not real virtue which may have any importance or value with Allah.

punishment.^{*180}

176 The Arabic word qisas stands for the return of life for life in cases of murder. It does not, however, mean that the murderer should be killed in the same manner in which he committed the murder. It only means that his life should be taken as he took the life of the other.

177 The principle of the equality of the value of human life has been prescribed here in order to meet the strictest claims of justice. The value of blood and consequently retribution for it are not to be determined by the rank of the slain or that of the murderer. It has, therefore, been clearly laid down that the murderer himself shall be made to pay for the blood.

Before the advent of Islam, they put a higher value on the blood of a member of their own clan and demanded the life of a man of the same rank from the clan of the murderer or the lives of scores or even hundreds from the tribe of the murderer according to the value put on the blood of the slain. On the other hand, if the murderer happened to belong to a higher rank than that of the slain, their judgment was that the life of the murderer should not be taken for the life of the slain. And this inequality in the evaluation of blood was not confined only to that age of ignorance. Even today the civilized nations are not ashamed of declaring openly that if one person of their nation is killed, they will take the lives of fifty men from the nation of the murderer. And they put these challenges into practice. We often hear that so many people belonging to the subject nation have been put to death to avenge the murder of one person belonging to the ruling nation. But if the murderer belonged to a civilized ruling nation and the slain to an uncivilized subject nation, their judges would not pass the sentence of death on him. In order to guard against these unjust rules, Allah has ordained that the life of the murderer and the murderer alone should be taken for the life of the slain, irrespective of the rank or race of the murderer or that of the slain.

178 The use of the word brother here contains a kind of recommendation. That is, though the murderer has injured you very grievously, he is after all your brother by the human relation. Therefore, if you restrain your rage against your erring brother and refrain from retaliation and remit the penalty of death, you will raise your standard of humanity.

This verse also shows that, according to the Islamic penal code, even murder is a compoundable offence. The heirs of the murdered person have the right to pardon the murderer, if they deem it proper. In that case the court cannot insist on taking his life. Of course, the murderer will have to pay the blood money if the rightful claimants demand it.

179 The word maaruf has been used in many places in the Quran. It refers to those just and rational rules of conduct which are generally known and accepted by all fair-minded people. They are so clear and well known that everyone who is not blinded by self interest and prejudice will acknowledge them as right and just, and the Islamic law recognizes them in all those matters for which it has not laid down any regulations. Such common laws and general usages are termed maaruf.

*180 For instance, it will be transgression if the heirs of the slain try to retaliate even after accepting the ransom, or if the murderer does not mean to pay the ransom gracefully, or otherwise reacts in an ungrateful manner.

179. And for you there is life in legal retribution, O (men) of understanding, *181 that you may become righteous.

وَلَكُمْ فِي الْقِصَاصِ حَيٰوةٌ يٰٓاُوْلِي
الْاَلْبٰبِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَتَّقُوْنَ

*181 This verse refutes the opinion of those people who go to the other extreme and advocate total abolition of capital punishment. If it is inhuman to insist on retaliation, it is equally inhuman to encourage murder by totally abolishing capital punishment, as has been done in some civilized countries. That is why Allah declares that there is life for society in the law of retribution. If a society does not pay due regard to the sanctity of life and tries to protect a murderer, it sets a premium on crime and puts in danger the lives of many innocent people.

180. It is prescribed for you, when death approaches any of you, if he leaves wealth, that he make a bequest to parents and near relatives according to what is reasonable. (This is) a duty upon the righteous. *182

حَقًّا عَلٰى الْمُتَّقِيْنَ

*182 This commandment about making a will for the distribution of property was given at a time when the law of inheritance had not yet been prescribed. Its object was to safeguard the rights of the lawful heirs against injustice. Afterwards when Allah Himself prescribed a law for the distribution of inheritance (as laid down in Surah An-Nisa), the Prophet (peace be upon him) enjoined the following two rules in explanation of the commandments concerning the making of will and distribution of inheritance.

181. Then whoever changes it (the bequest) after what he has heard it, then its sin is only upon those who changed it. Indeed, Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.

فَمَنْ بَدَّلَهُ بَعْدَ مَا سَمِعَهُ فَإِنَّمَا
إِثْمُهُ عَلَى الَّذِينَ يُبَدِّلُونَهُ إِنَّ
اللَّهَ سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

182. But he who fears from a testator some unjust or sinful clause, then makes peace between them (the parties), then there is no sin upon him. Certainly, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

فَمَنْ خَافَ مِنْ مُوصٍ جَنَفًا أَوْ

183. O those who believe, fasting is prescribed for you, as it was prescribed for those before you, that you may become righteous.*183

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا كُتِبَ
عَلَيْكُمْ الصِّيَامُ كَمَا كُتِبَ
عَلَى الَّذِينَ مِن قَبْلِكُمْ
لَعَلَّكُمْ تَتَّقُونَ

183 Islam proceeded step by step and by degrees in the imposition of its obligatory duties. The same was done in the case of fasting. At first the Prophet (peace be upon him) advised the Muslims to observe fasts only for three days in a month but this was not obligatory. Then in the second year of the Hijrah, this command (Ayat 183) about fasting in the month of Ramadan was revealed. This, however, left an option for those who were able to fast but did not. They were required to feed one poor man as an expiation of one day's fasting (Ayat 184). Then later, the final commandment contained in the next verse (Ayat 185) modified this, and the concession for able-bodied people was withdrawn, but retained for a sick person or wayfarer and by analogy for a pregnant or a suckling woman and for those old people who were not able to fast.

In a lengthy statement quoted by Imam Ahmad bin Hanbal, Muaaz bin Jabal says: "The Salat and the fasting took their present form gradually. At first the Muslims faced Jerusalem during the Salat but after some years they were commanded to turn their faces towards the Kabah in Makkah. Besides this, at first they used to inform one another about the time of each Salat but afterwards the same was proclaimed by means of Azan (the call for prayer). As to the fasting, when the Prophet (peace be upon him) migrated to Al-Madinah, he observed fasts for three days in a month and also on the tenth of Muharram. Then Allah made it obligatory to fast during the whole month of Ramadan but allowed the feeding of one person as an expiation for one who did not observe fasts, though he could. Afterwards this concession of feeding one person for one day of fast was cancelled in the case of healthy persons and the one not on a journey.

Bukhari, Muslim, Abu Dawud and other scholars have also quoted traditions from Aishah, Abdullah bin Umar, and Abdullah bin Masud (may Allah be pleased with them) to the same effect. In support of the same, Ibn Jarir Tabari, a famous commentator of the Quran, has quoted traditions citing the authority in full from several companions and their followers. In one of these traditions, he quotes the following explanation of Muaz bin Jabal: As the Arabs were not used to of fasting, it was hard for them at first to observe fasts. They were, therefore, given the option to feed one poor person on the day they did not observe fast during the month of Ramadan. Afterwards, a commandment was revealed, cancelling this concession except in the case of a sick person or one on a journey. He quotes another tradition from Ibn Abbas to this effect. In the first commandment (Ayat 184), Allah had allowed expiation for fasts even for an able-bodied person who could fast but did not. In verse 185 which was revealed next year, the concession for an able-bodied person was cancelled but was retained for a sick person or a wayfarer.

184. (Fasting) a certain number of days. So whoever among you is sick, or on a journey, then an equal number of other days (should be made up). And for those

184 “Good of his own accord”, to feed more than one person for each fasting day, or to feed one as well as observe the fast.

185 The first commandment about fasting contained in Ayats 183-184 was revealed in the second year of Hijrah before the battle of Badr. The subsequent verses were revealed a year later but were inserted here because they dealt with the same matter.

185. The month of Ramadan is that in which the Quran was revealed, a guidance for mankind, and clear proofs of guidance, and the criterion. So whoever of you witnesses (this) month, then he must fast (in) it. And whoever is sick or on a journey, then an equal number of other days (should be made up).^{*186}

وَلِتُكَبِّرُوا اللَّهَ عَلَىٰ مَا
هَدَانَكُمْ وَلَعَلَّكُمْ تَشْكُرُونَ

186 It has been left to the option of the individual to observe or not to observe fasts during a journey. Some of the companions of the Prophet (peace be upon him) observed fasts and some did not when they were on a journey with him and neither raised any objection against the other. The Prophet (peace be upon him) himself sometimes observed fasts on a journey and sometimes did not. Once he saw people gathered around a man who had fallen to the ground and asked what was the matter with him. He was told that he had become too weak to stand on account of observing fasts; he remarked that it was no virtue to observe fasts in such a condition.

During war time, The Prophet (peace be upon him) used to issue orders for postponing the fasts. Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) has related that they did not observe fasts twice during the month of Ramadan when they went to war under the command of the Prophet (peace be upon him), on the occasion of the battle of Badr and at the conquest of Makkah. Ibn Umar says that on the eve of the conquest of Makkah, the Prophet (peace be upon him) declared, “As we are going to fight our enemy you should postpone your fasts so that you may conserve your strength to fight.” There is no clear injunction from the Prophet (peace be upon him) for the prescription of a minimum standard of distance for postponing the fasts. His companions also differed in practice with regard to the standard. But it is obvious that the fast may be postponed for that distance which is commonly understood to be a journey and in which one begins to feel being on a journey. There is a difference of opinion as to whether the people of a city, which is attacked by an enemy, can postpone the fasting for the sake of Jihad, in spite of being the residents. Some scholars do not allow this. But Imam Ibn Taimiyyah has maintained with strong arguments that postponement of the fasting under such circumstances is permissible.

187 Allah is so bountiful that He does not want to deprive His servants of the blessings of fasting. Therefore, He has not confined it to the month of Ramadan but has opened another way for its completion for those who fail to complete it during this month for genuine reasons. They should make up the deficiency by observing fast on other days in order to show their gratitude for the revelation of the Quran during the month of Ramadan.

It is clear from this verse that fasting in Ramadan has been prescribed not only as a form of worship and a training for piety, but also to show gratitude for the great blessing of the revelation of the Quran during the month of Ramadan. And the best way to show gratitude for a favor is to fulfill the object for which it was bestowed and to prepare oneself for its completion as best as one can. The object for which Allah has bestowed the Quran upon us is to reveal His will so that we may fulfill it ourselves and persuade others to do the same. Fasting provides the best training for the fulfillment of this object and is both a devotion and a sign of gratitude for the favor shown in the form of the Quran.

186. And when My servants ask you about Me, then indeed I am near. I respond to the invocations of the suppliant when he calls upon Me. So let them respond to Me, ^{*188} and let them believe in Me, that they may be guided. ^{*189}

188 That is, although you cannot see Me nor perceive Me with your senses, yet you must never imagine that I am far from you. Nay, I am so near to every servant of Mine that he can invoke Me and place his request before Me wherever he is. So much so that I hear and answer even those requests which are not expressed in words but are made only in the innermost heart. As to the false and impotent gods you have created in your ignorance and folly, you have to travel to them, and even then they do not hear and answer you. But here am I, the sovereign, the absolute ruler of the boundless universe and possessor of all powers and authority, so near to hear and answer you that you need no recommendation of intercession for making any request anywhere at any time you like. Therefore, you should free yourselves from the folly of running from door to door after false gods, and accept My invitation and turn to Me and trust in Me and submit to Me and become My servants.

yourselves) in the mosques.^{*195} These are the limits by Allah, so approach them not.^{*196} Thus does Allah make clear His verses to mankind that they may become righteous.

حُدُودُ اللَّهِ فَلَا تَقْرُبُوهَا كَذَلِكَ
يُبَيِّنُ اللَّهُ آيَاتِهِ لِلنَّاسِ
لَعَلَّهُمْ يَتَّقُونَ

190 That is, just as nothing can intervene between the clothes and the body and each fits into the other naturally, so is the relation between the husband and the wife: each is a means of comfort, protection and happiness for the other.

191 Although, at first there was no clear injunction forbidding intercourse between husband and wife during the nights of Ramadan, yet the Muslims had a vague notion that it was not lawful to do so and it was with a guilty conscience that sometimes some of them went to bed with their wives. There was thus a danger of developing a criminal and sinful mental attitude. Therefore, Allah first warned them of their dishonest behavior towards their conscience and then made it lawful so that they might do it with a clear conscience.

192 There was also a misunderstanding about the timings of eating and drinking during Ramadan. Some people were of the opinion that eating and drinking was prohibited after the Isha (night) prayer up to sunset of the next day. Others thought that one was permitted to eat and drink as long as one kept awake after the Isha prayer, but could not do so after one had fallen asleep; they were often put to great inconvenience on account of these notions of their own creation. In this verse their misunderstandings were removed and the duration of the period of fasting was fixed from the dawn of the morning to the sunset, and eating and drinking and intercourse with wives were permitted from sunset to dawn. Besides, the Prophet (peace be upon him) instructed that a meal should be taken before the dawn (of morning) as a preparation for fasting.

193 Islam has set a standard of time for its practices which can be applied universally by people at every stage of civilization and in every part of the globe. That is why it does not fix the boundary lines of its religious practices by watches and clocks but by clear signs in the sky. This is a standard which can suit the people of every age and country, and can be set by watches between these prescribed bounds to suit their circumstances and convenience. But those people who do not understand its philosophy raise foolish objections. For example, they say that this standard cannot work near the Poles, because there the duration of the day and the night is of many months. They forget that even in the polar regions, the signs of morning and evening and midnight appear as regularly as in other places and the inhabitants regulate the timings of work, play, sleep, etc. in accordance with the appearance of these signs. When there were no watches and clocks, the inhabitants of the Arctic Circle fixed their timings by these signs. Thus when these signs can help them to fix the timings in other matters of life, they can also serve them to fix the timings of the prayer and of the commencement and end of the fasting.

194 “Then complete the fast till nightfall” means: “Your fast ends where the boundary of the night begins.” It is obvious that the boundary line of the night begins at sunset: therefore the fast should be broken at the time of sunset for which we should look at the eastern horizon. If we see the darkness of the night rising up there, it is a signal for the breaking of the fast. In the same way, the rising of the white streak of the morning in the eastern horizon is a signal for the beginning of the fast.

It must be clearly understood that in the Islamic code of law there are no hard and fast limits, exact to the second or minute, for the duration of the fast. There is great latitude in both the limits. Differences of a minute or a second either way do not make the fast defective. The fast becomes complete as soon as the darkness of night begins to rise in the east. It should, therefore, be broken at sunset. In the same way, when the dawn of the morning appears in the eastern horizon, the boundary line begins for observing the fast and eating and drinking, should be stopped. But here, too, there is an allowance for one to finish ones meal even though the dawn of the morning might have appeared, if one could not wake up in time for it. There is a tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to this effect: “If one, while taking his meals, hears the call for the morning prayer (or the sound of the siren as in our age) for beginning the fast, one should not withdraw one’s hand immediately from food, but should finish the meal.” Likewise, one is enjoined to break the fast without delay as soon as the dark line of the night appears in the east.

195 Itikaf is a special voluntary practice of devotion during the last ten days of the month of Ramadan. One confines oneself to a mosque and devotes one's whole time to prayer and meditation in addition to the prescribed obligatory religious duties. One is required to abstain from all worldly pursuits, desires, lusts, etc., and is not to leave the mosque except to attend to the call of nature etc.

196 The wordings of the commandment about the extreme limits is very significant. It not only prohibits one from transgressing them but also warns one not even to go near them. It is very dangerous to roam about on the boundary lines of the forbidden territory for one is liable to enter into it by mistake. Going near them has, therefore, been prohibited. The Prophet (peace be upon him) emphasized the same point, saying, "Every king has some reserved land and Allah's reserved land is bounded by those limits which prescribe the lawful and the unlawful, the right and the wrong. The animal which grazes near the last bounds of the reserved land might one day enter into it. It is a pity that in spite of this clear warning, many people, who are ignorant of the spirit of Islamic law, persist in going to the extreme limits and many learned people try to find excuses for them from the same Islamic code of law that warns the Muslims not to go near the boundary line. That is why many people get involved in vice and stray from the straight path. Obviously, it is not an easy thing to demarcate these fine boundary lines and to control oneself from transgressing them, when one is roaming near them.

188. And do not devour your property among each other unjustly, and (do not) offer it (as bribery) to the rulers, that you may devour a portion of the property of the people in sin, and you know (it).^{*197}

أَمْوَالِ النَّاسِ بِالْإِثْمِ وَأَنْتُمْ
تَعْلَمُونَ

197 This verse has two aspects: One should not try to seize the property of another by bribing the judges, and one should not go to the court of law to seize the property of another through specious arguments. It is just possible that the judge might decide, on the basis of available evidence, in favor of the transgressor, but it does not mean that the property has thereby really become lawful for him. The Prophet (peace be upon him) warned such people, saying, “After all I am a human being. It is just possible that in a case brought before me, one better versed in the art of talking than his opponent might persuade me to decide the case in his favor. But let it be understood that anything gained in this way from a brother will, in fact, mean the acquiring of a piece of Hell for himself in spite of my decree in his favor.”

189. They ask you, (O Muhammad) about the new moons. Say: “These are signs for marking times for mankind, and the pilgrimage.”*198 And it is not righteousness that you go to the houses from their backs, but the righteousness is (in) him who fears (Allah). And go to houses from their doors, and fear Allah, that you may be successful.*199

﴿ يَسْأَلُونَكَ عَنِ الْأَهْلِ قُلْ

أَبْوَابِهَا ۚ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ لَعَلَّكُمْ
تُفْلِحُونَ

*198 The phases of the moon have attracted the attention of mankind in every age, and different kinds of rites and superstitions have been connected with these in every country. The Arabs also had some superstitions connected with these. They took omens from them for journeys, marriage ceremonies, business, etc. and performed some superstitious practices. For they believed that the phases and the eclipse of the moon affected their fortunes. Therefore they questioned the Prophet (peace be upon him) concerning this. Allah answered their question and informed them that the phases of the moon were nothing but natural calendar in the sky to indicate dates of the month to the people simultaneously throughout the world. Hajj has been specially mentioned in this connection because of its religious, cultural and economic importance to the Arabs. Four months of the year were fixed for Hajj and Umrah during which war was suspended and the routes were made safe, and business flourished on account of peace.

*199 This was one of their superstitious customs. As soon as they put on the Ihram, the ceremonial dress for Hajj, they would not enter their houses by the front doors, but would enter them by jumping over the walls or through windows in the rear of their houses. In this verse, Allah has not only refuted this superstitious custom but also warned that virtue has nothing to do with the superstitious rites and customs which were being practiced merely in blind imitation of their forefathers, for they did not affect the fortune of man in any way.

190. And fight in the Way of Allah those who fight you,^{*200} and do not transgress the limits. Indeed, Allah does not love the transgressors.^{*201}

وَقَاتِلُوا فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ الَّذِينَ يُقَاتِلُونَكُمْ وَلَا تَعْتَدُوا إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُحِبُّ الْمُعْتَدِينَ

200 That is, fight with those people who hinder you from the Way of Allah; who have become your enemies because you are trying to reform the way of life in accordance with the guidance of Allah; who are preventing you from the work of reform by force and persecution. Before this, when the Muslims were yet weak and scattered, they were commanded to propagate Islam and bear all tyrannies with fortitude. But when they had established a tiny state at Al-Madinah they were, for the first time, allowed to go to war against those who were opposing this reformative movement with force. The battle of Badr took place after this and a series of battles started with it.

201 The Muslims were warned that the aim of their war should not be self interest, nor material gain, nor retaliation. They should not, therefore, go to war against those who were neither opposing them nor hindering them from their work. Besides this, the Prophet (peace be upon him) gave detailed instructions for keeping the war humane. He asked the Muslims to refrain from barbaric methods in warfare and from doing any kind of harm or injury to children, women, old people and the wounded. He also prohibited the dishonoring of the dead bodies of the slain, the wanton destruction of harvests, trees, animals, etc. and all other forms of cruelty, barbarism and vandalism. The Muslims were allowed to use force only where it was absolutely indispensable and to the extent it was absolutely necessary.

191. And kill them wherever you overtake them, and expel them from wherever they have expelled you, and persecution is worse than killing.*202 And do not fight them at Al Masjid al Haram, until they fight you there. Then if they fight you, then kill them. Such is the recompense of the disbelievers.

وَأَقْتُلُوهُمْ حَيْثُ ثَقِفْتُمُوهُمْ
 وَأَخْرِجُوهُمْ مِّنْ حَيْثُ
 أَخْرَجُوكُمْ وَالْفِتْنَةُ أَشَدُّ مِنْ
 الْقَتْلِ وَلَا تَقْتُلُوهُمْ عِنْدَ
 الْمَسْجِدِ الْحَرَامِ حَتَّىٰ يُقَاتِلُوكُمْ
 فِيهِ فَإِنْ قَاتَلُوكُمْ فَاقْتُلُوهُمْ
 كَذَٰلِكَ جَزَاءُ الْكٰفِرِينَ

*202 Persecution and suppression of opinion by violence, force or threat, is the exact translation of the Arabic word fitnah, as used in this verse. The verse implies that it is a heinous offence to persecute a person or party by harassing and oppressive treatment for holding ideas and theories opposed to those in vogue at the time, and it is abominable to inflict on people injury and punishment for adhering to and propagating those ideas and theories with a view to reforming the ways of society. Though bloodshed is an evil thing, to oppress and harass others for adhering to their own faith and principles and to force them to give these up and adopt those of the oppressors is far worse. Therefore it is lawful and justifiable to use force against such people as a resort to brute force instead of argument.

192. But if they desist, then indeed, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful. *203

فَإِنْ أَنْتَهُوا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

*203 That is, you should create in yourselves those qualities which are the attributes of Allah in whom you believe who forgives even the worst offenders and criminals and shows mercy to them. You also should try to mould yourselves after this model. Your war should not be to quench your thirst for revenge but for the cause of Allah. As long as they oppose the Way of Allah and continue their fight against you, you also should fight against them, but no sooner do they stop fighting and give up their hostile attitude, you should also stop fighting.

193. And fight them until there is no persecution, and the Way is for Allah. *204 Then if they desist, then (let there be) no hostility except against the wrongdoers. *205

وَقَاتِلُوهُمْ حَتَّى لَا تَكُونَ فِتْنَةٌ وَيَكُونَ الدِّينُ لِلَّهِ فَإِنْ أَنْتَهُوا فَلَا

عُدْوَانَ إِلَّا عَلَى الظَّالِمِينَ

*204 Here the word fitnah has been used in a different sense from that in verse 191. The context clearly shows that here it denotes that condition of a society which is not safe and free for adoption of the Way of Allah. That is why the Muslims have been exhorted to continue the fight to change this state of affairs and to restore peace and freedom for the Way of Allah. It should also be noted that the Arabic word deen which has been translated here into way originally means submission and is technically used for the way of life which is built on the sovereignty of someone whose commands and regulations are to be followed. Therefore that condition of society in which there is the rule and sovereignty of man over man and in which it is not possible for anyone to follow the Way of Allah is fitnah. The aim of war in Islam is to abolish fitnah and establish Allah's Way so as to enable people to live as servants of Allah in accordance with the divine law.

unbelievers the right to enforce on God's earth any ungodly law and make the servants of Allah the servants of someone else. In order to remove such an unjust condition, Islam allows both preaching and fighting according to the requirements of the occasion. The believers, therefore, cannot rest content unless this fitnah, political domination and legal sovereignty of unbelievers, is eradicated and freedom for the Way of Allah is secured.

From the words, "Then if they desist" there should be no more hostility except against those who had been guilty of cruelty and brutality, it has been deduced that when the Islamic rule replaces ungodly rule, there should be a general amnesty save for those who had been extremely cruel and tyrannous in opposing the truth when in power. Although in this case also it behooves the believers to show forgiveness at the time of victory, yet they would be perfectly justified in punishing those who broke all limits in their blind opposition and persecution. The Prophet (peace be upon him) was an embodiment of mercy and clemency. He, himself, availed of this permission and sentenced to death Uqbah bin Abi Muait and Nadr bin Harith, two prisoners of war taken in the battle of Badr: Moreover, although a general amnesty was proclaimed after the conquest of Makkah, seventeen persons who were the worst offenders against Islam were made an exception and four of these were sentenced to death.

194. (Fighting in) the sacred month is for (the aggression committed in) the sacred month.*²⁰⁶ And for (all) violations there is legal retribution. So whoever has transgressed against you, then you transgress against him in the same way that he has transgressed against you. And fear Allah, and know that Allah is with those who are righteous.

وَأَحْرَمْتُ قِصَاصٌ فَمَنْ
أَعْتَدَى عَلَيْكُمْ فَأَعْتَدُوا عَلَيْهِ
بِمِثْلِ مَا أَعْتَدَى عَلَيْكُمْ
وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَاعْلَمُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ مَعَ
الْمُتَّقِينَ

*206 This verse answered the question that arose about fighting during the four sacred months of the lunar year, that is, Dhul-Qadah, Dhul-Hijjah and Muharram dedicated to Hajj, and Rajab to Umrah. These were called the prohibited months because ever since the time of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) war, murder, robbery and every sort of violation and infringement of law were forbidden during these months so that pilgrims might go to and return from the Kabah in peace and security. But by and by the Arabs began to violate their sanctity by a crooked device. They used to alter the usual order of the months to suit their convenience: If they wanted to attack for robbery, revenge, etc., they would violate a sacred month and then consecrate another month instead. The Muslims were, therefore, at a loss to know what to do if the unbelievers committed a breach of the sanctity of a sacred month by resorting to this vicious practice and attack them in that sacred month. This verse removed their difficulty by allowing them to fight with them in a sacred month, if the disbelievers began hostilities in it. But they, on their part, should not transgress the limits in any case: and if the unbelievers observed the sanctity of the sacred months and desisted from war, the Muslims also should do the same. But if they violated the same and attacked the Muslims, they should also retaliate in the same prohibited month.

195. And spend in the cause of Allah, and do not throw (your selves) by your own hands into destruction.*207 And do good. Indeed, Allah loves those who do good.*208

وَأَنْفِقُوا فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ وَلَا تُلْقُوا
بِأَيْدِيكُمْ إِلَى التَّهْلُكَةِ وَأَحْسِنُوا
إِنَّ اللَّهَ يُحِبُّ الْمُحْسِنِينَ

*207 To spend in the cause of Allah, is to make monetary sacrifices for the establishment of the way of life prescribed by Allah. The verse implies, if you behave selfishly and do not spend your wealth to establish the Way of Allah; you will bring yourselves to ruin in this world and to damnation in the Hereafter. In the world, Allah will set the unbelievers to dominate over you. And in the Hereafter, He will condemn you and hold you accountable for not spending the wealth given by Him in His Way.

*208 The word ihsan as used in the original is from husn which means to do a thing well. One kind of action is that a person should rest content with the mere performance of duty: this is obedience, which requires nothing more than the fear of Allah. The superior kind of deed, however, is that he should do it well: should put all his abilities and resources into it: should exert his utmost to complete it with all his heart and mind and body. This is ihsan which is motivated by a deep love for and dedication to Allah.

196. And complete the pilgrimage and the Umrah for Allah. Then if you are prevented, then (offer) what can be obtained with ease,^{*209} of sacrificial animals. And do not shave your heads until the sacrificial animal has reached its place of slaughter.^{*210} So whoever among you is sick or has an ailment of the head, then (he must pay) a ransom of fasting, or charity, or sacrifice.^{*211} Then when you are in safety,^{*212} then whoever performs Umrah with the pilgrimage, (must offer) what can be obtained with ease, of the sacrificial animals. So whoever cannot find (it), then fasting of three days while on the pilgrimage, and of seven when you have returned. That is, ten in total.

وَأَتِمُّوا الْحَجَّ وَالْعُمْرَةَ لِلَّهِ فَإِنْ
أُحْصِرْتُمْ فَمَا اسْتَيْسَرَ مِنْ
أَهْدَى وَلَا تَحْلِقُوا رُءُوسَكُمْ
حَتَّىٰ يَبْلُغَ أَهْدَىٰ مَحَلَّهُ ۚ فَمَنْ
كَانَ مِنْكُمْ مَّرِيضًا أَوْ بِهِ
أَذَىٰ مِنْ رَأْسِهِ ۖ فَفِدْيَةٌ مِّنْ
صِيَامٍ أَوْ
صَدَقَةٍ أَوْ نُسُكٍ ۚ فَإِذَا أَمِنْتُمْ فَمَنْ
تَمَتَّعَ بِالْعُمْرَةِ إِلَى الْحَجِّ فَمَا
اسْتَيْسَرَ مِنْ أَهْدَىٰ ۚ فَمَنْ لَّمْ
يَجِدْ فَصِيَامٌ ثَلَاثَةِ أَيَّامٍ فِي الْحَجِّ
وَسَبْعَةٍ إِذَا رَجَعْتُمْ ۖ تِلْكَ عَشْرَةٌ
كَامِلَةٌ ۗ ذَٰلِكَ لِمَنْ لَّمْ يَكُنْ أَهْلُهُ
حَاضِرِي الْمَسْجِدِ الْحَرَامِ ۚ

That is for him whose family is not present at Al Masjid al Haram.*213 And fear Allah, and know that Allah is severe in punishment.

وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَأَعْلَمُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ

شَدِيدُ الْعِقَابِ

*209 That is, in case you are prevented in the way from proceeding on to the Kabah and are obliged to break your journey, you should make offering of whatever animal is available camel, cow, goat to Allah.

*210 There is a difference of opinion as to what is meant here by, “Until the sacrificial animal has reached its place of slaughter.” According to the Hanafi school of thought, it refers to the bounds of the Masjid Haram. If a person is prevented on the way, he should send the animal or the money to buy one to be sacrificed there on his behalf: According to Imam Malik and Imam Shafei, the sacrifice should be made at the very place where one has been prevented. One should not, have his head shaved or the hair cut until he has offered the animal for sacrifice.

*211 According to a tradition, the Prophet (peace be upon him) directed that in such a case, one should observe fast for three days or feed six indigent persons or sacrifice at least a goat.

*212 “Safety” here refers to the removal of the cause, whatever that might have been, including the hostility of an enemy, and whatever was mainly responsible for the prevention from Hajj at that time. Just as prevention includes all the causes which prevent one from performing Hajj, so safety includes the removal of all the causes of prevention.

213 Before the advent of Islam, the Arabs thought it was a great sin to perform both Hajj and Umrah during one and the same journey. According to their self made law, different journeys had to be undertaken for each. In this verse Allah removed the self imposed restriction except for those who lived within the appointed bounds of the Sanctuary, because it was not difficult for them to undertake different journeys for Hajj and Umrah. They had merely to put off the pilgrim's garment (ihram) and release themselves from the prescribed restriction and ceremonials after the performance of Umrah and then renew the same during the Hajj days.

In order to understand the references to the Hajj rites in the succeeding verses, it will be worthwhile to state these briefly. The pilgrims should put on the pilgrims' garment (ihram) as soon as they reach a miqat, one of the fixed points on all the roads to Makkah. After this they should abide by the code prescribed for Hajj. If on reaching Makkah, a pilgrim wished to perform Umrah, he might then put off, ihram and release himself from restrictions imposed by it up to the 7th of Dhul-Hijjah. On the 8th, he should again put on ihram at Makkah and go to Mina, a valley, about six miles from there. On the 9th he should proceed to the valley of Arafat, which is about five miles further from Mina and stay there up to the evening. Then he should return to Masharil-Haram (Muzdalifah) which is midway between Arafat and Mina, and pass the night between the 9th and the 10th there in prayer, meditation and devotion. On the morning of the 10th, he should come back to Mina and offer sacrifice there. After this he should get his head shaved, put off the ihram and return to Makkah and perform Tawwaf-i-Ziarat (going around the Kabah). Then he should go to Mina and stay there for two or three days. The three days (from the 11th to the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah) are called the days of Tashriq.

197. The pilgrimage is (in) the well known months, so whoever has made obligatory (on himself) the pilgrimage in these (months), then there is no sexual relations,^{*214} nor disobedience,^{*215} nor disputing^{*216} during the pilgrimage. And whatever you do of good, Allah knows it. And take provision with you, but indeed, best provision is righteousness. And fear Me, O people of understanding.^{*217}

الْحَجُّ أَشْهُرٌ مَّعْلُومَةٌ ۖ فَمَنْ
فَرَضَ فِيهِنَّ الْحَجَّ فَلَا رَفَثَ
وَلَا فُسُوقَ وَلَا جِدَالَ فِي
الْحَجِّ ۗ وَمَا تَفَعَّلُوا مِنْ خَيْرٍ
يَعْلَمُهُ اللَّهُ ۗ وَتَزَوَّدُوا فَإِنَّ خَيْرَ
الزَّادِ التَّقْوَىٰ ۗ وَاتَّقُونِ يَا أُولِي
الْأَلْبَابِ

214 While in the state of ihram, not only intercourse between husband and wife is prohibited but that sort of conversation too, which might excite sexual passions.

215 Though all sorts of evil deeds are unlawful at all times, they become all the more grave when committed during the course of Hajj.

216 One cannot even rebuke a servant.

217 Before the advent of Islam, taking of provisions for the pilgrimage journey was considered to be a worldly act and it was expected that a pious man would go to the House of Allah without any worldly goods. Here it is declared that it is no virtue to go without provisions on pilgrimage to Makkah. Real virtue is that one should fear God, obey Him and keep one's life pure. If a pilgrim does not take any provisions with him, but commits evil deeds without any fear of Allah, he makes a profitless show of piety. In the sight of Allah and men, such a man will dishonor both himself and the pilgrimage he is performing. On the other hand, if a pilgrim has fear of Allah embedded in his heart and keeps his morals pure, he will gain honor with Allah and men, though he may have provided himself fully with provisions.

198. It is no sin upon you that you seek the bounty of your Lord (by trading during pilgrimage).^{*218} Then, when you depart from Arafat, so remember Allah at Al Mashar al Haram. And remember Him as He has guided you. And though you were, before that, among those who were astray.^{*219}

لَيْسَ عَلَيْكُمْ جُنَاحٌ أَنْ تَبْتَغُوا
 فَضْلًا مِّن رَّبِّكُمْ فَإِذَا أَفْضْتُمْ
 مِّنْ عَرَفَاتٍ فَادْكُرُوا اللَّهَ
 عِندَ الْمَشْعَرِ الْحَرَامِ
 وَأَذْكُرُوهُ كَمَا هَدَىٰكُمْ وَإِنْ
 كُنْتُمْ مِّن قَبْلِهِ لَمِنَ
 الضَّالِّينَ

218 The Arabs had another wrong notion about Hajj.

They considered it a worldly thing to do any kind of business during the Hajj season. The Quran removes this misconception also and declares that if a pious man observes the law of Allah and then does some business to earn his livelihood, he really seeks the bounty of Allah. And there is nothing wrong in seeking the bounty of Allah along with seeking His pleasure.

219 That is, you should give up all those ungodly customs of ignorance which you used to practice in pre-Islamic days along with the worship of Allah. Now worship Allah exclusively in accordance with the guidance He has revealed.

199. Then depart from where all the people depart, and ask forgiveness of Allah. ^{*220} Indeed, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

ثُمَّ أَفِيضُوا مِنْ حَيْثُ أَفَاضَ
النَّاسُ وَاسْتَغْفِرُوا اللَّهَ إِنَّ
اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

220 Ever since the time of the Prophet Abraham and Ishmael (peace be upon them), the pilgrims used to go to Arafat from Makkah on the 9th of Dhul-Hijjah for the performance of Hajj and then returned from there to Muzdalifah on the morning of the 10th. But later when the Quraish established their own priesthood, they arrogantly asserted: It is below our dignity to go to Arafat along with the common Arabs because we live in the Sanctuary. Accordingly, they reserved this mark of distinction for themselves and would halt at Muzdalifah and let others proceed on to Arafat. Then this distinction was extended to Bani Khuzaah and Bani Kinanah and the other tribes with whom the Quraish had marriage relations. Later, even the allies of the Quraish adopted this privilege of distinction and they too would stop short of Arafat. In this verse the same privilege of distinction and pride has been abolished. Addressing the Quraish, their relatives and allies in particular and the common Arabs in general it has been enjoined that they should accompany others to perform the essential ceremonials at Arafat, halt there and return along with them to Makkah, and should ask Allah's forgiveness for their breach of the Prophet Abraham's (peace be upon him) way, which they committed in the past on account of tribal pride and distinction.

200. Then when you have completed your (pilgrimage) rites, then remember Allah as you remember your forefathers, or with greater remembrance.*221 Then of mankind is he who says: "Our Lord, give us in this world," and he will not have any portion in the Hereafter.

فَإِذَا قَضَيْتُمْ مَنَاسِكَكُمْ
فَاذْكُرُوا اللَّهَ كَذِكْرِكُمْ
ءَابَاءَكُمْ أَوْ أَشَدَّ ذِكْرًا
فَمِنَ النَّاسِ مَن يَقُولُ رَبَّنَا
ءَاتِنَا فِي الدُّنْيَا وَمَا لَهُ فِي
الْآخِرَةِ مِن خَلْقٍ ﴿٢٠٠﴾

*221 After performing their Hajj, the Arabs used to hold meetings in Mina and brag about their own achievements and those of their forefathers. Here they were told to give up these customs of ignorance, and pass their time in remembering and glorifying Allah instead of singing praises of their ancestors.

201. And of them is he who says: “Our Lord, give us in this world (what is) good, and in the Hereafter (what is) good, and save us from the punishment of the Fire.”

وَمِنْهُمْ مَّنْ يَقُولُ رَبَّنَا آتِنَا فِي
الدُّنْيَا حَسَنَةً وَفِي الْآخِرَةِ
حَسَنَةً وَقِنَا عَذَابَ النَّارِ ﴿٢٠١﴾

202. Those, for them is a portion of what they have earned. And Allah is swift at reckoning.

أُولَئِكَ لَهُمْ نَصِيبٌ مِّمَّا كَسَبُوا
وَاللَّهُ سَرِيعُ الْحِسَابِ ﴿٢٠٢﴾

203. And remember Allah during the appointed days. Then whoever hastens in two days, then there is no sin upon him, and whoever delays, then there is no sin upon him, ^{*222} for him who fears (Allah). And fear Allah, and know that to Him you will be gathered.

﴿٢٠٣﴾ وَادْكُرُوا اللَّهَ فِي أَيَّامٍ مَّعْدُودَاتٍ
فَمَنْ تَعَجَّلَ فِي يَوْمَيْنِ فَلَا إِثْمَ
عَلَيْهِ وَمَنْ تَأَخَّرَ فَلَا إِثْمَ عَلَيْهِ
لِمَنِ اتَّقَىٰ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَأَعْلَمُوا
أَنَّكُمْ إِلَيْهِ تُحْشَرُونَ ﴿٢٠٣﴾

222 That is, it does not matter whether you return from Mina to Makkah on the 12th or the 13th of Dhul-Hijjah during the Tashriq days. The real thing that matters is not the number of days you stayed at Mina but whether you spent those days in establishing your relation with Allah during those days or in merry making.

204. And of the people is he whose speech pleases you (O Muhammad) in worldly life, and he calls Allah to witness as to what is in his heart.^{*223} And he is the fiercest of opponents.^{*224}

وَمِنَ النَّاسِ مَن يُعْجِبُكَ قَوْلُهُ
فِي الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا وَيُشْهَدُ اللَّهَ
عَلَىٰ مَا فِي قَلْبِهِ وَهُوَ أَلَدُّ
الْخِصَامِ

223 This typical man of the world pretends to show that he is a sincere well wisher of the people. Time and again he assures the people, saying, Allah is my witness that I intend nothing but good. I am not working for self interest but for the sake of truth and right and for the welfare of the people. But all glib talk of this worldly wise man is hypocritical.

224 “And he is the fiercest of opponents.” Because in his enmity, he does not hesitate to employ any kind of falsehood, dishonesty, treachery or any other crooked method, in spite of his smooth tongue, plausible talk and solemn oaths in the name of Allah.

205. And when he turns away (from you),^{*225} he strives in the land to cause corruption therein, and to destroy the crops and the cattle. And Allah does not love corruption.

وَإِذَا تَوَلَّىٰ سَعَىٰ فِي الْأَرْضِ
لِيُفْسِدَ فِيهَا وَيُهْلِكَ الْحَرْثَ
وَالنَّسْلَ ۗ وَاللَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ
الْفُسَادَ

225 It may also mean, when he returns to everyday life after this glib.

206. And when it is said to him: “Fear Allah,” arrogance takes him to sin, so sufficient for him is Hell. And indeed, it is an evil resting place.

وَإِذَا قِيلَ لَهُ اتَّقِ اللَّهَ أَخَذَتْهُ
الْعِزَّةُ بِالْإِثْمِ فَحَسْبُهُ جَهَنَّمُ
وَلَبِئْسَ الْمِهَادُ

207. And of mankind is he who would sell himself, seeking the pleasure of Allah. And Allah is Kind to (His) slaves.

وَمِنَ النَّاسِ مَنْ يَشْرِي نَفْسَهُ
أَبْتِغَاءَ مَرْضَاتِ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ
رءُوفٌ بِالْعِبَادِ

208. O those who believe, enter into Islam completely,^{*226} and do not follow the footsteps of Satan. Certainly, he is an open enemy to you.

يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا أَدْخُلُوا
فِي السِّلْمِ كَآفَّةً وَلَا تَتَّبِعُوا
خُطَوَاتِ الشَّيْطَانِ إِنَّهُ
لَكُمْ عَدُوٌّ مُّبِينٌ

226 That is, come into the fold of Islam completely without any reservation. Your thoughts, your theories, your culture, your sciences, your manners, your dealings, your efforts etc. should in every aspect of life, be subordinated to Islam. You should not divide your life into different compartments so as to follow Islam in one and discard it in the other.

209. Then if you slide back after what has come to you as the clear proofs, then know that Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.*227

فَإِنْ زَلَلْتُمْ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا
جَاءَتْكُمْ الْبَيِّنَاتُ فَأَعْلَمُوا أَنَّ
اللَّهَ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ

227 That is, He is All-Powerful and also knows how to punish the criminals.

210. Do they await but that Allah should come to them in the shadows of the clouds, and the angels, and the matter would be judged.*228 And to Allah all matters are returned (for judgment).

هَلْ يَنْظُرُونَ إِلَّا أَنْ يَأْتِيَهُمُ اللَّهُ
فِي ظُلَلٍ مِنَ الْغَمَامِ
وَالْمَلَائِكَةُ وَقُضِيَ الْأَمْرُ وَإِلَى
اللَّهِ تُرْجَعُ الْأُمُورُ

228 Particular attention should be paid to these words for they enunciate a great universal truth. Allah has sent man to this world to undergo a test. He has revealed the Truth through His Messengers and given man the freedom to believe or not to believe in it, and after believing in it to submit or not to submit to it. He keeps the reality hidden from man and leaves it to him to judge it rationally in the light of the teachings of his Messengers, His Books and the signs shown by His Messengers. He never makes the reality so bare as to leave no alternative but to acknowledge it, for after that no question of a trial is left and success or failure in the test becomes meaningless. That is why Allah gives warning, as if to say, do not wait for that time when Allah with His angels will come before you in His glory. At that time your doom shall be sealed and no more chance left for any test. Then belief and submission will have no value. Belief has a value only as long as the reality remains hidden from your senses and you recognize and acknowledge it by means of your own reasoning and then prove your moral courage by submitting to it without any coercion. When you see with your own eyes Allah on the throne of His glory and angels functioning on the earth and in the heavens and find yourself completely in His power, then belief and submission will have no value. At that time even confirmed sinners and obdurate unbelievers will not dare to disbelieve or disobey. But then it will be useless because the time for test will be over. When the curtain is raised and the reality is seen by everyone, then no more chance shall be given, nor shall there be any more test because that will be the time of the judgment.

211. Ask the Children of Israel how many of clear signs We have given them. And whoever changes the favor of Allah after what has come to him, then surely Allah is severe in punishment.*229

سَلَّ بَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ كَمْ ءَاتَيْنَاهُمْ
مِّنْ ءَايَةٍ بَيِّنَةٍ وَمَنْ يُبَدِّلْ نِعْمَةَ
اللَّهِ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا جَاءَتْهُ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ
شَدِيدُ الْعِقَابِ

*229 The Muslims have been told to enquire about it especially from the children of Israel because the latter were a living object lesson for the former who were now replacing them as leaders of the world. The children of Israel had been favored with prophethood and divine Book and had been entrusted with leadership for the guidance of the world but they had deprived themselves of this blessing (leadership) for involving themselves in wretchedness in the lusts of this worldliness, duplicity and in the evil deeds of pseudo knowledge. Therefore the Muslims who were replacing them were forewarned to be on their guard against these evils and learn a lesson from their history.

212. Beautified for those who disbelieve is the life of this world, and they ridicule of those who believe. And those who fear (Allah) will be above them on the Day of Resurrection. And Allah gives provision to whom He wills without measure.

زَيْنَ لِلَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا الْحَيَاةَ الدُّنْيَا
وَيَسْخَرُونَ مِنَ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا
وَالَّذِينَ اتَّقَوْا فَوْقَهُمْ يَوْمَ
الْقِيَامَةِ ۗ وَاللَّهُ يَرْزُقُ مَنْ يَشَاءُ
بِغَيْرِ حِسَابٍ

213. Mankind were one community, then Allah sent (to them) prophets as bearers of glad tidings, and as warners, and sent down with them the Scripture with the truth, that it might judge between mankind in that wherein they differed. And none differed over it (the Scripture), except those who were given it, after what had come to them as clear proofs, out of jealous animosity among themselves.*230 Then Allah guided those who believed concerning that in which they had differed, to the truth, by His permission. And Allah guides whom He wills to a straight path.

كَانَ النَّاسُ أُمَّةً وَاحِدَةً فَبَعَثَ

جَاءَتْهُمْ الْبَيِّنَاتُ بَغْيًا بَيْنَهُمْ
فَهَدَى اللَّهُ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لِمَا
اٰخْتَلَفُوا فِيهِ مِنَ الْحَقِّ بِاِذْنِهِ
وَاللَّهُ يَهْدِي مَنْ يَشَاءُ اِلَى صِرَاطٍ
مُسْتَقِيمٍ

*230 Here the theory of evolution in religion has been refuted. The so called scholars say that man began his religious life in the darkness of polytheism: then by and by he began to worship God, but associated other gods with Him. This went on for a long time; at last he recognized and accepted the Oneness of God. But the Quran contradicts this and says that human life began in full divine light. When Allah created the first man, Adam, He revealed the truth to him and showed him the right way. Adam's descendants followed his way for a long time and all of them were members of one and the same community. Then they began to follow new ways and invented new religions. And they did so in spite of the fact that the truth had been shown to them just because they wanted to misappropriate to themselves more than their own due share and rights sanctioned by it. In order to prevent the misguided people, from this evil, Allah sent His Messengers to invite them to the original divine way. They were not sent to found new religious communities after their own names, but to bring those who had swerved from the right path to the original religion of mankind and to the same one community which was formed in accordance with the guidance of Allah, at the time when man began his life on the earth.

214. Or do ^{*231} you think that you will enter Paradise, while such (trial) has not come to you as the like of (that which came to) those who passed away before you. They were afflicted with poverty and adversity, and they were shaken until the messenger and those who believed with him said: "When will be the help of Allah." Yes certainly, Allah's help is near.

مَتَى نَصْرُ اللَّهِ ؕ أَلَا إِنَّ نَصْرَ اللَّهِ

231 A whole story has been left out between this verse and the preceding one, for this verse itself points to it and because it had already been related in detail in the Surahs which were revealed before this at Makkah. In the preceding verse it was stated that the Messengers, were sent to remove those differences which had arisen in religion, but the story of their hardships and long persecutions was omitted because it had already been described in detail in the Makki revelations. Hence the believers are warned that the Messengers and their followers have always had to struggle hard with the rebels against Allah in order to establish His Way, and that the true faith of Islam has never been a bed of roses. One has to exert one's utmost to establish it and to fight against all those evil forces that oppose its establishment, even at the sacrifice of one's life, if need be.

215. They ask you (O Muhammad), what should they spend. Say: "Whatever you spend of good (must be) for parents, and near kindred, and orphans, and the needy, and the wayfarer. And whatever you do of good, then indeed, Allah is Aware of it."

217. They ask you about the sacred month (and) fighting therein. Say: "Fighting therein is a great (sin). But averting (people) from the Way of Allah, and disbelief in Him, and (preventing access to) AlMasjid alHaram, and expulsion of its people there from, is greater (evil) in the sight of Allah. And persecution is greater than killing.”*232 And they will not cease from fighting against you until they turn you back from your religion, if they can. And whoever of you reverts from his religion, and dies while he is a disbeliever, then those, their deeds have become worthless in this world and the Hereafter. And those are the companions of the Fire. They will abide therein forever.*233

وَالْآخِرَةِ وَأُولَئِكَ أَصْحَابُ

*232 The objection, which was raised in the form of a question about warfare in the sacred month, refers to an incident which took place in the month of Rajab in the second year of Hijra.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) sent a detachment of eight men to Nakhlah, a place midway between Makkah and Taaif. He told them to watch the movements of the Quraish and find out their future plans. Though he had not given them permission to fight, they attacked a small trading caravan of the Quraish, killed one man and took the rest prisoners and brought them to Al-Madinah along with their goods.

As this incident took place at a time when it could not be said with certainty whether the month of Rajab had come to an end and the month of Shaban had commenced, it was doubtful whether the attack was made in Rajab, a prohibited month, or in Shaban. Nevertheless, the Quraish and their secret allies, the Jews, and the double faced Muslims of Al-Madinah, took it as a God given opportunity to make strong propaganda and raise serious objections against the believers. They ironically remarked, what a pious people they are. They do not hesitate to shed blood even in a prohibited month. Such objections have been answered in this verse which implies, no doubt, bloodshed is a very bad thing but their objection is not reasonable, coming as it does from the mouths of those people who themselves had carried on for thirteen years the most cruel form of persecution against hundreds of their own brethren for no other reason than that they believed in one Allah. They not only forced these brethren of their own to leave their beloved homes but also prevented them from paying a visit to the Kabah, although this sacred place was not the property of anyone. Their crime was all the more heinous because such a wicked antagonism had never existed during the previous two thousand years or so. Therefore those workers of iniquity, the list of whose crimes was so black, had no right to raise objections on the basis of a trivial border incident. Moreover, this incident took place without the permission of the Prophet (peace be upon him), and was, therefore, nothing more than an irresponsible act on the part of a few members of the Islamic party.

It should also be kept in view that when this detachment came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) with the prisoners and the spoils, he said, I never gave you permission to fight. He also refused to accept the share due to the public treasury from the spoils. This clearly showed that it was an unlawful and unauthorized act. The common Muslims also took their men to task for this incident and there was not a single Muslim in the whole of Al-Madinah who approved of this act of theirs.

233 Some simple minded Muslims regarded as genuine the above mentioned objection raised by the disbelievers and the Jews. They were under the wrong impression that this and the like were honest objections, and if they were removed, the objectors would be satisfied and there would be peace with them. In this verse, these Muslims have been warned not to cherish any such expectations about them because they did not raise these objections for clarification but to make propaganda against the Muslims. Their real objection against the Muslims was that they had accepted Islam and were inviting the world to it. There could, therefore, be no peace between them and the objectors as long as they stuck to their belief in Allah. Therefore the Muslims were told not to underrate the enemies of their faith. They should remember that the one who tries to turn them away from their faith is a worse enemy than the one who tries to rob them of their wealth, for the latter tries to ruin only their life in this world, which is after all transitory, while the former tries to ruin their life in the Hereafter, which is eternal.

218. Certainly, those who have believed, and those who have emigrated and have fought in the Way of Allah,^{*234} those have hope of Allah's mercy. And Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَالَّذِينَ هَاجَرُوا وَجَاهَدُوا فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ أُولَٰئِكَ يَرْجُونَ رَحْمَتَ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ غَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ

234 The word Jihad means to exert one's utmost for the achievement of an object. It is not a synonym for holy war, but has a far wider meaning than this and covers every kind of effort. And the mujahid is one who is always after the achievement of his ideal, plans for it, propagates it with his tongue and pen and struggles for it with all his heart and body. In short, he spends all his efforts and resources for its achievement and fights against all those forces that oppose it; so much so that he does not hesitate to put even his very life in danger for his ideal. The struggle and fight to such a person will be technically Jihad. A Muslim, however, is required to do all this in the Way of Allah alone under certain moral restrictions for establishing the way prescribed by Him and for elevating His word above all. And there should be absolutely no other object than this before a Muslim in performing Jihad. It has thus become clear that the Jihad of a Muslim is not general war of extermination against infidels.

219. They ask you (O Muhammad) about wine and gambling. Say: “In them is great sin, and (some) benefit for people. And the sin of them is greater than their benefit.”^{*235} And they ask you what they should spend. Say: “That which is beyond your needs.” Thus Allah makes clear to you (His) verses that you might give thought.

﴿ يَسْأَلُونَكَ عَنِ الْخَمْرِ وَالْمَيْسِرِ قُلْ فِيهِمَا إِثْمٌ كَبِيرٌ
وَمَنْفَعٌ لِلنَّاسِ وَإِثْمُهُمَا أَكْبَرُ
مِنْ نَفْعِهِمَا ۚ وَيَسْأَلُونَكَ مَاذَا
يُنْفِقُونَ قُلِ الْعَفْوَ ۗ كَذَلِكَ
يُبَيِّنُ اللَّهُ لَكُمُ الْآيَاتِ لَعَلَّكُمْ
تَتَفَكَّرُونَ ﴾

235 This was the first instruction about alcoholic and intoxicating drinks and games of chance for stakes. At first a mere disapproval of these things was pronounced to serve as a preliminary to their final prohibition. The next step in this direction was that the Muslims were prohibited from offering the Prayers when they were drunk. Finally drinking, gambling and the like were made absolutely unlawful. (Refer to An-Nisa: Ayat 43, and Al-Maidah: Ayat 90).

220. In the world and the Hereafter. And they ask you about the orphans. Say: “Improvement for them is best.”^{*236} And if you mix your affairs with theirs, then (they

﴿ فِي الدُّنْيَا وَالْآخِرَةِ ۚ وَيَسْأَلُونَكَ
عَنِ الْيَتَامَىٰ قُلْ إِصْلَاحٌ لَهُمْ
خَيْرٌ وَإِنْ تُخَالِطُوهُمْ فَإِخْوَانُكُمْ ۚ

are) your brothers. And Allah knows him who corrupts (orphan's property) from him who improves (it). And if Allah had willed, He could have put you into difficulties. Indeed, Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.”

وَاللَّهُ يَعْلَمُ الْمُفْسِدَ مِنَ
الْمُصْلِحِ ۚ وَلَوْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ
لَأَعْنَتَكُمْ ۚ إِنَّ اللَّهَ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ

236 Before the revelation of this verse, very strict warnings had been administered for the preservation of the rights of orphans. Warnings like, those who misappropriate the property of orphans fill their bellies with fire, had made the Muslims so fearful that the guardians of the orphans had made separate arrangements for their meals etc. But, in spite of all this, they feared lest any part of the property of the orphans should get mixed up with their property and they should incur the wrath of Allah. That is why they asked the Prophet (peace be upon him) to define for them the limits of their relations with orphans. They have been told to do sincerely what is best in their interest and at the same time warned that Allah knows everything.

221. And do not marry polytheistic women until they believe. And a believing slave woman is better than a woman who associates (with Allah), even though she pleases you. And do not marry polytheistic men until وَلَا تَنْكِحُوا الْمُشْرِكَةَ حَتَّىٰ

يُؤْمِنَ ۚ وَلَا امَةٌ مُّؤْمِنَةٌ خَيْرٌ مِّن
مُّشْرِكَةٍ ۚ وَلَوْ أَعْجَبَتْكُمْ ۗ وَلَا
تَنْكِحُوا الْمُشْرِكِينَ حَتَّىٰ يُؤْمِنُوا

they believe. And a believing slave man is better than a man who associates (with Allah), even though he pleases you. They invite to the Fire,^{*237} and Allah invites to the Garden and forgiveness by His permission. And He makes clear His verses to the people that they may remember.

وَلَعَبْدٌ مُّؤْمِنٌ خَيْرٌ مِّنْ مُّشْرِكٍ
 وَلَوْ أَعْجَبَكُمْ ؕ أُولَٰئِكَ يَدْعُونَ
 إِلَى النَّارِ ۖ وَاللَّهُ يَدْعُوٓا۟ إِلَى الْجَنَّةِ
 وَالْمَغْفِرَةِ بِإِذْنِهِ ۖ وَيُبَيِّنُ ؕ آيَاتِهِ
 لِلنَّاسِ لَعَلَّهُمْ يَتَذَكَّرُونَ

237 The reason why the believers have been prohibited from marrying musrhiq spouses is that, they invite you to the Fire. This means that such marriage might mislead the Muslim spouses to the ways of shirk, for the relations between husband and wife are not merely sexual but spiritual and cultural as well. It is possible that the Muslim spouse may influence the mushrik spouse and his or her family and their offspring in favor of the Islamic way of life. But it is equally possible that the mushrik spouse may imbue the Muslim spouse, his (or her) family or their offspring, with the spirit and ways of shirk. Most probably, as a result of such a marriage, a mixture of Islam and un-Islam will be bred in such a family. A non-Muslim might approve of this, but a Muslim cannot. One who sincerely believes in Islam can never take such a risk merely for the sake of the gratification of his lust. He would rather suppress his passions than do anything that might mislead him to disbelief, blasphemy and shirk or, at least mislead his progeny.

222. And they ask you about menstruation. Say: “It is a hurt,^{*238} so keep away from women during menstruation, and do not approach them until they are cleansed. So when they have purified themselves,^{*239} then go to them from where Allah has ordained upon you.^{*240} Indeed, Allah loves those who turn to Him in repentance and He loves those who purify themselves.”

وَيَسْأَلُونَكَ عَنِ الْمَحِيضِ قُلْ
هُوَ أَذًى فَاعْتَزِلُوا النِّسَاءَ فِي
الْمَحِيضِ وَلَا تَقْرُبُوهُنَّ حَتَّى
يَطْهَرْنَ فَإِذَا تَطَهَّرْنَ فَأْتُوهُنَّ
مِنْ حَيْثُ أَمَرَكُمُ اللَّهُ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
يُحِبُّ التَّوَّابِينَ وَيُحِبُّ
الْمُتَطَهِّرِينَ

238 The Arabic word adha stands both for illness and for un-cleanliness. Menses are not only a state of impurity but also of disease. During the monthly period, women are medically nearer a state of illness than of health.

239 The Quran uses indirect and covert hints and suggestions for the expression of such delicate matters. The instructions, they should be separated, and do not go near them, do not mean that the women should be made untouchables during their monthly periods, as they are made by the Jews, the Hindus and some other communities. The Prophet (peace be upon him) explained that this commandment meant only to prohibit intercourse with them during the menses. All other relations with them may be continued as before.

240 The Arabic word amr does not refer to any legal injunction but to the natural instinct that has been embedded in the nature of every human being and animal and is known to everyone.

223. Your women are a cultivation (for sowing seed) for you, so go to your place of cultivation however you will, ^{*241} and send (good) before you for your selves, ^{*242} and fear Allah, and know that you will meet Him. And give glad tidings to the believers.

نِسَاؤُكُمْ حَرْثٌ لَّكُمْ فَاتُوا
حَرْثَكُمْ أَنَّى شِئْتُمْ وَقَدِّمُوا
لِأَنفُسِكُمْ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَاعْلَمُوا
أَنَّكُمْ مُلَاقُوهُ وَبَشِّرِ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

241 Allah has not created women merely for the enjoyment and entertainment of men. The relation between the two is as serious an affair as that of a farmer and his field. The farmer does not go to his field merely for recreation and enjoyment but for cultivation to get produce from it. In the same way, a man should go to his wife to produce children. Allah's law, however, is not concerned with the method of cultivation but with the demand that man should go to the field and not elsewhere and to his own field and for production.

242 The Arabic words are comprehensive. They may imply: You should try to produce children for the continuation of your race, or you must take special pains to bring up and train them morally to be good men. Here both the aspects are implied. That is why they have been warned, in the next sentence, that they shall be called to account by Allah for any deliberate disregard of these obligations.

224. And do not make Allah (His name) an excuse in your oaths, against your being righteous, and acting piously, and making peace among mankind.*243 And Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.

وَلَا تَجْعَلُوا اللَّهَ عُرْضَةً
لِأَيْمَانِكُمْ أَنْ تَبَرُّوا وَتَتَّقُوا
وَتُصَلِّحُوا بَيْنَ النَّاسِ ۗ وَاللَّهُ
سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

243 We learn from authentic traditions that if anyone takes a thoughtless oath to do or not to do a thing and afterwards realizes that fairness demands its abrogation, he should abrogate it and expiate for it. The expiation for breaking an oath is the feeding of ten needy persons or clothing them or the liberation of a slave. If one cannot afford this, he must observe fast for three days. (See Al-Maidah: Ayat : 89).

225. Allah will not call you to account for that which is unintentional in your oaths.*244 But He will call you to account for that which your hearts have earned. And Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Forbearing.

لَا يُؤَاخِذُكُمُ اللَّهُ بِاللَّغْوِ فِي أَيْمَانِكُمْ وَلَكِنْ يُؤَاخِذُكُمْ بِمَا كَسَبَتْ قُلُوبُكُمْ ۗ وَاللَّهُ غَفُورٌ
حَلِيمٌ

244 There is neither expiation nor any punishment for those oaths that one utters unawares as a byword.

226. For those who take an oath to keep away from their wives, the waiting is four months.^{*245} Then, if they return, then indeed, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.^{*246}

لِّلَّذِينَ يُؤْلُونَ مِن نِّسَائِهِمْ تَرَبُّصُ
أَرْبَعَةِ أَشْهُرٍ فَإِن فَاءُوا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ
غَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ

245 Although it is true that relations between husband and wife do not always remain cordial, yet Allah's law does not allow that the strained relations should continue indefinitely. Therefore it lays down the maximum period of four months for a separation in which they legally remain husband and wife but practically live separate lives without any conjugal relations between them. Such a separation is termed ila in the Islamic code of law. During this period they must either make reconciliation between themselves or part for good so that they may be free to marry a suitable person of their liking.

From the words "Those who take an oath" the jurists belonging to the Hanafi and Shafie schools of thought conclude that this period of four months applies only to those cases of separation which are made on oath; if they remain separate for any length of time without an oath, this law would not apply to them. On the other hand, the jurists belonging to the Maliki school of thought are of the opinion that the maximum period of four months applies to all cases of separation. A saying of Imam Ahmad also supports this opinion.

Ali, Ibn Abbas, and Hasan Basri (may Allah be pleased with them) are of the opinion that this law applies only to that case of separation which is the result of strained relations, and does not apply to the case in which the husband and the wife agree to discontinue conjugal relations with mutual consent for some common good and at the same time keep cordial relations. There are other jurists who are of the opinion that the law of ila would apply to every case of separation made on oath irrespective of the fact whether their relations remain good or bad; hence it should not go beyond the prescribed term of four months.

*246 Some jurists interpret this to mean that if they break their oaths within four months and re-establish conjugal relations, there would be no expiation for this; Allah will forgive the breach of their oath without expiation. But the majority of jurists are of the opinion that expiation must be made in any case. Allah will forgive and show mercy, does not mean that the expiation will be remitted. It merely means that Allah will accept the expiation and forgive wrong done by each against the other during their separation.

227. And if they decide upon divorce,^{*247} then indeed, Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.

وَإِنْ عَزَمُوا الطَّلَاقَ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

*247 According to the verdict of Caliph Uthman, Ibn Masud, Zaid bin Thabit and some other jurists (may Allah be pleased with them), they can reunite only within four months. The expiry of this term itself is a proof that the husband has decided upon divorce. Hence after its expiry, divorce will automatically take place and the husband will forfeit the right of reunion during the waiting term. If, however, both of them agree, they can remarry. There is a verdict to the same effect from Umar, Ali, Ibn Abbas and Ibn Umar (may Allah be pleased with them) and the jurists of the Hanafi school have accepted the same.

Said bin Musayyib, Makh-ul, Zuhri and some others are of the opinion that after the expiry of four months, there shall be an automatic divorce but this will be a single revocable divorce and the husband will have the right to reunite within the term iddat and if he does not reunite within the term, they may remarry if they so desire.

As against this, Aishah, Abud-Darda and many other jurists of Al-Madinah (may Allah be pleased with them) are of the opinion that after the expiry of four months the case should be taken to a court so that the judge may order the husband either to reunite with his wife or divorce her. There is also a verdict of Umar, Ali and Ibn Umar (may Allah be pleased with them) to this effect and the same has been accepted by Imam Malik and Imam Shafie also.

228. And divorced women shall wait, for themselves (from getting remarried) for three menstrual periods. And it is not lawful for them that they should conceal that which Allah has created in

وَالْمُطَلَّقَاتُ
بِأَنْفُسِهِنَّ ثَلَاثَةَ قُرُوءٍ وَلَا يَحِلُّ
لَهُنَّ أَنْ يَكْتُمْنَ مَا خَلَقَ اللَّهُ فِي
أَرْحَامِهِنَّ إِنْ كُنَّ يُؤْمِنَنَّ بِاللَّهِ

their wombs, if they believe in Allah and the Last Day. And their husbands have more right to take ^{*248} them back in that (period), if they desire a reconciliation. ^{*249} And they (women) have (rights) similar to those over them according to what is equitable, and men have a degree above them. And Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.

وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ وَتُعُولَتُهُنَّ أَحَقُّ بِرَدِّهِنَّ فِي ذَلِكَ إِنْ أَرَادُوا إِصْلَاحًا وَهُنَّ مِثْلُ الَّذِي عَلَيْنَّ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ وَلِلرِّجَالِ عَلَيْنَّ دَرَجَةٌ ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ

248 That is, fear Allah and do not divorce your wives for frivolous and unjustifiable reasons, for He knows everything.

249 Jurists differ in the interpretation of this verse. According to one section of them, divorce does not take place and the husband retains the right of reunion up to the time of the purification of the wife by a bath after the third monthly course. This is the opinion of Abu Bakr, Umar, Ali, Ibn Abbas, Abu Musa Ashari, Ibn Masud and some other companions of the first rank (may Allah be pleased with them), and the Hanafi jurists have accepted the same. On the contrary, the other section says that the husband forfeits the right of reunion as soon as the wife has a discharge of the third monthly course. This opinion is held by Aishah, Ibn Umar and Zaid bin Thabit (may Allah be pleased with them), and the Shafie and the Maliki jurists have adopted the same. It must, however, be clearly understood that the husband retains the right of reunion only in the case when he has pronounced one divorce or two divorces, but he forfeits the right of reunion when he has pronounced three divorces.

229. Divorce is twice, then (a woman) must be kept on reasonable terms,^{*250} or be separated in kindness. And it is not lawful for you that you take anything back from that which you have given them (women),^{*251} except that both fear that they may not keep the limits (ordained by) Allah. Then if you fear that they may not keep the limits of Allah, then it is no sin for either of them in that by which she ransoms herself.^{*252} These are the limits by Allah, so do not transgress them. And whoever transgresses the limits of Allah, then it is those who are the wrongdoers.

250 This brief verse was meant to reform a serious social evil common in Arabia before the advent of Islam. A husband was allowed to pronounce divorce as often as he pleased. Whenever his relations were strained with his wife, he would pronounce a divorce and then reunite as and when it suited him. As there was no limit to this, it was repeated over and over again. Thus the wife could neither have conjugal relations with him, nor was free to marry anyone else. This verse of the Quran shuts this door of cruelty. During his whole married life, a husband may use the right of divorce and reunion with one wife only twice. After that whenever he pronounces divorce for the third time, wife shall be separated from him permanently.

In order to check hasty action and leave the door open for reconciliation at many stages, the right method of pronouncing divorce as taught in the Quran and the traditions is that if and when it becomes inevitable, it should be pronounced only when she is not in her menses and even if a dispute arises during the monthly period, it is not right to pronounce divorce during that condition, but he should wait for her to cleanse herself and then may pronounce a single divorce, if he so likes. Then he should wait for the next monthly course and pronounce the second divorce if he so wishes after she is cleansed. Then he should wait for the next monthly course to pronounce the third and final divorce after she is cleansed. It is, however, better to wait and reconsider the matter after the first and second pronouncements, for in the case of one or two divorces, the husband retains the right to take her back as his wife before the expiry of the term, and even if the term has expired, the couple has a chance to remarry by mutual consent. But if divorce is pronounced for the third time in the third period of purity, the husband forfeits the right to take her back nor can the couple remarry.

As for those ignorant people who pronounce all the three divorces in one and the same sitting, they commit a heinous sin against the law. The Prophet (peace be upon him) has very severely denounced this practice and Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) used to whip the husband who pronounced three divorces at one and the same sitting.

251 The husband has no right to demand anything of the dower given to the wife in consideration for the marriage or ornaments, clothes etc., given to her as gifts. It is utterly against the moral principles of Islam to ask for the return of anything given to her as a present or gift. The Prophet (peace be upon him) has likened this disgraceful behavior to the licking up of his own vomit by the dog. It is indeed very shameful on the part of a husband to keep back or demand, after the divorce, what he himself gave to his wife. As a matter of fact Islam exhorts the husband who divorces his wife to give her something at her departure. (See Al-Baqarah: Ayat 241).

252 When divorce is obtained by the wife from her husband by compensation, it is called khula in the Islamic law. If the husband and the wife agree between themselves on some terms regarding this, the same shall be enforced. But if the case goes to the court, it will first of all try to ascertain whether the wife really dislikes her husband so much that she cannot live with him any longer. Then if the court is satisfied that they cannot live together happily, it shall fix as compensation anything that it considers proper, and the husband shall have to accept that and divorce his wife. The jurists are generally of the opinion that the compensation should not exceed the dower given by the husband.

In such a case, the husband forfeits the right of reunion after the divorce because it has been bought, so to speak, by the wife. Of course, it is lawful for them to remarry with mutual consent.

According to the majority of Muslims, the term for the wife in the case of khula is the same as that of divorce. But Abu Daud, Tirmidhi, Ibn Majah, and others have related traditions to the effect that the Prophet (peace be upon him) prescribed only one monthly course as the term for the wife after the divorce, and Caliph Uthman (may Allah be pleased with him) decided a case in accordance with this.

230. So if he has divorced her (for the third time), then she is not lawful to him afterward, until she marries a husband other than him. Then if he (the other husband) divorces her,^{*253} then it is no sin upon them both (woman and the former husband) that they reunite together, if they think that they may keep the limits of Allah. And these are the limits (ordained by) Allah,

فَإِنْ طَلَّقَهَا فَلَا تَحِلُّ لَهُ مِنْ بَعْدُ
حَتَّى تَنْكِحَ زَوْجًا غَيْرَهُ ۖ فَإِنْ
طَلَّقَهَا فَلَا جُنَاحَ عَلَيْهِمَا أَنْ
يَتَرَاجَعَا إِنْ ظَنَّا أَنْ يُقِيمَا
حُدُودَ اللَّهِ ۗ وَتِلْكَ حُدُودُ اللَّهِ يُبَيِّنُهَا لِقَوْمٍ يَعْلَمُونَ

which He makes clear for the people who have knowledge.

253 Authentic traditions warn against any pre-arranged scheme that a certain man should marry a certain divorced woman with the understanding that he would divorce her again to enable the former husband to remarry his divorced wife. This shall be an unlawful act and such a marriage shall be no marriage at all but adultery and the woman shall not become the lawful wife of the first husband by such a pre-arranged scheme. Ali, Ibn Masud Abu Hurairah and Uqbah bin-Amir, (may Allah be pleased with them) all relate the tradition to the effect that the Prophet (peace be upon him) cursed all the persons who indulge in such devices.

231. And when you have divorced women, and they have reached their term, then keep them on reasonable terms, or separate them on reasonable terms. And do not keep them (intending) to harm, that you transgress (the limits). And whoever does that, then he has indeed wronged himself. ^{*254} And do not take the verses of Allah in jest, and remember the favor of Allah upon you, and that

وَإِذَا طَلَّقْتُمُ النِّسَاءَ فَبَلَغْنَ أَجَلَهُنَّ
فَأَمْسِكُوهُنَّ بِمَعْرُوفٍ أَوْ
سَرَحوهُنَّ بِمَعْرُوفٍ وَلَا
تُمْسِكُوهُنَّ ضِرَارًا لِّتَعْتَدُوا وَمَنْ
يَفْعَلْ ذَلِكَ فَقَدْ ظَلَمَ نَفْسَهُ
وَلَا تَتَّخِذُوا آيَاتِ اللَّهِ هُزُوًا
وَأذْكُرُوا نِعْمَتَ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ وَمَا أَنْزَلَ عَلَيْكُمْ مِنْ الْكِتَابِ which He has sent down to you of the Book (the Quran) and wisdom, by which He instructs you.*255 And fear Allah and know that Allah has knowledge of all things.

وَالْحِكْمَةَ يَعِظُكُمْ بِهَا وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَأَعْلَمُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمٌ

*254 It is not right for a person to divorce his wife and then reunite with her before the expiry of the term simply to get another opportunity to torment and harass her. Therefore Allah has warned that if the husband sincerely intends to take his wife back, he should reunite with the intention of treating her well; otherwise the best thing would be to release her in a noble way.

*255 It means, do not forget the fact that Allah has appointed you to a position of the highest responsibility. He has given you the Book and taught you wisdom and entrusted you with the duty of guiding the world. You have been made the community of the golden mean, and the witnesses of virtue and truth. It does not, therefore, behoove you to play with the revelations by means of sophistry and take undue advantage of the letter of the law and lead wicked and unjust lives in your homes, when you are expected to show the right way to the world.

232. And when you have divorced women, and they have reached their term, then do not prevent them that they marry their husbands (former or new), when they agree among themselves on reasonable terms.*256 This is instructed to him, who among you believes in Allah and the Last Day. That is more virtuous for you, and purer. And Allah knows, and you do not know.

بِالْمَعْرُوفِ ذَٰلِكَ يُوعَظُ بِهِ مَن
كَانَ مِنْكُمْ يُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ

وَاللَّهُ يَعْلَمُ وَأَنْتُمْ لَا تَعْلَمُونَ ﴿٢٢٢﴾

*256 That is, if both agree to remarry after the expiry of the term, the relatives of the divorced woman should not prevent her from remarrying her former husband, who had divorced her once or twice but had not become reunited with her during the prescribed term. It may also mean that the husband who had divorced his wife thrice should not prevent her from marrying another person after the expiry of the prescribed term. There is nothing meaner that one should prevent his divorced wife from marrying another man just because he himself has divorced her.

233. And (divorced) mothers shall nurse (breastfeed) their children two complete years, for whoever intends to complete the nursing.*257 And upon the father of the child is their (mothers') provision and their clothing on a reasonable basis. No soul should be burdened beyond its capacity. A mother should not be harmed because of her child, nor should he (be harmed) whose child it is because of his child. And on (father's) heir is (the duty) like that (of the father). And if they desire weaning through mutual consent of them both, and consultation, then it is no sin for them. And if you intend to have your children nursed (by other women),*258 then it is no sin for you, provided you pay what is due from you on reasonable basis. And fear Allah, and know that Allah is Seer of what you do.

*257 This applies to all the cases in which the husband and the wife have separated in any manner divorce, khula or judicial separation, and the child is still a suckling.

*258 If the father dies, the responsibility of remunerating the mother or the wet nurse who suckles the infant lies on the guardian just as it lay on the father.

234. And those who die among you and leave behind wives, they (the wives) shall wait, keeping themselves

وَالَّذِينَ يُتَوَفَّوْنَ مِنْكُمْ وَيَذَرُونَ
أَزْوَاجًا يَتَرَبَّصْنَ بِأَنْفُسِهِنَّ أَرْبَعَةَ

(from remarrying), four months and ten (days).^{*259}

Then when they have reached their term, then there is no sin for you in that which they may do with themselves in honorable manner. And Allah is Well Acquainted of what you do.

أَشْهُرٍ وَعَشْرًا فَإِذَا بَلَغْنَ أَجَلَهُنَّ

أَنْفُسِهِنَّ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ وَاللَّهُ بِمَا
تَعْمَلُونَ خَبِيرٌ

259 This prescribed term for waiting also applies to those widows who might not have had any intercourse with their husbands. The pregnant widow is, however, an exception. Her prescribed term is her delivery whether it takes place just after the death of the husband or several months after it.

They (the wives) shall wait, implies that they must not remarry during the term, nor adorn themselves in any manner during this period. traditions give clear instructions that widows should not wear ornaments and colored and showy dresses, nor adorn themselves with any kind of make up during the term. There is, however, a difference of opinion as to whether a widow should pass the term in the house of the deceased husband or not. Umar, Uthman Ibn Umar, Zaid bin Thabit, Ibn Masud, Umm Salamah, Saeed bin al-Musayyib, Ibrahim Nakhai, Muhammad bin Sirin, and the four Imams (may Allah be pleased with all of them) are of the opinion that she should reside in the house of the deceased husband. On the contrary, Aishah, Ibn Abbas, Ali, Jabir bin Abdullah, Ata, Taus, Hasan Basri, Umar bin Abdul 'Aziz, and all the Zahiris (may Allah be pleased with all of them) are of the opinion that she is free to pass the period wherever she likes, and can also go on a journey.

235. And there is no sin for you in that to which you make indirect proposal of marriage to the women (during their waiting term), or keep it concealed within yourselves. Allah knows that you will be thinking of them. But do not promise them secretly, except that you speak honorable words. And do not resolve on the tie of marriage, until the prescribed term is reached. And know that Allah knows what is within yourselves, so fear Him. And know that Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Forbearing.

236. (It is) no sin for you if you divorce women while you have not touched them, or appointed for them an obligatory bridal gift. But provide them

260 After all some harm is done to the woman when the marital relation is broken even under such a condition. Therefore some compensation, according to one's means, must be paid.

237. And if you divorce them before that you touched them, while you have already appointed for them an obligatory bridal gift, then (give) half of that which you appointed, unless that they (women) forego the right, or foregoes it he in whose hand is the marriage contract. And to forego is nearer to righteousness. And do not forget kindness among yourselves.^{*261} Indeed, Allah is All Seer of what you do.

تَنْسُوا الْفَضْلَ بَيْنَكُمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ بَصِيرٌ

261 That is mutual generosity in dealings is essential for the harmony and betterment of human relations. Social life can never be happy if each and every person insists on his own legal rights.

238. Guard upon (obligatory) prayers,^{*262} and the middle prayer,^{*263} and stand in front of Allah devoutly obedient.

حَافِظُوا عَلَى الصَّلَوَاتِ
وَالصَّلَاةِ الْوُسْطَى وَقُومُوا لِلَّهِ
قَانِتِينَ

263 Interpreters differ in regard to the meaning of salat-al-wusta but the majority of them are of the opinion that it refers to one of the five prayers, and most of them have opined that it is the Asr prayer. There is, however, no definite saying of the Prophet (peace be upon him) in support of any of these interpretations. Those who are in favor of the Asr prayer infer their opinion from this tradition: In the battle of the clans, the Prophet (peace be upon him) was so engaged in repelling the invasion of the enemies that he got no time to offer the Asr prayer till sunset. Then he said, may Allah fill their graves with fire for depriving us of our salat al-wusta. From this they infer that the salat al-wusta is meant the Asr prayer. But in my opinion what the Prophet (peace be upon him) meant by this was that they were responsible for the spiritual loss the Muslims had suffered by their inability to offer their Asr Prayer in time and with peace of mind. As the prayer whose loss the Prophet (peace be upon him) regretted happened to be the Asr prayer, the interpreters were led to conclude that the Asr prayer itself was the salat al-wusta. The Arabic word wusta means both middle and excellent. Thus, salat al-wusta implies both the middle prayer and also an excellent prayer which is said in time and with full attention to Allah, that is, a prayer which has all the excellent qualities of Salat. The subsequent sentence, “And stand in front of Allah devoutly obedient” itself supports the interpretation that it meant an excellent prayer offered to Allah, having all the excellent qualities of Salat, and not any one particular prayer out of the five prescribed prayers.

239. And if you fear (the enemy), then (pray) on foot or riding. Then when you are in safety, then remember Allah, as He has taught you that which you did not know.

فَإِنْ خِفْتُمْ فَرِجَالًا أَوْ رُكْبَانًا
فَإِذَا أَمِنْتُمْ فَأَذْكُرُوا اللَّهَ كَمَا
عَلَّمَكُمْ مَا لَمْ تَكُونُوا
تَعْلَمُونَ

240. And those^{*264} who die among you, and leave behind wives. For their wives is a

وَالَّذِينَ يُتَوَفَّوْنَ مِنْكُمْ وَيَذُرُونَ أَزْوَاجًا وَصِيَّةً bequest, a provision for one year without turning (them) out (of their homes). But if they go out (of their own accord), then there is no sin for you in that which they do with themselves in honorable manner. And Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.

لَأَزْوَاجِهِمْ مَتَعًا إِلَى الْحَوْلِ غَيْرَ

أَنْفُسِهِنَّ مِنْ مَّعْرُوفٍ ۗ وَاللَّهُ
عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ

264 At the end of the discourse, this has been added as an appendix and supplement.

241. And for divorced women is a provision that is reasonable, a duty upon those who are righteous.

وَالْمُطَلَّقاتِ مَتَعٌ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ
حَقًّا عَلَى الْمُتَّقِينَ

242. Thus does Allah make clear to you His verses that you may understand.

كَذَلِكَ يُبَيِّنُ اللَّهُ لَكُمْ
آيَاتِهِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَعْقِلُونَ

243. Did you ^{*265} not see (reflect) at those who went out from their homes, and they were in thousands, fearing death. So Allah said to them: "Die." Then He raised them back to life. ^{*266} Indeed, Allah is full of bounty to mankind, but

۞ أَلَمْ تَرَ إِلَى الَّذِينَ خَرَجُوا مِنْ

عَلَى النَّاسِ وَلَئِنَّ أَكْثَرَ most of mankind do not give thanks.

النَّاسِ لَا يَشْكُرُونَ

265 From here begins a new address. In it the Muslims have been exhorted to do Jihad, i.e., to exert their utmost in the Way of Allah and make monetary sacrifices for the cause. At the same time they have been warned to guard against those weaknesses that had led to the degeneration and downfall of the children of Israel. It will help understand this address if we keep in mind the occasion of its revelation. At that time the Muslims, who had been expelled from Makkah a year or so earlier and were living as refugees at Al-Madinah, were asking over and over again for permission to fight with the disbelievers who had been persecuting them relentlessly for years. But, when the permission they themselves had asked was given, some of them began to lose heart (Refer to Al-Baqarah: Ayat 216). That is why two important events from the history of the Israelites are being related to serve as a fore-warning to the Muslims and to stimulate their zeal and courage.

266 This refers to the exodus of the children of Israel (for details see Al-Maidah: Ayats 20-26), when they had left Egypt in large numbers and were wandering as homeless in the deserts and wildernesses and were very anxious to find a home for themselves. But when inspired by Allah, the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) ordered them to fight against the Canaanites and expel them from Palestine and conquer that territory, they showed cowardice and refused to march forward. Consequently Allah left them to wander in the land for forty years so that their generation should come to an end and a new one be brought up in the hardships of the desert. Then Allah gave them victory over the Canaanites. Probably “Die. Then He raised them back to life” refers to these two aspects of the exodus.

244. And fight in the cause of Allah, and know that Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.

وَقَاتِلُوا فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ وَاعْلَمُوا
أَنَّ اللَّهَ سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

245. Who is he that would loan to Allah a goodly loan,^{*267} so that He may multiply it for him many times. And it is Allah who restricts and grants abundance. And unto Him you will be returned.

مَنْ ذَا الَّذِي يُقرِضُ اللَّهَ قَرْضًا
حَسَنًا فَيضْعِفُهُ لَهُ أضعافًا
كثيرةً وَاللَّهُ يَقْبِضُ وَيَبْصُطُ
وإِلَيْهِ تُرجعونَ

267 “Goodly loan” is that which is lent without any idea of personal gain or interest but is given with the sole intention to please Allah. Allah in His bounty credits the wealth thus spent in His Way as a loan on Himself. He promises that He will not only return the actual debt but increase it manifold, provided that it is a good loan in the real sense and is lent merely to please Him and for the sake of the objects He approves.

246. Did you not see (reflect) at the leaders of the Children of Israel after Moses, when they said to a prophet of theirs: “Appoint for us a king, we will fight in the cause of Allah.”*268 He said: “Would it perhaps be, if fighting was prescribed for you, that you would not fight.” They said: “And what is it with us that we should not fight in the cause of Allah, and indeed we have been driven out from our homes and our children.”

أَلَمْ تَرَ إِلَى الْمَلَأِ مِنْ بَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ مِنْ بَعْدِ مُوسَى إِذْ

But when fighting was prescribed for them, they turned away, except a few of them. And Allah is aware of the wrongdoers.

قَالُوا لِنَبِيِّهِمْ أَتَبَعْتُمْ لَنَا مَلِكًا
نُقَاتِلُ فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ قَالَ هَلْ

أُخْرِجْنَا مِنْ دِيَارِنَا وَأَبْنَائِنَا
فَلَمَّا كُتِبَ عَلَيْهِمُ الْقِتَالُ تَوَلَّوْا
إِلَّا قَلِيلًا مِّنْهُمْ وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ
بِالظَّالِمِينَ

*268 This incident has been mentioned here to fore-warn the Muslims about the hardship and trials of Jihad. About 1000 B.C. the Amalikites tyrannized over the Israelites and usurped many parts of Palestine from them. At that time the Prophet Samuel (peace be upon him), who was at the helm of the affairs of Israel, had grown very old. So the elders of Israel went to Prophet Samuel (peace be upon him) and said, “You are old. Now appoint a king for us to rule over us and march in front of us and fight in the Way of God.” They asked for a king to rule over them like all other nations. They made this demand because under the evil influence of the irreligious foreign rulers, they had forgotten the very distinction between the divine rule and kingship. That is what displeased Samuel and incurred the wrath of the Lord. Here are given some details from Chapters 7, 8, 12 of I Samuel.

And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life. And it came to pass when Samuel was old, then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah, and said unto him, behold, thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways; now make us a king to judge us like all the nations. But the thing displeased Samuel, when they said, "Give us a king to judge us". And Samuel prayed unto the Lord. And the Lord said unto Samuel, Harken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them. And Samuel told all the words of the Lord unto the people that asked of him of a king. And he said, This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots. And he will appoint them captains over thousands and captains over fifties; and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots. And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers. And he will take your fields and your vineyards, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyard, and give to his officers and to his servants. And he will take your men servants, and your maid servants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses, and put them to his work. He will take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants. And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king which ye shall have chosen yourselves; and the Lord will not hear you in that day. Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, Nay; but we will have a king over us; that we also may be like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us and fight our battles. And the Lord said to Samuel, Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king. (7:15, 8:4-22).

And Samuel said unto all Israel, Behold, I have hearkened unto your voice, and have made a king over you. And when ye saw that Nahash the king of the children of Ammon came against you, ye said unto me, Nay; but a king shall reign over us: when the Lord your God was your king. Now therefore behold the king whom ye have chosen, and whom ye have desired, and behold, the Lord hath set a king over you. If ye will fear the Lord and serve Him, and obey His voice, and not rebel against the commandment of the Lord then shall both ye and also the king that reigneth over you continue following the Lord your God: but if ye will not obey the voice of the Lord, but rebel against the commandment of the Lord, then shall the hand of the Lord be against you, as it was against your fathers. Moreover, as for me God forbid that I should sin against the Lord in ceasing to pray for you: but I will teach you the good and the right way. But if ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed, both ye and your king. (12:12-23)

From the above quotations, it is quite clear that God and His Prophet did not approve of their demand for a king. As to the question, why has not God condemned in the Quran this demand of the elders of Israel for a king, the answer is obvious. The story has been related here only for the benefit of the Muslims so that they may learn a lesson from this. Therefore there was no occasion for the condemnation or approval of the institution of kingship, and it would have been irrelevant to discuss whether this demand was right or wrong. Here the only object in view is to state the cause of the downfall of the Israelites, their cowardice, self-worship and lack of discipline so that these might serve as a fore-warning to the Muslims and they should avoid the nourishment of such weaknesses amongst themselves.

247. And their prophet said to them: “Certainly, Allah has appointed for you Saul^{*269} as a king.” They said: “How can he have kingship over us and we are more deserving of the kingship than he is, and he has not been given any abundance in wealth.” He said: “Indeed, Allah has chosen him over you, and has increased him abundantly in knowledge and stature.

269 The Bible says, now there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was Kish. And he had a son whose name was Saul, a choice young man and a goodly person: and there was not among the children of Israel a goodlier person than he: from his shoulders and upward he was higher than any of the people. And the asses of Kish, Saul's father, were lost. And Kish said to Saul his son, Take now one of the servants with thee, and arise, go seek the asses. And when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out against them. And when Samuel saw Saul, the Lord said unto him, behold the man whom I spake to thee of this same shall reign over my people. And Samuel took Saul and his servant, and brought them into the parlor and made them sit in the chiefest place among them that were bidden which were about thirty persons. Then Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head and said, the Lord hath appointed thee to be captain over his inheritance. And Samuel said to all the people, See ye him whom the Lord hath chosen. (I Samuel, chapters 9, 10).

Saul was appointed to be leader of Israel at the command of God like Aaron. David and Christ (peace be upon them all), but the Quran or the traditions do not say explicitly whether he was appointed as a Prophet as well. His appointment as a king by God does not necessary mean that he was also made a Prophet.

248. And their prophet said to them: “Certainly, the sign of his kingship is that there shall come to you the ark in which is reassurance from your Lord, and a remnant of that left behind by the family of Moses, and the family of Aaron, the angels carrying it.^{*270} Indeed, in that shall be a sign for you if you are believers.”

270 Though the Bible differs a little from the Quran about the details of the ark, yet we learn much from it.

The Israelites considered the ark to be very sacred, that is the ark of the covenant. They believed that by means of it, God may come among us and rescue us from the power of enemies. That is why its return gave them peace of mind and courage.

The ark contained the sacred relics of the house of Moses and Aaron (peace be upon them). These were the fragments of the tablets given to Moses on the Mount Sinai. Besides, there was the original copy of the Torah which was written under the guidance of Moses and given to the Levites. It also contained a bottle of manna so that the future generations of Israel should be grateful to Allah for the blessing which He had bestowed upon their forefathers in the desert. Probably it also contained the staff of Moses, which was a great sign of Allah.

Probably the Quran refers to the incident mentioned in chapters 4, 5, 6, of I Samuel.

The ark of the Lord was captured by the Philistines in a battle in which the Israelites were routed. The Israelites were so disheartened that they cried, the glory is gone from Israel on account of the capture of the ark of God. The ark remained in the land of the Philistines for seven months but there was deadly panic in every town to which it was driven, for "God laid a heavy hand upon them there." So much so that they began to cry, "The ark of the God of Israel must not remain amongst us any longer for His hand is severer on us." Then they decided to send it back to Israel. They took two milch kine, and tied them to the cart. And the kine took the straight way to the way of Bethshemesh .

As the cart was driven without any driver, obviously it was being driven by the angels towards the children of Israel under the direction of God.

249. Then when Saul went out with the soldiers, he said: "Indeed, Allah will be testing you with a river. So whoever drinks from it, is then not of me. And whoever does not taste it, he is indeed of me, except him who takes (from it) in the hollow of his hand."

فَلَمَّا فَصَلَ طَالُوتُ بِالْجُنُودِ

أَغْرَفَ غُرْفَةً بِيَدِهِ فَشَرِبُوا

Then they drank from it, except a few of them.*271

Then when he had crossed it (the river), he and those who believed with him, they said: “There is no power for us this day against Goliath and his soldiers.”*272 Those who knew that they would meet Allah said: “How many a small company has overcome a large company by Allah’s permission. And Allah is with those who are patient.”

فِئَةً كَثِيرَةً بِإِذْنِ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ مَعَ
الصَّابِرِينَ

*271 The river might have been the Jordan or some other stream or rivulet, which Saul had to cross with the army of Israel. As he knew there was very little discipline in his community, he applied this test to sift the competent from the incompetent, and the brave from the cowardly. It is obvious that those, who could not control their thirst for a little while, could not be trusted to keep discipline in the face of that enemy by whom they had previously been defeated.

As the same test was applied by Gideon before Saul. Critics of the Quran have come to the strange conclusion that Gideon and Saul are here (Ayat 249) confused. Of course, by this they wanted to show that the Quran was not a revealed Book but was the invention of Muhammad (peace be upon him). This objection is absurd on the face of it. If two similar events had happened and only one of these is mentioned in the Bible, it does not prove that the other did not happen just because it was not mentioned in it. Moreover, it has never been claimed that the Bible contains the complete history of the Israelites with its full details. The very fact that the Talmud contains many incidents which are not mentioned in the Bible is a proof thereof.

*272 Probably these were the people who had shown lack of endurance by the riverside.

250. And when they went against Goliath and his soldiers, they said: "Our Lord, Bestow on us endurance, and make firm our foothold, and give us victory against the disbelieving people."

273 According to the Bible, David was a youth at that time. Once he reached the army of Saul at the time when Goliath, the champion of the Philistines, was uttering his challenge: “I defy the force of Israel. Give me a man and let us have a fight.” Hearing these words the Israelites were dismayed and daunted, but David said to Saul, “Let not my Lord’s courage fail him: Your servant will go and fight the Philistines.” Saul would not agree but David persisted and was allowed to fight with him. When Goliath saw him, he despised him for his youth and said, come here and I will give your flesh to the birds of the air and the beasts of the field. Then David answered, the Eternal will deliver you into my hands so that all the world may learn that Israel has a God, till all here present, learn that the Eternal does not save by sword and spear. The fight is in the Eternal’s hands, and He will put you in our power. Then David slew him and became very popular among the Israelites. Saul gave his own daughter to him in marriage and after him he became the king of Israel.

274 In order to keep peace and order on the earth, Allah allows different groups, different nations and different parties to gain and retain power to a certain limit but when they transgress that limit, He replaces them by others and breaks their power. If Allah had allowed any one party or nation to continue in power forever, Allah's earth would have been filled with utter confusion and disorder.

But they differed, then among them were some who believed, and among them were some who disbelieved. And if Allah had willed, they would not have fought. But *275 Naturally a question arises: Why does not then Allah will it? Why does He allow differences that sometimes result in wrangling, even fights? Is He helpless to stop these? Of course, He is All-Powerful and could have stopped these and none would have dared to swerve even the least from the guidance He sent through His Messengers. But it is not His will to force people to follow a particular, defined fixed way, because He has sent man on the earth for a trial. If He had taken away freedom of action from man, the trial would have become meaningless. He sent His Messengers to invite the people to the right way and convince them by arguments and signs. The Messengers were not sent to force people to believe and submit to Allah. Differences and fights took place because the people abused the limited freedom of will and freedom of action which was given to them by Allah and then invented ways of life different from that way which was sent down by Allah. Thus it is quite obvious that differences did not arise because Allah failed (though He willed) to force the people to choose the right way. Of course, Allah is able to do anything He wills.

وَالْأَرْضَ وَلَا يَئُودُهُ حِفْظُهُمَا
وَهُوَ الْعَلِيُّ الْعَظِيمُ

278 Though ignorant people might make several gods and set up objects of worship, the fact remains that the whole of creation belongs to the Eternal, who has no partner whatsoever. He is the living Allah who sustains the whole universe. He alone is the Master of His kingdom. None else is a partner in His attributes, characteristics, powers and rights. Hence a lie is invented whenever any false god is set up beside Allah on the earth or in the heavens and a war is waged against the truth.

279 This refutes the conception of Allah which is based on the assumption that He has weaknesses and limitations like imperfect human beings. For instance the Bible says, “And on the seventh day God ended His work which he had made: and He rested on the seventh day from all the work which He had made” (Genesis 2:2), and “Then the Lord awaked as one out of sleep, and like a mighty man that shouteth by reason of wine.’ (Psalms 78:65). Of course, Allah is absolutely free from such weaknesses.

280 He is the Master and Owner of the earth and the heavens and each and every thing contained in them, and none else has any part or share in His ownership, His Authority, His kingdom, His sovereignty and His rule. Anyone or anything that can be conceived as god will surely be a part of the universe and every part of this universe is Allah’s property and cannot, therefore, be His partner or rival.

281 This refutes the wrong notion of those who are under the delusion that saints, angels, etc., wield great influence with Allah, and they will intercede with Him and force Him to pardon them. They are being warned that no creature of His can stand before Him and intercede for others, not to speak of forcing Allah to pardon them. No prophet, no angel, and no saint will dare utter a word without the permission of the Sovereign of the universe.

282 According to the Quran, it is an unpardonable sin to associate any partner or set up any rival to rank with Allah or to assume for oneself His rights or characteristics in any way whatsoever. This is called shirk. In the preceding verse, the Quran strikes at the very root of shirk by declaring that Allah's Sovereignty is unlimited and His Power is absolute. In this verse the same thing is presented from another point of view, by posing the question: How can anyone interfere in the management of the universe when none possesses that knowledge which is a prerequisite for this? The knowledge of the angels and human beings is so imperfect that none of them can understand the system of the universe and, therefore, any interference in its management would invariably result in chaos. Not to speak of the management of the universe, people cannot even know in what lies their own good. It is thus obvious that they should have full confidence in the guidance of Allah who is the real source of all knowledge and who knows in what lies their own good.

283 The word kursi (chair) has been used here figuratively as a symbol of power and authority. Even in English the word chair is used for the seat of authority, and government.

*284 This verse is known as Ayat al-Kursi. It gives such a perfect knowledge of Allah that has no parallel elsewhere. That is why a tradition has declared it to be the best verse of the Quran.

Here a question arises: In what connection has Allah and His attributes been mentioned in this place? In order to answer this question, we should survey the address which begins from verse 243. First of all the believers have been exhorted to exert their utmost in the Way of Allah and make sacrifice of life and property for its establishment. They have also been warned to ward off those weaknesses in which the Israelites were involved. Then it has been impressed upon them that success does not depend merely upon numbers, provisions and armaments, but upon faith, fortitude, discipline and firm determination. Then the wisdom of war as a weapon with which Allah repels one group by another has been stated; that is, if only one group or one party had been allowed to continue in power, it would have made life difficult for its rivals and opponents. Then it has been shown that Allah is not powerless to remove differences from among the people but it is not His will to remove these forcibly. Therefore He sends His Messengers with the truth for this purpose, but leaves the people free to accept or reject it. Again as in the beginning of this discourse, the Muslims have been enjoined to spend their wealth in the Way of Allah. Then in this verse it has been declared that in spite of the differences in the creeds and the religions of the people, the fact is that Allah sustains and controls the whole universe. Of course, it is not His will to force the people to believe in Him, but He only warns them through His Messengers that those, who will believe in Him and sacrifice their lives and properties in His Way in order to please Him, will be gainers and those, who will disbelieve, shall be losers.

256. There shall be no compulsion in the religion.*285 The right path has indeed become distinct from the wrong. So whoever disbelieves in false deities,*286 and believes in Allah, then certainly he has grasped the most trustworthy handhold with no break in it. And Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.

لَا إِكْرَاهَ فِي الدِّينِ قَدْ تَبَيَّنَ

أَنْفِصَامَ لَهَا وَاللَّهُ سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

*285 The word deen implies the concept about Allah as stated in the Ayat al-Kursi above as well as the entire way of life built on it. The verse means that the creed of Islam and its way of life cannot be thrust upon anyone forcibly. As a matter of fact, this cannot be forced upon anyone.

*286 The word taghut literally applies to everyone who transgresses the limits. The Quran uses this word for one who rebels against Allah and claims himself to be the master and sovereign of His servants and forces them to become his servants.

Man's rebellion against Allah has three degrees of criminality:

- (1) One is fasiq (disobedient) if one professes to be His subject but practically acts against His commandments;
- (2) One is kafir (disbeliever) if one becomes independent of Him or owes allegiance to someone else;
- (3) One is taghut if one rebels against Allah and exerts to make His subjects subservient to himself. Such a one may be Satan or a priest or a religious or a political leader or a king or a state. Therefore no one can be a true believer of Allah unless he disowns taghut.

257. Allah is the protector of those who believe. He brings them out from darkness^{*287} into light. And those who disbelieve, their supporters are false deities.^{*288} They take them out of light into darkness. Such are the companions of the Fire. They will abide therein forever.

مِنَ النُّورِ إِلَى الظُّلُمَاتِ
أُولَئِكَ أَصْحَابُ النَّارِ هُمْ

287 "Darkness" stands for the darkness of ignorance that causes one to go astray from the right way, and to spend all one's efforts and energies in wrong way. In contrast to this,

“light” stands for the light of the truth which enables one to see clearly the reality and perceive the real aim of life and follow consciously and deliberately the right way.

*288 Though taghut is singular in form, here it is plural in meaning, for the one who rejects Allah becomes a slave not of one but of several forms of taghut, One of these is Satan who goes on tempting him with many false and alluring temptations. Another is his own self that makes him a slave of passions and lusts and misleads him into crooked ways. Then there are others, his wife and children, his kith and kin, his clan and family, his friends and nation, his political and religious leaders and his government. All these are taghut for him and desire to make him a slave of their wishes and ambitions. And this slave of all these masters wastes his whole life in trying to accomplish the impossible feat of pleasing each and every one of them.

258. Have^{*289} you not seen (come to know) of him who had argued with Abraham^{*290} about his Lord, because Allah had given him kingship.^{*291} When Abraham said: “My Lord is the one who gives life and causes death,” he said: “I give life and cause death.” Abraham said: “Indeed, Allah brings up the sun from the east, so bring it

*289 In the foregoing verse it was declared that Allah is the helper and protector of a believer and brings him out of darkness, and taghut is the helper of the unbelievers and misleads them into darkness. Now three events are cited as a proof thereof. The first is the instance of a person to whom the truth was presented with so clear arguments that he could not find any answer against them. But in spite of this, he did not accept it because he was misled by taghut and so he went on wandering in the darkness. The other two instances are of those who had full confidence in Allah, so Allah not only took them out of darkness into light but also made them eye witnesses of the unseen reality to enable them to give testimony concerning it.

*290 The person referred to is Nimrod who was the king of Iraq, the land of the birth of Abraham (peace be upon him). The Bible does not mention this dispute but the Talmud relates it in detail and its version is substantially the same as that of the Quran. It says that Abraham's father was the chief officer of king Nimrod and a great favorite with his royal master. His son Abraham (peace be upon him) was a lover of the Lord from his earliest childhood. When he grew up he began to preach openly the Oneness of God and condemn the association of any partner or rival with Him. In order to demonstrate this, he broke the idols and his father hastened before king Nimrod and denounced Abraham (peace be upon him), saying, “He has acted so and so; let him be brought before thee for judgment.” Abraham (peace be upon him) was summoned before the king and the dispute mentioned here took place between them.

291 The point at issue in the dispute was as to whom Abraham (peace be upon him) acknowledged as his Lord, Allah or Nimrod. The dispute arose because of the arrogance of Nimrod whom Allah had given kingdom. In order to understand the true nature of the dispute the following should be kept in view:

(1) It has always been a common characteristic of all the mushrik societies to accept Allah as the God of gods and the Lord of lords but, at the same time, to associate other gods and lords with Him, so as not to acknowledge Him exclusively as the Lord and God and worship Him as the Deity.

(2) They have always divided Godhead into two parts the supernatural Godhead and the sovereign Godhead. They assign to God the supernatural Godhead which controls every kind of cause that produces an effect: so they turn to Him for help in their needs and difficulties but in their ignorance they set up spirits, angels, jinns, stars and many others as partners with the Supreme God, and pray to them, worship them and present offerings to them at temples dedicated to them. As to the sovereign Godhead, which really belongs to God and entitles Him alone to prescribe the way of life and to demand obedience to His commandments and to have absolute authority over all the affairs of the world, the mushrikin have in every age either totally usurped this rank of Godhead from God and handed it over to royal families, priests, guides, elders of society, etc. or divided it between these gods and God. That is why the royal families have often claimed the rank of Godhead in the second sense, and in order to strengthen their claim, have declared themselves to be descendants of gods in the first sense, and the priests have always strengthened and supported them, in their evil designs of becoming gods.

(3) Nimrod claimed to be a god possessing the rank of sovereign godhead. He did not deny the existence of God nor did he claim to be the creator of the heavens and the earth nor the sustainer and ruler of the universe. He only claimed to be the absolute lord and sovereign of Iraq and its inhabitants. His claim was that whatever he said was law and there was none over him to whom he might be held accountable: therefore any inhabitant of Iraq who did not acknowledge him exclusively as his lord was a rebel.

(4) The dispute referred to arose when Abraham (peace be upon him) declared, "I acknowledge the Lord of the universe exclusively as my Lord and God of worship and I disown categorically the lordship and godhead of everyone else." Obviously, the declaration of this creed not only struck at the root of the national religion and religious gods but at the national state and its central power, king Nimrod, who claimed to be the absolute lord of Iraq. That is why it was not tolerated and the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) was brought before Nimrod for trial as a rebel.

292 Although Abraham (peace be upon him) had made it quite clear in his very first sentence that there can be no other lord than Allah, yet Nimrod impudently tried to refute his argument. But after the second argument, Nimrod was so shocked that he could not find any further argument to continue the dispute, as he himself knew and acknowledged that the sun and the moon were under the command of that God whom Abraham (peace be upon him) acknowledged as Lord. He, however, would not accept this truth which had become quite clear even to him because to accept it meant the giving up of his claim to despotism. As the rebel within him was not ready for this, he would not come out from the darkness of self worship into the light of the truth, even though he was dumbfounded. If he had made Allah his patron instead of his own self, he would have found the right guidance from Abraham's preaching. The Talmud says that after this dispute the king sent him to prison, where he remained for ten days. Then the king and his council sentenced him to be burnt alive and cast him into the flaming furnace. This incident has been mentioned in the Quran in Surah Al-Anbiya (Ayats 51-74).

259. Or as the one who passed by a township, and that had fallen down upon its roofs.^{*293} He said: "How shall Allah bring it to life after its death."^{*294}

أَوْ كَالَّذِي مَرَّ عَلَىٰ قَرْيَةٍ وَهِيَ خَاوِيَةٌ عَلَىٰ عُرُوشِهَا قَالَ أَنَّىٰ يُحْيِي هَٰذِهِ اللَّهُ بَعْدَ مَوْتِهَا

So Allah caused him to die for a hundred years, then He raised him back to life. He (Allah) said: “How long did you remain (dead).” He (the man) said: “I have remained a day or part of a day.” He (Allah) said: “Nay, you have remained (dead) for a hundred years. So look at your food and your drink, they have not become spoiled. And look at your donkey, and that We may make you a sign to mankind,^{*295} and look at the bones, how We bring them together, then clothe them with the flesh.” Then when it became clear to him, he said: “I know that Allah has power over all things.”

فَأَمَاتَهُ اللَّهُ مِائَةَ عَامٍ ثُمَّ بَعَثَهُ
 قَالَ كَمْ لَبِثْتُ قَالَ لَبِثْتُ
 يَوْمًا أَوْ بَعْضَ يَوْمٍ قَالَ بَلْ
 لَبِثْتَ مِائَةَ عَامٍ فَانظُرْ إِلَى
 طَعَامِكَ وَشَرَابِكَ لَمْ يَتَسَنَّهْ
 وَانظُرْ إِلَى حِمَارِكَ
 وَلِنَجْعَلَكَ آيَةً لِلنَّاسِ
 وَانظُرْ إِلَى الْعِظَامِ كَيْفَ
 نُنشِزُهَا ثُمَّ نَكْسُوهَا لَحْمًا
 فَلَمَّا تَبَيَّنَ لَهُ قَالَ أَعْلَمُ أَنَّ
 اللَّهَ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ

293 It is useless to form conjectures as to who the person and which the township was, for it is not only irrelevant but also impossible to know this. There is no mention of these things in the Quran or the authentic traditions either, and we have no other reliable source. The purpose for which the incident has been related here is that Allah brings into light those who make Him their patron. It is, however, clear from his subsequent words that he must have been a Prophet.

*294 This question did not mean that he disbelieved in resurrection or he had any doubt about it. It simply meant that he, like other Prophets, wanted to see the reality with his own eyes.

*295 The resurrection of a person who had been dead for a hundred years was itself a living sign for the people of his age.

260. And when Abraham said: "My Lord, show me how You give life to the dead. He (Allah) said: "Do you not believe." He said: "Yes, but (I ask) that my heart may be satisfied."*296 He (Allah) said: "Then take four of the birds, and tame them with yourself, (cut them into pieces) then place on each hill a portion of them, then call them, they will come to you in haste, and know that Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.*297

وَإِذْ قَالَ إِبْرَاهِيمُ رَبِّ أَرِنِي
كَيْفَ تُحْيِي الْمَوْتَى قَالَ أُولَئِم
تُؤْمِنُونَ قَالَ بَلَىٰ وَلَٰكِن لِّيَطْمَئِنَّ
قَلْبِي قَالَ فَخُذْ أَرْبَعَةً مِّنَ الطَّيْرِ
فَصُرْهُنَّ إِلَيْكَ ثُمَّ أَجْعَلْ عَلَىٰ
كُلِّ جَبَلٍ مِّنْهُنَّ جُزْءًا ثُمَّ ادْعُهُنَّ
يَأْتِينَكَ سَعْيًا ۚ وَاعْلَمْ أَنَّ اللَّهَ
عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ

*296 That is, I want that peace of mind which is gained by actual experience.

*297 Some people have offered strange interpretations for the two above mentioned extraordinary events. But there is no need to make far-fetched interpretations, for Allah is able to do everything He wills, as the person referred to in the first event declared this. Moreover, Allah's dealings with His Prophets are of an extraordinary nature; for an ordinary believer does not need to see actually the reality with his own eyes for the performance of his duties but it is essential for the mission of a Prophet that he should see with his own eyes those realities towards which he has to invite the people. The Prophets have to tell the people with full and firm conviction: "We have seen with our own eyes those realities about which your knowledge is based on mere guess-work. You are ignorant; but We possess knowledge; you are blind, but We possess sight." That is why the angels came to them in person so that they should see them with their own eyes. They were also shown the actual working of the system of the heavens and the earth, and Paradise and Hell and resurrection after death. Though the Prophets believed in all these things even before their appointment as Messengers, they were made witnesses of the realities after their appointment as a special favor and distinction of prophethood. (For further reference, see E.N.s 17, 18, 19, 34 of Surah Hud).

261. The example of those who spend their wealth^{*298} in the Way of Allah^{*299} is as the example of a grain (of corn), it grows seven ears, in each ear is a hundred grains. And Allah increases

مَثَلُ الَّذِينَ يُنْفِقُونَ أَمْوَالَهُمْ فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ كَمَثَلِ حَبَّةٍ أَنْبَتَتْ سَبْعَ سَنَابِلٍ فِي كُلِّ سُنْبُلَةٍ مِائَةٌ manifold for whom He wills. And Allah is All Encompassing, All

Knower. *300

حَبَّةٌ وَاللَّهُ يُضْعِفُ لِمَنْ يَشَاءُ
وَاللَّهُ وَاسِعٌ عَلِيمٌ

*298 In the address which began with verse 243, the believers were exhorted to make sacrifices of life and property for the success of the great and noble cause they believed in. After strengthening their faith in Allah, for whose cause they were required to make sacrifices, the same theme has been resumed from this verse, and instructions have been given for the development of that attitude which is essential for making such sacrifices. It is obvious that people cannot make monetary sacrifices for a moral cause unless their economic point of view is totally changed. The materialists, who live and die in order to amass wealth and weigh everything in the scales of profit and loss, can never be expected to spend anything for higher ends. Even when they seem to be spending for some noble cause, they do so after calculating how far it would benefit their tribe, their own person or their nation. Obviously with such a mental attitude, one cannot move even a step forward in the Way of Allah. In order to uplift the word of Allah, one has to spend one's life, energy and wealth, irrespective of any worldly gain or loss. This way requires a broad view, great courage, a big heart and, above all, a sincere desire to win Allah's approval. Moreover, it requires radical changes in the social system in order to eradicate the materialistic morality and create spiritual values instead. That is why from here on up to verse 281, instructions have been given for the creation of that kind of moral attitude.

299 All that wealth which is spent in accordance with the divine law and only for the achievement of Allah's approval is spent in the Way of Allah, even though it might have been spent for one's own needs or those of one's relatives or for the indigent or for public works or for the propagation of Islam or for Jihad.

300 As Allah has limitless resources and knows everything, one must rest assured that the more sincere one is and the deeper feelings of devotion one has in spending the wealth in the Way of Allah, the greater will be the reward one will get from Him. One must have a firm conviction that Allah, who produces seven hundred grains from one grain, has most surely the power of developing the charity seven hundredfold.

After stating this fact, two attributes of Allah have been specially mentioned in this connection to show that the resources of Allah are boundless and He is able to reward deeds to the extent they deserve, and to show that He knows everything and is not unaware of what is spent and with what intention. Therefore there is absolutely no risk of losing one's due reward.

262. Those who spend their wealth in the cause of Allah, then do not follow what they have spent with reminders of generosity, nor (with) abuse. For them their

الَّذِينَ يُنْفِقُونَ أَمْوَالَهُمْ فِي
سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ ثُمَّ لَا يُتَّبِعُونَ مَا
أَنْفَقُوا مَنًّا وَلَا أَذَىٰ لَهُمْ reward is with their Lord. And there shall be no fear upon them, nor shall they grieve.*301

أَجْرُهُمْ عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ وَلَا خَوْفٌ
عَلَيْهِمْ وَلَا هُمْ يَحْزَنُونَ

*301 There is neither any fear of losing their due reward nor shall there ever come a time when they will regret what they have spent.

263. A kind word and forgiveness are better than charity followed by hurt. And Allah is Self Sufficient, Forbearing.*302

قَوْلٌ مَّعْرُوفٌ وَمَغْفِرَةٌ خَيْرٌ مِّنْ
صَّدَقَةٍ يَتَّبِعُهَا أَذَىٰ وَاللَّهُ غَنِيٌّ
حَلِيمٌ

*302 This implies two things. First, Allah does not stand in need of anybody's charity, for He is self-sufficient. Secondly, He likes those people who are generous, but does not like frivolous and narrow-minded people, for He Himself is generous, clement and forbearing. How, then Allah, who bestows on the people the necessities of life without stint, and forgives and pardons them over and over again in spite of their errors, would like those who mar the self-respect of a person by sending repeated reminders of their charity and making pointed references to it even though they themselves might have given only a small thing.

A tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) says that on the Day of resurrection, Allah will neither speak a word nor even so much as look at a person who makes pointed references to the gift he gave to someone.

264. O those who believe, Do not render in vain your charities by reminders of your generosity and hurting, as him who spends his wealth to be seen by the people, and does not believe in Allah and the Last Day.*303 So his example is as the example of a smooth rock upon which is dust, then a heavy rain falls upon it, which leaves it bare.*304 They are not able upon anything of what they have earned. And Allah does not guide the ungrateful people.*305

يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تُبْطِلُوا
صَدَقَاتِكُمْ بِالْمَنِّ وَالْأَذَى
كَالَّذِي يُنْفِقُ مَالَهُ رِثَاءَ النَّاسِ
وَلَا يُؤْمِنُ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ
فَمَثَلُهُ كَمَثَلِ صَفْوَانٍ عَلَيْهِ
تُرَابٌ فَأَصَابَهُ وَابِلٌ فَتَرَكَهُ
صَلْدًا ۖ لَا يَقْدِرُونَ عَلَىٰ شَيْءٍ
مِّمَّا كَسَبُوا ۗ وَاللَّهُ لَا يَهْدِي
الْقَوْمَ الْكَافِرِينَ

*303 His hypocrisy itself clearly shows that he does not believe in Allah and the Hereafter. The very fact that he practices charity so as to be seen by men, shows that they are his gods (and not Allah), from whom he expects to get his reward. A hypocrite does neither expect any reward from God nor he believes that one day all deeds will be judged and rewarded.

*304 In this parable the rain is the charity. The hard barren rock on which the rain falls is the evil intention with which that charity is practiced. The thin layer of the earth is the seeming virtue which hides the evil intention. Though rainfall makes the crop grow, it does actual harm, if it falls on a rock which has only a thin layer of soil on it, by washing away even that thin soil and leaving the rock bare. In the same way, though charity has the power of developing virtue, it fails to do so, if it is not practiced with good intentions. Without these things the wealth spent in charity is nothing more than the wealth wasted like the rainfall on the rock with a thin layer of soil.

305 The word kafir here stands for the ungrateful person. Anyone who does not spend the wealth given to him by Allah in His Way and for His pleasure but spends it to gain approbation from people, is an ungrateful wretch because he forgets the favor of Allah. It is equally true of him who spends something in the Way of Allah but at the same time does harm to the recipient. When such a person himself does not want His approval, it is not Allah's will to show him the Way of His approval.

265. And the example of those who spend their wealth seeking the pleasure of Allah, and to strengthen their own selves, is as the example of a garden on a high ground. A heavy rain falls upon it, so it brings forth its fruit twice as much. And if the heavy rain does not fall upon it, then a drizzle (is sufficient). 306 And Allah is وَمَثَلُ الَّذِينَ يُنْفِقُونَ أَمْوَالَهُمْ

 ابْتِغَاءَ مَرْضَاتِ اللَّهِ وَتَثْبِيتًا
 مِّنْ أَنفُسِهِمْ كَمَثَلِ جَنَّةٍ بِرَبْوَةٍ
 أَصَابَهَا وَابِلٌ فَآتَتْ أُكُلَهَا
 ضِعْفَيْنِ فَإِن لَّمْ يُصِبْهَا وَابِلٌ
 فَطَلٌّ ۗ وَاللَّهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ بَصِيرٌ

All Seer of what you do.

306 Heavy rainfall is that charity which is practiced with the best intentions and the deepest feelings of devotion. The light shower or drizzle is that charity which, though sincere, does not have that much depth and intensity of feelings behind it as in the former case.

266. Would any of you like that there is for him a garden of palm trees and grapevines, rivers flowing underneath it, all kinds of fruits for him in it, and he is afflicted by old age, and he has weak offspring, then it is struck by a whirlwind with fire in it, so that it is burnt.^{*307} Thus does Allah make clear (His) verses for you, that you may give thought.

أَيُّودٌ أَحَدُكُمْ أَنْ تَكُونَ
لَهُ جَنَّةٌ مِّنْ نَّخِيلٍ وَأَعْنَابٍ
تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ لَهُ
فِيهَا مِنْ كُلِّ الثَّمَرَاتِ
وَأَصَابَهُ الْكِبَرُ وَلَهُ ذُرِّيَّةٌ ضُعَفَاءُ
فَأَصَابَهَا إِعْصَارٌ فِيهِ نَارٌ
فَأَحْتَرَقَتْ كَذَلِكَ يُبَيِّنُ اللَّهُ
لَكُمْ الْآيَاتِ لَعَلَّكُمْ
تَتَفَكَّرُونَ

307 That is, it is quite obvious that you do not like the earnings of your whole life to be consumed at that critical period of your old age when you need them very badly and when there is no more chance for you to earn anything afresh. Exactly the same shall be your condition when you enter into the life-after-death without any provision for it.

You shall then realize all of a sudden, like the old man of the parable, that the earnings of your whole life were left behind in the world and were as useless for you in the other world as the consumed garden to the old man. Besides this, you shall find yourself as helpless as the old man of the parable because in the life-after-death there would be no more chance for you to earn anything for the next world. If you do not practice charity etc. in this world in the way it has been enjoined, but spend your whole life and its energies for the interest of this world only. You will meet, at your death, with the same critical and helpless situation as the old man of the parable met. He lost his only garden, the earnings of his whole life and the support of his old age at that period of his life when he himself was unable to plant a new garden, and his children were unable to do anything because of their tender age.

267. O those who believe, spend from the good things which you have earned, and from that which We bring forth for you from the earth, and do not seek the bad (with intent) to spend from it (in charity), and you would not take it (for yourselves), except that you will disdain about it. And know that Allah is Free of all wants, Worthy of all

 طَيِّبَاتِ مَا كَسَبْتُمْ وَمِمَّا
 أَخْرَجْنَا لَكُمْ مِنَ الْأَرْضِ وَلَا
 تَيَمَّمُوا الْخَبِيثَ مِنْهُ تُنْفِقُونَ
 وَلَسْتُمْ بِتَاخِذِيهِ إِلَّا أَنْ
 تُغْمِضُوا فِيهِ ۚ وَاعْلَمُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ
 غَنِيٌّ حَمِيدٌ

Praise. *308

*308 It implies that Allah who does not stand in need of anything or anyone enjoins the people to spend the best things in His Way, not for Himself but for their own good. As He has all the praiseworthy attributes and all the excellent qualities. He does not approve of anyone who has a low character. He himself is so generous that He is always showering His blessings on His creatures; therefore He does not love the narrow-minded, mean people who pick out worthless things for charity.

268. Satan threatens you with poverty and orders you of lewdness. And Allah promises you forgiveness from Himself and bounty. And Allah is All Encompassing, All Knower.

الشَّيْطَانُ يَعِدُكُمُ الْفَقْرَ وَيَأْمُرُكُم بِالْفَحْشَاءِ وَاللَّهُ
يَعِدُكُم مَّغْفِرَةً مِّنْهُ وَفَضْلًا وَاللَّهُ
وَاسِعٌ عَلِيمٌ

269. He gives wisdom to whom He wills. And whoever has been given wisdom, then certainly he has been given abundant good. *309 And none remember except men of understanding.

يُؤْتِي الْحِكْمَةَ مَن يَشَاءُ وَمَنْ
يُؤْتِ الْحِكْمَةَ فَقَدْ أُوتِيَ خَيْرًا
كَثِيرًا وَمَا يَذَّكَّرُ إِلَّا أُولُو
الْأَلْبَابِ

*309 Hikmat which has been translated as wisdom, stands for the knowledge with the power of discerning what is true and right. Hence anyone who has wisdom will not adopt the narrow ways of Satan but will follow the broad Way of Allah. According to the narrow-minded disciples of Satan, it is wisdom and cleverness to be parsimonious with their wealth and to be always on the look-out for acquiring more and more of it. On the contrary, those, who have been given true wisdom, consider this course to be very foolish. According to them wisdom is to spend one's wealth generously in good works after fulfilling one's own necessities of a moderate standard. It is just possible that the former may enjoy a more prosperous life here in this world but this is not the whole life. It is only a very small portion of the real life which continues after death. He, therefore, must be a big fool who gets enjoyment in this short life at the expense of happiness in the eternal life. The wise one is he who makes the best use of this short life and makes provision for the prosperity of the eternal life, even if he has been given small wealth here.

270. And whatever you spend of any spending, or make you a vow of vows, then indeed Allah knows it. And for the wrong doers there are not any helpers. ^{*310}

وَمَا أَنْفَقْتُمْ مِّنْ نَّفَقَةٍ أَوْ نَذَرْتُمْ
مِّنْ نَّذْرٍ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ يَعْلَمُهُ^ط وَمَا
لِلظَّالِمِينَ مِنْ أَنْصَارٍ

310 Allah is fully aware of the intentions and actions of everyone and knows whether one spends in the Way of Allah or in the way of Satan and whether one makes a vow to Allah or to someone else. Therefore those, who spend for His cause and make vows to Him, will surely get their rewards from Him. And those evil doers, who speed for the cause of Satan and make vows to others, shall have no helper to protect them from His punishment.

Nadhar (a vow) is a solemn promise made by a person to perform some act, or make some offering or gift etc. not binding on him, in case some wish of his should be fulfilled. If that wish is lawful and is asked of Allah and the vow is made to Allah alone, such a vow must be fulfilled as a religious duty, for it is in obedience to Allah. But if the wish is unlawful or the vow is made to someone other than Allah, then the making of the vow is sinful and its fulfillment would merit condemnation.

271. If you disclose (your) almsgiving, it is good, and if you conceal it, and give it to the poor, then that is better for you.^{*311} And He will remove from you some of your misdeeds.^{*312} And Allah is well Informed of what you do.

إِنْ تُبْدُوا الصَّدَقَاتِ فَنِعِمَّا هِيَ
وَإِنْ تُخْفُوهَا وَتُؤْتُوهَا الْفُقَرَاءَ
فَهُوَ خَيْرٌ لَكُمْ وَيُكَفِّرُ
عَنْكُمْ مِنْ سَيِّئَاتِكُمْ وَاللَّهُ
بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ خَبِيرٌ

311 It is better to practice the obligatory charity (Zakat) openly and every other kind of charity secretly. The same principle applies to all other religious practices. It is better to perform the obligatory duties openly and the voluntary ones secretly.

312 It helps reform the character of a man if he performs good deeds secretly. It develops virtues in him and eradicates vices. As a result, one becomes such a favorite of Allah, that Allah in view of one's virtue and sincerity, forgives any minor sins of commission or omission He wills.

272. Not (a responsibility) upon you (O Muhammad) to guide them, but Allah guides whom He wills. And whatever you spend of good, it is for yourselves. And you do not spend except seeking the pleasure of Allah. And whatever you spend of good, it will be repaid to you in full, and you will not be wronged.*313

لَيْسَ عَلَيْكَ هُدَاهُمْ
وَلَكِنَّ اللَّهَ يَهْدِي مَنْ
يَشَاءُ ۗ وَمَا تُنْفِقُوا مِنْ خَيْرٍ
فَلِأَنْفُسِكُمْ ۗ وَمَا تُنْفِقُونَ
إِلَّا ابْتِغَاءَ وَجْهِ اللَّهِ ۗ وَمَا تُنْفِقُوا
مِنْ خَيْرٍ يُؤَفَّ إِلَيْكُمْ وَأَنْتُمْ لَا
تُظْلَمُونَ

*313 In this verse a misunderstanding of the Muslims has been removed. At first they hesitated to give monetary help to their non-Muslim relatives and other non-Muslims. They thought that monetary help to Muslims alone was in the Way of Allah. Here they have been told that they have not been made responsible for thrusting guidance upon the unbelievers: their responsibility ends when they have conveyed the truth to them. It lies with Allah to bestow (or not to bestow) the light of perception. The Muslims, therefore, should not hesitate to fulfill the needs of the non-Muslims just because they have not accepted the guidance. If they fulfill the need of anyone to please Allah, He will give them their reward.

273. (Charity is) for the poor, those who have been restricted for the cause of Allah, they are not able to travel in the land (to earn their livelihood). The ignorant person would think of them wealthy because of their restraint. You shall know them by their mark (condition). They do not ask people with importunity. And whatever you spend of good, then indeed Allah knows of it.*314

لِلْفُقَرَاءِ الَّذِينَ أُحْصِرُوا فِي
سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ لَا يَسْتَطِيعُونَ
ضَرْبًا فِي الْأَرْضِ تَحْسِبُهُمْ
الْجَاهِلُ أَغْنِيَاءَ مِنَ التَّعْفُفِ
تَعْرِفُهُمْ بِسِيمَاهُمْ لَا يَسْأَلُونَ
النَّاسَ إِحْفَافًا وَمَا تَنْفِقُوا
مِنْ خَيْرٍ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ بِهِ عَلِيمٌ

314 This refers to the people who devote themselves wholly to the service of Islam and are, therefore, unable to earn their livelihood. There was a regular band of such volunteers of Islam known as As-hab as-suffah. They numbered about 400 and were always at the beck and call of the Prophet (peace be upon him), who had imparted to them the knowledge of Islam and trained them for its service. They imparted their acquired knowledge to others and went on different missions and expeditions under the instruction of the Prophet (peace be upon him). Obviously, such people specially deserve help because they are full time workers of Islam and have no spare time to earn their livelihood.

274. Those who spend their wealth by night, and day, secretly, and publicly, so for them, their reward is with their Lord. And there shall be no fear upon them, nor shall they grieve.

الَّذِينَ يُنْفِقُونَ أَمْوَالَهُمْ
بِاللَّيْلِ وَالنَّهَارِ سِرًّا وَعَلَانِيَةً
فَلَهُمْ أَجْرُهُمْ عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ وَلَا
خَوْفٌ عَلَيْهِمْ وَلَا هُمْ
يَحْزَنُونَ

315 The Arabic word riba literally means “increase in” or “addition to” anything. Technically it was applied to that additional sum which the creditor charged from the debtor at a fixed rate on the principal he lent, that is, interest. At the time of the revelation of the Quran, interest was charged in several ways. For instance, a person sold something and fixed a time-limit for the payment of its price, and if the buyer failed to pay it within the fixed period, he was allowed more time but had to pay an additional sum. Or a person lent a sum of money and asked the debtor to pay it back together with an agreed additional sum of money within a fixed period. Or a rate of interest was fixed for a specific period and if the principal along with the interest was not paid within that period, the rate of interest was enhanced for the extended period, and so on.

316 The Quran likens the money-lender to a madman. Just as a madman loses his sense on account of his disordered intellect, so the money-lender is so mad for money-making that he divorces himself from commonsense. He is so senselessly foolish and impudent that he does not mind how his selfishness and greed are cutting at the very root of human love, brotherhood and fellow-feeling, and destroying the common good of mankind. He does not care at all that he is gaining prosperity at the expense of many. That is how he behaves like a madman in this world. In the next world he will rise like a madman at the time of resurrection, for, in the Hereafter a person will rise in the same condition in which he dies here.

317 They based their vice on a wrong theory and did not see the fundamental difference between profit and interest. They argued like this: When profit on capital is lawful in trade, why should the interest on money invested in loans be unlawful? And the Arab money-lenders were not alone in arguing like this; the bankers and money-lenders of today also put forward similar arguments for charging interest. They argue that a person, who lends a sum of money to another, could himself make profit from it and that the debtor actually does invest it in a profitable business. Why should not the creditor then get a portion of that profit from the debtor for his productive credit? However, what they forget is that there is no business in the whole world where there is a fixed and guaranteed profit without any risk. In trade, commerce, industry, agriculture etc. one has to spend both labor and capital and at the same time one has to face risks, without any guarantee of a fixed profit. Let us for the present leave aside the case of the debtor who borrows money for consumption and not for production, and also the issue of the rate of interest. Let us compare the case of the money-lender who lends money at a moderate rate of interest for profitable business with the case of those engaged in other kinds of business. They devote their entire time, labor, talent and invest their own capital, etc. and work day and night so that their business may become profitable by virtue of their own efforts. But even then they are not guaranteed any fixed profit, and have to bear all the risks. On the contrary, the money-lender, who lends only his capital, goes on receiving a fixed amount of profit without any risk whatsoever. By what reasoning and on what principles of logic, justice and economics is it right for him to receive a fixed amount of profit? How can one be justified in lending on a fixed rate of interest to a factory a sum of money today for twenty years, when none can say what rise or fall in price may take place during these twenty years? And how is the subscriber to a war loan justified in charging interest at a fixed rate for a full century, and that too, from his own nation, whereas the whole nation has to face risks, bear losses and make sacrifices?

318 The fundamental difference between profit and interest that produces different moral and economic results is this :

(I) The settlement of profit in trade between the buyer and the seller is made on equal terms. The buyer purchases the article he needs and the seller gets profit for the time, labor and brains he employs in providing that article to the buyer. In contrast, in the case of interest, the debtor cannot settle the transaction on equal terms with the creditor because of his weaker position. As far as the money lender is concerned, he gets that fixed sum of interest which he considers his profit. If the debtor spends the borrowed money in fulfilling his personal needs, the time factor definitely does not bring any profit at all. And if he invests that money in trade, commerce, industry, agriculture, etc.

then there are equal chances of profit or loss. Thus lending money at interest might bring a guaranteed and fixed profit to one party and loss to the other, or a guaranteed and fixed profit to one party and an uncertain and indefinite profit to the other.

(2) The trader charges his profit, however high it may be, once for all but the money-lender goes on charging interest over and over again and it goes on increasing with the passage of time. The profit which the debtor makes on the money of the creditor, however large it may be, has after all its own limits, but there is no limit to the interest the creditor may charge on his money. He may, as sometimes it actually happens, receive all the earnings of the debtor, nay, may even deprive him of all the means of livelihood or of the articles of his personal use and still might have the same amount of debt against him that was at the time of borrowing.

(3) The transaction in trade comes to an end as soon as the article and its price change hands. After this the buyer is not required to return anything to the seller. As regards the rent of furniture, house, land, etc. the lent thing is not itself spent up but is returned to the owner after the term. But in the case of the principal the debtor has to spend it first and then to reproduce it and return it to the creditor along with its interest. Thus the debtor runs a double risk; he has to reproduce the principal and also to produce its interest.

(4) One engaged in trade, industry, agriculture, etc. earns profit by spending time, labor and intelligence but the money-lender becomes the stronger partner in the earnings of the debtor without any risk or labor on his part simply because he invests the money which is over and above his need. He is a partner only to the extent that he is entitled to a fixed guaranteed interest, irrespective of whether there is any profit at all or how much, or whether there is even a loss.

From the above it becomes clear that even from the economic point of view, trade helps construct society but interest leads to ruin. As for the moral point of view, interest, by its very nature, creates parsimony, selfishness, cruelty, hard-heartedness, money-worship, etc., and kills the spirit of fellow-feeling and cooperation. It is, therefore, ruinous for society both morally and economically. As to the question what should one do with the money for which one has no use, the answer is that one may invest it in commerce, industry, etc. on the basis of partnership and share profits and losses alike.

319 This allowance applies only to the legal aspect of the interest which had been taken before the revelation of this verse about prohibition and does not mean that the income from that interest had also been made lawful. From the very wording of the verse, it is clear that the case will go to Allah for decision and that it has not been pardoned outright by Allah in order to avoid endless litigation on this account, it has been declared that no legal demand for its return should be made. But from the moral point of view, it remains unclean and one who has taken it must do his best to cleanse himself of it. He should abstain from spending it on himself and try his best to find out the people from whom he received it and return it to them. In case he is unable to locate or find out anyone of those people, he should spend the unclean and unlawful wealth on social welfare. This is the only way in which he can save himself from the punishment of Allah who will decide his case on the Day of Judgment. As to the person who goes on enjoying this unlawful wealth, he may be liable to punishment even for his money-lending in the past.

276. Allah destroys usury and gives increase for charities.*³²⁰ And Allah does not like all disbelievers, sinners.*³²¹

يَمْحَقُ اللَّهُ الرِّبَا وَيُرْبِي الصَّدَقَاتِ وَاللَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ كُلَّ كَفَّارٍ أَثِيمٍ

320 This is true from the social, economic, moral and spiritual points of view. Though apparently interest enriches and charity impoverishes, it is really just the opposite of it. According to the law of Allah, interest is, in its very nature, a hindrance to the social, economic, moral and spiritual progress and charity (including a loan without interest) helps their development.

If we look at interest from the moral and spiritual points of view, we see clearly that it is based on greed, selfishness, parsimony, narrow-mindedness, hard-heartedness and the like and nurtures the same evils in the money-lender. On the other hand, charity is based on generosity, sympathy, broad-mindedness, and the like and develops the same high qualities. Can anyone deny that these qualities are far better than the former?

From the social point of view, even a little thinking will show that a society can never become strong and stable if its individual members base their mutual dealings on selfishness and if one is not willing to help the other without self-interest. If the rich people believe that the poor people exist merely to afford them an opportunity for exploitation, there will be a clash of interest which will result in the disintegration of society. If other factors also help this evil state of affairs, these will surely produce class struggle. On the other hand, if the individual members of a society base their dealings on mutual sympathy and treat each other with generosity, they will most surely strengthen it. If everyone tries to help the other in need, and if the “have” treat the “have not” with sympathy or at least with justice, mutual love and fellow-feeling will develop in society and it will become strong and stable. Obviously, its progress will be accelerated by mutual cooperation and fellow-feeling.

Now let us consider interest from the economic point of view. Loans are of two kinds. The consumptive loan is borrowed by the helpless needy persons for their personal needs and the economic loan is taken by businessmen for trade, commerce, industry, agriculture, etc. As to the first kind of loan, everyone knows that interest on it produces ruinous results. In every country the money-lenders and bankers are sucking the blood of the laborers, peasants and the common poor, and making their condition miserable. The interest charges render the payment of debt almost impossible for such people and they have to borrow one loan after the other to get out of this mess. Even after paying interest equal to many times the original principal, the principal still remains as it was before. The major portion of the income of the debtor is taken away by the money-lender and the poor debtor finds himself unable to make ends meet. Naturally this kills the interest of the laborers in their work. When the fruit of their labor is taken away by others, they cannot put their whole heart into their work. More than that: when worry, anxiety, poor food, etc. spoil their health, they cannot afford even to buy the necessary medicine for want of money. Thus money-lending leads to the fattening and battenning of a few at the expenses of the blood-sucking of the majority and results in the general deterioration of the nation. The inefficiency caused in their way lowers the quality and standard of national production. In the end the blood suckers themselves fall a prey to their own iniquity. When the suppressed anger and hatred of the depressed people engendered by the selfishness of the cruel money-lenders, bursts out into a bloody revolution, it sweeps away their honor and lives along with their ill gotten wealth.

As to the fixed interest on economic loans, three out of the many evils are given below

(1) Those concerns that cannot pay an interest higher than or equal to the market rate cannot draw in capital howsoever useful they may be for the nation. All the available money flows into those channels of commerce and industry which can bring interest equal to or greater than the market rate of interest, howsoever harmful or ruinous they might be from the national point of view.

(2) There is no business commercial, industrial, agricultural that can guarantee a fixed and uniform rate of profit, say five, six or ten percent or more under all circumstances. Not to speak of such a guarantee, there cannot be any guarantee against loss in any business. Therefore, the business which borrows capital at a fixed rate of interest can never be free from risk or loss.

(3) As the money-lender himself is not directly a partner in the profit or the loss of the business but keeps in view only his guaranteed fixed interest, he is not interested in its welfare. His only concern is his own interest; therefore he very selfishly tries to withdraw and withhold his money whenever he has even the slightest fear of a slump in the market. In this way he creates panic by his selfishness and paves the way for a further crisis and when there is already a crisis, he accelerates it into a disaster.

The above mentioned three evils of interest are so obvious that they are well known to everyone who knows even the basics of economics. Can then anyone deny the truth of the natural law enunciated by Allah that interest does not increase but decreases the national economic wealth?

Now let us consider charity from the economic point of view. If the well-to-do people of a society spend money liberally in buying their own necessities of life and those of their dependents and distribute a part of their wealth among the needy to enable them to buy their necessities of life, or if they lend it to businessmen without interest, or invest it in business on the basis of partnership, or lend it without interest to their government for national service, then obviously, commerce, industry, agriculture, etc. will thrive to a very high standard. The standard of national prosperity will rise higher and higher and the production of its wealth will become larger as compared with the country where interest is lawful. Thus it is clear that interest hinders the progress of a nation and charity helps its development.

321 The money-lender is no doubt an ungrateful wretch. As a grateful servant of Allah, who gives him spare money, the least he ought to do is to lend it to his other servants without interest. And if, instead of this, he uses the bounty of Allah to exploit His other servants who are getting less than him, he becomes not only ungrateful but also cruel and wicked.

277. Indeed, those who believe, and do righteous deeds, and establish prayer, and give the poor due. For them, their reward is with their Lord. And there shall be no fear upon them, nor shall they grieve. ^{*322}

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا

عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ وَلَا خَوْفٌ عَلَيْهِمْ
وَلَا هُمْ يَحْزَنُونَ

322 In this passage Allah has presented two characters for contrast. One is the selfish worshipper of wealth, the Shylock, who, unmindful of Allah and His creatures, is engaged day and night in amassing and hoarding wealth. The other is the worshipper of Allah, the generous and sympathetic person who observes the rights of Allah and

His creatures; who earns wealth and spends it on himself and on others and in doing good works. Allah disapproves of the first type of people because they cannot build any good and stable society: nay, they even make themselves and others miserable in this world, and they shall meet with grief, sorrow and affliction in the Hereafter. In contrast to this, Allah approves of the second type of people for they help build a good and stable society and achieve real success. They have also peace of mind in this world and will be blessed with all kinds of heavenly pleasures in the Hereafter.

278. O those who believe, fear Allah, and give up what remains (due to you) from usury, if you are believers.

يَتَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا اتَّقُوا اللَّهَ

فَلَكُمْ رُءُوسُ أَمْوَالِكُمْ لَا
تُظْلَمُونَ وَلَا تَظْلَمُونَ

323 This verse was revealed after the conquest of Makkah, but was inserted here because it also deals with interest.

Even before its revelation, interest was regarded as a hateful thing though it had not yet been legally forbidden. But after its revelation, money-lending on interest became a criminal offence in the Islamic state. Those clans who carried on this business in Arabia, were duly warned to give it up for otherwise a war would be declared against them. When the Christians of Najran were granted autonomy within the Islamic state, it was specified in the treaty that if they continued their money-lending business, the treaty would come to an end and there would be a state of war between the parties.

From the concluding portion of this verse, Ibn Abbas, Hasan Basri, Ibn Sirin and Rubai-bin-Anas (may Allah be pleased with them) have concluded that the one who takes interest in the Islamic state should be warned to repent of it, and if he does not give it up, he should be put to death. But the other jurists are of the opinion that he should be put in prison and kept there until he undertakes to give up this business.

280. And if (the debtor) is in hardship, then (let there be) postponement until (the time of) ease. And that you remit (the debt) as charity, it is better for you, if you did know.*324

وَإِنْ كَانَ ذُو عُسْرَةٍ فَنَظِرَةٌ إِلَىٰ مَيْسَرَةٍ وَأَنْ تَصَدَّقُوا خَيْرٌ لَّكُمْ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تَعْلَمُونَ

*324 This verse empowers an Islamic court of law to compel the creditors to give more time to the debtors for the payment of debts, if they are in such straitened circumstances that they cannot pay back their debts. Under certain circumstances, the court is entitled to write off the debt altogether or a part of it. A tradition says that a man suffered loss in his business and came heavily under debt. When his case was taken to the Prophet (peace be upon him), he made an appeal to the people to help him out of it. Accordingly, the people made monetary contributions, but even then he could not clear all his debts. Then the Prophet (peace be upon him) addressed the creditors and told them that they would have to be satisfied with whatever was collected for the payment of their debts. The jurists have explained that the house in which a man lives, his utensils, clothes and tools of trade can in no case be confiscated.

281. And fear a day in which you will be returned to Allah. Then every soul will be paid in full that which it has earned, and they will not be wronged.

وَاتَّقُوا يَوْمًا تُرْجَعُونَ فِيهِ إِلَى
 اللَّهِ ثُمَّ تُوَفَّى كُلُّ نَفْسٍ مَّا
 كَسَبَتْ وَهُمْ لَا يُظْلَمُونَ ﴿٢٨١﴾

282. O those who believe, when you contract a transaction of debt for a fixed term,^{*325} then write it down.^{*326} And let a scribe write (it) down between you in justice. And let not the scribe

يَتَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا إِذَا

 فَاكْتُبُوهُ ۚ وَلْيَكْتُب بَيْنَكُمْ
 كَاتِبٌ بِالْعَدْلِ وَلَا يَأْب refuse to write, as Allah has taught him, so let him write.

كَاتِبٌ أَنْ يَكْتُبَ كَمَا عَلَّمَهُ
اللَّهُ فَلْيَكْتُبْ

325 From this it is deduced that the term for a debt must be specified.

326 This warns against a common practice: friends and relatives do not put debt agreements into formal writing, for such a thing, according to them, shows lack of trust. Allah admonishes that agreements concerning debt and business should be recorded and testified by witnesses in order to keep the affairs of the people clean. A tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) says that three kinds of the people cry out to Allah for help but are not answered: first, those who have ill tempered wives but do not divorce them; second, those who are entrusted with the property of orphans but return it to them before they attain maturity; third, those who lend money to others without any document or evidence.

And let him dictate who has the liability on him (the debtor). And let him fear Allah, his Lord, and not add or leave anything out of it. Then if he is, who has the liability on him, (the debtor) mentally deficient, or weak, or is not able to dictate it, then let his guardian

And bring to witness two witnesses from among your men,^{*327} then if there are not two men (available), then a man and two women, from those you agree for witnesses, so that if one of them (women) errs, then the other one of them can remind her.

وَأَسْتَشْهِدُوا شَهِدَيْنِ مِنْ رَجَالِكُمْ فَإِنْ لَمْ يَكُونَا رَجُلَيْنِ فَرَجُلٌ وَامْرَأَتَانِ مِمَّن تَرْضَوْنَ مِنَ الشُّهَدَاءِ أَنْ تَضِلَّ إِحْدَاهُمَا فَتُذَكِّرَ إِحْدَاهُمَا الْأُخْرَى^ج

327 From among your men: from among the Muslims. Imam Abu Hanifah, holds the opinion that the non-Muslims also can be made the witnesses.

And let the witnesses^{*328} not refuse whenever they are called (for evidence). And do not be weary to write (your contract) for its fixed term, (be it) small or large.

وَلَا يَأْبَ الشُّهَدَاءُ إِذَا مَا دُعُوا^ج
وَلَا تَسْأَمُوا أَنْ تَكْتُبُوهُ صَغِيرًا
أَوْ كَبِيرًا إِلَىٰ أَجَلِهِ^ج

328 As the establishment of the truth of a case depends to a great degree on the reliability of witnesses, a very high standard of qualification is demanded of them. Only those persons who are known to lead respectable lives and bear good moral character and are honest should be made the witnesses.

This is more just in the sight of Allah, and stronger as evidence, and nearer to that you prevent doubts among yourselves.

ذَالِكُمْ أَقْسَطُ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ وَأَقْوَمٌ
لِلشَّهَادَةِ وَأَدْنَىٰ أَلَّا تَرْتَابُوا

Except that it be on the spot trade which you carry out among yourselves,^{*329} then there is no sin upon you if you do not write it. And take witnesses whenever you make a commercial contract.

إِلَّا أَنْ تَكُونَ تِجَارَةً حَاضِرَةً
تُدِيرُونَهَا بَيْنَكُمْ فَلَيْسَ عَلَيْكُمْ
جُنَاحٌ أَلَّا تَكْتُبُوهَا وَأَشْهَدُوا
إِذَا تَبَايَعْتُمْ

329 Even in the case of those transactions which are carried out on the spot in everyday business, it is better to record them; nevertheless there is no harm if commercial transactions carried on daily between neighboring traders are not recorded.

And let no scribe be harmed, nor any witness.^{*330} And if you do (such harm), then indeed, it would be wickedness in you. And fear Allah. And it is Allah who teaches you. And Allah is well acquainted with all things.

وَلَا يُضَارَّ كَاتِبٌ وَلَا شَهِيدٌ وَإِنْ
تَفَعَّلُوا فَإِنَّهُ فَسُقٌ بِكُمْ
وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَيَعْلَمُ اللَّهُ
وَاللَّهُ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمٌ

330 It implies two things. No one should be forced to become a scribe or a witness against his will, and no one should harass the scribe or the witness just because he gives true evidence against the interests of a party.

283. And if you are on a journey and cannot find a scribe, then (transact) on a pledge with possession.^{*331} So if one of you entrusts another, then let him, who is entrusted, deliver his trust and let him fear Allah, his Lord. And do not conceal the testimony.^{*332} And he who conceals it, then indeed, his heart is sinful. And Allah is All Knower of what you do.

﴿ وَإِنْ كُنْتُمْ عَلَىٰ سَفَرٍ وَلَمْ تَجِدُوا كَاتِبًا فَرِهْنَ مَقْبُوضَةً فَإِنْ أَتَىٰ مِنْ بَعْضِكُمْ بَعْضًا فليؤدِّ الَّذِي أُوتِيَ مِنْ أَمْنَتِهِ وَليَتَّقِ اللَّهَ رَبَّهُ وَلَا تَكْتُمُوا الشَّهَادَةَ وَمَنْ يَكْتُمْهَا فَإِنَّهُ إِثْمٌ قَلْبُهُ وَاللَّهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ عَلِيمٌ ﴾

331 It does not mean that a pledge may be held on security only while on a journey. It has been specially mentioned in this connection because such a condition generally occurs on a journey. Moreover, inability to get a scribe is not an essential condition for holding something as a pledge. If a needy person cannot obtain a debt unless he delivers something as security for it, he is allowed to do so. The Quran deliberately omits the mention of this latter condition, because it intends to teach generosity to the believers. It is obviously below the dignity of a man of high character not to lend money to a needy person without having a pledge in hand. It is, however, understood that if the pledge is productive, the creditor should keep a regular account of the produce and deduct it from the debt; otherwise any profit drawn from the pledged property would be interest. In this connection, one should also know that the only object in view of holding a pledge is the security of the repayment of the debt and it does not entitle the creditor in any way to make profit out of it. For instance, if a creditor himself lives in the house which he holds as a pledge for his debt or if he lets it to someone else, he in fact is guilty of taking interest, if he does not credit the rent of the house to the debtor, for there is no difference between taking direct interest on a debt or earning money from it or making use of the property delivered as a pledge. The creditor, however, may benefit from the milk of a pledged head of cattle, or may ride or carry burden on a horse, camel, etc. because that would be the compensation for the fodder given to them.

332 Concealing of evidence applies both to the evasion of evidence and to the concealment of the true facts while giving evidence.

284. To Allah belongs whatever^{*333} is in the heavens, and whatever is on the earth.^{*334} And whether you make known what is within yourselves, or conceal it,^{*335} Allah will bring you to account for it. Then He will forgive whom He wills,

لِلَّهِ مَا فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَمَا فِي
 الْأَرْضِ وَإِنْ تُبَدُّوا مَا فِي
 أَنْفُسِكُمْ أَوْ تُخْفُوهُ يُحَاسِبْكُمْ
 بِهِ اللَّهُ فَيَغْفِرُ لِمَنْ يَشَاءُ وَيُعَذِّبُ مَنْ يَشَاءُ وَاللَّهُ عَلَىٰ and He will punish whom He wills. And Allah has power over all things.*336

كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ

333 In the concluding portion of the Surah, the basic creeds of Islam have been stated just as they were stated at its beginning. Therefore it will be useful to compare verses 284-285 with verses 1-4.

334 This is the first article of faith. The acceptance of the fact that Allah is the Master of the heavens and the earth and all that is in them, leaves no alternative for man but to submit to Him.

335 In this sentence two more articles of faith have been stated. First, every person is individually responsible and accountable to Allah for his actions. Second, the Sovereign, to whom man is accountable for his actions, has full knowledge of what is hidden and what is open; He even knows those intentions and thoughts that are hidden in the hearts.

336 It means that Allah is the absolute Sovereign and not a constitutional ruler. His powers are not bound by any law so as to force Him to act in accordance with it. He is the sole Master and has full authority to punish anyone or to forgive anyone He wills.

285. The Messenger has believed in that which has been sent down to him from his Lord, and (so do) the believers. Each one believes in Allah, and His angels,

ءَامَنَ الرَّسُولُ بِمَا أُنزِلَ إِلَيْهِ مِنْ
رَبِّهِ ۚ وَالْمُؤْمِنُونَ كُلٌّ ءَامَنَ
بِاللَّهِ وَمَلَائِكَتِهِ ۖ وَكُتُبِهِ ۖ وَرُسُلِهِ ۖ and His Books, and His messengers. (Saying): “We make no distinction between any of His messengers,” and they say: “We hear, and we obey.” (We seek) Your forgiveness, our Lord. And to You is the return.”*337

لَا نُفَرِّقُ بَيْنَ أَحَدٍ مِّن رُّسُلِهِ
وَقَالُوا سَمِعْنَا وَأَطَعْنَا
غُفْرَانَكَ رَبَّنَا وَإِلَيْكَ الْمَصِيرُ

٢٨٥

*337 In this verse, the basic articles of faith have been restated briefly. Belief in Allah, His angels, His Books, and in all of His Messengers without exception and discrimination against any, and in the accountability to Him at the end of this life are the five basic articles of faith. After the acceptance of these, the attitude for a Muslim is to submit obediently to each and every commandment of Allah. At the same time, he should not become vain on account of his good acts but should pray to Allah to forgive and show forbearance to him.

286. Allah does not burden a person beyond his capacity.*338 For him (is reward of) what (good) he earned, and upon him (is punishment of) what (evil) he has earned. Our Lord, take us not to punish if we forget, or fall into error.*339 Our Lord, and lay not upon us a burden as that You

لَا يُكَلِّفُ اللَّهُ نَفْسًا إِلَّا وُسْعَهَا
لَهَا مَا كَسَبَتْ وَعَلَيْهَا مَا
اَكْتَسَبَتْ رَبَّنَا لَا تَأْخِذْنَا
إِن نَّسِينَا أَوْ أَخْطَاْنَا رَبَّنَا
وَلَا تَحْمِلْ عَلَيْنَا إِصْرًا كَمَا
حَمَلْتَهُ عَلَى الَّذِينَ مِن قَبْلِنَا laid upon those before us.^{*340} Our Lord, and burden us not with that which we have no strength to bear.^{*341} And pardon us, and forgive us, and have mercy upon us. You are our protector, so give us victory over the disbelieving people.^{*342}

رَبَّنَا وَلَا تُحَمِّلْنَا مَا لَا طَاقَةَ لَنَا
بِهِ ۗ وَاعْفُ عَنَّا وَاعْفِرْ لَنَا
وَارْحَمْنَا ۗ أَنْتَ مَوْلَانَا فَانصُرْنَا
عَلَى الْقَوْمِ الْكَافِرِينَ

338 That is, Allah will not call to account anyone for not doing something which he could not possibly do: nor will He punish him because he did not abstain from a thing, when he could not possibly abstain from it. It must, however, be clearly understood that an individual himself is not his own judge to decide what he can do and what he cannot do. It is Allah, who will decide what a certain person could do and what he could not do.

339 This is the other general principle of the law. Both the rewards and the punishments are really the results and consequences of the acts and deeds of every individual. One will get a reward only for the good deed one has himself done and not for the good acts of someone else. It must, however, be noted that if someone has done some good act which goes on producing good results long after his death, all those acts will also be put to his credit in his balance sheet as long as they last. In the same way, if someone has done some evil, which goes on producing evil results long after one's death, all those also will be put against one's account as long as they last. But all these results, both good and bad, will be the consequences of one's own deeds. In short, a person shall be rewarded or punished only for that thing to which he himself contributed intentionally and actually. There is no transfer of accounts in the divine law of retribution.

340 That is, O Lord, save and protect us from such trials, persecutions and obstacles as were encountered by those who went Your way before us. Although it is the law of Allah that those, who make up their minds to follow the way of truth, must undergo hard trials and suffer from cruel persecutions, a believer should pray to Allah to make the way easy for him and should face them with courage when he actually meets with them.

341 That is, lay on us only that much burden of trouble and tribulations that we can bear, and put us only to those trials that we can endure, lest we should fail to bear them and swerve for the right path.

342 In order to understand the true spirit of this prayer, it should be kept in view that these verses were revealed on the occasion of the Miraj (Ascension to Heaven) of the Prophet (peace be upon him) about a year before his migration to Al-Madinah. At that time the struggle between Islam and kufr had reached its climax and the persecution of the believers was at its worst. And this was not confined to Makkah alone: there was no place in the whole of Arabia where a Muslim was allowed to live in peace. It was to cope with these circumstances that the Muslims were taught to utter this prayer to Allah. It is self-evident that when the Master Himself teaches the servant the way of begging from Him, the servant gets the conviction that his request will be granted. That is why this prayer filled the Muslims with extraordinary courage and brought peace of mind to them in the hour of their worst persecution. Moreover, this prayer taught them to keep their passions under control and within the limits contained in this prayer and not to allow them to turn into wrong channels. That is why it is free from any kind of bitterness against their enemies, and there is not any tinge in it of revenge or of worldliness. This was urgently needed at that time because the Muslims were undergoing greater hardships, and monetary losses, and suffering untold cruelties, and were pressed hard both physically and economically. Incidentally, the contrast between the high ideals contained in their prayer and the persecution which the believers were suffering at that time brings out clearly the high standard of the spiritual and moral training they were receiving even at that critical time. And that is the high standard of morality that has been laid down for every true believer to attain.

Aal-Imran آلِ عِمْرَانَ

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of Allah, Most Gracious, Most Merciful

Name

The Surah takes its name from Ayat 33. Aal-Imran, like the names of many other Surahs, is merely a name to distinguish it from other Surahs and does not imply that the family of Imran has been discussed in it.

The Period of Revelation

The Surah consists of four discourses:

The first discourse (Ayats 1-32) was probably revealed soon after the battle of Badr.

The second discourse (Ayats 33-63) was revealed in 9 A.H. on the occasion of the visit of the deputation from the Christians of Najran.

The third discourse (Ayats 64-120) appears to have been revealed immediately after the first one.

The fourth discourse (Ayats 121-200) was revealed after the battle of Uhd.

Subject

Though these discourses were revealed at different periods and on different occasions, they are so inter-linked and so inter-connected in regard to their aim, object and central theme that they make together one continuous subject. This Surah has been especially addressed to two groups, the people of the Book (the Jews and the Christians), and the followers of Muhammad (peace be upon him).

The message has been extended to the Jews and the Christians in continuation of the invitation in Surah Al-Baqarah, in which they have been admonished for their erroneous beliefs and evil morals and advised to accept, as a remedy, the truth of the Quran. They have been told here that Muhammad (peace be upon him) taught the same right way of life that had been preached by their own prophets. That it alone was the right way, the Way of Allah. Hence any deviation from it will be wrong even according to their own scriptures.

The second group, the Muslims, who had been declared to be the best community in Surah Al-Baqarah and appointed torch bearers of the truth and entrusted with the responsibility of reforming the world, have been given additional instructions in continuation of those given in the preceding Surah. The Muslims have been warned to learn a lesson from the religious and moral degeneration of the former communities and to refrain from treading in their footsteps. Instructions have also been given about the reformative work they had to perform. Besides this, they have been taught how to deal with the people of the Book and the hypocrites who were putting different kinds of hindrances in the Way of Allah. Above all, they have been warned to guard against those weaknesses which had come to the surface in the battle of Uhd.

Background

The following is the background of the Surah:

1. The believers had met with all sorts of trials and hardships about which they had been forewarned in Surah Al-Baqarah. Though they had come out victorious in the battle of Badr, they were not out of danger yet. Their victory had aroused the enmity of all those powers in Arabia which were opposed to the Islamic movement. Signs of threatening storms had begun to appear on all sides and the Muslims were in a perpetual state of fear and anxiety. It looked as if the whole Arabian world around the tiny state of Al-Madinah - which was no more than a village state at that time - was bent upon blotting out its very existence. This state of war was also adversely affecting its economy, which had already been badly disturbed by the influx of the Muslim refugees from Makkah.

2. Then there was the disturbing problem of the Jewish clans who lived in the suburbs of Al-Madinah. They were discarding the treaties of alliance they had made with the Prophet (peace be upon him) after his migration from Makkah. So much so that on the occasion of the battle of Badr, these people of the Book sympathized with the evil aims of the idolaters, in spite of the fact that their fundamental articles of the faith, Oneness of Allah, prophethood, life after death, were the same as those of the Muslims. After the battle of Badr, they openly began to incite the Quraish and other Arab clans to wreak their vengeance on the Muslims. Thus, those Jewish clans set aside their centuries old friendly and neighborly relations with the people of Al-Madinah. At last when their mischievous actions and breaches of treaties became unbearable, the Prophet (peace be upon him) attacked the Bani-Qainuqaa, the most mischievous of all the other Jewish clans who had conspired with the hypocrites of Al-Madinah and the idolatrous Arab clans to encircle the believers on all sides. The magnitude of the peril might be judged from the fact that even the life of the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself was always in danger. Therefore his companions slept in their armors during that period and kept watch at night to guard against any sudden attack, and whenever the Prophet (peace be upon him) happened to be out of sight even for a short while, they would at once set out in search of him.

3. This incitement by the Jews added fuel to the fire which was burning in the hearts of the Quraish and they began to make preparations to avenge the defeat they had suffered at Badr. A year after this an army of 3,000 strong marched out of Makkah to invade Al-Madinah and a battle took place at the foot of Mount Uhd. The Prophet (peace be upon him) came out of Al-Madinah with one thousand men to meet the enemy. While they were marching to the battle field, three hundred hypocrites deserted the army and returned to Al-Madinah, but there still remained a small band of hypocrites among the seven hundred who accompanied the Prophet (peace be upon him). They played their part and did their worst to create mischief and chaos in the ranks of the believers during the battle. This was the first clear indication of the fact that within the fold of the Muslim community there was quite a large number of saboteurs who were always ready to conspire with the external enemies to harm their own brethren.

4. Though the devices of the hypocrites had played a great part in the set back at Uhd, the weaknesses of the Muslims themselves contributed no less to it. And it was but natural that the Muslims should show signs of moral weakness for they were a new community which had only recently been formed on a new ideology and had not as yet got a thorough moral training. Naturally in this second hard test of their physical and moral strength, some weaknesses came to the surface. That is why a detailed review of the battle of Uhd was needed to warn the Muslims of their shortcomings and to issue instructions for their reform. It should also be noted that this review of the battle is quite different from the reviews that are usually made by generals on similar occasions.

Subject: Guidance

This Surah is the sequel to, Al-Baqarah and the invitation therein is continued to the people of the Book. In Al-Baqarah the Jews were pointedly invited to accept the guidance and in this Surah the Christians have particularly been admonished to give up their erroneous beliefs and accept the guidance of the Quran. At the same time, the Muslims have been instructed to nourish the virtues that may enable them to carry out their obligations and spread the divine guidance.

Topics and their Interconnection

Ayats 1-32 In these introductory verses, the fundamental truths about Allah, revelation and life after death have been reiterated to serve as fitting preliminaries, leading to the main topics discussed in the Surah.

Ayats 33-65 This discourse is particularly addressed to the Christians and invites them to accept Islam. It clears Jesus (peace be upon him) and his mother not only from the stigma maliciously set upon them by the Jews, but also refutes the erroneous Christian creed of the divinity of Jesus (peace be upon him) which had been formulated because of his miraculous birth. For this purpose the instances of John the Baptist (peace be upon him) to a barren woman and an extremely aged man and that of Adam without father and mother have been cited to show that there is nothing in the birth of Jesus (peace be upon him) without a father to entitle him to divinity.

Ayats 66-101 In these verses the people of the Book, the Jews, have been invited to give up their sinister ways and accept the divine guidance. At the same time the Muslims have been warned to be on their guard against their malicious intentions, erroneous ways and absurd objections.

Ayats 102-120 The Muslims have been instructed to learn lessons from the history of the people of the Book and also to guard themselves against their machinations, and to prepare and train themselves to establish virtue and eradicate evil.

Ayats 121-175 In this portion, a review of the battle of Uhd has been done to teach and reassure the Muslims that the machinations of their enemies could do them no harm, if they would practice restraint and fortitude and have fear of Allah. It has been pointed out that the setback they had suffered was due to the lack of some moral qualities and the existence of some evils. Since the main cause of the defeat was the greed of the archers, guarding the pass. The taking of interest has been prohibited to eradicate this evil.

Ayats 175-189 The main theme of the verses 109-120 has been resumed to reassure and encourage the Muslims against the dangerous plots of their enemies.

Ayats 190-200 This is the conclusion of the Surah and is not directly connected with the verses immediately preceding it but with the theme of the Surah as a whole.

1. Alif. Lam. Mim.

2. Allah, there is no god except Him, the ever Living, the Sustainer of all that exists.*1

اللَّهُ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ الْحَيُّ الْقَيُّومُ

*1 Though ignorant people might make several gods and set up objects of worship, the fact remains that the whole of creation belongs to the Eternal, who has no partner whatsoever. He is the living Allah who sustains the whole universe. He alone is the Master of His kingdom. None else is a partner in His attributes, characteristics, powers and rights. Hence a lie is invented whenever any false god is set up beside Allah on the earth or in the heavens and a war is waged against the truth.

3. He has sent down to you (Muhammad) the Book

نَزَّلَ عَلَيْكَ الْكِتَابَ بِالْحَقِّ

مُصَدِّقًا لِّمَا بَيْنَ يَدَيْهِ وَأَنْزَلَ
التَّوْرَةَ وَالْإِنْجِيلَ

4. Before this, as a guidance for mankind.*² And He sent down the Criterion (the Quran). Indeed, those who disbelieve the verses of Allah, for them is a severe punishment. And Allah is All Mighty, the Owner of Retribution.

مِنْ قَبْلُ هُدًى لِّلنَّاسِ وَأَنْزَلَ
الْفُرْقَانَ إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا
بِآيَاتِ اللَّهِ لَهُمْ عَذَابٌ شَدِيدٌ
وَاللَّهُ عَزِيزٌ ذُو انتِقَامٍ

*² There exists a common misconception about the Torah (Taurat) and the Gospel (Injil) for the people generally take the Pentateuch (the first five books of the Old Testament) for the Torah, and the Gospels (the first four books of the New Testament) for the Injil. The misconception creates doubts about revelation itself and a question arises, “Are these books really the word of God? And does the Quran really confirm all their contents”? As a matter of fact, the Torah, which the Quran confirms, is not the Pentateuch but is contained in it, and the Injil is not “the four Gospels” but is within these books.

The Taurat consists of those commandments and injunctions which were given to Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) during his prophethood, which lasted for about forty years. Of these were the ten commandments which were inscribed on stone tablets and delivered to Moses (peace be upon him) on Mount Tur: as regards the remaining commandments and injunctions, he himself had put down in writing. Then he handed one copy of the Torah to each of the twelve tribes of Israel for guidance. One copy was entrusted to the Levites for safe custody, which along with the stone tablets, was deposited in the Ark.

That Taurat remained quite safe and sound as an entire book up to the first destruction of Jerusalem. But, by and by, the Israelites grew so indifferent to and negligent and unmindful of it that when the Temple of Solomon was under repair during the reign of Josiah, Hilkiah the high priest came across it by chance but did not know that it was the Torah. He thought it was only a law book and passed it on to the royal scribe as a curio. The latter presented it to king Josiah who tore his clothes and ordered Hilkiah and others to consult the Eternal about the terms of the book. Such was the condition of the Israelites when Nebuchadnezzar sacked Jerusalem and destroyed the Temple, and they lost forever even the very few copies of the Torah which had long lain neglected in some forgotten niches.

The Old Testament was compiled by Ezra, when the Israelites returned home to Jerusalem after their captivity in Babylon and built the Temple anew. Ezra gathered together some prominent men of his community, and with their help compiled the whole history of Israel which now comprises the first 17 books of the Bible. Of these Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, and Deuteronomy tell the life history of Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) and include those verses of the real Taurat which became available to Ezra and his assistants, who incorporated them in those books at appropriate places in the chronological order of their revelation. Thus it is obvious that the Pentateuch as a whole is not the Taurat but includes it. The real Taurat comprises those verses which are scattered all over the life story of Prophet Moses (peace be upon him), and it is not difficult even today to locate and recognize them. Such portions where the author says, "God said to Moses," or Moses said, "The Lord your God says," the Taurat begins, and where the narrative of the life story is resumed, there that part of the Taurat ends. At those places the author of the Bible has inserted certain things by way of explanation or commentary, and it is here that the ordinary reader fails to distinguish the real Taurat from the commentary. However, those who have an insight into the nature of divine Scriptures, can distinguish, to some degree of exactness, the explanatory notes from the revealed verses. According to the Quran, only such scattered portions in the Pentateuch are the Taurat and it confirms them alone. And this can be testified by putting together these verses and comparing them with the Quran. Here and there one might come across a minor difference in their details, but one cannot find even the slightest difference between the fundamental teachings of the two. Even today one can see clearly that both the Scriptures have come from the same source.

Likewise, the Injil is the name of those inspired discourses and sayings which Jesus (peace be upon him) uttered as a prophet during the last couple of years of his life. We have no means now of ascertaining whether these pious utterances were recorded and compiled during the lifetime of Jesus (peace be upon him). In the introduction to his translation of the Bible, Moffat says, Jesus (peace be upon him) wrote nothing and for a time his immediate disciples felt no impulse to write any account of him. The data of the historical Jesus (peace be upon him), therefore, is based on the vivid recollections and traditions of the primitive Palestinian disciples. How soon their materials took written shape we cannot tell, but at least one written record of them was probably in existence by about A.D. 50. Anyhow, when, long after his recall, the stories of Jesus (peace be upon him) were compiled in the shape of four Gospels, (the period of the composition of Mark, the first to be composed was 65-75 A.D.). Some of his written or inspired sayings were also inserted at appropriate places in the historical sketches. Thus it is obvious that the first four Gospels are not the Injil, the discourses and sayings of Jesus (peace be upon him), but they contain portions of it. We have no means of recognizing that as from the works of the authors except this: Wherever the authors say "Jesus said so or taught so and so," there the Injil begins and where they resume the narration, there it ends. According to the Quran, only such portions are the Injil and these alone are condensed by it. If these portions are compiled together and compared with the Quran, one will find no serious difference between the two, and, if somewhere a trivial difference appears, it can be removed very easily with unbiased thinking.

5. Indeed, not a thing is hidden from Allah,^{*3} in the earth, nor in the heavens.

إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا تَخْفَىٰ عَلَيْهِ شَيْءٌ فِي
الْأَرْضِ وَلَا فِي السَّمَاءِ ﴿٥﴾

3 That is, He has full, perfect, and exact knowledge of the whole universe. Hence the Book revealed by Him will contain nothing but the truth. As a matter of fact, one can learn pure truth from that Book alone which has been sent down by the All-Knowing and All-Wise."

6. He it is who shapes you in the wombs however He wills.^{*4} There is no god except Him, the All Mighty, the All Wise.

هُوَ الَّذِي يُصَوِّرُكُمْ فِي
الْأَرْحَامِ كَيْفَ يَشَاءُ ۚ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا
هُوَ الْعَزِيزُ الْحَكِيمُ ﴿٦﴾

4 This implies two important things here:

(1) Allah knows your nature better than yourself or anybody else: therefore, there is no other alternative for you but to trust in the Guidance sent down by Him.

(2) The Benevolent Allah who has been providing for all your needs, great and small, throughout all the stages of your life, ever since your mothers conceived you, could not possibly have neglected to provide for your guidance, which is after all the greatest need of your life.

7. He it is who has sent down to you the Book (the Quran). In it are clear verses, which are the foundation of the Book,^{*5} and others (that are) allegorical. Then as for those in whose hearts is a deviation, they will follow that which is allegorical in them, seeking mischief, and seeking (their own) interpretation of it. And no one knows its interpretation except Allah.^{*6} And those firm in knowledge say: "We believe in it, all is from our Lord."^{*7}

هُوَ الَّذِي أَنْزَلَ عَلَيْكَ الْكِتَابَ
مِنْهُ ءَايَاتٌ مُحْكَمَاتٌ هُنَّ أُمُّ

And no one receives admonition except those with understanding.

الْكِتَابِ وَأُخْرُ مُتَشَبِهَاتٍ فَأَمَّا
الَّذِينَ فِي قُلُوبِهِمْ زَيْغٌ فَيَتَّبِعُونَ
مَا تَشَبَهَ مِنْهُ ابْتِغَاءَ الْفِتْنَةِ
وَابْتِغَاءَ تَأْوِيلِهِ ۗ وَمَا يَعْلَمُ
تَأْوِيلَهُ إِلَّا اللَّهُ ۗ وَالرَّاسِخُونَ فِي
الْعِلْمِ يَقُولُونَ ءَامَنَّا بِهِ كُلٌّ
مِّنْ عِنْدِ رَبِّنَا ۗ وَمَا يَذَّكَّرُ إِلَّا
أُولُو الْأَلْبَابِ ﴿٧﴾

5 Muhkam is that which is precise, exact, clear and decisive. Muhkamat are those verses of the Quran which have been so couched as to make their meaning quite plain without any shade of ambiguity. They have been purposely so worded as to make their meaning definite and precise leaving little room for misinterpretation. These verses constitute the fundamental principles of the Book, i.e. they alone determine the aim and object for which the Quran has been sent down. They invite the world to Islam, teach morals and give warnings. They refute wrong beliefs and practices, and lay down the way of right living. They expound the fundamentals of religion and state beliefs and practices, morals and duties, commandments and prohibitions. Therefore a seeker after truth should turn to these verses as these alone can satisfy his needs. Naturally such a person will concentrate on these verses and endeavor to derive the greatest benefit from them.

*6 Mutashabihat are those verses in which there is a possibility of more than one meaning. Their object is to give a certain minimum knowledge about the universe, its beginning and end, the position of man therein, and such other basic things, for these things are essential for the formulation of any system of life. It is obvious that no human language possesses words, expressions, idioms etc. to depict clearly those supernatural things, which have never yet been grasped by human senses, nor seen, nor heard, nor smelt, nor touched, nor tasted by human beings. That is why such supernatural things have to be described in terms of human life. That is why the Quran uses ambiguous verses in human language which are liable to give rise to more than one meaning. Thus it is clear that the main benefit of such verses is that they help one approach the reality and form a conception of it. Hence the more one tries to determine their precise meaning, the more one gets involved in doubts and ambiguities. As a result of this, one will not be able to find the reality but will be led further away from it and cause mischief. Therefore those, who seek after the truth and do not hanker after superfluities, rest content with the simple idea of reality they get from the ambiguous verses, which suffices them for an understanding of the Quran; they concentrate their whole attention on a fuller comprehension of the verses which are precise in meaning. On the other hand, those who love superfluities or seek after mischief, spend their time and energies in giving arbitrary interpretations to the ambiguous verses.

*7 This might give rise to a question: How can one believe in the truth of the ambiguous verses, if one does not know their precise meaning? The answer is that a study of the precise verses, and not of the different interpretations of the ambiguous verses, confirms a sensible man in his belief that the Quran is the word of Allah. When the study of the precise verses once convinces him that the Book is really from Allah, then the ambiguous verses do not create any doubt in his mind and he accepts the simple meanings which are within his comprehension and leaves alone any complicacies if and when they appear. Instead of hair splitting and probing into them, he believes in the word of Allah as a whole and turns his attention to more useful things.

8. (They say): “Our Lord, let not our hearts deviate after when You have guided us, and bestow upon us mercy from Yourself. Indeed, You are the Bestower.”

رَبَّنَا لَا تُزِغْ قُلُوبَنَا بَعْدَ إِذْ
هَدَيْتَنَا وَهَبْ لَنَا مِنْ لَدُنْكَ
رَحْمَةً إِنَّكَ أَنْتَ الْوَهَّابُ ﴿٨﴾

9. “Our Lord, surely You will gather mankind on a Day in which there is no doubt. Indeed, Allah does not go against the promise.”

رَبَّنَا إِنَّكَ جَامِعُ النَّاسِ لِيَوْمٍ لَا
رَيْبَ فِيهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُخْلِفُ
الْمِيعَادَ ﴿٩﴾

10. Indeed, those who disbelieve,^{*8} neither their wealth, nor their children will avail them against Allah anything at all. And it is they who will be the fuel for the Fire.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا لَنْ تُغْنِيَ
عَنْهُمْ أَمْوَالُهُمْ وَلَا
أَوْلَادُهُمْ
مِّنَ اللَّهِ شَيْئًا
وَأُولَٰئِكَ هُم
وَقُودُ
النَّارِ

8 The literal meaning of the word kufir is to conceal. By and by it came to be used for the concealment of the truth and then for its rejection, as the antonym of iman. Iman means to believe, to accept and to admit, and kufir means to disbelieve, to reject and to oppose. According to the Quran, one shall be guilty of kufir.

(1) If one does not believe in Allah at all or refuses to accept Him as the supreme authority or as one's Master and that of the entire universe, or as the only God of worship, or

(2) If one professes to acknowledge Allah but refuses to accept His commandments and guidance as the sole source of the knowledge of truth and of law, or

(3) If one accepts on principle the guidance of Allah, but refuses to accept the authority of the messengers whom Allah has sent with His commandments and guidance, or

4) If one accepts a particular messenger (or messengers) and rejects others according to one's whim or prejudices, or

(5) If one discards the whole or any part of the Islamic creed, or its code of life, or the teachings of the messenger, or

(6) If one accepts all these things in theory but discards the commandments of God deliberately in practice and persists in this conduct and leads a life of rebellion instead of submission.

All the above modes of thought and action are rebellion against Allah and are kufir according to the Quran. Besides the above usages, the Quran sometimes uses the word kufir in the sense of ingratitude as an antonym of shukr. Shukr means that one should be grateful only to Him who has bestowed the blessing, should appreciate His favor, should use and spend the blessing only according to His will, and should submit to Him completely and faithfully like a loyal servant. On the contrary, kufir or ingratitude is that one should either refuse to acknowledge the favor of one's benefactor, and should regard it as a result of one's own ability, or as a favor, and result of the influence of another one, or should depreciate the blessing bestowed by Him and waste it, or should use the blessing against His will, or should adopt an attitude of rebellion against him in spite of His favors and blessings. Such an attitude of kufir is generally described as ingratitude, disloyalty, rebellion and treason.

11. Like the behavior of the people of Pharaoh and those before them. They denied our signs, so Allah seized them for their sins. And Allah is severe in punishment.

شَدِيدُ الْعِقَابِ

12. Say (O Muhammad) to those who disbelieve: “You shall be overcome, and you shall be gathered to Hell. And (that is) an evil resting place.”

قُلْ لِلَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا
سَتُغْلَبُونَ وَتُحْشَرُونَ إِلَىٰ
جَهَنَّمَ ۚ وَبِئْسَ الْمِهَادُ

13. Indeed, there has been a sign for you in the two armies which met (in Badr). One army fighting in the cause of Allah, and the other disbelieving. They (the believers) saw them (the disbelievers) twice their number with their very eyes.*⁹ And Allah supports with His victory whom He wills. Indeed, in that is a lesson for those who have eyes to see.*¹⁰

قَدْ كَانَ لَكُمْ آيَةٌ فِي فِئَتَيْنِ
الَّتَقَا ۖ فِئَةٌ تَقَاتِلُ فِي سَبِيلِ
اللَّهِ وَأُخْرَىٰ كَافِرَةٌ يَرَوْنَهُمْ
مِثْلِهِمْ رَأَىٰ الْعَيْنُ ۚ وَاللَّهُ يُؤَيِّدُ
بِنَصْرِهِ مَن يَشَاءُ ۗ إِنَّ فِي
ذَٰلِكَ لَعِبْرَةً لِّأُولِي الْأَبْصَارِ

9 Although the actual ratio was three to one, yet even a casual observer could not have failed to notice that the number of the unbelievers was at least twice as great as that of the Muslims.

10 A brief review of the battle of Badr, which had recently taken place, is being made with a view to imparting lessons by making a reference to its events and its results. This battle taught three important lessons:

(1) It taught that even on the battlefield the believers, who fight in the Way of Allah, behave in quite a different manner from the disbelievers. The latter, like the Quraish, indulge in merry making and enjoying wine, women, music, dance etc., while the former, like the Muslims, practice piety, and fear Allah and absorb themselves in prayer.

(2) The victory of the Muslims, in spite of their smaller number and less equipment, over the disbelievers who had a larger number and better weapons was a clear proof that they had Allah's succor with them.

(3) The defeat was a shocking lesson for the disbelievers, who were neglectful of Allah's power and proud of their equipment and the large number of their helpers. By this, Allah taught that He can bestow power on a small number of poor migrants from Makkah and the farmers of Al-Madinah, to inflict crushing defeat on the Quraish, the most influential and powerful clan of Arabia.

14. Beautified for mankind is love of that they desire of women, and sons, and heaped up sums of gold, and silver, and horses branded, and cattle, and tilled land. That is enjoyment of the life of the world. And Allah, with Him is the excellent return.

زَيْنَ لِلنَّاسِ حُبُّ الشَّهَوَاتِ
مِنَ النِّسَاءِ وَالْبَنِينَ وَالْقَنَاطِيرِ
الْمُقَنْطَرَةِ مِنَ الذَّهَبِ
وَالْفِضَّةِ وَالْخَيْلِ الْمُسَوَّمَةِ
وَالْأَنْعَامِ وَالْحَرْثِ ۗ ذَٰلِكَ
مَتَاعُ الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا ۗ وَاللَّهُ
عِنْدَهُ حُسْنُ الْمَبَاقِ

15. Say: “Shall I inform you of (something) better than these. For those who fear (Allah), with their Lord are, Gardens underneath which rivers flow wherein they will abide forever, and pure companions,^{*11} and the good pleasure of Allah. And Allah is All Seer of His servants.”^{*12}

قُلْ أَؤُنَبِّئُكُمْ بِخَيْرٍ مِّنْ ذَٰلِكُمْ لِلَّذِينَ اتَّقَوْا عِندَ رَبِّهِمْ جَنَّاتٌ تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا وَأَزْوَاجٌ مُّطَهَّرَةٌ وَرِضْوَانٌ مِّنَ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ بَصِيرٌ بِالْعِبَادِ

11 The word azwaj (sing. zauj) as used in the original is used both for the husband and for the wife: the wife is zauj for the husband, and the husband is zauj for the wife. In Paradise the spouses will be joined on the basis of piety. For instance, if a certain man lived a pious life in this world, but his wife did not, their marriage will be dissolved in the Hereafter, and the pious man will be united with another pious woman whose marriage had similarly been dissolved and so on. But if both the husband and the wife led pious lives here, they will continue to live as husband and wife forever in Paradise.

12 That is, Allah does not shower His favors erroneously, nor whimsically, nor does He make cursory and superficial decisions. He is fully aware of the actions, deeds and intentions of His servants, and evaluates them correctly and knows full well who should deserve His favor and who should incur His displeasure.

16. Those who say: “Our Lord, indeed, we have believed, so forgive us our sins and protect us from the punishment of the Fire.”

الَّذِينَ يَقُولُونَ رَبَّنَا إِنَّنَا ءَامِنَّا
فَاغْفِرْ لَنَا ذُنُوبَنَا وَقِنَا عَذَابَ
النَّارِ

17. The steadfast,^{*13} and the truthful, and the obedient, and those who spend (in the cause of Allah), and those who seek forgiveness in the early hours of the morning.

الصَّابِرِينَ وَالصَّادِقِينَ
وَالْقَانِتِينَ وَالْمُنْفِقِينَ
وَالْمُسْتَغْفِرِينَ بِالْأَسْحَارِ

*13 It means, they stand steadfast for the sake of truth, are not daunted by losses or hardships, are not disheartened by failures, and are not turned aside from the right path by temptations. They adhere to the truth even when there appears to be no chance of success. In Sura Al-Baqarah the Quran says, If you face some difficulties in following the righteous way, sabr and Salat will help remove the difficulties and strengthen you to walk the way easily. Lexically, sabr means to check and tie, but in usage it stands for patience, perseverance, endurance and fortitude. The Quran uses this word to express that fortitude, that moral strength, that firmness of purpose and decision, that determination, moral discipline and self control. This enables a person to proceed with patience and courage in the face of afflictions, privations and temptations on the way he chooses in accordance with the dictates of his conscience.

18. Allah bears witness that there is no god except Him.*¹⁴

And (so do) the angels and those with knowledge, (that He is) maintaining (creation) in Justice.*¹⁵ There is no god except Him, the All Mighty, the All Wise.

شَهِدَ اللَّهُ أَنَّهُ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ وَالْمَلَائِكَةُ وَأُولُوا الْعِلْمِ قَائِمًا
بِالْقِسْطِ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ الْعَزِيزُ
الْحَكِيمُ

14 That is: This is the testimony of Allah himself that He alone in the whole universe possesses the attributes of Godhead and the authority and the rights of Godhead. This is His testimony, and who could be a more reliable testifier than He who has direct knowledge of all the realities of the universe? He sees His whole creation spread before Him, and from Him nothing is hidden in the heavens or in the earth.

15 Next to Allah, the most trustworthy witnesses are angels, who are the managing agents of the affairs of His kingdom of the universe. Their evidence is based on their personal knowledge, that is;

None but Allah wields command in this kingdom and none but He gives orders for the administration of the affairs of the earth and the heavens. Then all those people, who have been bestowed with the knowledge of the realities, have been unanimously bearing witness, since the beginning of the world to the present day, that Allah alone is the Master and the Designer of the entire universe.

19. Truly, the religion with Allah is Al-Islam.*¹⁶ And إِنَّ الدِّينَ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ الْإِسْلَامُ

those who were given the Scripture did not differ except after what had come to them as knowledge,^{*17} out of jealousy among themselves. And whoever disbelieves in the signs of Allah, then indeed, Allah is swift in taking account.

وَمَا اخْتَلَفَ الَّذِينَ اُوتُوا
الْكِتَابَ اِلَّا مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا
جَاءَهُمْ الْعِلْمُ بَغْيًا
بَيْنَهُمْ وَمَنْ يَكْفُرْ
بِآيَاتِ اللَّهِ فَاِنَّ اللَّهَ
سَرِيعُ الْحِسَابِ

16 It implies that in the sight of Allah, there is only one correct system and one right way of life for man. It is this: Man should worship Allah, acknowledge Him as his Master and surrender himself completely to Him in His worship and service. He should not invent his own way of worship but should faithfully follow that guidance alone which Allah has revealed through His Messengers (peace be upon them), without adding anything to or taking away anything from it. This way of thinking and behaving is called “Islam.” And it is the absolute right of the Creator and the Master of the universe that He should not accept as lawful from His subjects, His own creation, any way other than Islam. One might ignorantly think it to be one’s right to follow any system, atheism, idolatry, etc. but the Ruler of the universe will regard this behavior as rebellious.

17 It means that originally Islam and Islam alone was professed and preached by every messenger who was sent by Allah at any time in any corner of the world. Hence any Scripture sent down to any community in any language taught the same Islam. Afterwards, the people distorted this original religion and added to it something to suit their interests or to gratify their lusts, and omitted those things from it which went against their interests. They invented new religions just because they wanted to transgress the prescribed limits and run after undue privileges and gains and distinctions. Thus they made changes in the beliefs, principles and injunctions of the true faith to make it subservient to their own desires and lusts.

20. So if they argue with you, say: “I have submitted my face (self) to Allah, and (so have) those who follow me.” And say to those who were given the Scripture, and those who are illiterates: “Do you (also) submit.”*¹⁸ So if they submit, then truly they are rightly guided, and if they turn away, then it is upon you only to convey (the message). And Allah is All Seer of (His) servants.

فَإِنْ حَاجُّوكَ فَقُلْ أَسْلَمْتُ
 وَجْهِيَ لِلَّهِ وَمَنِ اتَّبَعَنِ ۗ وَقُلْ
 لِلَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ وَالْأُمِّيِّينَ
 ءَأَسْلَمْتُمْ ۗ فَإِنْ أَسْلَمُوا فَقَدِ
 اهْتَدَوْا ۗ وَإِنْ تَوَلَّوْا فَإِنَّمَا
 عَلَيْكَ الْبَلْغُ ۗ وَاللَّهُ بِصِيرٍ
 بِالْعِبَادِ

*¹⁸ The same thing may be expressed thus: Say, my followers and I have been convinced of this same pure Islam and have accepted the true religion of Allah; now tell us whether you also will give up the innovations which you and your elders have introduced into it and turn to the original true religion.

21. Indeed, those who disbelieve in the signs of Allah, and kill the prophets without any right, and kill those who order justice from among mankind, so give them tidings of a painful punishment.*19

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ يَكْفُرُونَ بِآيَاتِ
 اللَّهِ وَيَقْتُلُونَ النَّبِيِّنَ بِغَيْرِ
 حَقٍّ وَيَقْتُلُونَ الَّذِينَ
 يَأْمُرُونَ بِالْقِسْطِ مِنَ
 النَّاسِ فَبَشِّرْهُمْ بِعَذَابٍ أَلِيمٍ

19 This is an ironical way of bringing home to the disbelievers the consequences of those mischievous deeds in which they rejoice today, regarding them as nice things.

22. They are those whose deeds will be lost in this world and the Hereafter,*20 and they will not have any helpers.*21

أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ حَبِطَتْ
 أَعْمَالُهُمْ فِي الدُّنْيَا وَالْآخِرَةِ
 وَمَا لَهُمْ مِنْ نَاصِرِينَ

20 That is, as they have spent all their energies and powers in evil ways, their works will bring them to ruin both in this world and in the next world.

21 That is, there is no such power which can bring out good results from their wrongly directed efforts or at least make them harmless. All the various agencies, which they believe will help them in this world or in the next world or in both, shall be absolutely of no avail to them anywhere.

23. Have you not seen at those who were given a portion of the Scripture. They are invited to the Book of Allah that it should arbitrate between them, then a party of them turn away, and they are averse.*22

أَلَمْ تَرَ إِلَى الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا
نَصِيبًا مِّنَ الْكِتَابِ يُدْعَوْنَ
إِلَى كِتَابِ اللَّهِ لِيَحْكُمَ بَيْنَهُمْ
ثُمَّ يَتَوَلَّى فَرِيقٌ مِّنْهُمْ وَهُمْ
مُّعْرِضُونَ

22 That is, they are asked to acknowledge the Book of Allah as the final authority and bow before its decrees and accept as true whatever is proved to be true by it, and reject whatever is proved to be false by it. It should be noted that here by the Book of God is meant the Torah or the Gospel, and by the people who have received a share of the knowledge of the Book are meant the learned people of the Jews and the Christians.

24. That is because they say: “The Fire shall never touch us except for a certain number of days.”*23
And they are deluded in their religion by that which they used to invent.

ذَٰلِكَ بِأَنَّهُمْ قَالُوا لَن تَمَسَّنَا
النَّارُ إِلَّا أَيَّامًا مَّعْدُودَاتٍ
وَعَرَّهَمُ فِي دِينِهِمْ مَا كَانُوا
يَفْتُرُونَ

23 As such people regard themselves to be the favorites of God, they delude themselves that they are going to enter into Paradise anyhow, irrespective of the quality of their deeds. They foolishly believe that the fire of Hell dare not touch them because they are true believers and the children of such pious ancestors, and the followers of such and such prophets and the disciples of such and such saints, etc. And if at all they are cast into Hell, they argue, they will be kept there only for a few days to be cleansed of the impurity of sins and then will go into Paradise permanently. Such misleading ideas and conceptions have made them so bold that they commit the gravest crimes and the most heinous sins fearlessly: so much so that they openly disown the truth without the least fear of Allah.

25. So how (will it be) when We gather them on a Day about which there is no doubt. And each soul will be paid in full what it has earned, and they will not be wronged.

فَكَيْفَ إِذَا جَمَعْنَهُمْ لِيَوْمٍ لَا
رَيْبَ فِيهِ وَوُفِّيَتْ كُلُّ نَفْسٍ
مَا كَسَبَتْ وَهُمْ لَا
يُظْلَمُونَ ﴿٢٥﴾

26. Say: “O Allah, Owner of sovereignty, You give sovereignty to whom You will, and You take away sovereignty from whom You will. And You honor whom You will, and You abase whom You will. In Your hand is the good. Indeed, You have Power over all things.”

قُلِ اللَّهُمَّ مَلِكُ الْمَلِكِ تُؤْتِي
الْمَلِكَ مَنْ تَشَاءُ وَتَنْزِعُ
الْمَلِكَ مِمَّنْ تَشَاءُ وَتُعِزُّ مَنْ
تَشَاءُ وَتُذِلُّ مَنْ تَشَاءُ بِيَدِكَ
الْخَيْرُ إِنَّكَ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ ﴿٢٦﴾

27. “You cause the night to enter into the day, and You cause the day to enter into the night. And You bring the living out of the dead, and You bring the dead out of the living. And You give sustenance to whom You will without measure.”*24

تُؤَلِّجُ اللَّيْلَ فِي النَّهَارِ وَتُؤَلِّجُ
النَّهَارَ فِي اللَّيْلِ وَتُخْرِجُ الْحَيَّ
مِنَ الْمَيِّتِ وَتُخْرِجُ الْمَيِّتَ
مِنَ الْحَيِّ وَتَرْزُقُ مَنْ تَشَاءُ بِغَيْرِ

حِسَابٍ

*24 Verses 26 and 27 fit in beautifully between the preceding and the subsequent verses. From verse 19 begins a warning and challenge to the opponents of Islam, and in verse 25, the Muslims have been consoled with the assurance that their enemies shall be paid in full on the Day of Judgment. But in order to reassure them, Allah has in these verses, answered an unasked question which arises when one sees that the disbelievers and the disobedient to Allah are prospering in the world, while the believers and the obedient servants of Allah are starving and suffering from hardships. The question is: What wisdom underlies this disparity in the prosperity and adversity of the two groups? At the time (A.H. 3) of the revelation of this discourse the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions were so hard pressed on all sides that the same question was arising in the people's minds. Its answer is contained in these verses: Allah to whom belongs all authority, power, wealth, prosperity etc. gives a portion of these to whomsoever He wills, and they should not feel uneasy and anxious about this disparity because He is All

Wise and All Knowing. Moreover Allah gives wealth to whomsoever He wills; therefore it is not to be made the criterion of honor and friendship. Hence in the subsequent verses, the Muslims have been prohibited from making the prosperous disbelievers their friends.

28. Let not the believers take the disbelievers for their friends instead of the believers. And whoever does that, then has nothing (to do) with Allah in anything at all, except that you guard yourselves against them by way of precaution.*²⁵ And Allah warns you against Himself (His punishment), and to Allah is the final return.*²⁶

لَا يَتَّخِذِ الْمُؤْمِنُونَ الْكَافِرِينَ
أَوْلِيَاءَ مِنْ دُونِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَمَنْ
يَفْعَلْ ذَلِكَ فَلَيْسَ مِنَ اللَّهِ
فِي شَيْءٍ إِلَّا أَنْ تَتَّقُوا مِنْهُمْ
تُقْلَةً وَيُحَذِّرْكُمْ اللَّهُ نَفْسَهُ
وَإِلَى اللَّهِ الْمَصِيرُ

*²⁵ That is, if a believer falls into the hands of the enemies of Islam and is afraid of maltreatment and high handedness, he may conceal his faith, and live among them as if he were one of them. Or, if they come to know of his faith, he may make a show of his friendship towards them to save his life. In case of extreme fear, he is permitted even to disown his faith, if he feels that he is not strong enough to endure their oppression.

*²⁶ This is the admonition: Let not the fear of the people dominate over you so much as to drive out the fear of Allah from your hearts. The greatest harm the people can do to you is confined to the worldly life only, but Allah has the power to inflict an everlasting torment on you. Therefore, if you are forced in a case of extremity to hide your faith due to any danger to your life, you may save your own life and property, provided that you do not in any way harm the interests of the Islamic mission and the Islamic community or the life or property of any Muslim. At the same time you must remain on your guard against becoming the instrument in the hands of disbelievers so as to strengthen the evil forces against Islam and render any service to the disbelievers that might enable them to overpower the Muslims. Remember that, if to save your life you do any kind of harm to the religion of Allah, or to the community of the faithful or even to the person of a single believer, or if you render any real service to the rebels against Allah, you will never be able to save yourselves on the Day of Reckoning, when you shall have to return to Allah.

29. Say, (O Muhammad):
 “Whether you hide that which is in your breasts or reveal it, Allah knows it. And He knows that which is in the heavens and that which is on the earth. And Allah has Power over all things.”

قُلْ إِنْ تَخْفُوا مَا فِي
 صُدُورِكُمْ أَوْ تُبْدُوهُ يَعْلَمُهُ
 اللَّهُ وَيَعْلَمُ مَا فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَمَا
 فِي الْأَرْضِ وَاللَّهُ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ
 شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ

30. On the Day (when) every soul will find what

يَوْمَ تَجِدُ كُلُّ نَفْسٍ مَّا

it has done of good to be present (in front of it), and what it has done of evil. it will wish if there were, between itself and its (evil) a far away distance. And Allah warns you against Himself (His punishment). And Allah is Kind to (His) servants.*27

عَمِلْتَ مِنْ خَيْرٍ مُحَضَّرًا وَمَا
عَمِلْتَ مِنْ سُوءٍ تَوَدُّ لَوْ أَنَّ
بَيْنَهَا وَبَيْنَهُ أَمَدًا بَعِيدًا
وَيُحَذِّرُكُمُ اللَّهُ نَفْسَهُ وَاللَّهُ
رءُوفٌ بِالْعِبَادِ

*27 That is, it is simply out of His extreme compassion for you that Allah warns you beforehand of those things that might lead you to ruin.

31. Say (O Muhammad): “If you love Allah, then follow me, Allah will love you, and forgive you your sins. And Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.”

قُلْ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ تُحِبُّونَ اللَّهَ
فَاتَّبِعُونِي يُحِبِّكُمْ اللَّهُ وَيَغْفِرْ
لَكُمْ ذُنُوبَكُمْ وَاللَّهُ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

32. Say (O Muhammad): “Obey Allah and the messenger. But if they turn away, then indeed, Allah does not love the disbelievers.”*28

قُلْ أَطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَالرَّسُولَ فَإِنْ
تَوَلَّوْا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُحِبُّ الْكٰفِرِينَ

*28 Here the first discourse ends. If we consider its theme, and especially its reference to the battle of Badr, we come to the conclusion that the probable period of the revelation of this was some time after the battle of Badr and before the battle of Uhd, that is 3 A.H. A tradition of Muhammad bin Ishaq has generally misled people to fix the period of the revelation of the first 80 verses to 9 A.H., for according to that tradition it was sent down on the occasion of the deputation from Najran. But obviously, that is wrong for two reasons: first, the subject of this introductory discourse shows clearly that it was revealed much earlier. Second, the tradition of Mugatil-bin-Sulaiman is explicit on the point that on the occasion of the said deputation only those verses (33-63) were revealed which give an account of John the Baptist and Jesus (peace be upon them).

33. Indeed,^{*29} Allah chose Adam, and Noah, and the family of Abraham, and the family of Imran^{*30} above all people.

﴿ إِنَّ اللَّهَ اصْطَفَىٰ آدَمَ وَنُوحًا وَأَالَ إِبْرَاهِيمَ وَأَالَ عِمْرَانَ عَلَى
الْعَالَمِينَ ﴾

*29 From here begins the second discourse. It was sent down in 9 A.H. on the occasion of the visit of the deputation from the Christian state of Najran, which lay between Hijaz and Yemen. It is said that it comprised 73 villages and towns and was capable of raising an army of more than one hundred thousand strong. The population was wholly Christian and was governed by the “Aqib,” who was the head of the community, and the “Sayyid,” who was in charge of the social and political affairs and the Bishop, who looked after the religious affairs of the people. The above mentioned deputation was one of the many who visited the Prophet (peace be upon him) after the conquest of Makkah, when the whole of Arabia came to realize that the future of the country was now in his hands. This deputation from Najran to Al-Madinah consisted of 60 men and the three heads of the government. As they had no intention to go to war, the question before them was either to embrace Islam or to live as zimmi (proteges). On this occasion Allah sent down this discourse to the Prophet (peace be upon him) to invite the members of the deputation to Islam.

30 Imran was the name of the father of Moses and Aaron and has been mentioned as Amram in the Bible.

34. Descendants, some of them from others. And Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.*31

ذُرِّيَّةٌ بَعْضُهَا مِنْ بَعْضٍ وَاللَّهُ سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

31 The main cause of the misguidance of the Christians is that they consider Jesus (peace be upon him) to be the son of God and a partner in Godhead, instead of His servant and messenger. Therefore this basic error is being corrected with a view to making them understand the true and real Islam. That is why the introduction to the discourse begins with the assertion that Adam and Noah and the prophets from the family of Abraham and from the family of Imran (peace be upon them), were all human beings and none of them was God. Their only distinction was that Allah had chosen them for the preaching of His religion and reforming the world.

35. When the woman of Imran^{*32} said: “O My Lord, I have indeed vowed to You that (child) which is in my womb to be dedicated for Your services. So accept (this) from me. Indeed, You are the All Hearer, the All Knower.”^{*33}

إِذْ قَالَتْ أُمُّرَاتُ عِمْرَانَ رَبِّ إِنِّي
نَذَرْتُ لَكَ مَا فِي بَطْنِي مُحَرَّرًا
فَتَقَبَّلْ مِنِّي إِنَّكَ أَنْتَ السَّمِيعُ
الْعَلِيمُ

32 If the woman of Imran is meant as the wife of Imran, then this must be a different Imran from the one mentioned above in Ayat 33. In that case one comes to the conclusion that the father of Mary was named Imran after that ancestor. But if the woman of Imran is meant as a woman from the family of Imran, then it merely shows that Mary’s mother was a descendant of Imran. We possess no authentic knowledge of the basis on which one opinion may be preferred to the other. Though according to some Christian traditions the name of Mary’s father was Iaachim, history does not say who the father of Mary was and to which family her mother belonged to. But if the tradition that the mothers of Mary and Elisabeth, the mother of John, were cousins be taken, (Luke 1:36), then the woman of Imran will mean a woman from the family of Imran. The Gospel of Luke (1:5) says that Elisabeth, the wife of Zacharia was of the daughters of Aaron. That is, Imran’s daughter or woman of Imran; therefore it is clear that there is no anachronism of confounding Miriam, the sister of Aaron, with the virgin Mary. It is a common practice to call children by the names of their ancestors; so both the explanations are equally acceptable. Moreover, it does not make any difference whatsoever, in the line of argument adopted here to explain the miraculous birth of Jesus (peace be upon him), whether Imran was really the name of Mary's father or has been called so in the ancestral sense.

33 That is, You hear the prayers of Your servants and are aware of their intentions.

36. Then when she delivered her, she said: "My Lord, I have indeed delivered a female child." And Allah knew best of what she delivered. And the male is not like a female.^{*34} "And I have named her Mary, and I seek refuge for her with You, and for her offspring from Satan the outcast."

فَلَمَّا وَضَعَتْهَا قَالَتْ رَبِّ إِنِّي
وَضَعْتُهَا أُنْثَىٰ وَاللَّهُ أَعْلَمُ بِمَا
وَضَعْتُ وَلَيْسَ الذَّكَرُ كَالْأُنْثَىٰ
وَإِنِّي سَمَّيْتُهَا مَرْيَمَ وَإِنِّي
أَعِيذُهَا بِكَ وَذُرِّيَّتَهَا مِنَ الشَّيْطَانِ
الرَّجِيمِ

34 By this she meant, had it been a male, it would have been better because the female is handicapped by many natural frailties and social restrictions and cannot become a priest. A male child would, therefore, have served the purpose better for which I have dedicated my child in Your way.

37. So her Lord accepted her with good acceptance, and caused her to grow with a good growth, and put her under the care of Zechariah. Whenever Zechariah^{*35} went to her in the prayer sanctuary,^{*36} he found with her provision. He said: “O Mary, where is this from to you.” She said: “It is from Allah. Indeed, Allah provides to whom He wills without measure.

فَتَقَبَّلَهَا رَبُّهَا بِقَبُولٍ حَسَنٍ

وَأَنْبَتَهَا نَبَاتًا حَسَنًا وَكَفَّلَهَا
 زَكَرِيَّا كُلَّمَا دَخَلَ عَلَيْهَا زَكَرِيَّا
 الْمِحْرَابَ وَجَدَ عِنْدَهَا رِزْقًا
 قَالَ يَمْرُؤُا أَنَّى لَكَ هَذَا قَالَتْ
 هُوَ مِنْ عِنْدِ اللَّهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ يَرْزُقُ
 مَنْ يَشَاءُ بِغَيْرِ حِسَابٍ ﴿٣٧﴾

35 This happened when Mary had reached the age of discretion and had been admitted into the sanctuary of the Temple (Jerusalem), where she was busy, day and night, in the worship of Allah. Zacharias who had been made her guardian was probably the husband of her maternal aunt and was one of the keepers of the Temple. He was not the Prophet Zachariah, who was killed according to the Old Testament.

36 The Arabic word mihrab usually reminds one of the arch (prayer niche) meant for the imam in the mosques. But here this word has been used for those cells which are built on comparatively raised ground adjoining the monasteries and churches. They are meant for the keepers and guardians of the places of worship, and for those who retire for worship in seclusion. In such a cell Mary had retired for worship in seclusion.

38. At that time Zechariah called upon his Lord, saying: “O my Lord, grant me from Yourself a good offspring. Indeed, You are the All Hearer of supplication.”^{*37}

هٰنَالِكَ دَعَا زَكَرِيَّا رَبَّهُ
قَالَ رَبِّ هَبْ لِي مِنْ لَدُنْكَ
ذُرِّيَّةً طَيِّبَةً إِنَّكَ سَمِيعُ الدُّعَاءِ

37 Zacharia was childless until that time. Seeing this pious young girl, he longed for a good child. Seeing how she was growing under the special protection of Allah, Who supplied her in her seclusion, with provisions from His vast sources, he began to cherish the hope that Allah should bestow upon him a child even in his old age, if He so willed.

39. Then the angels called him, while he stood praying in the sanctuary: “Surely, Allah gives you good tidings of (a son) John,^{*38} (who will be) confirming the word from Allah,^{*39} and (he will be) noble, and chaste, and a prophet from among the righteous.”

فَنَادَتْهُ الْمَلَائِكَةُ وَهُوَ قَائِمٌ
يُصَلِّي فِي الْمِحْرَابِ أَنَّ اللَّهَ
يُبَشِّرُكَ بِيَحْيَىٰ مُصَدِّقًا بِكَلِمَةٍ
مِّنَ اللَّهِ وَسَيِّدًا وَحَصُورًا وَنَبِيًّا
مِّنَ الصَّالِحِينَ

38 The Bible mentions him as John the Baptist. (Matthew: Chaps. 3,11,14; Mark: 1,6; Luke: 1,3).

39 Word from Allah, here refers to Jesus (peace be upon him). The Quran calls him a word from Allah because the birth was brought about miraculously by an extraordinary command from Allah.

40. He said: “My Lord, how can I have a son while indeed I have reached old age, and my wife is barren.” He (the angel) said: “Thus (shall it be),^{*40} Allah does what He wills.”

قَالَ رَبِّ أَنَّى يَكُونُ لِي غُلَامٌ وَقَدْ
بَلَغَنِي الْكِبَرُ وَامْرَأَتِي عَاقِرٌ
قَالَ كَذَلِكَ اللَّهُ يَفْعَلُ مَا يَشَاءُ

40 That is, despite your old age and the sterility of your wife, Allah will bestow upon you a son.

41. He said: “My Lord, appoint for me a sign.”^{*41} He (the angel) said: “The sign to you is that you shall not (be able to) speak to people for three days, except by gesture. And remember your Lord much, and glorify (Him) in the evening and the morning.”^{*42}

قَالَ رَبِّ اجْعَلْ لِي آيَةً ۖ قَالَ
آيَتُكَ إِلَّا أَنْ تَكَلَّمَ النَّاسَ ثَلَاثَةَ
أَيَّامٍ إِلَّا رَمَزًا ۖ وَادْكُرْ رَبَّكَ
كَثِيرًا ۖ وَسَبِّحْ بِالْعَشِيِّ
وَإِلْبَكْرِ

41 That is, give me a token to assure me beforehand of the birth of a son to an old man and a barren woman.

42 The main object of this discourse is to make the Christians realize the error of their belief in taking Jesus (peace be upon him) for the son of God, and making him an object of worship. The extraordinary birth of John (peace be upon him) has been mentioned in the Quran to serve as an introduction to the subsequent argument against their wrong belief. The miraculous birth of Jesus (peace be upon him) could no more entitle him to divinity than the extraordinary birth of John (peace be upon him), brought about in the same family in a different and unusual way.

42. And when the angels said: “O Mary, indeed, Allah has chosen you and has purified you, and has chosen you above the women of the worlds.”

وَإِذْ قَالَتِ الْمَلٰٓئِكَةُ يٰمَرْيَمُ
اِنَّ اللّٰهَ اصْطَفٰكِ وَطَهَّرَكِ
وَاصْطَفٰكِ عَلٰٓى
النِّسَاءِ
الْعٰلَمِيْنَ

43. “O Mary, be obedient to your Lord, and prostrate, and bow down with those who bow down (in worship).”

يٰمَرْيَمُ اَقْنِيْ لِرَبِّكِ وَاسْجُدِيْ
وَارْكَعِيْ مَعَ الرَّاكِعِيْنَ

44. That is from the news of the unseen, which We reveal to you (O Muhammad). And you were not with them when they cast their pens as to which of them should be the guardian of Mary,^{*43} and you were not with them when they disputed.

ذٰلِكَ مِنْ اَنْبَآءِ الْغَيْبِ نُوْحِيْهِ اِلَيْكَ
وَمَا كُنْتَ لَدَيْهِمْ
اِذْ يُلْقُوْنَ
اَقْلَمَهُمْ اَيُّهُمْ
يَكْفُلُ
مَرْيَمَ
وَمَا كُنْتَ لَدَيْهِمْ
اِذْ
يَخْتَصِمُوْنَ

*43 As Mary was a girl who had been dedicated by her mother to the Temple in the Way of Allah, the question of her guardianship had become a problem for the keepers because of her sex. They were therefore casting lots to decide the delicate problem.

45. When the angels said: “O Mary, indeed, Allah gives you good tidings of a word from Him, whose name will be the Messiah, Jesus, son of Mary, honored in this world and the Hereafter, and of those brought near (to Allah).”

إِذْ قَالَتِ الْمَلٰٓئِكَةُ يٰمَرْيَمُ اِنَّ
اللّٰهَ يُبَشِّرُكَ بِكَلِمَةٍ مِّنْهُ اَسْمُهُ
الْمَسِيْحُ عِيسٰى ابْنُ مَرْيَمَ
وَجِيْهًا فِى الدُّنْيَا وَالْآخِرَةِ وَمِنَ
الْمُقَرَّبِيْنَ ﴿٤٥﴾

46. “And he will speak to mankind in the cradle and in maturity, and will be of the righteous.”

وَيُكَلِّمُ النَّاسَ فِى الْمَهْدِ
وَكَهْلًا وَمِنَ الصّٰلِحِيْنَ ﴿٤٦﴾

47. She said: “My Lord, how can I have a child when no man has touched me.” He (the angel) said: “Thus (so shall it be),^{*44} Allah creates what He wills.” When He decrees a matter, then He only says to it: “Be,” and it is.

قَالَتْ رَبِّ اَنۡىٰٓ يُكُوْنُ لِىْ وَلَدٌ وَلَمَّ
يَمَسَّنِىۡ بَشَرٌ ۗ قَالَ كَذٰلِكَ
اللّٰهُ يَخْلُقُ مَا يَشَآءُ ۗ اِذَا قَضٰى
اَمْرًا فَاِنَّمَا يَقُوْلُ لَهُ كُنْ فَيَكُوْنُ
﴿٤٧﴾

44 That is, although no man has touched you, yet a son shall be born to you. It should be noted that the same word kazalika meaning “so shall it be,” had been used in response to Zacharia’s prayer. It, therefore, carries the same sense here. Moreover, the whole context here corroborates the story that Mary was given the glad tidings of the birth of a son without any sexual intercourse. And the birth of Jesus (peace be upon him), in actual fact, took place in that unusual way. If a son was to be born to her in the normal known way, and if the event of the birth of Jesus (peace be upon him) had taken place in a natural way, then the whole discourse starting from verse 33 and ending with verse 63 would become absolutely pointless. Not only that but all other references to the unusual birth of Jesus (peace be upon him) in the Quran would lose their significance and meaning. The Christians had made Jesus (peace be upon him) the son of God and worthy of worship simply because of his unusual birth without a father and the Jews had accused Mary because they had witnessed that she had given birth to a child, though she was not married. Had it been otherwise, then the two groups could have been told plainly that the girl was married to such and such a man and that Jesus (peace be upon him) was from his seed. In that case, one fails to see the reason why such a long introduction and a series of arguments should have been necessary to remove all doubts about his miraculous birth. Then Jesus (peace be upon him) could have been called the son of a particular man, instead of being called the son of Mary. The position of those people who, on the one hand, profess to believe the Quran to be the word of Allah, and on the other hand try to prove that Jesus (peace be upon him) was born after the natural coming together of a husband and wife, really try to show that Allah is not able to express Himself as clearly as these people. (May God protect us from blasphemy).

48. “And He will teach him the Scripture and wisdom, and the Torah, and the Gospel.”

وَيُعَلِّمُهُ الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَةَ
وَالتَّوْرَةَ وَالْإِنْجِيلَ

49. And (He will make him) a messenger to the Children of Israel, (saying): “That I have indeed come to you with a sign from your Lord, in that I make for you out of clay like the shape of a bird, then I breathe into it, and it becomes a bird by permission of Allah. And I heal him who was born blind, and the leper, and I bring the dead to life by permission of Allah. And I inform you of what you eat and what you store up in your houses. Indeed, in this is a sign for you, if you are believers.”^{*45}

وَرَسُولًا إِلَىٰ بَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ أَنِّي قَدْ
جِئْتُكُمْ بِبَيِّنَاتٍ مِّن رَّبِّكُمْ أَنِّي
أَخْلَقُ لَكُمْ مِّنَ الطِّينِ
كَهَيْئَةِ الطَّيْرِ فَأَنْفُخُ فِيهِ فَيَكُونُ
طَيْرًا بِإِذْنِ اللَّهِ وَأُبْرِئُ
الْأَكْمَهَ وَالْأَبْرَصَ وَأُحْيِي
الْمَوْتَىٰ بِإِذْنِ اللَّهِ وَأُنَبِّئُكُم بِمَا
تَأْكُلُونَ وَمَا تَدَّخِرُونَ فِي
بُيُوتِكُمْ ۚ إِنَّ فِي ذَٰلِكَ لَآيَةً
لَّكُمْ إِن كُنتُمْ مُّؤْمِنِينَ

*45 That is, these signs are clear enough to convince you that I have been sent by that Allah who is the Creator and Absolute Ruler of this universe, provided that you are not obdurate but are willing to accept the truth.

50. “And (I have come) confirming that which was before me of the Torah, and to make lawful for you some of that which was forbidden to you.^{*46} And I have come to you with a sign from your Lord,^{*47} so fear Allah and obey me.”

وَمُصَدِّقًا لِّمَا بَيْنَ يَدَيَّ
مِنَ التَّوْرَةِ وَلَا حِلَّ لَكُمْ
بَعْضَ الَّذِي حُرِّمَ عَلَيْكُمْ
وَجِئْتُكُمْ بِآيَةٍ مِّن رَّبِّكُمْ
فَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَأَطِيعُوا

46 That is, this is yet another proof of the fact that I have been sent by Allah. If I had been a false prophet I would have invented my own religion and by virtue of these miracles striven to divert you from your previous faith to the new creed. But I profess the same original religion to be true and confirm the same teachings which were brought by the prophets before me.

The fact that Jesus (peace be upon him) taught the same religion that had been presented by Moses (peace be upon him) and the other prophets is supported even by the existing Gospels. For example, according to the Gospel of Matthew, Jesus (peace be upon him) declared in the sermon on the Mount: “Think not that I have come to destroy the law, or the prophets. I have not come to destroy, but to fulfill.”

One of the Pharisees, who was a lawyer, asked Jesus (peace be upon him), which is the great commandment in the law? He replied: Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and the great commandment. And the second is like unto it, thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and prophets." (Matthew 22: 37-40).

On another occasion Jesus (peace be upon him) said to his disciples: The scribes and the Pharisees sit in Moses (peace be upon him) seat: All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye after their works: for they say, and do not." (Matthew 23: 2-3).

47 That is, I have come to efface and abolish the superstitions of your ignorant people, the hairsplitting of your jurists, the religious austerities of your ascetics and the restrictive additions made in the law of Allah under the non-Muslim domination; I will make lawful or unlawful for you only those things which Allah has made lawful or unlawful.

51. "Indeed, Allah is my Lord and your Lord, so worship Him. That is the straight path."^{*48}

إِنَّ اللَّهَ رَبِّي وَرَبُّكُمْ
فَاعْبُدُوهُ هَذَا صِرَاطٌ مُسْتَقِيمٌ

48 This shows that like all other prophets, Jesus (peace be upon him) also based his teachings on the following three fundamentals:

(1) The Supreme Authority to which mankind should submit and surrender exclusively belongs to Allah and all the social and moral systems should be built entirely on it.

(2) Being a representative of the same Paramount Power, a prophet must be obeyed unconditionally.

(3) Allah alone is entitled to prescribe laws and regulations for making things lawful or unlawful, pure and impure; consequently all laws imposed by others must be abolished.

Thus it is clear that Jesus, Moses, Muhammad and all other prophets (peace be upon them) had one and the same mission. Those people who aver that different prophets were sent with different missions and to fulfill different aims, are gravely mistaken. Anyone, who is delegated by the Absolute Master of the universe to His subjects, cannot have any other mission than to prevent the people, from becoming disobedient to and independent of Him, and to forbid them to set others to rank with Allah as partners in His authority in any way. For, they are sent to invite the people to surrender and submit and be loyal to the Almighty God and worship Him alone.

It is a pity that the existing Gospels do not present the mission of Jesus (peace be upon him) so precisely and clearly as it has been presented above in the Quran. Nevertheless all the three basic things mentioned above are found scattered over in these Books. For instance, the fact that Jesus (peace be upon him) believed exclusively in the worship of One God is clear from the following:

(1) Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve. (Matthew 4: 10).

(2) Not only did he believe in this, but also made it the ultimate aim of all his activities and strove to make the people of the earth to submit to the revealed law of Allah just as the whole universe submits to His physical law.

Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. (Matthew 6 :10).

Then the fact that Jesus (peace be upon him) always presented himself as a prophet and as a representative of the Kingdom of Heaven, and always invited the people to follow him in that capacity alone, is supported by a number of his sayings. When he started his mission in his native place, Nazareth, the people of his own town and his own kinsfolk rose against him and according to an agreed tradition of Matthew, Mark and Luke, he said: No prophet is accepted in his own country. And when his enemies were conspiring at Jerusalem to kill him and the people advised him to go to somewhere else, he replied: It cannot be that a prophet perish out of Jerusalem. (Luke 13: 33).

When he was entering Jerusalem for the last time, his disciples began to utter in a loud voice: Blessed be the king that cometh in the name of the Lord. At this the Pharisees felt offended and asked him to silence his disciples. He replied:

I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out. (Luke 19: 38-40).

On another occasion he said: Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me for I am meek and lowly in heart. My yoke is easy, and my burden is light. (Matthew 11: 28-30).

Moreover the fact that Jesus (peace be upon him) wanted the people to obey the divine law rather than man made laws becomes clear from that tradition of Matthew and Mark which says that when the Pharisees asked, why his disciples transgressed the tradition of the elders and took food without washing their hands, he replied and said, well hath Esaias prophesied of you hypocrites, as it is written. This people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. Howbeit in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. For laying aside the commandments of God, ye hold the tradition of men, as the washing of pots and cups, and many other such like things ye do. And he said unto them, full well ye reject the commandment of God, that ye may keep your own tradition. For Moses said, honor thy father and thy mother; and, whoso curseth father or mother, let him die the death: But ye say, if a man shall say to his father or mother, it is Corban, that is to say, a gift, by whatsoever thou mightest be profited by me; he shall be free. And ye suffer him no more to do ought for his father or his mother; Making the word of God of none effect through your tradition, which ye have delivered: and many such like things do ye. (Mark 7: 6-13).

52. Then when Jesus felt of their disbelief, he said: “Who are my helpers for (the cause of) Allah.” The disciples said: ^{*49} “We are the helpers of Allah. ^{*50} We have believed in Allah, and be (our) witness that we have ﴿ فَلَمَّا أَحَسَّ عَيْسَىٰ مِنْهُمْ

الْكُفْرَ قَالَ مَنْ أَنْصَارِي إِلَى اللَّهِ
قَالَ الْحَوَارِيُّونَ نَحْنُ
أَنْصَارُ اللَّهِ ءَامَنَّا بِاللَّهِ وَأَشْهَدُ

submitted (to Allah).”

بِأَنَّا مُسْلِمُونَ

*49 The Arabic word havari is almost the equivalent of helper. In the Bible, they have been called disciples and at some places apostles because Jesus (peace be upon him) used to send them to the people to deliver his message, and not because God had appointed them as His apostles.

*50 Those people who help establish Islam have been called Allah’s helpers. In order to understand its significance, it should be kept in view that Allah has taken upon Himself to persuade human beings to adopt Islam of their free will. For He does not force His will on man in those spheres of his life in which He has granted him freedom of action, but likes to convince him by reason and admonition. As it is the work of Allah to bring the people to the right way by admonition and advice, He calls those people who exert their utmost to establish Islam His helpers and companions. This is indeed the highest position that a servant of Allah can aspire to achieve. For man’s position is merely that of a servant when he is engaged in praying, fasting and other kinds of worship, but he is elevated to the high and unique position of God’s companion and assistant when he is exerting for the establishment of the Way of Allah. And this is indeed the loftiest position of spiritual attainment, to which a man can aspire in this world.

53. “Our Lord, we have believed in that which You sent down, and we have followed the messenger so

رَبَّنَا ءَامَنَّا بِمَا أَنْزَلْتَ وَاتَّبَعْنَا الرَّسُولَ فَأَكْتُبْنَا مَعَ write us among those who bear witness.”

الشَّاهِدِينَ ﴿٥٣﴾

54. And they (disbelievers) planned, and Allah planned (against them). And Allah is the best of planners.

وَمَكْرُوا وَمَكَرَ اللَّهُ وَاللَّهُ خَيْرُ الْمَكْرِينَ ﴿٥٤﴾

55. When Allah said: “O Jesus, indeed, I will take you ^{*51} and raise you to Myself, and purify (free) you of those who disbelieve, and I will make those who follow you above those who disbelieve ^{*52} until the Day of Resurrection. Then to Me you (all) will return, then I will judge between you in that in which you used to dispute.”

51 The word mutawaffi in the Arabic text is from tawaffa which literally means to take and to receive, and to seize the soul is not its lexical but metaphorical meaning. Here it means to recall from mission. Allah recalled Jesus because the Israelites had rejected him in spite of the clear signs he had brought. They had been disobeying God for centuries and, in spite of many a warning and admonition served to them, their national character was rapidly deteriorating. They had killed several prophets, one after the other, and had grown so audacious as to demand the blood of any good man who ventured to invite them to the right way. In order to give them the last chance for turning to the truth, God appointed among them two great Prophets, Jesus and John (peace be upon them), at one and the same time. These prophets came with such clear signs of their appointment from Allah that only such people dared reject them as were utterly perverted and prejudiced against the truth and were averse to following the right way. Nevertheless, the Israelites lost their last chance also as they not only rejected their invitation but also had the head of a great prophet like John (peace be upon him) cut off openly at the request of a dancing girl. And their pharisees and jurists conspired and sought to get Jesus (peace be upon him) punished with the death sentence by the Roman government. Thus they had proved themselves to be so obdurate that it was useless to give the Israelites any further chance. So Allah recalled His Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) and inflicted on them a life of disgrace up to the day of resurrection.

It will be useful here to bear in mind the fact that this whole discourse is meant to refute and correct the Christian belief in the Godhead of Jesus (peace be upon him). Three main things were responsible for the prevalence of this belief among the Christians:

- (1) The miraculous birth of Jesus (peace be upon him).
- (2) His concrete and tangible miracles.

(3) His ascension to heaven about which their Scriptures were explicit.

The Quran confirmed the first thing and made it plain that the birth of Jesus (peace be upon him) without a father was only a manifestation of the infinite powers of Allah. He can create anybody in whatever manner He wills. His miraculous birth, therefore, is no reason why he should be made a god or a partner in Godhead.

The Quran also confirms the second thing and even recounts the miracles performed by Jesus (peace be upon him), but makes it clear that all those miracles were performed by him, as a servant of Allah, by His leave and not as an independent authority. It is, therefore, wrong to infer that Jesus (peace be upon him) was a partner in Godhead.

Now let us consider the third thing. If the Christian belief in Ascension had been wholly baseless, it could have been refuted by pointing out that the object of their worship, the so called son of God, expired long ago and had become one with dust, and that they could see, for their full satisfaction, his grave at such and such a place. But the Quran does not declare this explicitly. On the other hand, it not only uses such words as give at least a vague suggestion of his Ascension, but also denies that Jesus was crucified at all. According to it the one who gave a loud cry at his last hour, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? and the one whose picture they carry on the cross, was not Messiah at all, because God had recalled to Himself the real Messiah before the crucifixion took place.

It is thus clear that those people who try to prove the death of Jesus from these verses, really try to show that God is not able to express Himself clearly and unambiguously. May God protect us from such a blasphemy.

*52 Those who disbelieved and rejected him were the Jews who were invited by Jesus (peace be upon him) to accept the truth. Those who follow him are really the Muslims only but if it may be taken to imply all those who believe in him, then the sincere Christians may also be included.

56. “Then as for those who disbelieve, I will punish them with a severe punishment in this world and the Hereafter, and they will not have any helpers.”

فَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا فَأُعَذِّبُهُمْ
عَذَابًا شَدِيدًا فِي الدُّنْيَا
وَالْآخِرَةِ وَمَا لَهُمْ مِنْ نَاصِرِينَ

57. And as for those who believe and do righteous deeds, He will give them in full their rewards. And Allah does not love the wrongdoers.

وَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا
الصَّالِحَاتِ فَيُوَفِّيهِمْ أُجُورَهُمْ
وَاللَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ الظَّالِمِينَ

58. This is what We recite to you (O Muhammad) of the verses and a wise reminder (the Quran).

ذَٰلِكَ نَتْلُوهُ عَلَيْكَ مِنَ الْآيَاتِ
وَالذِّكْرِ الْحَكِيمِ

59. Certainly, the example of Jesus with Allah is like the إِنَّ مَثَلَ عِيسَىٰ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ example of Adam. He created him from dust, then He said to him: "Be," and he was.^{*53}

كَمَثَلِ ءَادَمَ خَلَقَهُ مِنْ تُرَابٍ
ثُمَّ قَالَ لَهُ كُنْ فَيَكُونُ

53 That is, if one's miraculous birth entitles one to become God or son of God, then Adam (peace be upon him) was better entitled to it because he was created without either a human father or a mother, while Jesus (peace be upon him) was born without a father only.

60. (This is) the truth from your Lord, so do not be of those who doubt.^{*54}

الْحَقُّ مِنْ رَبِّكَ فَلَا تَكُنْ مِنَ
الْمُمْتَرِينَ

54 The main points in the discourse presented before the Christians up to here are: First, they have been admonished to realize that their belief in the Godhead of Jesus is gravely ill founded. He was only a man who was born in a miraculous way by the will of Allah and given the power to perform certain miracles as a clear proof of his prophethood. As regards his Ascension, Allah had arranged to recall him to Himself before the disbelievers could crucify him. In fact, the Master of the universe has full powers to treat any of His servants in any special way He pleases. It is, therefore, wrong to infer from the exceptional treatment accorded to Jesus (peace be upon him) that he himself was the Master or the Master's Son or a partner in the authority of the Master. Secondly, their attention has been drawn to the fact that Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) invites them to the same truth that had been preached by Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) in his own time and that the teachings of the two prophets were basically identical.

Thirdly, the disciples of Jesus (peace be upon him) believed in and followed the same religion of Islam that is being presented in the Quran. However the Christians of the later age discarded the message of Jesus (peace be upon him) and digressed from the faith of his disciples.

61. Then whoever disputes with you about it, after what has come to you of the knowledge, say (to him): “Come, let us call our sons and your sons, and our women and your women, and ourselves and yourselves, then we pray humbly, then invoke the curse of Allah upon those who lie.”^{*55}

الْكَاذِبِينَ

55 This method of settling the dispute was proposed to show conclusively that the members of the deputation of Najran were behaving obdurately. As a matter of fact, they had no answer to the things pointed out in the above discourse and could not bring any authority even from their own Scriptures to justify and support their beliefs under discussion. They could not, therefore, assert with full conviction that their beliefs conformed to the fact and were not false. Besides this, when they observed closely the character and the teachings and the works of the Prophet (peace be upon him), the majority of the members of the deputation were so impressed that they became convinced in their hearts of his prophethood; or at least, they could not reject it boldly. That is why they did not accept the challenge: If you really believe in the truth of your creed, you should pray with us to Allah and invoke His curse on those who say false things about Christ. The fact that they declined to accept the challenge showed plainly to the whole of Arabia that the religious leaders and priests of the Christians of Najran who were known far and wide for their piety, professed beliefs about which they themselves were not sure.

62. Certainly this, this is the true narration. And there is not any god except Allah. And indeed, Allah, He is the All Mighty, the All Wise.

إِنَّ هَذَا لَهُوَ الْقَصَصُ الْحَقُّ
وَمَا مِنْ إِلَهٍ إِلَّا اللَّهُ وَإِنَّ اللَّهَ
لَهُوَ الْعَزِيزُ الْحَكِيمُ

63. Then if they turn away, then indeed, Allah is All Aware of those who do mischief.

فَإِنْ تَوَلَّوْا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ عَلِيمٌ
بِالْمُفْسِدِينَ

64. Say:^{*56} “O People of the Scripture, come to a word (of agreement) equitable between us and you,^{*57} that we shall not worship except Allah, nor shall we associate

قُلْ يَا أَهْلَ الْكِتَابِ تَعَالَوْا إِلَى
كَلِمَةٍ سَوَاءٍ بَيْنَنَا وَبَيْنَكُمْ أَلَّا
نَعْبُدَ إِلَّا اللَّهَ وَلَا نُشْرِكَ بِهِ with Him anything, nor shall one of us take others for lords other than Allah.” So if they turn away, then say: “Bear witness that we are those who have submitted (to Allah).”

شَيْئًا وَلَا يَتَّخِذَ بَعْضُنَا بَعْضًا
أَرْبَابًا مِّن دُونِ اللَّهِ فَإِن تَوَلَّوْا
فَقُولُوا أَشْهَدُوا بِأَنَّا
مُسْلِمُونَ

*56 From here begins the third discourse. Its subject-matter clearly shows that it was revealed in the period intervening the battles of Badr and Uhd. The contents of the three discourses are so closely interlinked that there is no incoherence anywhere between them. That is why some commentators have been misled to believe that this also formed part of the discourse addressed to the Najran deputation. But the tone of the discourse commencing from here clearly shows that it was addressed to the Jews.

*57 That is, join us in the creed which we have accepted and which you also cannot reject as false, for it is confirmed and supported by the teachings of your own Scriptures.

65. “O People of the Scripture, why do you argue about Abraham, while the Torah and the Gospel were not revealed until after him.*58 Have you then no sense.”

يٰٓأَهْلَ
الْكِتَابِ لِمَ

أُنزِلَتْ التَّوْرَةُ
وَالْإِنْجِيلُ إِلَّا
مِنْ بَعْدِهِ أَفَلَا
تَعْقِلُونَ

*58 That is, your Judaism and Christianity came into existence long after the revelation of the Torah and the Gospel, whereas Abraham (peace be upon him) had passed away long before those books were sent down. Now, even a man of ordinary common sense can easily understand that the religion of Abraham (peace be upon him) could in no sense be Judaism or Christianity. Thus, if Abraham (peace be upon him) was on the right way and had obtained salvation, as you also believe, then it becomes abundantly clear that one need not follow Judaism or Christianity to be on the right way and to obtain salvation

In order to understand the true significance of this, two things should be kept in mind:

(1) Judaism and Christianity were born long after the death of Abraham (peace be upon him). Judaism, with its special rituals, peculiar regulations, etc. took its birth and name some four hundred years before Christ. As to Christianity, it took its name and adopted its special creed and form long after the recall of Jesus (peace be upon him). Thus it is clear that their claim that one must become a Jew or a Christian in order to obtain guidance was historically untenable. For in that case, Abraham, Jesus and all the other prophets (peace be upon them) and all the good people who had passed away long before the birth of Judaism and Christianity could not be counted among the rightly guided persons for the simple reason that these religions did not exist at the time they lived. Thus, it was obvious that the Jews and Christians could not say that these prophets were not rightly guided, nor could they claim that they followed Judaism or Christianity. As a corollary to this, true guidance did not, even according to them, consist of the particular features which divided them into two distinct religions, but it was that eternal universal way which has been shown by all the messengers of Allah and which has always been followed by the good people of all ages.

(2) It also meant to warn the Jews and the Christians that both practiced shirk and had, therefore, swerved from the way of Abraham (peace be upon him), who did not associate any other object with Allah in his worship, his reverence, his submission and his obedience to Him. They could not deny this because their own Scriptures bore testimony to it.

66. Here you are, those who have argued about that of which you have (some) knowledge. Why then argue you about that of which you have no knowledge. And Allah knows, and you do not know.

هَاتُمْ هَؤُلَاءِ حَاجِبْتُمْ فِيْمَا
لَكُمْ بِهٖ عِلْمٌ فَلِمَ تُحَاجُّوْنَ
فِيْمَا لَيْسَ لَكُمْ بِهٖ عِلْمٌ وَّاللّٰهُ
يَعْلَمُ وَاَنْتُمْ لَا تَعْلَمُوْنَ ﴿٦٦﴾

67. Abraham was not a Jew, nor a Christian, but he was true in faith,^{*59} who had submitted, and he was not of those who associate partners (with Allah).

مَا كَانَ اِبْرٰهِيْمُ يَهُودِيًّا وَّلَا
نَصْرَانِيًّا وَّلٰكِنْ كَانَ حَنِيفًا
مُّسْلِمًا وَّمَا كَانَ مِنَ الْمُشْرِكِيْنَ

*59 The Arabic word hanif stands for a person who chooses to follow one particular way after rejecting all other ways.

68. Indeed, among mankind, the nearest to Abraham are those who followed him, and this prophet (Muhammad), and those who have believed. And Allah is the Protector of those who believe.

إِنَّ أَوْلَى النَّاسِ بِإِبْرَاهِيمَ
لَلَّذِينَ اتَّبَعُوهُ وَهَذَا النَّبِيُّ
وَالَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَاللَّهُ وَلِيُّ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

69. A party of the People of the Scripture wish if they could mislead you. And they shall not mislead except themselves, and they do not perceive (it).

وَدَّتْ طَائِفَةٌ مِّنْ أَهْلِ الْكِتَابِ
لَوْ يُضِلُّوكُمْ وَمَا يُضِلُّونَ إِلَّا
أَنْفُسَهُمْ وَمَا يَشْعُرُونَ

70. O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the verses of Allah, while you witness (to their truth).^{*60}

يَا أَهْلَ الْكِتَابِ لِمَ تَكْفُرُونَ
بِآيَاتِ اللَّهِ وَأَنْتُمْ تَشْهَدُونَ

60 There may be another rendering of this sentence: You yourselves testify these. But in neither case is the sense of the passage affected. The fact is that the pious life of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and the marvelous effects which his precepts and example were producing on the lives of his companions, and the high and sublime teachings of the Quran, were all such clear signs of God that no one, who was familiar with the lives of the prophets and with the nature of the heavenly Scriptures, could possibly doubt or deny his prophethood. Thus, in fact, many a people of the Book (especially the learned among them) had realized that Muhammad (peace be upon him) was the same prophet whose coming had been foretold by the former prophets. So much so, that they were at times completely overpowered by the force of the plain truth, and would unwittingly admit and confirm that the teachings of the Prophet (peace be upon him) were true. That is why, the Quran accuses them time and again of obduracy and deliberate rejection of the truth after seeing clear signs of God and being fully convinced of it in their hearts.

71. O People of the Scripture, why do you mix the truth with falsehood, and conceal the truth while you know (it).

يٰٓأَهْلَ الْكِتٰبِ لِمَ تَلْبِسُوْنَ
الْحَقَّ بِالْبٰطِلِ وَتَكْتُمُوْنَ
الْحَقَّ وَانْتُمْ تَعْلَمُوْنَ

72. And a party of the People of the Scripture say: “Believe in that which has been revealed to those who believe at the beginning of the day, and reject it at the end of that, that perhaps they will return.”^{*61}

وَقَالَتْ طَآئِفَةٌ مِّنْ
أَهْلِ الْكِتٰبِ ءَامِنُوْا
بِالَّذِىٓ أُنزِلَ عَلٰى
الَّذِىْنَ ءَامِنُوْا وَجَهَ النَّهَارِ
وَكَفَرُوْا ءَاخِرَهُ لَعَلَّهُمْ
يَرْجِعُوْنَ

61 This was one of those tricks which the leaders and the rabbis of the Jews, living in the suburbs of Al-Madinah used to play in order to weaken the force of the Islamic movement. They feigned an interest in Islam only to detach some of the Muslims by some subtle arrangements. Their object was to dishearten the Muslims and create doubts among the masses about teachings of the Prophet (peace be upon him). For this purpose they began to send people to Al-Madinah to profess Islam openly and then become apostates and proclaim everywhere that they had come out of Islam because they had witnessed such and such evils among the Muslims and their Prophet (peace be upon him). They were stirred to play this wicked game by their envy of Islam and bias in favor of the religion of their forefathers. They have been rebuked, as if to say, God is not bound by your prejudices, but He bestows His guidance on anyone He wills, and He has by His grace blessed the Muslims with the same guidance that was once bestowed upon you. You must understand it well that your wily tricks will not succeed in snatching away that guidance from them, nor in changing it into misguidance but only in providing a strong argument against you before your Lord. By this, Allah willed to see whether they would give up their prejudice and accept the guidance which had been given to Muhammad (peace be upon him), or whether they would persist in their envy and reject it and provide the Muslims with a strong argument against themselves before their Lord that they rejected the truth merely because of their prejudice and obduracy.

73. “And do not believe except the one who follows

وَلَا تُؤْمِنُوا إِلَّا لِمَنْ تَبِعَ دِينَكُمْ your religion.” Say “Indeed, the guidance is the guidance of Allah.” (Do you fear) lest anyone be given (revelation) the like of that which was given to you, or that they may argue with you before their Lord. Say “Indeed, the bounty is in the hand of Allah. He grants it to whom He wills. And Allah is All Encompassing,^{*62} Knowing.”^{*63}

قُلْ إِنَّ الْهُدَىٰ هُدَىٰ اللَّهِ أَنْ
يُؤْتَىٰ أَحَدٌ مِّثْلَ مَا أُوتِيْتُمْ أَوْ
يُحَاجُّوْكُمْ عِنْدَ رَبِّكُمْ ۗ قُلْ إِنَّ
الْفَضْلَ بِيَدِ اللَّهِ يُؤْتِيهِ مَنْ يَشَاءُ
وَاللَّهُ وَاسِعٌ عَلِيمٌ

62 The Arabic word wase (All-Encompassing) generally occurs on three occasions in the Quran:

- (1) When a community of people is warned of their narrow mindedness and told that Allah is not narrow minded like them;
- (2) When one is rebuked for miserliness and stinginess and is told that Allah is generous and not miserly like him;
- (3) When people believe Allah to be finite because of the limitations of their own imagination, they are told that Allah is Infinite and limitless.

Allah is neither limited nor narrow minded nor short sighted nor indigent, as they suppose He is. On the contrary, His Kingdom is boundless and so are His vision and generosity. He also knows which of His servants remembers Him and also where and when and with what intention.

63 That is, Allah knows well who deserves honor and excellence.

74. He selects for His mercy whom He wills. And Allah is the Owner of great bounty.

يَخْتَصُّ بِرَحْمَتِهِ مَنْ يَشَاءُ
وَاللَّهُ ذُو الْفَضْلِ الْعَظِيمِ

75. And among the People of the Scripture is he who, if you entrust him with a great amount (of wealth), will return it to you. And among them is he who, if you entrust him with a single silver coin, will not return it to you, unless that you are standing over him constantly (demanding). That is because they say: "There is no blame upon us regarding illiterates. *64 And they speak a lie against Allah and they know (it).

وَمِنَ أَهْلِ الْكِتَابِ مَنْ إِنْ تَأْمَنَهُ بِقِنطَارٍ يُؤَدِّهِ إِلَيْكَ وَمِنْهُمْ مَنْ إِنْ تَأْمَنَهُ بِدِينَارٍ لَّا يُؤَدِّهِ إِلَيْكَ إِلَّا مَا دُمْتَ عَلَيْهِ قَائِمًا ۗ ذَٰلِكَ بِأَنَّهُمْ قَالُوا لَيْسَ عَلَيْنَا فِي الْأُمِّيِّينَ سَبِيلٌ وَيَقُولُونَ عَلَى اللَّهِ الْكَذِبَ

وَهُمْ يَعْلَمُونَ

64 That is, they were required to be fair only in their dealings with the Jews, and there was no harm in usurping the property of a non-Jew. This belief was not confined to the ignorant Jewish masses, but their whole religious system was so molded as to allow differentiation between Israelites and non-Israelites in their dealings. Their moral code disallowed a certain treatment towards the Israelites but allowed the same towards a non-Israelite; one and the same thing was right for an Israelite but the same thing was wrong for a non-Israelite. For instance, the Bible says: “At the end of every seven years, every creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbor shall release it”, but “Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it again.” (Deut. 15: 1-3). At another place the law about usury has been laid down like this: “Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury.” (Deut. 23: 20). “If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him; then that thief shall die.” (Deut. 24: 7).

76. Nay, but whoever fulfills his pledge and fears (Allah), then indeed, Allah loves those who fear (Him).

بَلَىٰ مَنْ أَوْفَىٰ بِعَهْدِهِ وَاتَّقَىٰ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ يُحِبُّ الْمُتَّقِينَ ﴿٧٦﴾

77. Certainly, those who trade the covenant of Allah and their (own) oaths for a small price, they will have no portion in the Hereafter. And Allah will not speak to them, nor will He look upon them on the Day of Resurrection, nor will He purify them.^{*65} And they will have a painful punishment.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ يَشْتَرُونَ بِعَهْدِ اللَّهِ وَأَيْمَانِهِمْ ثَمَنًا قَلِيلًا أُولَٰئِكَ لَا خَلْقَ لَهُمْ فِي الْآخِرَةِ وَلَا يُكَلِّمُهُمُ اللَّهُ وَلَا يَنْظُرُ إِلَيْهِمْ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ وَلَا يُزَكِّيهِمْ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ ﴿٧٧﴾

65 Although they were guilty of the blackest sins, yet they had taken it for granted that they would rise as the favorites of God on the Day of Resurrection and they alone would receive His blessings and favors, for they would be rescued from the consequences of the sins they committed in this world by the intercession of their saints in the next world, but the fact is that they will be dealt with on that day in quite a different manner.

78. And indeed, among them is a party who distort the Scripture with their tongues, so you may think that (what they say) is from the Scripture, and it is not from the Scripture. And they say:^{*66} “This is from Allah,” and it is not from Allah. And they speak a lie against Allah and they know (it).

وَإِنَّ مِنْهُمْ لَفَرِيقًا يَلُودْنَ
الْسِنْتَهُم بِالْكِتَابِ لِتَحْسَبُوهُ
مِنَ الْكِتَابِ وَمَا هُوَ مِنْ
الْكِتَابِ وَيَقُولُونَ هُوَ مِنْ
عِنْدِ اللَّهِ وَمَا هُوَ مِنْ عِنْدِ اللَّهِ
وَيَقُولُونَ عَلَى اللَّهِ الْكَذِبَ وَهُمْ
يَعْلَمُونَ

66 Taken figuratively the Arabic text may also imply that they turn away from the right meaning of the Book or twist the words out of context and pervert the meaning. But the real meaning of the text is this: while reading the Book, they twist with their tongues certain words or sentences that are against their self interest or self invented religious beliefs or theories. Thus they change the meanings so as to mislead people into mental errors or false judgments or wrong religious beliefs. It is an irony that some people sometimes treat the Quran itself in the same way. For instance, those people who believe in the Prophet (peace be upon him) to be superhuman twist Ayat 110 of Surah Al-Kahaf, قل إِنَّمَا أَنَا بَشَرٌ مِّثْلُكُمْ with their tongues and read it as قُلْ إِنَّمَا أَنَا بَشَرٌ مِّثْلُكُمْ

The first and correct reading means, “Say, (O Prophet), I am only a man like yourselves,” while the second reading perverts the meaning thus: “Say, (O Prophet), indeed I am not a man like yourselves.”

79. It is not (possible) for a human that Allah should give him the Book and wisdom and prophethood, then afterwards he would say to the people: “Be my worshippers instead of Allah,” but (he would say): “Be you worshippers of the Lord,^{*67} because of your teaching of the Book, and because of your studying it.”

مَا كَانَ لِبَشَرٍ أَنْ يُؤْتِيَهُ اللَّهُ
الْكِتَابَ وَالْحِكْمَ وَالنُّبُوَّةَ ثُمَّ
يَقُولَ لِلنَّاسِ كُونُوا عِبَادًا لِي
مِنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ وَلَكِنْ كُونُوا
رَبِّينَ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ تَعْلَمُونَ
الْكِتَابَ وَبِمَا كُنْتُمْ تَدْرُسُونَ

67 Rabbani (rabbi) was the title of a religious functionary who guided the religious affairs of the Jews, established worship and expounded law.

80. Nor would he command you that you should take the angels and the prophets وَلَا يَأْمُرُكُمْ أَنْ تَتَّخِذُوا الْمَلَائِكَةَ for lords. Would he command you to disbelieve after when you have submitted (to Allah).^{*68}

وَالنَّبِيِّنَ أَرْبَابًا ۗ أَيَأْمُرُكُمْ
بِالْكُفْرِ بَعْدَ إِذْ أَنْتُمْ مُسْلِمُونَ

68 These two verses are a comprehensive refutation of all the wrong things that different people have ascribed to their prophets and entered into their books in order to make an angel or a prophet a god and an object of worship. Here a fundamental formula has been laid down: anything that teaches the worship of anyone other than Allah and raises a servant of God to the high pedestal of Godhead can never be the teaching of any messenger of God: therefore the very existence of such a thing in any book should be taken as a clear proof of its being a later insertion by some misguided people. Hence the claim to be the son of God and equal with God, could never have been made by Jesus (peace be upon him) himself, but by some misguided followers of his.

81. And when Allah took the covenant with the prophets, (saying): “Whatever I give you of the Scripture and wisdom, then afterwards there comes to you a messenger,^{*69} confirming what is with you, you shall believe in him and you

وَإِذْ أَخَذَ اللَّهُ مِيثَاقَ النَّبِيِّينَ لَمَا
ءَاتَيْتُكُمْ مِنْ كِتَابٍ
وَحِكْمَةٍ ثُمَّ جَاءَكُمْ رَسُولٌ
مُصَدِّقٌ لِمَا مَعَكُمْ لَتُؤْمِنُنَّ بِهِ shall help him.” He (Allah) said: “Do you acknowledge, and take (binding) upon you My covenant.” They said: “We have acknowledged.” He said: “Then bear you witness, and I am with you among the witnesses.”

وَلْتَنْصِرُنَّهُ^ج قَالَ^ط أَأَقْرَرْتُمْ
وَأَخَذْتُمْ عَلَيَّ ذَالِكُمْ^ط إِصْرِي
قَالُوا أَأَقْرَرْنَا^ج قَالَ فَاشْهَدُوا وَأَنَا
مَعَكُمْ مِنَ الشَّاهِدِينَ

*69 It implies this: You people of the Book are bound by the covenant of your own prophets to believe in and help Muhammad (peace be upon him) for we entered into a compact with every prophet to the effect that they (and their followers by implication) must help every prophet sent by Us for the preaching and the establishment of the way of life for which they had been appointed. Therefore you should not have any prejudice against him, nor consider religion as your own monopoly; you should not oppose the truth but come under the banner of anyone who raises it for this purpose.

It is interesting to note that according to Palmer (The Koran), the Talmudic sources confirm that God assembled all past, present, and future prophets on mount Sinai and entered into the compact mentioned in the text.

In this connection it should also be clearly understood that this compact was taken from every prophet before the advent of Muhammad (peace be upon him); therefore every prophet informed his followers about the prophet coming after him and told them to follow him. But there is no mention in the Quran or in the traditions that any such compact was taken from the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him): nor did he inform his followers about the coming of any prophet after him and believing in him. On the contrary, he categorically declared that he was the last in the line of prophets.

82. Then whoever turns away after this, then those, they are the transgressors.^{*70}

فَمَنْ تَوَلَّىٰ بَعْدَ ذَلِكَ فَأُولَٰئِكَ هُمُ الْفَٰسِقُونَ

70 This implies that the people of the Book were breaking their covenant with Allah by rejecting Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and opposing his mission; they were disregarding that covenant which their prophets had made with Allah. Hence they were perverted transgressors who had gone beyond the limits imposed by Allah.

83. So, do they seek other than the religion of Allah, and to Him has submitted whoever is in the heavens and the earth, willingly or unwillingly,^{*71} and to Him they will be returned.

71 That is, when the whole universe and everything in it follow Islam and submit to Allah, what other way of life than Islam do these rejectors, who live in the same universe, seek to follow?

84. Say: “We believe in Allah, and that which has been sent down to us, and that which was sent down to Abraham, and Ishmael, and Isaac, and Jacob, and the tribes, and that which was given to Moses, and Jesus, and the prophets from their Lord. We make no distinction between any of them,^{*72} and to Him we have submitted.”

قُلْ ءَامَنَّا بِاللَّهِ وَمَا أُنزِلَ عَلَيْنَا
وَمَا أُنزِلَ عَلَىٰ إِبْرَاهِيمَ
وَإِسْمَاعِيلَ وَإِسْحَاقَ وَيَعْقُوبَ
وَالْأَسْبَاطِ وَمَا أُوتِيَ مُوسَىٰ
وَعِيسَىٰ وَالنَّبِيُّونَ مِن رَّبِّهِمْ
لَا نُفَرِّقُ بَيْنَ أَحَدٍ مِّنْهُمْ وَنَحْنُ
لَهُ مُسْلِمُونَ

72 That is, we do not have different ways of treatment for different prophets: we accept each and every one of them and do not reject any one of them and we treat all of them as truthful prophets and none as a liar. We are free from prejudice and zeal for ignorance; we bear witness to the fact that each and every servant of Allah, who brought the truth from Him to any place whatever in the world, spoke the truth.

85. And whoever seeks other than Islam as religion, never will it be accepted from him. And he will be among the losers in the Hereafter.

وَمَن يَبْتَغِ غَيْرَ الْإِسْلَامِ دِينًا فَلَن
يُقْبَلَ مِنْهُ وَهُوَ فِي الْآخِرَةِ مِنَ
الْخَاسِرِينَ

86. How shall Allah guide a people who disbelieved

كَيْفَ يَهْدِي اللَّهُ قَوْمًا كَفَرُوا

after their belief, and they had witnessed that the messenger is true and the clear signs (of Allah's Sovereignty) had come to them.^{*73} And Allah does not guide wrongdoing people.

بَعْدَ إِيمَانِهِمْ وَشَهِدُوا أَنَّ
الرَّسُولَ حَقٌّ وَجَاءَهُمُ الْبَيِّنَاتُ
وَاللَّهُ لَا يَهْدِي الْقَوْمَ الظَّالِمِينَ

73 It has been reiterated here that the Jewish scholars, who lived in Arabia at the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him), had understood clearly and borne witness to it that he was a true prophet of God and that his teachings were the same as those of the former prophets. But in spite of this, they not only rejected but also opposed him because of their centuries old prejudices, obduracy and antagonism to the truth.

87. Those, their recompense will be that upon them is the curse of Allah, and of angels, and of all mankind.

أُولَئِكَ جَزَاءُهُمْ أَنْ
عَلَيْهِمْ لَعْنَةُ اللَّهِ
وَالْمَلَائِكَةِ وَالنَّاسِ

أَجْمَعِينَ

88. Abiding eternally therein. The punishment will not be lightened for them, nor will they be reprieved.

خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا لَا يُخَفَّفُ عَنْهُمْ
الْعَذَابُ وَلَا هُمْ يُنظَرُونَ

89. Except those who repent after that, and correct (themselves). Indeed, then Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most

إِلَّا الَّذِينَ تَابُوا مِنْ بَعْدِ ذَلِكَ وَأَصْلَحُوا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

Merciful.

90. Certainly, those who disbelieve after their belief, and then went on increasing in disbelief,^{*74} never will their repentance be accepted. And they are those who are astray.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا بَعْدَ إِيمَانِهِمْ
ثُمَّ أزدَادُوا كُفْرًا لَنْ تُقْبَلَ
تَوْبَتُهُمْ وَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ الضَّالُّونَ

74 They persisted in their disbelief. They did not stop at the rejection of the faith but went on further and further in their opposition and antagonism to it: they did their very best to hinder people from the Way of Allah by creating doubts and suspicions in their minds and by devising secret plans and plots to make the mission a failure.

91. Certainly, those who disbelieve, and die while they are disbelievers, never would be accepted from anyone of them the (whole) earth full of gold even if they offer it as a ransom. They are those, for them will be a painful punishment, and they will not have any helpers.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا وَمَاتُوا وَهُمْ
كُفَّارٌ فَلَنْ يُقْبَلَ مِنْ أَحَدِهِمْ
مِلَّةٌ الْأَرْضِ ذَهَبًا وَلَوْ
أَفْتَدَى بِهِنَّ أُولَئِكَ لَهُمْ
عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ وَمَا لَهُمْ مِنْ
نَاصِرِينَ

92. Never shall you attain the righteousness until you spend from that which you

لَنْ تَنَالُوا الْبِرَّ حَتَّى تُنْفِقُوا مِمَّا love.*75 And whatever you spend of anything, then indeed Allah is All Aware of it.

تُحِبُّونَ وَمَا تُنْفِقُوا مِنْ شَيْءٍ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ بِهِ عَلِيمٌ

*75 It is meant to remove the misconception of the Jews about virtue. Their highest ideal of virtue was to put on that outward appearance which had been enjoined by the traditional and centuries old heritage of their ancestors. Besides this they measured virtue by the standard of that elaborate legal system which had been evolved by their hair splitting scholars. But in spite of their outward religiosity, even their pious people were narrow minded, greedy and parsimonious. Moreover they did not hesitate to conceal the truth or to sell it, and yet the common people took them for virtuous people. This is why they are being told here that they can attain to real virtue not by the mere outward observance of some rituals of their own invention but by loving God and by keeping His will above every worldly thing. As the door of virtue is shut against anyone who loves any worldly thing more than Allah. The one, who is not ready to sacrifice the beloved thing for the sake of God's love, cannot attain to real virtue. The observance of rituals without this spirit of love is like the paint on worm eaten wood. It is possible that a human being might be deceived by such outward paint, but it is impossible to deceive God by such devices.

93. All food was lawful to the Children of Israel,*76 except that which Israel

كُلُّ الطَّعَامِ كَانَ حَلَالًا لِّبَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ

(Jacob)^{*77} had made unlawful to himself before that the Torah was revealed. Say: (O Muhammad): “So bring the Torah and read it (to us) if you are truthful.”

إِسْرَائِيلَ إِلَّا مَا حَرَّمَ إِسْرَائِيلُ
عَلَى نَفْسِهِ مِنْ قَبْلِ أَنْ تُنزَلَ
التَّوْرَةُ ۗ قُلْ فَأْتُوا بِالتَّوْرَةِ
فَاتْلُوهَا إِنْ كُنْتُمْ صَادِقِينَ

76 This ayat answers an objection. When the Jews could not find fault with the basic teachings of the Quran and of the Prophet (peace be upon him), for there was absolutely no difference between these and the teachings of the previous prophets, they began to raise legal objections. One of their objections was that the Prophet (peace be upon him) had made lawful certain things which had been unlawful during the time of the previous prophets.

77 If Israel refers to the children of Israel, then it would mean that before the revelation of the Torah, they themselves had made certain things unlawful because these had been unlawful by custom. But if it refers to Jacob (and that is more probable), then it means that he did not eat certain things because he did not like them or abstained from them on account of some illness, but his children began to believe these to be unlawful. The subsequent verse shows that the law in the Bible which declared the camel and the hare etc. to be unlawful was not in the Torah, but was later on inserted in it by the Jewish scholars. (For details refer to E.N. 122 of Al-Anaam).

94. Then whoever invents a lie against Allah after that, then they are those who are the wrong doers.

فَمَنْ أَفْتَرَىٰ عَلَى اللَّهِ الْكَذِبَ
مِنْ بَعْدِ ذَلِكَ فَأُولَٰئِكَ هُمُ
الظَّالِمُونَ ﴿٩٤﴾

95. Say: “Allah speaks the truth. So follow the religion of Abraham, firm in faith. And he was not of those who join partners (with Allah).”^{*78}

قُلْ صَدَقَ اللَّهُ ۖ فَاتَّبِعُوا مِلَّةَ
إِبْرَاهِيمَ حَنِيفًا ۚ وَمَا كَانَ مِنَ
الْمُشْرِكِينَ ﴿٩٥﴾

78 It is meant to bring home to them this lesson: obedience to God alone is the root of the real faith, which was taught by Abraham (peace be upon him), but you have discarded that and associated other gods with Him. Besides this, you have, entangled yourselves in minor legal issues which had been raised by your scholars after you had deviated from the way of Abraham (peace be upon him) during the centuries of your degradation.

96. Certainly, the first House (of worship) appointed for mankind was that at Becca (Mecca), blessed, and a guidance for the worlds.^{*79}

إِنَّ أَوَّلَ بَيْتٍ وُضِعَ لِلنَّاسِ
لَلَّذِي بِبَكَّةَ مُبَارَكًا وَهُدًى
لِّلْعَالَمِينَ ﴿٩٦﴾

79 Their objection was about the change of qiblah to the Kaabah (Makkah) from the Temple (Jerusalem), which had been the qiblah of the previous prophets. This objection had already been answered in Surah Al-Baqarah, but as the Jews persisted in their criticism, it has again been answered here. It has been asserted that the Kaabah was built by Abraham (peace be upon him) long before the Temple and therefore it had priority of time for being the qiblah. The Bible itself bears testimony to the fact that the Temple was built by Solomon some 450 years after Moses (I Kings, 6: 1) and made qiblah during his reign. (I Kings, 8: 29-30.) On the other hand, all the traditions of Arabia unanimously agree that the Kaabah was built by Abraham (peace be upon him) some 900 years before the advent of Moses. The fact that the Kaabah has priority of time over the Temple is so obvious that none can deny it.

97. In it are manifest signs,^{*80} the station of Abraham. And whoever enters it shall be safe.^{*81} And (due) to Allah from mankind is the pilgrimage to (this) House, for whoever can afford the journey to there. And he who disbelieves, then indeed, Allah is free from needs of the worlds.

فِيهِ ءَايَاتٌ بَيِّنَاتٌ مَّقَامُ إِبْرَاهِيمَ
وَمَنْ دَخَلَهُ كَانَ ءَامِنًا ۗ وَلِلَّهِ عَلَى
النَّاسِ حِجُّ الْبَيْتِ مَنِ اسْتَطَاعَ
إِلَيْهِ سَبِيلًا ۗ وَمَنْ كَفَرَ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ
غَنِيٌّ عَنِ الْعَالَمِينَ

*80 There are such clear signs in the House. This is to show that Allah has accepted it and approved it as His House. Though it has been built in a barren place, Allah has provided the people of the neighborhood with the best of provisions. Besides this, though there was chaos and disorder in the whole of Arabia for about 2500 years before the advent of Islam, yet there reigned peace and security in the Kaabah and in its surroundings. Not only this: there was because of it, peace for four months every year in the whole of Arabia. Another sign was the miraculous destruction of Abrahah and his army, when he attacked Makkah in order to destroy the Kaabah. At the time of the revelation of the Quran, every Arab knew well even the details of this incident and there were even those who had actually beheld the occurrence.

81 The inviolable sanctity of the Kaabah was so much respected even in the dark days of ignorance that blood thirsty enemies dared not touch each other in it. In Ayat 97, the word kafara does not mean that the one, who disobeys this commandment of Allah and does not perform Hajj even if one can afford it, becomes a disbeliever in the technical sense. It means that the person has adopted the attitude of a disbeliever even after his profession of belief in Allah and His prophet. This is obvious because the commandment to perform Hajj has not been addressed to the disbelievers but to those who profess to be Muslims. A Muslim judge, therefore, will not declare him to be a disbeliever and apostate for this reason, as if he had gone out of the pale of Islam.

Allah does not stand in need of any help from the people, whether they be believers or disbelievers. It is for their own good if they become sincere believers. On the other hand, those people, who reject the commandments of Allah by word or deed, will not be considered to be believers by Allah, even if they professed to be believers.

98. Say: “O People of the Scripture, why do you disbelieve in the revelations of Allah, and Allah (Himself) is witness over what you do.”

قُلْ يَا أَهْلَ الْكِتَابِ لِمَ تَكْفُرُونَ
بِآيَاتِ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ شَهِيدٌ عَلَىٰ مَا
تَعْمَلُونَ ﴿٩٨﴾

99. Say: “O People of the Scripture, why do you hinder from the way of Allah those who believed, seeking to make it deviant, and you are witnesses (to Allah’s guidance). And Allah is not unaware of what you do.”

قُلْ يَا أَهْلَ الْكِتَابِ لِمَ
تَصُدُّونَ عَن سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ مَن
ءَامَنَ تَبْغُونَهَا عِوَجًا وَأَنتُمْ
شُهَدَاءُ ۗ وَمَا اللَّهُ بِغَافِلٍ عَمَّا
تَعْمَلُونَ ﴿٩٩﴾

100. O those who believe, if you obey a party of those who were given the Scripture, they would turn you back to disbelievers after you have believed.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا إِن تَطِيعُوا
فَرِيقًا مِّنَ الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ
يَرُدُّوكُم بَعْدَ إِيمَانِكُمْ كَافِرِينَ
﴿١٠٠﴾

101. And how can you disbelieve, while unto you are recited the verses of Allah, and among you is His messenger. And whoever holds firmly to وَكَيْفَ تَكْفُرُونَ وَأَنتُمْ تُتْلَىٰ

عَلَيْكُمْ ءَايَاتُ اللَّهِ وَفِيكُمْ
رَسُولُهُ ۗ وَمَن يَعْصِمْ بِاللَّهِ فَقَدْ

Allah, then he is indeed guided to a right path.

هُدًى إِلَى صِرَاطٍ مُسْتَقِيمٍ ﴿١١﴾

102. O those who believe, fear Allah as rightfully He should be feared, and do not die except that you are in submission (to Allah).^{*82}

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا اتَّقُوا اللَّهَ
حَقَّ تَقَاتِهِ وَلَا تَمُوتُنَّ إِلَّا وَأَنتُمْ
مُسْلِمُونَ ﴿١٢﴾

82 That is, be loyal and obedient to Allah up to your last breath.

103. And hold firmly, to the rope of Allah (the Quran) all together,^{*83} and do not become divided. And remember the favor of Allah upon you, when you were enemies, then He put love between your hearts so you became as brothers by His grace. And you were upon the edge of a pit of fire, then He saved you from it.^{*84} Thus Allah makes clear His revelations to you, that you may be guided.^{*85}

وَأَعْتَصِمُوا بِحَبْلِ اللَّهِ جَمِيعًا
وَلَا تَفَرَّقُوا ۗ وَآذِكُرُوا اللَّهَ
عَلَيْكُمْ إِذْ كُنْتُمْ أَعْدَاءً فَأَلَّفَ بَيْنَ
قُلُوبِكُمْ فَأَصْبَحْتُمْ بِنِعْمَتِهِ
إِخْوَانًا وَكُنْتُمْ عَلَىٰ شَفَا حُفْرَةٍ
مِّنَ النَّارِ فَأَنْقَذَكُمْ مِّنْهَا ۚ كَذَٰلِكَ
يُبَيِّنُ اللَّهُ لَكُم ءَايَاتِهِ لَعَلَّكُمْ
تَهْتَدُونَ ﴿١٣﴾

83 Allah's rope, is the way of life prescribed by Him. It is a rope because it keeps intact the relations of the believers with Allah and also binds and unites them into a community. Holding firmly the rope of Allah, implies that the Muslims should give the greatest importance to Allah's Way, and should make it the centre of all their interests, and exert their utmost to establish it and cooperate with one another for its service. When and if they let loose this rope and deviate from its basic principles, they would inevitably suffer from disunity and would be divided into sections and subsections, like the communities of the former prophets. As a consequence of this, they would meet with disgrace both in this world and in the next.

84 This refers to that horrible state of the Arabs from which they were rescued by Islam. Before Islam, their clans were divided into hostile camps, who went to war for frivolous reasons. Human life had lost its sanctity and people were killed without any pangs of conscience. The fire of enmity would have burnt to ashes all the Arabs, if blessed Islam had not rescued them from it. This blessing had appeared in a tangible form at Al-Madinah at the time of the revelation of these verses. The two clans Aus and Khazraj who had been enemies for years and had been involved in bitter feuds and bloody battles, became brethren after they embraced Islam. Not only this: they also showed that spirit of sacrifice for the rehabilitation of the refugees from Makkah that has no parallel in history.

85 That is to say, if you have eyes to see, you can yourselves judge whether your welfare lies in holding fast to Allah's Way or in discarding it and reverting to the old ways of ignorance, and whether your well wishers are Allah and His Messenger or the Jews and the hypocrites and the polytheists who are trying to revert you to your former condition.

104. And let there be (arising) from you a nation inviting to good, and enjoining to right, and forbidding from wrong. And such are those who will be the successful.

وَلْتَكُنْ مِنْكُمْ أُمَّةٌ يَدْعُونَ إِلَى
الْخَيْرِ وَيَأْمُرُونَ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ
وَيَنْهَوْنَ عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ وَأُولَئِكَ
هُمُ الْمُفْلِحُونَ ﴿١٠٤﴾

105. And do not be like those who became divided, and differed after that which had come to them of the clear proofs.*⁸⁶ And those, for them is a great punishment.

وَلَا تَكُونُوا كَالَّذِينَ تَفَرَّقُوا
وَأَخْتَلَفُوا مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا جَاءَهُمُ
الْبَيِّنَاتُ وَأُولَئِكَ لَهُمْ عَذَابٌ
عَظِيمٌ ﴿١٠٥﴾

86 This refers to those communities which received the guidance and clear teachings from the messengers of Allah but after some time discarded the basic principles of the guidance and divided themselves into different sects on the basis of irrelevant and minor issues and were involved in useless and meaningless squabbles. They became so engrossed in these things that they totally forgot the mission which Allah had entrusted to them and lost interest even in the basic principles on which, in fact, depends the real success of humanity.

106. On the Day (some) faces will be white, and (some)

يَوْمَ تَبْيَضُّ وُجُوهٌ وَتَسْوَدُّ وُجُوهٌ faces will be black. Then as for those whose faces will become black, (it will be said): “Did you disbelieve after your belief. Then taste the punishment for what you used to disbelieve.”

فَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ أَسْوَدَّتْ وُجُوهُهُمْ
أَكْفَرْتُمْ بَعْدَ إِيمَانِكُمْ فَذُوقُوا
الْعَذَابَ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ تَكْفُرُونَ ﴿١٠٦﴾

107. And as for those whose faces will become white, so (they will be) in the mercy of Allah. They shall abide forever therein.

وَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ أَبْيَضَّتْ وُجُوهُهُمْ
فَ فِي رَحْمَةِ اللَّهِ هُمْ فِيهَا خَالِدُونَ ﴿١٠٧﴾

108. These are the verses of Allah, We recite them to you (O Muhammad) in truth. And Allah wants no injustice to the worlds (His creatures).^{*87}

تِلْكَ آيَاتُ اللَّهِ نَتْلُوهَا عَلَيْكَ
بِالْحَقِّ وَمَا اللَّهُ يُرِيدُ ظُلْمًا
لِّلْعَالَمِينَ ﴿١٠٨﴾

87 As Allah, does not will to be unjust to the people of the world, He is showing them guidance and warning them before those things of which they shall have to ultimately render an account. Thus, those who follow the crooked ways even after this and do not return to the right way are doing injustice to themselves.

109. And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. And to Allah will the matters be returned.

وَلِلَّهِ مَا فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَمَا فِي الْأَرْضِ وَإِلَى اللَّهِ تُرْجَعُ الْأُمُورُ

110. You are the best nation raised up for mankind.^{*88} You enjoin to right, and forbid from wrong, and you believe in Allah. And if the People of the Scripture^{*89} had believed, it would have been better for them. Among them are believers, and most of them are disobedient.

كُنْتُمْ خَيْرَ أُمَّةٍ أُخْرِجَتْ لِلنَّاسِ
تَأْمُرُونَ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ وَتَنْهَوْنَ
عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ وَتُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ
وَلَوْ ءَامَنَ أَهْلُ الْكِتَابِ
لَكَانَ خَيْرًا لَهُمْ مِمَّنْ
أَلْمُؤْمِنُونَ وَأَكْثَرُهُمُ
الْفَاسِقُونَ

88 This is the same declaration that has been made in Al-Baqarah (Ayat 143). The followers of the Prophet (peace be upon him) are being reminded that they have been appointed to the leadership of the world from which the children of Israel had been deposed on account of their incompetence. The Muslims have been appointed to that office because they possess those moral qualities which are essential for just leadership. These are to establish virtue and to eradicate evil practically, and believe that there is no god other than Allah in order to put into practice the implication of this belief. They should, therefore, understand the responsibilities of the work which had been entrusted to them and avoid the errors into which their predecessors had fallen. (See E.N. 123-144 of Al-Baqarah).

89 Here the Jews are the people of the Book.

111. They will never harm you except a trifling hurt. And if they fight against you, they will turn on their backs. Then afterwards they will not be helped.

لَنْ يَضُرُّوكُمْ إِلَّا أَذًى وَإِنْ يُقَاتِلُوكُمْ يُؤَلُّوكُمُ الْأَدْبَارَ ثُمَّ لَا يُنصَرُونَ

112. Humiliation has been laid over them (by Allah) wherever they are found, except for a rope (covenant) from Allah, and a rope (treaty) from the people.^{*90} And they have drawn on themselves the wrath of Allah, and the destitution is laid upon them. That is because they used to disbelieve in the revelations of Allah, and killed the prophets without right. That is because they disobeyed and used to transgress.

ضُرِبَتْ عَلَيْهِمُ الذِّلَّةُ أَيْنَ مَا تَقِفُوا إِلَّا بِحَبْلٍ مِنَ اللَّهِ وَحَبْلِ مِنَ النَّاسِ وَبَاءُوا بِغَضَبٍ مِنَ اللَّهِ وَضُرِبَتْ عَلَيْهِمُ الْمَسْكَنَةُ^ج ذَلِكَ بِأَنَّهُمْ كَانُوا يَكْفُرُونَ بِآيَاتِ اللَّهِ وَيَقْتُلُونَ الْأَنْبِيَاءَ^ج بِغَيْرِ حَقٍّ^ج ذَلِكَ بِمَا عَصَوْا وَكَانُوا يَعْتَدُونَ

90 That is, the little security that they enjoy anywhere in the world has not been won by themselves but has been the result of the help and kindness of others. They have been getting this either from some Muslim states in the name of Allah or from some non-Muslim states for other reasons.

And if sometimes they have succeeded in gaining even some political power, they have not accomplished this through their own efforts but have owed it to others.

113. They are not all alike. Among the People of the Scripture (there is) a community standing (right), they recite the verses of Allah during the hours of the night, and they prostrate.

لَيْسُوا سَوَاءً ۗ مِّنْ أَهْلِ
الْكِتَابِ أُمَّةٌ قَائِمَةٌ يَتْلُونَ آيَاتِ
اللَّهِ ءَانَاءَ اللَّيْلِ وَهُمْ يَسْجُدُونَ

114. They believe in Allah, and the Last Day, and they enjoin to right, and they forbid from wrong, and they hasten one another in good deeds. And those are among the righteous.

يُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ
وَيَأْمُرُونَ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ وَيَنْهَوْنَ
عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ وَيُسْرِعُونَ فِي
الْخَيْرَاتِ وَأُولَئِكَ مِنَ
الصَّالِحِينَ

115. And whatever of good they do, never will it be rejected of them. And Allah is All Aware of those who fear (Him).

وَمَا يَفْعَلُوا مِنْ خَيْرٍ فَلَنْ
يُكْفَرُوا ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ
بِالْمُتَّقِينَ

116. Certainly, those who disbelieve, neither their wealth, nor their children

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا لَنْ تُغْنِيَ

will avail them against Allah anything at all. And they are the dwellers of the Fire. They will abide therein.

عَنْهُمْ أَمْوَالُهُمْ وَلَا أَوْلَادُهُمْ مِنَ
اللَّهِ شَيْئًا وَأُولَئِكَ أَصْحَابُ النَّارِ
هُمْ فِيهَا خَالِدُونَ ﴿١١٦﴾

117. The example of that which they spend in this life of the world is as the example of a wind with frost in it, which struck the harvest of a people who have wronged themselves, then destroyed it.^{*91} And Allah did not wrong them, but they do wrong to themselves.

مَثَلُ مَا يُنْفِقُونَ فِي هَذِهِ
الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا كَمَثَلِ رِيحٍ
فِيهَا صِرٌّ أَصَابَتْ حَرْثَ قَوْمٍ
ظَلَمُوا أَنْفُسَهُمْ فَأَهْلَكَتُهُ وَمَا
ظَلَمَهُمُ اللَّهُ وَلَكِنْ أَنْفُسَهُمْ
يَظْلِمُونَ ﴿١١٧﴾

91 In this similitude, harvest stands for human life, for one sows in it deeds or misdeeds which one shall have to harvest in the next world. The wind refers to the superficial and hypocritical show of charity that impels the unbelievers to spend their wealth in charity and public works. And frost refers to the lack of faith and willingness to obey the divine law in its right spirit, which makes void the acts and deeds of one's life. By this similitude, Allah teaches this lesson; just as air is very useful for the growth of crops but it also destroys these if there is frost in it: in the same way charity helps nourish the harvest that is to be reaped in the next world but it destroys the same, if it is poisoned with unbelief.

It is obvious that Allah is the Master of man as well as of the wealth that he possesses and of the kingdom in which he is acting. Now, if this slave of Allah does not acknowledge the sovereignty of his Master or unlawfully sets up other objects of worship and does not obey His law in his exploitation of His wealth and kingdom, he shall be guilty of a crime. Therefore, he will not be entitled to any reward for his charity, but shall be prosecuted for his unlawful exploitation. The charity of such a man maybe likened to the charity of a servant who steals a sum of money from the treasure of his master and spends it as he likes.

118. O those who believe, do not take as intimates other than (among) yourselves, they would not spare you (any) ruins.*92 They love that which distresses you. Indeed, the hatred appears by (the utterance of) their mouths, and that which their breasts hide is even greater. We have certainly made plain for you the revelations, if you will understand.

يَتَّيِبُهُمُ اللَّهُ لِيَأْتِيَهُمُ الرِّبَا بَعْدَ إِسْلَامِهِمْ وَأَنَّ كِبْرَهُمْ أَكْبَرُ قَدْ بَيَّنَّا لَكُمُ الْآيَاتِ إِن كُمْ تَعْقِلُونَ

*92 Here Allah warns the Muslims to guard against the hypocritical attitude of the Jews who lived in the suburbs of Al-Madinah. The two clans, Aus and Khazraj, had been on friendly terms with them from very ancient times and kept sincere relations with them even after embracing Islam. In contrast to this, the Jews, who had turned into the enemies of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his mission, could not be friendly with anyone who had joined the new movement. Accordingly, they kept up an outward show of friendship with the Ansar, but in their hearts they had become their bitter enemies. They, however, exploited this outward friendship and tried to sow seeds of dissension and create chaos in the Muslim community. They also tried to draw out secrets from the Muslims and pass them on to their enemies. That is why Allah has warned the Muslims that they should not take such people into their confidence.

119. Here you are those, you love them, and they do not love you, and you believe in all the Scripture.^{*93} And when they meet with you, they say: “We believe,” and when they are alone, they bite (their) fingertips at you in rage. Say: “Die in your rage.” Certainly, Allah is All Aware of what is in the breasts.

هَآأَنُتُمْ أَوْلَآءِ تُحِبُّونَهُمْ وَلَا تُحِبُّونَكُمْ وَتُؤْمِنُونَ بِالْكِتَابِ كُلِّهِ وَإِذَا لَقُوكُمْ قَالُوا ءَامَنَّا وَإِذَا خَلَوْا عَضُوا عَلَيْكُمْ ۗ أَلَا نَأْمِلُ مِنَ الْغَيْظِ قُلُوبَ مُوتُوا بِغَيْظِكُمْ ۗ إِنَّ اللَّهَ عَلِيمٌ بِذَاتِ الصُّدُورِ

93 That is, it is strange that the Jews, who themselves are guilty of rejecting your Book, whereas you believe in their Book, the Torah, along with your Book, the Quran, should have a grievance against you. There is no reason why they should complain against you. On the other hand, you have a cogent grievance against them for their disbelief in your Book.

120. If any good happens to you, it grieves them, and if any misfortune befalls you, they rejoice at it. And if you are patient and fear (Allah), their plot will not harm you anything at all. Surely, Allah is surrounding that which they do.

إِنْ تَمَسَّكُمْ حَسَنَةٌ تَسُؤْهُمْ
وَإِنْ تُصِيبْكُمْ سَيِّئَةٌ يَفْرَحُوا بِهَا
وَإِنْ تَصْبِرُوا وَتَتَّقُوا لَا
يَضُرُّكُمْ كَيْدُهُمْ شَيْئًا إِنَّ اللَّهَ
بِمَا يَعْمَلُونَ مُحِيطٌ

121. And when you (O Muhammad)^{*94} departed from your household at daybreak to assign to the believers the positions for the battle. And Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.

وَإِذْ غَدَوْتَ مِنْ أَهْلِكَ تُبَوِّئُ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ مَقَاعِدَ لِلْقِتَالِ وَاللَّهُ
سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

94 From here begins the fourth discourse, which was revealed after the battle of Uhd. It has been beautifully connected with the previous discourse which ended with the admonition that the machinations of their enemies could do them no harm, if they would show restraint, and fear Allah. This discourse is an apt continuation of the same theme, because the setback in the battle of Uhd was due to lack of restraint and lack of fear of Allah.

As a review has been made of all the important events of the battle in order to bring home the lessons, it will be very useful to keep in view their background, because in the discourse only passing references have been made to them without any details.

In the beginning of Shawwal (A.H. 3), the Quraish attacked Al-Madinah with an army of 3,000 men. They not only outnumbered the Muslims but were also much better equipped. Besides this, they were filled with passion to avenge their defeat at Badr. The Prophet (peace be upon him) and his experienced companions were of the opinion that they should defend Al-Madinah from within the walls. But some young men, who had not taken part in the battle of Badr, were so imbued with the spirit of martyrdom that they insisted on going out to meet the enemy. At last on their persistence, the Prophet (peace be upon him) decided to go out to fight. So he led out an army of 1,000 men but at Shaut, Abdullah bin Ubayy, the ring leader of the hypocrites, deserted him with his 300 men. Naturally this treacherous act produced much confusion in the Muslim army. So much so that two parties, Banu Salmah and Banu Harithah, were so disheartened that they began to waver in their minds and were about to turn back, but were dissuaded from this by those companions who had remained firm and constant.

Then the Prophet (peace be upon him) marched to Mount Uhd with the 700 men left with him after the desertion of Abdullah bin Ubayy. He arrayed his men at the foot of the Mount so that the army of the Quraish was in their front and Mount Uhd at their back. Thus the only vulnerable point was a pass on one side, where he posted 50 archers under the command of Abdullah bin Jubair, saying, not to let any enemy come near to us, and not to leave their posts in any case whatsoever. Even if they see birds peck at our flesh, they should not abandon their posts at all.

In the initial stage of the battle, the Muslim army had the upper hand and succeeded in creating great confusion in the army of the enemy. But instead, of pursuing this initial success to the final victory, they were so lured by their greed for booty that they began to loot the spoils. When the archers, who were guarding the pass, saw their comrades plundering the fleeing enemy, they also deserted their posts in order to join the looters. In vain did Hadrat Abdullah bin Jubair remind them of the strict command of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to dissuade them from this, but only a few of them listened to him. Khalid bin Walid, who was commanding the cavalry of the enemy, made full use of this opportune moment. He rode round the Mount and attacked the Muslims from behind through the pass. Abdullah bin Jubair did his best to defend it with the few men left with him, but in vain, and Khalid fell upon the Muslims who were engaged in the plunder of spoils. They were so overwhelmed by this sudden attack from behind that they took to their heels in confusion. To add to their misery, the Quraish who were in flight before them also turned back to attack them from the front. This turned the scale of the battle against the Muslims who were put to rout by this unexpected situation. Still there were some brave Muslims who stood firmly in the battlefield. But then a rumor started that the Prophet (peace be upon him) had been martyred, and his companions were so stunned by this rumor that even those who were standing firm in the battlefield lost heart and only a dozen or so of the devoted ones were left with him. Thus it was about to turn into an utter rout, when his companions heard that, though he was wounded, he was alive. Then they again rallied round him and took him to a safe side of the Mount.

In this connection it is very important to note the strange thing that happened: the Quraish did not make full use of this opportunity but marched back to Makkah instead. This is an enigma, for, if they had pursued their success to complete victory, nothing would have checked them, because the Muslims had been so utterly routed that they could not have given them a battle.

122. When two parties among you were about to lose courage,^{*95} and Allah was their protecting friend. And upon Allah let the believers put their trust.

إِذْ هَمَّتْ طَّائِفَتَانِ مِنْكُمْ أَنْ تَفْشَلَا وَاللَّهُ وَلِيَهُمَا وَعَلَى اللَّهِ فَلْيَتَوَكَّلِ الْمُؤْمِنُونَ

95 The two groups were Banu Salmah and Banu Harithah who had wavered in their minds at the desertion of Abdullah bin Ubayy, the hypocrite, and his 300 followers.

123. And Allah had already given you the victory at Badr, while you were weak. So fear Allah that you may be grateful.

وَلَقَدْ نَصَرَكُمُ اللَّهُ بِبَدْرِ وَأَنْتُمْ أَذِلَّةٌ فَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَشْكُرُونَ

124. When you said to the believers: “Is it not sufficient for you that your Lord should support you with three thousand of the angels sent down.”*96

إِذْ تَقُولُ لِلْمُؤْمِنِينَ أَلَنْ
يَكْفِيَكُمْ أَنْ يُمِدَّكُمْ رَبُّكُمْ
بِثَلَاثَةِ أَلْفٍ مِّنَ الْمَلَائِكَةِ

96 The Prophet (peace be upon him) heartened the Muslims with this promise when they were disheartened to confront an army of 3,000 men with a small army of 1,000 which was further reduced to 700 men by the desertion of 300 hypocrites.

125. “Nay but, if you are patient, and fear (Allah), and they (the enemy) come to you suddenly, your Lord will help you with five thousand of the angels having marks (of distinction).”

بَلَىٰ إِن تَصْبِرُوا وَتَتَّقُوا وَيَأْتُوكُم
مِّن فَوْرِهِمْ هَذَا يُمِدِّدْكُمْ
رَبُّكُمْ بِخَمْسَةِ أَلْفٍ مِّنَ
الْمَلَائِكَةِ مُسَوِّمِينَ

126. And Allah did not make it but as a good tidings for you, and that your hearts might be reassured thereby. And there is no victory except from Allah,

وَمَا جَعَلَهُ اللَّهُ إِلَّا بُشْرَىٰ لَكُمْ
وَلِتَطْمَئِنَّ قُلُوبُكُمْ بِهِ ۗ وَمَا
النَّصْرُ إِلَّا مِنْ عِنْدِ اللَّهِ الْعَزِيزِ

the All Mighty, the All Wise.

الْحَكِيمِ ١٢٦

127. That He might cut off a section of those who disbelieve, or suppress them, so that they turn back, frustrated.

لَيَقْطَعَ طَرَفًا مِّنَ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا أَوْ يَكْتَسِبُهُمْ فَيَنْقَلِبُوا خَائِبِينَ ١٢٧

128. Not for you at all (O Muhammad, but for Allah) is any decision, whether He should forgive them or punish them, then indeed they are wrongdoers.

لَيْسَ لَكَ مِنَ الْأَمْرِ شَيْءٌ أَوْ يَتُوبَ عَلَيْهِمْ أَوْ يُعَذِّبُهُمْ فَإِنَّهُمْ ظَالِمُونَ ١٢٨

129. And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. He forgives whom He wills, and punishes whom He wills. And Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful. *97

وَلِلَّهِ مَا فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَمَا فِي الْأَرْضِ يَغْفِرُ لِمَن يَشَاءُ وَيُعَذِّبُ مَن يَشَاءُ وَاللَّهُ غَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ ١٢٩

97 These verses were an answer to the curse which the Prophet (peace be upon him) called on his enemies: when he was wounded in the battle, he involuntarily invoked evil upon his enemies and said, How can that community prosper which wounds the prophet?

130. O those who believe, devour not usury, doubling, and multiplying (many folds).^{*98} And fear Allah, that you may be successful.

يَتَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا

تَأْكُلُوا الرِّبَا أَضْعَافًا
مُّضَاعَفَةً ط وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ لَعَلَّكُمْ
تُفْلِحُونَ ﴿١٣٠﴾

98 The main cause of the setback at Uhd was the greed for wealth shown by the Muslims. They were so overpowered by the lust for booty, that, instead of pursuing their initial success to victory, they got engaged in looting the spoils. This is why the All-Wise Allah has struck at interest, the root cause of the evils and prohibited it. For it is a common experience that those who lend money on interest become so absorbed in it that day and night they think of nothing but increasing their unearned profits and this naturally increases their greed for money.

131. And fear the Fire, which is prepared for the disbelievers.

وَاتَّقُوا النَّارَ الَّتِي أُعِدَّتْ
لِلْكَافِرِينَ ﴿١٣١﴾

132. And obey Allah and the messenger, that you may obtain mercy.

وَأَطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَالرَّسُولَ لَعَلَّكُمْ
تُرْحَمُونَ ﴿١٣٢﴾

133. And hasten to forgiveness from your Lord, and a garden (Paradise) as wide as the heavens and the earth, ﴿١٣٣﴾ وَسَارِعُوا إِلَىٰ مَغْفِرَةٍ مِّن

رَّبِّكُمْ وَجَنَّةٍ عَرْضُهَا السَّمَاوَاتُ وَالْأَرْضُ أُعِدَّتْ prepared for those who fear (Allah).

لِلْمُتَّقِينَ ﴿١٣٣﴾

134. Those who spend (in the cause of Allah) in ease and adversity, and those who restrain anger, and those who forgive mankind. And Allah loves those who do good.*99

الَّذِينَ يُنْفِقُونَ فِي السَّرَّاءِ وَالضَّرَّاءِ وَالْكَاظِمِينَ الْغَيْظَ وَالْعَافِينَ عَنِ النَّاسِ وَاللَّهُ يُحِبُّ الْمُحْسِنِينَ ﴿١٣٤﴾

99 The devouring of interest had created greed, avarice, parsimony and selfishness in those who took interest; hatred, anger, enmity and jealousy in those who had to pay it, and these moral evils contributed to some extent to the setback in the Battle of Uhd. Therefore Allah has condemned and prohibited interest and prescribed charity as an antidote to it. It is obvious that Paradise has been reserved for those who practice charity and spend money generously, and not for those greedy persons who practice money lending on interest. (See E.N. 320, Al-Baqarah).

135. And those who, when they have committed an indecency or wronged themselves, remember Allah and seek forgiveness for their sins. And who can forgive the sins except Allah. And they do not persist in what they have done while they know.

وَالَّذِينَ إِذَا فَعَلُوا فَحِشَةً أَوْ ظَلَمُوا أَنْفُسَهُمْ ذَكَرُوا اللَّهَ فَاسْتَغْفَرُوا لِذُنُوبِهِمْ وَمَنْ يَغْفِرُ اللَّهُ الذُّنُوبَ إِلَّا اللَّهُ وَلَمْ يُصِرُّوا عَلَىٰ مَا فَعَلُوا وَهُمْ يَعْلَمُونَ

١٣٥

136. Those, their reward is forgiveness from their Lord, and gardens underneath which rivers flow, wherein they will abide forever. And excellent is the reward for the (righteous) workers.

أُولَئِكَ جَزَاؤُهُمْ مَغْفِرَةٌ مِّن رَّبِّهِمْ وَجَنَّاتٌ تَجْرِي مِن تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا وَنِعْمَ أَجْرُ الْعَامِلِينَ

137. Many ways of life have passed away before you. So travel in the land, and see how was the end of those who denied.

قَدْ خَلَتْ مِن قَبْلِكُمْ سُنَنٌ فَسِيرُوا فِي الْأَرْضِ فَانظُرُوا كَيْفَ كَانَ عَاقِبَةُ الْمُكْذِبِينَ

138. This (the Quran) is a declaration for mankind, and a guidance, and an admonition to those who fear (Allah).

هَذَا بَيَانٌ لِلنَّاسِ وَهُدًى وَمَوْعِظَةٌ لِّلْمُتَّقِينَ

139. And do not become weak, nor grieve, and you shall gain the upper hand if you are (true) believers.

وَلَا تَهِنُوا وَلَا تَحْزَنُوا وَأَنْتُمْ الْأَعْلَوْنَ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ مُؤْمِنِينَ

140. If a wound has touched you, then surely a similar

إِنْ يَمَسَّكُمْ قَرْحٌ فَقَدْ مَسَّ wound has touched the (other) people.^{*100} And these are the days that We alternate among mankind. And that Allah may know those who believe, and may choose witnesses from among you.^{*101} And Allah does not love the wrongdoers.

الْقَوْمَ قَرَحُ مِثْلُهُ وَتِلْكَ الْأَيَّامُ
نُداوِلُهَا بَيْنَ النَّاسِ وَلِيَعْلَمَ اللَّهُ
الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَيَتَّخِذَ مِنْكُمْ
شُهَدَاءَ ۗ وَاللَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ الظَّالِمِينَ

100 God is encouraging the Muslims by mentioning the victory in the battle of Badr, saying, when the disbelievers did not lose heart by the blow at Badr, why should you, the believers, lose heart by the blow at Uhd?

101 The original Arabic text may imply either of the two things: Allah desired to give some of you the honor of martyrdom. Or it may mean: He willed to winnow the believers from the hypocrites so that the true witnesses of the truth, who may really be worthy of performing the mission that has been assigned to the Muslim community, may be distinguished from the false ones.

141. And that Allah may purify those who believe, and may destroy the disbelievers.

وَلِيُمَحِّصَ اللَّهُ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا
وَيَمْحَقَ الْكٰفِرِينَ

142. Or do you think that you will enter Paradise, and Allah has not yet made evident those of you who

أَمْ حَسِبْتُمْ أَنْ تَدْخُلُوا الْجَنَّةَ
وَلَمَّا يَعْلَمِ اللَّهُ الَّذِينَ جَاهَدُوا strive (in His cause), and made evident the steadfast.

مِنْكُمْ وَيَعْلَمَ الصَّابِرِينَ ﴿١٤٢﴾

143. And you did indeed wish for martyrdom before that you encountered it (in the battle field). So surely (now) you have seen it (openly) while you were looking on. ^{*102}

وَلَقَدْ كُنْتُمْ تَمَنَّوْنَ الْمَوْتَ مِن قَبْلِ أَنْ تَلْقَوْهُ فَقَدْ رَأَيْتُمُوهُ وَأَنْتُمْ تَنْظُرُونَ ﴿١٤٣﴾

102 This alludes to those who were so desirous of martyrdom that they had persuaded the Prophet (peace be upon him) against his wish to go out of Al-Madinah to fight with the enemy.

144. And Muhammad is not but a messenger. Indeed, (many) messengers have passed away before him. So if he dies or is killed, would you turn back on your heels (to disbelief). ^{*103} And he who turns back on his heels, will never harm Allah at all. And Allah will reward those who are grateful.

وَمَا مُحَمَّدٌ إِلَّا رَسُولٌ قَدْ خَلَتْ مِن قَبْلِهِ الرُّسُلُ أَفَإِن مَّاتَ أَوْ قُتِلَ انْقَلَبْتُمْ عَلَىٰ أَعْقَابِكُمْ وَمَن يَنقَلِبْ عَلَىٰ عَقْبَيْهِ فَلَن يَضُرَّ اللَّهَ شَيْئًا ۗ وَسَيَجْزِي اللَّهُ الشَّاكِرِينَ ﴿١٤٤﴾

103 This is the answer to the mischievous talk of those hypocrites who had accompanied the Muslims in the battle of Uhd. When the rumor spread that the Prophet (peace be upon him) had been slain, naturally the Muslims lost heart, but the hypocrites began to say, let us go to Abdullah bin Ubayy and request him to obtain amnesty for us from Abu Sufyan. Others who were more impudent, went even so far as to say, if Muhammad (peace be upon him) had been a true prophet of Allah, he could not have been slain. Let us now turn to our ancestral faith. Allah rebukes them as if to say, Muhammad (peace be upon him) is a prophet, and is mortal like other prophets who came before him: therefore, if your attachment to Islam is because of the person of Muhammad (peace be upon him), and if it stands on such flimsy ground that with his death you will again return to disbelief, then Allah's religion does not stand in need of you.

This verse was also meant to impress that Muhammad (peace be upon him) was mortal like all other prophets. According to a tradition, on the morning when the Prophet (peace be upon him) passed away, Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) came into the mosque at Al-Madinah and found the people all distracted, and Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) telling them that it was a sin to say that he passed away. Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) went and ascertained the truth, and coming back into the mosque, cried, surely as for him who worshipped Muhammad, Muhammad (peace be upon him) is dead, but as for him who worships Allah, Allah is alive and does not die. Then he recited this verse, and it was as if the people had not known till then that such a verse had been revealed.

145. And it is not (possible) for a person to die except by permission of Allah at a term appointed.*104 And whoever desires a reward in (this) world, We shall give him thereof. And whoever desires a reward in the Hereafter, We shall give him thereof.*105 And We shall reward those who are grateful.*106

وَمَا كَانَ لِنَفْسٍ أَنْ تَمُوتَ
إِلَّا بِإِذْنِ اللَّهِ كِتَابًا مُؤَجَّلًا
وَمَنْ يُرِدْ ثَوَابَ الدُّنْيَا نُؤْتِهِ
مِنْهَا وَمَنْ يُرِدْ ثَوَابَ الآخِرَةِ
نُؤْتِهِ مِنْهَا ۚ وَسَنَجْزِي
الشَّاكِرِينَ

104 This is meant to teach the Muslims that fleeing from fear of death will be of no avail, because none shall die a moment before the time ordained for death by Allah, nor can one live a moment after it. Therefore, what one should care for is not how to escape from death but how best to spend the time that has been given in this world. The important question is this: Is it to be spent for the sake of this worldly life or for the life-after-death?

105 As the consequences of all actions follow them inevitably, the most important question from the Islamic point of view is whether one's struggle in life is to be directed towards the transitory interests and enjoyments of this world or towards the everlasting joys of the next world. The answer to this will determine one's moral attitude in regard to good and evil.

106 Grateful servants are those people who appreciate fully the blessings of Allah, which He has bestowed upon them. He has informed them that there is a limitless life beyond the limited life of this world and that the consequences of the actions of this life are not confined to this life alone, but follow inevitably in the life-after-death. Hence he is really a grateful servant who trusts in God's promise of sure reward of good deeds in the next world, and then goes on performing those deeds, disregarding whether his deeds flourish in this life or produce the reverse results. On the other hand, those people are ungrateful who are not ready and willing to spend their time or money or energy on anything that is not expected to produce immediate good results in this world. They are ungrateful because they do not appreciate the correct knowledge which has been bestowed by God about the consequences which inevitably follow in the everlasting life in the next world.

146. And how many a prophet fought, (and) along with him (fought) many religious scholars. But they never lost heart to what afflicted them in Allah's Way, nor did they weaken, nor were they brought low.*107 And Allah loves the steadfast.

وَكَايِنٍ مِّن نَّبِيٍّ قَاتَلَ مَعَهُ رِضِيُونًا
 كَثِيرٌ فَمَا وَهَنُوا لِمَا أَصَابَهُمْ فِي
 سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ وَمَا ضَعُفُوا وَمَا
 اسْتَكَانُوا ۗ وَاللَّهُ يُحِبُّ الصَّابِرِينَ

*107 That is, they did not surrender to the worshippers of falsehood, even though they were less in number and worse off in equipment than their enemies.

147. And their saying was nothing except that they said: “Our Lord, forgive us our sins, and our transgressions in our affairs, and establish our feet firmly, and give us victory over the disbelieving people.”

وَمَا كَانَ قَوْلُهُمْ إِلَّا أَنْ قَالُوا
رَبَّنَا اغْفِرْ لَنَا ذُنُوبَنَا وَإِسْرَافَنَا
فِي أَمْرِنَا وَثَبِّتْ أَقْدَامَنَا وَانصُرْنَا
عَلَى الْقَوْمِ الْكَافِرِينَ ﴿١٤٧﴾

148. So Allah gave them the reward of this world, and the excellent reward of the Hereafter. And Allah loves those who do good.

فَعَاتَلَهُمُ اللَّهُ ثَوَابَ الدُّنْيَا
وَحُسْنَ ثَوَابِ الْآخِرَةِ وَاللَّهُ
يُحِبُّ الْمُحْسِنِينَ ﴿١٤٨﴾

149. O those who believe, if you obey those who disbelieve, they will turn you back on your heels,^{*108} and you will then turn back as losers.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا إِنْ
تَطِيعُوا الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا
يَرُدُّوكُمْ عَلَىٰ أَعْقَابِكُمْ
فَتَنقَلِبُوا خَاسِرِينَ ﴿١٤٩﴾

108 That is, they will take you back to the state of unbelief from which you had come out. This warning was timely because after the reverse at Uhd, the hypocrites and the Jews tried to seduce the Muslims from their faith. Their fallacious reasoning was like this: Had Muhammad (peace be upon him) been a prophet, he would never have suffered a defeat. It is obvious from this that he is an ordinary man who gets victory one day and suffers defeat another day. It is sheer propaganda that Allah had given him any promise of help and success.

150. But Allah is your protector, and He is the best of helpers.

بَلِ اللَّهِ مَوْلَانَكُمْ وَهُوَ خَيْرُ
النَّصِيرِينَ

151. We shall cast fear into the hearts of those who disbelieve because they ascribed partners with Allah that for which He has sent no authority. And their abode will be the Fire. And evil is the abode of the wrongdoers.

سَنُلْقِي فِي قُلُوبِ الَّذِينَ
كَفَرُوا الرُّعْبَ بِمَا أَشْرَكُوا
بِاللَّهِ مَا لَمْ يُنَزَّلْ بِهِ سُلْطَانًا
وَمَا أَوْلَهُمُ النَّارُ وَبِئْسَ مَثْوَى
الظَّالِمِينَ

152. And Allah has certainly fulfilled His promise to you when you were killing them (enemy) by His permission. Until when you lost courage, and you disputed about the order (of Muhammad) and you disobeyed, after what He had shown you that which you love. Among you are some who desired the world, and among you are some who desired the Hereafter.

وَلَقَدْ صَدَقَكُمُ اللَّهُ وَعْدَهُ إِذْ
تَحْسُونَهُمْ بِإِذْنِهِ حَتَّى إِذَا
فَاشَيْتُمْ وَتَنَزَعْتُمْ فِي الْأَمْرِ
وَعَصَيْتُمْ مِّنْ بَعْدِ مَا أَرَاكُمْ مَا
تُحِبُّونَ مِّنْكُمْ مَّن يُرِيدُ
الدُّنْيَا وَمِنْكُمْ مَّن يُرِيدُ
الْآخِرَةَ ثُمَّ صَرَفَكُم عَنْهُمْ

Then He made you turn back from them (defeated), that He might test you. And He has surely forgiven you.*109 And Allah is Most Gracious to the believers.

لَيَبْتَلِيَكُمْ وَلَقَدْ عَفَا عَنْكُمْ
وَاللَّهُ ذُو فَضْلٍ عَلَى الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

109 This refers to the conduct of the archers. When they were commanded to abstain from taking spoils, they argued with and disobeyed their leader and deserted their positions with the result that the scales of victory were turned against the Muslims.

Your desertion was an act which would have resulted in your total destruction, if Allah had not pardoned you. It was God's grace and succor that saved you from its grave consequences, and the Quraish, in spite of their victory, retreated of their own accord without any apparent reason.

153. When you climbed (the hill) without looking back at anyone, while the messenger was calling you from your behind.*110 So He repaid you with distress upon distress,*111 that you would not grieve for that which had escaped you, nor that which had befallen you. And Allah is All informed of what you do.

إِذ تَصْعَدُونَ وَلَا تَلُودُونَ
عَلَى أَحَدٍ وَالرَّسُولُ
يَدْعُوكُمْ فِي أُخْرَانِكُمْ
فَأَثَبَكُمْ غَمًّا بِغَمِّ لِكَيْلَا
تَحْزَنُوا عَلَى مَا فَاتَكُمْ وَلَا مَا
أَصَابَكُمْ وَاللَّهُ خَبِيرٌ بِمَا
تَعْمَلُونَ

110 It was the courage and firmness of the Prophet (peace be upon him) that saved the situation from utter ruin in the confusion caused by the sudden attack of the enemy who was charging from the front and from the rear. When some of the Muslims were fleeing towards Al-Madinah and the others were climbing up the Uhd, the Prophet (peace be upon him) stood firm and resolute at his post with a dozen or so of his companions who had stood the test. He was rallying those who were taking to flight, calling out, O servants of Allah, come to me.

*111 Sorrow was caused by the reverse and by the rumor that the Prophet (peace be upon him) had been martyred and by the loss of their companions and by the misery of their wounded and by the insecurity of their homes and by the fear that the victorious Quraish army, that outnumbered the total population of Al-Madinah, would crush the routed army, enter into the town and reduce it to ruins.

154. Then after the distress, He sent down security upon you. Slumber overcoming a party of you,^{*112} while (another) party, being anxious about themselves, thinking of Allah, other than the truth, the thought of ignorance. They said: "Is there for us anything in this matter." Say: "Indeed, the matter completely belongs to Allah." They hide within Saying: “If there was for us (to do) in the matter anything, we would not have been killed here.” Say: “Even if you had been in your homes, those for whom killing was decreed would have gone forth to the places of their death.” And (it was) so that Allah might test what is in your breasts, and that He may purify what is in your hearts. And Allah is All Aware of what is within the breasts.

 فِي بُيُوتِكُمْ لَبَرَزَ الَّذِينَ كُتِبَ
 عَلَيْهِمُ الْقَتْلُ إِلَىٰ مَضَاجِعِهِمْ
 وَلِيَبْتَلِيَ اللَّهُ مَا فِي صُدُورِكُمْ
 وَلِيُمَحِّصَ مَا فِي قُلُوبِكُمْ وَاللَّهُ
 عَلِيمٌ بِذَاتِ الصُّدُورِ

112 This was a favor shown to those Muslims who had remained firm in the battle. They experienced such a strange sense of security that in spite of their sorrow, they began to feel drowsy. Abu Talhah (may Allah be pleased with him), who had taken part in the battle, says that they were so overpowered by drowsiness that even their swords began to fall from their hands.

155. Certainly, those who turned back among you on the day when the two armies met (at Uhad). It was only Satan who caused them to

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ تَوَلَّوْا مِنْكُمْ يَوْمَ الْتَقَى الْجَمْعَانِ إِنَّمَا اسْتَزَلَّهُمُ backslide (from the battle), because of some of that which they had earned. And Allah has surely forgiven them. Indeed, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Forbearing.

الْشَّيْطَانُ بِبَعْضِ مَا كَسَبُوا
وَلَقَدْ عَفَا اللَّهُ عَنْهُمْ ^ق إِنَّ اللَّهَ
غَفُورٌ حَلِيمٌ

156. O those who believe, do not be like those who disbelieved, and said about their brothers when they traveled through the land, or they were out in fighting: “If they had been (here) with us, they would not have died, nor would have been killed.” So that Allah may make it ^{*113} a cause of regret in their hearts. And it is Allah who gives life and causes death. And Allah is All Seer of what you do.

يَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تَكُونُوا
كَالَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا وَقَالُوا لِإِخْوَانِهِمْ
إِذَا ضَرَبُوا فِي الْأَرْضِ أَوْ كَانُوا
غُزًى لَوْ كَانُوا عِنْدَنَا مَا مَاتُوا
وَمَا قُتِلُوا لِيَجْعَلَ اللَّهُ ذَلِكَ
حَسْرَةً فِي قُلُوبِهِمْ ^ق وَاللَّهُ يَحْيِي
وَيُمِيتُ ^ق وَاللَّهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ بَصِيرٌ

113 These were their vain regrets which were the result of their wrong thinking. The fact is that the decrees of God are inevitable. Such regrets produce only grief and anguish in the hearts of those who do not trust in Allah but trust in their own plans and designs. However, when their efforts also end in utter failure, they wring their hands, saying, Oh! had it been thus and thus, the result would have been so and so.

157. And if you are killed in the Way of Allah or die, forgiveness from Allah and mercy are better than whatever they accumulate.

وَلَيْن قُتِلْتُمْ فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ أَوْ مُتُّمْ
لَمَغْفِرَةٌ مِّنَ اللَّهِ وَرَحْمَةٌ خَيْرٌ
مِّمَّا تَجْمَعُونَ

158. And whether you die, or are killed, verily, unto Allah you shall be gathered.

وَلَيْن مُتُّمْ أَوْ قُتِلْتُمْ لِيَّ إِلَى اللَّهِ
تُحْشَرُونَ

159. So by the mercy from Allah, you (O Muhammad) were lenient with them. And if you had been stern, harsh of heart, they would have dispersed from around you. So pardon them, and seek forgiveness for them, and consult them in the affairs. Then when you have decided, then put your trust in Allah. Indeed, Allah loves those who put their trust (in Him).

فَبِمَا رَحْمَةٍ مِّنَ اللَّهِ لِنْتَ لَهُمْ
وَلَوْ كُنْتَ فَظًّا غَلِيظَ الْقَلْبِ

اللَّهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ يُحِبُّ الْمُتَوَكِّلِينَ

160. If Allah helps you, then no one can overcome you. And if He forsakes you, then who is there who can help you after Him.

إِن يَنْصُرْكُمُ اللَّهُ فَلَا غَالِبَ لَكُمْ
وَإِن يَخْذُلْكُمْ فَمَنْ ذَا الَّذِي

And in Allah let the believers put their trust.

يَنْصُرُكُمْ مِنْ بَعْدِهِ ۗ وَعَلَى اللَّهِ
فَلْيَتَوَكَّلِ الْمُؤْمِنُونَ ﴿١٦٠﴾

161. And it is not to any prophet that he would embezzle.*¹¹⁴ And whoever embezzles will come with what he embezzled on the Day of Resurrection. Then every soul will be paid in full what it has earned, and they will not be wronged.

وَمَا كَانَ لِنَبِيٍّ أَنْ يَغُلَّ ۗ وَمَنْ

ثُمَّ تُوَفَّى كُلُّ نَفْسٍ مَّا

114 This is the answer to the suspicion of the archers about the honesty of the Prophet (peace be upon him) in regard to the division of the spoils. When they saw their companions plunder the enemy, the archers feared that the former would get the whole of the spoil and they would be deprived of it at the time of division; just because they had not taken part in the plunder. That is why they spontaneously deserted their posts. When later on, they put forward some lame excuses, these were not accepted. Then the Prophet (peace be upon him) said, the real thing is that you had no trust in me. You suspected that I would deal dishonestly with you and would not give you your due share. In this verse Allah has taken them to task for cherishing such wrong ideas about the Prophet (peace be upon him), by putting searching questions as if to say: How is it that you suspected that your interests would not be safe in the hands of the Prophet (peace be upon him) of Allah?

Can you ever expect that the Messenger of Allah would divide unjustly the wealth that is in his trusteeship.

162. Is then he who follows the pleasure of Allah like him who brings upon himself the anger from Allah, and his abode is Hell, and evil, is the destination.

أَفَمَنْ أَتَّبَعَ رِضْوَانَ اللَّهِ كَمَنْ بَاءَ

هُمْ دَرَجَاتٌ عِندَ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ

164. Certainly, Allah conferred a great favor upon the believers when He raised from among them a messenger of their own, reciting to them His verses, and purifying them, and teaching them the Book (the Quran), and wisdom. While before that they had been in manifest error.

لَقَدْ مَنَّ اللَّهُ عَلَى الْمُؤْمِنِينَ إِذْ
بَعَثَ فِيهِمْ رَسُولًا مِّنْ أَنفُسِهِمْ

مُّبِينٍ ﴿١٦٤﴾

165. And why (was it so) when a disaster struck you (in Uhad), although you had struck (them with a disaster)

أَوْلَمَّا أَصَبَتْكُمْ مُّصِيبَةٌ قَدَّ
أَصَبْتُمْ مِّثْلَهَا قُلْتُمْ أَنِي هَذَا قُلْ twice as (great in Badr),^{*115} you said: “From where is this.”^{*116} Say: “It is from yourselves.”^{*117} Indeed, Allah has power over all things.^{*118}

هُوَ مِنْ عِنْدِ أَنْفُسِكُمْ ۗ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ ﴿١٦٥﴾

115 This verse is meant to remove the confusion caused in the minds of the common Muslims by the reverse at Uhd. Though the intimate companions close to the Prophet (peace be upon him) were under no delusion that his mere presence among them was a sure guarantee of success, yet the common Muslims were suffering from this misunderstanding. They thought that the disbelievers could in no way win a victory over them because the Prophet (peace be upon him) was present among them and the help and succor of Allah was with them. Therefore, when contrary to their expectations, they met with a reverse at Uhd, they began to ask questions like this: Why has this misfortune befallen us. We were fighting for the cause of Allah, and that happened at the hands of the disbelievers, who had come to destroy Islam? Above all, they could not understand this because Allah had promised to help and succor to them and the Prophet (peace be upon him) was himself present in the battlefield. They have been told that they themselves were responsible for the disaster.

116 In the battle of Uhd, 70 Muslims were martyred whereas in the battle of Badr, 70 disbelievers were killed and 70 taken as prisoners.

117 That is, this is the result of your own weakness and wrong acts: you did not show patience; you did things which were against piety; you disobeyed the order of your leader; you became victims of greed and you got engaged in disputes among yourselves: still you ask, where has this disaster come from?

*118 That is, Allah is able to give victory and is also able to bring about defeat.

166. And that which befell you, on the day (of Uhad) when the two armies met, was by permission of Allah, and that He might know the true believers.

وَمَا أَصَابَكُمْ يَوْمَ التَّقَى
الْجَمْعَانَ فَبِإِذْنِ اللَّهِ وَلِيَعْلَمَ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

167. And that He might know those who are the hypocrites. And to whom it was said: “Come, fight in the Way of Allah, or defend.” They said: “If we had known (there would be) fighting, we would certainly have followed you.”*119 They were nearer to disbelief that day than to faith. Saying with their mouths that which was not in their hearts. And Allah is best aware of what they conceal.

وَلِيَعْلَمَ الَّذِينَ نَافَقُوا وَقِيلَ لَهُمْ
تَعَالَوْا قَاتِلُوا فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ أَوْ
ادْفَعُوا قَالُوا لَوْ نَعْلَمُ قِتَالًا
لَاتَّبَعْنَاكُمْ هُمْ لِلْكَفْرِ يَوْمِيذٍ
أَقْرَبُ مِنْهُمْ لِلْإِيمَانِ
يَقُولُونَ بِأَفْوَاهِهِمْ مَا لَيْسَ
فِي قُلُوبِهِمْ وَاللَّهُ أَعْلَمُ بِمَا
يَكْتُمُونَ

*119 This was the pretext with which Abdullah bin Ubayy returned to Al-Madinah with his 300 men from his way to the battlefield. When the Muslims perceived that he was about to desert the Muslim army, they tried to persuade him to accompany them but he replied, we are quite certain that there will be no battle today. That is why we are returning home; we would have most surely accompanied you, if we had expected any battle today.

168. Those who said about their brothers while sitting (at homes): “If they had obeyed us, they would not have been killed.” Say (O Muhammad): “Then avert death from yourselves if you are truthful.”

الَّذِينَ قَالُوا لِإِخْوَانِهِمْ وَقَعَدُوا
لَوْ أَطَاعُونَا مَا قُتِلُوا قُلْ
فَادْرَأُوا عَنْ أَنْفُسِكُمُ الْمَوْتَ
إِنْ كُنْتُمْ صَادِقِينَ

169. And do not think of those who are killed in the Way of Allah as dead. Nay but, they are alive^{*120} with their Lord, they are given provision.

وَلَا تَحْسَبَنَّ الَّذِينَ قُتِلُوا فِي سَبِيلِ
اللَّهِ أَمْوَاتًا بَلْ أَحْيَاءُ عِنْدَ
رَبِّهِمْ يُرْزَقُونَ

120 It is forbidden to refer to those who are martyred for Allah’s sake as dead because the very word death and its thought are very discouraging, and kill the spirit of self-sacrifice and the urge to fight in the Way of Allah. Instead, the Muslims are told to believe that those who fall martyrs in the Way of Allah in fact enjoy eternal life. And this is a reality which revitalizes and keeps alive the spirit of courage and valor.

170. Jubilant in that which Allah has bestowed upon them of His bounty,^{*121} and rejoicing about those (to be martyred) who have not joined them, from those left behind, that there shall be no fear upon them, nor shall they grieve.

فَرِحِينَ بِمَا آتَاهُمُ اللَّهُ مِنْ
فَضْلِهِ وَيَسْتَبْشِرُونَ بِالَّذِينَ لَمْ
يَلْحَقُوا بِهِمْ مِنْ خَلْفِهِمْ أَلَّا
خَوْفٌ عَلَيْهِمْ وَلَا هُمْ
يَحْزَنُونَ

121 It has been explained by the Prophet (peace be upon him) in the tradition cited in Musnade Ahmad. “One, who enters the next world with good deeds, is blessed by Allah with such a cheerful and joyful life that he never wishes to return to this world, but the case of a martyr is different. He does wish that he should again be sent to this world so that he may again enjoy the pleasure, joy and exultation that he felt at the time of laying down his life in the Way of Allah.

171. They rejoice because of the favor from Allah and a bounty, and that Allah will not waste the reward of those who believe.

✽ يَسْتَبْشِرُونَ بِنِعْمَةٍ مِنَ اللَّهِ
وَفَضْلٍ وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُضِيعُ أَجْرَ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

١٧١

172. Those who responded to Allah and the messenger after what befell them of injury (in the fight).^{*122} For those who did good among

الَّذِينَ اسْتَجَابُوا لِلَّهِ وَالرَّسُولِ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا أَصَابَهُمُ الْقَرْحُ them, and feared (Allah), there is a great reward.

لِّلَّذِينَ أَحْسَنُوا مِنْهُمْ وَاتَّقُوا أَجْرٌ

عَظِيمٌ

122 This verse alludes to those devoted servants of Islam who willingly accompanied the Prophet (peace be upon him) in his pursuit of the Quraish at that critical juncture. After the battle of Uhd, the Quraish marched back towards Makkah. When they had covered a good deal of distance from Al-Madinah, they realized that they had not utilized the golden opportunity of crushing the power of Muhammad (peace be upon him) and they began to regret: what a folly have we committed by losing that excellent chance. Accordingly, they halted and held a council of war. Though they were in favor of returning to Al-Madinah and making a sudden attack, yet they could not muster up courage and continued their march towards Makkah. At the same time, the Prophet (peace be upon him) surmised an attack from the enemy; so he assembled the Muslims on the next day after the battle of Uhd and said, let us go in pursuit of the Quraish. Although that was a very critical situation, yet the believers and the devoted servants of Allah responded to the call and willingly marched with the Prophet (peace be upon him) to Hamra-ul-Asad, a place at a distance of 8 miles from Al-Madinah.

173. Those^{*123} (believers) to whom men (hypocrites) said: "Surely, the people (an army of pagans) have الَّذِينَ قَالَ لَهُمُ النَّاسُ إِنَّ النَّاسَ قَدْ جَمَعُوا لَكُمْ gathered against you, so fear them.” But it (only) increased them in faith, and they said: “Allah is sufficient for us, and excellent (is He) for trusting.”

فَأَخَشَوْهُمْ فَزَادَهُمْ إِيمَانًا
وَقَالُوا حَسْبُنَا اللَّهُ وَنِعْمَ
الْوَكِيلُ

*123 Ayats 173-175 were revealed one year after the battle of Uhd, but have been included in this discourse because they deal with the events which are connected with the same.

174. So they returned with favor from Allah and bounty, no harm touched them. And they followed the pleasure of Allah. And Allah is the owner of great bounty.

فَانْقَلَبُوا بِنِعْمَةٍ مِّنَ اللَّهِ وَفَضْلٍ
لَّمْ يَمَسَّسَهُمْ سُوءٌ وَاتَّبَعُوا
رِضْوَانَ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ ذُو فَضْلٍ
عَظِيمٍ

175. That is only the Satan who frightens (you) of his supporters. So do not fear them, and fear Me, if you are (true) believers. *124

إِنَّمَا ذَٰلِكُمُ الشَّيْطَانُ يُخَوِّفُ
أَوْلِيَآءَهُ فَلَا تَخَافُوهُمْ وَخَافُونَ
إِن كُنْتُمْ مُّؤْمِنِينَ

*124 This refers to the terrifying rumors which were being spread in Al-Madinah. On the occasion of his return from Uhd, Abu Sufyan had challenged the Muslims to a fight the following year at Badr. But when the time approached, he could not find courage on account of the famine that was raging in Makkah. So in order to save face, he tried to shift on to the Muslims the responsibility for the postponement. Accordingly, he sent a special spy to Al-Madinah to terrify them by spreading rumors that the Quraish were making great preparations for war and collecting such a large army as could defeat any army in Arabia. This device of Abu Sufyan succeeded in producing the desired panic. When the Prophet (peace be upon him) made an appeal to the Muslims to meet the Quraish in combat at Badr, it failed to produce any encouraging response. So much so that the Messenger (peace be upon him) of Allah had to declare before the gathered assembly, I will go to the combat all alone, if none else is willing to go. It was then that 1,500 devotees volunteered to accompany him, and he reached Badr with them. From the other side, Abu Sufyan left Makkah with an army of 2,000 men. But after two days journey, he told his men that it did not appear to suit them to have a fight that year, and that they would come next year for it. Accordingly, he returned to Makkah with his men. The Prophet (peace be upon him), however, waited for him at Badr for eight days. During these days, his companions did profitable business with a trading party. Then he came to know that the disbelievers had gone back to Makkah, and he returned to Al-Madinah.

176. And let not grieve you (O Muhammad) those who hasten into disbelief. Indeed, they will never harm Allah anything at all. Allah

وَلَا تَحْزُنَكَ الَّذِينَ يُسْرِعُونَ فِي
الْكُفْرِ إِنَّهُمْ لَنْ يَضُرُّوا اللَّهَ شَيْئًا intends that He should give them no portion in the Hereafter. And for them is a great punishment.

يُرِيدُ اللَّهُ أَلَّا يَجْعَلَ لَهُمْ حَظًّا
فِي الْآخِرَةِ ۗ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ عَظِيمٌ

١٧٦

177. Certainly, those who purchase disbelief for (the price of) faith, never will they harm Allah anything at all. And for them is a painful punishment.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ اشْتَرُوا الْكُفْرَ
بِالْإِيمَانِ لَنْ يَضُرُّوا اللَّهَ شَيْئًا
وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

١٧٧

178. And let not those who disbelieve think that the respite We give them is good for them. We only give them respite that they may increase in sin. And for them is a humiliating punishment.

وَلَا يَحْسَبَنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا أَنَّ
نُؤْمِلُهُمْ خَيْرًا ۗ لِيُزِدُوا
عِثْمًا ۗ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ مُهِينٌ

١٧٨

179. Allah will not leave the believers in that (state) in which you are (now),^{*125} until He separates the evil from the good. Nor would Allah disclose to you of the unseen.^{*126} But Allah chooses of His messengers whom He wills. So believe in Allah and His messengers. And if you believe and fear (Allah), then for you there is a great reward.

مَا كَانَ اللَّهُ لِيَذَرَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ عَلَى

لِيُطْلِعَكُمْ عَلَى الْغَيْبِ وَلَكِنَّ اللَّهَ يُجْتَبَىٰ مِنْ رُسُلِهِ مَنْ يَشَاءُ

فَعَامِنُوا بِاللَّهِ وَرُسُلِهِ وَإِن
تُؤْمِنُوا وَتَتَّقُوا فَلَكُمْ أَجْرٌ عَظِيمٌ

125 That is, Allah does not like to see the believers remaining mixed up with the hypocrites in one and the same Muslim community.

126 That is, Allah does not separate the believers from the hypocrites by informing the Muslims that, in their middle, such and such are hypocrites. He distinguishes true believers from hypocrites by creating such occasions as practically separate the two groups from each other.

180. And let not those who withhold that which Allah has bestowed upon them of His bounty think that it is better for them. Nay, it is worse for them. It will be a twisted collar around their necks that which they withheld on the Day of Resurrection. And to Allah belongs the heritage of the heavens and the earth. ^{*127}

وَلَا يَحْسَبَنَّ الَّذِينَ يَبْخُلُونَ بِمَا
ءَاتَاهُمُ اللَّهُ مِنْ فَضْلِهِ هُوَ خَيْرًا
لَهُمْ بَلْ هُوَ شَرٌّ لَهُمْ سَيُطَوَّقُونَ
مَا بَخَلُوا بِهِ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ وَلِلَّهِ
مِيرَاثُ السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ
وَاللَّهُ بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ خَبِيرٌ

And Allah is well informed of what you do.

127 Everything shall ultimately return to God as His inheritance because it really belongs to God. Whatever is in the possession of any of His creatures is a temporary trust. Everyone in every case shall be dispossessed of the property and wealth that he calls his own during the short life here and that shall ultimately return to God, the real Owner. Therefore the wise one is he who generously spends Allah's property in Allah's Way and the foolish one is he who tries to hoard it.

181. Certainly, Allah has heard the statement of those who said: "Indeed, Allah is poor, and we are rich."^{*128} We shall record what they said, and their killing of the prophets without right, and We shall say: "Taste you the punishment of burning fire."

لَقَدْ سَمِعَ اللَّهُ قَوْلَ الَّذِينَ
قَالُوا إِنَّ اللَّهَ فَقِيرٌ وَنَحْنُ أَغْنِيَاءُ
سَنَكْتُبُ مَا قَالُوا وَقَتْلَهُمُ
الْأَنْبِيَاءَ بِغَيْرِ حَقٍّ وَنَقُولُ ذُوقُوا
عَذَابَ الْحَرِيقِ

128 The Jews uttered these words on the occasion of the revelation of Ayat 245 of Al-Baqarah, "who is there among you, who will lend to Allah a goodly loan." They ridiculed this appeal, saying, Oh yes, God has been reduced to poverty, and now He is begging His servants for a loan.

182. That is because of that which your own hands have sent before. And certainly, Allah is not unjust to (His) servants.

ذَلِكَ بِمَا قَدَّمْتَ أَيْدِيكُمْ وَأَنَّ
اللَّهَ لَيْسَ بِظَلَّامٍ لِّلْعَبِيدِ

183. Those who said: “Indeed, Allah has taken our promise that we believe not in any messenger until he brings to us an offering which fire (from heaven) shall devour.” Say (O Muhammad): “There have indeed come to you messengers before me with clear signs, and with that which you describe. So why did you kill them,^{*129} if you are truthful.”

الَّذِينَ قَالُوا إِنَّ اللَّهَ عٰهَدَ
 اِلَيْنَا اِلَّا نُوْمِنَ لِرَسُوْلٍ حَتّٰى
 يٰتِنَا بِقُرْبٰنٍ تَاْكُلُهٗ النَّارُ قُلْ
 قَدْ جَاءَكُمْ رُسُلٌ مِّنْ قَبْلِى
 بِالْبَيِّنٰتِ وَبِالذِّى قُلْتُمْ فَلَمَّ
 قَتَلْتُمُوهُمْ اِنْ كُنْتُمْ صٰدِقِيْنَ

129 This was a lie invented and attributed to God by the Jews, for Allah never enjoined such a thing. Though burnt sacrifices have been mentioned in the Bible, these have not been held out as essential signs of true prophethood. They were merely symbols of the acceptance of sacrifices by God. It is obvious that this demand was merely a pretext for rejecting the Prophethood of Muhammad (peace be upon him). As a further proof of their insincerity, it may be recalled that these enemies of the truth did not hesitate to slay even some of their own prophets who showed to them this same sign of the burnt sacrifice.

The case of Elijah may be cited as an instance: “When Ahab did more to vex the Eternal than all the kings of Israel before him, Elijah went to him and remonstrated that He had ruined Israel by forsaking the Eternal. So Ahab gathered all Israel. Then Elijah told the people to have a couple of bullocks for the test of the burnt sacrifice. Of course, the prophets of Baal failed in the test. Then God's lightning burnt the sacrifice and all Israel witnessed it but even after this they turned against Elijah who had to flee for his life."

184. Then if they deny you (O Muhammad), so indeed were denied messengers before you, who came with clear signs, and the Scripture, and the enlightening Book.

فَإِنْ كَذَّبُوكَ فَقَدْ كَذَّبَ
رُسُلٌ مِّن قَبْلِكَ جَاءُوا بِالْبَيِّنَاتِ
وَالزُّبُرِ وَالكِتَابِ الْمُنِيرِ

185. Every soul will taste death. And you will only be paid in full your wages on the Day of Resurrection. Then whoever is removed from the Fire, and is admitted to Paradise, then indeed, he is successful. And the life of this world is not but an enjoyment of deception.*130

كُلُّ نَفْسٍ ذَائِقَةُ الْمَوْتِ وَإِنَّمَا
تُؤَفَّفُونَ^ط عَنْ أَجُورِكُمْ يَوْمَ
الْقِيَامَةِ فَمَنْ زُحِرَ عَنِ النَّارِ
وَأُدْخِلَ الْجَنَّةَ فَقَدْ فَازَ وَمَا
الْحَيَاةُ الدُّنْيَا إِلَّا مَتَاعُ الْغُرُورِ

*130 The life of this world (as it appears) is a thing that deceives because it helps create false impressions which deceive one about the ultimate results of deeds and misdeeds. One may thus be misled to take apparent prosperity or adversity as the criterion of truth or falsehood. If one is apparently prosperous in this life, it is wrong to conclude that the one is on the right side and high in God's favor. On the other hand, if another is suffering from misfortunes and is a victim of adversity, it does not necessarily mean that the one is on the wrong side and incurs the disfavor of God. For often the results in this world are just the opposite of those which are to be met with in the next world. The latter are, however, real and therefore deserve one's greatest consideration.

186. You shall certainly be tested in your wealth, and your personal selves, and you shall certainly hear from those who were given the Scripture before you, and from those who ascribe partners (to Allah) many hurtful things. And if you persevere and fear (Allah),^{*131} then indeed that is of the matters of determination.

لَتُبْلَوْنَ فِي أَمْوَالِكُمْ
وَأَنْفُسِكُمْ وَلَتَسْمَعَنَّ مِنَ
الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ مِنْ
قَبْلِكُمْ وَمِنَ الَّذِينَ أَشْرَكُوا
أَذَى كَثِيرًا وَإِنْ تَصْبِرُوا
وَتَتَّقُوا فَإِنَّ ذَلِكَ مِنْ عَزْمِ
الْأُمُورِ

131 That is, you should prove the strength of your high character even in the face of provocation by keeping your temper under control. Endure with patience their taunts, derision, accusations and improper words and false propaganda. Do not get exasperated even in the most trying circumstances so as to say or do false, unjust, uncivilized and immoral things.

187. And when Allah took a covenant from those who were given the Scripture (saying): “You must make it clear to mankind and not conceal it.”^{*132} But they threw it away behind their backs, and purchased with it a small gain. So evil is that which they have purchased.

وَإِذْ أَخَذَ اللَّهُ مِيثَاقَ الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا
الْكِتَابَ لَتُبَيِّنُنَّهُ لِلنَّاسِ وَلَا
تَكْتُمُونَهُ فَنَبَذُوهُ وَرَاءَ
ظُهُورِهِمْ وَأَشْتَرُوا بِهِ ثَمَنًا قَلِيلًا
فَبِئْسَ مَا يَشْتُرُونَ

132 That is, remind them of the covenant that God made with them and of the great mission that was entrusted to them because they had forgotten it, though they did remember the sign of the burnt sacrifices given to some of their prophets.

The covenant referred to in this verse has been mentioned many times in the Bible, especially it has been repeated over and over again in Deuteronomy. Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) exhorted them not to add unto the word, nor to diminish aught from it, and to keep the commandments of the Lord. And to teach them diligently unto thy children, and to talk of them when thou sittest in their house and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up, write them upon the posts of thy house, and on the gates. In his last will, he urged the elders of Israel to set up great stones in mount Ebal after crossing the boundary line of Palestine.

Here is an instance of their negligence of the Book. Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) entrusted one copy of the Torah to the Levites and instructed them to recite it word by word every seventh year on the occasion of the Passover festival before a gathering of all Israeli men, women and children. But owing to their gross negligence of their duty, within seven hundred years of the death of Moses (peace be upon him), they had even forgotten that there was such a Book as Torah. so much so that even the high priest of the Temple and the Jewish king of Jerusalem were ignorant of its existence.

188. Do not think that those who rejoice in what they have brought about, and they love to be praised for what they have not done. So do not think them ^{*133} (to be) in safety from the punishment. And for them is a painful punishment.

لَا تَحْسَبَنَّ الَّذِينَ يَفْرَحُونَ بِمَا
 أَتَوْا وَيُحِبُّونَ أَنْ تُحْمَدُوا بِمَا لَمْ
 يَفْعَلُوا فَلَا تَحْسَبَنَّهُمْ بِمَفَازَةٍ مِنَ
 الْعَذَابِ وَلَهُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

133 For instance, such people wish to hear people praise them for being very pious, religious, God fearing servants of the faith and defenders of the law. while, in fact, they possess none of the characteristics. Or, they desire that propaganda should be made in their favor that such and such is an embodiment of self sacrifice, sincerity and honesty. And has rendered meritorious services with the community, when in fact, he is quite the opposite of it.

189. And to Allah belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth. And Allah has وَلِلَّهِ مُلْكُ السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ power over all things.

وَاللَّهُ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ ﴿١٨٩﴾

190. Certainly, in^{*134} the creation of the heavens and the earth, and the alternation of the night and the day, are indeed signs for those of understanding.

إِنَّ فِي خَلْقِ السَّمَوَاتِ
وَالْأَرْضِ وَاخْتِلَافِ اللَّيْلِ وَالنَّهَارِ
لَآيَاتٍ لِّأُولِي الْأَلْبَابِ ﴿١٩٠﴾

134 From here begins the concluding part of the Surah and it has no direct connection with the preceding verses, but with the Surah as a whole. Therefore it is worth while to turn to the introduction to this Surah to understand this portion.

191. Those who remember Allah, standing, and sitting, and (lying) on their sides, and reflect in the creation of the heavens and the earth,^{*135} (saying): “Our Lord, You have not created this in vain. Glory be to You. So protect us from the punishment of the Fire.”^{*136}

الَّذِينَ يَذْكُرُونَ اللَّهَ قِيَمًا وَقُعُودًا
وَعَلَىٰ جُنُوبِهِمْ وَيَتَفَكَّرُونَ فِي
خَلْقِ السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ رَبَّنَا
مَا خَلَقْتَ هَذَا بَطْلًا
سُبْحَانَكَ فَقِنَا عَذَابَ النَّارِ ﴿١٩١﴾

135 That is, these signs can help one understand the reality, provided that one is not unmindful of God and observes the phenomena of nature like a thinking person and not like an animal.

136 A close observation of the system of the universe leads them to the right conclusion that most surely there is a life in the Hereafter with its rewards and punishments. The system itself speaks eloquently of the great wisdom that underlies it, so it follows that the All-Wise Creator must have a definite purpose in the creation of man. Moreover, the very fact, that He placed everything at man's disposal and has endowed him with a moral sense to discriminate between good and bad, clearly shows that he must be accountable to Him as to whether he had fulfilled that purpose. Consequently he should be rewarded for the good he does in this world and punished for the evil. This thinking leads one to the conclusion that there must be a life after death, where one will be accountable for his deeds. This realization fills man's heart with fear of punishment in the Hereafter, and he spontaneously prays to Him to save him from the Hellfire.

192. “Our Lord, indeed, whoever You admit to the Fire, then certainly, You have disgraced him. And for wrongdoers there will not be any helpers.”

رَبَّنَا إِنَّكَ مَنْ تَدْخِلِ النَّارَ فَقَدْ
أَخْزَيْتَهُ^ط وَمَا لِلظَّالِمِينَ مِنْ
أَنْصَارٍ

193. “Our Lord, indeed We have heard a caller (Muhammad) calling to faith (saying) that: ‘Believe you in your Lord.’ So we believed.^{*137} Our Lord, so

رَبَّنَا إِنَّا سَمِعْنَا مُنَادِيًا يُنَادِي
لِلْإِيمَانِ أَنْ ءَامِنُوا بِرَبِّكُمْ
فَعَامَنَّا^ج رَبَّنَا فَاعْفِرْ لَنَا ذُنُوبَنَا forgive us our sins, and remove from us our evil deeds, and cause us to die with the righteous.”

وَكَفِّرْ عَنَّا سَيِّئَاتِنَا وَتَوَفَّنَا مَعَ
الْأَبْرَارِ

137 In the same way, this observation also convinces right thinking men that the point of view of the messengers about the beginning and the end of the universe and the purpose of its creation is the correct one; hence the way of life preached and prescribed by them is the only right way.

194. “Our Lord, and grant us that which You promised us through Your messengers, and do not humiliate us on the Day of Resurrection. Indeed, You do not break (Your) promise.”^{*138}

رَبَّنَا وَءَاتِنَا مَا وَعَدْتَنَا عَلَى
رُسُلِكَ وَلَا تُخْزِنَا يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ
إِنَّكَ لَا تَخْلِفُ الْمِيعَادَ

138 It does not mean that they have any doubts about the promises of Allah, but this merely shows that they are anxious to know whether they themselves are entitled to the blessings that have been promised. That is why they pray to God, “Our Lord, forgive us, You do not break your promises,” for they fear lest they should be ridiculed in the Hereafter by the disbelievers as they were here in this world by such taunts at these; “Look at these people-even their faith in the messengers has not saved them from disgrace.”

195. So their Lord responded them (saying): “Indeed, never will I allow فَأَسْتَجَابَ لَهُمْ رَبُّهُمْ أَنِّي لَا

to be lost the deed of (any) doer among you, of male or female. You are one from another.*139 So those who emigrated, and were driven out from their homes, and suffered harm in My cause, and who fought, and were killed. Surely, I will remove from them their evil deeds, and surely I will enter them into Gardens underneath which rivers flow. A reward from Allah. And Allah, with Him is the best of the rewards.”*140

أُضِيعُ عَمَلٍ عَمِلَ مِنْكُمْ مِنْ

وَلَا دُخْلَنَّهُمْ جَنَّتِ تَجْرِي مِنْ
تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ ثَوَابًا مِّنْ عِنْدِ اللَّهِ
وَاللَّهُ عِنْدَهُ حُسْنُ الثَّوَابِ

*139 That is, in My sight all of you are alike as human beings and I have the same standards of justice and judgment for all, and men should not forget that women are of the same human status as they themselves have. I do not discriminate between man and woman, master and slave, the black and the white, the high and the low.

*140 There is a tradition that Ayats 190-195 were recited by the Prophet (peace be upon him) before some non Muslims who came to him and said, “All the prophets brought one sign or the other with them. For instance, Moses (peace be upon him) had the miraculous staff and his bright hand to show, and Jesus (peace be upon him) healed the blind and the lepers. Please tell us what sign have you brought to us as a proof of your prophethood.” The Prophet (peace be upon him) recited these verses and said, “I have brought this.”

196. Let not deceive you the movement (with affluence), of those who disbelieve, through the land.

لَا يَغُرَّنَّكَ تَقَلُّبُ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا فِي

مَتَّعُ قَلِيلٌ ثُمَّ مَأْوَاهُمْ جَهَنَّمُ
وَبِئْسَ الْمِهَادُ

198. But those who fear their Lord, for them are Gardens underneath which rivers flow, they will abide forever therein. A gift of welcome from Allah. And that which is with Allah is better for the righteous.

They do not sell the verses of Allah for a little price. Those, for them their reward is with their Lord. Indeed, Allah is swift in taking account.

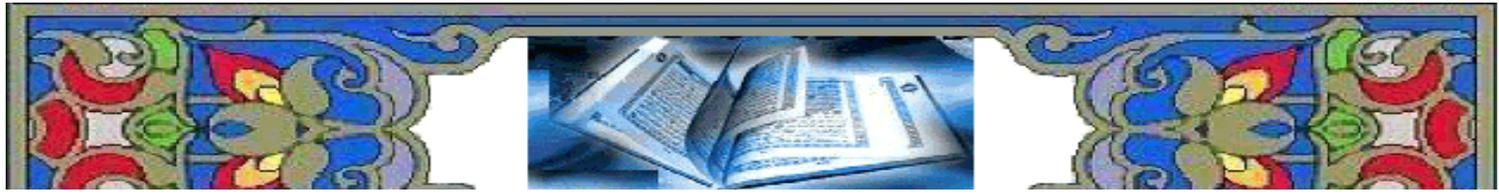

أُولَئِكَ لَهُمْ أَجْرُهُمْ عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ سَرِيعُ الْحِسَابِ

200. O those who believe, persevere, and excel in endurance,^{*141} and strengthen each other, and fear Allah, that you may be successful.

يَتَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا أَصْبِرُوا وَصَابِرُوا وَرَابِطُوا وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ لَعَلَّكُمْ تُفْلِحُونَ

141 The word sabiru in the original Arabic text implies two things: Show more valor in fighting for the right cause than that which the disbelievers are showing for a wrong cause. And vie with one another in showing valor in your fight with the disbelievers.

النِّسَاء An-Nisa

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of Allah, Most Gracious, Most Merciful

Name

The name An-Nisa , the Women, appears in multiple Ayats of this Surah. The laws and regulations for the smooth running of family life have been laid down for the men and their women at several places. But this is not the only topic of this Surah. Several other important aspects of family, social, community and religious matters have also been stated as listed in several discourses.

The Period of Revelation

This Surah comprises several discourses which were revealed on different occasions during the period ranging probably between the end of A.H. 3 and the end of A.H. 4 or the beginning of A.H. 5. Although it is difficult to determine the exact dates of their revelations, yet it is possible to assign to them a fairly correct period with the help of the commandments and the events mentioned therein and the traditions concerning them. A few instances are given below by way of illustration.

1. We know that the instructions about the division of inheritance of the martyrs and for the safeguard of the rights of the orphans were sent down after the battle of Uhd in which 70 Muslims were killed. Then naturally the question of the division of the inheritance of the martyrs and the safeguard of the rights of their orphans arose in many families at Al-Madinah. From this we conclude that Ayats 1-28 were revealed on that occasion.

2. We learn from the traditions that the commandment about Salat during war time was given on the occasion of Zat-ur-Riqaa, an expedition which took place in A.H. 4. From this we conclude that the discourse containing Ayat 102 was revealed on that occasion.

3. The last warning (Ayat 47) to the Jews was given before the Banu Nadir were exiled from Al-Madinah in Rabi-ulAwwal, A.H. 4. From this it may safely be concluded that the discourse containing Ayat 47 must have been revealed some time before that date.

4. The permission about tayammum (the performance of ablutions with pure dust, in case no water be available) was given during the Bani-al-Mustaliq expedition, which took place in A.H. 5. Therefore the probable period of the revelation of the discourse containing Ayat 43 was A.H. 5.

Topics and Their Background

Let us now consider the social and historical considerations of the period in order to understand the Surah. All the discourses in this Surah deal with three main problems which confronted the Prophet (peace be upon him) at the time. First of all, he was engaged in bringing about an all round development of the Islamic community that had been formed at the time of his migration to Al-Madinah. For this purpose he was introducing new moral, cultural, social, economic and political ways in place of the old ones of the pre-Islamic period. The second thing that occupied his attention and efforts was the bitter struggle that was going on with the mushrik Arabs, the Jewish clans and the hypocrites who were opposing tooth and nail his mission of reform. Above all he had to propagate Islam in the face of the bitter opposition of these powers of evil with a view to capturing more and more minds and hearts.

Accordingly, detailed instructions have been given for the consolidation and strengthening of the Islamic community in continuation of those given in Surah Al-Baqarah. Principles for the smooth running of family life have been laid down and ways of settling family disputes have been taught. Rules have been prescribed for marriage and rights of wife and husband have been apportioned fairly and equitably. The status of women in the society has been determined and the declaration of the rights of orphans has been made laws and regulations have been laid down for the division of inheritance, and instructions have been given to reform economic affairs. The foundation of the penal code has been laid down, drinking has been prohibited, and instructions have been given for cleanliness and purity. The Muslims have been taught the kind of relations good men should have with their Allah and fellow men. Instructions have been given for the maintenance of discipline in the Muslim community.

The moral and religious condition of the people of the Book has been reviewed to teach lessons to the Muslims and to forewarn them to refrain from following in their footsteps. The conduct of the hypocrites has been criticized and the distinctive features of hypocrisy and true faith have been clearly marked off to enable the Muslims to distinguish between the two.

In order to cope with the aftermath of the battle of Uhd, Inspiring discourses were sent down to urge the Muslims to face the enemy bravely, for the defeat in the battle had so emboldened the mushrik Arab clans and the neighboring Jews and the hypocrites at home that they were threatening the Muslims on all sides. At this critical juncture, Allah filled the Muslims with courage and gave them such instructions as were needed during that period of war clouds. In order to counteract the fearful rumors that were being spread by the hypocrites and the Muslims of weak faith, they were asked to make a thorough inquiry into them and to inform the responsible people about them. Then they were experiencing some difficulties in offering their Salat during the expeditions to some places where no water was available for performing their ablutions, etc. In such cases they were allowed to cleanse themselves with pure earth and to shorten the salat or to offer the "Salat of Fear" when they were faced with danger. Instructions were also given for the solution of the puzzling problem of those Muslims who were scattered among the unbelieving Arab clans and were often involved in war. They were asked to migrate to Al-Madinah, the abode of Islam.

This Surah also deals with the case of Bani Nadir who were showing a hostile and menacing attitude in spite of the peace treaties they had made with the Muslims. They were openly siding with the enemies of Islam and hatching plots against the Prophet (peace be upon him) and the Muslim community even at Al-Madinah itself. They were taken to task for their inimical behavior and given a final warning to change their attitude, and were at last exiled from Al-Madinah on account of their misconduct.

The problem of the hypocrites, who had become very troublesome at that time, was involving the believers in difficulties. Therefore they were divided into different categories to enable the Muslims to deal with them appropriately.

Clear instructions were also given regarding the attitude they should adopt towards the non-belligerent clans. The most important thing needed at that time was to prepare the Muslims for the bitter struggle with the opponents of Islam. For this purpose greatest importance was attached to their character building, for it was obvious that the small Muslim community could only come out successful, nay, survive, if the Muslims possessed high moral character. They were, therefore, enjoined to adopt the highest moral qualities and were severely criticized whenever any moral weakness was detected in them.

Though this Surah mainly deals with the moral and social reforms, yet due attention has been paid to propagation of Islam. On the one hand, the superiority of the Islamic morality and culture has been established over that of the Jews, Christians and mushriks; on the other hand, their wrong religious conceptions, their wrong morality and their evil acts have been criticized to prepare the ground for inviting them to the way of the truth.

Consolidation of the Islamic Community

The main object of this Surah is to teach the Muslims the ways that unite a people and make them firm and strong. Introduction for the stability of family, which is the nucleus of the community has been given. Then they have been urged to prepare themselves for defense. Side by side with these, they have been taught the importance of the propagation of Islam. Above all, the importance of the highest moral character in the scheme of consolidation of the community has been impressed.

Topics and their Interconnection

Ayats 1-35. Just, fair and equitable laws and regulations for the smooth running of family life have been laid down for the husband and wife. Detailed instructions have been given for the division of inheritance and due regard has been paid to the rights of orphans.

Ayats 36-42. In order to inculcate the right spirit for the observance of rules and regulations, the Muslims have been enjoined to show generosity to all around them and to be free from meanness, selfishness, stinginess of mind, because this is essential for the consolidation of the communities and helpful for the propagation of Islam.

Ayat 43. The ways of the purification of mind and body for the offering of Salat have been taught because it plays the most important part in every scheme of moral and social reform.

Ayats 44-57. After moral preparation, instructions for defense have been given. First of all, the Muslims have been warned to be on their guard against the cunning machinations and vile practices of the local Jews who were hostile to the new movement. This caution was necessary for removing some possible misunderstanding that might have arisen on account of the pre-Islamic alliance between the people of Al-Madinah and the Jews.

Ayats 58-72. Then they have been enjoined to place their trusts and offices of trust in the custody of honest and qualified persons, and to do what is just and right, and to obey Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him) and those among themselves entrusted with the conduct of their affairs and to turn to Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him) for the settlement of their disputes. As such an attitude and behavior alone can ensure consolidation. They have been strongly warned that any deviation from this path will lead to their disintegration.

Ayats 73-100. After this pre-requisite, they have been exhorted to make preparation for defense and to fight bravely for the cause of Islam, without showing any kind of cowardice or weakness. They have also been warned to be on their guard against hypocrites. A line of demarcation has been drawn to distinguish the intentional shirkers from the helpless devotees.

Ayats 101-103. Here again instructions have been given for the offering of Salat during military campaigns and actual fighting. This is to impress the importance of Salat even at the time of fear and danger.

Ayat 104. Before proceeding on to the next topic, the Muslims have been exhorted to persevere in their fight without showing any kind of weakness.

Ayats 105–135. In order to make the Islamic community firm and strong for defense, the Muslims have been enjoined to observe the highest standard of justice. The Muslims are required to deal out strict justice even in case of the enemy, with whom they might be involved in war. They should also settle disputes between husband and wife with justice. In order to ensure this, they should keep their beliefs and deeds absolutely free from every kind of impurity and should become the standard bearers of justice.

Ayats 136-175. Resuming the theme of defense, the Muslims have been warned to be on their guard against their enemies. They have been admonished to take necessary precautions against the machinations of the hypocrites and the unbelievers and the people of the Book. As belief in Allah, and Revelation and life-after-death is the only safeguard against every kind of enemy, they should sincerely believe in and follow His Messenger, Muhammad (peace be upon him).

Ayat 176. Though this verse also deals with the family laws contained in Ayats 1-35, it has been added as a supplement at the end of this Surah because it was revealed long after An-Nisa was being recited as a complete Surah.

1. O mankind, fear your Lord who created you from a single soul, and He created from it its يٰۤاَيُّهَا النَّاسُ اتَّقُوا رَبَّكُمُ الَّذِي خَلَقَكُمْ مِنْ نَفْسٍ وَّاحِدَةٍ وَخَلَقَ mate, and He has spread from them both a multitude of men and women.*¹ And fear Allah, Him, through whom you ask your mutual (rights), and the wombs (kinship). Indeed, Allah is All Watcher over you.

مِنْهَا زَوْجَهَا وَبَثَّ مِنْهُمَا رِجَالًا
كَثِيرًا وَنِسَاءً ۚ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ الَّذِي
تَسَاءَلُونَ بِهِ وَالْأَرْحَامَ ۚ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
كَانَ عَلَيْكُمْ رَقِيبًا

*¹ This introduction beautifully suits the subsequent laws and regulations about human rights, specially, about the smooth running of the family life. On the one hand, the people have been urged to fear Allah so as to escape His displeasure; and on the other hand, they have been reminded that all human beings have sprung from one and the same parents and are thus closely related to one another. “Created you of a single soul.” First one human being was created and then from him the human race spread over the earth. Therefore they should strictly observe the ties and obligations of kinship. We learn from another part of the Quran that Adam was that “single soul.” He was the first man from whom the entire mankind sprang up and spread over the earth. “And created from it his mate.” We have no definite detailed knowledge of how his mate was created of him. The commentators generally say that Eve was created from the rib of Adam and the Bible also contains the same story. The Talmud adds to it that she was created from the thirteenth rib of Adam. But the Quran is silent about it, and the tradition of the Prophet (peace be upo him) that is cited in support of this has a different meaning from what has been understood. The best thing, therefore, is to leave it undefined as it has been left in the Quran, and not to spend time in determining its details.

2. And give to the orphans their property,^{*2} and do not exchange (your) bad things for (their) good ones,^{*3} nor devour their property into your own property. Indeed, that is a great sin.

وَأَتُوا الَّتِي مَيَّ أَمْوَالَهُمْ وَلَا
تَبَدَّلُوا الْخَبِيثَ بِالطَّيِّبِ وَلَا
تَأْكُلُوا أَمْوَالَهُمْ إِلَىٰ أَمْوَالِكُمْ إِنَّهُ
كَانَ حُوبًا كَبِيرًا ﴿٢﴾

^{*2} That is, as long as the orphans are under age, spend their property only in their interest; and when they come of age, return their rightful property to them.

^{*3} This is a comprehensive sentence, which may mean, “Do not make your income unclean in any unlawful way.” It may also mean, “Do not exchange your worthless things for the valuable things of the orphans.”

3. And if you fear that you will not deal justly with the orphan girls, then marry of the women, who please you,^{*4} two or three or four. But if you fear that you shall not be able to deal justly (to many), then (marry only) one,^{*5} or those your right hands possess.^{*6}

وَإِنْ خِفْتُمْ أَلَّا تُقْسِطُوا فِي
الَّتِي مَيَّ فَإِنْ كُنْتُمْ لَكُمْ
مِنْ النِّسَاءِ مَثْنَىٰ وَثُلَّةَ وَرُبَعَ
فَإِنْ خِفْتُمْ أَلَّا تَعْدِلُوا فَوَاحِدَةً
أَوْ مَا مَلَكَتْ أَيْمَانُكُمْ ذَٰلِكَ

That is nearer (more suitable) that you may not incline (to injustice).

أَدْنَىٰ أَلَّا تَعُولُوا ﴿٣﴾

*4 The commentators ascribe three meanings to this:

(a) Aiysha (may Allah be pleased with her) says that this was revealed to remedy an evil that was prevalent in the days of ignorance. The guardians of the orphan girls used to marry them for their wealth and beauty, with the intention of keeping them under their power because they had no one to defend their cause; then they treated them unjustly without any fear. Therefore when they became Muslims, they had misgivings about marrying orphan girls. Accordingly, the Quran advised them to marry women of their choice other than orphan girls in their charge, if they feared that they would not be able to do justice to them. Ayat 127 of this Surah also supports this comment.

(b) In commenting on this, Ibn-i-Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him) and his disciple Ikrimah, assert that this commandment was given to eradicate an injustice that was prevalent at that time. In pre-Islamic days, there was no limit to the number of wives and some people would marry even a dozen of them but when they could not meet the increasing expenses, they were forced to grab the property of their orphan nephews and other helpless relatives. Therefore, Allah restricted the maximum number of wives to four, and enjoined that this too, was subject to the condition that one should do justice to all of them.

(c) Saeed bin Jubair, Qatadah and some other commentators declare that this command was given to safeguard the interests of wives. They say that even before the advent of Islam, injustice to the orphans was looked upon with disfavor, but in regard to wives, it was different; men would marry as many as they liked and would treat them cruelly and unjustly without any fear of the society or pangs of conscience. Therefore Allah warned them that they should refrain from doing injustice to their wives as they did in the case of the orphans. Therefore they should not marry more than four wives and that too, only if they would do justice to them.

The words of the verse bear all the three meanings and probably all three are meant. Another meaning also can be: “If you cannot treat the orphans justly as they normally should be, you may marry the women who have orphan children.”

*5 The consensus of opinion of all the scholars of the Muslim law is that this verse limits the number of wives and prohibits the keeping of more than four at one and the same time. Traditions also support this. It is related that at the time when Ghailan, the chief of Taif, became a Muslim, he had nine wives. The Prophet (peace be upon him) asked him to keep only four of them and divorce all the others. There is another instance of Naufal bin Muaviyah, who was ordered by the Prophet (peace be upon him) to divorce one of his five wives.

It should also be noted that this verse restricts polygamy with the provision of justice to all the wives; therefore whoever abuses this permission without fulfilling the condition of justice and marries more wives than one tries to deceive Allah. The courts of an Islamic State are, therefore, empowered to enforce justice in order to rectify the wrong done to a wife or wives. At the same time it is absolutely wrong to conclude from the proviso of justice, attached to this commandment that this verse was really meant to abolish polygamy. This is not the view of the Quran, but of those Muslims who have been overawed by the Christians of the West. They say that the Quran is also against polygamy but it did not abolish it directly because it did not consider it expedient at the time for the custom had become very common. Instead of this, it allows polygamy provided that justice is done to all the wives. As this condition is most difficult to fulfill, the recommendation is towards monogamy. Obviously, this way of thinking is the result of mental slavery, because polygamy in itself is not an evil for in some cases it becomes a real cultural and moral necessity. There are some people, who, even if they wished, cannot remain content with one wife. Polygamy comes to their rescue and saves them and the society in general from the harms of unlicensed sexual indulgences. That is why the Quran allows polygamy to such people with the explicit condition of doing justice to all the wives.

As regards those who consider polygamy to be an evil, they are free to oppose the Quran and condemn polygamy. But they have no right to ascribe their own perverted views to the Quran. For it makes this lawful, in very clear language without employing any words that might be stretched in any way, to imply that the Quran means to abolish it.

*6 “Those your right hands possess”: slave girls captured in war and distributed among the people by the government. It may either mean: “If you cannot bear the expenses of a free woman, you may marry a slave girl as permitted in Ayat 25,” or it may mean: “If you need more wives than one but are afraid that you might not be able to do justice to your wives from among the free people, you may turn to slave girls because in that case you will be burdened with less responsibilities. (See E.N. 44 below).

4. And give the women (upon marriage) their bridal gifts with a good heart. But if they remit to you anything of it on their own, then enjoy it with pleasure (and) ease.*7

وَأَتُوا النِّسَاءَ صَدُقَاتِهِنَّ نِحْلَةً
فَإِنْ طِبَّنَ لَكُمْ عَنْ شَيْءٍ مِنْهُ
نَفْسًا فَكُلُوهُ هَنِيئًا مَرِيئًا

*7 Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) and Qadi Shuraih have ruled that if a wife remits the whole of her dowry or a part of it but later on demands it, the husband shall be compelled to pay it because the very fact that she demands it is a clear proof that she did not remit it of her own free will.

5. And do not give to the foolish your property, which Allah has made for you a means of support. And provide for them from it, and clothe them, and speak to them words of kindness.*8

وَلَا تُؤْتُوا السُّفَهَاءَ أَمْوَالَكُمُ
الَّتِي جَعَلَ اللَّهُ لَكُمْ قِيَامًا
وَأَرْزُقُوهُمْ فِيهَا وَاكْسُوهُمْ وَقُولُوا لَهُمْ قَوْلًا مَعْرُوفًا

*8 This verse is very comprehensive in meaning. It teaches the Muslim community the lesson that in no case should wealth, which is so important for the maintenance of life, be entrusted to such people as are feeble-minded and incapable of using or managing it properly. For they might, by its wrong use, spoil its cultural and economic system and, in the long run, its moral system as well. It is true that the rights of private ownership must be honored, but at the same time they are not to be so unlimited as to allow one to use them in any way one likes and create social chaos. As far as one's necessities of life are concerned, they must be fulfilled but none should be allowed to use these rights to the extent that is harmful to the collective moral, cultural and economic good of the community. According to this verse, every owner of wealth should consider seriously before entrusting his wealth to anyone whether that person is capable of using it properly. On the larger scale, the Islamic State should take into its own custody the property of those who are found incapable of using it properly, or of those who may be using it in wrong ways but should arrange for the provision of their necessities of life.

6. And test the orphans until when they reach (the age) of marriage.^{*9} So if you find in them sound judgment, then hand over to them their property.^{*10} And do not devour it excessively and in haste, lest they grow up. And whoever (the guardians) is

وَابْتَلُوا الْيَتَامَىٰ حَتَّىٰ إِذَا بَلَغُوا
النِّكَاحَ فَإِنْ ءَانَسْتُمْ مِنْهُمْ رُشْدًا
فَادْفَعُوا إِلَيْهِمْ أَمْوَالَهُمْ وَلَا
تَأْكُلُوهَا إِسْرَافًا وَبِدَارًا أَن يَكْبُرُوا ۚ وَمَن كَانَ غَنِيًّا rich, he should refrain (from taking wages). And whoever is poor, let him take what is reasonable.^{*11} Then when you hand over to them their property, make witnesses on them. And Allah is sufficient in taking account.

فَلَيْسَتْ عَفِيفٌ وَمَنْ كَانَ فَقِيرًا
فَلْيَأْكُلْ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ فَإِذَا دَفَعْتُمْ
إِلَيْهِمْ أَمْوَالَهُمْ فَأَشْهِدُوا عَلَيْهِمْ
وَكَفَىٰ بِاللَّهِ حَسِيبًا

9 That is, when they are about to attain their puberty, keep an eye upon them and go on testing their intelligence in order to see how far they have become capable of looking after their own affairs.

10 Two conditions of puberty and capability have been laid down for the return of their property to the orphans. As to the application of the first condition, there is consensus among the scholars of law, but in regard to the second condition there is some difference of opinion. Imam Abu Hanifah is of the opinion that if the orphan lacks capability when he reaches the age of puberty, his guardian may wait for a maximum period of seven years, and then he must return this property to him whether he shows signs of capability or not. But Imam Abu Yusuf, Imam Muhammad and Imam Shafi are of the opinion that capability is a pre-requisite for the return of his property to the orphan. Probably these latter scholars were inclined to the opinion that the case of such a person should be referred to a Muslim judge, who would himself arrange for the management of the property of the one who has not acquired capability of management.

11 That is, he should charge for his services only that much as may be considered fair by every unbiased person and that he should charge openly and keep an account of it.

7. For men is a share of what the parents and close relatives leave, and for women is a share of what the parents and close relatives leave, of that, be it small or large,^{*12} a share ordained (by Allah).

لِّلرِّجَالِ نَصِيبٌ مِّمَّا تَرَكَ
الْوَالِدَانِ وَالْأَقْرَبُونَ وَلِلنِّسَاءِ
نَصِيبٌ مِّمَّا تَرَكَ
الْوَالِدَانِ وَالْأَقْرَبُونَ مِمَّا قَلَّ مِنْهُ أَوْ
كَثُرَ نَصِيبًا مَّفْرُوضًا

12 This verse contains five legal regulations about inheritance. First, that not only men but the women also have a share in the inheritance. Second, that it must be divided among all heirs, however little or insignificant it is; so much so that even if the deceased has left one yard of cloth and there are ten heirs, it must also be cut into ten parts. However, an heir may buy the shares of others by mutual consent. Third, the verse also implies that this law applies to all sorts of property, transferable or non-transferable, agricultural or industrial, or of any other type. Fourth, that the right of inheritance becomes valid only when the deceased leaves some property behind him. Fifth, that when the nearest relatives are alive the distant relatives have no right in the inheritance.

8. And when the near of kin and the orphans and the وَإِذَا حَضَرَ الْقِسْمَةَ أُولُو needy are present at the division (of the inheritance), then provide for them from it, and speak to them words of kindness.*13

الْقُرْبَىٰ وَالْيَتَامَىٰ وَالْمَسْكِينُ
فَارْزُقُوهُمْ مِنْهُ وَقُولُوا لَهُمْ قَوْلًا

مَعْرُوفًا

*13 Here the heirs of the deceased have been enjoined to be generous towards distant and near relatives and the indigent members of the family and orphans who happen to be present on the occasion of the division of inheritance, though they might have no share in it. They should give them also something and speak gently to them and avoid using harsh and unkind words as the narrow minded people generally use on such occasions.

9. And let those (executors of inheritance) fear as if they had left behind them weak offspring, and would fear for them. So let them fear Allah, and speak words of kindness and justice.

وَلْيَخْشَ الَّذِينَ لَوْ تَرَكَوْا مِنْ
خَلْفِهِمْ ذُرِّيَّةً ضِعَفًا خَافُوا
عَلَيْهِمْ فَلْيَتَّقُوا اللَّهَ وَلْيَقُولُوا

قَوْلًا سَدِيدًا

10. Indeed, those who devour the property of orphans unjustly, they swallow only a fire into their bellies. And they will be burned in a blazing fire.*14

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ يَأْكُلُونَ أَمْوَالَ
الْيَتَامَىٰ ظُلْمًا إِنَّمَا يَأْكُلُونَ فِي
بُطُونِهِمْ نَارًا وَسَيَصْلُونَ

سَعِيرًا

14 According to a tradition this verses were revealed in response to the request of the widow of Saad bin Rubai. She came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) with her two daughters and said, “O Messenger of Allah, here are the daughters of Saad who has been martyred in the battle of Uhd. Their uncle has taken possession of his entire property and has not left a single penny for them. Now who is going to marry them after this?”

11. Allah commands you concerning (the inheritance for) your children.

يُوصِيكُمُ اللَّهُ فِي أَوْلَادِكُمْ

For the male, the equivalent of the portion of two females.^{*15}

لِلذَّكَرِ مِثْلُ حَظِّ الْأُنثِيَيْنِ

15 The first guiding principle about the division of inheritance is that the share of the male shall be double that of the female, and this is very sound and just. As the Muslim law lays the major burden of the economic responsibility of the family on the male and keeps the female almost free from it, justice demands that her share of inheritance should be less than that of the male.

But if there are daughters (only), two or more, then for them is two-thirds of the inheritance.^{*16}

فَإِنْ كُنَّ نِسَاءً فَوْقَ اثْنَتَيْنِ فَلَهُنَّ ثُلُثَا مَا تَرَكَ

16 The same applies to the case of two daughters as well. It means that if the deceased leaves no son but only daughters, whether they are two or more, they shall be entitled to two-thirds of the whole inheritance and the remaining one-third shall be divided among the other heirs. As a corollary of this, if the deceased leaves only one son, there is a consensus of opinion that he shall be entitled to the whole of the inheritance in the absence of other heirs and if there are other heirs too, he shall receive the whole of the remaining inheritance after the allotment of their shares.

And if there is (only) one, then for her is the half.

وَإِنْ كَانَتْ وَاحِدَةً فَلَهَا النِّصْفُ

And for his parents, to each one of them, a sixth of the inheritance if he had children.*17

وَلِأَبَوَيْهِ لِكُلِّ وَاحِدٍ مِّنْهُمَا
الْسُّدُسُ مِمَّا تَرَكَ إِنْ كَانَ لَهُ
وَلَدٌ

*17 Each of the parents of the deceased shall be entitled to one-sixth of the inheritance, if he leaves behind a child or children whether they are only daughters or only sons or both sons and daughters, or only one son or only one daughter. As regards the remaining two-thirds, it shall be divided among the other heirs.

But if he had no children and his parents are his heirs, then for his mother is one third.*18

فَإِنْ لَّمْ يَكُنْ لَهُ وَلَدٌ وَوَرِثَهُ
أَبَوَاهُ فَلِأُمِّهِ الثُّلُثُ

*18 The remaining two-thirds shall be given to the father, if there be no other heir; otherwise the father shall share two-thirds with the other heirs.

But if he had brothers (and/or sisters), then for his mother is one sixth,^{*19} after (the payment of) the bequest which he (may have) made, or debts.^{*20}

فَإِنْ كَانَ لَهُ إِخْوَةٌ فَلِأُمِّهِ
الْسُّدُسُ مِنْ بَعْدِ وَصِيَّةِ يُوصِي
بِهَا أَوْ دَيْنٍ

20 The mention of the fulfillment of the will precedes the payment of the debt, for every deceased person may not owe a debt, but he must make his will. As regards the enforcement of the law, the consensus of opinion of the whole Muslim community is that the payment of debt must have priority over the fulfillment of the will. That is, the debt, if any, must be paid first and then the terms of the will should be enforced and after this the inheritance should be divided. In E.N. 182 of Surah Al-Baqarah, it has been stated that a person has the right to bequeath by "will" one-third of the whole property. This has been permitted to enable a person to leave for a deserving relative or relatives, who are not entitled to inheritance, a part of the property. For instance, if there is an orphan grandson or a grand-daughter, or the widow of a son or an indigent brother or sister, or a brother's widow, or a nephew, or some other relative, who needs help, he may leave a part of the inheritance for such a person by means of his will. He is even allowed to leave by “will” a share for any deserving person or for public service. In short, the law regulates the distribution of two-thirds (or a little more) of one’s inheritance and gives option for the disposal of the remaining (about one-third) by the special circumstances of his own family, (which obviously vary of each individual). At the same time provision has been made to redress any wrong done by a will to the heirs in any way. The members of the family may rectify that wrong by mutual consent or take the case to the Muslim judge for redress.

Your parents and your children, you do not know which of them is nearer to you in benefit. (This is) an injunction from Allah. Indeed, Allah is Ever All Knower, All Wise.*21

ءَابَاؤُكُمْ وَأَبْنَاؤُكُمْ لَا تَدْرُونَ
 أَيُّهُمْ أَقْرَبُ لَكُمْ نَفْعًا فَرِيضَةٌ
 مِّنَ اللَّهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ عَلِيمًا
 حَكِيمًا

*21 This is the answer to all those foolish people who do not understand the wisdom of the divine law of inheritance, and in their folly propose amendments to it in order to make up for the deficiency in the law.

12. And for you is half of that which your wives leave, if they have no child.

وَلَكُمْ نِصْفُ مَا تَرَكَ
 أَزْوَاجُكُمْ إِن لَّمْ يَكُن لَّهُنَّ
 وُلْدٌ

But if they have a child, then for you is one fourth of that which they leave, after (the payment of) the bequest which they (may have) made, or debts.

فَإِنْ كَانَ لَهُنَّ وَلَدٌ فَلَكُمْ
الرُّبْعُ مِمَّا تَرَكَنَّ مِنْ بَعْدِ
وَصِيَّةٍ يُوصِينَ بِهَا أَوْ دَيْنٍ

And for them (wives) is one fourth of that which you leave if you have no child.

وَلَهُنَّ الرُّبْعُ مِمَّا تَرَكَتُمْ إِنْ
لَمْ يَكُنْ لَكُمْ وَلَدٌ

But if you have a child, then for them is one eighth*22 of that which you leave, after (the payment of) the bequest which you (may have) made, or debts.

فَإِنْ كَانَ لَكُمْ وَلَدٌ فَلَهُنَّ
الْثُمْنُ مِمَّا تَرَكَتُمْ مِنْ بَعْدِ
وَصِيَّةٍ تُوصُونَ بِهَا أَوْ دَيْنٍ

22 In case the deceased leaves behind children, his wife or wives will be entitled to only one-eighth of the inheritance, and if he dies childless, she or they will be entitled to one-fourth of the whole and this one-fourth or one-eighth will be divided equally among all of them.

And if a man or a woman has left neither ascendants nor descendants, and has a brother or a sister, then for each one of them is one sixth.

وَإِنْ كَانَ رَجُلٌ يُورَثُ
كَتْلَةً أَوْ امْرَأَةٌ وَهِيَ
أُخْتُ فَلِكُلِّ وَاحِدٍ مِّنْهُمَا
السُّدُسُ

But if they are more than that, then they shall be sharers in one third,^{*23} after (the payment of) the bequest which might have been made, or debts, (as long as the bequest is) causing no loss (to anyone).^{*24}

فَإِنْ كَانُوا أَكْثَرَ مِنْ ذَلِكَ
فَهُمْ شُرَكَاءُ فِي الثُّلُثِ مِنْ
بَعْدِ وَصِيَّةٍ يُوصَىٰ بِهَا أَوْ دَيْنٍ
غَيْرِ مُضَارٍّ

23 If there be any other heir, he shall get share out of the remaining 5/6 or 2/3, as the case may be; otherwise the deceased will have the right to make his will about the whole of the remaining 5/6 or 2/3. All the commentators have agreed that in this verse brothers and sisters refer to half-brothers and half-sisters from the side of the mother alone. The rule of inheritance about real brothers and real sisters and half-brothers and half-sisters from the side of the father is given at the end of the Surah.

24 The will shall be considered as injurious if it affects adversely the rights of the lawful heirs and the debt will be injurious if the testator acknowledges a debt which he has not actually taken or plays some trick to deprive the rightful heirs of their due shares. Such a thing has been declared as one of the most heinous sins according to a tradition. Another tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) says, "There may be a person, who, throughout his whole life, does deeds that deserve Paradise, but who on the eve of his death makes an injurious will and thus in the end he does an act that deserves Hell." Though such an injury is a heinous sin in any case, the warning has specially been given about it in connection with a person who has neither children nor parents to inherit his property. This is because such a person is more prone to squander his property in order to deprive comparatively distant relatives.

(This is) a commandment from Allah. And Allah is Ever All-Knowing, Most Forbearing.*25

وَصِيَّةٌ مِّنَ اللَّهِ ^ق وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ ^ج
حَلِيمٌ

*25 The attribute of Allah that He is All-Knowing, has been mentioned here for two reasons. First, it is to warn the people that none can escape the consequences of a breach of His law, for, He has knowledge of everything. Second, it is to convince people that the shares of inheritance appointed by Allah are absolutely right, for Allah knows better than they in what lies their good. The other attribute that He is Forbearing has been mentioned to show that the laws of Allah are not harsh but are so lenient that they do not put the people to hardship.

13. These are the limits (set by) Allah. And whoever obeys Allah and His messenger, He will admit him to Gardens underneath which rivers flow, abiding forever therein. And that is the great success.

تِلْكَ حُدُودُ اللَّهِ ^ج وَمَنْ يُطِيعِ
اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ ^ج يُدْخِلْهُ جَنَّاتٍ
تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ
خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا ^ج وَذَلِكَ الْفَوْزُ
الْعَظِيمُ

14. And whoever disobeys Allah and His messenger and transgresses His limits, He will make him enter the Fire, to abide forever therein, and for him is a humiliating punishment. *25a

وَمَنْ يَعْصِ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ وَيَتَعَدَّ حُدُودَهُ يُدْخِلْهُ نَارًا خَالِدًا فِيهَا وَلَهُ عَذَابٌ مُهِينٌ

*25a This stern warning has been given to save people from the eternal torture of Hell, which they will suffer if they change the law of inheritance or break other legal limits prescribed by Allah in His Book. It is a pity that in spite of this stern warning the Muslims changed and broke the law of Allah with the same impudence as shown by the Jews. The transgressions against this law of inheritance are an open rebellion against Allah. They deprive women of their share of inheritance; they discard the law of Allah and adopt the law of primo-geniture or of joint family system instead. Whenever it suits their whims and interests they make the share of the male and the female equal in order to rectify the law of Allah. The latest rebellion against the law is that some Muslim States have followed the West and imposed "Death Duties" which implies that the State is also an heir whom Allah had forgotten to mention. As a matter of fact, the State is entitled to an inheritance only if the deceased leaves behind an unclaimed property, or himself allots a portion of it to the State by his will.

15. And those who commit lewdness (sexual misconduct) of your women, then bring four witnesses against them from amongst you. And if they bear witness, then confine them to the houses, until death takes them or Allah ordains for them (another) way.

وَالَّذِينَ يَأْتُونَ الْفَاحِشَةَ مِنْ

نِسَائِكُمْ فَاسْتَشْهِدُوا عَلَيْهِنَّ
أَرْبَعَةً مِّنْكُمْ فَإِن شَهِدُوا
فَأَمْسِكُوهُنَّ فِي الْبُيُوتِ حَتَّى
يَتَوَفَّيَهُنَّ الْمَوْتُ أَوْ يَجْعَلَ اللَّهُ
لَهُنَّ سَبِيلًا

16. And the two (men or women) of you who commit it (sexual misconduct), then punish them both. But if they repent and correct, then leave them alone. Surely, Allah is ever accepting repentance, Most Merciful.*26

وَالَّذَانِ يَأْتِيَنَّهَا مِنْكُمْ
فَعَاذُوهُمَا فَإِن تَابَا وَأَصْلَحَا
فَاعْرِضُوا عَنْهُمَا إِنَّ اللَّهَ
كَانَ تَوَّابًا رَّحِيمًا

26 In both these verses 15-16, punishment for fornication was prescribed for the first time in Islam. According to verse 15, the guilty women were to be kept in confinement till further order, and according to verse 16 both the male and the female guilty of fornication were to be punished, that is rebuked, disgraced, beaten, etc. Afterwards this punishment was altered by verse 2 of Surah An-Nur. Now both the male and the female are to be scourged with one hundred stripes each. This gradual enforcement of the criminal law was based on sound practical wisdom. At that time the Arabs were not accustomed to live under a settled government with a regular system of law and judiciary. Therefore it might have been unwise and too much for them if the Islamic State had imposed on them its complete system of criminal laws all at once. That is why first the sort of punishment contained in these two verses was enforced and then gradually stricter punishments were prescribed for fornication, theft, slander, etc., and finally a complete system of law was evolved which was in force during the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his rightly guided successors.

The seeming difference in these two verses has misled commentator Suddi to the conclusion that verse 15 prescribed the punishment for married women and verse 16 for unmarried men and women. Obviously, this flimsy commentary is not supported by any sound argument. Likewise, the commentary of Abu Muslim Isfahani that verse 15 is about the un-natural crime between two females and verse 16 about the un-natural crime between two males is also wrong. The Quran is concerned only with the fundamental principles of law and morality: therefore it only discusses those problems which are confronted in normal life and does not concern itself with the ones that are met with under abnormal circumstances. These latter problems, as they arise, are left for the people to decide according to their insight. That is why, when after the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him) the case of unnatural crime between two males was brought before the companions, none of them turned to these verses for its decision.

17. The repentance accepted by Allah is only for those who do evil in ignorance, then repent soon afterwards, so it is those to whom Allah will turn in forgiveness. And Allah is ever All Knower, All Wise.

إِنَّمَا التَّوْبَةُ عَلَى اللَّهِ لِلَّذِينَ
يَعْمَلُونَ السُّوءَ بِجَهْلَةٍ ثُمَّ
يَتُوبُونَ مِنْ قَرِيبٍ فَأُولَئِكَ
يَتُوبُ اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِمْ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ
عَلِيمًا حَكِيمًا

18. And repentance is not (accepted) of those who (continue to) do evil deeds, up until when death approaches upon one of them, he says: “Indeed, I repent now,” nor of those who die while they are disbelievers. It is those, We have prepared for them a painful punishment.*27

وَلَيْستِ التَّوْبَةُ لِلَّذِينَ
يَعْمَلُونَ السَّيِّئَاتِ حَتَّى إِذَا
حَضَرَ أَحَدَهُمُ الْمَوْتُ قَالَ
إِنِّي تبتُّ أَلَّئِن وَلَا الَّذِينَ
يَمُوتُونَ وَهُمْ كُفَّارٌ
أُولَئِكَ أَعْتَدْنَا لَهُمْ عَذَابًا
أَلِيمًا

*27 The word taubah means ‘to turn back’ and ‘to turn to’. When a person feels sorry for his sin and turns back from it, he may be likened to a runaway slave who comes back to his master. This is his taubah. When the master accepts his repentance, he turns to him kindly and forgives him. In Arabic this is his taubah to his servant. In this verse Allah has stated these two aspects of taubah. He says, "I turn only to those servants of Mine, who, if they commit some unintentional sin through ignorance, turn to Me for forgiveness as soon as they realize their folly. For such repentance, the door of My forgiveness is ever open. It is, however, not so for those who persist in sin throughout their lives without the least fear of Allah and offer repentance only when death confronts them." The Prophet (peace be upon him) says that Allah accepts the repentance of a person only up to the time, when there appears no sign of death. It is obvious that after the time of test has expired, no chance is left for him to turn back from sin. Likewise, if a person is dying as a disbeliever and seeing with his own eyes the other world, contrary to his expectations, the question of his repentance does not arise at all.

19. O those who believe, it is not lawful for you to inherit women by compulsion (against their will).^{*28} And do not put constraint upon them that you may take away a part of that which you have given them, unless they commit open lewdness (sexual misconduct).^{*29} And live with them in kindness. For if you dislike them, it good.*30

فَعَسَىٰ أَنْ تَكْرَهُوا شَيْئًا وَجَعَلَ
اللَّهُ فِيهِ خَيْرًا كَثِيرًا

*28 This means that the widow of the deceased should not be regarded as a part of his inheritance. After the death of the husband, his widow is quite free to live wherever she likes and to marry whomever she chooses after the expiry of her term.

*29 That is, “You may hurt them for immoral conduct but not for grabbing their wealth.”

*30 If the wife is not beautiful or has some other defect that might not be to the husband’s liking, it is not right that he should make up his mind to get rid of her at once without any further consideration. He should behave coolly and patiently. She may have some other redeeming qualities that may be more conducive to a happy married life than beautiful looks. It is just possible that the discovery of those qualities might change his repulsion at first sight into attraction. In the same way, sometimes it so happens that in the beginning of married life, the husband takes a dislike to something in the wife and feels a repulsion towards her but if he is patient with her and lets her show her better side fully, he himself realizes that her good qualities more than compensate for her shortcomings. Therefore it is not right for the husband to cut off his relations with his wife without a good deal of thinking. Divorce is the very last thing to which one may resort as a necessary social surgery and that, too, only when it becomes absolutely inevitable.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) says that of all the lawful things, divorce is the most reprehensible thing in the sight of Allah. In another tradition, he admonishes, “Enter into marriage and divorce not, for Allah does not approve of such men and women as divorce and marry for mere sexual enjoyment.”

20. And if you intend to take a wife in place of (another) wife, and you have given to one of them a great amount (heap of gold), so do not take (back) anything from it. Would you take it (back) by slander and a manifest sin.

وَإِنْ أَرَدْتُمْ أَسْتَبْدَالَ زَوْجٍ
مَكَانَ زَوْجٍ وَءَاتَيْتُمْ
إِحْدَاهُنَّ قِنطَارًا فَلَا تَأْخُذُوا
مِنْهُ شَيْئًا ۚ أَتَأْخُذُونَهُ بِهَتِّنَا
وَإِنَّمَا مُبِينًا

21. And how could you take it (back) while indeed one of you has gone in unto the other, and they have taken from you a solemn pledge.^{*31}

وَكَيفَ تَأْخُذُونَهُ وَقَدْ أَفْضَى
بَعْضُكُمْ إِلَى بَعْضٍ
وَأَخَذْتُمْ مِنْكُمْ مِيثَاقًا
غَلِيظًا

31 “Solemn pledge” is the marriage bond on the guarantee of which a woman gives herself up to a man. Therefore, if the man breaks that pledge of his own accord, he has no right to get back what he gave her as dower at the time of making that pledge. (See E.N. 251, Surah Al-Baqarah).

22. And do not marry of those women whom your fathers married, except what has already passed.^{*32} Indeed, it was lewdness and hateful, and an evil way.^{*33}

وَلَا تَنْكِحُوا مَا نَكَحَ
 آبَاؤُكُمْ مِنَ النِّسَاءِ إِلَّا مَا
 قَدْ سَلَفَ إِنَّهُ كَانَ فَحِشَةً
 وَمَقْتًا وَسَاءَ سَبِيلًا

32 While forbidding the wrong ways of ignorance, the Quran usually ends the instruction with such words as: “except what has already passed.” It has two meanings in view. First, that no action will be taken in regard to those wrong things that one did in ignorance, provided that he mended his ways and gave them up after the receipt of a particular commandment. Second, those words meant to give reassurance that the new instructions had no retrospective effect. For instance, if a person had married his step-mother before it was declared to be unlawful, according to these words, the offspring of all such previous marriages did not automatically become illegitimate by this newly declared prohibition so as to deprive them of their share of inheritance. Likewise if some form of trade had been made unlawful, it did not mean that all the previous transactions in that form had become null and void, and that one would have to return all the wealth earned in that way or that it had become completely unlawful.

33 According to the Islamic law, it is a criminal offense and is within the jurisdiction of the law enforcing authorities. Some traditions related in Abu Daud, Nasai and Musnad Ahmad are to the effect that the Prophet (peace be upon him) confiscated their properties and sentenced to death those who married their step-mothers. According to another tradition, related by Ibn Majah from Ibn Abbas, the Prophet (peace be upon him) enunciated this fundamental law: Anyone who commits fornication with any of the forbidden relations should be put to death. The experts on Muslim law, however, differ in regard to this matter. While Imam Ahmad is of the opinion that such a criminal should be put to death and his property confiscated, Imam Abu Hanifah, Imam Malik and Imam Shafai are of the opinion that if a person commits fornication with anyone of the prohibited relations, he should be punished for the offense of fornication and if he marries such a one, he should be given an exemplary punishment for this heinous sin.

23. Forbidden to you are your mothers,^{*34} and your daughters,^{*35} and your sisters,^{*36} and your father's sisters, and your mother's sisters, and your brother's daughters, and your sister's daughters,^{*37} and your (foster) mothers who nursed you, and your (foster) sisters through nursing,^{*38} and mothers of your wives,^{*39} and your step daughters who are under your guardianship^{*40} (born) of your those women unto whom you have gone in. But if you have not gone in unto them, then it is no sin upon you (to marry their daughters). And (forbidden to you are) the wives of your sons who are from your own loins.^{*41}

And (forbidden to you is) that you take together two sisters (in marriage),^{*42} except what has already passed. Indeed, Allah is

Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.^{*43}

34 This prohibition applies both to the real mother and to the step mother and both are unlawful. It also applies to the mother of the father and to the mother of the mother. Experts have differed as to whether the woman with whom the father has had illicit relations is also unlawful for the son or not. Some of the earlier jurists do not consider her unlawful, but some others not only consider her unlawful for the son but also the woman whom the father has touched lustfully with the hand. There has also been a difference of opinion as to whether the woman with whom the son has had an illicit relation is unlawful for the father and whether the man with whom the mother or the daughter has had illicit relation becomes unlawful for both the mother and the daughter. There have been lengthy controversies concerning the legal niceties of this matter, but a little thinking will show that the existence of a wife who is also coveted by the husband's father or his son, or whose mother or daughter is also coveted by the husband himself, cannot bode well for a righteous society. Divine law in this matter does not tolerate the legal hair splitting on the basis of which fine distinctions are made between marriage and after marriage, touching with the hand and casting of looks, etc. The simple thing is that in family life existence of sexual relations of the father and the son with one and the same woman, or of the mother and the daughter with one and the same man, is bound to corrupt the family, and the divine law cannot tolerate it. This is supported by the following two traditions of the Prophet (peace be upon him):

- (1) The mother and the daughter of the woman become unlawful for the man who cast a look at her sexual organs.
- (2) God does not like even to look at a man who casts a gaze at the sexual organs of the mother and of her daughter.

35 The prohibition about daughter also applies to the daughter of the son and the daughter of the daughter. There is, however, a difference of opinion in regard to a girl born of an illicit relationship. Imam Abu Hanifah, Imam Malik and Imam Ahmad bin Hanbal are of the opinion that she too is unlawful like the lawful daughter, but Imam

Shafai does not consider an illegitimate daughter unlawful. But the very idea is repugnant that one should marry a girl about whom one has the knowledge that she is of his own seed.

36 This applies to the real sister as well as to the foster sisters from the father's and the mother's side.

37 All these relations are prohibited, irrespective of whether they are real or step from the father's side or from the mother's side. The sister of the father or mother, whether real or step, is unlawful for the son. Similarly the daughters of the brothers and sisters whether they are real or step are unlawful for a person like his own real daughter.

38 The consensus of opinion is that the woman who suckled a boy or a girl should be treated as the real mother and her husband as the real father with regard to this prohibition. All those relations that have been made unlawful in respect of the real mother and real father are also prohibited in respect of the foster mother who has suckled and in respect of her husband. This is based on a tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) which is to this effect: "Suckling makes unlawful what blood makes unlawful." There is, however, a difference of opinion as to the minimum quantity of milk that is suckled. According to Imam Abu Hanifah and Imam Malik, if the child suckles milk equal to that minimum quantity that breaks the fast, the woman shall be treated as its real mother for marriage relations. But Imam Ahmad is of the opinion that the prohibition shall take place if the child suckles the woman at least three times and according to Imam Shafai at least five times. There is also a difference of opinion as to the age of the child at the time of suckling that brings prohibition. Below are given the opinions of the jurists:

(1) Umm Salamah, Ibn Abbas, Zuhri, Hasan Basri, Qatadah, Ikrimah, and Auzai (may Allah be pleased with them) are of the opinion that if the child is suckled during the period when it has not yet been weaned and it lives only on suckling, the prohibition shall be effective; but if it is suckled after it has been weaned, it will not apply; for this is like drinking water. There is also a saying of Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) to the same effect.

(2) Umar, Ibn Masud, Abu Hurairah and Ibn Umar (may Allah be pleased with them) are of the opinion that the prohibition will be effective if the child is suckled at any time up to the age of two. Imam Shaafai, Imam Ahmad, Imam Abu Yusuf, Imam Muhammad and Sufyan Thauri from among the jurists also agree to this. There is also a saying of Imam Abu Hanifah to the same effect. Imam Malik also agrees to this, but he says that the prohibition shall apply even if a month or two exceeds the time limit of two years.

(3) According to a well-known saying of Imam Abu Hanifah and Imam Zufar, the prohibition shall apply if the child is suckled during the suckling period, which extends up to the age of two years and a half.

(4) Aiysha (may Allah be pleased with her) is of the opinion that the prohibition shall apply, if one is suckled at any time whatsoever, irrespective of age. An authentic saying of Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) also supports the same and Urwah bin Zubair, Ata, Laith bin Saad and Ibn Hazm from among the jurists have adopted the same opinion.

39 There is a difference of opinion as to whether the mere event of nikah (marriage ceremony) with a woman makes her mother unlawful or not. Imam Abu Hanifah, Malik, Ahmad and Shafai are of the opinion that this alone makes her mother unlawful but Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) is of the opinion that unless one has had any conjugal relation with her, her mother shall not become unlawful for him.

40 The wife's daughter is unlawful in any case, whether she has been brought up in the house of the step father or not. Allah has used these words only to show the great delicacy of the relation. There is almost a consensus of opinion among the jurists that the step daughter is unlawful in any case whether one has brought her up or not.

41 The significance of "who are from your loins" is that the widows or the divorced wives of those whom one has adopted as sons are not unlawful. The prohibition applies only to the wives of the sons who are of one's own seed. Likewise, the wives of the grandsons are also unlawful.

42 Likewise it is unlawful to keep the aunt and her real niece as wives at one and the same time. The principle is that no two women who would have been unlawful for each other if one of them had been a man should be kept as wives at one and the same time.

43 That is, no action will be taken for the transgression committed during the days of ignorance, by keeping two sisters as wives at one and the same time. (See E.N. 32 above). However, one shall have to divorce one of the two sisters thus married during the time of unbelief after he has become a Muslim.

24. And married women (are forbidden), except those whom your right hands possess.*⁴⁴ (This is) a decree of Allah upon you. And lawful to you are all (others) beyond those, that you seek (them in marriage) with your property (gifts), desiring chastity, not unlawful sexual activities. So whatever you enjoy with (in marriage) from them, then give them their bridal due as an obligation. And there is no sin on you in what you do by mutual agreement after the obligation. Indeed, Allah is ever All Knowing, All Wise.

﴿ وَالْمُحْصَنَاتُ مِنَ النِّسَاءِ إِلَّا مَا مَلَكَتْ أَيْمَانُكُمْ كِتَابَ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ وَأُحِلَّ لَكُمْ مَا وَرَاءَ ذَلِكَ أَنْ تَبْتَغُوا بِأَمْوَالِكُمْ مُحْصِنِينَ غَيْرَ مُسْفِحِينَ فَمَا اسْتَمْتَعْتُمْ بِهِ مِنْهُنَّ فَآتُوهُنَّ أُجُورَهُنَّ فَرِيضَةً وَلَا جُنَاحَ عَلَيْكُمْ فِي مَا تَرَاضَيْتُمْ بِهِ مِنْ بَعْدِ الْفَرِيضَةِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ عَلِيمًا حَكِيمًا ﴾

44 That is, those women who become prisoners of war, while their unbelieving husbands are left behind in the war zone, are not unlawful because their marriage ties are broken by the fact that they have come from the war zone into the Islamic zone. It is lawful to marry such women, and it is also lawful for those, in whose possession they are, to have sexual relations with them. There is, however, a difference of opinion as to whether such a woman is lawful, if her husband is also taken a prisoner along with her. Imam Abu Hanifah and those of his way of thinking are of the opinion that the marriage tie of such a pair would remain intact but Imam Malik and Shafai, are of the opinion that it would also break.

As there exist many misunderstandings in the minds of the people concerning the slave girls taken as prisoners of war, the following should be carefully studied:

(1) It is not lawful for a soldier to have conjugal relations with a prisoner of war as soon as she falls into his hands. The Islamic law requires that all such women should be handed over to the government, which has the right to set them free or to ransom them, or to exchange them with the Muslim prisoners in the hands of the enemy, or distribute them among the soldiers. A soldier can cohabit only with that woman who has been formally given to him by the government.

(2) Even then, he shall have to wait for one monthly course before he can cohabit with her in order to ensure whether she is pregnant or not; otherwise it shall be unlawful to cohabit with her before delivery.

(3) It does not matter whether the female prisoner of war belongs to the people of the Book or not. Whatever her religion, she becomes lawful for the man to whom she is formally given.

(4) None, but the one to own the slave girl is given, has the right to touch her. The offspring of such a woman from his seed shall be his lawful children and shall have the same legal rights as are given by the divine law to the children from one's loins. After the birth of a child she cannot be sold as a slave girl and shall automatically become free after her master's death.

(5) If the master marries his slave girl with another man, he forfeits his conjugal rights over her, but retains other rights such as service from her.

(6) The maximum limit of four has not been prescribed for slave girls as in the case of wives for the simple reason that the number of female prisoners of war is unpredictable. The lack of limit does by no means provide a license for the well to do people to buy any number of slave girls for licentious purposes.

(7) The proprietary rights over a slave, male or female, as given to a person by the government are transferable like all other legal proprietary rights.

(8) The handing over of the proprietary rights over a slave girl to a man formally by the government makes her as much lawful for him as the giving of the hand of a free woman to a man by her parents or guardian through nikah (marriage ceremony). Therefore, there is no reason why a man who does not hold marriage in detestation should hold sexual intercourse with a slave girl in detestation.

(9) When once the government hands over the female prisoner of war to someone, it has no right whatever to take her back from him, just as the parent or guardian has no right to take back a woman after she is handed over to a man through nikah.

(10) It should also be noted well that if a military commander temporarily distributes female prisoners of war among the soldiers for sexual purposes, or permits them to have sexual relations for the time being, such an act shall be unlawful and there is absolutely no difference between this and fornication, and fornication is a crime according to the Islamic code.

25. And whoever is not able among you to afford to marry believing free women, then (he may marry) from those whom your right hands possess of believing slave girls. And Allah knows best about your faith. You are of one another,^{*45} so marry them with the permission of their guardians, and give to them their bridal gifts in kindness, (them being) chaste, not committing unlawful sexual activities, nor taking secret lovers. But when they are sheltered in marriage, then if they commit lewdness (unlawful sexual act), then for them is half of the punishment

45 That is, the social differences among the people are merely relative; otherwise all Muslims are equal. As a matter of fact, the thing that distinguishes one Muslim from another is the quality of his faith, and that is not the monopoly of the higher ranks of society. It is just possible that a Muslim slave girl is higher in rank in regard to belief and morality than a free woman of a high family.

46 It should be kept in view that in this section (Ayats 24-25) the Arabic word muhsanat has been used in two different senses: (1) “wedded wives”, enjoying the protection of their husbands; and (2) “free Muslim women” enjoying the protection of their families, even though they might not be married. This is important, because the lack of differentiation between these two meanings has given rise to a superficial complication. The Kharijites and those others who do not believe in the stoning of an adulterous woman have misconstrued this verse (25) to prove their own point of view. They argue that in this verse, the punishment prescribed for an adulterous married slave girl is half of the punishment prescribed for a free married Muslim woman. If the punishment for an adulterous free married woman had been stoning to death, there could be no half of this punishment for a guilty slave girl. Hence, this verse is, according to them, a conclusive proof that the punishment of stoning does not exist in Islam.

The fallacy of the above argument becomes obvious, if one uses common sense in the application of the appropriate meaning of muhsanat. In the case of the guilty slave girl, it has been used in the sense of married woman, enjoying the protection of the husband, as is plain from the subsequent clause; “But when they are sheltered in marriage.” But in the case of the guilty Muslim woman, half of whose punishment is to be given, it means free Muslim woman enjoying the protection of her family, and does not mean a free married Muslim woman, as has been misconstrued by the opponents of the punishment of stoning.

As regards the lighter punishment for an adulterous slave girl than for a free Muslim woman, it is based on the fact that the latter enjoys double protection as compared with the former the protection of the family (even though she be unmarried) and the protection of the husband, which reinforces the protection of the family she already enjoys. In contrast to a free woman, a slave girl does not enjoy any protection at all, if she is unmarried, and even after marriage her position does not become equal to that of an unmarried free Muslim woman, for the latter enjoys the protection of her status, her family, her clan, etc. On the other hand, a slave girl still remains, to some extent, under the bondage of slavery and has no protection of the family, clan, etc. Therefore, her punishment should be half of an unmarried free woman and not half of a free married woman.

Furthermore, this also shows that the punishment of one hundred stripes as prescribed in Surah An-Nur: Ayat 2, is for an unmarried free Muslim woman guilty of fornication, half of which has been prescribed here for a slave married girl. As for an adulterous married free woman she deserves capital punishment for this heinous crime because she enjoys the double protection of the family and of the husband, and that punishment is stoning her to death. Though the Quran does not explicitly mention the punishment of stoning to death, it does indicate it in a subtle manner, which the Prophet (peace be upon him) understood and enforced. And who else could understand the Quran better?

*47 The concession is to marry one of the slave girls with the consent of her master if one cannot afford to marry a free Muslim woman.

26. Allah intends to make clear to you, and to guide you to the ways of those who were before you, and accept your repentance. And Allah is All Knower, All Wise. *48

يُرِيدُ اللَّهُ لِيُبَيِّنَ لَكُمْ وَيَهْدِيَكُمْ
سُنَنَ الَّذِينَ مِنْ قَبْلِكُمْ وَيَتُوبَ
عَلَيْكُمْ وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ حَكِيمٌ

*48 The way refer to all those instructions that have been given from the beginning of the Surah to this point, and to those already given in Surah Al-Baqarah about cultural and social problems. Allah is telling the believers that it is

His bounty that He is taking them out of the ways of ignorance and guiding them to the moral ways of good people, that have always been followed by the Prophets of every age and their pious followers.

27. And Allah intends to accept your repentance, and those who follow vain desires intend that you deviate (into) a tremendous deviation.*49

وَاللَّهُ يُرِيدُ أَنْ يَتُوبَ عَلَيْكُمْ
وَيُرِيدُ الَّذِينَ يَتَّبِعُونَ
الشَّهَوَاتِ أَنْ تَمِيلُوا مِيلًا عَظِيمًا

*49 Those who intended to turn the believers back from the right way to the ways of error were the hypocrites, the ignorant people of the old ways, and the Jews living in the suburbs of Al-Madinah. The first two groups strongly disliked the changes that were being made to reform their centuries old prejudices, rites and customs. They were opposed to (a) the share of the daughters in inheritance; (b) the freedom of the widow from the restrictions placed on her by her husband's people, and to marry the husband of her liking after the expiry of the term, (c) the prohibition of marriage with step mother, and with two real sisters simultaneously. They were averse to the reform of the institution of adoption which abolished the share of the adopted sons in inheritance and removed the restriction on the marriage of their divorced wives or their widows with their adopted fathers. These and such other reforms so upset the worshipers of the old traditions and customs that they cried themselves hoarse with protests against them.

The mischief mongers criticized bitterly the Prophet (peace be upon him) and incited the people against his person and his invitation. For instance, if there was a person who was born as a result of a marriage which had become unlawful by the application of the reformed laws, they would incite him by saying that he had been declared illegitimate by the Prophet (peace be upon him). Thus the foolish people were opposing the work of reform which was being carried out under divine guidance.

Then there were the Jews who were engaged in vicious propaganda against this reformative work which went against their self made laws. They demanded that the Quran should declare these laws to be the divine laws, even though they had changed their very character and substance, by making fine and unnecessary distinctions, by introducing into it their own superstitious customs as laws, by imposing their own restrictions and hard conditions and making many lawful things unlawful. They, therefore, could not appreciate the simple rules and regulations that were being presented by the Quran. That is why their rabbis, scribes and common people did not accept the Quran as the Book of Allah. They were so upset by its reformative laws that they made each and every commandment of the Quran the target of their criticism and opposed and rejected it.

For instance, the Jews considered the women utterly unclean during the menses. They would not take the meals cooked by them, nor drink water touched by their hands, nor even sit on the same carpet with them. In short, the women were practically made untouchables in their homes. As the Ansar had also adopted the same customs when the Prophet (peace be upon him) migrated to Al-Madinah, they asked him about the monthly course. In answer to this question, Ayat 222 of Surah Al-Baqarah was revealed. Accordingly the Prophet (peace be upon him) instructed that during the monthly course only cohabitation was prohibited and all other relations with the women would remain the same as before. At this, the Jews raised a great hue and cry, saying, this man is bent upon opposing us in everything and making lawful what is unlawful with us and unlawful what is lawful with us.

28. Allah intends to lighten (the burdens) from you, and man was created weak.

يُرِيدُ اللَّهُ أَنْ يُخَفِّفَ عَنْكُمْ
وَخُلِقَ الْإِنْسَانُ ضَعِيفًا

29. O those who believe, do not devour your possessions among yourselves wrongfully, except that it be a trade amongst you by mutual consent.^{*50} And do not kill yourselves^{*51} (one another). Indeed, Allah is Most Merciful to you.^{*52}

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا

عَنْ تَرَاضٍ مِّنْكُمْ وَلَا تَقْتُلُوا
أَنْفُسَكُمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ بِكُمْ
رَحِيمًا

50 “Wrongfully” include all the ways that are against the Islamic law and principles and are false and immoral.

“Trade” comprises all those transactions that are carried out for profit, benefit, etc. as in business, commerce, industry, etc., by which one satisfies the needs of another who pays for the service rendered.

“Mutual consent” implies that those transactions should be carried out by mutual agreement and not by coercion or fraud. For instance, although apparently there is a mutual agreement in interest and bribery, yet it is obvious that the needy party is compelled by circumstances to agree to such transactions. Also, in gambling each participant is deluded by the false hope of winning. Neither would agree to gamble if he knew that he would lose. The same is true of every case of transaction which involves fraud. The defrauded one agrees under the misunderstanding that there is no fraud in it. If he knew that he was being deceived, he would never agree to this.

*51 “Do not kill yourselves” may be complementary to the preceding sentence or may, in itself, be an independent sentence.

In the first case, it would mean that the one who devours unlawfully the property of others, does in fact lead himself to his own destruction. Such an evil deed ruins the social order to such an extent that ultimately he himself cannot escape its evil consequences, and in the Hereafter most surely he incurs severe punishment.

In the second case, it would mean, “Do not kill each other”, or “Do not commit suicide”.

Allah has used such comprehensive words that in the context they occur, they imply all the three senses, and all these are correct.

52 That is, Allah is your well wisher. It is only His compassion that He forbids you from such deeds as cause your ruin.

31. If you avoid the major sins, which you are forbidden from, We shall remove from you your trivial offense,^{*53} and We shall admit you to a noble entrance.

إِنْ تَجْتَنِبُوا كَبَائِرَ مَا تُهَوَّنَ
عَنْهُ نُكَفِّرْ عَنْكُمْ سَيِّئَاتِكُمْ
وَنُدْخِلْكُمْ مُدْخَلًا كَرِيمًا ﴿٣١﴾

53 That is, We are not narrow minded and prejudiced that We should take Our servants to task for each and every trivial offense. But if you commit wicked and heinous sins, then you shall have to render an account of the trivial offenses as well.

Here it will be worthwhile to understand the basic differences between the heinous (major) sins and the trivial offenses. As far as I have understood from a critical study of the Quran and the Sunnah (and the correct and right knowledge is only with Allah), I have come to the conclusion that the following three things make a sin heinous:

(1) The violation of the rights of Allah, or of parents, or of other human beings, or one's own rights. The wickedness of the sin increases in proportion to the sanctity of the right that is violated. That is why the Quran calls a sin zulm (iniquity) and declares shirk to be a gross iniquity.

(2) A sin becomes heinous, if it is committed to defy the divine laws. This is because the offender deliberately, boldly and shamelessly discards the commandments and prohibitions of Allah and intentionally does that which He prohibits, merely for the sake of disobedience, and impudently does not do that which He has commanded. The gravity of this sin increases in proportion to the impudence that is shown towards Allah in disobeying and discarding His law. That is why the Quran calls a sin fisq (disobedience) and masiyat (arrogance).

(3) The violation of those relations and the cutting off of those connections on the unification and integrity of which depends the peace of human life, makes a sin heinous whether these relations are between man and Allah or between man and man. The gravity of the sin of violation or the cutting off of a connection increases in proportion to the importance of the relation, and to the security contained in it. For instance, fornication in its different forms is in itself a heinous sin, for it corrupts human society. But in some forms it becomes far more heinous than in others. The sin of adultery committed by a married man is far more heinous than that committed by an unmarried man. Likewise, adultery with a married woman is a far greater sin than fornication with an unmarried woman. In the same way, sexual intercourse with the womenfolk of a neighbor is far more heinous than with others. Incest with mother, sister or daughter become the most heinous sin conceivable because of the security and sanctity the relation provides. For the same reason the sin committed in the mosque is far more wicked than elsewhere. In the above instances, the difference in the gravity of the same sin is due to the difference in the nature of the sanctity of the relations and the security contained in them. That is why, sin is also called fujur (violation of relations).

32. And do not desire for that in which Allah has bestowed more to some of you over others. For men is a share of what they have earned. And for women is a share of what they have earned. And ask Allah of His bounty. Indeed, Allah is ever All Knower of all things. *54

وَلَا تَتَمَنَّوْا مَا فَضَّلَ اللَّهُ بِهِ
بَعْضَكُمْ عَلَى بَعْضٍ لِّلرِّجَالِ
نَصِيبٌ مِّمَّا كَتَبُوا
وَلِلنِّسَاءِ نَصِيبٌ مِّمَّا كَتَبْنَ
وَسْأَلُوا اللَّهَ مِنْ فَضْلِهِ ۗ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
كَانَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمًا

*54 In this verse Allah has given a very important moral instruction, which, if observed, would bring great peace in the troubled social life of today. Allah has taught people not to be covetous for and be envious of the possessions of others, for He has not, in His wisdom, created all men alike. But for this disparity life would have become dull.

As Allah has perfect knowledge of everything, He has created one beautiful and another ugly. He has given to one a melodious voice and to another a harsh voice. He has made one of strong physique and another of weak constitution. He has endowed one with some good qualities of mind and body and another with other qualities. He has created one in straitened and another in opulent circumstances. He has provided one with ample resources and another with scanty ones. A little thinking will convince a person that the variety in human culture is due only to those very differences and distinctions which are based on wisdom and perfect knowledge. That is why chaos of one sort or the other results whenever people artificially try either to aggravate these differences and distinctions or to eliminate them totally. The human tendency to envy others because of their superiority in anything generates jealousy, cut-throat competition, enmity, class struggle and the like with the resulting consequences. One who suffers from such a mentality tries to grab unlawfully that which Allah has not given him through His bounty. In this verse Allah has advised the Muslims to avoid such a mentality and keep themselves free from envying others. One should, however, pray to Allah for His bounty, for He will bestow upon him whatever He considers proper for him, because He has perfect knowledge of everything.

As regards “For men is a share of what they have earned, and for women is a share of what they have earned.” in my opinion it means that women should not envy men and men should not envy women because of any superiority the one has over the other because of Allah's bounty. They should make full use of whatever Allah has given them and rest assured that each one will get his and her due share according to what good or evil one earns and of the same quality that one deserves.

33. And for everyone, We have appointed heirs of that (property) left by parents and near relatives. And to those with whom you have pledged your oath, so give them their due portion. Indeed, Allah is ever a witness over all things.*55

وَلِكُلِّ جَعَلْنَا مَوَالِيَ مِمَّا تَرَكَ

 عَقَدْتَ أَيْمَانُكُمْ فَآتُوهُمْ
 نَصِيبَهُمْ^ج إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ عَلَى
 كُلِّ شَيْءٍ شَهِيدًا

*55 The Arabs would enter into agreements of friendship and brotherhood with each other and on that score were entitled to the inheritance of each other. Thus, a godson became heir of his godfather. Here this custom of ignorance has been abolished, and it has been enjoined that the inheritance should be divided among the heirs according to the law prescribed by Allah. They are, however, allowed to give to such people, whatever they like during their lifetime.

34. The men are in charge*56 of the women, by what Allah has bestowed to one of them

الرِّجَالُ قَوَّامُونَ عَلَى النِّسَاءِ
 بِمَا فَضَّلَ اللَّهُ بَعْضَهُمْ عَلَى over other,^{*57} and because they spend of their wealth. So the righteous women are devoutly obedient, guarding in (husband's) absence^{*58} that which Allah has (ordered to be) guarded. And those (women) from whom you fear rebellion, admonish them, and forsake them in beds, and strike them.^{*59} Then if they obey you, then do not seek against them means (of annoyance). Indeed, Allah is ever Most High, Most Great.

بَعْضٍ وَبِمَا أَنْفَقُوا مِنْ أَمْوَالِهِمْ

أَطْعَمَكُمْ فَلَا تَبْغُوا عَلَيْهِنَّ

كَبِيرًا

56 The Arabic word qavvam or qayyam stands for a person who is responsible for the right conduct, safeguard and maintenance of the affairs of an individual, an institution or an organization. Thus, man is governor, director, protector and manager of the affairs of women.

57 Men are superior to women in the sense that they have been endowed with certain natural qualities and powers that have not been given to women or have been given in a lesser degree, and not in the sense that they are above them in honor and excellence. Man has been made qavvam (governor) of the family because of his natural qualities and woman has been made his dependent for her own safety and protection because of her natural weakness.

58 A tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) is the best commentary on this, He said, “The best wife is the one who pleases you when you see her, who obeys your orders and who guards your property and her own honor when you are not at home.”

In this connection, it is necessary to give a warning. Obedience to Allah is of far greater importance than obedience to the husband and has precedence over it. Therefore, it is the duty of the wife to refuse to obey her husband, if and when he orders her to do a thing which amounts to Allah’s disobedience. In that case it shall be a sin to obey him. On the contrary, if the husband orders her not to observe a certain voluntary religious devotion, she must obey him, otherwise her devotion will not be accepted.

59 If the wife is defiant and does not obey her husband or does not guard his rights, three measures have been mentioned, but it does not mean that all the three are to be taken at one and the same time. Though these have been permitted, they are to be administered with a sense of proportion according to the nature and extent of the offense. If a mere light admonition proves effective, there is no need to resort to a severer step. As to a beating, the Prophet (peace be upon him) allowed it very reluctantly and even then did not like it. But the fact is that there are certain women who do not mend their ways without a beating. In such a case, the Prophet (peace be upon him) has instructed that she would not be beaten on the face, or cruelly, or with anything which might leave a mark on the body.

35. And if you fear a dissension between them twain, then appoint an arbitrator from his family and an arbitrator from her family. If they^{*60} (the two sides) desire reconciliation, Allah will make between them. Indeed Allah is ever All Knower, Well Acquainted.^{*61}

وَإِنْ خِفْتُمْ شِقَاقَ بَيْنِهِمَا فَابْعَثُوا
حَكَمًا مِّنْ أَهْلِهِ وَحَكَمًا مِّنْ
أَهْلِهَا إِنْ يُرِيدَا إِصْلَاحًا يُوَفِّقِ
اللَّهُ بَيْنَهُمَا ۗ إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ عَلِيمًا
خَبِيرًا

60 “The two sides” refers both to the arbitrators and to the spouses. Reconciliation can be effected in every quarrel, if the parties concerned desire it and if the arbitrators try to affect it sincerely and justly.

61 In this verse, a plan has been put forward for settling disputes between husband and wife within the family. An effort should be made to effect reconciliation before resorting to a court of law or making the final breach. The plan is to appoint one arbitrator from the family of each spouse for this purpose. The two should probe into the real cause or causes of the dispute and then try to find a way out of it. Of course, the relatives are best qualified for it, as they know the true conditions of the spouses.

Allah has left it unanswered as to who should appoint the arbitrators. If they desire to patch up their differences, each spouse may appoint one arbitrator from his or her relatives, or the leaders of the two families may take the initiative and entrust the work of reconciliation to two arbitrators, or if the case goes to the court, it may appoint two arbitrators before taking any action.

There is a difference of opinion regarding the powers of the arbitrators. According to the Hanafi and the Shafai schools of thought, the arbitrators are not authorized to pass any final decree but may recommend measures for reconciliation, which may be accepted or rejected by the spouses. Of course, if the spouses themselves authorize them to effect divorce or khula or take any other measure, then they shall be bound to accept their decision. Hasan Basri, Qatadah and some other jurists are of the opinion that the arbitrators are authorized to enforce reconciliation but not separation. Ibn Abbas, Saeed bin Jubair, Ibrahim Nakhai, Shabi, Muhammad bin Sirin and some other jurists are of the opinion that the arbitrators have full authority to enforce their decision about reconciliation or separation whichever they consider to be proper.

Uthman and Ali (may Allah be pleased with them) used to authorize the arbitrators appointed by them with full powers to effect reconciliation or separation as required by the circumstances. For instance, when the case of Aqil, son of Abu Talib, and his wife Fatimah, daughter of Utbah bin Rabiah, was brought in the court of Uthman (may Allah be pleased with him), he appointed as arbitrator Ibn Abbas from the family of the husband and Muaviyah bin Abi Sufyan from the family of the wife and told them that they were authorized to cause separation between them, if required by circumstances. Likewise, Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) appointed arbitrators in a similar case and authorized them to effect reconciliation between the spouses or separate them. This shows that the arbitrators as such do not possess judicial powers, but if at the time of their appointment, the authority concerned empowers them with judicial powers, their decision shall be binding and enforced like other judicial decisions.

36. And worship Allah and do not ascribe anything as partner to Him. And to parents do good, and to near relatives, and the orphans, and the needy, and the neighbor who is near of kin, and the neighbor who is a stranger, and the fellow traveler,^{*62} and the wayfarer, and (the slaves) whom your right hands possess. Indeed, Allah does not love those who are proud, boastful.

﴿وَأَعْبُدُوا اللَّهَ وَلَا تُشْرِكُوا بِهِ شَيْئًا ۖ وَبِالْوَالِدَيْنِ إِحْسَانًا وَبِذِي الْقُرْبَىٰ وَالْيَتَامَىٰ وَالْمَسْكِينِ وَالْجَارِ ذِي الْقُرْبَىٰ وَالْجَارِ الْجُنُبِ وَالصَّاحِبِ بِالْجَنبِ وَابْنِ السَّبِيلِ وَمَا مَلَكَتْ أَيْمَانُكُمْ ۗ إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُحِبُّ مَن كَانَ مُخْتَالًا فَخُورًا﴾

62 “Assahibi biljanb” as used in the text may imply an intimate friend and also a person who accompanies one at any time. For instance, he may happen to accompany one in the street, or be a fellow customer at a shop, or be a fellow passenger on a bus or on a train, etc. Even such a temporary neighborhood requires a civilized and noble person to treat the companion as far as possible kindly, and scrupulously avoid giving him any sort of trouble.

37. Those who are miserly, and enjoin miserliness on people, and conceal that which Allah has bestowed upon them of His bounty.*63 And We have prepared for the disbelievers a humiliating punishment.

الَّذِينَ يَبْخُلُونَ وَيَأْمُرُونَ
النَّاسَ بِالْبُخْلِ
وَيَكْتُمُونَ مَا آتَاهُمُ اللَّهُ
مِنْ فَضْلِهِ ۗ وَأَعْتَدْنَا
لِلْكَافِرِينَ عَذَابًا مُّهِينًا

*63 “To conceal the bounty of Allah” is to live in a way as if Allah has not bestowed His bounty upon him. For instance, a rich person conceals Allah’s bounty, if he lives below his standard: neither spends money on his own person nor on the members of his family nor on the needy nor for any other good work. In short, his appearance would show him to be in very straitened circumstances. Obviously that is gross ingratitude to Allah.

A tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) says, “When Allah bestows His bounty on anyone, He likes that he should show it”. That is, he should live the life of a well-to-do person who spends money on food, dress, house, furniture, etc., according to his means, and also in the way of Allah in order to show the blessing on him.

38. And those who spend their wealth to be seen by the people, and do not believe in Allah, nor in

64 That is, the Prophet of every age will give evidence in the court of Allah, saying: “My Lord, I duly delivered Your message to my people and taught them the right way of life and the right mode of thought and practice which You taught me.” Last of all, the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) will give this same evidence regarding the people of his time. His time, according to the Quran extends from the time of his appointment as a Prophet till resurrection. (E.N. 69, Surah Aal-Imran).

42. That day, those who disbelieved and disobeyed the messenger will wish if the earth were leveled with them. And they will not (be able to) hide from Allah a single fact.

65 This is the second commandment about drinking. The first commandment (Surah Al-Baqarah: Ayat 219) was that drinking is an evil thing and Allah does not approve of it. Accordingly, some of the Muslims began to refrain from it from that time. The majority of them, however, did not give it up and often offered the Prayer in a state of intoxication and made blunders in their recitations. Probably, this second commandment came in the beginning of A.H. 4 and prohibited the offering of the Prayer while one was drunk. As a result they changed the timings of their drinking so as not to clash with the timings of the Prayers. Sometime after this, the commandment about total prohibition as contained in Surah Al-Maidah: Ayats 90-91 was revealed. Incidentally, the word sukr (state of intoxication) as used in the text also implies that this commandment prohibits not only drinking but every kind of intoxicant. Moreover, though every intoxicating thing is in itself unlawful, the offence of intoxication is doubled and becomes more heinous, when the Prayer is offered in such a state.

66 For the same reason, the Prophet (peace be upon him) has instructed that when one feels sleepy, and doses again and again during the Prayer, one should give up his Prayer and go to sleep.

Some people from this verse argue that the Prayer of a person who does not know the meaning of its Arabic text, is no Prayer at all. But apart from the fact that it is an unnecessary hardship, the Arabic words of the Quran do not support this version. The Quran does not say, “unless you understand its meaning” or “unless you understand what you are saying” but it says “unless you know what you are saying”. That is, one should be in his senses to know what he is uttering with his tongue lest he should recite, say, a poem, instead of the text of the Prayer.

67 The Arabic word janabat literally means being far off and being stranger. And the word ajnabi (stranger) is derived from the same root. In an Islamic term, it refers to that state of un-cleanliness and impurity that is caused by the emission of sperm during sexual intercourse or in sleep because this makes a person stranger to cleanliness.

68 A section of the jurists and commentators, such as Abdullah bin Masud, Anas bin Malik, Hasan Basri and Ibrahim Nakhai (may Allah be pleased with them) and others deduce from the words, “when traveling on the road”, that one should not enter a mosque in a state of un-cleanliness except when he has to pass through it for some urgent reason. Another section of them, such as Ali, Ibn Abbas, Said bin Jubair (may Allah be pleased with them) and some others conclude from this that if one becomes unclean when on a journey, he may cleanse himself by wiping his face and hands with pure dust provided water is not available. As regards to entering a mosque in such a state of un-cleanliness, the latter section is of the opinion that one may sit in the mosque after performing his ablutions (wudu). But there is almost a consensus of opinion that if he becomes unclean on a journey and water is not available for a bath, he may cleanse himself with pure dust and offer the Prayer. However, the former section derives this opinion from the traditions and the latter bases this concession on this part of verse 43.

69 There is a difference of opinion as to implication of “If you have touched women.” Ali, Ibn Abbas, Abu Musa Ashari, Ubaiyy Ibn Kaab, Saeed bin Jubair, Hasan Basri (may Allah be pleased with them) and several other jurists are of the opinion that here “have touched” means “have had sexual intercourse”. Imam Abu Hanifah and those of his way of thinking and Imam Sufyan Thauri have adopted the same interpretation. On the contrary, Hadrat Abdullah bin Masud and Abdullah bin Umar and, according to some traditions, Umar (may Allah be pleased with them) also are of the opinion that the word “touched” actually means “touching with the hand” and Imam Shafai has adopted this version. Some jurists, such as Imam Malik, have adopted a middle course and expressed the opinion that if the touch between a man and a woman is of sexual nature, they shall have to make fresh ablutions for the Prayer but if their bodies touch each other without any feeling of sensuality, there is nothing wrong in this.

70 If one has to perform ablutions or take a bath before offering his Salat and water is not available, he is allowed to resort to tayammum; or, if he is sick and there is a danger that the disease would worsen if he performs ablutions or takes a bath, he is allowed to resort to tayammum even if water is available.

Literally tayammum means “to turn to”; that is, one should turn to pure dust when water is not available, or if its use is harmful. There is a difference of opinion concerning the method of performing tayammum. The majority of the jurists, such as Imam Abu Hanifah, Imam Shafai and Imam Malik, prescribe that one should strike his hands on pure dust and wipe his face with them; then he should again strike his hands and wipe his hands up to the elbows with them. This method has been prescribed by some companions of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and their followers such as Ali, Abdullah bin Umar, Hasan Basri, Shabi and Salim bin Abdullah and others. But some jurists such as Ata, Mak-hul, Auzai and Ahmad bin Hanbal consider it enough to strike his hands only once on pure dust and wipe the face and the hands up to the wrists and not up to the elbows. The Ahl-i-Hadith in general follow this method.

For the performance of tayammum, it is not essential only to strike one’s hands on pure earth: any dusty thing or dry piece of earth suffices for this purpose. Some people object to this method of cleansing; they say, “How can one be cleansed by striking his hands on dust and wiping the face and hands up to the elbows with these? Let them look upon this method from the psychological point of view. Tayammum helps keep alive the feelings of cleansing and of the sanctity of the Prayer, even if one is not able to use water for a long time. Thus, a Muslim will always keep in view the rules of purity and cleanliness prescribed by the Islamic code and will scrupulously be mindful of his state of cleanliness and purity for the observance of the Prayer.

44. Have you not seen at those who were given a portion of the book,^{*71} purchasing error, and they wish that you should go astray from the (right) path.

وَيُرِيدُونَ أَنْ تَضِلُّوا السَّبِيلَ

71 About the scholars of the people of the Book the Quran at many places has used words to the effect: They have been given a portion of the knowledge of the scripture. These words have been used because the scholars had actually lost a portion of their scriptures and had become strangers to the spirit and the real aim and object of the portion left with them. The only interest they took, in these was confined to polemical controversies, minor details of commandments and philosophical subtleties of creed. That is why they were ignorant of the true nature of religion and were void of its essence, though they were called divines and Rabbis and were the acknowledge leaders of their community.

And Raina^{*76} (consider us, but by) distorting with their tongues and slandering in religion. And if they had said: “We hear (you O Muhammad) and we obey. And hear you (O Muhammad), and look at us,” it would have been better for them, and more upright. But Allah has cursed them for their disbelief, so they believe not, except a few.

اللَّهُ بِكُفْرِهِمْ فَلَا يُؤْمِنُونَ إِلَّا

قَلِيلًا

72 The words used are: “who become Jews” and not “who are Jews,” for originally they were “Muslims” just as the community of every Prophet is Muslim. Then afterwards they degenerated and became merely “Jews”.

73 They were guilty of perversion in three ways:

- (1) They effected changes in the words of the Scriptures.
- (2) They distorted the meanings of the text with false interpretations.
- (3) They would sit in the assemblies of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions and then make false reports of what they heard there to create mischief against them by distortion. They would thus spread misunderstandings about Islam and pervert people from joining the Islamic community.

74 That is, when the commandments of Allah are recited to them, they say, samiana (we have heard) aloud and asaina (we have rejected) in a low voice, or they pronounce the word atana (we have obeyed) with such a twist of the tongue that it sounds as asaina.

75 During their talk with the Prophet (peace be upon him), they would invite his attention, saying, ismaa (please listen to us), and would add ghaira musma, which has several meanings. This may mean: “You are such a respectable man that one cannot utter any word before you against your will.” It may also imply: “You are not worthy that one may speak to you.” Another meaning is: “May Allah make you deaf!”

76 Refer to E.N. 105, Surah Al-Baqarah.

47. 48. Indeed, Allah does not forgive that partners should be ascribed to Him.*79 And He forgives what is other than that, for whom He wills.*80 And whoever ascribes partners to Allah, he has indeed invented a tremendous sin.

إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يَغْفِرُ أَنْ يُشْرَكَ بِهِ
وَيَغْفِرُ مَا دُونَ ذَلِكَ لِمَنْ يَشَاءُ
وَمَنْ يُشْرِكْ بِاللَّهِ فَقَدْ افْتَرَى
إِثْمًا عَظِيمًا

*79 The people of the Book have been admonished for being guilty of shirk, though they professed to believe in the Prophets and the revealed Books.

*80 This does not mean that if someone refrains from shirk, he may freely indulge in other sins. This is merely to bring home to them the gravity of this heinous sin, which they regarded as a trivial thing. That is why the warning has been given that shirk is the most heinous of all sins, so much so that this is the only sin for which forgiveness is not possible.

The Jewish Rabbis were very particular in the observance of minor laws; nay, they spent most of their time in measuring and weighing those regulations which were not explicitly mentioned in their Scriptures but were derived from them. On the contrary, they regarded shirk as a trivial matter. They were not only themselves involved in it but they did not try to save their community from shirk and acts of shirk. Accordingly, they did not consider that there was anything wrong in entering into alliance with mushrik communities and helping them.

49. Have you not seen at those who claim themselves pure. Nay, but Allah purifies whom He wills, and they will not be wronged (as much as) the husk on a date-stone.

أَلَمْ تَرَ إِلَى الَّذِينَ يُزَكُّونَ أَنفُسَهُمْ
بَلِ اللَّهُ يُزَكِّي مَن يَشَاءُ وَلَا
يُظْلَمُونَ فَتِيلًا

50. See, how they invent a lie against Allah. And enough is that as a manifest sin.

أَنْظُرْ كَيْفَ يَفْتَرُونَ عَلَى اللَّهِ
الْكَذِبَ وَكَفَى بِهِ إِثْمًا مُّبِينًا

51. Have you not seen at those who were given a portion of the Scripture, they believe in superstitions^{*81} and false deities.^{*82} And they say about those (idolaters) who disbelieve that they are better guided than those who believe in the (right) way.^{*83}

أَلَمْ تَرَ إِلَى الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا نَصِيبًا
مِّنَ الْكِتَابِ يُؤْمِنُونَ بِالْجِبْتِ
وَالطَّغُوتِ وَيَقُولُونَ لِلَّذِينَ
كَفَرُوا هَتُّوْلَاءِ أَهْدَى مِنَ الَّذِينَ
ءَامَنُوا سَبِيلًا

*81 Literally, jibt means an unreal, baseless and useless thing. In the Islamic terminology, sorcery, magic, divination, omen-taking and the like superstitious practices are called jibt. A tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) says, "Taking omens from the sounds of the birds and the footmarks of the animals and all other methods of divination are jibt." Thus jibt is the equivalent of superstition.

*82 Refer to E.Ns 286 and 288, Surah Al-Baqarah.

*83 The Jewish Rabbis had gone so low in their opposition to Islam that they regarded the followers of the Prophet (peace be upon him) as more misguided than even the Arab Mushriks, and declared the latter to be more rightly guided though it was quite obvious to them that on one side there was the worship of One God without any tinge of shirk, and on the other, idolatry which had been thoroughly condemned in the Bible.

52. Those are the ones whom Allah has cursed. And he whom Allah curses, you will then never find for him any helper.

أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ لَعَنَهُمُ اللَّهُ وَمَنْ يَلْعَنِ اللَّهُ فَلَنْ تَجِدَ لَهُ نَصِيرًا

53. Or for them is a share in the dominion (of Allah). Then (had that been so), they would not even give mankind the speck on a date-stone. *84

أَمْ لَهُمْ نَصِيبٌ مِّنَ الْمُلْكِ فَإِذَا لَا يُؤْتُونَ النَّاسَ نَقِيرًا

*84 That is, do they possess any portion of divine authority that they are sitting in judgment on the case to decide who is rightly guided and who is not? Had they any part in it, they would never have given a farthing to anyone else because they are so narrow minded that they are not even ready to acknowledge the truth.

It may also imply: Do they possess the kingdom of a country from which others are demanding a share, and they are finding it hard to part with it? What is being demanded of them is merely the acknowledgment of the truth, and this they are refusing on account of jealousy.

54. Or do they envy mankind for what Allah has given them of His bounty.*⁸⁵ Then indeed, We bestowed upon the family of Abraham the Book and wisdom, and We bestowed upon them a great kingdom.*⁸⁶

أَمْ يَحْسُدُونَ النَّاسَ عَلَىٰ مَا
ءَاتَاهُمُ اللَّهُ مِنْ فَضْلِهِ ۖ فَقَدْ
ءَاتَيْنَا آلَ إِبْرَاهِيمَ الْكِتَابَ
وَالْحِكْمَةَ ۖ وَءَاتَيْنَاهُمْ
مُلْكًا عَظِيمًا

*⁸⁵ Here they are being rebuked for showing jealousy against the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers because they were blessed with Allah's bounty (prophethood) for which they were themselves looking forward in spite of being unworthy of it. Instead of showing regret for their own unworthiness which caused the loss of the bounty, they were showing resentment against the Prophet (peace be upon him) who had by His bounty brought about the greatest spiritual, moral and intellectual revolution in Arabia with its resulting leadership and greatness. It was their jealousy that was urging them to side with the mushrik, and to criticize the Muslims.

86 Mulkan-azima refers to the leadership and guidance of the world and to the superiority over other nations that is gained by putting into practice the knowledge and wisdom of the divine Book.

55. Then among them were some who believed in it, and among them were some who turned away from it.^{*87} And sufficient is Hell for (their) burning.

فَمِنْهُمْ مَنْ ءَامَنَ بِهِۦ وَمِنْهُمْ مَنْ
صَدَّ عَنْهُ^ج وَكَفَىٰ نَجْهَمَ سَعِيرًا

87 It must be kept in mind that this is the answer to the jealous talk of the children of Israel. It implies this: Why do you feel jealous of the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and his followers? You are the descendants of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) and so are the children of Ishmael (peace be upon him) his descendants. We promised the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) that We would bestow leadership of the world upon those of his descendants who would follow the Book and the wisdom sent down by Us. First, We sent down the Book and the wisdom to you, one chain of his descendants, but you proved incapable of this. Now We have sent down the same to the children of Ishmael (peace be upon him), the other chain of Abraham's (peace be upon him) descendants. They have accepted it, believed in it and followed it practically. Now answer for yourselves whether you have any ground of jealousy and resentment against the children of Ishmael (peace be upon him).

56. Indeed, those who disbelieve in Our revelations, We shall drive them into the Fire. As often as their skins are burnt out, We shall change them with other skins, that they may taste the punishment. Indeed, Allah is ever All Mighty, All Wise.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا بِآيَاتِنَا سَوْفَ نُصَلِّيهِمْ نَارًا كَلَّمَا نَضِجَتْ جُلُودُهُمْ بَدَّلْنَاهُمْ جُلُودًا غَيْرَهَا لِيَذُوقُوا الْعَذَابَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ عَزِيزًا حَكِيمًا ﴿٥٦﴾

57. And those who believe and do righteous deeds, We shall admit them to Gardens underneath which rivers flow, abiding therein forever. For them therein are pure companions, and We shall admit them into plenteous shade.

وَالَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا الصَّالِحَاتِ سَنُدْخِلُهُمْ جَنَّاتٍ تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا أَبَدًا لَهُمْ فِيهَا أَزْوَاجٌ مُطَهَّرَةٌ وَنُدْخِلُهُمْ ظِلًّا ظَلِيلًا ﴿٥٧﴾

58. Indeed, Allah commands you that you render back the trusts to their owners, and when you judge between mankind, that you judge with justice.*⁸⁸ Indeed, excellent is that Allah admonishes you with. Truly, Allah is ever All Hearer,

﴿٥٨﴾ إِنَّ اللَّهَ يَأْمُرُكُمْ أَنْ تُؤَدُّوا الْأَمَانَاتِ إِلَىٰ أَهْلِهَا وَإِذَا حَكَمْتُمْ بَيْنَ النَّاسِ أَنْ تَحْكُمُوا بِالْعَدْلِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ نِعِمَّا يَعِظُكُمْ بِهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ سَمِيعًا بَصِيرًا ﴿٥٨﴾

88 Here the Muslims have been fore-warned that they should avoid those evils in which the children of Israel were involved. Their basic error was that during their degeneration they entrusted the positions of trust to incompetent people. They began to entrust positions of responsibility and religious and political leadership to inefficient, narrow minded, immoral, dishonest and wicked people. As a result, the whole community became corrupt. The Muslims are being cautioned against this evil and enjoined to entrust positions of responsibility to qualified and competent people of good moral character.

Another evil that was prevalent among the Jews was injustice. They had lost the very sense and spirit of justice and become utterly unjust, openly dishonest, and sinfully obdurate and would commit acts of gross injustice without any pangs of conscience. The Muslims were personally having a bitter experience of this. The Jews were siding with the idolatrous Quraish against the believers in one God though the lives of the two clearly showed who was more rightly guided. On the one side, they saw the pure lives of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers; on the other, they witnessed the immoral lives of their enemies, who buried their daughters alive, married their step mothers and went round the Kabah in naked state. Still, these people of the Book preferred the idolatrous people over the believers and brazen-facedly declared that the former were more rightly guided than the latter. Allah warns the believers against this sort of injustice and enjoins them always to say what is just and right and judge between the people with justice whether they be friends or foes.

59. O those who believe, obey Allah, and obey the messenger (Muhammad), and those who are in authority among you. Then if you have a dispute concerning any matter, refer it to Allah and the messenger*⁸⁹ if you are believers in Allah and the Last Day. That is better and more commendable in the end.*⁹⁰

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا أَطِيعُوا اللَّهَ
وَأَطِيعُوا الرَّسُولَ وَأُولِيَ الْأَمْرِ
مِنْكُمْ فَإِن تَنَزَعْتُمْ فِي شَيْءٍ
فَرُدُّوهُ إِلَى اللَّهِ وَالرَّسُولِ إِن كُنتُمْ
تُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ
ذَٰلِكَ خَيْرٌ وَأَحْسَنُ تَأْوِيلًا

89 This verse is the basis of the entire religious, cultural and political system of Islam and is the first and foremost article of the constitution of an Islamic State. It lays down permanently the following fundamental principles:

(1) In the Islamic system, Allah is the real Authority who must be obeyed. A Muslim is first of all the servant of Allah; all his other capacities come after that. Therefore, a Muslim as an individual and the Muslims as a community owe their first loyalty to Allah and they must subordinate all other loyalties to this. Allegiance and obedience to anyone else shall be acknowledged only if these are not opposed to the allegiance and obedience to Allah but are subordinate to it. All other allegiances that are opposed to this basic allegiance shall be broken asunder. The Prophet (peace be upon him) has explained the same thing in a tradition: “There is no obedience to any of His creatures in what involves disobedience to the Creator.”

(2) The second fundamental principle of the Islamic system is allegiance and obedience to the Prophet (peace be upon him). This obedience is not inherent in prophethood but is only practical shape of obedience to Allah. A Messenger is to be obeyed because he is the authentic means through which we can receive commandments and instructions from Allah. Hence, we can obey Allah only by obeying His Messenger, for no other way of obedience is genuine. As a corollary of this, the breach of allegiance to the Messenger shall be a rebellion against the Sovereign, whom he represents. A tradition explains the same thing thus: “Whoever obeys me, obeys Allah and whoever disobeys me, disobeys Allah.” The same thing has also been explicitly stated in Ayat 80 of this Surah.

(3) After the first and the second allegiance, and subordinate to these, the Muslims owe allegiance to those invested with authority from among their own selves. The Arabic word ulil amr is very comprehensive, which comprises all those persons who are in any way at the helm of the affairs of the Muslims religious scholars, thinkers, political leaders, administrators, judges of law courts, tribal chiefs and the like. In short, all those, who are in any way invested with authority from among the Muslims, are to be obeyed, and it is not right to disturb the peace of the community life of the Muslims by entering into conflict with them, provided that:

(a) They are from among the Muslims.

(b) They are obedient to Allah and His Messenger.

These two conditions are a pre-requisite for obedience to them, and these have been explicitly laid down in the verse and have also been fully explained by the Prophet (peace be upon him). In support of this some traditions are cited below:

(a) It is obligatory on a Muslim to listen to and obey orders of those invested with authority, whether he likes it or dislikes it, provided that it is not sinful. However, if he is ordered to do a sinful thing, he should neither listen to the rulers nor obey their orders. (Bukhari, Muslim).

(b) Obedience to anyone in a sinful thing is forbidden. Obedience is obligatory only in what is right. (Bukhari, Muslim).

(c) The Prophet (peace be upon him) said; There will be rulers over you who will practice right things as well as wrong things: (In such a case) whoever protests against the wrong things, shall be absolved from the responsibility and whoever dislikes the wrong things, also shall escape (punishment). But whoever approves of and follows them, shall incur punishment. The companions asked; Should we then not fight against such rulers? The Prophet (peace be upon him) answered; No, as long as they offer the Salat. (Muslim). That is, if they discard the Salat, it will be a clear proof of their disobedience to Allah and His Messenger. Then it will be right to rise against them.

(d) The Prophet (peace be upon him) said; Your worst rulers are those whom you hate and who hate you, whom you curse and who curse you. The companions asked; O Messenger of God, should we not rise against such rulers? The Prophet (peace be upon him) answered; No, as long as they establish the Salat among you. (Muslim).

In this tradition, the condition about the Salat laid down in the preceding one, has been made more explicit. One might have inferred from (c) that if they offered the Salat in their individual capacities, no rising should be organized against them. But Tradition (d) explicitly lays down that the condition for obedience to those in authority is the establishment of the system of Salat by them in the Muslim community. The rulers should not only themselves offer the Salat regularly, but they should also establish the Salat in the system of government run by them. This is the minimum condition that makes a government Islamic in principle. If a government lacks this, it will mean that such a government has discarded Islam, and the Muslims will be justified in overthrowing it. This same thing has also been stated in another tradition thus: The Prophet (peace be upon him) took a covenant from us regarding certain things. One of these was that we would not engage in a dispute with those invested with authority unless we saw in them clear signs of disbelief, which may provide us with a cogent reason to present before Allah. (Bukhari, Muslim).

(4) The fourth thing that has been laid down as an absolute and permanent principle is that the commandments of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger (peace be upon him) are the fundamentals of law and final authority in the Islamic system. Hence, if a dispute arises about any matter between the Muslims or between the rulers and the ruled, they should turn to the Quran and the Sunnah for a decision and they should all submit to the decision. Thus, the essential element in the Islamic system that distinguishes it from un-Islamic systems is to acknowledge the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger (peace be upon him) as the final authority and to turn to these and to submit to their decisions in all problems of life. Any system void of this is most surely an un-Islamic system.

Some people doubt the soundness of this principle. They say that it fails in practical life for the simple reason that there are many aspects of life (e.g., Tax department. Railroad department, Postal department, etc. etc.) for which there are no rules and regulations at all in the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger. How can then they find the solution of the problems they meet with in such aspects of life as concerned to such departments? This doubt arises because they do not understand the fundamental principles of Islam. Islam allows freedom of action in all those things about which the Book of Allah and the Sunnah of His Messenger are silent. What distinguishes a Muslim from a non-Muslim is that the latter claims absolute freedom, while the former considers to be the servant of Allah and uses only that amount of freedom which Islam allows him. The non-Muslim judges all matters in accordance with the rules and regulations made by himself and does not believe that he stands in need of divine guidance. In contrast to him, the Muslim, first of all, turns to Allah and His Messenger for guidance about everything and abides by their decision. But if he does not find any commandment therein about a certain thing, only then he is free to act in a manner he considers to be right. The very fact that the law is silent about a certain thing, is a proof that it allows freedom of action in that particular matter.

90 In the first part of this verse, the Quran enunciates the four fundamental principles of the Islamic constitution, and in the second part teaches the wisdom that underlies them. The Muslims have been enjoined to follow the four fundamental principles if they are true believers, otherwise their profession of Islam will become doubtful. Then they have been taught to build their system of life on these because therein also lies their well being. For, this alone can keep them on the right path in this world and lead them to a happy life in the Hereafter.

It should also be noted that this piece of advice follows the critical review of the moral and religious condition of the Jews and warns the Muslims in a subtle manner to learn a lesson from their deplorable condition. It says that whenever a community flings the Book of Allah and the guidance of His Messenger behind its back and follows such leaders as are disobedient to Allah and His Messenger, and blindly obeys its rulers and religious leaders without demanding from them the authority of the Book and the Sunnah, it can never escape those evils in which the children of Israel were involved.

60. Have you not seen at those (hypocrites) who claim that they believe in that which has been sent down to you, and that which was sent down before you. They wish that they go for judgment (in their disputes) to satanic authorities, while they have been ordered that they reject them.^{*91} And Satan wishes to lead them astray, a far away misleading.

أَلَمْ تَرَ إِلَى الَّذِينَ يَزْعُمُونَ
أَنَّهُمْ ءَامَنُوا بِمَا نُزِّلَ إِلَيْكَ وَمَا
أُنزِلَ مِنْ قَبْلِكَ يُرِيدُونَ أَنْ
يَتَحَاكَمُوا إِلَى الطَّاغُوتِ وَقَدْ
أُمِرُوا أَنْ يَكْفُرُوا بِهِ وَيُرِيدُ
الشَّيْطَانُ أَنْ يُضِلَّهُمْ ضَلَالًا
بَعِيدًا

91 In this verse, taghut clearly stands for the authority that makes decisions in accordance with laws other than divine, and the system of judiciary which acknowledges neither Allah as the Supreme Sovereign nor His Book as the final authority. Hence, this verse explains that it is contrary to faith to take one's case for decision to a law court which by its nature is that of taghut. Belief in Allah and His Book makes it obligatory on the believer that he should refuse to acknowledge such a court as lawful. According to the Quran, belief in Allah and disbelief in taghut are correlatives; therefore to acknowledge both at one and the same time is nothing but hypocrisy itself.

61. And when it is said to them: "Come to what Allah has sent down and to the وَإِذَا قِيلَ لَهُمْ تَعَالَوْا إِلَىٰ مَا أَنْزَلَ messenger (Muhammad),” you see the hypocrites turning away from you in aversion.*92

اللَّهُ وَإِلَى الرَّسُولِ رَأَيْتَ
الْمُنَافِقِينَ يَصُدُّونَ عَنْكَ

صُدُّودًا ﴿٦١﴾

*92 This shows that the hypocrites used to bring only such cases before the Prophet (peace be upon him) as were likely to be decided in their favor, but would refrain from bringing such cases, which they feared, would be decided against them. The same is true of many hypocrites of today. They are ever ready to submit to the decisions of the Islamic law if and whenever it goes in their favor, otherwise they resort to any law, any custom, and any law court which, they expect, will ensure their interests.

62. So how (would it be) when a catastrophe befalls them because of what their own hands have sent forth.
Then they would come to you, swearing by Allah:*93
“We intended nothing except goodwill and conciliation.”

فَكَيْفَ إِذَا أَصَابَتْهُمُ مُصِيبَةٌ بِمَا
قَدَّمَتْ أَيْدِيهِمْ ثُمَّ جَاءُوكَ
يَحْلِفُونَ بِاللَّهِ إِنْ أَرَدْنَا إِلَّا
إِحْسَانًا وَتَوْفِيقًا ﴿٦٢﴾

*93 Probably it means that when their hypocritical deeds are exposed and they fear that action will be taken against them; they take oaths to assure the believers of their innocence.

63. Those are the ones whom Allah knows

أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ يَعْلَمُ اللَّهُ مَا فِي

what is in their hearts. So turn aside from them, and admonish them, and speak to them a word to reach to their very souls.

قُلُوبِهِمْ فَأَعْرِضْ عَنْهُمْ وَعِظْهُمْ وَقُلْ لَهُمْ فِي أَنْفُسِهِمْ قَوْلًا
بَلِيغًا

64. And We did not send any messenger except that he should be obeyed by Allah's permission.*94 And if indeed, when they had wronged themselves, they had come to you and asked forgiveness of Allah, and the messenger had asked forgiveness for them, they would have found Allah All Forgiving, Most Merciful.

وَمَا أَرْسَلْنَا مِنْ رَسُولٍ إِلَّا
لِيُطَاعَ بِإِذْنِ اللَّهِ وَلَوْ أَنَّهُمْ
إِذْ ظَلَمُوا أَنْفُسَهُمْ جَاءُوكَ
فَاسْتَغْفَرُوا اللَّهَ وَاسْتَغْفَرَ لَهُمُ
الرَّسُولُ لَوَجَدُوا اللَّهَ تَوَّابًا
رَحِيمًا

94 It clearly defines the position of the Messenger. The Messenger does not come from Allah so that the people should simply acknowledge him as a Messenger and then continue to obey anyone they like. The Messenger is sent with the sole object that only the code of life brought by him should be followed instead of all other codes, and the commandments brought by him from Allah should only be obeyed instead of all other commandments. If anyone does not acknowledge the Messenger in this sense, his acknowledging him merely as a Messenger would be meaningless.

65. But nay, by your Lord, they will not (truly) believe until they make you (O Muhammad) judge of what is in dispute among themselves, then find within themselves no discomfort from what you have judged, and submit with full submission.*95

فَلَا وَرَبِّكَ لَا يُؤْمِنُونَ حَتَّىٰ
يُحْكَمُونَكَ فِيمَا شَجَرَ بَيْنَهُمْ ثُمَّ
لَا يَجِدُوا فِي أَنْفُسِهِمْ حَرَجًا مِّمَّا
قَضَيْتَ وَيُسَلِّمُوا تَسْلِيمًا

95 The commandment contained in verse 65 was not meant to be confined to the lifetime of the Prophet (peace be upon him), but it was to hold good up to the Last Day. Whatever the Prophet (peace be upon him) brought from Allah and whatever way of life he followed and practiced under His guidance and inspiration, shall remain the final authority among Muslims forever and the acknowledgment of that authority alone determines whether one is a true Muslim or not. According to a tradition, the Prophet (peace be upon him) said: “None of you can claim to be a believer unless he subordinates his desires and interests to the way that I have brought.”

66. And if We had decreed upon them that: “Kill yourselves or move out of your homes,”*96 they would not have done it, except a few of them. And if they had done what they were instructed with,

وَلَوْ أَنَّا كَتَبْنَا عَلَيْهِمْ أَنْ اقْتُلُوا
أَنْفُسَكُمْ أَوْ أُخْرِجُوا مِنْ دِيَارِكُمْ
مَا فَعَلُوهُ إِلَّا قَلِيلٌ مِنْهُمْ وَلَوْ أَنَّهُمْ فَعَلُوا مَا يُوعَظُونَ بِهِ

it would have been better for them, and a firmer strengthening (in their faith).^{*97}

لَكَانَ خَيْرًا لَهُمْ وَأَشَدَّ تَثْبِيثًا

96 In verse 65, they have been admonished to submit gracefully and sincerely to the way of life brought by the Prophet (peace be upon him) and to subordinate their desires and interests to his decision. In this verse they have been warned that if they cannot sacrifice even their small interests in following the Islamic law, they can never be expected to make any bigger sacrifice. If they were asked to sacrifice their lives or leave their homes in the way of God, they would then discard totally the way of faith and obedience and follow the ways of disbelief and disobedience instead.

97 That is, if they had given up doubt, hesitation and indecision and obeyed and followed the Messenger without any mental reservation, their position would have become firm and stable and their thoughts, their morals and their affairs would have secured a strong and permanent foundation. In short, they would have enjoyed all those blessings that are obtained by following steadfastly a straight royal road. On the contrary, the one who wavers in indecision and irresolution, and sometimes takes one road and then another, without faith in either, his whole life passes without any achievement and becomes an object lesson of failure.

67. And then We would certainly have bestowed

وَإِذَا لَأَتَيْنَهُمْ مِّن لَّدُنَّا أَجْرًا upon them from Us a great reward.

عَظِيمًا
٦٧

68. And We would have certainly guided them to a straight path.*98

وَلَهَدَيْنَهُمْ صِرَاطًا مُسْتَقِيمًا

٦٨

*98 That is, if they had resolved to obey the Messenger (peace be upon him) sincerely without harboring any doubts in their minds, the right way of life would have become very clear to them by the grace of Allah, and they would have clearly seen as to how they should employ their energy and effort so as to get further and further close to their real goal in life.

69. And whoever obeys
Allah and the messenger, then they will be with those upon whom Allah has bestowed favor, of the prophets, and those steadfast in truthfulness, and the martyrs, and the righteous.*99 And how excellent are these as companions.*100

وَمَنْ يُطِيعِ اللَّهَ وَالرَّسُولَ
فَأُولَٰئِكَ مَعَ الَّذِينَ أَنْعَمَ اللَّهُ
عَلَيْهِمْ مِنَ النَّبِيِّينَ وَالصَّادِقِينَ
وَالشُّهَدَاءِ وَالصَّالِحِينَ وَحَسُنَ
أُولَٰئِكَ رَفِيقًا
٦٩

*99 Siddiq is one who is upright and just: who is always actuated by truth and righteousness; who is fair and equitable in all his dealings; who always sides with truth and justice from the core of his heart; who opposes tooth and nail all that is unfair, without showing the least weakness; who is so pure and so unselfish that both friends and foes expect nothing but impartiality from him.

The literal meaning of shahid is “a witness”. It implies the one who bears witness to the truth of his faith by following it in all aspects of his life. A martyr also is a shahid because he willingly suffers death by fighting in the cause of Allah. By sacrificing his life for the cause he believes to be true, he gives a practical demonstration of the sincerity of his faith. Those righteous people who are so trustworthy that their mere evidence for anything to be true is a sufficient proof of its genuineness are also shahid.

Salih is one who is upright in his beliefs, intentions, words and actions and adopts the right attitude in every aspect of life.

*100 That is, undoubtedly the person who enjoys the company of such people in this world and rises with them in the Hereafter is really very fortunate. Unless one’s feelings are totally deadened, he is bound to feel that the company of evil and immoral people is a painful torment, even in this world.

70. Such is the bounty from Allah, and sufficient is Allah as All Knower.

ذَلِكَ الْفَضْلُ مِنَ اللَّهِ
وَكَفَى بِاللَّهِ عَلِيمًا

71. O those who believe, take your precautions,^{*101} then go forth (on an expedition) in parties, or go forth all together.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا خُذُوا
حِذْرَكُمْ فَانفِرُوا ثُبَاتٍ أَوْ
انْفِرُوا جَمِيعًا

101 It should be noted that this verse was revealed at the time when the neighboring tribes had been emboldened by the defeat of the Muslims at the battle of Uhd. They were surrounded by danger on all sides and were hearing persistent rumors about the active hostilities of, and imminent attacks from, different quarters. There were cases of treachery also. The Muslim missionaries were invited cunningly to the outskirts of Al-Madinah. These circumstances urgently required that the Muslims should struggle hard to save the Islamic movement from failure and destruction in the face of such overwhelming threats.

72. And indeed, there is among you he who lingers behind, ^{*102} then if a disaster befalls you, he says: “Indeed, Allah has been gracious to me in that I was not present with them.”

وَإِنَّ مِنْكُمْ لَمَنْ لَّيَبْطِئَنَّ فَإِنْ
أَصَابَتْكُمْ مُصِيبَةٌ قَالُوا قَدْ أَنْعَمَ
اللَّهُ عَلَيَّ إِذْ لَمْ أَكُنْ مَعَهُمْ
شَهِيدًا

102 The other meanings are that not only he himself shows lack of courage to face danger but also discourages and dissuades others from jihad.

73. And if a bounty comes to you from Allah, he would surely say, as if there had never been between you and him any affection: “Oh, I wish that I had been with وَلَيْنَ أَصَابَكُمْ فَضْلٌ مِّنَ اللَّهِ

وَبَيْنَهُ مَوَدَّةٌ يَلْبِئْتَنِي كُنْتُ مَعَهُمْ them, then would I have achieved a great success.”

فَأَفُوزَ فَوْزًا عَظِيمًا ﴿٧٣﴾

74. So let them fight in the cause of Allah, those who sell the life of this world for the Hereafter.*103

And whoever fights in the cause of Allah, and is killed or gets victory, then We shall bestow upon him a great reward.

﴿٧٤﴾ فَلَیُقَاتِلَ فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ الَّذِينَ يَشْرُونَ الدُّنْيَا بِالْآخِرَةِ وَمَنْ يُقَاتِلْ فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ فَيُقْتَلْ أَوْ يَغْلِبْ فَسَوْفَ نُؤْتِيهِ أَجْرًا عَظِيمًا ﴿٧٤﴾

103 That is, let them clearly understand that those people, who hanker after worldly benefits only, are not fit to fight in the way of Allah. On the contrary, only those people are worthy of fighting in the way of Allah who have no other desire or object than to please Him and who have perfect belief in Allah and the Hereafter and are, therefore, ready to sacrifice all interests and all chances of prosperity and enjoyment in this world for the sake of pleasing their Lord. They sincerely believe that their sacrifices will not go in vain in the Hereafter, even if they might not have been successful in this life. Thus it is obvious that those who attach real importance only to their worldly interests cannot tread the path of Allah.

75. And what is (the matter) with you that you do not fight in the cause of Allah, and those weak among men, and the women, and the children who say: “Our Lord, take us out from this town, the people of which are oppressors. And appoint for us from Yourself a protecting friend. And appoint for us from Yourself a helper.”^{*104}

وَمَا لَكُمْ لَا تُقَاتِلُونَ فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ وَالْمُسْتَضْعَفِينَ مِنَ

الرِّجَالِ وَالنِّسَاءِ وَالْوِلْدَانَ الَّذِينَ
يَقُولُونَ رَبَّنَا أَخْرِجْنَا مِنْ هَذِهِ
الْقَرْيَةِ الظَّالِمِ أَهْلُهَا وَاجْعَلْ
لَنَا مِنْ لَدُنْكَ وَلِيًّا وَاجْعَلْ لَنَا
مِنْ لَدُنْكَ نَصِيرًا

104 This was the cry of the poor and helpless children, men and women who had accepted Islam at Makkah and at other places but had no means of migrating to Al-Madinah, or defending themselves from persecution. They were being persecuted and oppressed in all sorts of manners and were invoking the help of Allah to deliver them from that horrible state.

76. Those who believe, they fight in the cause of Allah, and those who disbelieve, they fight in the cause of evil ones.^{*105} So fight against the friends of Satan. Indeed, the plot of Satan is ever weak.^{*106}

الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا يُقَاتِلُونَ فِي سَبِيلِ
اللَّهِ وَالَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا يُقَاتِلُونَ فِي

الشَّيْطَانِ إِنَّ كَيْدَ الشَّيْطَانِ
كَانَ ضَعِيفًا

105 In the sight of Allah, there are two distinct parties of fighters. One party is that of the believers who fight for the cause of Allah in order to establish his way on His earth, and every sincere believer is bound to perform this duty. The other party is that of unbelievers who fight in the way of taghut so as to establish the rule of the rebels against Allah on His earth and no believer would side with them in this evil work.

106 The believers have been assured that they should not be cowed and terrified by the apparent grand preparations and evil designs of Satan and his companions because ultimately they are bound to fail.

77. Have you not seen at those to whom it was said: “Withhold your hands, and establish prayer, and pay the poor due,” Then when fighting was ordained for them, behold, a party of them feared men as they feared Allah, or even greater fear. ^{*107} And they say: “Our Lord, why have You ordained upon us fighting. Why did You not grant us respite for a short period.” Say: “The enjoyment of this world is little. And the Hereafter is better for him who fears (Allah). And you will not be wronged (even as

تُظَلَمُونَ فِتْيَالاً

*107 This verse has three meanings, and all three are equally correct.

First, it means that those very people who were then showing cowardice were very impatient to fight before permission was given for this. They would repeat the tales of their persecution and oppression and say, “Give us permission to fight, for we have no more patience left to bear these wrongs.” At that time when they were advised to be patient for the time being and to purify themselves by means of Salat and Zakat, they would resent such pieces of advice. But when the command to fight was given, some of those very people began to show cowardice when they confronted the enemy armies and the dangers of war.

The second meaning is that those people were very religious as long as such harmless demands as the offering of Salat and the payment of Zakat were made; but no sooner the demand to fight in the way of Allah was made, they were filled with terror and fear for their lives, and they forgot all about their religiosity.

The third meaning is that during the pre-Islamic period, they were ready to fight for the sake of the spoils or for the gratification of their whims, and were engaged day and night in war. That is why, after embracing Islam, they were enjoined to desist a while from fighting and to reform their souls by means of the Salat and Zakat. But when they were enjoined to fight in the way of Allah, the same people who showed reckless bravery in fighting for the sake of false pride were showing timidity.

The above mentioned three meanings apply to the three different categories of people and the words of the Arabic text are so comprehensive that they fit equally into all the three cases.

108 That is, you need not worry about your reward from Allah for the service you render to His cause. If you exert your utmost in His way, Allah will not let your work go waste.

78. Wherever you may be, death will overtake you, even if you are in lofty towers. And if some good reaches them, they say: "This is from Allah." And if an evil befalls them, they say: "This is because of you (Muhammad)." 109 Say: All (things) are from Allah." So what is (the matter) with these people that they do not seem to understand a word.

أَيْنَمَا تَكُونُوا يُدْرِكُكُمُ الْمَوْتُ

109 They have been admonished for their attitude towards the Prophet (peace be upon him). When there was success and victory, they would attribute it to Allah's grace and forgot that Allah had blessed them with grace through him. But when they suffered a defeat or had a setback because of their own errors and weaknesses, they would lay the whole blame on the Prophet (peace be upon him), and would absolve themselves from all responsibility.

79. Whatever of good reaches you is from Allah, and whatever of evil befalls you is from yourself. And We have sent you (Muhammad) as a messenger to mankind. And sufficient is Allah as a witness.

مَا أَصَابَكَ مِنْ حَسَنَةٍ فَمِنَ اللَّهِ

مَنْ يُطِيعِ الرَّسُولَ فَقَدْ أَطَاعَ

110 That is, they themselves are responsible for their deeds and you will not be answerable for them. What you have been entrusted with, is to convey to them the commandments and instructions from God. And you have done that admirably well. Now it is not your obligation to force them to adopt the right way, and if they do not follow the guidance they are receiving through you, you shall not be held responsible for their disobedience.

81. And they say: “(we pledge) obedience,” then when they have gone forth from you, a party of them

وَيَقُولُونَ طَاعَةٌ فَإِذَا بَرَزُوا
مِنْ عِنْدِكَ بَيَّتَ طَائِفَةٌ مِّنْهُمْ spends the night in planning other than what you say. And Allah records what they plan by night. So turn aside from them, and put your trust in Allah. And sufficient is Allah as a Trustee.

وَكِيلًا

82. Do they not then reflect upon the Quran. And if it had been from other than Allah, they would have found therein much contradictions.*111

أَفَلَا يَتَدَبَّرُونَ الْقُرْآنَ وَلَوْ كَانَ
مِنْ عِنْدِ غَيْرِ اللَّهِ لَوَجَدُوا فِيهِ
أَخْتِلَافًا كَثِيرًا

111 The main cause of the wrong attitude of the hypocrites and the people of weak faith, who had been warned in the foregoing verses, was that they had doubts that the Quran was from Allah. They could not believe that it was being sent down by Allah to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and that the commandments contained in it were directly coming from Him. That is why they are being admonished to consider the Quran by giving close attention to it, and to verify whether their doubts are genuine and whether it is from Allah or not. The Quran itself bears witness to the truth that it is from none other than Allah. For no one else, however wise and intelligent he might be, could have gone on delivering addresses under different circumstances, about variant topics, so as to form a connected, balanced and coherent Book at the end of twenty three years. And that too, without showing any contradiction whatever from the beginning to the end, and without arising any need to revise or make any change in it.

83. And when there comes to them some matter (news) of safety or fear, they spread it. And if they had referred it to the messenger, and to those of authority among them. So those who are competent to investigate it would have come to know about it (directly) from them.^{*112} And if it was not for the grace of Allah upon you, and His mercy, you would have followed Satan, except a few.

112 During the period of excitement, rumors were on the air from many quarters. Sometimes baseless and exaggerated reports were received that caused alarm in Al-Madinah and its outskirts. Then some cunning enemy would send news that all was quiet in the enemy camp, merely to conceal some impending danger and to keep the Muslims off their guard. Only those people who loved excitement, took keen interest in such rumors. They did not take the conflict between Islam and un-Islam to be a serious matter, and did not realize the grave consequences of indulging in such baseless rumors. Whenever they heard any rumor, they would spread it from place to place, without considering the great harm their pastime was causing.

In this verse, such people have been warned of the gravity of their offense and strictly admonished to refrain from spreading rumors. They have been told to report any news they heard to the responsible people and then keep silent about it.

84. So fight (O Muhammad) in the cause of Allah. You are not held responsible except for yourself, and encourage the believers. It may be that Allah will restrain the might of those who disbelieve. And Allah is stronger in might and stronger in inflicting punishment.

113 Different people behave differently and with different results. Some urge on others to exert themselves for the cause of Allah and to exalt His word and they get its reward. There are others who spread misunderstandings among the people about Allah's cause, discourage the Muslims and try to dissuade them from exalting the word of Allah and thus incur punishment.

86. And when you are greeted with a greeting, greet you with a better than it or return it.*114 Indeed, Allah is Account Taker of all things.

وَإِذَا حُيِّتُمْ بِتَحِيَّةٍ فَحَيُّوا
بِأَحْسَنَ مِنْهَا أَوْ رُدُّوهَا إِنَّ اللَّهَ
كَانَ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ حَسِيبًا

*114 The Muslims were specially exhorted to be very civil and polite to the non-Muslims because at that time their relations were strained on account of the conflict between them. In that state of tension, they were forewarned to be on their guard against incivility and impoliteness. They were, therefore, taught to be equally civil and polite to them when they greeted them respectfully. Nay, they should be even more civil and polite than their opponents.

Harsh behavior and harsh words do no good to anyone but they are specially unsuited to the work of those missionaries of Allah's Message (peace be upon him), who have dedicated themselves to one day invite the world to the truth and exerted themselves to reform the ways of the people. Such ill behavior may satisfy one's vanity, but it does great harm to one's mission.

87. Allah, there is no god except Him. He will

اللَّهُ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ لِيَجْمَعَنَّكُمْ surely gather you all on the Day of Resurrection, about which there is no doubt. And who is more truthful than Allah in statement.*115

إِلَى يَوْمِ الْقِيَامَةِ لَا رَيْبَ فِيهِ
وَمَنْ أَصْدَقُ مِنَ اللَّهِ حَدِيثًا

*115 That is, the misbehavior of the unbelievers, atheists, polytheists and the like can do no damage to the Godhead of Allah, for they cannot alter the fact that He is the One and All-Powerful Sovereign, and that, one day He will assemble together all human beings and deal with them in accordance with their deeds and none will be able to escape from His retribution. Therefore, Allah does not stand in need of anyone to defend Him against His rebels by showing incivility and impoliteness to them.

That is the bearing of this verse on the preceding verse. But this verse also serves as an appendix to the passage that began from verse 60. In that case it means: Let anybody follow any way he chooses and work in any way he likes in this world but he should not forget that one day everyone shall have to go in the presence of Allah Who is the sole Sovereign. Then everyone shall see the result of his actions and deeds.

88. Then what is (the matter) with you (that you are divided into) two parties regarding the hypocrites.*116
And Allah has reverted them (to disbelief) because of what

﴿ فَمَا لَكُمْ فِي الْمُنَافِقِينَ فِئَتَيْنِ
وَاللَّهُ أَرْكَسَهُمْ بِمَا كَسَبُوا
أَتُرِيدُونَ أَنْ تَهْدُوا مَنْ أَضَلَّ

they earned.^{*117} Do you want to guide him whom Allah has sent astray. And he whom Allah sends astray, you will then never find for him any way (of guidance).

اللَّهُ وَمَنْ يُضَلِّ اللَّهُ فَلَنْ تَجِدَ لَهُ سَبِيلًا

116 This passage deals with the problem of those hypocritical Muslims who had accepted Islam in Makkah and other parts of Arabia but had not emigrated, to Al-Madinah. They lived as before with their people, and took more or less a practical part in all their hostile activities against Islam and the Muslims. They had become a very difficult problem for the Muslims who did not know how to deal with them. Some Muslims were of the opinion that they were after all Muslim because they recited the kalimah (the article of the Muslims' faith), offered the Salat, observed the Fast and recited the Quran. Then how could they be dealt with like the disbelievers? Allah in this passage has removed that difference of opinion from among the Muslims and told them how to deal with them.

At this place one should clearly understand why those Muslims who did not emigrate to Al-Madinah were declared to be hypocrites; otherwise one might not be able to interpret correctly this passage and the like passages of the Quran. The fact of the matter is that when the Prophet (peace be upon him) migrated to Al-Madinah and conditions were created there for the fulfillment of the requirements of Islam, a general order was given that all those Muslims who were oppressed in any place and in any tribe or clan and could not freely carry out their Islamic obligations, should migrate to Al-Madinah, the abode of Islam. As a result, all those who could emigrate but did not do so because they loved their homes, their relatives and their interests more than Islam, were declared to be hypocrites. Only such of those as were really being prevented by impediments were declared to be helpless in verse 97 of this Surah.

It is obvious that the Muslims living in the abode of unbelief may be declared hypocrites for not migrating only if a general invitation is extended to them by the people living in the abode of Islam, or at least the doors of the abode of Islam are kept open for them. In such a case all those Muslims who may be doing nothing to change the abode of unbelief into the abode of Islam, nor emigrate to the abode of Islam, even if they could, would be declared hypocrites.

117 Allah turned the hypocrites back to their former unbelief because they followed a double-faced policy and were time-servers. As they preferred the life of this world to that of the Hereafter, they had entered the fold of Islam with some mental reservations. They were not prepared to sacrifice those interests which came into conflict with the requirements of the faith and they did not have that firm belief in the Hereafter which makes one sacrifice with perfect peace of mind this world for the sake of the next world: It has thus become obvious that the line of demarcation was so clear that there ought not to have been two opinions about hypocrisy.

89. They wish if you should disbelieve, same as they have disbelieved, then you become equal (with them). So do not take from among them friends until they emigrate in the way of Allah. So if they turn back (to enmity), then seize them and kill*¹¹⁸ them wherever you find them. And do not take from among them friends nor helpers.

وَدُّوا لَوْ تَكْفُرُونَ كَمَا كَفَرُوا

نَصِيرًا

118 Here the Muslims have been asked seize those hypocrites who belonged to the belligerent disbelievers and were actually engaged in hostile activities against the Islamic State.

90. Except those who seek refuge with a people, between you and whom there is a treaty (of peace).^{*119} Or (those who) come to you, their hearts restraining from fighting you or fighting their own people. And if Allah had willed, He could have given them power over you, so that they would have fought you. So, if they

إِلَّا الَّذِينَ يَصِلُونَ إِلَىٰ قَوْمٍ

شَاءَ اللَّهُ لَسَلَّطَهُمْ عَلَيْكُمْ
فَلَقَاتَلُوكُمْ فَإِنِ اعْتَزَلُوكُمْ فَلَمْ withdraw from you, and they do not fight against you, and they offer you peace. Then Allah has not made for you a cause (that you fight) against them.

يُقَاتِلُوكُمْ وَأَلْقُوا إِلَيْكُمُ السَّلَامَ
فَمَا جَعَلَ اللَّهُ لَكُمْ عَلَيْهِمْ سَبِيلًا

119 The exception is only concerning the first part of the command. Though the blood of such a hypocrite is lawful, he is not to be pursued and killed, if he has sought asylum in the territory of a non-Muslim State, which is an ally to the Islamic State. This is not because of the sanctity of the blood of the hypocrite but because of the sanctity of the treaty.

91. You will find others, who desire that they should have security from you, and security from their own people. Whenever they are returned (to opportunity) of (causing) mischief, they fall back into it. So, if they do not withdraw from you, nor offer to you peace, nor restrain their hands, then seize them, and kill them wherever you overtake them. And those, We have given to you against them a clear warrant.

92. And it is not for a believer to kill a believer except by mistake. ^{*120}

وَمَا كَانَ لِمُؤْمِنٍ أَنْ يَقْتُلَ
مُؤْمِنًا إِلَّا خَطَأً

^{*120} This does not refer to the category of the above mentioned hypocrites whose blood has been made lawful, but to the sincere Muslims who lived either in the abode of Islam, or in the war zone or the abode of unbelief, against whom there was no proof that they had taken part in the hostile activities of the enemies of Islam: such a warning was necessary because there were many people who had accepted Islam sincerely but were still forced by circumstances to live among the foes of Islam; and there had been cases when some of them were accidentally killed by their Muslim brethren during an attack on an enemy clan. Therefore, Allah has enjoined what a Muslim who kills a Muslim by mistake must do to expiate such an accidental sin.

And whoever kills a believer by mistake, then the freeing of a believing slave, ^{*121} and payment of the blood money to his family, ^{*122} unless that they give (it up as) a charity.

وَمَنْ قَتَلَ مُؤْمِنًا خَطَأً فَتَحْرِيرُ
رَقَبَةٍ مُؤْمِنَةٍ وَدِيَةٌ مُسَلَّمَةٌ إِلَى
أَهْلِهِ إِلَّا أَنْ يَصَدَّقُوا

^{*121} As the slain person was a believer, a believing slave is to be set free as expiation for his accidental murder.

^{*122} The Prophet (peace be upon him) prescribed one hundred camels or two hundred cows or two thousand goats as blood money to be paid to the survivors of the slain man. If one desired to pay it in any other form, he would have to calculate it in terms of the market price of these animals. For instance, the blood money paid in cash during the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him) was eight hundred gold dinars or eight thousand silver dirhams. During his caliphate, Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) declared, “Now that the price of a camel has gone up, one thousand dinars or twelve thousand dirhams should be paid as blood money.” It should, however, be noted that the blood money prescribed here is not for a willful murder but for an accidental one.

But if he (the slain) was from a people hostile unto you, and he was a believer, then (only) the freeing of a believing slave (is required).

فَإِنْ كَانَ مِنْ قَوْمٍ عَدُوِّكُمْ
وَهُوَ مُؤْمِنٌ فَتَحْرِيرُ رَقَبَةٍ
مُؤْمِنَةٍ

And if he (the slain) was from a people between you and them there is a treaty, then a compensation must be paid to his family,^{*123} and the freeing of a believing slave.

وَإِنْ كَانَ مِنْ قَوْمٍ بَيْنَكُمْ
وَبَيْنَهُمْ مِيثَاقٌ فَدِيَةٌ مُسَلَّمَةٌ إِلَى
أَهْلِهِ وَتَحْرِيرُ رَقَبَةٍ مُؤْمِنَةٍ

123 In brief, the following are the commandments contained in Ayat 92:

If the slain person is an inhabitant of the abode of Islam, his murderer shall have to pay blood money as compensation and also to set free a slave to earn his forgiveness from God.

And if he is an inhabitant of a war zone, the murderer shall have only to set free a slave and not to pay any bloodmoney.

And if he belongs to an abode of unbelief which is an ally of the Islamic State, the murderer shall have to set free a slave and also have to pay blood money equal to the amount of the blood money of a non-Muslim victim as contained in the treaty.

Then whoever does not find (means), then fasting for two consecutive months,^{*124} (seeking) repentance^{*125} from Allah. And Allah is All Knower, All Wise.

فَمَنْ لَمْ يَجِدْ فَصِيَامُ شَهْرَيْنِ
مُتَابِعَيْنِ تَوْبَةً مِّنَ اللَّهِ وَكَانَ
اللَّهُ عَلِيمًا حَكِيمًا

124 These fasts must be consecutive without a single day's break; if there is a single break, except if it be in accordance with the law, one shall have to begin the prescribed fasting anew for two full months.

125 That is, The freeing of a slave or the payment of blood money or the fasting for two consecutive months is not a penalty but is repentance and kaffarah (cover) for the offense. The difference between the two is that in the case of penalty, there is no feeling of self-reproach, compunction, contrition and self-reform, but there is a feeling of disgust and aversion, and it leaves disgust and bitterness behind it. That is why Allah enjoins kaffarah and repentance so that the offender may be able to purify his soul by means of good deeds, devotion and fulfillment of the rights, and turn to Allah through self-reproach and compunction. In this way the sinner will not only atone for his present sin but will also refrain in future from such errors.

Kaffarah literally means a cover; a good deed that is performed as kaffarah for a sin, so to say, covers it just as a white-wash covers a blot on a wall.

93. And whoever kills a believer intentionally, then his recompense is Hell to abide therein forever. And Allah's wrath is upon him, and He has cursed him, and has prepared for him a great punishment.

وَمَنْ يَقْتُلْ مُؤْمِنًا مُتَعَمِّدًا

94. O those who believe, when you go forth (to fight) in the cause of Allah, investigate carefully, and do not say to him who greets you peace: "You are not a believer."^{*126} Seeking the profits of the life of this world. For with Allah are plenteous spoils. Even thus (as he now is) were you before, then Allah conferred His favors on you,^{*127} so investigate carefully. Indeed, Allah is ever informed of what you do.

126 In the early days of Islam, Assalam-u-alaikum (peace be upon you) was a symbol of recognition for Muslims. When a Muslim met another Muslim, he greeted him with this salutation, as if to say, I belong to your own community. I am your friend and well-wisher. I have nothing but peace and security for you, so you should not show enmity towards me nor fear enmity and harm from me. It was like a password used in the army while passing through a line of guards at night so as to discern between friends and foes.

The importance of the salutation of peace as a symbol of recognition was specially great at that time because there was no apparent mark of distinction between a Muslim Arab and a non-Muslim Arab, as they wore the same kind of dress and spoke the same language. Still a difficulty arose when the Muslims attacked some clan and a local Muslim also became the target of attack. Then he would cry out, Asalam-u-alaikum or La llaha illallah (there is no god but Allah). But the attacking Muslims would suspect him to be a disbeliever who was using the password as a trick merely to save his life. They would, therefore, often kill him and take possession of his belongings as spoils. Although the Prophet (peace be upon him) would severely admonish the offenders on such occasions, yet there was a recurrence of such incidents. Then Allah solved the difficulty in this verse, which means, you have no right to judge cursorily that the man, who is declaring himself to be a Muslim, is telling a lie merely to save his life. It is equally possible that he may be speaking the truth, or telling a lie, and one cannot know the reality without making a thorough investigation. Thus, while there is a chance of letting off a disbeliever by accepting his salutations of peace as genuine, there is also the more horrible chance of killing an innocent believer. In any case, it is far better to let off a disbeliever by mistake than to kill a believer by error.

*127 That is, there was a time when you yourselves were scattered as individuals among different clans of disbelievers. You were then hiding your Islam for fear of oppression and persecution and you could offer no other proof of your faith except by an oral expression. Now it is the bounty of Allah that you are enjoying community life and are able to raise the banner of Islam against the disbelievers. The right way of showing gratitude to Allah for this bounty is to show kindness and leniency to those Muslims who are still in the same state in which you were before this.

95. Not equal are those of the believers who sit (at home), except those who are disabled, and those who strive in the cause of Allah with their wealth and their lives. Allah has preferred those who strive with their wealth and their lives

أَجْرًا عَظِيمًا

*128 In this passage, the relative status of true Muslims has been assigned according to as they behave when they are asked to go to jihad on a voluntary basis, when the leader of the Islamic forces does not require the whole Muslim force. Those who offer themselves and their wealth and go to jihad have been assigned a higher rank than those who stay at home, even though the latter might have been engaged in other good works; moreover, there is, for the former a promise of a good reward. As regards to those who stay at home, when they are ordered to go to jihad, by making excuses or even those who shirk jihad, when a general order is given for jihad, and jihad becomes an obligatory duty, in these two cases those who are engaged in other works and do not go to jihad are hypocrites. And they are not entitled to the benefit of the promise of a good reward, except that they stay behind for any genuine excuse.

96. Degrees of rank from Him, and forgiveness, and mercy. And Allah is ever Forgiving, Most Merciful.

97. Indeed, those whom the angels take (in death) while doing wrong to themselves, ^{*129} they (the angels) will say: “In what (condition) were you.” They will say: “We were oppressed in the land.” They (the angels) will say: “Was not Allah’s earth spacious that you could have migrated therein. ^{*130} So for those, their habitation will be Hell, and an evil destination.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ تَوَفَّيْتَهُمُ الْمَلَائِكَةُ

فَأُولَئِكَ مَأْوَاهُمْ جَهَنَّمُ وَسَاءَتْ
مَصِيرًا

129 “While doing wrong to themselves.” These were the people who had accepted Islam but were still living among their own clans, which had not yet embraced Islam, without any genuine excuse or compulsion. They were doing wrong to their own selves by living in a state of semi-Islam, although the Abode of Islam had come into existence where they could migrate and live the full life as a Muslim. They were quite content to live such a wretched life of semi-unbelief, according to their faith because they preferred their comforts, their families, their properties and their interests to their faith. That is why their excuse, “We were oppressed in the land”, has not been accepted. (See E.N.116).

130 That is, why did you continue to live in a place which was oppressed by the rebels against Allah and where it was not possible to live in accordance with the law of Allah? And why did you not migrate to a place where you could follow the divine law without any hindrance?

98. Except the weak among men, and the women, and the children, who are not able to devise a plan, nor are directed to a way.

99. As for such, it may be that Allah will forgive them. And Allah is ever Clement, Oft Forgiving.*131

فَأُولَئِكَ عَسَى اللَّهُ أَنْ يَعْفُوَ
عَنَّهُمْ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ عَفُوًّا غَفُورًا

*131 As regards to “migration in the way of Allah”, it is an obligation with two exceptions: one may remain there to struggle for the establishment of Islam and to change the system of life based on unbelief into the system of Islam; just as the Prophets and their immediate followers did in the initial stages of their mission; or one may remain there in a state of great disgust and repugnance as long as he is unable to find any way out of it. With the exception of the above two cases, it will be a life of continuous sin to live in an abode of unbelief. The excuse that “We could not find any abode of Islam for migration” shall not be accepted and will be met with the rebuff: “If there was no abode of Islam, was there no forest or mountain where you could live on the leaves of trees and the milk of goats in order to escape from submission to the laws of unbelief?”

In this connection, a misunderstanding about the tradition, “No migration after the conquest of Makkah”, may also be removed. This was not a permanent command concerning migration but only a temporary instruction that suited the changed conditions of Arabia after the conquest of Makkah. As long as the major portion of Arabia was the abode of unbelief, the Muslims were enjoined to migrate to Al-Madinah, which was the only abode of Islam at the time. But when almost all the parts of Arabia came under Islam, the Prophet (peace be upon him) so to say, merely canceled the first command under which migration was compulsory, saying, “There is no more (compulsory) migration (to Al-Madinah) after the conquest of Makkah.” The tradition was never meant to be a prohibitory command for all the Muslims of the world for all times to come up to the Last Day.

100. And whoever emigrates in the cause of Allah, will find on the earth many dwellings and abundance, and whoever goes forth from his home, as an emigrant unto Allah and His messenger, then death overtakes him, his reward is وَكَانَ اللَّهُ غَفُورًا رَحِيمًا

101. And when you travel in the land, then it is no sin on you that you shorten from the prayers,^{*132} if you fear that those who disbelieve may attack you.^{*133} Indeed, the disbelievers are an open enemy to you.

وَإِذَا ضَرَبْتُمْ فِي الْأَرْضِ فَلَيْسَ عَلَيْكُمْ جُنَاحٌ أَنْ تَقْصُرُوا مِنَ الصَّلَاةِ إِنْ خِفْتُمْ أَنْ يَفْتِنَكُمُ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا إِنَّ الْكَافِرِينَ كَانُوا لَكُمْ عَدُوًّا مُّبِينًا

132 The shortening of the obligatory part of the Salat during a journey in peace time is, to reduce four rakats to two rakats, but there is no prescribed limit to the reduction during actual fighting. The Salat must be offered anyhow in any form as the circumstances on the occasion permit. If it is possible to offer the Salat in congregation, it should be offered in congregation; otherwise the soldiers should say it individually. If it is not possible to turn the face to the qiblah, it may be offered facing any other direction. If it is not possible to remain stationary for the Salat, it may be offered while riding or walking. If it is not possible to bend down or prostrate, one should do so symbolically. If, during the Salat, it becomes necessary to move from that place, one may continue the Prayer even during the movement. There is no harm in offering the Salat, even if one's clothes become stained with blood. And even if in spite of all these concessions, it is not possible to offer it at all, it may then be reluctantly postponed, as was done during the course of the battle of the Trench.

There is a difference of opinion as to whether the obligatory Prayers (faraid) should only be offered in a journey, or other Prayers (sunnats) practiced by the Prophet (peace be upon him) should also be offered in addition to the former. When on a journey the Prophet (peace be upon him) used to offer without fail two rakats in addition to the obligatory rakats of Salat-ul-Fajr (Morning Prayers) and three rakats of witr with Salat-ul-Isha (Night Prayer). For the other three Prayers (Zuhr, Asr, Maghrib), he only offered the obligatory Prayers; there is no proof of his offering the sunnats Prayers. He, however, used to offer additional prayers (nawafil), whenever he got time for these even while he was riding. That is why Abdullah bin Umar prohibited the people from offering the sunnats during a journey except with the Morning Prayer. But the majority of the scholars leave it to the individual's option to offer or not to offer the sunnats on a journey. The Hanafis are of the opinion that it is better to leave them during the actual journey but one must offer them at a halting place, if one can get the necessary peace of mind.

As regards the nature of the journey in which the Salat may be shortened, some scholars (Ibn Umar, Ibn Masud and Ata) have imposed the condition that it should be in the way of Allah, e.g., for jihad, Hajj, Umrah, or in quest of knowledge, etc. Imam Shafai and Imam Ahmad are of the opinion that the journey should be for some lawful purpose; otherwise one has no right of enjoying the concession of reduction in Salat. The Hanafis are of the opinion that the Salat may be shortened during any kind of journey, irrespective of the purpose for which it is undertaken. As regards the nature of the journey, it may merit reward or punishment by itself, but it does not affect the concession of reduction in Salat.

Some of the Imams have interpreted words “there is no sin” to mean that reduction in the Prayer is not obligatory but merely optional. One may make use of the permission and shorten his Salat or may not. Imam Shafai holds the same view, though he considers it better to shorten it. He is of the opinion that a person who does not make use of the reduction, gives up the higher thing and adopts a lower thing. Imam Ahmad is of the opinion that although reduction is not obligatory, yet it is improper not to make use of the concession. Imam Abu Hanifah considers reduction obligatory and there is also a tradition from Imam Malik to the same effect. All the traditions from the Prophet (peace be upon him) show that in his journeys he always shortened his Salat and there is no authentic tradition to show that he ever offered four rakats on a journey. Ibn Umar says, “During the journeys I accompanied the Prophet (peace be upon him), Abu Bakr, Umar or Uthman (may Allah be pleased with them), and I witnessed that they always shortened their Salat and never offered four rakats.” The same view is also supported by authentic traditions from Ibn Abbas and several other companions.

Once during Hajj, Uthman (may Allah be pleased with him) performed four rakats while he was leading the Salat at Mina and the companions objected to it. He satisfied them, saying, I have taken a wife from Makkah and I have heard from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that whoever marries at a place becomes a citizen of that place. Therefore I have not shortened my prayer.

There are, however, two traditions against this from Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) which show that it is equally right to make a reduction in the Salat or to say it in full. But these traditions are weak in authenticity and contrary to her own practice, as she herself practiced reduction.

In this connection, it may also be noted that sometimes one feels himself to be on a journey as well as at home when he may shorten the Salat or offer it in full at one and the same halting place according to the circumstances. Most probably Aishah (may Allah be pleased with her) referred to such a state, saying: When on a journey, the Holy Prophet (peace be upon him) sometimes shortened his Salat and sometimes offered it in full.

As regards the words, “it is no sin on you that you shorten from the prayers”, it is not correct to conclude that the command is optional. The same words have been used in connection with running between Safa and Marwa on the occasion of Hajj, in verse 158 of Surah Al-Baqarah, although this is an essential part of Hajj. As a matter of fact, these words have been used in both the places to allay the fear that shortening of the Prayer or running between Safa and Marwa might entail a sin or lessen one’s rewards.

As regards the length of the journey, the Zahirites are of the opinion that reduction may be made in any journey irrespective of the distance. According to Imam Malik, the minimum distance of the journey should be 48 miles, or its duration should be at least one day and one night. Ibn Abbas and Imam Ahmad are also of the same opinion and a saying of Imam Shafai also supports the same. But the minimum distance for reduction according to Anas is 15 miles, while Imam Auzai and Imam Zuhri follow the opinion of Umar that one day's journey suffices for reduction . According to Hasan Basri and Imam Abu Yusuf, the minimum journey of two days entitles one to shorten one's Salat. Imam Abu Hanifah is of the opinion that reduction may be made in a journey of a minimum distance of 54 miles. The same is the opinion of Ibn Umar, Ibn Masud and Uthman (may Allah be pleased with them all).

Opinions differ regarding the reduction in a break during the course of a journey. Imam Ahmad is of the opinion that if one intends to stop at a place for four days, he will have to offer the Prayer in full. According to Imam Malik and Imam Shafai, reduction is not lawful at a place where one intends to stop for more than four days. Imam Auzai extends it to 13 days and Imam Abu Hanifah to 15 days or more and enjoins offering of the full Prayer during such a stop. But there is no explicit command of the Prophet (peace be upon him) about this. However, there is a consensus of opinion that if one is forced by circumstances to stop at a place but intends to leave it for home at any time, he may go on practicing reduction for an indefinite period of time. There are instances when some companions practiced reduction continuously even for two years for the same reason. Imam Ahmad bin Hanbal allows a prisoner to make reduction during the whole term of his imprisonment.

133 The Zahirites and the Kharijites interpret this sentence to mean that reduction in the Salat may be made only during state of war and that reduction in a journey during peace time is against the Quran. But we learn from an authentic tradition that once when Umar presented the same objection before the Prophet (peace be upon him), he answered, the concession of reduction is a bounty from Allah; therefore, enjoy it. This is a well known fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) availed of the concession in every journey both during war time and during peace time. Another tradition from Ibn Abbas makes the position clear, saying, the Prophet (peace be upon him) went to Makkah from Al-Madinah and there was no fear of anyone except of God but he reduced four rakats of the Salat to two rakats.

102. And when you (O Muhammad) are among them, and lead the prayer for them,^{*134} then let (only) a party of them stand with you (to pray),^{*135} and let them take their arms.

وَإِذَا كُنْتَ فِيهِمْ فَأَقَمْتَ لَهُمُ
الصَّلَاةَ فَلْتَقُمْ طَائِفَةٌ مِّنْهُمْ
مَعَكَ وَلِيَأْخُذُوا أَسْلِحَتِهِمْ

134 From the words, “And when you, (O Muhammad), are among them”, Imam Abu Yusuf and Hasan bin Ziyad have concluded that the commandment about the Salat of Fear was meant to be in force only during the lifetime of the Prophet (peace be upon him). But there are many instances in the Quran that a commandment has been addressed to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and the same also holds good for his successors after him. Therefore, there is no reason why the commandment about the Salat of Fear be restricted to the lifetime of the Prophet (peace be upon him). Then there are instances that many of the great companions offered the Salat of Fear after his death and no difference of opinion in this regard has been reported from any companion.

135 This commandment about the Salat of Fear applies to that state when there is a threat of imminent attack from the enemy but no actual fighting is going on. As regards the state of actual fighting, according to the Hanfis the Salat will be postponed to a later time, and according to Imam Malik and Imam Thauri, if it is not possible to bow and to prostrate, it should be performed by symbolic gestures. According to Imam Shafai, one may even during the Salat of Fear remain engaged a little in the conflict, if need be. We learn from authentic traditions that the Prophet (peace be upon him) postponed four consecutive Salats during the Battle of the Trench, and afterwards when he got respite, he performed these in the respective order although the commandment about the Salat of Fear had been sent down before this.

Then when they have performed their prostrations,

فَإِذَا سَجَدُوا فَلْيَكُونُوا مِنْ

let them take their positions in your rear, and let another party come that has not prayed, so let them pray with you. And let them take their precaution and their arms.*136

وَرَأَيْكُمْ وَلَّتَاتِ طَآئِفَةٌ
أُخْرَى لَمْ يُصَلُّوا فَلْيُصَلُّوا
مَعَكَ وَلْيَأْخُذُوا حِذْرَهُمْ
وَأَسْلِحَتَهُمْ

*136 The form of the Salat of Fear mainly depends upon the conditions of war. As the Prophet (peace be upon him) led it in various ways, according to the different conditions, the Muslim leader of the time has the option of adopting any of those ways, according as it suits a certain occasion.

One method is that one section of the army should offer the Salat with the leader and the other should remain engaged in fighting against the enemy. After the performance of one rakat and after bringing the prayer to an end formally that section should fall back to the fighting line and the second section should perform the second rakat with the Imam. Thus, the leader will perform two rakats while the sections will perform one rakat each.

The second method is that one section should perform one rakat with the Imam and fall back, then the second section should offer one rakat with the Imam and fall back; then each section should come back, turn by turn, and complete the second (i.e. the missed) rakat individually. In this way each section will perform the first rakat behind the Imam and the second individually.

The third method is that one section of the army should perform two rakats with the Imam and after salutation should fall back to the fighting line. Then the second section should join in the third rakat and complete the Prayer with the Imam. Thus, the Imam will perform four rakats and each section of the army two rakats each. The fourth meyhod is that one section should perform one rakat behind the Imam and when the Imam stands up for the second rakat the followers should complete the second rakat by themselves and then join the ranks. As regards the Imam, he should prolong his second rakat so that the other section may join him and perform their first rakat behind him and complete their second rakat by themselves.

The first meyhod has been related by Ibn Abbas, Jabir bin Abdullah and Mujahid, and the second by Abdullah bin Masud and the Hanafis give preference to this. The third method has been related by Hasan Basri from Abu Bakrah and the fourth by Sahl bin Abi Hathmah and accepted by Imam Shafai and Imam Malik with a little modification.

There are other meyhods of offering the Salat of Fear details of which may be found from any of the numerous books of the Islamic law and regulations.

Those who disbelieve wish, if you were negligent of your arms and your baggage, to attack you in a single rush.

وَدَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا لَوْ تَغْفُلُونَ

وَخُذُوا حِذْرَكُمْ ۚ إِنَّ اللَّهَ أَعَدَّ

137 The Muslims have been reassured that Allah Himself will deal severely with the disbelievers who are opposing the truth with their false machinations and will bring ignominy to them. The precautionary measures that are being enjoined are merely from the practical point of view to teach them that they should, in their turn, exert their utmost and leave the result to Allah, in Whose hands really lies victory or defeat.

103. Then when you have finished the prayer, then remember Allah, standing, and sitting down, and (lying down) on your sides. And when you are in safety, then establish prayer. Indeed, the prayer is enjoined on the believers at fixed hours.

وَتَرْجُونَ مِنْ اللَّهِ مَا لَا
يَرْجُونَ ۗ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ عَلِيمًا
حَكِيمًا

138 “The people”: the disbelievers who were opposing the Islamic mission and doing their utmost to prevent the establishment of the Islamic system of life.

139 That is, it is really strange that the believers should not bear bravely as many hardships for the sake of truth as the disbelievers were bearing for falsehood, though the latter have no other object than this world and its transitory benefits. Whereas the believers have the highest object of pleasing the Lord of the heavens and the earth and expect to get everlasting rewards from Him.

105. Indeed, We have sent down to you (O Muhammad)^{*140} the Book (the Quran) in truth that you might judge between mankind by that which Allah has shown you. And be not an advocate for those who betray their trust.

إِنَّا أَنْزَلْنَا إِلَيْكَ الْكِتَابَ بِالْحَقِّ
لِتَحْكُمَ بَيْنَ النَّاسِ بِمَا أَرْنَاكَ
اللَّهُ ۗ وَلَا تَكُنْ لِلْخَائِبِينَ
خَصِيمًا

140 In Ayats 105-115, some very important issues concerning an event that occurred at that time have been discussed.

There was in the Bani Zafar clan of the Ansar, a man known as Tamah or Bashir bin Ubairiq. He stole the armor of another Ansari and hid it in the house of a Jew. When an investigation started into the theft, the owner of the armor placed the matter before the Prophet (peace be upon him) and told him that he suspected Tamah of the theft. But the accused and his relatives and many other people of the Bani Zafar clan conspired and laid the guilt at the on the Jew, who asserted that he was innocent of the thing. But Tamah's people went on pleading his case vehemently. They argued: "The statement of the Jew who is an enemy of the truth and who disbelieves in Allah and His Messenger cannot be trusted; whereas we are Muslims, and, therefore, should be trusted." The Prophet (peace be upon him) was naturally influenced by the seeming correctness of the argument and was about to acquit Tamah and give a warning to the plaintiff for bringing a false charge against a Muslim, and decide the case against the Jew, when this revelation came and disclosed the reality of the matter.

It is true that even if the Prophet (peace be upon him) had, as a judge, decided the case in the light of the evidence produced before him, he would not have incurred any blame, for judges have to give their decision according to the evidence that is presented before them and sometimes people do succeed in getting wrong judgments in their favor by misrepresentation. But the matter had another side: if the Prophet (peace be upon him) had decided the case against the Jew at that time, when a bitter convict was raging between Islam and kufr, the enemies of Islam would have gotten a strong moral weapon against him, nay, against the Islamic community and the Islamic mission. They would have carried on a bitter propaganda against Islam, saying, "There is no justice among the Muslims; they practice prejudices and partisanship in spite of the fact that they preach against them as has been shown by this decision against the Jew." That is why, Allah directly intervened in the case to save them from this danger.

In this passage (Ayats 105-115) on the one hand, those Muslims who tried to shield the guilty one of their own clan, have been strongly rebuked for their partisanship, and, on the other hand, the Muslims in general have been taught that they should not allow partisanship to stand in the way of justice. It is sheer dishonesty that one should plead the cause of his own party man, even though he may be in the wrong, and oppose the man of the opposite party, even though he may be right.

106. And seek the forgiveness of Allah. Indeed, Allah is ever Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

وَأَسْتَغْفِرِ اللَّهَ^ط إِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ
غَفُورًا رَحِيمًا ﴿١٠٦﴾

107. And do not argue on behalf of those who deceive themselves.*141 Indeed, Allah does not love him who is a betrayer of his

وَلَا تُجَادِلْ عَنِ الَّذِينَ يَتَحَتَّأُونَ أَنْفُسَهُمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا trust, sinful.

يُحِبُّ مَنْ كَانَ خَوَّانًا أَثِيمًا ﴿١٧﴾

141 He who is dishonest to others is in reality dishonest to himself because he forces all his faculties of mind and heart, which have been given to him as a trust, to help him in his dishonesty. Moreover, he suppresses his conscience, which Allah has given him to safeguard his morality, so as to disable it from functioning rightly and preventing him from being dishonest. Thus a man is dishonest to others only when at first he becomes unjust to himself.

108. They seek to hide from men and do not seek to hide from Allah. And He is with them when they plot by night, in that which He does not approve of speech. And Allah is ever encompassing of what they do.

يَسْتَخْفُونَ مِنَ النَّاسِ وَلَا يَسْتَخْفُونَ مِنَ اللَّهِ وَهُوَ مَعَهُمْ إِذْ يُبَيِّتُونَ مَا لَا يَرْضَىٰ مِنَ الْقَوْلِ ۗ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ بِمَا يَعْمَلُونَ

مُحِيطًا ﴿١٨﴾

109. Here you are, you who have argued for them in the life of this world. But who will argue with Allah for them on the Day of Resurrection, or who will then be their defender.

110. And whoever does evil or wrongs himself, then seeks forgiveness of Allah, he will find Allah Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

وَمَنْ يَعْمَلْ سُوءًا أَوْ يَظْلِمْ
نَفْسَهُ ثُمَّ يَسْتَغْفِرِ اللَّهَ يَجِدِ اللَّهَ

111. And whoever earns sin, he then earns it only against himself. And Allah is All Knowing, All Wise.

وَمَنْ يَكْسِبْ إِثْمًا فَإِنَّمَا
يَكْسِبُهُ عَلَى نَفْسِهِ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ
عَلِيمًا حَكِيمًا ﴿١١١﴾

112. And whoever earns a fault or a sin, then throws (blames) it upon the innocent, then indeed, he has burdened himself with a slander and a manifest sin.

وَمَنْ يَكْسِبْ خَطِيئَةً أَوْ إِثْمًا ثُمَّ
يَرْمِ بِهِ بَرِيئًا فَقَدِ احْتَمَلَ

113. And if it was not for the favor of Allah upon you (Muhammad), and His mercy, a party of them had resolved to mislead you. And they mislead none except themselves, and no harm can they do to you in anything.^{*142} And Allah has sent down to you the Book (the Quran) and wisdom, and has taught you that which you did not know. And the favor of Allah has ever been great upon you.

وَلَوْلَا فَضْلُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْكَ وَرَحْمَتُهُ

لَمْ تَكُن تَعْلَمُ وَكَانَ فَضْلُ
اللَّهِ عَلَيْكَ عَظِيمًا

*142 That is, even if they had succeeded in deceiving you by making a false report in regard to the case, and in getting your decision in their own favor, they would not have done any harm to you but to themselves, for even in that case they themselves would have been guilty in the sight of Allah, and not you. This is obvious because the real offender is the one who deceives the judge and gets a wrong judgment in his own favor, and not the judge who has to decide the case on the basis of the evidence presented before him. Moreover, such a one might delude himself that he has gotten “the right” on his side by his cunning devices, but in reality the “real right” remains the right in the record of Allah. (See E.N. 192, Surah Al-Baqarah).

114. There is no good in most of their secret conversations except for those who enjoin charity, or kindness, or conciliation between mankind. And whoever does that, seeking the good pleasure of Allah, then We shall bestow on him a great reward.

أَبْتِغَاءَ مَرْضَاتِ اللَّهِ فَسَوْفَ

115. And whoever opposes the messenger after what has become manifest to him of the guidance and follows other than the way of believers. We will let him go to what he has turned to,^{*143} and We will burn him in Hell, and evil is destination.

وَمَنْ يُشَاقِقِ الرَّسُولَ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا

سَبِيلِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ نُوَلِّهِ مَا تَوَلَّىٰ
وَنُصَلِّهِ أَجْهَنَّمَ وَسَاءَتْ مَصِيرًا

143 That is, the dishonest Muslim turned on the way of anti-Islam: so Allah also turned him on that way. It happened like this: when the facts of the case of theft were revealed by Allah and the innocent Jew was acquitted and Taamah was found guilty, this hypocrite left Al-Madinah in anger and joined the enemies of the Prophet (peace be upon him) at Makkah and began to oppose him openly.

116. Indeed, Allah does not forgive that partners should be associated^{*144} with Him. And He forgives what is other than that to whom He wills. And he who associates partners with Allah, then he has certainly strayed to a far away misguidance.

إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يَغْفِرُ أَنْ يُشْرَكَ بِهِ
وَيَغْفِرُ مَا دُونَ ذَلِكَ لِمَنْ
يَشَاءُ ۚ وَمَنْ يُشْرِكْ بِاللَّهِ فَقَدْ
ضَلَّ ضَلَالًا بَعِيدًا

144 In continuation of the foregoing theme, it has been stated that the hypocrite, who had in his anger gone to the side of the mushriks, did not fully realize the consequences of his foolish action. For this purpose, evils of the way he adopted and the nature of the fellows he accompanied have been pointed out.

117. They call upon instead of Him none but females (deities). And they call upon none but Satan,^{*145} a persistent rebel.

إِنْ يَدْعُونَ مِنْ دُونِهِ إِلَّا
إِنثًا وَإِنْ يَدْعُونَ إِلَّا
شَيْطَانًا مَّرِيدًا

145 Though none worships Satan by performing devotional ceremonies before him, the one who surrenders himself entirely to him and follows him wherever he misleads, does act like a devotee of Satan. This also makes it plain that one who obeys any other blindly, in fact, worships him.

118. Allah cursed him. And he said: “Surely I will take of Your slaves an appointed portion.”^{*146}

لَعَنَهُ اللَّهُ وَقَالَ لَأَتَّخِذَنَّ مِنْ
عِبَادِكَ نَصِيبًا مَّفْرُوضًا

146 That is, “I will mark off for myself a portion of their time, their labor and their efforts, their energies and their abilities, their wealth and their offspring, and will entice them by deception so that they will devote the major portion of these in my way.

119. “And surely I will lead them astray, and surely I will arouse desires in them, and surely I will command them

وَلَأُضِلَّهُمْ
وَلَأَمْرُنَهُمْ فَلْيَبْتِكُنَّ إِذَانَ

so they will slit^{*147} the ears of the cattle, and surely I will command them so they will change creation of Allah.”^{*148} And whoever takes Satan for a friend other than Allah, has certainly sustained a manifest loss.

الْأَنْعَمِ وَالْأَمْرَهُمْ فَلْيَغْيِرَنَّ
خَلْقَ اللَّهِ وَمَنْ يَتَّخِذِ
الشَّيْطَانَ وَلِيًّا مِّنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ
فَقَدْ خَسِرَ خُسْرَانًا مُّبِينًا

147 This alludes to one of the superstitious customs of the pagan Arabs. After a she-camel had given birth to five or ten young ones, they would slit her ears and dedicate her to their god and consider it unlawful to get any work from her. Likewise, if a camel had been a partner in the birth of ten young ones, his ears were also slit to mark that he had been dedicated to a god.

148 This does not condemn the alterations that man makes in the creation of God for their right and proper use, for in that case the whole of human civilization will stand condemned as a seduction of Satan. It is obvious that the civilization is nothing but the right and proper use of the things created by God. What the Quran describes as devilish alterations is to make wrong and improper use of things against human nature and against their natural functions. Hence, all those forms that are adopted as an escape from the designs of nature are the results of the enticement of Satan e.g. sodomy, birth control, asceticism, etc. It is equally devilish that females should be made to give up their proper functions and to perform those duties which nature has assigned to males. Instances can be multiplied to show that the disciples of Satan consider the laws of the Creator of the Universe wrong and, therefore, are trying to reform them.

120. He makes promises to them, and he arouses in them false desires.*149 And Satan does not promise to them but deceptions.

يَعِدُهُمْ وَيُمَنِّيهِمْ وَمَا يَعِدُهُمُ
الشَّيْطَانُ إِلَّا غُرُورًا

*149 The success of Satan depends entirely upon false promises and deceit. In order to mislead individuals and communities, he presents very rosy pictures of his wrong ways to reassure his victims. He tempts one by holding out the promise of pleasure and success. He allures some by giving the surety of national power and prosperity, while he deludes others by the prospect of the welfare of humanity, and deceives still others by telling them that his is the right way of arriving at the truth. He also entices some by assuring them that there is no God and Hereafter and that life ends with death and others by giving them a guarantee that they would escape the consequences in the Hereafter, if there is Hereafter, by the intercession of this or that saint.

121. For such, their habitation will be Hell, and they will not find from it an escape.

124. And whoever does any righteous deeds, of male or female, and he is a believer, then such will enter paradise and they will not be wronged (even as much as) the speck on a date-stone.

125. And who can be better in religion than one who surrenders his face (himself) to Allah, and he is doer of good, and follows the tradition of Abraham, the true in faith. And Allah did take Abraham as a friend.

وَمَنْ أَحْسَنُ دِينًا مِمَّنْ أَسْلَمَ

الْأَرْضِ ۚ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ بِكُلِّ
شَيْءٍ مُّحِيطًا ﴿١١٦﴾

150 Since everything in the heavens and the earth belongs to Allah, the best thing for man is to surrender his independence completely to Him, and to submit to Him unreservedly. He will come nearer to nature, if he willingly becomes His servant and obeys Him without showing any kind of rebellion against him.

151 That is, if man does not submit and surrender to Allah, he cannot escape His punishment, for Allah encircles him on all sides.

127. And they ask you concerning women. ^{*152} Say: "Allah gives you a ruling about them, and that which has been recited to you in the Book concerning female orphans, ^{*153} to whom you do not give that which is decreed for them, ^{*154} and (yet) you desire that you

لِلْيَتَامَى بِالْقِسْطِ وَمَا تَفَعَّلُوا
مِنْ خَيْرٍ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ بِهِ عَلِيمًا

152 It has not been stated here what the people were asking concerning women, but the answer given to it in verse 128 points out the nature of the question.

153 This is not the answer to the question but a sort of reminder of the commandments that have already been enjoined in Ayats 1-14 of this Surah about orphan girls in particular and the orphans in general in order to stress the importance of this matter in any scheme of social reform. It is because of its importance in the solution of social problems that before giving a verdict concerning marriage problems which were raised, Allah has again laid emphasis on the rights of orphans.

154 The allusion is to Ayat 3 of this Surah: “And if you fear that you will not deal justly with the orphan girls”.

155 The words of the text may also mean, “Whom you desire to marry.” We learn from a tradition of Aishah (may Allah be Pleased with her) that the text implies both the meanings. She says, “Those people who had the charge of the orphan girls who inherited wealth, employed different methods of doing injustice to them. If an orphan girl was wealthy and also beautiful, they would desire to marry her so that they might exploit her wealth and enjoy her beauty without incurring any financial liability. If she was wealthy but ugly, they would neither themselves marry her nor let anyone else marry her, so that she might not get a protector who might claim to her right from the guardian.”

*156 The allusion is to the commandments concerning the rights of orphans, given in Ayats 1-14 of this Surah.

128. And if^{*157} a woman fears from her husband ill treatment, or desertion, then it is no sin upon them that they arrange between them an amicable settlement. And a settlement is better.^{*158} And present in (human) inner selves is greed.^{*159} And if you do good and fear (Allah), then indeed, Allah is ever informed of what you do.^{*160}

وَإِنْ أَمْرًا خَافَتْ مِنْ بَعْلِهَا

 صُلْحًا ۚ وَالصُّلْحُ خَيْرٌ ۗ وَأَحْضَرْتِ الْآنْفُسُ الشُّحَّ ۗ
 وَإِنْ تُحْسِنُوا وَتَتَّقُوا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ
 كَانَ بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ خَبِيرًا

*157 This verdict mentioned in Ayat 127 has been given in the Ayats 128-134. In order to understand it, one should grasp the nature of the problems to which this is the answer.

Several questions arose as a result of the restrictions placed on marriage in Ayats 3-5 of this Surah. In pre-Islamic days, one was free to marry as many wives as one liked without conceding any rights to them. But these verses limited the maximum number of wives to four and conceded the rights of dower to them and laid down the conditions of justice and equitable treatment for marrying more than one wife. As it appeared impossible to fulfill these conditions in certain cases, e.g. if one's wife was barren or invalid or had lost attraction for him or was not fit for conjugal relationship, some problems arose when one married the second wife: was it a compulsory condition that one should show equal inclination towards both the wives or love them equally or show equality in the conjugal relations with them? Or, if this was not possible, did justice require that one should divorce the first wife before marrying the second? Or, if the first wife did not wish to part with her husband, would it be against the requirement of justice if she gave up some of her own rights to prevent her husband from divorcing her. This Ayat answers such questions.

158 That is, it is better for a woman to make a settlement with him by yielding some of her rights and live with the husband with whom she had lived a part of her life than to get a divorce and separate from him.

159 Narrow-mindedness on the part of the wife is that even when she knows that she has lost those qualities that make a wife attractive to her husband, she should expect and demand the same kind of treatment that is shown only to a beloved wife. On the other hand, the husband shall be narrow-minded if he suppresses too much the rights of the wife who has lost attraction for him but who still wants to live with him, and reduces her rights to an unbearable point.

*160 Allah has again appealed to the husband, as He generally does in such matters, to show generosity to the wife. He has urged him to be generous to her, for she has been his companion for years even though she might have lost charm for him. He should fear God and imagine how he would fare if God withheld His favors from him on account of some defects in him.

129. And you will never be able to deal with justice between wives, even if it is your ardent desire. So do not incline (toward one) with full attention, and leave her (the other) as hanging.*161 And if you do good and fear (Allah), then indeed, Allah is ever Forgiving, Most Merciful.*162

وَلَنْ تَسْتَطِيعُوا أَنْ تَعْدِلُوا بَيْنَ
النِّسَاءِ وَلَوْ حَرَصْتُمْ فَلَا تَمِيلُوا
كُلَّ الْمَيْلِ فَتَذَرُوهَا
كَالْمُعَلَّقَةِ وَإِنْ تُصْلِحُوا وَتَتَّقُوا
فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ غَفُورًا رَحِيمًا

*161 Allah has made it clear that the husband cannot literally keep equality between two or more wives because they themselves cannot be equal in all respects. It is too much to demand from a husband that he should mete out equal treatment to a beautiful wife and to an ugly wife, to a young wife and to an old wife, to a healthy wife and to an invalid wife and to a good natured wife and to an ill-

natured wife. These and like things naturally make a husband more inclined towards one wife than towards the other. In such cases, the Islamic law does not demand equal treatment between them in affection and love. What it does demand is that a wife should not be so neglected as to be practically reduced to the position of the woman who has no husband at all. If the husband does not divorce her for any reason or at her own request, she should at least be treated as a wife. It is true that under such circumstances the husband is naturally more inclined towards a favorite wife, but he should not, so to say, keep the other in such a state of suspense as if she were not his wife.

From this verse some people wrongly conclude that though the Quran allows more than one wife, it practically cancels this permission by asserting, "And you will never be able to deal with justice between wives" They forget that this is only a part of the whole instruction and the Quran does not stop at this but adds, "So do not incline (toward one) with full attention" As this commandment takes into consideration the existence of more than one wife allowed by the Quran, it leaves no loophole of escape for the followers of Christian Europe from the fact that Islam does allow polygamy under certain conditions.

162 As Allah is Forgiving and Compassionate, He will forgive any of the shortcomings that are unavoidable because of natural factors, provided that one is not guilty of deliberate injustice, and tries his best to be just as far as it is humanly possible.

130. And if they separate (by divorce), Allah will enrich each (of them) from His abundance. And Allah is ever All Encompassing, All Wise.

وَإِنْ يَتَفَرَّقَا يُغْنِ اللَّهُ كُلًّا مِّنْ سَعَتِهِ ۗ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ وَاسِعًا حَكِيمًا

131. And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. And indeed, We instructed those who were given the Book before you, and (We instructed) you, that you fear Allah. And if you disbelieve, then indeed, to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. And Allah is ever Rich, owner of Praise.

وَلِلَّهِ مَا فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَمَا فِي الْأَرْضِ ۗ وَلَقَدْ وَصَّيْنَا الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ مِن قَبْلِكُمْ وَإِيَّاكُمْ أَنْ اتَّقُوا اللَّهَ ۚ وَإِنْ تَكْفُرُوا فَإِنَّ لِلَّهِ مَا فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَمَا فِي الْأَرْضِ ۚ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ غَنِيًّا حَمِيدًا

132. And to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth. And sufficient is Allah as a Defender.

وَلِلَّهِ مَا فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَمَا فِي الْأَرْضِ ۚ وَكَفَى بِاللَّهِ وَكِيلًا

133. If He wills, He can take you away, O people, and bring others (in your place). And Allah is ever

إِنْ يَشَأْ يُذْهِبْكُمْ أَيُّهَا النَّاسُ وَيَأْتِ بِآخَرِينَ ۚ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ

All Potent over that.

عَلَىٰ ذَٰلِكَ قَدِيرًا ﴿١٣٣﴾

فَعِنْدَ اللَّهِ ثَوَابُ الدُّنْيَا وَالْآخِرَةِ
وَكَانَ اللَّهُ سَمِيعًا بَصِيرًا ﴿١٣٤﴾

163 In order to urge the Muslims to observe strictly the commandments concerning justice to women and orphans, Allah has, as usual, in the conclusion (Ayats 130-134) given a brief but effective address by way of admonition, and has impressed upon the believers the following things:

(1) You should never be under the delusion that you can make or mar the fate of any one, and that if you withdraw or withhold your help and support from anyone, that person will become utterly helpless. As a matter of fact, your own fate, and the fate of those whom you support, is entirely in the hands of Allah. And you alone are not the only means by which He supports His servants or maid servants. The resources of the Owner of the earth and the heavens are vast and limitless and He is also All-Wise and has full power to adopt means for helping anyone He wills.

(2) Allah has enjoined you, as He always enjoined the communities of the former Prophets, to conduct your affairs with fear of God in your hearts. In this lies your own good and not of God. If you do not carry out these instructions, you can do no harm to Allah but you yourselves will go the way of the former disobedient communities. The Sovereign of the universe has never stood in need of the people. If you will not behave properly, He will remove you from leadership and appoint another community in your place. And your removal will not in the least diminish anything from the greatness of His Kingdom.

(3) Allah has in His possession all the benefits and rewards of this world and of the next world, benefits which are temporary and transitory or permanent and everlasting. It is for you to make your choice from among these according to your own capacity and courage. If you are enamored of the temporary good things of this world and are even prepared to sacrifice the permanent blessings of the Hereafter, Allah will bestow upon you the same here and now, but in that case, you will have no portion in the permanent blessings of the Hereafter. You should not forget that owing to your own lack of capability and lack of courage, you have chosen to acquire only a drop out of the ocean of the blessings of God. Therefore it is better for you to adopt that way of obedience and submission which may enable you to acquire the vast benefits of this world and of the Hereafter.

The concluding words of this piece of admonition, “And Allah is ever All-Hearer, All-Seer”, have a very deep significance. He makes a fine distinction between the good and the bad in the distribution of His blessings. He is fully aware of what is happening in the universe over which He is ruling and of the capabilities, efforts and intentions of everyone. Therefore, one who is disobedient to Him, should not expect those blessings which He has reserved for those who are obedient to Him.

135. O those who believe, be firmly standing for justice, as witnesses for Allah,^{*164} even^{*165} if (it be) against yourselves, or (your) parents, or (your) kindred. Whether it be (against) a rich or a poor, for Allah is nearer to them both. So do not follow desire (of your heart), lest you keep away from justice. And if you distort (your witness) or refuse (to give it), then indeed, Allah is ever informed of what you do.

﴿ يَتَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا كُونُوا قَوَّامِينَ بِالْقِسْطِ شُهَدَاءَ لِلَّهِ وَلَوْ عَلَىٰ أَنفُسِكُمْ أَوِ الْوَالِدِينَ وَالْأَقْرَبِينَ ۚ إِن يَكُنْ غَنِيًّا أَوْ فَاقِرًا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ أَوْلَىٰ بِهِمَا فَلَا تَتَّبِعُوا أَهْوَىٰٓ أَن تَعْدِلُوا ۗ وَإِن تَلْوُوا أَوْ تُعْرِضُوا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ خَبِيرًا ﴾

164 The words “be firmly standing for justice” are very significant. They imply, you not only have to do justice but have also to bear the standard of justice in order to eradicate injustice and establish right and justice in its place. As believers, you have to gird up your loins to support justice, whenever your support is needed."

165 That is, the sole aim of your testimony should be to please Allah, without any tinge of partiality, self-interest, fear or favor in it.

136. O those who believe, believe in Allah,^{*166} and His messenger and the Book (the Quran) which He has sent down to His messenger, and the Scripture which He sent down before. And whoever disbelieves in Allah, and His angels, and His scriptures, and His messengers, and the Last Day,^{*167} then he has certainly strayed to a far away misguidance.

﴿ يَتَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا ءَامِنُوا بِاللَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ ۖ وَالْكِتَابِ الَّذِي نَزَّلَ

عَلَى رَسُولِهِ وَالْكِتَابِ الَّذِي
أَنْزَلَ مِنْ قَبْلُ وَمَنْ يَكْفُرْ بِاللَّهِ
وَمَلَائِكَتِهِ وَكُتُبِهِ وَرُسُلِهِ
وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ فَقَدْ ضَلَّ ضَلَالًا

بَعِيدًا

166 To ask believers to believe might at first seem strange. The fact is, however, that belief as used here has two meanings. First, belief denotes that a man has preferred to acknowledge the soundness of true guidance, to distance himself from the fold of those who disbelieve, and to join the camp of the believers. Second, belief denotes faith, a man's believing in the truth with all his heart, with full earnestness and sincerity. It denotes man's sincere determination to mold his way of thinking, his taste and temperament, his likes and dislikes, his conduct and character, his friendship and enmity, and the direction of his efforts and striving, in conformity with the creed which he has resolved to embrace. This verse is addressed to all those who are believers in the first sense of the term, and they are asked to change themselves into true believers, i.e. believers in the second sense.

167 Here kufr implies two things:

(1) A person may reject Islam outright.

(2) A person may pay lip service to Islam but may not sincerely believe in it or may show his conduct that he does not, in fact, believe in Islam, in spite of his profession. Here kufr implies both these things, and the verse warns that neither kind of kufr can go side by side with the fundamental articles of Islamic faith and will mislead the one who adopts it, away from the truth into the paths of deviation.

137. Certainly, those who believe, then disbelieve, then (again) believe, then (again) disbelieve, then go on increasing in disbelief,^{*168} Allah will never forgive them, nor will He guide them to the (right) way.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا ثُمَّ كَفَرُوا ثُمَّ
ءَامَنُوا ثُمَّ كَفَرُوا ثُمَّ أَزْدَادُوا
كُفْرًا لَّمْ يَكُنِ اللَّهُ لِيَغْفِرْ لَهُمْ وَلَا
لِيَهْدِيَهُمْ سَبِيلًا

168 These are the people who do not consider faith a serious matter but play with it like a toy to gratify their whims and lusts. They adopt Islam, if and when they are swayed to it by some fanciful notion, and become disbelievers if another notion moves them away to the opposite side. Or, they become Muslims when their interests demand it and become disbelievers, without the least hesitation, if their interests lie in disbelief. Obviously, for such people there is neither forgiveness nor guidance from Allah. They do not stop at their own disbelief but go much further in it. They strive to turn other Muslims also away from Islam, conspire against it and make open designs to harm it so as to raise the standard of kufr high up and to pull down the standard of Islam. As this is an addition to the sin of one's personal disbelief, it deserves much severe punishment than the offense of the one who disbelieves in Islam but is not antagonistic to it.

138. Give the tidings to the hypocrites that there is for them a painful punishment.

بَشِّرِ الْمُنَافِقِينَ بِأَنَّ لَهُمْ عَذَابًا أَلِيمًا

139. Those who take disbelievers for their friends instead of the believers. Do they seek honor with them.*169 But indeed, the honor belongs to Allah entirely.

الَّذِينَ يَتَّخِذُونَ الْكَافِرِينَ أَوْلِيَاءَ مِن دُونِ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ أَيْبَتُغُونَ عِنْدَهُمُ الْعِزَّةَ فَإِنَّ الْعِزَّةَ لِلَّهِ جَمِيعًا

*169 The Arabic word izzat is more comprehensive than the English word honor, the regard in which one is held by his followers. Izzat refers to such a high regard and secure position as is inviolable.

140. And it has already been revealed to you in the Book (this Quran) that, when you hear the verses of Allah being rejected of and mocked at, then do not sit with them (who disbelieve and mock) until they engage in some other conversation. Indeed, you would then be like them (should you stay with them).^{*170} Surely, Allah will gather hypocrites and disbelievers into Hell all together.

وَقَدْ نَزَّلَ عَلَيْكُمْ فِي الْكِتَابِ أَنْ إِذَا سَمِعْتُمْ آيَاتِ اللَّهِ يُكْفَرُ بِهَا وَيُسْتَهْزَأُ بِهَا فَلَا تَقْعُدُوا مَعَهُمْ حَتَّى يَخُوضُوا فِي حَدِيثٍ غَيْرِهِ إِنَّكُمْ إِذَا مِثْلُهُمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ جَامِعُ الْمُنَافِقِينَ وَالْكَافِرِينَ فِي

جَهَنَّمَ جَمِيعًا

170 The command to the believers to quit the company of the disbelievers, as soon as they get engaged in ridiculing Islam, is contained in Ayat 68 of Surah Al-Anaam which was revealed earlier than Surah An-Nisa. If a believer sits in the company of disbelievers and coolly listens to the ridicule of divine revelations, he becomes a partner in that blasphemy, and there remains little difference between him and the disbelievers.

141. Those who wait (and watch) about you. Then if there is a victory for you from Allah, they say: “Were we not with you.” And if there is a success for the disbelievers, they say (to them): “Did we not gain an advantage over you, and we protected you from the believers.”^{*171} So Allah will judge between you on the Day of Resurrection. And never will Allah grant to the disbelievers a way (of success) against the believers.

الَّذِينَ يَتَّبِعُونَكُمْ فَإِنْ كَانَ لَكُمْ فَتْحٌ مِّنَ اللَّهِ قَالُوا أَلَمْ نَكُنْ مَعَكُمْ وَإِنْ كَانَ لِلْكَافِرِينَ نَصِيبٌ قَالُوا أَلَمْ نَسْتَحِذْ عَلَيْكُمْ وَنَمْنَعُكُم مِّنَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ فَاللَّهُ يَحْكُمُ بَيْنَكُمْ يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ ۗ وَلَن يَجْعَلَ اللَّهُ لِلْكَافِرِينَ عَلَى الْمُؤْمِنِينَ سَبِيلًا

171 The hypocrites of every age have always enjoyed all the benefits conferred by Islam, by professing it with their tongue, and nominally joining the Muslim community. At the same time they enjoy all the benefits they can derive from the disbelievers, by mixing with them and assuring them, “We are not bigoted Muslims though we are nominally connected with them. We are akin to you in culture, in thoughts and in the way of life and our interests and loyalties are the same as yours. Therefore, you should rest assured that we will side with you in the conflict between Islam and kufr.”

142. Certainly, the hypocrites seek to deceive Allah, but it is He who deceives them. And when they stand up for the prayer, they stand with laziness, (and) to be seen of people, and they do not remember Allah but little. ^{*172}

إِنَّ الْمُنَافِقِينَ يُخَدِعُونَ اللَّهَ
وَهُوَ خَدِيعُهُمْ وَإِذَا قَامُوا إِلَى
الصَّلَاةِ قَامُوا كُسَالَى يُرَاءُونَ
النَّاسَ وَلَا يَذْكُرُونَ اللَّهَ إِلَّا
قَلِيلًا

172 The offering of the Salat in congregation has been held out as a test of one's being a sincere believer or a hypocrite because during the lifetime of the Prophet (peace be upon him) one could not be considered a member of the Islamic community unless one offered the Salat regularly and punctually. Just as every association or organization considers the absence of a member without genuine excuse from its meetings a sign of his lack of interest, and expels him from it for continuous absence, so if a Muslim absented himself from the Salat in congregation, it was considered a clear sign of his lack of interest in Islam. And if he continuously absented himself from it, this was taken as a proof of his desertion from Islam. That is why even the confirmed hypocrites of that time had to join the Salat in congregation five times a day; otherwise they could not be counted as members of the Islamic community. But what distinguished them from the true believers was that the true believers went to the mosques with great enthusiasm before time and stayed there even after the Prayer was over which was a clear proof of their genuine interest in it. On the other hand, the very call to the Prayer sounded like a death knell to a hypocrite. He would rise up reluctantly to join the congregation, but his whole demeanor clearly showed that he was offering his Salat unwillingly. Then after the Prayer he would leave the mosque in haste as if he had been released from prison. Thus, all his movements showed that he had no interest in the remembrance of Allah.

143. Swaying between this (and that), (belonging) neither to these (believers), nor to those (disbelievers). And he whom Allah sends astray, then you will never find for him a way. ^{*173}

مُذَبِّدِينَ بَيْنَ ذَلِكَ لَا إِلَىٰ
هَاتُوَلَاءِ وَلَا إِلَىٰ هَاتُوَلَاءِ ۚ وَمَنْ
يُضِلِّ اللَّهُ فَلَنْ تَجِدَ لَهُ سَبِيلًا

173 It declares that no human being has the power to guide to the right way the one who himself does not intend to get guidance from the Book of Allah and the excellent pattern of His Messenger (peace be upon him). Allah turns him to the wrong way to which he himself is inclined and shuts all the doors of guidance against him because of his own quest for deviation. And this happens in accordance with the divine law that man gets what he seeks and strives for. For instance, if one seeks to make one's provisions by lawful means and strives for the same, God provides lawful means for him and shuts unlawful doors against him, in proportion to the intensity of the sincerity of his intention. On the contrary, if one has the intention of making his provisions by unlawful means and strives for the same, Allah provides him with the same through unlawful means. Allah alone has the power to guide any individual on any way whatsoever, and no one can take any course, right or wrong, without His permission and without His help, but He allows and helps everyone to proceed on the way he chooses for himself. If one loves Allah and is a seeker after truth and sincerely strives to follow His way, He allows him and helps him to think and act on the right lanes leading to the right way and provides means for him to proceed on the same way. But if one chooses to follow wrong ways and strives to proceed on wrong ways, Allah shuts the way of guidance against him and opens before him evil ways which he chooses for himself. No one has the power to prevent such a one from evil thoughts and evil deeds and from spending his energies in evil ways. It is thus obvious that none can guide to the right way the wretched one who deliberately loses it and whom Allah leads astray in consequence of his intentional deviation.

144. O those who believe, do not take the disbelievers for friends instead of the believers. Do you wish to give Allah against yourselves a manifest proof.

يَتَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تَتَّخِذُوا
الْكَافِرِينَ أَوْلِيَاءَ مِنْ دُونِ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ ؕ أَتُرِيدُونَ أَنْ تَجْعَلُوا
لِلَّهِ عَلَيْكُمْ سُلْطٰنًا مُّبِينًا ﴿١٤٤﴾

145. Indeed, the hypocrites will be in the lowest depths of the Fire. And never will you find for them a helper.

إِنَّ الْمُنٰفِقِينَ فِي الدَّرَكِ الْأَسْفَلِ
مِنَ النَّارِ وَلَنْ تَجِدَ لَهُمْ نَصِيرًا ﴿١٤٥﴾

146. Except those who repent and correct themselves, and hold fast to Allah, and make sincere their religion for Allah,^{*174} then they will be with the believers. And Allah will bestow on the believers a great reward.

إِلَّا الَّذِينَ تَابُوا وَأَصْلَحُوا
وَأَعْتَصَمُوا بِاللَّهِ وَأَخْلَصُوا
دِينَهُمْ لِلَّهِ فَأُولَٰئِكَ مَعَ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَسَوْفَ يُؤْتِي اللَّهُ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ أَجْرًا عَظِيمًا ﴿١٤٦﴾

174 That person, who dedicates his faith to Allah, devotes his whole life earnestly and faithfully for Him and reserves all his loyalties, interests, and affections for Him alone. In short, his attachment to Allah becomes so intense that he is ready to sacrifice anything for Him.

147. What would Allah do (gain) with your punishment, if you give thanks^{*175} and believe (in Him). And Allah is ever All Appreciative (of good),^{*176} All Knowing.

مَا يَفْعَلُ اللَّهُ بِعَذَابِكُمْ إِنْ
شَكَرْتُمْ وَءَامَنْتُمْ ۚ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ
شَاكِرًا عَلِيمًا

175 That is, if you show your sincere gratitude to Allah and do not adopt an attitude of ingratitude and treachery towards Him in regard to the benefits and blessings you have received from Him, there is no reason why He should punish you.

The right attitude of gratitude is that one should sincerely appreciate the kindness of the benefactor, acknowledge it with his tongue and show his gratitude by his conduct. This implies three things: First, the grateful person should attribute the kindness to the real benefactor and should not associate anyone else with him in gratitude and acknowledgment. Second, he should be full of the feelings of love and loyalty for his benefactor and should not cherish any such feelings for the opponents of the benefactor. Third, he should be obedient to his benefactor, and should not in any way use or employ the benefits conferred on him against the will of the benefactor.

176 The word shakir, when applied to Allah, means that He appreciates the worth of the services of His servant; and when applied to the servant, it means that he expresses his gratitude to his Lord for His blessings. Allah appreciates fully the quantity and the quality of the services that are rendered by His servants for His cause and deprives none of them of the due rewards: nay, He rewards their services most generously and gives much more than they deserve. Of course, His treatment of His servants is quite different from their own treatment of their fellow-men. They underestimate the worth of the services rendered by a fellow man and take him to task severely for an omission. Allah in His bounty rewards much more generously than His servant deserves for any service rendered by him in His cause, but is very lenient and forgiving for any omission or neglect of duty shown by His servants.

148. Allah does not like any public utterance of evil except by one who has been wronged. And Allah is ever All Hearer, All Knower.

﴿ لَا يُحِبُّ اللَّهُ الْجَهْرَ بِالسُّوِّءِ
مِنَ الْقَوْلِ إِلَّا مَنْ ظُلِمَ ۚ وَكَانَ
اللَّهُ سَمِيعًا عَلِيمًا ﴾

149. Whether you publish a good deed, or conceal it, or forgive an evil, then indeed, Allah is ever Oft Forgiving, All Powerful.^{*177}

﴿ إِن تَبَدُّوا خَيْرًا أَوْ تَخْفَوْهُ أَوْ
تَعْفُوا عَن سُوءٍ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ كَانَ
عَفُوًّا قَدِيرًا ﴾

177 The moral instructions contained in this verse are of the highest standard. The Muslims have been taught to practice virtue or at least to show forbearance even in the face of provocation. At the time of its revelation, the hypocrites, the Jews and the idolaters were all engaged in opposing Islam by all possible means and were maltreating its followers in every conceivable way. Therefore it was but natural that the Muslims should be filled with feelings of anger and hatred. When Allah noticed the storm of emotion rising in their hearts, he warned them that He did not like that they give vent to their feelings, though they were wronged and therefore justified, if in retaliation they gave expression to their bitter feelings. They were taught that they, as Muslims, were expected to go on doing good openly and secretly or at least refrain from doing evil for evil. They were instructed, “You should try to mold your character after that of your Allah, Who is so Forbearing that He does not withhold His provisions even from the most wicked culprits and shows forbearance to the most sinful offenders. You should, therefore, have a big heart and show forbearance even in the most critical and provocative situations.

150. Indeed, those who disbelieve in Allah and His messengers, and wish that they can create a distinction between Allah and His messengers, and they say: “We believe in some and disbelieve in others,” and they wish that they can adopt a way in between.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ يَكْفُرُونَ بِاللَّهِ
 وَرُسُلِهِ وَيُرِيدُونَ أَنْ يُفَرِّقُوا
 بَيْنَ اللَّهِ وَرُسُلِهِ وَيَقُولُونَ
 نُؤْمِنُ بِبَعْضٍ وَنَكْفُرُ بِبَعْضٍ
 وَيُرِيدُونَ أَنْ يَتَّخِذُوا بَيْنَ ذَلِكَ
 سَبِيلًا

151. It is they, they are the disbelievers in truth,^{*178} and We have prepared for the disbelievers a humiliating punishment.

أُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْكَافِرُونَ حَقًّا
وَأَعْتَدْنَا لِلْكَافِرِينَ عَذَابًا مُّهِينًا

178 That is, there is absolutely no doubt that all those people are equally disbelievers, who deny Allah all His Messengers, who acknowledge Allah but deny His Messengers, who accept some of the Messengers and reject others. Each and every one of such people is a confirmed disbeliever.

152. And those who believe in Allah and His messengers, and make no distinction between any of them. To such, He will give them their rewards.^{*179} And Allah is ever Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.^{*180}

وَالَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا بِاللَّهِ وَرُسُلِهِ وَلَمْ
يُفَرِّقُوا بَيْنَ أَحَدٍ مِّنْهُمْ أُولَئِكَ
سَوْفَ يُؤْتِيهِمْ أَجْرَهُمُ^ق وَكَانَ
اللَّهُ غَفُورًا رَّحِيمًا

179 Full assurance has been given to those who acknowledge Allah as their sole Sovereign and Deity, and submit to and follow all His Messengers, that they deserve to be rewarded according to the quality of their good deeds. In contrast to them, there is ignominious punishment for those who do not acknowledge Allah as the sole Sovereign and Sustainer, or for those who adopted the rebellious way by accepting some of His representatives and rejecting others. Allah does not accept any of the apparently good deeds of such people because it has no legal status in His sight.

180 As Allah is Forgiving and Compassionate, He will be very lenient in judging the deeds of those who believe in Him and His Messengers and will not be hard on them.

153. The people of the Scripture ask you to bring down upon them a book from the heaven.^{*181}

Then indeed, they had asked Moses even greater than that, when they said: "Show us Allah plainly." So the storm of lightning seized them for their wrongdoing.^{*182} Then they took the calf (for worship) even after what had come to them as clear evidences.^{*183}

Even then We forgave that. And We bestowed on Moses an evident authority.

يَسْأَلُكَ أَهْلُ الْكِتَابِ أَنْ تَنْزِلَ
عَلَيْهِمْ كِتَابًا مِّنَ السَّمَاءِ فَقَدْ
سَأَلُوا مُوسَىٰ أَكْبَرَ مِنْ ذَلِكَ
فَقَالُوا أَرِنَا اللَّهَ جَهْرَةً
فَأَخَذْتَهُمُ الصَّعِقَةَ يُظْلِمُهُمْ
ثُمَّ آخَذُوا الْعِجْلَ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا
جَاءَتْهُمْ الْبَيِّنَاتُ فَعَفَوْنَا عَنْ
ذَلِكَ وَعَاتَيْنَا مُوسَىٰ سُلْطٰنًا

مُبِينًا ١٥٣

181 This was one of the strange demands of the Jews of Al-Madinah. They said to the Prophet (peace be upon him), "We will not accept you as a Prophet unless you cause a written Book to come down to us from heaven before our very eyes or cause a written message to come down to each one of us to this effect: Muhammad (peace be upon him) is Our Messenger; so believe in him."

*182 A mere mention of this incident has been made in the short list of the crimes of the Israelites to which reference has been made here to show how impertinent they had become. This incident has already been mentioned in Ayat 55 of Surah Al-Baqarah (See E.N. 17, Surah Al-Baqarah).

*183 “Clear evidences”: the signs which the children of Israel had seen, one after the other, since the time of the Prophet Moses’ (peace be upon him) appointment as a Messenger. They had also witnessed the drowning of Pharaoh and his army and many other signs during their exodus from Egypt. Therefore, they knew well that it was Allah, Lord of the universe, and not a calf, Who had rescued them from the tyranny of a powerful ruler like Pharaoh. Yet they were so enamored of false gods that they forsook God, their real Benefactor, and made the calf of gold the object of their worship.

154. And We raised over them the Mount for (taking) their covenant.*184 And We said to them: “Enter the gate, prostrating.”*185 And We said to them: “Do not transgress in Sabbath.” And We took from them a firm covenant.*186

وَرَفَعْنَا فَوْقَهُمُ الطُّورَ بِمِيثَاقِهِمْ
وَقُلْنَا لَهُمْ ادْخُلُوا الْبَابَ سُجَّدًا
وَقُلْنَا لَهُمْ لَا تَعْدُوا فِي السَّبْتِ
وَأَخَذْنَا مِنْهُمْ مِيثَاقًا غَلِيظًا

*184 “Firm covenant”: the commandments inscribed on the tablets which were given to the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him). The covenant was the pledge taken from the chiefs of Israel at the foot of Mount Tur. This has already been mentioned in Surah Al-Baqarah, Ayat 63 and is also referred to in Surah Al-Aaraf, Ayat 171.

*185 See Ayats 58-89 and E.N. 75 of Surah Al-Baqarah.

*186 See Ayat 65 and E.Ns 82-83 of Surah Al-Baqarah.

155. Then because of their breaking of their covenant, and their disbelieving in the revelations of Allah, and their killing of the prophets without right, and of their saying: “Our hearts are covered.”*187 Nay,*188 but Allah has set a seal upon them because of their disbelief, so they do not believe except a few.

فَبِمَا نَقَضْتُمْ مِيثَاقَهُمْ وَكُفِّرْتُمْ
بِعَايَةِ اللَّهِ وَقَتْلِهِمُ الْأَنْبِيَاءَ بَغَيْرِ
حَقٍّ وَقَوْلِهِمْ قُلُوبُنَا غُلْفٌ بَلْ
طَبَعَ اللَّهُ عَلَيْهَا بِكُفْرِهِمْ فَلَا
يُؤْمِنُونَ إِلَّا قَلِيلًا

*187 Reference has already been made to such a saying of the Jews in Surah Al-Baqarah, Ayat 88. Just as all the worshipers of falsehood are proud of their obduracy against the truth, so were the Jews proud of their beliefs, prejudices, rituals and customs that they had inherited from their forefathers and could not be persuaded to give them up. That is why they always turned a deaf ear to the Message of the Prophets of Allah with the answer: “We are determined to reject your invitation, even though you bring strong arguments in support thereof. We will adhere strongly and faithfully to what we believe and practice.” (See E.N. 94 of Surah Al-Baqarah).

*188 This is a parenthetical statement.

156. And because^{*189} of their disbelief and of their uttering against Mary a great slander.^{*190}

وَيَكْفُرِهِمْ وَقَوْلِهِمْ عَلَىٰ مَرْيَمَ
بُهْتَانًا عَظِيمًا

189 This is in continuation of the theme under discussion.

190 The calumny against Mary concerning the birth of Jesus has been declared here as disbelief because it was not directed against the person of innocent Mary or her son but against Jesus Christ, the Messenger (peace be upon him) of God. The Jews had absolutely no ground for suspicion about his miraculous birth without father, because God had caused the whole community to stand as witness to the miracle. When virgin Mary, who belonged to the noble and well known religious family of the Israelites, came home with the new born child, a large crowd gathered there and demanded an explanation from her. But she simply pointed to the child. The crowd could not understand how a child in the cradle could speak, but to their utter astonishment, the child began to speak clearly and fluently and addressing the crowd, he declared, "I am Allah's servant: Allah has given me the Book and made me a Prophet." (Surah Maryam, Ayat 30). Thus Allah cut at the very root of the slander about his birth. That is why none ever accused Mary of fornication, nor taunted Jesus (peace be upon him) with being an illegitimate son until he stained his maturity. But when at the age of thirty, he started his mission to invite the people to the way of God and rebuked the Jews for their evil deeds and exposed the hypocrisies of their scholars and jurists and warned the whole community of the consequences of moral degradation, they turned against him. Instead of accepting his message and making sacrifices for the cause of God, and reforming their evil ways, these impudent and unscrupulous criminals resorted to all sorts of dirty tricks and devilish designs to suppress the voice of truth. It was then that they made that monstrous calumny which they had never uttered before during the previous thirty years of his life, because they knew it for certain that Mary and her son were absolutely free from this taint. Thus their calumny, in fact, was not due to any real suspicion, which they might be harboring in their hearts, but it was a pure calumny, which they deliberately invented for opposing the truth. That is why Allah declared it to be disbelief instead of wickedness and falsehood, for their real aim by this accusation was to hinder the people from the way of God and not merely to slander an innocent lady.

157. And (because of) their saying: “We indeed killed Messiah, Jesus, son of Mary, Allah’s messenger.”^{*191} And^{*192} they did not kill him, nor they crucified him, but it appeared so unto them.^{*193} And indeed, those who disagree over it are in doubt thereof. They do not have any knowledge of it, but pursuit of a conjecture.^{*194} And certainly they did not kill him.

191 The fact that they bragged of slaying Jesus (peace be upon him), knowing him to be a Messenger of God, shows how bold they had become in their crimes. We have shown in the previous note that the miracle of his speech in the cradle had let no doubt whatsoever to remain in the minds of the Jews about his prophethood. Then the clear signs that they witnessed from him (Surah Aal-Imran, Ayat 49) were a conclusive proof that he was really a Prophet of God. Therefore their wicked behavior towards him was not the result of any misunderstanding about his prophethood, but was an intentional crime against the one who had been appointed by Allah as Messenger.

Though it appears very strange that a community should slay a person whom they know to be and acknowledge a Prophet of Allah, yet it is so, for the ways of wicked communities are strange. They cannot and do not tolerate a person who criticizes them for their evil ways and prohibits unlawful things. Such people, even though they be the Prophets of Allah, have always been persecuted, imprisoned and slain by their own wicked people.

As a proof thereof, the following is quoted from the Talmud: "When the city (Jerusalem) had been captured, Nebuchadnezzar marched with the princes and officers of the Temple.... On one of the walls he found the mark of an arrow's head as though somebody had been killed or hit nearby, and he asked who was killed there.

"Zachariah, the son of Yehoyadah, the high priest, answered the people. He rebuked us incessantly on account of our transgressions and we were tired of his words and put him to death.”

Even according to the Bible, when the Prophet Jeremiah rebuked the Jews on account of their transgressions, they accused him of being in conspiracy with the Chaldeans and traitor against his people and sent him to prison. Likewise, the Jews had treated John the Baptist a couple of years before the crucifixion of the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon them). They counted John as a Prophet and acknowledged him as one of the most righteous men of their community, but when he criticized Herod (the ruler of Judea) for his evil ways, he was not tolerated. He was first sent to prison, then beheaded on the demand of Herod’s beloved, the dancing girl.

It is, therefore, obvious from their record that when they presumed that they had crucified Jesus Christ (peace be upon him), they bragged: “We have slain a Messenger of Allah.”

*192 This is another parenthesis.

*193 This verse is explicit on the point that the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) was rescued from crucifixion and that the Christians and the Jews are both wrong in believing that he died on the cross. A comparative study of the Quran and the Bible shows that most probably it was Jesus (peace be upon him) himself who stood his trial in the court of Pilate, who sentenced him to death, but they could not kill or crucify him, for Allah raised him to Himself.

This is what happened, Pilate knew well that Jesus (peace be upon him) was innocent and had been brought in his court out of jealousy. So he asked the crowd whether Jesus (peace be upon him) should be released on the occasion of the Festival or Barabbas, a notorious robber. But the high priests and elders persuaded the crowd to ask for the release of Barabbas and for the crucifixion of Jesus (peace be upon him). After this, God, Who can do any and everything He wills, raised Jesus (peace be upon him) to Himself and rescued him from crucifixion and the one who was crucified afterwards was somehow or other taken for Christ. Nevertheless, his miraculous escape does not lessen the wicked crime of the Jews, because they knew it well that the one, whom they crowned with a crown of thorns, and on whose face they spat and whom they supposedly crucified with disgrace was Christ, the son of Mary. As regards the matter how “But it appeared so unto them” that they had crucified Jesus (peace be upon him), we have no means of ascertaining. Therefore it is not right to base on mere guess-work and rumors an answer to the question how the Jews were made to believe that they had crucified him, whereas in fact, Jesus (peace be upon him), the son of Mary, had escaped from them.

194 “They do not have any knowledge of it, but pursuit of a conjecture.” They, the Christians. They do not agree in their versions of crucifixion. The very fact that they offer so many different accounts of the matter is by itself a proof that they possess no definite knowledge of it and are, therefore, in doubt about it. One version is that the person who was crucified was not Jesus (peace be upon him) but someone who bore his likeness, whom the Jews and the Romans had disgracefully put on the cross, while Jesus (peace be upon him) was standing nearby and laughing at their folly. Another version is that the one who was nailed to the cross was Jesus (peace be upon him), but he did not die on the cross and was alive when he was taken down from it. Some others say that he died on the cross but came to life afterwards and met his disciples more than ten times and talked to them. Still others say that death due to crucifixion occurred on the physical body of Jesus (peace be upon him) and he was buried but the divine spirit within him was raised. There are still others who say that after his death Jesus (peace be upon him) came to life with his body and was raised with his body. Obviously, if the Christians had any knowledge of the truth, they would not have given so many different versions of it.

158. But Allah raised him up unto Himself.^{*195} And Allah is ever All-Powerful, All-Wise.

بَلْ رَفَعَهُ اللَّهُ إِلَيْهِ ۚ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ
عَزِيزًا حَكِيمًا

195 Here Allah has told the fact of the matter. The Quran explicitly states that the Jews did not succeed in putting Jesus (peace be upon him) to death and that Allah raised him to Himself, but it is silent about the nature and details of the matter and does neither say explicitly whether Allah raised his body and soul together from the earth to some place in heaven, nor that he died like other mortals and only his soul was raised to heaven. Therefore, on the basis of the Quran neither aspect can be definitely denied or affirmed. But a study of the style clearly shows that whatever be the nature of being raised in any case, Allah certainly treated the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) in an extraordinary way. The following considerations lead to the conclusion that the incident was extraordinary.

First, the belief in the ascension of the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him), body and soul together, was already prevalent among the Christians, and was one of the causes which misled a large section of them to believe in his divinity. But, in spite of it, the Quran not only has not clearly refuted it but has used the same word “ascension” for the incident that the Christians use for it. Had it not been an extraordinary incident factually the Quran would not have used such ambiguous words as help support a doctrine of the divinity of Jesus (peace be upon him).

Second, had Allah meant by the words used in Ayat 158 that “Allah caused his death”, or that “Allah raised him in rank”, more explicit words would have been used. In the first case, more appropriate words would be: “No doubt they did not slay him nor crucified him but Allah rescued him alive from them and then gave him natural death”, and in the second: “The Jews intended to dishonor him by crucifixion, but Allah raised him very high in rank”, as have been used in tire case of the Prophet Idris: “And We raised him to a high position”. (Surah Maryam, Ayat 57).

Third, if the incident related here meant merely the natural death of Christ, the words, “And Allah is All-Powerful and All-Wise”, after it would be meaningless. These words can be appropriately used only in connection with some extraordinary manifestation of the power and wisdom of Allah.

The only argument that can be cited in support of the interpretation of verse Ayat 158 that Jesus died a natural death is the use of the word mutawaffika in Ayat 55 of Surah Aa1-Imran, in connection with the incident. But as we have explained in the corresponding E.N. 51, the word is not explicit in the meaning of natural death but can be applied both to take the soul and to take the body and soul together. As there is scope for both the interpretations in this word, its use cannot refute the above mentioned arguments against the meaning: “Allah caused his death”. Those who insist on this interpretation argue that there is no other instance in which tawaffa might have been used for the seizure of both body and soul together. This is meaningless, for this is the only incident of its kind in the whole human history. The only thing to be considered is whether this word may lexically be used in this sense or not. If it can be used, we have to face the question: Why does the Quran not use a direct word for death instead of a word which is liable to support the doctrine of ascension, which in turn, has given rise to the doctrine of the divinity of Jesus (peace be upon him)? The use of this word is a clear proof that there was something extraordinary about the incident. Above all, the doctrine of ascension is further strengthened by the traditions according to which the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him), son of Mary, will come again to the earth before the Resurrection and fight the Dajjal. (These traditions have been cited in the Appendix to the commentary of Surah Al-Ahzab). These categorically prove the second coming of Jesus (peace be upon him). Therefore, it would be more rational to believe that he is living somewhere in the universe before this second coming than that he lies dead and buried somewhere before his advent.

159. And there is none from the people of the Scripture but that he will surely believe in him before his death.^{*196} And on the Day of Resurrection he will be against them a witness.^{*197}

وَإِنْ مِنْ أَهْلِ الْكِتَابِ إِلَّا
لَيُؤْمِنَنَّ بِهِ قَبْلَ مَوْتِهِ وَيَوْمَ
الْقِيَامَةِ يَكُونُ عَلَيْهِمْ شَهِيدًا

196 This has been interpreted in two ways and both are likely. Here by the people of the Scripture are meant the Jews and may also be the Christians. According to the first interpretation, it means: “All the people of the Scripture, alive at the time of the natural death of Christ, will have believed in him, that is, in his prophethood.” The second interpretation of “And there is none from the people of the Scripture but that he will surely believe in him before his death” is that all the people of the Book before their death do realize and believe that Christ is really a Messenger of God, though that belief will be of no avail at the time. Both these interpretations have been put forward by several companions and their followers and renowned commentators, but its real meaning is only known to Allah.

197 That is, “In the court of God, Christ will give testimony against the Jews and the Christians that they rejected, neglected and distorted the message brought by him.” Some details of this testimony are given in Ayats 116-117 of Surah Al Maidah.

160. Because^{*198} of the wrong doing of those who became Jews, We made unlawful for them (certain) good things that had been lawful to them (before), and because of their hindering many (people) from Allah’s way.^{*199}

فَبِظُلْمٍ مِّنَ الَّذِينَ هَادُوا
حَرَّمْنَا عَلَيْهِمْ طَيِّبَاتٍ أُحِلَّتْ لَهُمْ
وَبَصَدَّهِمْ عَن سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ كَثِيرًا

198 The main theme that was broken by the parenthesis, which ends here, has been resumed.

199 It is an irony that the Jews, who possessed a bivariate Book and the heritage of the prophets, should not only have themselves discarded the way of God but also frequently stood in the way of God. It is a fact that they have always been opposing and placing obstacles in the way of those movements that have ever been started for the promulgation of the truth and have been starting or helping start movements against the way of God. Their latest crime in this connection is communism which, for the first time in history, is based on a system of life and a system of government on the deliberate and explicit denial of God. Its declared aims, an open opposition to His law and eradication of the God-worship. The author of another perverted doctrine of the modern age, Freudianism, which has helped mislead the people from the way of Allah, is also a Jew.

161. And of their taking of usury while indeed they were forbidden from it,^{*200} and of their devouring people's wealth unjustly.^{*201} And We have prepared for the disbelievers among them a painful punishment.^{*202}

وَأَخَذِهِمُ الرِّبَا وَقَدْ نُهُوا عَنْهُ
وَأَكْلِهِمُ أَمْوَالَ النَّاسِ بِالْبَاطِلِ
وَأَعْتَدْنَا لِلْكَافِرِينَ مِنْهُمْ عَذَابًا
أَلِيمًا

200 Here is the Biblical law that clearly prohibits interest: "If thou lend money to any of my people that is poor by thee, thou shalt not be to him as an usurer, neither shalt thou lay upon him usury."

"If thou at all take thy neighbor's raiment to pledge, thou shalt deliver it unto him by that time the sun goeth down. For that is his covering only, it is his raiment for his skin wherein shall he sleep, and it shall come to pass, when he crieth unto me, that I will hear: for I am gracious." (Exodus 22 : 25-27).

Besides this, interest has also been prohibited at several other places in the Torah, but in spite of these prohibitive decrees, the Jews, who profess to believe in the same Torah, are the biggest usurers in the world and have become proverbially notorious for their narrow-mindedness and hard-heartedness.

201 Probably this refers to the same thing that occurs in Surah Al-Anaam, Ayat 146, that is, all animals with claws, and the fat of sheep and oxen were forbidden to the Jews. Besides this, possibly it may also refer to the restrictions and hardships which are contained in the law books composed by their own Jurists. Indeed, it is a great punishment that the bounds of life should be narrowed for any community. (See E.N. 122, Surah Al-Anaam).

202 History bears witness to the exemplary punishment that Allah has prepared for those Jews who have discarded the divine faith and given up obedience to Allah and adopted the attitude of disbelief and rebellion. For the last two thousand years, they have never possessed a place where they could live with honor. They have been scattered all over the world and are treated like foreigners and disgracefully, cruelly and oppressively in one country or the other, and there is no place in the world, where they are sincerely respected, in spite of their great wealth. Above all, this community has remained a living object lesson for the other nations, for it has been kept in existence in spite of its degradation, whereas other nations are exterminated when they become worthless. Thus Allah is causing them to taste in this very world a bit of the torment of Hell where the evil-doers will neither be in a state of death nor in a state of life. This is because they have been showing the audacity of rebelling against Allah while they were at the same time carrying the Book of Allah with them. As regards to the punishment in the Hereafter, it may safely be predicted that it shall be much more painful than this. In order to remove any misunderstanding that might arise regarding the existence of the State of Israel, it will be worthwhile to refer to Ayat 112 and E.N. 90 of Surah Aal-Imran.

162. But those who are firm in knowledge

لَكِن الرّٰسِخُوْنَ فِي الْعِلْمِ مِنْهُمْ

among them, and the believers, they believe in that which has been sent down to you (Muhammad), and that which was sent down before you.*203 And those who establish prayer, and those who pay the poor due, and believe in Allah and the Last Day. It is they to whom We shall bestow immense reward.

وَالْمُؤْمِنُونَ يُؤْمِنُونَ بِمَا أُنزِلَ
إِلَيْكَ وَمَا أُنزِلَ مِنْ قَبْلِكَ
وَالْمُقِيمِينَ الصَّلَاةَ
وَالْمُؤْتُونَ الزَّكَاةَ
وَالْمُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ
أُولَئِكَ سَنُؤْتِيهِمْ أَجْرًا عَظِيمًا

*203 The reference is to those learned Jews who are fully acquainted with the real nature of the divine Books, who are just, fair and free from every kind of prejudice, obduracy and self-worship, who do not blindly follow their forefathers but readily accept the truth that they learn from the revealed Books. Therefore they are able to recognize easily that the teachings of the Quran are the same as were taught by the former Prophets, and then sincerely believe in both.

163. Indeed, We have revealed to you (Muhammad), as We revealed to Noah and the prophets after him.*204 And We revealed to Abraham, and Ishmael, and Isaac, and إِنَّا أَوْحَيْنَا إِلَيْكَ كَمَا أَوْحَيْنَا

إِلَى نُوحٍ وَالنَّبِيِّينَ مِنْ بَعْدِهِ
وَأَوْحَيْنَا إِلَى إِبْرَاهِيمَ وَإِسْمَاعِيلَ
وَإِسْحَاقَ وَيَعْقُوبَ وَالْأَسْبَاطِ

Jacob, and the tribes, and Jesus, and Job, and Jonah, and Aaron, and Solomon, and We gave to David the Psalms.*205

وَعِيسَىٰ وَأَيُّوبَ وَيُونُسَ وَهَارُونَ
وَسُلَيْمَانَ ۚ وَءَاتَيْنَا دَاوُدَ زَبُورًا

204 This is to emphasize the fact that the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon whom) has not come with a new thing and that he does not claim to present something for the first time, but he has, in fact, received guidance from the same source of knowledge from which all the prophets before him had received, and that he too is presenting the same truth and reality that has always been presented by the prophets, who were raised from different corners of the earth.

The literal meaning of wahi is: (1) to give hint of, (2) to communicate to the mind, (3) to convey by covert suggestion, and (4) to send a message.

205 Only a part of the Book of Psalms in the existing Bible consists of the Psalms of the Prophet David, and they bear his name. Its remaining constituent parts are the psalms of other people, and have been attributed to their authors. It should also be noted that the study of the real Zabur, the Psalms of David, shows that it is a revelation of God. Likewise, additions have been made in the Book of the Proverbs of Solomon and the last two chapters were obviously added afterwards. But, in spite of this, the major portion of the Proverbs contains gems of truth and wisdom. The same is true of the Book of Job. A study of this reveals that, though it contains gems of wisdom, it is wrong to attribute the whole of it to the Prophet Job. Whereas the Quran and the introductory chapters of this very Book bear witness to the great fortitude shown by the Prophet Job, its subsequent chapters show that he was an embodiment of grievance against God, and that, in vain, did his companions try their best to convince him that God was not unjust.

Besides these, the major portions of the seventeen Books of the Israelite Prophets in the Old Testament are evidently genuine revelations; especially the Books of Joshua, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Amos and some others contain many such passages that show the grandeur of divine revelation and move one to ecstasy. Their high moral teachings, their campaign against idolatry and their sound arguments prove the Oneness of God, and their strong criticism of the degeneration of Israel clearly shows that these and the sermons of Jesus Christ (peace be upon him) in the New Testament and the Quran came from one and the same source.

164. And (We sent) the messengers whom We have indeed mentioned to you before, and the messengers whom We have not mentioned to you. And Allah spoke to Moses, a (direct) conversation. ^{*206}

وَرُسُلًا قَدْ قَصَصْنَاهُمْ عَلَيْكَ
 مِنْ قَبْلُ وَرُسُلًا لَمْ نَقْصُصْهُمْ
 عَلَيْكَ ۗ وَكَلَّمَ اللَّهُ مُوسَى
 تَكْلِيمًا

206 The way revelation was communicated to the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) was different from that of the other Prophets. They heard either a voice or a message from an angel, but the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) had this privilege that Allah Himself had a direct talk with him as in a dialogue, e.g., the dialogue cited in Surah Ta Ha, Ayats 11-48 in the Quran. This privilege has also been mentioned in the Bible: “.....And the Lord spake unto Moses face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend.” (Exodus 33:11).

165. Messengers as bearers of glad tiding and as warners,^{*207} so that there might not be for mankind an argument against Allah after the messengers.^{*208} And Allah is ever All Mighty, All Wise.

رُسُلًا مُّبَشِّرِينَ وَمُنذِرِينَ لِئَلَّا
يَكُونَ لِلنَّاسِ عَلَى اللَّهِ حُجَّةٌ
بَعْدَ الرُّسُلِ وَكَانَ اللَّهُ عَزِيزًا
حَكِيمًا

207 That is, all the Prophets had one and the same mission. They gave good news to those who believed in the divine message and mended their ways in accordance with it and warning to those who adopted wrong ways of thought and action that they would meet with serious sequences in the end.

208 The Prophets were sent with the sole object that they should set forth before mankind the right way, both theoretically and practically, so that on the Day of Judgment no evil-doer should be in a position to offer the excuse that he was ignorant of the truth. That is why Allah appointed messengers in different parts of the world and sent down Books. These messengers imparted the knowledge of the truth to a large number of people and left behind them Books of which one or the other has always existed for the guidance of mankind. Now if one goes astray in spite of this arrangement, one cannot throw the blame on Allah and His messengers. He himself is responsible for this because he did not accept the truth when it came to him, or the responsibility is of those who had the knowledge of it but did not impart it to others who had gone astray.

166. But Allah (Himself) bears witness that what He has sent down to you, He has sent it down with His Knowledge, and the angels bear witness. And sufficient is Allah as a witness.

لَكِنِ اللَّهُ يَشْهَدُ بِمَا أَنْزَلَ

167. Indeed, those who disbelieve and hinder (others) from the way of Allah, they have certainly strayed to a far away misguidance.

168. Indeed, those who disbelieve and do wrong, Allah will never forgive them, nor will He guide them to the (right) path.

170. O mankind, there has indeed come to you the messenger (Muhammad) with the truth from your Lord. So believe, (that is) better for you. And if you disbelieve, then indeed, to Allah belongs whatever is in the heavens and the earth.*209 And Allah is ever All Knower, All Wise.*210

حَكِيمًا

209 That is, “You will harm none but yourselves by your disbelief and disobedience, for you can do no harm to the Master of the heavens and the earth.”

210 That is, “Your Allah is fully aware of everything, you cannot do mischief with impunity in His Kingdom, He is also Wise. He knows how to deal with those who disobey His commands.”

171. O People of the Scripture, do not commit excess in your religion,*211 nor say about Allah except the truth. The Messiah, Jesus, son of Mary, was only

Allah is only One God. Exalted is He above that He should have a son.^{*216} To Him belongs whatever is in the heavens and whatever is on the earth.^{*217} And sufficient is Allah as a Defender.^{*218}

 يَكُونَ لَهُ وَلَدٌ لَهُ مَا فِي
 السَّمَوَاتِ وَمَا فِي الْأَرْضِ
 وَكَفَى بِاللَّهِ وَكِيلًا

211 Here “The people of the Scripture” refers to the Christians who went beyond the bounds in their religion and regarded Jesus (peace be upon him) God in their exaggerated reverence and love of him. This was a contrast to the Jews (the other people of the Scripture) who had gone to the other extreme in their denial of an enmity against Jesus (peace be upon him).

212 The Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) has specially been called God’s “command” (Kalimah) because he was born without the usual agency of a father. God sent a command that Mary should become pregnant without the semen of a man and she conceived. Although in the very beginning, the Christians were told that Christ had been born without a father by the command of God, yet they were so misled by the Alexandrian Philosophy of Philo that they first mistook Kalimah (command) for the “Divine Word”; then changed the “Divine Word” into the “Logos”; then they built on the Logos Doctrine which misguided them to the false belief in the divine nature of Jesus Christ. That is how they came to believe that God had revealed Himself or His eternal attribute of speech in the person of Jesus. (See John I : 1,14).

213 Here Jesus (peace be upon him) has been called “A spirit from Him” and in Surah Al-Baqarah, Ayat 253, it is stated that God supported him (Jesus) with the “Holy Spirit”. In both cases, it means that Allah had bestowed upon the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) a Holy Spirit that was imbued with high moral values and was a perfection of truth and righteousness without any tinge of evil. The Christians were taught this very thing, but they exaggerated the notion: they took “A spirit from God” for “the Spirit of God” and perverted the meaning of the Holy Ghost into “the Spirit of God Himself” which had entered into Jesus Christ. Thus, a third god, “the Holy Ghost”, was created along with God and Christ. This was their second transgression which led the Christians astray.

The perversion of “A spirit from God” into “the Spirit of God” (Holy Ghost) has been made in spite of the fact that according to the Gospel of Matthew, “The angel of the Lord appeared unto him (Joseph) in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary, thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost,” and not the Holy Ghost (1 : 20).

214 That is, “As Jesus is only a spirit from God and has no part of Godhead in him, do not go beyond the bounds but believe in Allah as One God and accept all His Messengers including the Messiah.” This was what the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) himself really taught and this is the truth which a true Christian should believe.

215 The Christians have been rebuked for their wrong belief in the doctrine of the trinity and advised to refrain from transgression. Strange though it may appear, the fact is that the Christians believe both in the Oneness of God and in the trinity at one and the same time; for no Christian can deny that according to the clear sayings of Jesus (peace be upon him) in the Gospels, God is One Being and there is no other god than He. They cannot but admit that Unity of God is the real basis of religion. But the introduction of the doctrine of the Logos at an early stage of Christianity misled them into believing in the Godhead of Christ in union with God and the Holy Ghost. Since then it has always remained an enigma for them to reconcile these two contradictory doctrines and for the last eighteen hundred years or so the Christian scholars have been vainly engaged in solving this self-created baffling puzzle. Not only this, many Christian denominations have been founded upon different interpretations of this doctrine and it has given rise to many religious disputes in which one denomination accuses the other of blasphemy. In short, their scholars and interpreters have been spending all their efforts and energies in solving this enigma which was neither created by God nor by Christ. It is also obvious that there is no solution to it, because no one can prove that three persons share Godhead and also that God is One Being and has no partners in His Godhead. As this enigma is the result of their own transgression beyond the divine limits, it can only be solved if they refrain from going beyond the limits and give up the belief of the Godhead of the Messiah and of the Holy Ghost, and acknowledge Allah as the sole object of worship, adoration and devotion and believe in the Messiah as a Messenger of God and not as a partner in the Godhead of Allah.

216 This refutes the fourth transgression of the Christians who believed that Christ was the Son of God. In this belief they had gone beyond the limits of their own religion. According to the first three Books of The New Testament (even if the traditions therein be accepted as authentic), the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) merely likened the relationship between Man and Allah to the relationship between father and son, and used the word father for God metaphorically, just as it was in vogue among the Israelites. There are many instances of this in the Old Testament the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) also used the word “father” in the sense it was used by his people. He called God not only his father but the father of all human beings. But, the Christians again went beyond the limits and declared Jesus (peace be upon him) to be the only son of God. They based this strange belief on the assumption that Messiah was the manifestation of God and the incarnation of His Word and His Holy Ghost. They also transgressed in believing that God had sent His only son to the earth so that he might take the burden of the sins of mankind on his own shoulders and go to his crucifixion and atone for the sins of Man with his own blood. Obviously, this belief is the creation of their own imagination, for there is no saying of Christ to support this.

Here, Allah has not refuted the doctrine of the "Atonement" because it is not a fundamental article of the Christian religion, but is a mere byproduct of (a) the belief that Christ is the son of God and (b) a philosophical and mystical explanation of the objection that if Christ was the son of God, why did he die a cursed death of crucifixion? It is thus obvious that this doctrine is refuted automatically, if it is shown that Christ was not the son of God and that he did not die on the cross.

217 As all things in the heavens and the earth belong to Allah, none of them has any such relation with Him as of father and son, but only that of Master and slave.

218 Allah suffices for the management of His Kingdom and does not stand in need of the help of a son for this purpose.

172. Never would the Messiah disdain to be a slave to Allah, nor the angels near (to Him). And whoever disdains from His worship, and is arrogant, so He shall لَنْ يَسْتَنْكِفَ الْمَسِيحُ أَنْ

173. Then as for those who believed and did righteous deeds, He will give them in full their wages, and He will grant them more out of His bounty. And as for those who were disdainful and arrogant, so He will punish them with a painful punishment. And they will not find for them, other than Allah, any protecting friend, nor helper.

فَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا الصَّالِحَاتِ فَيُوَفِّيهِمْ أُجُورَهُمْ وَيَزِيدُهُم مِّن فَضْلِهِ ۗ وَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ اسْتَنكَفُوا وَاسْتَكْبَرُوا فَيَعَذِّبُهُمْ عَذَابًا أَلِيمًا وَلَا يَجِدُونَ لَهُم مِّن دُونِ اللَّهِ وَلِيًّا وَلَا نَصِيرًا ﴿١٧٣﴾

175. Then as for those who believe in Allah, and hold fast to Him, He will admit them into His mercy from Him, and bounty, and He will guide them to Himself by a straight path.

فَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا بِاللَّهِ وَاعْتَصَمُوا بِهِ فَسَيُدْخِلُهُمْ فِي رَحْمَةٍ مِّنْهُ وَفَضْلٍ وَيَهْدِيهِمْ إِلَيْهِ صِرَاطًا مُسْتَقِيمًا ﴿١٧٥﴾

176. They^{*219} ask you a legal ruling. Say: “Allah gives you a ruling regarding a kindred who has neither descendants nor ascendants (as heirs).”^{*220}

يَسْتَفْتُونَكَ قُلِ اللَّهُ يُفْتِيكُمْ
فِي الْكَلَالَةِ

219 Verse 176 was sent down long after the revelation of this Surah; so much so that according to some traditions this was the last verse of the Quran. Anyhow, according to most authentic traditions, it was revealed in A.H. 9 when Surah An-Nisa was already being recited as a complete Surah. That is why this verse was not included in the verses about inheritance contained in the first portion of the Surah, but was added to it as an appendix.

220 There is a difference of opinion about the meaning of kalalah. According to some scholars, kalalah is the person who dies childless and whose father and grandfather also are dead. But according to others, kalalah is one who dies childless irrespective of whether his father and grandfather are alive or dead. Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) also could not come to any definite decision about its meaning till the last. The majority of the jurists, however, have accepted the opinion of Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) that kalalah is the person who dies childless and whose father and grandfather had died before his death. This opinion is also supported by the Quran which awards half of the inheritance of the kalalah to the sister who cannot be entitled to any share at all if the father is alive.

“If a man dies, (and) he had no child, but he has a sister,^{*221} then she shall have one half of what he has left behind.”

إِنْ أَمْرُؤًا هَلَكَ لَيْسَ لَهُ وَلَدٌ
وَلَهُدَا أُخْتٌ فَلَهَا نِصْفُ مَا تَرَكَ

221 There is a consensus of opinion that this refers to the inheritance of sisters and brothers who have the relation of common parents or only common father with the deceased. Once Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) gave this explanation and none of the companions differed from it.

“And he (brother) would inherit from her if she (died and) did not have a child.”^{*222}

وَهُوَ يَرِثُهَا إِنْ لَمْ يَكُنْ لَهَا وَلَدٌ

222 The brother will inherit the whole inheritance in case there is no other heir to it. For instance, if the husband of the childless woman is alive her brother will be entitled to the whole of the remaining inheritance after the payment of the share of the husband.

“Then if there are two sisters, then theirs are two thirds of what he has left behind.”^{*223}

فَإِنْ كَانَتَا اثْنَتَيْنِ فَلَهُمَا الثُّلُثَانِ
مِمَّا تَرَكَ

223 The same also applies to the case of more than two sisters.

“And if there are brothers (and sisters), men, and women, then for the male, the equivalent of the portion

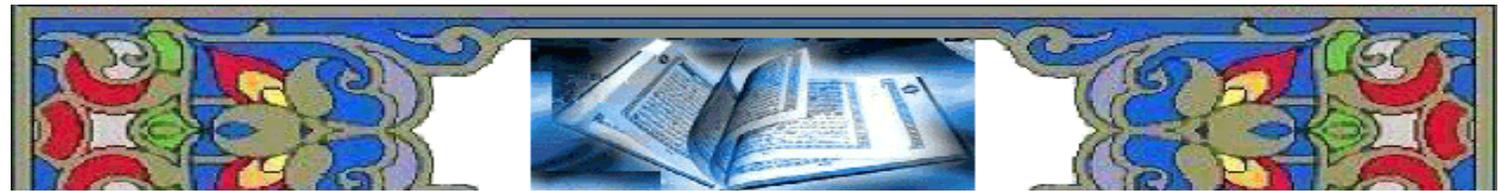

وَإِنْ كَانُوا إِخْوَةً رِجَالًا وَنِسَاءً فَلِلذَّكَرِ مِثْلُ حَظِّ الْأُنثِيَيْنِ of two females.”

“Allah makes clear to you, lest you go astray. And Allah is All Knower of every thing.”

Al-Maidah

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of Allah, Most Gracious, Most Merciful

Name

This Surah takes its name from verse 112 in which the word maidah occurs. Like the names of many other Surahs, this name has no special relation to the subject of the Surah but has been used merely as a symbol to distinguish it from other Surahs.

Period of Revelation

The theme of this Surah indicates, and traditions support it, that it was revealed after the treaty of Hudaibiyah at the end of A.H. 6 or in the beginning of A.H. 7. That is why it deals with those problems that arose from this treaty.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) with 1400 Muslims went to Makkah in Zil-Qaadah 6 A.H. to perform Umrah, but the Quraish spurred by their enmity, prevented him from performing the Umrah, though it was utterly against all the ancient religious traditions of Arabia. After a good deal of hard and harsh negotiations, a treaty was concluded at Hudaibiyah according to which it was agreed that he could perform Umrah the following year. That was a very appropriate occasion for teaching the Muslims the right way of performing a pilgrimage to Makkah with the true Islamic dignity, and enjoining that they should not prevent the disbelievers from performing pilgrimage to Makkah as a retaliation for their misbehavior. This was not difficult at all as many disbelievers had to pass through Muslim territory on their way to Makkah. That is why the introductory verses deal with those things connected with pilgrimage to Makkah and the same theme has been resumed in Ayats 101-104. The other topics of this Surah also appear to belong to the same period.

The continuity of the subject shows that most probably the whole of the Surah was revealed as a single discourse at one and the same time. It is also possible that some of its verses were revealed at a later period and inserted in this Surah at different places where they fitted in. But there appears to be not the least gap anywhere in the Surah to show that it might have comprised two or more discourses.

Occasion of Revelation

This Surah was revealed to suit the requirements of the changed conditions which were now different from those prevailing at the time of the revelation of Surah Aal-Imran and Surah An-Nisa. Then the shock of the setback at the battle of Uhd had made the very surroundings of Al-Madinah dangerous for the Muslims, but now Islam had become an invulnerable power and the Islamic State had extended to Najd on the east, to the Red Sea on the west, to Syria on the north and to Makkah on the south. The setback which the Muslims had suffered at battle of Uhd had not broken their determination. It had rather spurred them to action. As a result of their continuous struggle and unparallel sacrifices, the power of the surrounding clans, within a radius of 200 miles or so, had been broken. The Jewish menace which was always threatening Al-Madinah had been totally removed and the Jews in the other parts of Hijaz had become tributaries of the State of Al-Madinah. The last effort of the Quraish to suppress Islam had been thwarted in the battle of the Trench. After this, it had become quite obvious to the Arabs that no power could suppress the Islamic movement. Now Islam was not merely a creed which ruled over the minds and hearts of the people but had also become a State which dominated over every aspect of the life of the people who lived within its boundaries. This had enabled the Muslims to live their lives without let or hindrance, in accordance with their beliefs.

Another development had also taken place during this period. The Muslim civilization had developed in accordance with the principles of Islam and the Islamic viewpoint. This civilization was quite distinct from all other civilizations in all its details, and distinguished the Muslims clearly from the non Muslims in their moral, social and cultural behavior. Mosques had been built in all territories, prayer had been established and Imams (leaders) for every habitation and clan had been appointed. The Islamic civil and criminal laws had been formulated in detail and were being enforced through the Islamic courts. New and reformed ways of trade and commerce had taken the place of the old ones. The Islamic laws of marriage and divorce, of the segregation of the sexes, of the punishment for adultery and calumny and the like had cast the social life of the Muslims in a special mold. Their social behavior, their conversation, their dress, their very mode of living, their culture etc., had taken a definite shape of its own. As a result of all these changes, the non-Muslims could not expect that the Muslims would ever return to their former fold.

Before the treaty of Hudaibiyah, the Muslims were so engaged in their struggle with the non Muslim Quraish that they got no time to propagate their message. This hindrance was removed by what was apparently a defeat but in reality a victory at Hudaibiyah. This gave the Muslims not only peace in their own territory but also respite to spread their message in the surrounding territories. Accordingly the Prophet (peace be upon him) addressed letters to the rulers of Iran, Egypt and the Roman Empire and the chiefs of Arabia, inviting them to Islam. At the same time the missionaries of Islam spread among the clans and tribes and invited them to accept the divine way of Allah. These were the circumstances at the time when Al-Maidah was revealed.

Topics

It deals with the following three main topics:

1. Commandments and instructions about the religious, cultural and political life of the Muslims.

In this connection, a code of ceremonial rules concerning the journey for Hajj has been prescribed; the observance of strict respect for the emblems of Allah has been enjoined; and any kind of obstruction or interference with the pilgrims to the Kabah has been prohibited. Definite rules and regulations have been laid down for what is lawful and unlawful in the matter of food, and self imposed foolish restrictions of the pre-Islamic age have been abolished. Permission has been given to take food with the people of the Book and to marry their women. Rules and regulations for the performance of wudu (ablutions) and bath and purification and tayammum (ablutions with dust) have been prescribed. Punishment for rebellion, disturbance of peace and theft have been specified. Drinking and gambling have absolutely been made unlawful. Expiation for the breaking of oath has been laid down and a few more things have been added to the law of evidence.

2. Admonition to the Muslims.

Now that the Muslims had become a ruling body, it was feared that power might corrupt them. At this period of great trial, Allah had admonished them over and over again to stick to justice and to guard against the wrong behavior of their predecessors, the people of the Book. They have been enjoined to remain steadfast to the covenant of obedience to Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him), and to observe strictly their commands and prohibitions in order to save themselves from the evil consequences which befell the Jews and the Christians who had violated them. They have been instructed to observe the dictates of the Quran in the conduct of all their affairs and warned against the attitude of hypocrisy.

3. Admonition to the Jews and the Christians.

As the power of the Jews had been totally weakened and almost all their habitations in north Arabia had come under the rule of the Muslims, they have been warned again about their wrong attitude and invited to follow the right way. At the same time a detailed invitation has also been extended to the Christians. The errors of their creeds have been clearly pointed out and they have been admonished to accept the guidance of the Prophet (peace be upon him). Incidentally, it may be noted that no direct invitation has been made to the Majusees and idolaters living in the adjoining countries, because there was no need for a separate address for them as their condition had already been covered by the addresses to the mushrik Arabs.

Consolidation of the Islamic Community

In continuation of the instructions about the consolidation of the Islamic community given in Surah An-Nisa, the Muslims have been directed to observe and fulfill all their obligations. Further regulations have been prescribed to train the Muslims for that purpose.

They have also been particularly warned as rulers to guard against the corruption of power and directed to observe the covenant of the Quran. They have also been exhorted to learn lessons from the failings of their predecessors, the Jews and the Christians, who in their turn have been admonished to give up their wrong attitudes towards the right way and accept the guidance taught by Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him).

Topics and their Interconnection

Ayats 1-10. The Believers have been exhorted to fulfill scrupulously all of their obligations and follow the regulations prescribed by the divine law about food, sex, salat, justice, etc.

Ayats 11-26. The Muslims have been warned to guard against the errors of their predecessors; they should follow the right path and avoid the bad example of the Jews and the Christians, who broke their covenants and went astray into evil ways. They, in their turn, have been admonished to give up their wrong ways and accept Islam.

Ayats 27-32. The story of the two sons of Adam has been related to reproach the Jews for their plot to kill the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions. (Ayat 11 & E.N. 30). The story has also been used to emphasize the sanctity of human life.

Ayats 33-40. To achieve this object, punishments have been prescribed for those who create chaos in the Islamic State, and the believers have been urged to exert their utmost to establish the right way; the sanctity of property has also been emphasized.

Ayats 41-50. The Prophet (peace be upon him), and through him the Muslims, has been reassured that he should not mind the enmity, the evil designs and the machinations of the Jews, but continue exerting his utmost to establish the right way in accordance with the guidance of the Quran; for nothing better could be expected from those who had forsaken their own Torah. He should deal with the Christians likewise, for they, too, had forsaken their Gospel.

Ayats 51-69. In view of the degenerate moral condition of the Jews and the Christians, the believers have been warned not to make them their friends and confidants. Likewise they should be on their guard against the evil designs of the hypocrites, the disbelievers and the like and should rely on the true believers alone. The people of the Book have, in their turn been exhorted to give up their enmity and adopt the right attitude, for they cannot get salvation without this.

Ayats 70-86. The theme of the corruptions of the Jews and Christians has been resumed. The Christians especially have been reproved for their errors in regard to the doctrine of Tauhid. At the same time they have been preferred to the hard hearted Jews, for there are among them some who are more inclined towards the truth.

Ayats 87-108. In this portion of the Surah, further regulations about the lawful and the unlawful, in addition to those contained in Ayats 1-10, have been given.

Ayats 109-119. At the end of the Surah, the mention of the conversation that will take place between Allah and His Prophets on the Day of Judgment, has been made for the benefit of the erring people to serve as a corrective to their creeds. The conversation with Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) has been cited as a specimen to warn, particularly the Christians, who profess to believe in him, and generally all those people who put false hopes in their prophets, etc.

Ayat 120. Conclusion: “O mankind! The Sovereignty of the heavens and the earth belongs to Allah: therefore you should become His true servants and fear Him, for He has full power over everything.”

1. O those who believe, fulfill (your) obligations.*¹ Lawful for you are the animals of grazing livestock,*² except that which is recited to you (in the Quran), hunting not being allowed while you are in Ihram (pilgrimage).*³ Indeed, Allah ordains that which He intends.*⁴

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا أَوفُوا
بِالْعُقُودِ ۚ أُحِلَّتْ لَكُمْ بَهِيمَةُ
الْأَنْعَامِ إِلَّا مَا يُتْلَىٰ عَلَيْكُمْ غَيْرَ
مُحَلِّي الصَّيْدِ وَأَنْتُمْ حُرْمٌ ۖ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
يُحْكُمُ مَا يُرِيدُ

*1 Fulfill (your) obligations. Another meaning is the prescribed limit; the limits which are being prescribed for you in this Surah and which in general have always been laid down in the divine law. After this brief introductory sentence begins the statement of those limits that are to be observed strictly.

*2 The Arabic word anaam applies to camel, cow (ox), sheep and goat and bahimah to all kinds of grazing quadrupeds. The combination of the two words has made the meaning more comprehensive by including all the grazing quadrupeds that resemble those four contained in the word anaam. It also implies that the carnivore that kill other animals for food are unlawful. The Prophet (peace be upon him) made this explicit in a tradition declaring the carnivore unlawful. Likewise he also declared unlawful those birds that have claws and kill other animals for food or eat dead bodies. According to Ibn Abbas, the Prophet (peace be upon him) prohibited the eating of the flesh of the carnivore and of the birds with claws. Other traditions from several companions also support the same.

*3 Ihram is the pilgrim's robe which has to be put on at fixed boundaries at the known distances from the Kabah. It is not lawful for any pilgrim to proceed to the Kabah until he puts off his usual dress and puts on the pilgrim's garb. This consists of two pieces of cloth without seam or ornament, one of which is wrapped round the loins and the other thrown over the shoulders. The instep, heel and head must be bare. This is called the state of Ihram because it makes unlawful even some of the things that are ordinarily lawful. For instance, one should not have a shave or a haircut and should not wear other clothes or ornaments nor use perfumes nor indulge in sensual desires and the like. Another restriction is the prohibition against killing any animate object or against hunting or against directing anyone else to help hunt an animal. (Refer to E.N. 213, Surah Al-Baqarah).

*4 This means that Allah has absolute authority to issue any decree He wills, and that the servants have no right at all to question it. Though all His decrees and commands are based on wisdom and are full of excellence, yet a Muslim, His servant, does not obey these just because they are proper and conducive to his good, but obeys them because they are commandments from his Sovereign. If He declares anything to be unlawful, it becomes unlawful for no other reason than that it has been made unlawful by Him. Likewise, if He makes anything lawful, it becomes lawful for no other reason than that its Owner and the Owner of everything permits His servants to use it. That is why the Quran establishes with full force the fundamental principle that the only basis which makes a thing lawful or unlawful is whether there is the permission of the Owner for its use or not. Likewise there is no other basis for the servant to consider a thing to be lawful or unlawful except that it is lawful if Allah makes it lawful and unlawful if He prohibits it.

2. O those who believe, do not violate the emblems^{*5} of Allah, nor (the sanctity of) the sacred month, nor the sacrificial offering, nor the garlanded animals, nor (the safety of) those coming to the sacred house (Mecca), seeking the bounty of their Lord and (His) pleasure.^{*6} And when you have come out of Ihram, then you may go hunting.^{*7} And let not lead you, the hatred of some people who stopped you from the Sacred Mosque, that you commit transgression.^{*8} And help one another in righteousness and piety, and do not help one another in sin and

*5 Shaair is the plural of shiar (emblem). Every object or a representation of it, that symbolizes a way or a creed or a mode of thought or action or a system is called its shiar because it serves as an emblem of it. Official flags, police and army uniforms, coins, currency notes, stamps etc., are the shaair of governments which demand due respect for these from all under them, and, as far as possible, from others as well. For instance, Temple, Altar, Cross etc. are the shaair of Christianity. the Hammer and Sickle is the shaair of the communist party, and the swastika of the Nazi party. All of them demand reverence and respect for their emblems from their followers. If anyone shows disrespect for any of the emblems of any system, it is an indication that he has enmity with that system. And if the offender belongs to the same system, this act will be tantamount to apostasy and rebellion against it.

The Shaair-Allah (Emblems of Allah) are those signs and symbols that represent the pure way of God-worship as against the ways of idolatry, unbelief, paganism and atheism. The Muslims are required to show respect to the emblems of Allah wherever they find them in any way or system, provided that their psychological background is purely attributed to God-worship and has not in any way been polluted by any association with idolatry or unbelief. Therefore, if a Muslim comes across anything in the creed and deed of a non-Muslim which has an element of God-worship in it, he will show due respect to that element and to the emblems connected with God-worship. There will be no dispute with the non Muslims on that account: a dispute arises only when he pollutes God-worship with the worship of others.

In this connection, it should be noted that the command to show due respect to the emblems of Allah was given at a time when the Muslims were at war with the pagan Arabs who were in possession of Makkah. This was necessitated because some of the pagan Arabs had to pass on their way to the Kabah through places where the Muslims could strike at them easily. Therefore the Muslims were enjoined not to molest them when they were proceeding to the House of Allah, even though they were idolaters and at war with them. Likewise, the Muslims should not attack them during the months of Hajj, nor snatch from them those animals which they were taking to the House of Allah as offering. This is to ensure that the element of God-worship, which had remained intact in their corrupt religion, should be respected and not violated.

*6 Immediately after this command, a few emblems of Allah have been specially mentioned because there was an imminent danger of their violation by the Muslims owing to the state of war. This does not, however, mean that these emblems alone are to be respected.

*7 Incidentally the command about ihram has been given here because this is also one of the emblems of Allah. Hunting during the state of ihram is prohibited, because it is the violation of one of the emblems of Allah. But when the restrictions of ihram come to an end according to the law, one is permitted to hunt, if one desires to do so.

*8 This prohibition was laid down to check the Muslims from preventing the pagan Arabs from proceeding to Hajj and attacking them when they were passing through their territories. The Muslims had been so enraged when their enemies had prevented them from visiting the Kabah and from the performance of Hajj in contravention of their old custom that they were prone to retaliate, but Allah warned them not to transgress the bounds.

3. Forbidden to you are carrion,*⁹ and blood, and the flesh of swine, and that which has been slaughtered for other than Allah,*¹⁰ and (the animals) killed by strangling, and killed by a violent blow, and died of falling, and killed by (the goring of) horns, and that which has been eaten by a wild animal, except that which you slaughter (before its death),*¹¹ and that which has been sacrificed on stone altars,*¹² and that*¹³ you seek luck by the divining arrows.*¹⁴ That is abomination. This day I have perfected for you your religion, and completed upon you My favor, and I have approved for you Al-Islam as the way of life.*16 So he who is forced by severe hunger, with no inclination to sin, then indeed, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.*17

عَلَيْكُمْ نِعْمَتِي وَرَضِيْتُ لَكُمْ
 الْإِسْلَامَ دِينًا فَمَنْ أَضْطُرَّ فِي
 مَخْصَةٍ غَيْرِ مُتَجَانِفٍ لِإِثْمٍ
 فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

*9 That is, the flesh of the animal that dies a natural death.

*10 That is, the flesh of the animal which has been slaughtered in the name of another than Allah or has been slaughtered with the intention of dedicating it to a saint or a god or a goddess etc. (See E.N.171 of Surah Al-Baqarah).

*11 That is, if an animal falls victim to any of these accidents but is still alive and is duly slaughtered, it is lawful to eat its flesh. This also implies that the flesh of a clean animal becomes lawful only when it is slaughtered in the prescribed way and that there is no other way of making it lawful. In the prescribed way only that much of the throat is cut that enables the blood to flow out freely. This cannot happen if the whole of the neck is cut off or if the animal is strangled or killed in any other way because in that case most of the blood remains in the body and congeals at different places and sticks to the flesh. But when it is slaughtered in the prescribed way, the whole of the body remains connected with the brain for a sufficiently long time to allow the blood to flow totally out of the body and the flesh is cleansed of the blood which in itself is unlawful. Therefore it is essential that the flesh should be cleansed of blood in order to become lawful.

12 The Arabic word nusub applies to all those places which have been specifically dedicated to any saint or god, etc. for making offerings to them or for any other kind of ungodly worship whether there is, or is not any sort of stone or wooden idol therein.

13 In this connection, it should be understood well that the limits prescribed by the law for making eatables lawful or unlawful are not laid down from the point of view of physical health but from the moral and spiritual points of view. As regards the matters concerning physical health, these have been left to man's own judgment and discretion, It is his own business to find out what things are useful or harmful for his physical health and nourishment, and the law does not take any responsibility for his guidance in this respect. Had it done so, poison would have been the first thing to be made unlawful, but there is absolutely no mention of this or other deadly things in the Quran or the traditions. The law is only concerned about what is morally or spiritually harmful or beneficial and also about the right or wrong means for obtaining lawful things. It is obvious that man has no means of finding out these things by himself and is consequently liable to commit errors in this matter without the guidance of the law. For whatever has been prohibited, has been prohibited because it is harmful from the point of view of cleanliness or morality or belief. On the contrary, whatever has been made lawful, it has been made so because it is free from all these evils.

One might ask why Allah has not explained the philosophy underlying the prohibition of certain things for the clear understanding of the people. This is because it is not possible for mankind to comprehend this. For instance, it is not possible for us to make a research into the nature of moral evils that are produced by eating carrion, blood or the flesh of swine, nor is it easy to find out how they are produced and to what extent, because we have no means of measuring or weighing morality, It is, therefore, obvious that, even if their evil effects had been explained, the position of the skeptic would have remained the same as before for the lack of means of testing their veracity.

This is why Allah has declared the observance of the limits prescribed for the lawful and the unlawful as a matter of belief. One, who believes in the Quran as the book of God and in the Prophet as His Messenger (peace be upon him) and in Allah as All-Knowing and All-Wise, will observe the prescribed limits whether one understands their philosophy or not. On the other hand, if one does not believe in this basic creed, one will avoid only those things which are harmful according to human knowledge and will go on suffering from the consequences of those which man has not learned to be harmful.

14 This verse comprises three categories of prohibitions:

(1) It prohibits the pagan ways of taking omens from a god or a goddess and the like, about one's fortune or getting indications as to the future or deciding disputes. For instance, the pagan Quraish of Makkah had specified the idol of Hubal at the Kabah for this purpose and kept near it seven divining arrows. They would, after presenting the offering to the priest and performing certain ceremonies, pull out an arrow and regard the words engraved on it as the verdict of Hubal.

(2) The second category consists of the superstitious ways and irrational methods of taking decisions about the daily problems of life for anything regarded as portending good or evil regardless of reason or knowledge, or of finding out future events blindly by the ominous significance of particular things, circumstances, occurrences or proceedings or the like. In short, it included all the so-called arts of prediction and prophetic significance.

(3) The third category includes all kinds of gambling in which the distribution of things etc. is based on mere chance and not on merit, right, service or other rational considerations. For instance, all the schemes of lottery which entitle a certain holder of a ticket to a prize merely on chance, and at the expense of a large number of other holders of such tickets, or the award of prizes for cross-word puzzles in which a certain answer out of a large number of correct ones corresponds, by mere chance, to the answer that has been ear-marked as correct for the purpose. All these things are unlawful.

However, one simple form of casting lots is lawful in Islam, when there are two equally lawful things or rights and there is no rational method of deciding between them. Supposing two persons have equal rights, in every respect, to something and the judge finds no rational justification to give preference to either of the disputants, neither of whom is willing to forgo his rights. In such a case, if they mutually agree, the matter may be decided by casting lots, or if one has to choose one of the two lawful things and is in difficulty in regard to the choice, one is allowed to cast lots for it. The Prophet (peace be upon him) adopted this method on such occasions as required a choice to be made between two persons with equal rights, whenever he thought that if he himself decided in favor of one, the other might be grieved.

*15 “This day” does not mean a particular day or date but the time when this verse was revealed.

“Those who disbelieve are despaired of your religion” means: After a long systematic resistance and opposition, they have lost hope of defeating your religion. Now they do not expect that you will ever return to the former way of ignorance because your religion has become a permanent way of life and has been established on a firm footing. Therefore, “Do not fear them, and fear Me.” That is, there is no longer any danger of interference from the disbelievers that they will prevent you from the performance of your religious obligations. You should, therefore, fear God and observe His commands and instructions because no ground for fear has been left for you. Now your disobedience of the law will mean that you do not intend to obey Allah.

16 “This day I have perfected for you your religion” means: “I have provided it with all the essential elements of a permanent way of life which comprises a complete system of thought and practice and civilization and have laid down principles and given detailed instructions for the solution of all human problems. Hence there is no need for you to seek guidance and instructions from any other source.”

The completion of “My favor” is the completion of the blessing of guidance.

“I have approved Islam as the way of life for you” because you have practically proved by your obedience and devotion to it that you sincerely believe in Islam which you have accepted. As I have practically set you free from every kind of subjection and servitude, there is no compulsion for you to submit to any other than Me in your practical life. It also implies, “As a gratitude for these blessings of Mine, you should show no negligence in the observance of the prescribed limits.”

Authentic traditions show that this declaration was revealed on the occasion of the last Hajj performed by the Prophet (peace be upon him) in A.H. 10. I am however of the opinion that it was at first revealed in A.H. 6 close after the treaty of Hudaibiyah as a part of this discourse, but was again sent down to the Prophet (peace be upon him) for its declaration on that suitable occasion. This is because this verse is so well knit in this context that it would be incomplete without it. Therefore, it cannot be imagined that it was inserted here afterwards when it was revealed in A.H. 10. I believe (and the real knowledge is with Allah) that at the time of its revelation in this context its real significance was not realized, therefore in A.H. 10, when the whole of Arabia was subdued and the power of Islam reached its zenith, Allah again sent down these sentences to His Prophet for their declaration on the occasion of his last Hajj.

*17 Refer to E.N. 172 of Surah Al-Baqarah.

4. They ask you (O Muhammad) what (food) has been made lawful for them. Say: "Lawful for you are (all) good things.*18 And that which you have trained of hunting animals as hounds (to catch), you teach them of what Allah has taught you. So eat of that which they catch for you,*19 and mention Allah's name upon it,*20 and fear Allah. Indeed, Allah is swift in reckoning."

 عَلَيْهِ وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ سَرِيعُ

*18 A subtle point is hidden in this answer. It is meant to set right the doubting attitude of some religious persons, who regard everything as unlawful unless it is explicitly declared to be lawful. There was a need to remove this doubt because it makes people very fastidious. So much so that such people begin to demand a complete list of lawful things in every sphere of life and look at everything with a doubting attitude. Those who asked the question did so with the intention of obtaining a detailed list of the lawful things so that they might consider all other things as unlawful. However, the Quran did the opposite of it and gave a detailed list of the forbidden things and made all other good things lawful. This was a great reform, for it set human life free from many bondages and opened wide the doors of the vast world for mankind. Before its revelation only a limited number of things were lawful and the remaining vast world was unlawful, but this verse declared a limited number of things unlawful and made the remaining vast world lawful.

“Lawful” has been qualified with “pure” so that impure things might not be made lawful just because they have not been included in the list of prohibition. As regards the criterion for judging whether a thing is pure or not, it should be noted that all those things are pure which are not unclean according to any principle of the Islamic law, or which are not offensive to good taste or have not universally been regarded as repugnant by cultured people.

19 Hunting animals are dogs, leopards, falcons, hawks and other beasts and birds of prey which are trained to chase wild animals and catch them for their masters, without mangling them. The game of the trained hunting animals is lawful because they do not mangle it and that of the untrained beasts and birds of prey is unlawful because they mangle it.

There is, however, a difference of opinion among the jurists about this matter. Imam Shafai and those of his school of thought are of the opinion that if the hunting beast or bird eats a part of what it catches, it becomes unlawful, for this means that the animal had caught the game for itself and not for its master. Imam Malik and those of his school of thought are of the opinion that if the hunting bird or beast eats less than one third of the game, the remaining two thirds or so is lawful for the master. Imam Abu Hanifah and those of his school of thought are of the opinion that if the hunting beast eats a part of what it catches, the remaining game will become unlawful, but if the hunting bird eats a part of it, the remaining game will not become unlawful because the hunting beast can be trained to catch and hold the game for its master without eating anything of it, but the hunting bird cannot be so trained. In contrast to these views, Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) is of the opinion that the game of the hunting bird is absolutely unlawful, because it cannot be trained to catch and hold the game for its master without eating something of it. But in case it is not found alive, it will be lawful if the name of Allah was mentioned at the time of letting loose the hunting animal. The same also applies to hunting with arrows.

20 That is one should recite bismillah (In the name of Allah), when letting loose the hunting animal for game. According to a tradition, Adi-bin Hatim asked the Prophet (peace be upon him) whether he could hunt a game with a hunting dog, the Prophet (peace be upon him) replied, "You may eat of the game if you recited the name of Allah at the time of letting loose the hunting dog, provided that he did not eat of it. In the other case, you should not eat it because that would mean that the dog had actually caught it for himself.” Then Adi-bin-Hatim further asked, “If I let loose my own dog on the game, but afterwards find another dog there, what should I do in that case?” The Prophet (peace be upon him) replied, “Do not eat it because you mentioned the name of Allah in relation to your own dog and not the other dog.”

The verse enjoins that the name of Allah must be mentioned at the time of letting loose the hunting animal in order to make the game lawful. If, however, the hunted animal is found alive, it should be duly slaughtered in the name of Allah. But in case it is not found alive, it will be lawful if the name of Allah was mentioned at the time of letting loose the hunting animal. The same also applies to hunting with arrows.

21 The food of the People of the Book, also includes what has been slaughtered by them.

“And the food of those who were given the Book is lawful for you, and your food is lawful for them” means that there are no restrictions either on us or on them to take food together. The Muslims are permitted to take meals with the People of the Book and they are permitted with the Muslims. But the repetition of the sentence “good things have been made lawful for you” is very significant. It shows that the Muslims should not partake of their food, if the people of the Book do not observe those rules which are essential from the point of view of the Islamic law, or if they include unlawful things in their food and drink. For instance, if they do not mention the name of Allah over the animal they slaughter or mention any other name than that of Allah over it, the flesh would be forbidden for the Muslims. Likewise if liquor or pork or any other forbidden things is served, the Muslims are not permitted to sit at the same table with them.

The same rule also applies to the food and drink of other non-Muslims except that the Muslims are not permitted at all to eat the flesh of the animals slaughtered by non Muslims. They are permitted to eat the flesh of the clean animals, slaughtered by the People of the Book only, if they duly pronounced the name of Allah over it.

*22 This refers to the Jews and the Christians. Permission to marry only their women has been given, and that, too, with the provision that they should be chaste (muhsanat). There is a difference of opinion in the details of the application of this permission. According to Ibn Abbas, a Muslim may marry from among the women of the People of the Book who are the subjects of the Islamic State, but is not permitted to marry from among the women of the People of the Book living in the regions which are at war with the Islamic State or are living in a territory of the unbelievers. The Hanafis differ a little from this and consider it undesirable, though not unlawful, to marry women from among the People of the Book living in a foreign territory. On the contrary, Said bin Musayyib and Hasan Basri are of the opinion that the command is of a general nature; therefore there is no need to make any kind of distinction between the People of the Book whether they are subjects of an Islamic State or living in a foreign territory.

Besides this, there is also a difference in the interpretations of the word muhsanat. According to Umar (may Allah be pleased with him), it refers to virtuous and chaste women. That is why he excludes characterless women of the People of the Book from this permission. Hasan, Shabi and Ibrahim Nakhai are of the same opinion and the Hanafis also approve of this. On the other side, Imam Shafai takes it to mean free women of the people of the Book as opposed to the slave girls from among them.

23 The warning that immediately follows the permission given to marry women from among the People of the Book is very significant. The Muslim who makes use of this permission has been warned to guard his faith and morality very cautiously against the influence of his unbelieving wife. There is a genuine danger that his deep love might tender him a prey to wrong creeds and acts of his unbelieving wife and he might lose both his faith and morality, or he might adopt a wrong moral and social attitude which might be against the spirit of his faith.

It is also essential to wipe the ears from outside and inside as they form part of the head. The hands should be cleansed first because the other parts are to be cleansed with them.

25 A full bath is essential in case one becomes unclean by cohabitation or by a discharge of semen during sleep etc. It is forbidden to touch the Quran or to offer the Prayer while one is unclean. (Refer to E.Ns 67-69 of Surah An-Nisa).

30 This refers to the incident that has been related by Abdullah bin Abbas. Some Jews plotted to kill the Prophet (peace be upon him) and some of his eminent companions in order to give a crushing blow to Islam. Accordingly, they invited him to a dinner. But right in time, the Prophet (peace be upon him) by the grace of God came to know of the plot and did not go to the dinner. This incident has been mentioned here by way of introduction, as the address onward is directed towards the Israelites. The address, which begins from here, has two objects.

First, it is meant to warn the Muslims to guard against the attitude which the Jews and the Christians had adopted towards the covenant they had made with God: they had broken the covenant and swerved into wrong and evil ways. Second, it warns the Jews and the Christians of their error and invites them to the right way.

31 The Arabic word nageeb means one who guards and keeps a protecting and restraining watch. Allah commanded Moses to appoint twelve supervisors, one each from the twelve tribes of Israel to keep watch over their affairs in order to protect them from irreligious and immoral ways. The Bible mentions twelve princes of the tribes of their fathers (Numbers, 1:16) as heads of thousands in Israel but not as supervisors of religion and morality as is implied in the word naqeeb.

32 That is, if you accept the invitation of the Messengers who come from Me and help them in their mission.....”

33 “A kindly loan to Allah” is the money spent in His way. Such money has been called a good and kindly loan in the Quran at several places and Allah has very graciously promised to return every farthing of the loan after increasing it manifold, provided that it is a good loan which has been lawfully earned and spent in accordance with the divine law with good intentions.

34 Allah wipes out evils in two ways: (1) When a person adopts the right way and follows the divine guidance in thought and action, his soul begins to purify itself and his life begins to be clean of many evils. (2) But if, in spite of this, he does not attain to the high rank of perfection as a whole, and still has some evils left in him, Allah, by the exercise of His grace, will not take him to task and will wipe out these from his account. This is because Allah is not hard and strict in taking account of minor evils, provided that the person sincerely accepts the fundamental guidance and begins to reform himself accordingly.

35 The significance of “He has indeed gone astray from the straight path,” is that at first he found the right way and then lost it and strayed into paths of ruin.

The right way or straight path does not fully express the meaning of sawa-as-sabil. It is that way of life which enables a man to develop harmoniously all his powers, faculties, and abilities: which satisfies all his cravings, urges and feelings and the demands of his body and soul in a congenial manner: which guides him rightly to keep balanced the multi fold complex relations with other human beings: which leads him individually and collectively to exploit and use equitably the natural resources for his own good and that of humanity. In short, it is that way of life which enables the individual and the society to solve spiritual, moral, social, physical, economic, political and international problems in a straight, smooth, even and just manner.

It is obvious that man with his limited powers and intellect cannot by himself solve these problems, as he is simply incapable of comprehending at one and the same time all the aspects of human problems so as to weigh and estimate their relative importance and judge between the different courses before him. That is why, whenever he has tried to plan a way of life for himself, he has utterly failed to do justice to his own self or to his society, and made a mess of all his affairs and problems, and created a state of chaos everywhere. This is because, with his narrow vision, he becomes so absorbed in one basic need out of many and one problem out of many that he loses sight of all others and neglects them intentionally or un-intentionally. As a result of that, life loses its balance and begins to rush towards one extreme. When this state of affairs becomes unbearable, one of the neglected needs or problems takes hold of man and life begins to rush towards another extreme with the same destructive result. In this way, life goes on running from one extreme to the other and man never finds the balanced middle way which is the right way, because all the ways planned by him keep him running in wrong directions from one extreme to the other.

As has been pointed out, man cannot plan that right way which may lead him clear of the pitfalls of the myriad wrong and crooked ways; so Allah has very graciously made arrangements for showing the right way to mankind. He sent His Messengers with guidance to lead mankind to the right way to real success in this world and in the Hereafter; and the one who loses this way will go wrong here and act wrongly, and inevitably go to Hell in the next world, for all the wrong ways lead to Hell.

In this connection it will be pertinent to point out the blunder that has been committed by some so-called philosophers. When they noticed that human life was continually running between two extremes, they came to the wrong conclusion that the dialectical process was the natural way of the evolution of human progress. According to them, internal contradictions are inherent in all things and the struggle between these opposites and their synthesis constitutes the contents of the process of development. They apply the dialectical methods to the study of social life and come to the wrong conclusion that the same is the right way of evolution. Accordingly, they start with a thesis of an extreme nature for the solution of a problem and go on rushing away from the right way towards one extreme till they discover, to their dismay, that in this process gross injustice has been done to some other equally important problems. Then they turn back with the antithesis of the first theory and presume that the synthesis of the two will help evolve its right solution. Though it is true that the struggle between the two opposite theories helps them approach the right way, yet they cross it rapidly towards the other extreme because they do not believe in divine guidance which alone can make one firmly adhere to it. Then they do gross justice to some other problems and the same process is repeated over and over again. If such short-sighted philosophers had not rejected God and religion and trade an impartial study of the Quran, they would have discovered to their joy that the right way is the straight path, leading to the human evolution, and not the myriad crooked and curved paths. Thus they would have saved mankind from continually rushing aimlessly between extremes.

13. Then because of their breaking of their covenant, We cursed them and caused their hearts to harden. They change the words from their context, and have forgotten a portion of that which they

36 It is wrong to presume that the title Nasara pertains to Nazareth, the home of Jesus. In fact, its root is nusrat (help). The Christians have been called Nasara (helpers) for the reason that when Jesus (peace be upon him) asked, “Who will be my ansar (helpers) in the cause of Allah,” his disciples answered, “We are ansar in the cause of Allah.” (Surah As-Saff, Ayat 14). The Christian writers got the wrong impression that the Quran contemptuously calls the Christians Nasara because of the apparent similarity between Nasara and Nazarenes, a sect of early Christians who were contemptuously called Nazarites. But the Quran makes it clear here that the Christians themselves said, "We are Nasara." It is obvious that the Christians never called themselves Nazarites.

In this connection, it may be noted that Jesus Christ (peace be upon him) never called his disciples "Christians" or "Messiahites" for he had not come to found a new religion after his own name but to revive the same religion that Moses (peace be upon him) and the other Prophets before and after him had brought. Therefore he did not form any new community other than that of the Israelites; nor they lived like a new one; nor adopted a distinctive name or symbol for themselves. They used to go to the Temple (Jerusalem) for prayer along with the other Jews and considered themselves to be bound by the Mosaic law. (Refer to the Acts, 3: 1, 10: 14, 15: 1 & 5, 21: 22).

Later on the process of separation began from two sides. On the one side, saint Paul, a follower of the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him), put an end to the observance of the law and declared that the only thing needed for salvation was belief in Messiah. On the other side, the Jewish rabbis cut off the followers of Christ by declaring them to be a misguided sect. But in spite of this separateness, at first the sect bore no distinctive name. The followers of Christ called themselves by different names, such as disciples, brethren, believers, saints, etc. (Refer to the Acts, 2: 44, 4: 32, 9: 26, 11: 29, 13: 52, 15: 1 & 23; Romans, 15: 45, and Corinthians,

1:12). But the Jews called them Galileans or the sect of the Nazarenes contemptuously and tauntingly (Luke, 13: 2, The Acts, 24: 5) because of the Roman Province of Galilee in which Nazareth, the birth place of Jesus (peace be upon him) was situated. These satirical names, however, did not become current as the permanent names of the followers of Christ.

As a matter of fact, the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch, when Barnabas and Paul went there in 43-44 A.D. to preach the Gospels. (The Acts, 11: 26). Though this name was also given to them contemptuously by their enemies, yet, by and by, their leaders accepted this, saying, "If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye,....if any man suffers as a Christian, let him not be ashamed." (I Peter, 4: 16). At long last, they lost the feelings that the name "Christian" was a bad title that had been given to them by their enemies.

Thus it is clear that the Quran has not called them Christians because of the contempt associated with it, but has called them Ansar (helpers) in order to remind them that they were the name-sake of those disciples of Jesus (peace be upon him) who had responded to his invitation and said, "We are helpers of Allah." Is it not an irony that instead of being grateful to the Quran for giving them their name, the Christian missionaries of today should bear a grievance against it for not calling them Christians?

They remain safe from wrong notions, wrong thoughts and wrong acts and their consequences, because at every cross-road they come to know the safe way with the help of that light.

17. Indeed they have disbelieved, those who say: “Surely, Allah, He is the Messiah, son of Mary.”*39 Say: “Who then can have power against Allah at all, if He so willed to destroy the Messiah, son of Mary, and his mother, and whoever is on the earth together. And to Allah belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth and whatever is between them. He creates what He wills.*40 And Allah has Power over all things.

*39 The Christians were guilty of blasphemy in regarding Jesus (peace be upon him) as God and worshiping him as such. This was the result of the error they committed in regarding Jesus (peace be upon him) as the union of man and God, for it made his personality an enigma, which their scholars have not been able to solve in spite of their verbosity and argumentations. The more they tried to solve it the more complicated it became. Those who were impressed by the human aspect of this complex personality made him the son of God and one of the Trinity, while others, who were impressed by the divine aspect of his personality, declared him to be the incarnation of God and worshiped him as such. There were still others who tried to adopt the middle course between the two extremes and spent all their abilities to prove the impossibility that Jesus (peace be upon him) was both man and God at one and the same time and that God and the Messiah were two separate beings, but at the same time a single being. (Refer to E.Ns 212, 213, 215 of Surah An-Nisa).

*40 “He creates what He wills” implies that the miraculous birth of Jesus (peace be upon him) was merely one of God’s countless wonderful manifestations, and that this and his moral excellences and his perceptible miracles should not mislead the Christians to regard the Messiah as God. It was their shortsightedness that they did not consider the other creations of God which were even more wonderful than the creation of Jesus (peace be upon him) and foolishly made him God. They forgot that His power has no bounds and seeing the miracles performed by a wonderful creation of the Creator they began to regard him as a creator; whereas wise men see the All-Powerful Creator in the wonders of His Creation and get the light of faith from them.

And Allah has Power over all things.^{*41}

41 In this context, this sentence is very comprehensive and significant and has double meanings. One meaning is that God who had the power of sending bearers of good news and warner before, has now appointed the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) for the same mission and He has the power to do so. The other meaning is that if they do not obey the bearer of good news and warner they should bear in mind that Allah is All-Powerful and is able to inflict on them any punishment He likes without any hindrance.

*42 This refers to the past glory of the Israelites that they enjoyed at a much earlier period before the advent of Moses (peace be upon him). On the one hand, Prophets of the high rank of Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and Joseph (peace be upon them) were raised among them; on the other, they won great political power in Egypt during the time of the Prophet Joseph (peace be upon him) and after him. For a long time they remained the greatest rulers of their time in the then civilized world, and their currency was in circulation not only in Egypt but also in the countries around it.

In contrast to the general belief that the glory of the Israelites begins with the advent of the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him), the Quran makes it clear here that the period of their real glory and greatness had passed long before him and he himself was holding that period before his people as an instance of their glorious past.

43 By the holy land is meant Palestine, which had been the home of the Prophets Abraham, Isaac and Jacob (peace be upon them). When the Israelites left Egypt for good, God allotted this land to them and commanded them to conquer it.

44 This speech was made by the Prophet Moses when two years after their exodus from Egypt, the Israelites were encamping in the desert of Paran which lies in the Sinai Peninsula contiguous to the northern boundary of Arabia and the southern boundary of Palestine.

45 It may mean that the two persons were from among those who were filled with the fear of the mighty people, or they were from among those who were God-fearing people.

24. They said: “O Moses, indeed, we shall never enter it, ever, as long as they are in it. So go you and your Lord and fight, indeed we are sitting right here.”

فَلَا تَأْسَ عَلَى الْقَوْمِ

*46 The details of their homeless wandering can be had from the books, Numbers, Deuteronomy and Joshua, of the Bible. In brief, it is this: The Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) dispatched twelve chiefs of Israel from the desert of Paran to spy out the Holy Land. Accordingly, they spied it out and returned after forty days and made a report before all the congregation of Israel. They said, “Surely it floweth with milk and honey.....Nevertheless the people be strong that dwell in the land: (and) We be not able to go up against (them)....and all the people that we saw in it are men of a great stature. And there we saw the giants, the sons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers and so we were in their sight.” At this, all the community wailed aloud and said, “Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt: or would God we had died in this wilderness! And wherefore hath the Lord brought us unto this land, to fall by the sword that our wives and our children should be a prey? Were it not better for us to return into Egypt? But Joshua and Caleb, who had been among the twelve spies, rebuked the community for its cowardice. Caleb said, “Let us go up at once and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it.” Then both declared, “If the Lord delight in us, then He will bring us into this land and give it us.....Only rebel not ye against the Lord, neither fear ye the people of the land....and the Lord is with us: fear them not. But all the congregation stoned them with stones.” At last God became wrathful at their continuous misbehavior and decreed, “Doubtless ye shall now wander in the wilderness forty years until all that were numbered of you....from twenty years old and upward shall fall as carcasses in this wilderness, (and) your little ones (grow young).....then will I bring in and they shall know the land...” According to this divine decree, they took 38 years to reach Jordan from the desert of Paran. During this period all those who were young at the time of the exodus from Egypt died and after the conquest of Jordan the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) also died. After this, during the time of Joshua, son of Nun, the Israelites were able to conquer Palestine.

*47 The incident contained in Ayats 20-26 has been cited here with the special object to warn the Israelites. They have been reminded that they disobeyed Moses (peace be upon him) and swerved from the right path and showed cowardice and were consequently condemned to wander homeless for forty years but if they persisted in their attitude of rebellion against the mission of the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him), the chastisement would be much more severe than that.

27. And recite to them the story of Adam's two sons in truth, when they offered each a sacrifice, so it was accepted from one of them and was not accepted from the other.

He said: “I will surely kill you.” He (the other) said: “Allah accepts only from those who fear (Him).”^{*48}

قَالَ لِأَقْتُلَنَّكَ قَالَ إِنَّمَا يَتَقَبَّلُ

48 That is, it is no fault of mine if your sacrifice has not been accepted; it is because you lack piety. You should, therefore, try to foster piety in yourself instead of making an attempt at slaying me.

28. “Even if you stretch out your hand against me to kill me, I shall not stretch out my hand against you to kill you.^{*49} I indeed fear Allah, the Lord of the Worlds.”

لَئِنْ بَسَطْتَ إِلَيَّ يَدَكَ لِتَقْتُلَنِي مَا
أَنَا بِبَاسِطٍ يَدِيَ إِلَيْكَ لِأَقْتُلَكَ
إِنِّي أَخَافُ اللَّهَ رَبَّ الْعَالَمِينَ

49 It does not mean: “If you attempt to kill me, I will sit with folded hands before you, ready to be killed without any resistance.” What it means is: “You may cherish evil intentions of murdering me, but I will not. You may make schemes for my murder but I will do nothing to forestall you, even after knowing that you are making preparation for my murder.” In this connection, it should be understood clearly that it is not virtue to offer oneself for murder, nor is it a virtue to refrain from resisting an aggressive attack. True virtue is that one should not plan the murder of an enemy though he might be in search of an opportunity to kill the one. A virtuous man would rather prefer, like the noble son of Adam, that the enemy might be the aggressor and not he.

29. “Indeed, I intend that you be laden with my sin and your sin,^{*50} then become among the dwellers of the fire. And that is the recompense of the wrong doers.”

إِنِّي أُرِيدُ أَنْ تَبُوءَ بِإِثْمِي وَإِثْمِكَ
فَتَكُونَ مِنَ أَصْحَابِ النَّارِ
وَذَلِكَ جَزَاءُ الظَّالِمِينَ

*50 That is, I would rather prefer that you alone should be guilty of the sin of cherishing evil intentions of slaying me than that I should also be guilty of the same. Thus you shall bear the burden of your own sin of aggression as well as of the injury that I might inflict on you in self-defense.

30. So his (the other's) soul drove him to the murder of his brother, so he murdered him, then he became among the losers.

فَطَوَّعَتْ لَهُ نَفْسُهُ قَتْلَ أَخِيهِ
فَقَتَلَهُ فَأَصْبَحَ مِنَ الْخٰسِرِينَ

31. Then Allah sent a crow, who scratched on the ground to show him how to hide the dead body of his brother. He said: “Woe unto me, am I not even able that I be like this crow, so I could hide the dead body of my brother.”^{*51} Then he became

فَبَعَثَ اللَّهُ غُرَابًا يَبْحَثُ فِي
الْأَرْضِ لِيُرِيَهُ كَيْفَ يُورِي

أَعَجَزْتُ أَنْ أَكُونَ مِثْلَ هَذَا الْغُرَابِ فَأُورِيَ سَوْءَةَ أَخِي of those who regretted.^{*52}

فَأَصْبَحَ مِنَ النَّادِمِينَ ﴿٥٢﴾

51 Thus Allah warned the erring son of Adam of his ignorance and folly through a raven. And when once he became aware of the fact that the raven was better equipped for hiding the dead body, he was not only filled with remorse on this account but also began to feel that he had done an evil deed by slaying his brother. This is implied in: “Then he became of those who regretted”.

52 The story of the two sons of Adam has been related here to reproach the Jews in a subtle manner for their plot to kill the Prophet (peace be upon him) and some of his eminent companions. (Refer to E.N. 30 of this Surah).

The similarity between the two incidents is quite obvious. The Jews plotted against the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions for the same reason for which the erring son of Adam had slain his pious brother. The Jews became jealous of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions because God withdrew His favor from them and bestowed it upon the un-lettered Arabs just because the former lacked piety and the latter were God-fearing. Instead of considering the matter coolly and considering why they had been condemned and making up for their error which had brought God's wrath on them, they plotted to kill those whom God had blessed with His favors. And they did so in spite of the fact that they knew it well that their evil reaction could not win the favor of Allah but would make them even more condemnable than before.

32. Because of that, We decreed upon the Children of Israel^{*53} that whoever kills a soul other than (retribution for murder of) a soul, or for spreading corruption in the earth, it would be as if he killed all mankind. And whoever saves one, it would be as if he saved all mankind.^{*54} And certainly, there came to them Our messengers with clear proofs. Then indeed, many of them, even after that, were those who committed excesses in the land.

53 That is, “Allah enjoined the Israelites to refrain from murder because they were showing the same murderous symptoms as had been shown by the cruel son of Adam. That is why such strict checks on murder were applied.” But the pity is that these precious instructions are not found in the present Bible. The Talmud, however, says, “To him who kills a single individual of Israel, it shall be reckoned as if he had slain the whole race and he who preserves a single individual of Israel, according to the Book of Allah, he preserves the whole world.” It also says that a judge of the Israelites in a case of murder would warn the witness saying, “To him who kills a single individual of Israel, it shall be reckoned as if he has slain the whole race.”

54 This is to emphasize the sanctity of human life: it is essential for the preservation of human life that everyone should regard the life of the other as sacred and help to protect it. The one who takes the life of another without right, does not commit injustice to that one alone, but also proves that he has no feeling for the sanctity of human life and of mercy for others. Hence he is most surely the enemy of the whole human race, for if every individual suffered from the same kind of hard-heartedness, the whole human race would come to an end. On the contrary, if one helps to preserve a single human life, he is indeed a helper of all mankind for he possesses those qualities upon which depends the survival of the entire human race.

33. The only recompense for those who wage war against Allah and His messenger, and strive in the land (to spread) corruption^{*55} is that they be killed, or crucified, or their hands and their feet be cut off on the opposite sides, or be expelled from the land.^{*56} Such is for them a disgrace in the world, and for them in the Hereafter is a great punishment.

خَلْفٍ أَوْ يُنْفَوْا مِنَ الْأَرْضِ
ذَٰلِكَ لَهُمْ خِزْيٌ فِي الدُّنْيَا وَلَهُمْ فِي الْآخِرَةِ عَذَابٌ عَظِيمٌ

55 Here “the land” refers to that country or territory in which the maintenance of law and order is the responsibility of the Islamic State and “to wage war against Allah and His Messenger” is to wage war against the righteous system of government established by the Islamic State. As Allah likes that such a system of government should be established, He sent His Messenger (peace be upon him) to establish an equitable system of government, which should guarantee peace and justice to human beings, animals, trees, vegetation and everything on the earth, which may enable human beings to develop to the fullest of their natural capabilities; which should exploit natural resources of the earth for the true progress and improvement of humanity and not for its destruction. It is obvious that any attempt, big or small, to undermine or overthrow such an established system, is in reality a war against Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him). It does not make any difference whether that mischief is created by criminals and murderers who cause disorder in the settled and peaceful society or by armed forces who attempt to overthrow the Islamic State and establish some corrupt un-Islamic system instead. And every sovereign treats such a violation directed against his authority or against any of his officials as war against himself.

56 An abstract of these alternative punishments has been given so that the judge or the ruler may exercise his discretion and award punishment according to the nature and extent of the crime. The real object is to show that any attempt by any person, residing in the Islamic State, to overthrow its government is high treason and a most heinous crime, and that the offender is liable to be awarded any of these capital punishments according to the circumstance.

34. Except for those who repent before that you overpower them. And know that Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful. *57

إِلَّا الَّذِينَ تَابُوا مِنْ قَبْلِ أَنْ
تَقْدِرُوا عَلَيْهِمْ فَأَعْلَمُوا أَنَّ
اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

*57 This implies that if they have refrained from creating mischief and from making any attempt at overthrowing the righteous system, and have shown by their conduct that they are peace loving and law abiding good citizens, none of the above mentioned punishments will be inflicted upon them, even if they might have committed any of the crimes before their repentance. They would, however, be liable to be called to account in a court of law for any offense against any individual, such as murder, theft, etc. but they will not be tried for any previous offense of treason or rebellion or war against Allah and His Messenger.

35. O those who believe, fear Allah, and seek the means (of approach) to Him, *58 and strive in His cause *59 that you may be successful.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا اتَّقُوا
اللَّهَ وَابْتَغُوا إِلَيْهِ
الْوَسِيلَةَ وَجَاهِدُوا فِي سَبِيلِهِ لَعَلَّكُمْ

58 That is, you should seek all those means that help obtain Allah's nearness and His pleasure.

59 "And strive in His cause" does not fully convey the meaning of jahidu. It implies that the believers should struggle against all the forces that stand in the way of Allah, as if to say, "You can please Allah and win His favor only if you exert your utmost in the way of Allah: struggle hard against all the persons, parties and forces which stand in Allah's way, which hinder you from Allah's way to turn you away from it, which do not let you follow Allah's way as His servants and force you to become their servants or servants of others. Such exertion and struggle will lead you to true success and become the means of obtaining your nearness to Allah."

Thus, this verse exhorts the believer to fight his enemies on all fronts. On one side, he confronts Satan and a host of his followers, and on the second, his own self and its alluring temptations. On the third side, he has to fight many people who have swerved from the way of God, and with whom he is bound by close social, cultural and economic relations. On the fourth side, he is required to oppose all those religious, cultural and political systems that are founded on rebellion against God and force people to submit to falsehood instead of the truth. Though these enemies employ different weapons, they all have one and the same object in view, that is, to subdue their victims and bring them under their own subjection. It is obvious that true success can only be achieved if one becomes fully and solely a servant of God and obeys Him openly and also secretly, to the exclusion of obedience to all others. Thus there is bound to be a conflict with all the four enemies. Therefore the believer cannot achieve his object unless he engages himself with all these hostile and opposing forces at one and the same time and at all events, and removing all these hindrances marches onwards on the way of Allah.

36. Indeed, those who disbelieve, if that they should have all that is in the earth, and the like of that with it, by which to ransom them from the punishment on the Day of Resurrection, it would not be accepted from them. And for them is a painful punishment.

مِّنَ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ ﴿٣٨﴾

Allah. And Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.

60 One hand of the thief (and not both hands) is to be cut off, and the consensus of opinion is that the right hand should be cut off for the first theft.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) has excluded an act of breach of trust from theft and decreed that the hand of the one guilty of this is not to be cut off. An act of theft is committed only when a person wrongfully takes away goods from the custody of another and brings them into his own possession.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) has also decreed that a hand is not to be cut off for the theft of a thing whose value is less than that of a shield. At that time the price of a shield according to (a) Abdullah bin Abbas was ten dirhams, (b) Ibn Umar, three dirhams, (c) Anas bin Malik, five dirhams, and (d) Aishah, one-fourth of a dinar. That is why there has been a difference of opinion among the jurists in regard to the minimum limit for theft for the cutting off of a hand. According to Imam Abu Hanifah, it is ten dirhams and according to Imams Malik, Shafai and Ahmad it is one-fourth of a dinar. (At that time a dirham was equal to the value of three mashas and one ands half rattis of silver, and one-fourth of a dinar was equal to three dirhams).

Moreover, there are many things for the theft of which the hand is not to be cut off. For instance, the Prophet (peace be upon him) directed that hand should not be cut off for the theft of fruits and vegetables, and that there should be no cutting off of hand for the theft of eatables. According to a tradition from Aishah, "Hands were not cut off for the theft of paltry things during the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him)." Uthman and Ali decreed, and no companion disagreed, that a hand is not to be cut off for the theft of a bird. Moreover, Umar and Ali did not cut off a hand for a theft from the public treasury and there is no mention of any kind of disagreement among the companions about this also. (May Allah be pleased with them all).

That is why the jurists have not included certain things in the list of those for the theft of which hands should be cut off. According to Imam Abu Hanifah, hands should not be cut off for the theft of vegetables, fruits, flesh, cooked food, grain which has not yet been gathered together, articles used for sports and music. Besides these, he is of the opinion that the hand should not be cut off for the theft of animals grazing in forests and for theft from the public treasury. Likewise the other Imams also have excluded the theft of certain things from this punishment, but this does not mean that there is no punishment at all for those thefts. These crimes should be punished in other ways than this.

39. So he who repents after his wrongdoing, and reforms, then indeed, Allah will turn to him in forgiveness.*61
Certainly, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

فَمَنْ تَابَ مِنْ بَعْدِ ظُلْمِهِ
وَأَصْلَحَ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ يَتُوبُ
عَلَيْهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

*61 This does not mean that if the thief repents, his hand should not be cut off. It only means that if a person repents after his hand has been cut off and reforms himself and becomes a true servant of God, he will save himself from the wrath of Allah, Who will cleanse him of his sin. On the contrary, if a person does not repent and reform himself even after his hand has been cut off, but goes on nurturing evil thoughts, this clearly shows that he has not cleansed his heart even after this severe punishment. Therefore he shall deserve the wrath of Allah as he did before his hand was cut off. That is why the Quran exhorts such a person to beg for the forgiveness of Allah and reform himself. The hand is cut off for the preservation of society. The punishment does not necessarily purify the soul. This can only be achieved by repentance and turning to God. It is reported in the traditions that once the hand of a thief was cut off by the order of the Prophet (peace be upon him). After this he sent for him and asked him to say, "I beg for Allah's forgiveness and turn to Him." Accordingly, the thief uttered these words. Then the Prophet (peace be upon him) invoked Allah's forgiveness for him.

And from among those Jews, (they are) listeners to falsehood,^{*63} listening to another people who have not come to you.^{*64} They change the words beyond their context.^{*65} They say: “If you are given this, then take it, and if you are not given it, then beware.”^{*66} And he for whom Allah intends a trial, then you can not do a thing for him against Allah.^{*67} Those are the ones whose hearts Allah does not intend to purify.^{*68} For them in this world there is a disgrace, and for them in the Hereafter is a great punishment.

قُلُوبَهُمْ هُمْ فِي الدُّنْيَا خِزْيٌ
وَلَهُمْ فِي الآخِرَةِ عَذَابٌ
عَظِيمٌ

62 This refers to the people who were using all their intellectual powers and energies to preserve the previous state of ignorance against the reformatory efforts of Islam. They were planning all sorts of shameless schemes against the Prophet (peace be upon him). They were distorting the truth knowingly and doing their best to defeat his holy mission by lies, deceit, cunning and the like, though he was selflessly working for the good of humanity and their own good. Naturally, it grieved him to see that those mean and ignoble people were employing mean tactics to defeat his noble mission. Of course Allah does not mean to ask the Prophet (peace be upon him) to suppress that grief which is felt over such a state but consoles him not to be disheartened by their evil machinations and advises him to go on working patiently for the reform of the people who cannot be expected to behave otherwise.

63 It implies two things: (1) These people are the slaves of their lusts and are not interested at all in the truth but in falsehood only. They eagerly listen to lies because that alone can gratify their lust for falsehood. (2) They attend the meetings of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers so that they might spread false reports about them in order to malign them.

64 This also implies two things: (1) They come as spies to the meetings of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers in order to obtain some secret information for the benefit of the enemies of Islam. (2) They come with hostile intent to gather material for bringing false accusations and slander against the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers so that they may cause misunderstandings among those who had no opportunity of making direct contacts with him and the Muslims.

*65 Allah consoles the Prophet (peace be upon him) that he should not be disheartened by the behavior of those people who do not hesitate to twist the words of the Torah out of their context and change their meanings to suit their lusts.

*66 That is, “The Jewish scholars tell their illiterate people to accept any teaching of the Prophet (peace be upon him) only if it agrees with theirs. If it does not, they should reject it.”

*67 Allah puts to trial a man who cherishes evil inclinations by putting temptations before him to test whether he has any good left in him or not. If he has no goodness left in him, he takes each temptation as an opportunity, and the evil in him overcomes him and renders him an easy prey to further temptations. In a degenerate case like this, it is not in the power of any well wisher to save such a person from falling into temptation. Allah puts to trial not only individuals but communities as well.

*68 Allah did not will to purify such a person because he himself did not wish to purify himself. It is not the way of Allah to deprive a man of purification, if he desires it and tries for it. He does not will to purify only that person who does not intend to purify himself.

42. Listeners to falsehood, devourers of unlawful.*69

So if they come to you
(O Muhammad), then judge between them or turn away from them. And if you turn away from them, then they can not harm you at all. And if you judge, then judge between them with justice. Indeed, Allah loves those who act justly.*70

تُعْرِضْ عَنْهُمْ فَلَنْ يَضُرُّوكَ شَيْئًا
وَإِنْ حَكَمْتَ فَأَحْكُم بَيْنَهُم
بِالْقِسْطِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ يُحِبُّ
الْمُقْسِطِينَ

*69 This particularly refers to their jurists and judges who accepted false evidence and unjustly decided cases in favor of those from whom they took bribes or from whom they expected unlawful gains.

*70 At that time the Jews had freedom in their internal affairs and their cases were decided by their own judges according to their own law, for they had not as yet become subjects of the Islamic State, but had only entered into treaties with it. Therefore they were not bound to bring their cases to the Prophet (peace be upon him) or to the judges appointed by him. Nevertheless, sometimes, when their own law did not suit them, they would take their cases to the Prophet (peace be upon him) in the hope that they might obtain a more favorable decree from him than they could from their own law.

Here it refers to a case of illicit relationship between a man and a woman who belonged to respectable families of the Jews of Khaibar. According to the Torah (Deut. 22: 23-24), their punishment was that both of them should be stoned to death. As the Jews did not want to inflict this punishment, they decided that the case should be taken to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and that they would accept his decision only if it was other than stoning to death. When the Prophet (peace be upon him) had heard the case he decreed that they should be stoned to death, but the Jews rejected it. Then the Prophet (peace be upon him) asked them what the punishment was according to the Torah. They replied that it was to flog the culprits and to blacken their faces and to mount them on a donkey. The Prophet (peace be upon him) asked their rabbis to declare on oath whether that was the punishment for adultery committed by a married couple. They all but one answered that it was so. The one who had kept quiet was Ibn surya, who was considered to be the greatest scholar of the Torah by the Jews themselves. The Prophet (peace be upon him) pointedly addressed him and asked, "I want you to swear, by that God Who saved your people from the Pharaoh and gave you the law on the Toor, and answer whether it is this same punishment for adultery in the Torah that these people tell." He said, "I would never have confessed that the punishment for adultery is stoning the culprits to death, if you had not laid upon me such a heavy oath. The fact is that when adultery became common among us, the judges would let the offenders go if they happened to be big people. But as this differentiation caused a great discontent among the common people, we made a change in the law that instead of stoning the culprits to death they should be flogged and mounted on a donkey with blackened faces." After this, no other course was left for the Jews and the culprits were stoned to death by the order of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

43. And how is it that they come to you for judgment, and they have the Torah, in which is the judgment of Allah, then they turn away even after that.^{*71} And they are not believers.

وَكَيْفَ يُحْكُمُونَكَ وَعِنْدَهُمُ

يَتَوَلَّوْنَ مِنْ بَعْدِ ذَلِكَ وَمَا
أُولَئِكَ بِالْمُؤْمِنِينَ

71 In this verse Allah has fully exposed the dishonesty of these religious people who had established their authority for piety and knowledge of the Book throughout Arabia. The very fact that they had discarded the Book they themselves believed to be the Book of Allah and brought their case to the Prophet (peace be upon him), whom they did not believe to be a Prophet, showed that their claim of belief in the Book was hollow. This also showed that they did not sincerely believe in anything but their lusts. They discarded the Book which they believed to be the Book of God, just because its decree was against their lusts and they went to the one whom they considered to be a false prophet in the hope that they might get a decree that might suit their lusts.

44. Indeed, We sent down the Torah, in which was guidance and light, the prophets who submitted (to Allah) judged by it for those who are Jews,^{*72} and the rabbis and the يَحْكُمُ بِمَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ فَأُولَئِكَ

*74 Compare this with Exodus, 21: 23-27.

*75 It implies that if one forgoes retaliation with the intention of doing a good turn, this good act will atone for many of his sins. The Prophet (peace be upon him) explained this, saying, "If one receives a wound on his body and forgoes its retaliation, then his sins will be forgiven in proportion to the degree of forgiveness."

46. And We sent, following in their footsteps, Jesus, son of Mary, confirming that which was (revealed) before him in the Torah, and We bestowed on him the Gospel in which was guidance and light and confirming that which was (revealed) before it in the Torah,^{*76} and a guidance and an admonition to those who fear (Allah).

وَقَفَّيْنَا عَلَىٰ آثَرِهِم بِعِيسَى ابْنِ

هُدًى وَنُورٌ وَمُصَدِّقًا لِّمَا بَيْنَ
يَدَيْهِ مِنَ التَّوْرَةِ وَهُدًى
وَمَوْعِظَةً لِّلْمُتَّقِينَ ﴿٤٦﴾

*76 This means that Jesus (peace be upon him) did not bring any new religion but followed the same way that was followed by all the Prophets before him and invited the people to the same. He believed in what was intact in his time from among the original teachings of the Torah, and the Gospel also testified to the same. (Matthew, 5: 17-18).

The Quran reiterates the fact that each and every prophet, who was sent by Allah to any part of the world, confirmed the Message of all the Prophets who had gone before him and exerted his utmost to complete the work which they had left as a holy heritage, for he did not come to refute them or efface their religion and establish his own religion instead. Likewise Allah did not send down any of His Books to refute any of His own previous Books, but to support and confirm them.

47. And let the People of the Gospel judge by that which Allah has revealed therein. And whoever does not judge by that which Allah has revealed, then it is those, they are the evil liver.^{*77}

وَلِيَحْكُمَ أَهْلُ الْإِنجِيلِ بِمَا أَنْزَلَ
 اللَّهُ فِيهِ وَمَنْ لَمْ يَحْكَمْ بِمَا
 أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ فَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ
 الْفَاسِقُونَ

^{*77} In this passage (Ayats 44-47) Allah has shown that those who do not judge by the law sent down by Him are: (1) disbelievers, (2) unjust people and (3) transgressors. As a corollary to this, the person who discards the law of Allah and judges by the law formulated by himself or by others is guilty of three crimes. First, he practices disbelief by his rejection of the law of Allah. Secondly, he becomes guilty of injustice because he violates the law of Allah which is perfectly just and equitable. Thirdly, he became a transgressor (Fasiq) against Allah, because, in spite of being Allah's servant, he transgressed against his Master's law and adopted his own law or that of another. Thus practically he broke away from the allegiance and subjection of his Master and denied His Authority: this is fisq.

This disbelief, injustice and transgression are inherently part and parcel of the violation of divine law. It is, therefore, not possible to avoid these three crimes where there is such a violation. They, however, vary in their relative guilt in accordance with the nature and extent of the rejection of the law. If one gives judgment against the divine law on the basis that he considers that law to be wrong and his own or someone else's law to be right, such a person shall be a disbeliever, an unjust person and transgressor, in the fullest sense of the words. However, if one holds the belief that the law of Allah is right, but in practice gives judgment against it, such a one shall not be outside the Muslim community, but shall be considered to be mixing his belief with disbelief, injustice and transgression. Likewise, if one rejects the law of Allah in all affairs of life, he shall be considered to be a disbeliever, unjust person and transgressor in every aspect of life, and if one accepts the law in certain matters and rejects it in others, One shall have a mixture of belief and Islam, disbelief, injustice and transgression all mixed together in one's life, exactly in the proportion one obeys the law or violates it.

Some commentators are of the opinion that the above mentioned verses apply only to the People of the Book, but the words of the Quran do not support this at all. Hudhaifah refuted this version very aptly. Someone said to him that these verses applied to the children of Israel only, that is, if one of the Jews judged against the law sent down by Allah, he would be a disbeliever, transgressor and rebel but not a Muslim, Hudhaifah replied. "What good brethren the children of Israel are to you: all that is bitter is for them and all that is sweet is for you! By God, you will follow their way step by step (and shall be dealt with like them)."

48. And We have sent down to you (O Muhammad) the Book (the Quran) in truth, confirming that which was before it from the Book,^{*78} and a criterion over it.^{*79} So judge between them by that which Allah has revealed, and do not follow their desires (diverging away) from what has come to you of the truth. For each among you, We have appointed a divine law and a clear way.^{*80} And if Allah had willed, He would have made you one nation. But that He may try you in that which He has given you. So race one with another in good deeds. To Allah you will return all together, He will then inform you about that in which you used to differ.*81

بِمَا كُنْتُمْ فِيهِ تَخْتَلِفُونَ

*78 The use of the word Alkitab (the Book) here is very significant. Instead of saying, "The Quran confirms whatever has remained intact from the former Books," it says, "from the Book." This is to show that the Quran and all the Books that were sent down by Allah in different languages and in different ages are in reality one and the same Book which has one and the same Author and one and the same object and aim: they impart one and the same knowledge and teaching to mankind with the only difference that they are couched in different languages and employ different methods to suit the various addresses. Therefore the fact that these Books support and do not refute, confirm and do not contradict, one another, shows that they are all different versions of one and the same Book (Alkitab).

*79 The Arabic word Muhaimin is very comprehensive in meaning. It means criterion, one who safeguards, watches over, stands witness, preserves, and upholds. The Quran safeguards "the Book," for it has preserved within it the teachings of all the former Books. It watches over them in the sense that it will not let go waste their true teachings. It supports and upholds these Books in the sense that it corroborates the word of God which has remained intact in them. It stands a witness because it bears testimony to the word of God contained in those Books and helps to sort it out from the interpretations and commentaries of the people which were mixed with it; what is confirmed by the Quran is the word of God and what is against it is that of the people.

80 “We have appointed a divine law and a clear way” is a parenthesis, which answer a perplexing question that might arise from the preceding passage. The question is: Why are there differences in the details of their laws, if all the Prophets and all the Books taught the same way of life and all of them confirmed and supported one another? For instance, how is it that there are some differences in the details of the form of worship, in the limits of the lawful and the unlawful and in cultural and social regulations taught by different Prophets and Books?

81 Here is the answer to the above mentioned question:

(1) It is wrong to infer from the above mentioned differences in the details of the different laws that they have been derived from different sources and have different origins. As a matter of fact, they all have come from Allah, Who prescribed different regulations to suit different communities and different ages.

(2) No doubt Allah could have prescribed one and the same law for all human beings from the very beginning and made them a single community, but He did not do so for many good reasons. One of these reasons is to test people whether they obey or not what is given to them by Allah. Those people, who understand the real nature and spirit of the divine way and the position of the regulations in it and are not prejudiced, will recognize and accept the truth in whatever form it comes. Such people will never hesitate to submit to the new regulations sent by Allah to replace the former ones. On the contrary, those, who do not understand the true spirit of the way, but consider the regulations and their details alone to be the way and who have become static and prejudiced because of their own additions to it, will reject every new thing that comes from Allah to replace what they already possess. And such a test was essential to distinguish the two above mentioned kinds of people; therefore different laws and regulations were prescribed.

(3) As the real object of all the laws is the cultivation of virtues, Allah has commanded the people to excel one another in virtues, without paying heed to the apparent differences in different laws. This is why those people, who keep in view the real aim of the law, should advance towards it on the lines indicated by the divine laws and regulations.

(4) As regards the differences, which have been produced by the prejudice, obduracy and wrong mental attitude, these can neither be resolved in polemical symposiums nor on the battlefield, but will be decided by Allah Himself in His final judgment. Then the reality will be revealed and the people will come to know the amount of truth or falsehood that lay hidden in the arguments in which they were engaged throughout their lives.

49. And that,^{*82} judge (O Muhammad) between them by that which Allah has revealed, and do not follow

وَأَنِ احْكُم بَيْنَهُم بِمَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ وَلَا تَتَّبِعْ أَهْوَاءَهُمْ وَأَحْذَرَهُمْ their desires, and beware of them, lest they tempt you away from some of that which Allah has sent down to you. So if they turn away, then know that Allah only intends to afflict them for some sins of theirs. And indeed, many of the mankind are evil-livers.

أَنْ يَفْتِنُوكَ عَنْ بَعْضِ مَا
أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ إِلَيْكَ فَإِنْ تَوَلَّوْا
فَاعْلَمْ أَنَّمَا يُرِيدُ اللَّهُ أَنْ يُصِيبَهُمْ
بِبَعْضِ ذُنُوبِهِمْ وَإِنَّ كَثِيرًا مِّنَ
النَّاسِ لَفَاسِقُونَ ﴿٤٩﴾

82 From here the same subject has been resumed that was interrupted by the parenthesis.

50. Is it the judgment of the time of (pagan) ignorance that they are seeking.^{*83} And who is better than Allah for judgment to a people who have firm faith.

أَفْحَكَمَ الْجَاهِلِيَّةِ يَبْغُونَ^ج وَمَنْ
أَحْسَنُ مِنَ اللَّهِ حُكْمًا لِّقَوْمٍ
يُوقِنُونَ ﴿٥٠﴾

83 The word Jahiliyyat (ignorance) is the antonym of Islam. The way of Islam is entirely based on the knowledge imparted by Allah Who possesses the knowledge of all realities. On the contrary, every way different from and opposed to the way of Islam is the way of ignorance. The pre-Islamic period of Arabia is called the period of ignorance in the sense that the people had invented their own ways of life that were based on mere guess work or desires. Therefore, whenever any of these ways will be adopted, that period will be called the period of ignorance. Likewise, the knowledge which is imparted in schools and universities today is only a partial knowledge and cannot in any way suffice for the right guidance of mankind. That is why all the systems of life that are based on fancies and desires with the help of such partial knowledge, in utter disregard of true knowledge, shall likewise be the ways of ignorance, like the ways of the pre-Islamic period.

51. O those who have believed, do not take the Jews and the Christians for allies. They are allies of one another. And he who takes them for allies among you, then indeed he is of them. Indeed, Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people.

﴿ يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تَتَّخِذُوا الْيَهُودَ وَالنَّصْرَىٰ أَوْلِيَاءَ ۚ بَعْضُهُمْ أَوْلِيَاءُ بَعْضٍ ۚ وَمَن يَتَوَلَّهُمْ مِّنكُمْ فَإِنَّهُ مِنَّهُمْ ۗ إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يَهْدِي الْقَوْمَ الظَّالِمِينَ ﴾

52. So you see those in whose heart is a disease (of hypocrisy), hastening into them, saying: “We fear that a misfortune may befall us.”*84 Then it may be that Allah brings a victory or a commandment from Him. Then they will become, for what they have been concealing within themselves, regretful.*85

﴿ فَتَرَى الَّذِينَ فِي قُلُوبِهِم مَّرَضٌ يُسْرِعُونَ فِيهِمْ يَقُولُونَ نَخْشَىٰ أَن تُصِيبَنَا دَآئِرَةٌ ۚ فَعَسَىٰ اللَّهُ أَن يَأْتِيَ بِالْفَتْحِ أَوْ أَمْرٍ مِّنْ عِنْدِهِ ۖ فَيُصْبِحُوا عَلَىٰ مَا أَسْرُوا فِي أَنفُسِهِمْ نَدِمِينَ ﴾

84 This refers to the condition of the hypocrites during the period when the conflict between Islam and kufr had not yet come to any decisive conclusion. Although Islam had become a power by dint of the sacrifices of its followers, the opposing forces were also very powerful and there were equal chances of the victory of either side. The hypocrites, while living among the Muslims, wanted to keep good relations with the Jews and the Christians so that if the conflict ended in the defeat of the Muslims, they might safely take refuge with their enemies. Then, there was also the economic factor. At that time the Jews and the Christians were economically the most powerful people in Arabia. The money lending business was almost entirely in their hands and they had a strong economic hold upon the people. Moreover, the most fertile regions of Arabia were in their possession. This also led the hypocrites to preserve their old relations with them. In short, they considered it very dangerous to break relations with these people because of the conflict between Islam and kufr, for they feared that it might ruin them economically and politically.

85 That is, something short of a decisive victory that might convince the people that it was Islam that was ultimately going to win in the conflict.

53. And those who believe will say: "Are these (hypocrites) they who swore by Allah their most binding oaths, that they were surely with you (Muslims)." Their وَيَقُولُ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا أَهَؤُلَاءِ deeds have become worthless, then they have become the losers.*86

أَعْمَلُهُمْ فَأَصْبَحُوا خَسِرِينَ

*86 All the good acts that they did as Muslims were lost because they lacked sincerity. The Prayers they offered, the fasting they observed, the Zakat dues they paid, and other things they did in obedience to the Islamic law became null and void because there was no sincerity in them. They did not dedicate themselves entirely to Allah but had divided their loyalties equally between Allah and His rebels for the sake of their worldly interests.

54. O those who believe, whoever among you turns back from his religion, then Allah will bring forth a people whom He will love and they will love Him, humble towards the believers, stern against the disbelievers,*87 striving in the way of Allah, and not fearing the blame of any critic.*88 Such is the grace of Allah which He gives to whom He wills. And Allah is All Sufficient, All Knowing.

يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا مَنْ يَرْتَدَّ
مِنْكُمْ عَنْ دِينِهِ فَسَوْفَ يَأْتِي

الْكَافِرِينَ يُجَاهِدُونَ فِي سَبِيلِ
اللَّهِ وَلَا يَخَافُونَ لَوْمَةَ لَائِمٍ ۗ
ذَٰلِكَ فَضْلُ اللَّهِ يُؤْتِيهِ مَن يَشَاءُ
وَاللَّهُ وَاسِعٌ عَلِيمٌ

*87 “Humble towards the believers” means that they will never use force against the believers and will never employ their intelligence, ability, influence, wealth, power or anything else to suppress or oppress them or inflict loss on them. The Muslims will always find such persons to be mild, kindly, amiable and sympathetic.

“Stern against the disbelievers” means that a believer will be firm, strict, uncompromising and militant towards the opponents of Islam by virtue of his firm faith, sincere religious sense, strict principles, strong character and God given intelligence. Whenever the disbelievers will come in conflict with him, they will find that a believer can neither be bought nor coerced because he is so uncompromising in his Islamic principles that he would rather die than yield.

*88 That is, they will fearlessly follow the way of Allah and act upon His commandments, and declare to be right what is right, and wrong what is wrong, according to it. And will not mind in the least the opposition, the censure, the criticism, the objections, the derision and ridicules of their opponents. They will boldly follow the way of Islam which they sincerely believe to be right, even if the popular opinion is against Islam and they are exposed to the ridicule, derision and taunts of the world.

55. Your ally is only Allah, and His messenger, and those who have believed, those who establish prayer, and pay the poor-due, and they bow down in worship.

ءَامَنُوا الَّذِينَ يُقِيمُونَ الصَّلَاةَ

57. O those who have believed, do not take those who have made your religion mockery and an amusement from among those who were given the Book before you, and the disbelievers, as allies. And fear Allah if you are true believers.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تَتَّخِذُوا

آخَذُوهَا هُزُوءًا وَلَعِبًا ذَٰلِكَ
بِأَنَّهُمْ قَوْمٌ لَا يَعْقِلُونَ ﴿٥٨﴾

89 They make the call to the Prayer an object of ridicule by mimicking and deriding it and by perverting its words.
90 This very fact of their making the call to the Prayer an object of ridicule is a clear proof of their lack of understanding. Had they not been involved in folly and ignorance, they would never have indulged in such frivolous things in spite of their religious difference with the Muslims, because no sensible person would ever think of ridiculing the call to the worship of Allah made by any people whatsoever.

*91 This verse contains a subtle reference to the shame faced impudence of the Jews in opposing the Muslims in spite of the fact that they had often been under the curse and wrath of Allah for their evil deeds. According to their own history they broke the Sabbath and many of them were turned into apes and swine. They had become so degraded that they began to worship taghut. Therefore they were warned to desist from their opposition to the Muslims who sincerely believed in Allah and followed the right way, whereas they themselves were involved in disobedience and indecency and other moral sins of the worst type.

And that which has been revealed to you from your Lord will surely increase many of them in rebellion and disbelief.^{*95} And We have cast among them enmity and hatred till the Day of Resurrection. Every time they kindled the fire of war, Allah extinguished it. And they strive in the land to make corruption. And Allah does not love the corrupters.

 الْمُفْسِدِينَ

92 According to the Arabic idiom, one whose hands are tied is an excessively parsimonious person. What the Jews meant by this was that Allah had ceased to be bounteous. When they had fallen into the lowest state of degradation for centuries and lost all hope of their national recovery, they used to lament their lost glory and blame Allah for showing niggardliness towards them. The foolish people from among them went so far as to say, "God has become so stingy that He has shut the doors of His treasures against us. He has now nothing left with Him for us except calamities and misfortunes."

This attitude is not peculiar to the Jews alone. The foolish people of other communities, instead of turning to Allah, utter insolent words like these when a calamity befalls them.

93 That is, they themselves have become so niggardly as to become a proverb for parsimony and narrow mindedness.

94 If they meant to provoke Allah to bounty by their taunts, they miserably failed in their object. On the contrary, they became subject to the curse of Allah in consequence of their insolent and impudent words and were deprived of His blessing and clemency.

95 Instead of producing the desired effect on the Jews, the word of God fell on deaf ears. So they did not learn any lesson from it but in their obduracy began to oppose the truth. Instead of redressing their wrong doings and evil deeds and mending their ways, they strove hard to suppress that voice so that no one else might listen to it. Thus the word of God that was sent down to Muhammad (peace be upon him) for their own good and the good of humanity produced no good effect upon them but increased the rebellion and disbelief of many of them.

65. And if only the People of the Book had believed and feared, We would have surely removed from them their evil deeds, and admitted them into Gardens of Delight.

66. And if only they had stood by the Torah, and the Gospel, and what has been sent down to them from their Lord, they would have been nourished (with provisions) from above them and from beneath their feet.*96 Among them are a moderate community, and many of them, evil is what they do.

96 This concise sentence refers to a speech of the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) contained in Leviticus 26 and Deuteronomy 28. In this he warned the Israelites in detail: “If you will carefully carry out all His commands....., then your God will lift you high above all the nations of the earth and all His blessings shall come upon you”, but “If you do not listen to the voice of God and are not mindful of all His commands and rules,.....then shall all sorts of curses, calamities and plagues come upon you.....The Eternal will have you routed in front of your foes.”

not conveyed His message. And Allah will protect you from the people. Indeed, Allah does not guide the disbelieving people.

يَعَصْمُكَ مِنَ النَّاسِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
لَا يَهْدِي الْقَوْمَ الْكَافِرِينَ

68. Say: “O People of the Book, you are not on anything (as to guidance) until you observe the Torah and the Gospel and that which has been sent down (the Quran) to you from your Lord.”^{*97} And that which has been revealed to you from your Lord will surely increase many of them in rebellion and disbelief.^{*98} So do not grieve for the disbelieving people.

قُلْ يَا أَهْلَ الْكِتَابِ لَسْتُمْ عَلَى

وَكُفْرًا فَلَا تَأْسَ عَلَى الْقَوْمِ
الْكَافِرِينَ

97 “To observe the Torah and the Gospel” means to follow their teachings sincerely and to follow the code of life laid down in them.

In this connection, one must keep in mind that the Bible contains two kinds of writings. Some portions in it have been interpolated by the Jewish and the Christian scholars. It is obvious that the Quran does not demand the observance of these parts. But there are other portions that have been put down as the commandments of God or as the sayings of Moses, Jesus and other Prophets (peace be upon them all). The Quran demands the observance of the latter parts only, for there is no marked difference between the teachings contained in them and those of the Quran. Even though these parts of the Bible have not remained wholly intact and have been tampered with by the translators, the commentators etc. nevertheless, one does feel that they teach the same fundamental principle of Tauhid that the Quran teaches, present the same creed which the Quran presents, and guides man to the same way of life that has been laid down in the Quran. Thus it is clear that if the Jews and the Christians had been following those teachings which have been attributed to God and their Prophets in the Bible, they surely would have been a community of righteous people at the time when Muhammad (peace be upon him) was sent as a Messenger, and would have readily recognized that the Quran contained the same Message that was contained in the former Books. In that case they would have felt no difficulty in following the Prophet (peace be upon him), for, then, there would have been no question of changing their religion. This would have been a continuation of the same way that they were following before.

98 The foregoing decree enjoined by Allah will increase their rebellion and disbelief because they will not consider it with a cool mind but in their obduracy oppose it more vigorously.

69. Indeed, those who have believed (in the Quran and

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَالَّذِينَ

Muhammad), and those (before) who were Jews, and Sabaeans, and Christians, (among them) who believed in Allah and the Last Day, and did righteous deeds, there shall be no fear upon them, nor shall they grieve.*99

75. The Messiah, son of Mary, was not but a messenger. The messengers (the like of whom) have passed away before him. And his mother was a woman of truth. They both used to eat (earthly) food. See how We make clear for them the revelations, then see how they are deluded away.*100

*100 This verse repudiates very clearly the Christian doctrine of the divinity of Jesus (peace be upon him). If one sincerely wishes to know what he really was, one can judge very easily with the help of the signs given herein that he was no more than a man. The Gospel itself bears witness that he was a human being, and subject to the usual wants and necessities of ordinary persons: he was born of a woman (Mary): he had a genealogical tree like all other human beings: he had a human body which had all the characteristics and limitations of other human bodies: he slept, he ate food and he felt heat and cold: he was even tempted by the devil. These things clearly show that he could not be God nor could he have been a partner with God in His Godhead.

But it is a strange feat of mental perversion that the Christians insist on ascribing Godhead to Jesus (peace be upon him) in spite of the fact that their own Gospels depict him purely as a human being. This is a clear proof of the fact that they do not believe in the Gospels but in an imaginary Christ whom they themselves have invented and raised to Godhead.

76. Say (O Muhammad):
“Do you worship other than Allah that which has no power over you to harm, nor to benefit. And Allah, He is the All Hearer, the All Knower.”

*101 This refers to the misguided nations from whom the Christians picked up wrong creeds and false ways. The reference is especially to the Greek philosophers whose fancies misled the Christians from the right way which had been shown to them at the start. The beliefs of the first followers of the Messiah conformed to a great extent to the reality they themselves had witnessed and to what had been taught to them by their Prophet. But later on the Christians went so much beyond the limits in showing reverence and veneration to the Messiah and were so influenced by the fancies and philosophical interpretations of their beliefs that they invented a new religion that had nothing in common with the real teachings of the Messiah. In this connection, the following extracts from Jesus Christ, by the Rev. Charles Anderson Scott (Encyclopedia Britannica, Fourteenth Edition) are worth reading.

“Apart from the birth stories at the opening of Matthew, Mark and Luke (the exact significance of which in this respect is ambiguous) there is nothing in these three Gospels to suggest that their writers thought of Jesus as other than human, a human being specially endowed with the spirit of God and standing in an unbroken relation to God which justified His being spoken of as the “son of God”. Even Matthew refers to him as a carpenter’s son and records that after Peter had acknowledged Him as Messiah he “took him and began to rebuke Him” (Matt. XVI. 22). And in Luke the two disciples on the way to Emmaus can still speak of Him as “a Prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people” (Luke, XXIV. 19). It is very singular that in spite of the fact that before Mark was composed, “the Lord” had become the description of Jesus common among Christians; he is never so described in the second Gospel (nor yet in the first, though the word is freely used to refer to God). All three relate the Passion of Jesus with a fullness and emphasis of its great significance, but except the “ransom” passage (Mark, X. 45) and certain words at the Last Supper, there is no indication of the meaning which was afterwards attached to it. It is not even suggested that the death of Jesus had any relation to sin or forgiveness. Had the “ransom” saying been suggested by Paul, it would not stand as it does in its isolated vagueness.” The same author says, “That He ranked Himself as a Prophet appears from a few passages such as I have to go on my way today, tomorrow or day after tomorrow, because it cannot be that a Prophet perish out of Jerusalem.” (Luke, 13 : 33). He frequently referred to himself as “the son of Man.”.....”Jesus never refers to Himself as the “son of God”, and the title when bestowed upon Him by others probably involves no more than the acknowledgment that He was the Messiah. But He does describe himself “as the son” absolutely....Moreover, he uses the word “Father” in the same absolute way to define His relationship to God. It is conceivable that He did not always realize the uniqueness of this relationship, that in early life He thought of the privilege as one which He shared with other men, but that experience of life and deeper knowledge of human nature forced upon Him the discovery that in this He stood alone.

Certain words of Peter spoken at the time of Pentecost, “a man approved of God” describe Jesus as He was known and regarded by His contemporaries..... The Gospels leave no room for doubt as to the completeness with which these statements are to be accepted. From them we learn that Jesus (peace be upon him) passed through the natural stages of development, physical and mental, that He hungered, thirsted, was weary and slept, that He could be surprised and required information, that He suffered pain. He not only made no claim to omniscience, He distinctly waived it. Indeed any claim to omniscience would be not only inconsistent with the whole impression created by the Gospels, it could not be reconciled with the cardinal experiences of the Temptation, of Gethsemane and of Calvary. Unless such experiences were to be utterly unreal, Jesus (peace be upon him) must have entered into them and passed through them under the ordinary limitations of human knowledge, subject only to such modifications of human knowledge as might be due to prophetic insight or the sure vision of God. There is still less reason to predicate omnipotence of Jesus (peace be upon him). There is no indication that He ever acted independently of God, or as an independent God. Rather does He acknowledge dependence upon God, by His habit of prayer and in such words as “this kind goeth not forth save by prayer”. He even repudiates the ascription to Himself of goodness in the absolute sense in which it belongs to God alone. It is a remarkable testimony to the truly historical character of these Gospels that though they were not finally set down until the Christian Church had begun to look up to the risen Christ as to a divine being, the records on the one hand preserve all the evidence of His true humanity and on the other nowhere suggest that He thought of Himself as God.”

“It may not be possible to decide whether it was the primitive community or Paul himself who first put fully religious content into the title “Lord” as used of Christ. Probably it was the former. But the Apostle undoubtedly adopted the title in its full meaning and did much to make that meaning clear by transferring to “the Lord Jesus Christ” many of the ideas and phrases which in the Old Testament had been specifically assigned to the Lord Jehovah. He gave unto him that name that is above every name, the name of “Lord”. At the same time by equating Christ with the wisdom of God and with glory of God, as well as ascribing to Him sonship in an absolute sense, Paul claimed for Jesus Christ a relation to God which was inherent and unique, ethical and personal, eternal. While, however, Paul in many ways and in many aspects, equated Christ with God, he definitely stopped short of speaking of him as God.... (Pages 22-25, Enc. Britt., Vol. 13, 1946).

The molds of thought (of Trinity) are those of Greek philosophy and into these were run the Jewish teachings. We have thus a peculiar combination the religious doctrines of the Bible, as culminating in the person of Jesus, run through the forms of alien philosophy....

For the Doctrine of Trinity, “The Jewish source furnished the terms Father, Son and Spirit. Jesus seldom employed the last term and Paul’s use of it is not altogether clear.

Already in Jewish literature it has been all but personified. Thus the material is Jewish, though already doubtless modified by Greek influence: but the problem is Greek; it is not primarily ethical, nor even religious but it is metaphysical. What is the ontological relationship between these three factors? The answer of the Church is given in the Nicene formula, which is characteristically Greek....”

In the same connection, the following passage from “Church History” (Enc. Britannica, Vol. 5, Copy Right 1946) is also worth reading:

“The recognition of Christ as the incarnation of the “logos” was practically universal before the close of the 3rd century, but His deity was still widely denied and the Arian controversy which distracted the Church of the 4th century concerned the latter question. At the council of Nicaea in 325 the deity of Christ received official sanction and was given formulation in the original Nicene creed. Controversy continued for some time, but finally the Nicene decision was recognized both in East and West as the only orthodox faith. The deity of the Son was believed to carry with it that of the Spirit, who was associated with Father and Son in the baptismal formula and in the current symbols and so the victory of the Nicene Christology meant the recognition of the doctrine of the Trinity as a part of orthodox faith.

The assertion of the deity of the Son incarnate in Christ raised another problem which constituted the subject of dispute in the Christological controversies of the 4th and following centuries. What is the relation of the divine and human natures in Christ? At the council of Chalcedon in 451 it was declared that in the person of Christ are united two complete natures, divine and human, which retain after the union all their properties unchanged. This was supplemented at the third council of Constantinople in 680 by the statement that each of the natures contains a will, so that Christ possesses two wills. The Western Church accepted the decisions of Nicaea, Chalcedon and Constantinople and so the doctrines of the Trinity and of the two natures in Christ were handed down as orthodox dogma in West as well as East.....

Meanwhile in the Western Church the subject of sin and grace and the relation of divine and human activity in salvation, received special attention and finally, at the 2nd Council of Orange in 529, after both Pelagianism and semi-Pelagianism had been repudiated, a moderate form of Augustinianism was adopted, involving the theory that every man as a result of the Fall is in such a condition that he can take no steps in the direction of salvation until he has been renewed by the divine grace given in baptism, and that he cannot continue in the good thus begun except by the constant assistance of that grace which is mediated only by the Catholic Church. (Page 677-678).

It has become very clear from the above quotations from Christian Scholars that the first thing which misled the Christians was their exaggerated credulity. Accordingly, they went beyond the limits in their reverence and love of Christ. That is why they began to apply epithets like “Lord” and “Son of God” to Jesus Christ (peace be upon him) and to ascribe divine attributes to him and to invent the doctrine of atonement, when, in fact, there was absolutely no room, for such things in his teachings. Afterwards, when they came under the influence of philosophy, they began to put forward interpretations to justify the errors of their former religious leaders and went on inventing new creeds, one after the other, in utter disregard of the real teachings of Jesus Christ (peace be upon him), merely on the strength of philosophy and logic, whereas the right thing for them would have been to turn to the real teachings of Christ. It is against such wrong beliefs that the Quran warns in Ayats 72-77.

78. Cursed were those who disbelieved among the Children of Israel by the tongue of David, and Jesus, son of Mary. That was because they disobeyed and used to transgress.

102 The corruption of the children of Israel took place according to the universal process. At first some individuals of a community become corrupt, and if the collective conscience of the community is alive, the public opinion keeps them suppressed, and the community, as a whole, is saved from corruption. But, on the other hand, if the community connives at their evil ways, and leaves them free to do as they like, by and by, that corruption which was at first confined only to some individuals, spreads in the whole community. The same thing happened in the case of the children of Israel.

As to the curse by the tongue of the Prophets David (peace be upon him) and Jesus (peace be upon him), refer to Psalms 10 and 50 and Matthew 23.

*103 If the Jews had been sincere believers in God, prophethood and revelation, they would naturally have taken the side of the Muslims, who were believers in these teachings. But the Jews were a strange sort of believers in the Book: they sided with the mushriks against the believers in the battle between the unity of God and shirk. Moreover, they professed to believe in prophethood, but took the side of those who did not believe in it. Still they shame-facedly declared that they were believers in God, prophets and the Books.

82. You will certainly find the most intense of people in hostility to those who believe, the Jews and those who associate others. And you will certainly find the nearest of them in affection to those who believe, those who say: "We are Christians." That is because among them are priests and monks, and because they are not arrogant.

87. O those who believe, do not forbid the good things which Allah has made lawful for you,^{*104} and do not transgress.^{*105} Indeed, Allah does not love the transgressors.

يَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تُحَرِّمُوا
طَيِّبَاتِ مَا أَحَلَّ اللَّهُ لَكُمْ وَلَا
تَعْتَدُوا ۚ إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يُحِبُّ
الْمُعْتَدِينَ

104 This divine commandment implies two things. First, you have no authority to make certain things lawful and others unlawful. Lawful is only that which Allah has made lawful and unlawful is that which Allah has made unlawful. Therefore if you make a lawful thing unlawful, and vice versa, you will be following your own law and not the divine law. Secondly, you should not adopt the way of asceticism like the Christian monks or the Hindu friars or the Buddhist mendicants and the like. This was meant to warn the Muslims against the general tendency, which has always existed among the religious-minded people, to consider even the normal satiation of the desires of the body and mind to be against spiritual progress. They imagine that self-torture, self-denial and abstinence are virtues in themselves and that one could not approach God without these austerities. As a matter of fact, there were some companions, who had developed such tendencies. When the Prophet (peace be upon him) came to know that some of his companions had taken vows that they would always observe fast during the day and would not go to bed for sleep but keep awake and worship God the whole night, and would abstain from flesh, fat and women, he forbade them from such practices. He said, I have not ordained such things; your own self has rights on you; therefore observe fast and also eat easefully. Stand in worship at night and also go to sleep. I myself sometimes observe fast and at others I do not. I eat flesh and butter. This is my way, and the one who does not like my way, is not of me.

According to another tradition, he emphasized the same and said, now is it that some people have made unlawful for themselves women, good food, scents and perfumes, sleep and other good things of the world? As for me, I have not taught you to become monks and hermits. The way of life taught by me does neither allow abstention from women nor from eating flesh nor retirement and seclusion from the world. The law has prescribed fasting for self-discipline, and jihad for the same benefits that might be obtained from asceticism. Worship Allah and associate none with Him as partner, perform Hajj and Umrah, establish the Salat and pay Zakat and observe the fasting during the month of Ramadan. The people who were doomed before you, were doomed because they practiced austerity of their own accord, and when they did so, Allah also prescribed the same for them. Those are of them whom you now see in the monasteries.

In the same connection, we learn from some traditions that when the Prophet (peace be upon him) came to know that a certain companion had been abstaining from having conjugal relations with his wife for a long time and had been devoting himself to worship, he immediately sent for him and ordered, "Go to your wife instantly." The companion replied, "I am with fast." The Prophet (peace be upon him) again said, "Break the fast and go to your wife." There is another instance of the same kind. A woman came to caliph Umar and complained, "My husband observes fast during the day and passes the night in worship and does not have conjugal relations with me." Umar ordered Kaab bin Saur al-Azdi to hear the case. He decreed that the husband was permitted to pass three nights in worship but he must go to his wife on the fourth night.

105 "To transgress" has very extensive meanings. One goes beyond the limits, if one makes lawful things unlawful or abstains from things which Allah has declared to be pure as if they were impure or if one is extravagant in the use of pure things, or if one makes use of unlawful things as if they were lawful. Allah does not like such acts of transgression.

88. And eat of that which Allah has provided for you, lawful, good things. And fear Allah, Him in whom you are believers.

وَكُلُوا مِمَّا رَزَقَكُمُ اللَّهُ حَلَلًا
طَيِّبًا وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ الَّذِي أَنْتُمْ
بِهِ مُؤْمِنُونَ

89. Allah does not hold against you for what is meaningless in your oaths, but He does hold against you for the oaths which you have sworn in earnest. So its لَا يُؤَاخِذُكُمُ اللَّهُ بِاللَّغْوِ فِي expiation is the feeding of ten needy persons with the average of that which you feed your own families, or the clothing of them, or the freeing of a slave. So whoever can not find (the means to do so), then (he shall) fast three days. That is the expiation of your oaths when you have sworn.*106 And protect your oaths.*107 Thus Allah makes clear to you His revelations, that you may be grateful.

 كَذَلِكَ يُبَيِّنُ اللَّهُ لَكُمْ آيَاتِهِ
 لَعَلَّكُمْ تَشْكُرُونَ

*106 The commandment about oaths has been laid down here in connection with instructions about food, because some people had taken oaths of making some lawful things unlawful for themselves. The commandment is that if one uttered a word of oath without any intention behind it, he shall not be bound to observe it, for there is no punishment or expiation for this. But if one has deliberately taken such an oath, he must break it and expiate the violation because he must abrogate such a sinful oath. (Refer to E.Ns 243 and 244 of Surah Al-Baqarah and E.N. 125 of Surah An-Nisa).

*107 “Protect your oath” implies three things. First, one should make the right use of an oath and should not take it for useless and sinful things. Secondly, when one takes an oath for anything, he should remember it lest he should forget it and violate it. Thirdly, if one takes a deliberate oath to do a right thing, he must fulfill it, and if one violates it, he should expiate the sin.

90. O those who believe, intoxicants, and gambling, and idolatrous sacrifices at altars, and divining arrows are only an abomination of Satan's handiwork.*108 So avoid it that you may be successful.*109

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا إِنَّمَا الْخَمْرُ
وَالْمَيْسِرُ وَالْأَنْصَابُ وَالْأَزْلَمُ
رِجْسٌ مِّنْ عَمَلِ الشَّيْطَانِ
فَاجْتَنِبُوهُ لَعَلَّكُمْ تُفْلِحُونَ

108 Refer to E.Ns 12 and 14 of this Surah for the meaning of ansab (ungodly shrines), azlam (methods of divination) and maisar (gambling). Though azlam, divination, is in its very nature a form of gambling, there is a slight difference between it and maisar. Azlam applies to those forms of divination and casting of lots, which are tinged with shirk and superstition and maisar applies to all those forms by which wealth is acquired or divided by devices of chance.

109 In this verse four things have been made absolutely unlawful. They are wine, gambling, ungodly shrines (which are dedicated to the worship of others than Allah and in which sacrifices are made and offerings given in the name of others than Allah) and divining devices. The nature of the last three has already been explained. Here are the details of the commandment about wine.

Before making wine absolutely unlawful in this verse, two other commandments concerning its prohibition had already been given in Surah Al-Baqarah, Ayat 219 and Surah An-Nisa, Ayat 43. Before this last commandment was given, the Prophet (peace be upon him) addressed the people in order to prepare them for its absolute prohibition. He warned and said, Allah does not like at all that people should drink wine. Probably absolute prohibition will soon be prescribed: therefore those who possess wine are advised to sell it. Sometime after this, when Ayat 90 was revealed, he declared, "Now those who possess wine, can neither drink it nor sell it; they should, therefore, throw it away." Accordingly, it was spilled in the streets of Al-Madinah to run wastefully. Some people, however, asked the Prophet (peace be upon him), "May we give it as a present to the Jews?" He replied, "The One Who has made it unlawful has also forbidden to give it as a present." Others asked, "May we convert it into vinegar?" He replied, "No, you must spill it." Another asked again and again, "Is one permitted to use wine as medicine?" The Prophet (peace be upon him) emphatically rejected this also and said, "No, it is not a medicine but a disease." Yet another asked, we live in a place, which is very cold, and we have to do tiresome labor. So we drink wine to refresh ourselves from fatigue and to keep warm in the cold. He asked, "Is what you drink intoxicant?" The man replied, "Yes." The Prophet (peace be upon him) replied, "Then refrain from it." At this the man said, "The people of our part of the country will not submit to this." He replied, "If they do not submit to this, then go to war with them."

According to a tradition related by Ibn Umar, the Prophet (peace be upon him) declared, Allah has cursed wine and the one who drinks it, and the one who serves it, and the one who sells it, and the one who buys it, and the one who extracts it, and the one who has it extracted, and the one who carried it, and the one for whom it is carried.

According to another tradition the Prophet (peace be upon him) prohibited the Muslims from eating the food which is served along with wine. In the initial stage of the prohibition, he forbade even the use of those utensils which were employed for extracting wine or for drinking it. Afterwards when the prohibition had become thoroughly effective, the use of such utensils was permitted.

Though originally the Arabic word khamr meant only wine made from grapes, and it was also applied to the liquors made from wheat, barley, dried grapes, dates and honey, the Prophet (peace be upon him) applied the prohibition to all the intoxicants, and there are traditions that clearly support this. For instance, “Every intoxicant is khamr and is unlawful.” “Every drink that intoxicates is unlawful.” “I prohibit every intoxicant.” In one of his Friday sermons, the Caliph Umar defined khamr as everything that dulls the faculty of thinking.

In this connection, the Prophet (peace be upon him) laid down the general principle: if a large dose of something is intoxicant, then its smallest dose also is unlawful, and if a cup of anything is intoxicant, then a drop of it also is unlawful.

During the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him), there was no fixed punishment for a drunkard. The culprit, who was arrested and brought for trial was beaten with shoes, kicked, given blows and thrashed with sticks and ropes. Forty stripes were the maximum punishment given for this crime. The same was the punishment during the time of Abu Bakr and the early days of Umar. But when the latter saw that the crime was on the increase, he in consultation with the other companions laid down eighty stripes for this. Imam Malik and Imam Abu Hanifah and, according to a tradition, Imam Shafai also, were of the same opinion. But Imam Ahmad bin Hanbal, and according to another Tradition, Imam Shafai also, were of the opinion that forty stripes should be inflicted for the crime of drinking. Ali also considered forty stripes to be the punishment for it. (may Allah be pleased with them all).

According to the Sharia, it is the duty of the Islamic State to enforce prohibition. That is why during the time of Umar the shop of a man, named Ruvaishid, who belonged to the clan of Bani-Thaqif, was burnt by his order because wine was secretly sold there. On another occasion a whole village was burnt down by the orders of Umar for the crime that wine was secretly extracted and sold there.

95. O those who believe, do not kill wild game while you are in Ihram for the pilgrimage.^{*110} And whoever of you kills it intentionally, so the penalty is an equivalent to what he killed, of domestic animals, as judged by two just men among you, an offering delivered to the Kabah. Or as expiation, the feeding of needy persons, or the equivalent of that in fasting,^{*111} that he may taste the evil consequences of his deed. Allah has forgiven whatever happened in the past. 110 It is forbidden to hunt game or to help another to hunt it, in any way whatsoever, while one is in the pilgrim's garments or in the sacred precincts. It is also unlawful for one in this state to eat of the game that has been specifically killed for him. If, however, someone else, not in this state, kills a game for himself and then gives a part of it to a pilgrim as a present, there is no harm for the latter to eat it.

Of course, the harmful animals are an exception to this prohibition. One is permitted to kill a snake, scorpion, mad dog or any other harmful animal, even when one is under the restrictions imposed on a pilgrim.

*111 Those two just men will also decide how many indigent persons are to be fed, or how many fasts are to be observed, for killing a certain animal.

96. Lawful to you is the sea game and its food,^{*112} a provision for you and those on a journey. And forbidden to you is the land game as long as you are in Ihram for the pilgrimage. And fear Allah, He, to whom you will be gathered.

*112 Game from the sea has been made lawful because sometimes when provisions run short on a sea journey, there is nothing else close at hand to eat.

97. Allah has appointed the Kabah, the Sacred House, an asylum of security for mankind, and the sacred month (of Hajj), and the animals of sacrificial offerings, and (animals with) the garlands.^{*113} That is so you may know that Allah knows what is in the heavens and what is in the earth, and that Allah is Knower of all things.*114

وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمٌ

*113 For Arabia, the Kabah was not merely a sacred place of worship, but it occupied a central position in the country and because of this and of its sanctity, it was the means of stabilizing its economy and culture. The people from all over the country came there to perform Hajj and Umrah and the huge gathering helped to create the feeling of unity among the Arabs who were otherwise torn by clannish strife. The pilgrims who came from different clans and places met together and established cultural relations. Poetic contests helped to make their language and literature rich. Trade and commerce which were transacted on the occasion helped to satisfy the economic needs of the people. The sacred months provided peace to the Arabs for four months and this was the only period during which their caravans could travel in security from one part of the country to the other. The animals dedicated to sacrifice and the collars round their necks proved very helpful to the movements of the caravans, for the Arabs showed so much reverence for them that none dared touch them with the intention of robbery.

*114 That is, if you just think deeply about the wisdom contained in the sanctity of the Kabah and the restrictions laid down for the pilgrimage to it and the benefits accruing from it, you yourselves would be convinced that Allah, Who has prescribed these, has deep and perfect knowledge of the welfare and needs of His creatures. You will realize that each one of His commandments is very beneficial for different aspects of human life. Even during the centuries of chaos before the advent of the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him), Allah had made the Kabah a means of security and stability for your national life though you yourselves were senselessly bent upon destroying it. In the same way, commandments of Allah guaranteed your own security and welfare; therefore you should, for your own good observe these, for there are hidden benefits in them that you can neither foresee nor obtain by your own devices.

لَعَلَّكُمْ تَفْلِحُونَ

115 This verse sets up a new standard of values, which is quite different from the standard of those who look only at the outward aspect of things. Such people usually judge things by their quantity and not by their quality. For instance, one hundred rupees are always considered greater in value than five rupees by one who does not attach any value to the means by which these might have been obtained. But contrary to this evaluation, this verse declares that if these one hundred rupees have been obtained by unfair means and those five rupees earned by fair means, then the former are less in worth because of their impurity than the latter because of their purity. According to this standard, it is not the number or the quantity of a thing that increases or decreases its true worth but the question whether it has been obtained by fair means or foul. Obviously, a drop of rose scent has greater value than a heap of filth and a cup of pure water is far greater in worth than a cistern full of impure urine. Therefore one who is really wise will always remain content with the lawful, though it may appear to be very insignificant and worthless, and will never try to grab the unlawful, though it might appear to be very alluring and grand.

101. O those who believe, do not ask about things which, if they were made known to you, may cause you

يَتَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تَسْأَلُوا
عَنْ أَشْيَاءَ إِن تُبَدَّ لَكُمْ تَسْؤُكُمْ trouble.*¹¹⁶ And if you ask of them while the Quran is being revealed, they will be made known to you. Allah has forgiven that. And Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Forbearing.

وَإِنْ تَسْأَلُوا عَنْهَا حِينَ يُنَزَّلُ
الْقُرْآنُ تُبَدَّ لَكُمْ عَفَا اللَّهُ عَنْهَا
وَاللَّهُ غَفُورٌ حَلِيمٌ

*116 This verse forbids people to ask useless and unnecessary questions because some people used to put such questions to the Prophet (peace be upon him) as were of no practical good for mundane affairs nor for spiritual uplift. For example, once a certain person while sitting in a gathering asked him, “Who is my real father?” Likewise, sometimes, some people put unnecessary questions concerning legal matters so as to get these defined, whereas they had been purposely kept undefined for the good of the people. For example, when Hajj was made obligatory by a commandment in the Quran, a certain person heard it, and instantly asked; “Has it been made obligatory to perform Hajj every year.” The Prophet (peace be upon him) did not reply. The man repeated the question, but he again kept quiet. When the man put the question for the third time, he replied, "Woe to you! If I had said: ‘Yes’, the performance of Hajj every year would have become obligatory and people like you would have been unable to perform it and been guilty of disobedience.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) himself forbade people to ask questions for the sake of it and to probe into things aimlessly. In a tradition he warned, “The worst offender against the Muslims is the person who asked a question about something that had not been made unlawful but was made so because of his question.” In another tradition he said, “Allah has prescribed some obligatory duties for you; let not these go unfulfilled, and He has made certain things unlawful, so do not go near them. He has prescribed certain limits, do not transgress them. He has been silent concerning certain things, but not because He has forgotten them; so do not try to probe into such things.”

In these two traditions a warning has been served against a very serious matter. There are certain things and commandments which have been left vague and without details. This is not because the law-giver had forgotten to give details or to make them specific but because He did not intend to limit these in order to leave a wide scope for the people. Therefore if a person goes on creating one issue after the other, by putting unnecessary and useless questions and thus creates limitations and specifications, he puts the people to unnecessary trouble. Likewise if he tries to deduce the details by the force of his reasoning, and does not rest content till he has made the vague things specific and the indefinite as definite, he in reality puts the Muslims in a very awkward position. This is because the more details we offer for the unseen and the next world, the more will be the chances for creating doubts about them, and likewise, the more limitations are imposed concerning the commandments, the greater will be the chance for their violation.

102. Indeed, a people asked such (questions) before you, then they became on that account disbelievers. ^{*117}

قَدْ سَأَلَهَا قَوْمٌ مِّن قَبْلِكُمْ ثُمَّ
أَصْبَحُوا بِهَا كَافِرِينَ

117 The people, who were involved in disbelief because they asked useless and unnecessary questions, were the Jews. At first they were involved in hairsplitting, which led them to put unnecessary questions about the details of the faith and the commandments. Consequently, they helped to impose upon themselves such restrictions as they could not observe and so became guilty of disobedience and disbelief, What a pity that the Muslims are following the Jews, step by step, in spite of these warnings by the Quran and the Prophet (peace be upon him)!

103. Allah has not instituted any (things as innovations like) Bahirah, nor Saibah, nor Wasilah, nor Hami. ^{*118} But those (pagans) who disbelieve invent lies against Allah. And most of them have no understanding.

مَا جَعَلَ اللَّهُ مِنْ بُحَيْرَةٍ وَلَا

وَلَكِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا يَفْتَرُونَ عَلَى اللَّهِ الْكَذِبَ وَأَكْثَرُهُمْ لَا
يَعْقِلُونَ

to take any service from them or slaughter them for food or derive any benefit from them in any way. Bahirah was the name given to a she-camel which had five young ones, the last of which was a he-camel. Her ear was then split and she was turned loose to roam at liberty. After this, none would ride her nor drink her milk nor slaughter her nor shear her hair. She was allowed to graze in any field and pasture and drink from any watering place.

Saibah was the name given to that he-camel or she-camel which was let loose as a mark of gratitude in fulfillment of a vow taken for recovery from some illness or safety from some danger. Saibah was also the name given to the she-camel which had ten young ones, each of which was a she-camel. Wasilah was the name given to a special he-goat which was one of the first born twins, the other of which was a she-goat. The practice about the first born young ones was that they used to sacrifice, in the haute of their deities, the first horn young one if it happened to be a he-goat. But if they happened to be twins they would not sacrifice the he-goat and would call it Wasilah and set it at liberty in the name of deities. Ham was the name given to a he-camel as soon as his grandson became grown up and fit for riding: it was then set at liberty. The same name also was given to a he-camel which begot ten young ones and was set at liberty.

104. And when it is said to them: “Come to that which Allah has revealed and to the messenger (Muhammad),”

وَإِذَا قِيلَ لَهُمْ تَعَالَوْا إِلَىٰ مَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ وَإِلَىٰ الرَّسُولِ قَالُوا

they say: “Enough for us is that upon which we found our fathers.” Even though their fathers had no knowledge whatsoever, nor were they guided.

حَسْبُنَا مَا وَجَدْنَا عَلَيْهِ ءَابَاءَنَا
أُولَٰئِكَ كَانُوا ءَابَآؤَهُمْ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ
شَيْئًا وَلَا يَهْتَدُونَ ﴿١٠٤﴾

105. O those who believe, upon you is (responsibility of) your own selves. Those who have gone astray cannot harm you when you are rightly guided. ^{*119} To Allah is your return all together, then He will inform you of what you used to do.

يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا عَلَيْكُمْ

جَمِيعًا فَيُنَبِّئُكُمْ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ
تَعْمَلُونَ ﴿١٠٥﴾

119 This is a warning against a common human weakness. Some people are always on the lookout to find out and criticize errors in others. Here such people have been admonished against this evil and asked to concentrate their attention on their own acts, deeds, morals and beliefs instead of probing into and criticizing the conduct and beliefs of others. If a man himself is obedient to Allah and fulfills his obligations to Him and man, and treads the path of truth and righteousness, which also includes the establishment of virtue and the eradication of vice, then most surely the crookedness and deviation of any other can do him no harm.

This verse however, does not mean that a person should think only of his own salvation and leave alone the reform of others. Abu Bakr Siddiq (may Allah be pleased with him) refuted this misconception in an address, saying, “O people, you recite this verse and put on it a wrong interpretation. I myself heard the Prophet (peace be upon him) say, when the people become so indifferent that they see evil and do not try to eradicate it and see an unjust person doing an injustice and do not prevent him from it, Allah may punish all of them. I swear by Allah that it is obligatory on you to enjoin virtue and forbid evil. If you neglect this, Allah will place you under the worst people who will inflict hardships on you. Then your good people will offer prayers but He will not accept these.

106. O those who believe, testimony (should be taken) between you when death approaches one of you, at the time of bequest, two just men^{*120} from among you, or two others from outside of you, if you are traveling through the land, and the calamity of death befalls you.^{*121} Detain them both after the prayer, then let them both swear by Allah, if you doubt (their truthfulness), (saying): “We will not exchange it (oath) for a price, even if he should

*121 This shows that the Muslims are permitted to make the non-Muslims their witnesses only in case the Muslim witnesses are not available.

107. Then if it is found about that those two were guilty of sin, then two others shall stand in their place, from among those who claim right, those nearest (the deceased). So let them swear by Allah, (saying): “Our testimony is truer than the testimony of both of them, and we have not transgressed. Indeed, we would then be of the wrong doers.”

123 That is, what was the response of the world to the invitation that you gave towards Islam?

124 That is, we know only of that outward response which was made to our invitation during our lifetime. As regards the real practical response, we have no correct knowledge of it for that is known to You alone.

125 At first this question will be put collectively to all the Messengers. Then each of the Messengers will stand as a witness individually. Here that question, which will be put to Jesus Christ (peace be upon him), has been specially mentioned because it fits into the context.

126 That is, “You brought them back to life after death.”

111. And when I inspired to the disciples, (saying) that: “Believe in Me and in My messenger.” They said: “We believe. And bear witness

127 That is, it was a favor upon you that the disciples believed in you, by Our Grace; otherwise you had no power by yourself to convert even a single person out of the disbelievers.

Incidentally, the use of the word Muslims for the disciples is meant to show that their religion was Islam and not Christianity.

112. When ^{*128} the disciples said: “O Jesus, son of Mary, is your Lord able to send down for us a table spread with food from heaven.” He said: “Fear Allah, if you are believers.”

كُنْتُمْ مُّؤْمِنِينَ

128 This incident has been inserted here as a parenthesis to show that even his disciples, who had received his teachings from him directly, considered Jesus (peace be upon him) a man and servant of God. Therefore, they could never conceive to make their master a god or a partner of God or son of God. This also shows that Jesus (peace be upon him) also presented himself as a servant without having any authority of his own.

It may be asked, what was the occasion of inserting this parenthesis here to interrupt the conversation that was being cited? The answer is that the conversation that would take place on the Day of Resurrection has been quoted here for the benefit of the Christians so that they may learn the lesson and adopt the right way. It is, therefore, quite pertinent to insert the incident mentioned in the parenthesis to impress the same lesson.

113. They said: “We wish that we eat from it, and that we may satisfy our hearts, and know that you have indeed spoken truth to us, and that we may be among its witnesses.”

114. Jesus, son of Mary, said: “O Allah, our Lord, send down for us a table spread with food from heaven, that it may be for us a feast, for the first of us, and the last of us, and a sign from You. And provide us sustenance, and You are the Best of Sustainers.”

Possibly it was sent down, but it is equally possible that the disciples themselves might have taken back their request after the warning in verse 115.

130 This refers to another error of the Christians. They had made Mary an object of worship along with Christ and the Holy Ghost, though there is not a word or hint in the Bible about this doctrine. During the first three centuries after Christ, the Christian world was totally unaware of this creed. Towards the end of the 3rd century, the words “Mother of God” were used for the first time by some theologians of Alexandria. Though the response which these words found in the popular heart was great, yet the Church was not at first inclined to accept the doctrine and declared that the worship of Mary was a wrong creed. Then at the Council of Ephesus in 431 A.D., the words Mother of God were officially used by the Church. As a result Mariolatry began to spread by leaps and bounds both inside and outside the Church. So much so that by the time the Quran was revealed, the exaltation of the Mother of God had eclipsed the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost. Her statues were set up in Churches and she was worshiped, implored and invoked in prayers. In short, the greatest source of reliance of a Christian was that he should obtain the help and protection of the Mother of God. Emperor Justinian in the preamble to one of his laws bespeaks her advocacy for the empire and his general, Narses, looks to her directions on the battlefield. Emperor Heraclius, a contemporary of the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him), bore her image on his banner and believed that because of its auspicious nature it will never be lowered. Though the Protestants after the Reformation did their best to fight against Mariolatry, yet the Roman Catholic Church still adheres to it passionately.

Al-Anaam

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of Allah, Most Gracious, Most Merciful

Name

This Surah takes its name from Ayats 136, 138 and 139 in which some superstitious beliefs of the idolatrous Arabs concerning the lawfulness of some cattle Al-Anaam and the unlawfulness of some others have been refuted.

Period of Revelation

According to a tradition of Ibn Abbas, the entire Surah was revealed at one sitting in Makkah. Asma, a daughter of Yazid and a first cousin of Muaaz-bin Jabl, says, "During the revelation of this Surah, the Prophet (peace be upon him) was riding on a she-camel and I was holding her nose-string. The she-camel began to feel the weight so heavily that it seemed as if her bones would break under it." We also learn from other traditions that the Prophet (peace be upon him) dictated the entire Surah the same night that it was revealed.

Its subject matter clearly shows that it must have been revealed during the last year of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) life at Makkah. The tradition of Asma, daughter of Yazid, also confirms this. As she belonged to the Ansar and embraced Islam after the migration of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to Yathrib, her visit to the Prophet (peace be upon him) at Makkah must have taken place during the last year of his life there. For before this, his relations with those people were not so intimate that a woman from there might have come to visit him at Makkah.

Occasion of Revelation

After determining the period of its revelation, it is easier to visualize the background of the Surah. Twelve years had passed since the Prophet (peace be upon him) had been inviting the people to Islam. The antagonism and persecution by the Quraish had become most savage and brutal, and the majority of the Muslims had to leave their homes and migrate to Habash (Abyssinia). Above all, the two great supporters of the Prophet (peace be upon him), Abu Talib and Khadijah, were no more to help and give strength to him. Thus he was deprived of all the worldly support. But in spite of this, he carried on his mission in the teeth of opposition. As a result of this, on the one hand, all the good people of Makkah and the surrounding clans gradually began to accept Islam; and on the other hand, the community as a whole, was bent upon obduracy and rejection. Therefore, if anyone showed any inclination towards Islam, he was subjected to taunts and derision, physical violence and social boycott. It was in these dark circumstances that a ray of hope gleamed from Yathrib, where Islam began to spread freely by the efforts of some influential people of Aus and Khazraj, who had embraced Islam at Makkah. This was a humble beginning in the march of Islam towards success and none could foresee at that time the great potentialities that lay hidden in it. For, to a casual observer, it appeared at that time as if Islam was merely a weak movement it had no material backing except the meager support of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) own family and of the few poor adherents of the movement. Obviously the latter could not give much help because they themselves had been cast out by their own people who had become their enemies and were persecuting them.

Topics

These were the conditions, when this discourse was revealed. The main topics dealt with in this discourse may be divided under seven headings:

1. Refutation of shirk and invitation to the creed of Tauhid.
2. Enunciation of the doctrine of the life-after-death. And refutation of the wrong notion that there was nothing beyond this worldly life.
3. Refutation of the prevalent superstitions.
4. Enunciation of the fundamental moral principles for the building up of the Islamic society.
5. Answers to the objections raised against the person of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his mission.
6. Comfort and encouragement to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers who were at, that time in a state of anxiety and despondency because of the apparent failure of the mission.

7. Admonition, warning and threats to the disbelievers and opponents to give up their apathy and haughtiness. It must, however, be noted that the above topics have not been dealt with one by one under separate headings, but the discourse goes on as a continuous whole and these topics come under discussion over and over again in new and different ways.

The Background of Makki Surahs

As this is the first long Makki Surah in the order of the compilation of the Quran, it will be useful to explain the historical background of Makki Surahs in general, so that the reader may easily understand the Makki Surahs and the references to its different stages in connection with the commentary on them.

First of all, it should be noted that comparatively very little material is available in regard to the background of the revelation of Makki Surahs, whereas the period of the revelation of all the Madani Surahs is known or can be determined with a little effort. There are authentic traditions even in regard to the occasions of the revelation of the majority of the verses. On the other hand, we do not have such detailed information regarding the Makki Surahs. There are only a few Surahs and verses which have authentic traditions concerning the time and occasion of their revelation. This is because the history of the Makki period had not been compiled in such detail as that of the Madani period. Therefore we have to depend on the internal evidence of these Surahs for determining the period of their revelation: for example, the topics they discuss, their subject matter, their style and the direct or indirect references to the events and the occasions of their revelation. Thus it is obvious that with the help of such evidence as this, we cannot say with precision that such and such Surah or verse was revealed on such and such an occasion. The most we can do is to compare the internal evidence of a Surah with the events of the life of the Prophet (peace be upon him) at Makkah, and then come to a more or less correct conclusion as to what particular stage a certain Surah belongs.

If we keep the above things in view, the history of the mission of the Prophet (peace be upon him) at Makkah can be divided into four stages.

The first stage began with his appointment as a Messenger and ended with the proclamation of prophethood three years later. During this period the Message was given secretly to some selected persons only, but the common people of Makkah were not aware of it.

The second stage lasted for two years after the proclamation of his prophethood. It began with opposition by individuals: then by and by, it took the shape of antagonism, ridicule, derision, accusation, abuse, and false propaganda. Then gangs were formed to persecute those Muslims who were comparatively poor, weak and helpless.

The third stage lasted for about six years from the beginning of the persecution to the death of Abu Talib and Khadijah in the tenth year of prophethood. During this period, the persecution of the Muslims became so savage and brutal that many of them were forced to migrate to Habash. Social and economic boycott was applied against the Prophet (peace be upon him) and the members of his family, and those Muslims who continued to stay in Makkah were forced to take refuge in Shib-i-Abi Talib which was besieged.

The fourth stage lasted for about three years from the tenth to the thirteenth year of prophethood. This was a period of hard trials and grievous sufferings for the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers. Life had become unendurable at Makkah and there appeared to be no place of refuge even outside of it. So much so that when the Prophet (peace be upon him) went to Taaif, it offered no shelter or protection. Besides this, on the occasion of Hajj, he would appeal to each and every Arab clan to accept his invitation to Islam but met with blank refusal from every quarter. At the same time, the people of Makkah were holding counsels to get rid of him by killing or imprisoning or banishing him from their city. It was at that most critical time that Allah opened for Islam the hearts of the Ansar of Yathrib where he migrated at their invitation.

Now that we have divided the life of the Prophet (peace be upon him) at Makkah into four stages, it has become easier for us to tell, as far as possible, the particular stage in which a certain Makki Sarah was revealed. This is because the Surahs belonging to a particular stage can be distinguished from those of the other stages with the help of their subject matter and style. Besides this, they also contain such references as throw light on the circumstances and events that form the background of their revelation. In the succeeding Makki Surahs, we will determine on the basis of the distinctive features of each stage, and point out in the preface, the particular stage in which a certain Makki Surah was revealed.

Islamic Creed

This Surah mainly discusses the different aspects of the major articles of the Islamic creed: Tauhid, life-after-death, prophethood and their practical application to human life. Side by side with this, it refutes the erroneous beliefs of the opponents and answers their objections, warns and admonishes them and comforts the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers, who were then suffering from persecution.

Of course, these themes have not been dealt with under separate headers but have been blended in an excellent manner.

Topics and their Interconnection

Ayats 1-12. These verses are of introductory and admonitory nature. The disbelievers have been warned that if they do not accept the Islamic creed and follow the light shown by the revelation from the All-Knowing and All-Powerful Allah, they would go to the same doom as the former disbelievers did. Their arguments for rejecting the Prophet (peace be upon him) and the revelation sent down to him have been refuted and a warning has been given to them that they should not be deluded by the respite that is being granted to them.

Ayats 13-24. These verses inculcate Tauhid, and refute shirk which is the greatest obstacle in the way of its acceptance.

Ayats 25-32. In these verses, a graphic scene of the life in the Hereafter has been depicted in order to warn the disbelievers of the consequences of the rejection of the articles of faith.

Ayats 33-73. Prophethood is the main theme which has been discussed from the point of view of the Prophet (peace be upon him), his mission, the limitations of his powers, the attitude towards his followers and also from the point of view of the disbelievers.

Ayats 74-90. In continuation of the same theme, the story of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) has been related to bring home to the pagan Arabs that the mission of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him), which they were opposing, was the same as that of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him). This line of argument was adopted because they considered themselves to be his followers, especially the Quraish who were proud of being his descendants as well.

Ayats 91-108. Another proof of his prophethood is the Book, which has been sent down to him by Allah, for its teachings show the right guidance in regard to creed and practice.

Ayats 109-154. Divine restrictions have been contrasted with the superstitious restrictions of the pagan Arabs in order to show the striking differences between the two and thus prove the Quran to be a revealed Book.

Ayats 155-160. The Jews, who were criticized in Ayats 144-147 along with the pagan Arabs, have been urged to compare the teachings of the Quran with those of the Torah so that they might recognize their similarity and give up their lame excuses against it, and adopt its guidance to escape the retribution on the Day of Resurrection.

Ayats 161-165. This is the conclusion of the discourse: the Prophet (peace be upon him) has been instructed in a beautiful and forceful manner to proclaim fearlessly the articles of the Islamic creed and their implications.

1. All praises be to Allah, who created the heavens and the earth, and made the darkness and the light. Then those who disbelieve, to their Lord, they ascribe (others) to be equals.*¹

الْحَمْدُ لِلَّهِ الَّذِي خَلَقَ
السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضَ وَجَعَلَ
الظُّلُمَاتِ وَالنُّورَ ثُمَّ الَّذِينَ
كَفَرُوا بِهِمْ يَعْدِلُونَ

*¹ It should be noted that the addressees were the mushrik Arabs, who acknowledged that the Creator of the earth and heavens and of the sun and the moon is Allah, who brought about the day and night. None of them believed that these were the works of Lat or Hubal or Uzza or of any other god or goddess. Therefore Allah admonished them, saying (so to speak), “O foolish people, when you yourselves admit that the Creator of the heavens and earth and of the night and day is Allah, why do you, then, make others your gods, and prostrate before them, make offerings to them, present your needs before them and invoke them for help.” (Refer to E.N. 2 of Surah Al-Fatihah and E.N. 163, Surah Al-Baqarah).

It may be noted that zulumat (plural of zulmat) has been used in contrast to noor (light, singular form). It is because darkness is merely the absence of light and may be of many kinds.

2. He it is who has created you from clay,^{*2} then He has decreed a term (of life). And a term determined is with Him,^{*3} then you are in doubt.

هُوَ الَّذِي خَلَقَكُمْ مِنْ طِينٍ ثُمَّ
قَضَىٰ أَجَلًا وَأَجَلٌ مُّسَمًّى
عِنْدَهُ ثُمَّ أَنْتُمْ تَمْتَرُونَ

*2 Allah says that He has created man from clay because each and every particle of the human body comes from the earth and from nowhere else.

*3 “A term determined” is the “Day of Resurrection”, when all human beings will be brought back to life and presented before Allah for rendering the account of their life on the earth.

3. And He is Allah in the heavens and in the earth. He knows what you conceal and what you reveal, and He knows what you earn.

وَهُوَ اللَّهُ فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَفِي
الْأَرْضِ يَعْلَمُ سِرَّكُمْ وَجَهْرَكُمْ
وَيَعْلَمُ مَا تَكْسِبُونَ

4. And never came to them a sign of the signs of their Lord except they turned away from it.

وَمَا تَأْتِيهِمْ مِنْ آيَةٍ مِنْ آيَاتِ
رَبِّهِمْ إِلَّا كَانُوا عَنْهَا مُعْرِضِينَ

5. Indeed, they denied the truth when it came to them. So there will soon come to them the news*4 of that which they used to mock at.

فَقَدْ كَذَّبُوا بِالْحَقِّ لَمَّا جَاءَهُمْ
فَسَوْفَ يَأْتِيهِمْ أَنْبَاءُ مَا كَانُوا
بِهِ يَسْتَهْزِءُونَ ﴿٥﴾

*4 The reference is to the news of the successes that were to follow the emigration of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to Al-Madinah. At the time of this revelation, neither the disbelievers nor the believers could ever imagine the nature of the news they were going to receive. So much so that even the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself was unaware of the kind of successes the Muslims were going to achieve in the near future.

6. Have they not seen how many a generation We have destroyed before them, whom We had established on the earth, such as We have not established you. And We showered abundant rains on them from the sky, and We made the rivers flow beneath them, then We destroyed them for their sins, and brought forth after them a generation of others.

أَلَمْ يَرَوْا كَمْ أَهْلَكْنَا مِنْ قَبْلِهِمْ
مِنْ قَرْنٍ مَكَّنَّاهُمْ فِي الْأَرْضِ
مَا لَمْ نُمَكِّنْ لَكُمْ وَأَرْسَلْنَا
السَّمَاءَ عَلَيْهِمْ مِدْرَارًا وَجَعَلْنَا
الْأَنْهَارَ تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْتِهِمْ
فَأَهْلَكْنَاهُمْ بِذُنُوبِهِمْ وَأَنْشَأْنَا
مِنْ بَعْدِهِمْ قَرْنًا آخَرِينَ ﴿٦﴾

7. And even if We had sent down to you (Muhammad) a

وَلَوْ نَزَّلْنَا عَلَيْكَ كِتَابًا فِي written book on parchment, so that they could touch it with their hands, those who disbelieve would have said: “This is nothing but obvious magic.”

قِرطَاسٍ فَلَمَسُوهُ بِأَيْدِيهِمْ لَقَالَ
الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا إِنَّ هَذَا إِلَّا سِحْرٌ
مُبِينٌ

8. And they say: “Why has not an angel been sent down to him.”*5 And if We had sent down an angel, the matter would surely have been judged, then no respite would be granted to them.*6

وَقَالُوا لَوْلَا أُنزِلَ عَلَيْهِ مَلَكٌ وَلَوْ أَنْزَلْنَا مَلَكًا لَقُضِيَ الْأَمْرُ
ثُمَّ لَا يُنظَرُونَ

*5 The ignorant objectors argued that if Muhammad (peace be upon him) was really a Messenger from Allah, an angel ought to have come down from heaven to declare to the people: “This is the Messenger of Allah, so obey him; otherwise you shall be punished.”

The ignorant objectors did not understand how the Creator of the heavens and earth could leave His Messenger (peace be upon him) in such a plight as to be maligned and stoned by his enemies. They argued that the Messenger of such a Supreme Sovereign ought to have come with a large retinue or at least with an angel, in attendance on him, to protect him from his enemies and to fill the people with awe and to convince them of his prophethood and to carry out his orders in some supernatural ways.

*6 The first answer to their objection is that in case Allah had sent down an angel, no respite would have been given to them for reforming themselves and mending their ways. They have been given a chance because no angel has been sent to make the reality so clear as to leave no alternative for them but to believe. It is obvious that this would have defeated the very purpose of their life in the world to undergo their test. That is why no angel has been sent. Man should undergo his test and discover the unseen reality without actually seeing it, merely by the right use of his reasoning and thinking powers, and then bring under control his own self and its desires in accordance with the dictates of that reality. It is thus obvious that the unseen must remain unseen for the sake of that test.

The worldly life, the period of that test, will remain so only as long as the unseen remains unseen. No sooner will the unseen become evident than that period will automatically come to an end, and instead of test, it will be the time of the result of the test. Therefore, Allah is not granting your demand for an angel to appear before you because Allah does not like to end the term of your test before the expiry of the period of the test. (Refer to E.N. 228, Surah Al-Baqarah).

9. And if We had made him an angel, We would have made him (appear as) a man, and We would have covered them with (confusion), that in which they cover themselves.^{*7}

وَلَوْ جَعَلْنَاهُ مَلَكًا لَّجَعَلْنَاهُ رَجُلًا وَلَلَبَسْنَا عَلَيْهِم مَّا يَلْبَسُونَ

*7 The only other alternative was to send an angel in human form. Allah says that if He had sent an angel in human form, they would have felt the same difficulty in recognizing him as they were feeling in recognizing Muhammad (peace be upon him). This, too, would have involved them in doubts. Therefore it was for their own good that Allah had not sent an angel in attendance on His Messenger.

10. And indeed, messengers were ridiculed before you, then those who mocked at them were surrounded by that which they used to ridicule.

وَلَقَدْ اسْتَهْزِئُ بِرُسُلٍ مِّن قَبْلِكَ
فَحَاقَ بِالَّذِينَ سَخِرُوا مِنْهُمْ
مَا كَانُوا بِهِ يَسْتَهْزِءُونَ ﴿١٠﴾

11. Say (O Muhammad): “Travel in the land, then see how was the end of those who denied.”*8

قُلْ سِيرُوا فِي الْأَرْضِ ثُمَّ أَنْظِرُوا
كَيْفَ كَانَ عَاقِبَةُ
الْمُكَذِّبِينَ ﴿١١﴾

*8 That is, those, who ridicule the Message, should travel through the land and see the remains, and study the history of the former peoples. These will bear witness to the horrible end of those who behaved in the way they are behaving towards Muhammad (peace be upon him).

12. Say: (O Muhammad): “To whom belongs whatsoever is in the heavens and the earth.” Say: “To Allah.”*9 He has decreed

قُلْ لِمَنْ مَّا فِي السَّمَوَاتِ
وَالْأَرْضِ قُلْ لِلَّهِ كَتَبَ عَلَى
نَفْسِهِ الرَّحْمَةَ لِيَجْمَعَنَّكُمْ إِلَىٰ upon Himself mercy. He will surely assemble you on the Day of Resurrection, there is no doubt about which. Those who have lost their souls are the ones who do not believe.

يَوْمِ الْقِيَمَةِ لَا رَيْبَ فِيهِ
الَّذِينَ خَسِرُوا أَنْفُسَهُمْ فَهُمْ
لَا يُؤْمِنُونَ

*9 It is a nice way of cornering the mushrikin. At first Allah tells His Messenger (peace be upon him) to ask them, “Whose is all that is in the heavens and the earth?” The questioner put the question and waited for an answer. But they kept silent because their answer could neither be in the negative nor in the affirmative. They could not deny this because they themselves believed that all belongs to Allah. But they could not affirm this because, in that case, they themselves would have supplied the adversary with an argument against their own creed of shirk. After putting them in this critical position, Allah enjoined His Messenger (peace be upon him) to say, “All belongs to Allah.”

13. And to Him belongs whatsoever dwells in the night and the day, and He is the All Hearing, the All Knowing.

وَلَهُ مَا سَكَنَ فِي اللَّيْلِ وَالنَّهَارِ
وَهُوَ السَّمِيعُ الْعَلِيمُ

14. Say (O Muhammad): “Shall I take as a protector other than Allah, the Creator of the heavens and the earth. And He it is who

قُلْ أَغَيْرَ اللَّهِ أُتَّخَذُ وَلِيًّا فَاطِرِ السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ وَهُوَ يُطْعَمُ feeds and is not fed.”*10

 Say: “Indeed, I have been commanded that I should be the first of those who submit themselves, and not be of those who associate others (with Allah).”

وَلَا يُطْعَمُ قُلٌّ إِنِّي أُمِرْتُ أَنْ
 أَكُونَ أَوَّلَ مَنْ أَسْلَمَ وَلَا
 تَكُونَنَّ مِنَ الْمُشْرِكِينَ

*10 This contains a subtle argument: all those, whom the mushrikin have made their gods besides Allah, stand in need of nourishment from their devotees, not to speak of giving nourishment to them. No Pharaoh can set up his grandeur unless his subjects pay taxes and make offerings to him; no saint becomes worthy of worship, unless his worshipers build a grand mausoleum for him; no god becomes a god unless his devotees make his idol and set it up in a grand temple and decorate it with ornamentation. Thus, all the artificial gods stand in need of their servants. It is the Lord of the universe alone, Who does not stand in need of anyone’s help but all others stand in need of Him, and it is His Godhead alone that does not stand in need of any prop from anyone whatsoever, but supports itself.

15. Say: “Indeed I fear, if I should disobey my Lord, the punishment of a tremendous Day.”

قُلْ إِنِّي أَخَافُ إِنْ عَصَيْتُ رَبِّي
 عَذَابَ يَوْمٍ عَظِيمٍ

16. He from whom it (punishment) is averted that day, (Allah) has surely been Merciful to him. And that is مَنْ يُصْرِفْ عَنْهُ يَوْمَئِذٍ فَقَدْ رَحِمَهُ وَذَلِكَ الْفَوْزُ الْمُبِينُ

the manifest success.

17. And if Allah should touch you with affliction, then none can relieve from it except Him. And if He touches you with good, then He has power over all things.

وَإِنْ يَمَسَّكَ اللَّهُ بِضُرٍّ فَلَا
كَاشِفَ لَهُ إِلَّا هُوَ وَإِنْ
يَمَسَّكَ بِخَيْرٍ فَهُوَ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ
شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ

18. And He is the Omnipotent over His slaves, and He is the All Wise, the All Knower.

وَهُوَ الْقَاهِرُ فَوْقَ عِبَادِهِ وَهُوَ
الْحَكِيمُ الْخَبِيرُ

19. Say (O Muhammad): “What thing is greatest in testimony. Say: “Allah is witness^{*11} between me and you. And this Quran has been revealed to me, that I may warn you thereby, and whomsoever it may reach. Do you indeed testify that there are other gods with Allah.”^{*12} Say: “I bear no (such) witness.”^{*13} Say: “He is the only One God. And truly I am free of that which you associate (with Him).”

قُلْ أَيُّ شَيْءٍ أَكْبَرُ شَهَادَةً قُلْ
اللَّهُ شَهِيدٌ بَيْنِي وَبَيْنَكُمْ وَأُوحِيَ
إِلَيَّ هَذَا الْقُرْآنُ لِأُنذِرَكُمْ بِهِ
وَمَنْ بَلَغَ أَتَيْنَكُمْ لَتَشْهَدُونَ
أَنَّ مَعَ اللَّهِ إِلَهًا أُخْرَىٰ قُلْ
لَا أَشْهَدُ قُلْ إِنَّمَا هُوَ إِلَهُهُ
وَاحِدٌ وَإِنِّي بَرِيءٌ مِمَّا تُشْرِكُونَ

*11 That is, Allah is a witness that I have been appointed a Messenger by Him and whatever I say is from Him.

*12 Mere guess-work or speculation does not suffice for testifying to anything: none can testify to a thing with certainty without the necessary knowledge about it. The question implies: Do you really have the knowledge that there is any other Sovereign with authority than Allah, Who is worthy of service and worship?

*13 That is, you may, if you so like, give false testimony without any knowledge, but, as for me, I cannot give such a testimony.

20. Those to whom We have given the Book, they recognize this (Quran) as they recognize their sons.*14

Those who have lost their own selves are then those who do not believe.

الَّذِينَ ءَاتَيْنَاهُمُ الْكِتَابَ
يَعْرِفُونَهُ كَمَا يَعْرِفُونَ
أَبْنَاءَهُمُ الَّذِينَ خَسِرُوا أَنفُسَهُمْ
فَهُمْ لَا يُؤْمِنُونَ

*14 It means that those who possess the knowledge of revealed Books, know it for certain that there is only One God, Who has no partner in His Godhead. Therefore they can discern the right creed about Allah from among many different kinds of other creeds' and theories about Godhead, just as any person can identify his own child from among many thousands of other children.

21. And who does more wrong than he who invents against Allah*15 a lie,

وَمَنْ أَظْلَمُ مِمَّنِ افْتَرَىٰ عَلَى اللَّهِ كَذِبًا أَوْ كَذَّبَ بِعَايَاتِهِ إِنَّهُ لَا

or denies His signs.*16
Indeed, the wrongdoers will not succeed.

يُفْلِحُ الظَّالِمُونَ

*15 “Who invents against Allah a lie” is the claim that there are many other partners with Allah in His Godhead who have divine attributes and powers and are thus worthy of worship. It is also false to allege that Allah Himself has made such and such His special courtiers and has enjoined (or at least approved) that divine attributes should be ascribed to them and that they should be treated with reverence, like Allah.

*16 “His signs” are all those signs that point to the fact that there is only One God in the universe and that all others are His servants. These signs are spread all over the universe. They are found in the person of man himself and in the character and the great achievements of the prophets and in the revealed Books. That is why the one, who, in the presence of all these “signs” ascribes divine attributes to others and considers them worthy of divine rights, is in fact guilty of gross iniquity. It is indeed a great injustice that one should ascribe such divine attributes to others without any evidence, knowledge, observation and experience merely on the basis of guess work or the traditions of the forefathers. As a result of this false creed, he does injustice to truth, to reality, to his own self and to everything and everyone he deals with in this universe.

22. And on the day when We shall gather them all together, then We shall say

وَيَوْمَ نَحْشُرُهُمْ جَمِيعًا ثُمَّ نَقُولُ to those who associated others (with Allah): “Where are your partners, whom you used to claim.”

لِلَّذِينَ أَشْرَكُوا أَيْنَ شُرَكَائِكُمْ
الَّذِينَ كُنْتُمْ تَزْعُمُونَ ﴿٢٢﴾

23. Then there will be no excuses for them except that they will say: “By Allah, our Lord, we were not those who associated (with You).”

ثُمَّ لَمْ تَكُنْ فِتْنَتُهُمْ إِلَّا أَنْ قَالُوا وَاللَّهِ رَبِّنَا مَا كُنَّا مُشْرِكِينَ ﴿٢٣﴾

24. See how they will lie against themselves, and lost from them will be what they used to invent.

أَنْظِرْ كَيْفَ كَذَبُوا عَلَىٰ أَنْفُسِهِمْ
وَضَلَّ عَنْهُمْ مَا كَانُوا يَفْتَرُونَ ﴿٢٤﴾

25. And among them are those who listen to you, and We have laid over their hearts coverings, lest they should understand it, and in their ears a deafness.*¹⁷ And if they were to see every sign, they will not believe in it, to the point that, when they come to you, they dispute with you, those who disbelieve say: “This is nothing but tales of the ancients.”*¹⁸

وَمِنْهُمْ مَّنْ يَسْتَمِعُ إِلَيْكَ
وَجَعَلْنَا عَلَىٰ قُلُوبِهِمْ أَكِنَّةً أَنْ
يَفْقَهُوهُ وَفِي آذَانِهِمْ وَقْرًا وَإِنْ
يَرَوْا كُلَّ آيَةٍ لَا يُؤْمِنُوا بِهَا
حَتَّىٰ إِذَا جَاءُوكَ يُجَادِلُونَكَ
يَقُولُ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا إِنْ هَذَا إِلَّا
أَسْطِيرُ الْأَوَّلِينَ ﴿٢٥﴾

17 Here Allah has ascribed to Himself the cause of the defects produced in their faculties of understanding, hearing and seeing, for everything that takes place in the world under the natural law does, in fact, take place by the command of Allah because He is the author of that law. Therefore the resulting effects of the working of that law, in fact, take place by the will and order of Allah. The obdurate disbelievers do not understand, do not hear and do not see the truth, even though they seem to listen to the Message of the Messenger, because their obduracy, their prejudice and their unwillingness have, according to the law of nature, dulled their faculties. The law is that if one is bent upon obduracy and does not adopt the attitude of a righteous person, all the doors of his heart automatically get locked against every kind of truth that goes against his desires. When this natural process is described in the human language, it will be said, "The doors of the heart of such and such a person are locked." But God, without Whose command and leave nothing whatsoever can happen, will describe the same like this, "We have locked the doors of the heart of such and such a person." This is because a human being will describe the thing as it seems to happen, whereas Allah states the true nature of the happening.

18 This is the excuse that the foolish people put forward for rejecting the message. They say, "There is nothing new in the message towards which the Messenger is inviting us. This is the same old message that we have been hearing before." According to these foolish people, in order to be true, a message must also be new because according to them that which is old cannot be true. Whereas the fact is that the message has always been one and the same and will ever remain so. The Messengers of Allah, who had been coming from the earliest times for the guidance of mankind, have always been communicating the same message; likewise, the Prophet (peace be upon him) was also presenting the same old message. Of course, only those, who being devoid of divine light, cannot see the aforesaid eternal reality, might invent something new and by forging some theories present them as truth, saying, “We have a new message, which has never been given by anyone before us.”

26. And they prevent (others) from it, and they (themselves) keep away from it. And they do not destroy except themselves, and they perceive (it) not.

وَهُمْ يَنْهَوْنَ عَنْهُ وَيَنْعَوْنَ
عَنْهُ وَإِنْ يُهْلِكُونَ إِلَّا أَنْفُسَهُمْ
وَمَا يَشْعُرُونَ ﴿٣٦﴾

27. And if you could see when they shall be made to stand by the Fire, they will say: “Would that we could be sent back, and we would not deny the revelations of our Lord, and we would be among the believers.”

وَلَوْ تَرَىٰ إِذْ وَقَفُوا عَلَى النَّارِ
فَقَالُوا يَلَيْتَنَا نُرَدُّ وَلَا نَكْذِبُ
بِعَايَةِ رَبِّنَا وَنَكُونُ مِنَ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ ﴿٣٧﴾

28. Nay but, it has become manifest to them that which

بَلْ بَدَا لَهُمْ مَا كَانُوا يُخْفُونَ مِنْ

they had been concealing before.^{*19} And if they were sent back, they would certainly revert to that which they were forbidden from, and indeed they are liars.

قَبْلُ وَلَوْ رُدُّوا لَعَادُوا لِمَا نُهُوا
عَنْهُ وَإِنَّهُمْ لَكَاذِبُونَ ﴿٢٨﴾

19 Their desire, that, if they could return to this world again, they would believe in the message, will not be the outcome of any right thinking and reasoning or any real change of their hearts and minds, but will be the result of witnessing the reality after which even the most obdurate disbeliever dare not deny it.

29. And they say: “There is none but our life of the world, and we shall not be raised (again).”

وَقَالُوا إِن هِيَ إِلَّا حَيَاتُنَا
الدُّنْيَا وَمَا نَحْنُ بِمَبْعُوثِينَ ﴿٢٩﴾

30. And if you could see when they will be made to stand before their Lord. He will say: “Is not this the truth.” They will say: “Yes, by our Lord.” He will say: “So taste the punishment because you used to disbelieve.”

وَلَوْ تَرَىٰ إِذْ وَقَفُوا عَلَىٰ رَبِّهِمْ
قَالَ أَلَيْسَ هَذَا بِالْحَقِّ قَالُوا
بَلَىٰ وَرَبِّنَا قَالَ فَذُوقُوا الْعَذَابَ
بِمَا كُنْتُمْ تَكْفُرُونَ ﴿٣٠﴾

31. They indeed are losers who deny the meeting with Allah, until when the Hour comes

قَدْ خَسِرَ الَّذِينَ كَذَّبُوا بِلِقَاءِ اللَّهِ حَتَّىٰ إِذَا جَاءَهُمُ السَّاعَةُ بَغْتَةً upon them suddenly, they will say: "Alas for us, over what we neglected about it." And they will bear their burdens on their backs. Is not evil what they bear.

قَالُوا يَحْسَرْتَنَا عَلَىٰ مَا فَرَّطْنَا
فِيهَا وَهُمْ يَحْمِلُونَ أَوْزَارَهُمْ عَلَىٰ
ظُهُورِهِمْ ۗ أَلَا سَاءَ مَا يَزِرُونَ

32. And the life of this world is nothing but play and amusement.^{*20} And the abode of the Hereafter is better for those who fear (Allah). Will you not then understand.

وَمَا الْحَيَاةُ الدُّنْيَا إِلَّا لَعِبٌ
وَلَهُمْ ۗ وَلِلْآخِرَةِ خَيْرٌ
لِّلَّذِينَ يَتَّقُونَ ۗ أَفَلَا تَعْقِلُونَ

20 This does not mean that the life in this world is not real and earnest and has been created merely for sport and pastime without any serious purpose. What it means is that compared with the everlasting life in the Hereafter, the short transitory life in this world is like sport and pastime, which are diversions from serious work, to which one has to return after recreation. Moreover, this worldly life has been likened to sport and pastime, because here are many things of deceptive appearances that are liable to involve in misunderstanding those people, who lack common sense and vision, and help them assume false positions so as to make life mere sport and pastime. For instance, the role of a ruler in this worldly life is, in fact, not any different from that of an actor who plays the role of a king on the stage, wears a crown and gives commands which are obeyed like those of a real king; whereas, in fact, he has no powers of a real king and is deposed, imprisoned and killed by the order of the director. Likewise, many other such dramas are being performed on the stage of this world day and night all around us. There is the court of a saint or a goddess, where the needs are being fulfilled, whereas, in fact, that court has no such power. Then there is another actor who performs the feats of divining the unseen and the future, whereas, in fact, none possesses such knowledge. Still another poses to be the nourisher of others, when in fact, he himself stands in need of obtaining provisions from others. There is still another who poses as if he has the power of bestowing honor and benefit or of inflicting disgrace and loss and behaves arrogantly as if he were the absolute master of all around him. In fact, he himself is utterly powerless and helpless, for a little turn of fortune can dethrone him from the high pedestal of greatness to the lowest depths of disgrace. So much so that he might even be at the feet of those very people, over whom he was ruling as a despot. All these dramas that are being played on the stage of life are abruptly brought to an end by death. Then everyone will cross over to the other world and see for himself everything in its true color. Then, all the misunderstandings of the life of this world shall be removed and everyone will be shown the real worth of what he had earned for the life-after-death.

33. Indeed, We know that it grieves you what they say.

قَدْ نَعْلَمُ إِنَّهُ لَيَحْزُنُكَ الَّذِي

Though indeed, they do not deny you, but the wrong doers repudiate the revelations of Allah.*21

يَقُولُونَ فَإِنَّهُمْ لَا يُكَذِّبُونَكَ
وَلَكِنَّ الظَّالِمِينَ بِآيَاتِ اللَّهِ

تَجْحَدُونَ

*21 The fact is that all the people of his tribe regarded the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) truthful and honest up to the time he had not begun to recite the revelations of Allah before them. They falsified him only when he began to deliver to them the message of Allah. Even then, there was none who dared charge Muhammad (peace be upon him), the man, with falsehood; nay, even his bitterest enemies never accused him of having ever told a lie concerning any worldly matter. It was Muhammad, the Prophet (peace be upon him), whom they charged with falsehood. So much so that even Abu Jahl, who was the bitterest of all his enemies, never accused him of falsehood. According to a tradition related by Ali (may Allah be pleased with him), Abu Jahl himself declared during a conversation with the Prophet (peace be upon him), "We do not call you a liar, but regard as false what you are presenting." On the occasion of the battle of Badr, Akhnas bin Shariq asked Abu Jahl in private, "There is no third person here besides the two of us, tell me the truth whether you regard Muhammad as a truthful man or as a liar." He answered, "By God, Muhammad is a truthful person and has never told a lie in his life, but if Bani Qusayy, who have already the privilege of being the bearers of the national flag and the providers of water to the pilgrims and the keepers of the keys of the Kabah, should also be acknowledged as the recipients of prophethood, what would then be left for the rest of the Quraish?" For this very reason Allah is comforting His Prophet (peace be upon him), saying, "It is not you whom they are rejecting as an impostor but it is Our message which they are rejecting; when We are forbearing everything and giving them respite after respite, why should you show any kind of anxiety."

34. And indeed, messengers have been denied before you, so they were patient over that which they were denied, and they were harmed until Our help reached them. And none can alter the words (decrees) of Allah.*22 And surely there has reached you some news about the messengers (before you).

وَلَقَدْ كُذِّبَتْ رُسُلٌ مِّن قَبْلِكَ
فَصَبَرُوا عَلَىٰ مَا كُذِّبُوا وَأُوذُوا
حَتَّىٰ أَتَاهُمْ نَصْرُنَا وَلَا مُبَدِّلَ
لِكَلِمَاتِ اللَّهِ ۗ وَلَقَدْ جَاءَكَ مِنْ
نَّبِيِّ الْأُمْرُسَلِينَ

*22 The "words" referred to here is the law of Allah concerning the conflict between the right and the wrong. According to this law, it is essential that the righteous should be tried for a long period to stand their test in order to prove their fortitude, their righteousness, their spirit of sacrifice and their fidelity, their firm belief in their faith and their complete trust in Allah. For this they must pass through afflictions and hardships in order to develop those high moral qualities which can be learned only by going through this hard and tough course, for with these weapons alone, they are required to win the battle against falsehood. When, according to this law, they prove their competence, then will Allah's help come at the right moment to support them and this help cannot be brought about before its time by anyone.

35. And if their aversion is hard on you, then if you can, so seek a tunnel into the earth, or a ladder into the sky, so that you may bring them a sign.*²³ And if Allah had so willed, He could have gathered them all to the guidance. So be not you among those who are ignorant.*²⁴

وَإِنْ كَانَ كَبُرَ عَلَيْكَ إِعْرَاضُهُمْ
فَإِنْ أَسْتَطَعْتَ أَنْ تَبْتَغِيَ نَفَقًا
فِي الْأَرْضِ أَوْ سُلَّمًا فِي السَّمَاءِ
فَتَأْتِيَهُمْ بِآيَةٍ ۚ وَلَوْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ
لَجَمَعَهُمْ عَلَى الْهُدَىٰ ۚ فَلَا
تَكُونَنَّ مِنَ الْجَاهِلِينَ

23 Whenever the Prophet (peace be upon him) felt that his people did not accept the message in spite of his continuous preaching, he cherished the desire that Allah might send such a clear sign that they should have no alternative left but to accept his message. In this verse Allah has admonished His Messenger (peace be upon him) against cherishing any such desire, so as to say, “Do not show impatience at their obduracy, but go on performing your mission persistently in the way and order We are laying down for it. If this mission had to be performed by means of miracles, could We not Ourselves have done so? But We know that this method is not suitable for bringing about that intellectual and moral revolution and for the establishment of that righteous society for which you have been appointed a Messenger. If, however, you cannot endure the heart burning caused by their indifference and rejection and if you imagine that a tangible sign, that might appeal to them, is required to break this inert state of their minds, then you should yourself try to bring about such a sign. You may, if you can, go deep down into the bowels of the earth or ascend up to the heavens for this purpose, but you should not expect from Us that We would fulfill this desire of yours, for there is no room for it in Our scheme.”

24 This is to impress that it is not the purpose of Allah that all human beings should be forced to accept the guidance somehow or other. Had it been so, He would have created them in such a way that they would have been righteous by birth like angels. Then there would not have been a need of sending the Prophets and the Books. And of making the believers enter into a conflict with the disbelievers for the gradual establishment of the way of Allah. But Allah does not desire this. On the contrary, He intends that the truth should be presented to the people in a rational way so that those, who are convinced of it, may adopt it without any coercion, and then mold their characters in accordance with it to prove their moral superiority over the disbelievers. In this way they would go on attracting the best among the people towards it till they succeeded in establishing the way by virtue of their high ideals, best principles of life, pure characters and strong arguments and with resolute struggle with the disbelievers. Then Allah assures them of the guidance and help they need and deserve at any stage. But if one wishes that, instead of this natural process, Allah should adopt some supernatural method and eradicate false ideas from the minds of the people and bring in pure ones instead and establish the righteous civilization in place of the evil ones, he should know that Allah will not do this, for this will be against the wisdom of the scheme of His creation of man. He has created man as a responsible being, granted him powers to exploit the things of the world and given him the freedom of action, both good and evil, and granted him a definite term for the preparation of the test and fixed the time for the declaration of the result of the test to punish or reward him according to his efforts.

36. Only they will respond who listen. And the dead^{*25} whom Allah will raise, then to Him they will be returned.

﴿ إِنَّمَا يَسْتَجِيبُ الَّذِينَ يَسْمَعُونَ وَالْمَوْتَىٰ يَبْعَثُهُمُ اللَّهُ ثُمَّ إِلَيْهِ يُرْجَعُونَ ﴾

25 “They will respond who listen” are the people whose conscience is alive, who try to judge rationally between right and wrong, and who do not deliberately and obdurately lock the doors of their hearts. “And the dead” are the people who blindly follow a way and are not ready to leave it and follow any other way even though that may manifestly be the right way.

37. And they say: “Why

وَقَالُوا لَوْلَا نُزِّلَ عَلَيْهِ آيَةٌ مِّن is not a sign sent down to him from his Lord.” Say: “Indeed, Allah is Able upon sending down a sign, but most of them do not know.”*26

رَبِّهِ قُلْ إِنْ أَلَّهَ قَادِرٌ عَلَىٰ
أَنْ يُنَزِّلَ آيَةً وَلَكِنَّ أَكْثَرَهُمْ
لَا يَعْلَمُونَ ﴿٣٧﴾

*26 “Sign” means a tangible miracle. Allah says that the reason why he is not showing a sign is not that He is unable to do so but for another reason whose wisdom they do not understand. (See E.N. 6).

38. And there is not a creature on the earth, nor a bird flying on its two wings, but they are communities like you. We have not neglected in the Book (of decrees) a thing. Then unto their Lord they shall be gathered.

وَمَا مِنْ دَابَّةٍ فِي الْأَرْضِ وَلَا
طَيْرٍ يَطِيرُ بِجَنَاحَيْهِ إِلَّا أُمَّمٌ
أَمْثَالُكُمْ مَا فَرَطْنَا فِي الْكِتَابِ
مِنْ شَيْءٍ ثُمَّ إِلَىٰ رَبِّهِمْ
يُحْشَرُونَ ﴿٣٨﴾

39. And those who deny Our revelations are deaf and dumb in darkness.*27 Whomsoever Allah wills, He sends him astray. And whomsoever He wills, He sets him on the straight path.*28

وَالَّذِينَ كَذَّبُوا بِآيَاتِنَا صُمُّوا
وَبُكْمٌ فِي الظُّلُمَاتِ مَنْ يَشَأِ اللَّهُ
يُضِلَّهُ وَمَنْ يَشَأِ يُجْعَلُهُ عَلَىٰ
صِرَاطٍ مُسْتَقِيمٍ ﴿٣٩﴾

*27 That is, if you are really serious in your demand of seeing a sign in order to judge whether the message of this Prophet (peace be upon him) is true or false, you should see and ponder over the innumerable signs that are found in abundance all around you. For instance, if you consider animal life, you will see that the structure of the bodies of each species of birds and beasts suits its functions immensely well; the qualities and characteristics that have been ingrained in its nature help to fulfill all its needs. The provision of its nourishment has been arranged in a wonderful way. And the course of its life has been so predetermined that it cannot transgress its limits in any way whatsoever. Allah also sees that each and every animal, nay, even the smallest insect, is being looked after, protected and guided, wherever it be, for the performance of the functions predestined for it. In short, you will find that its structure suits it well; it has been given inherent powers that help provide its needs: excellent provisions have been made for its food. The process of its birth, procreation and death has been going on according to a regulated fixed scheme. If you give a careful consideration to this sign alone, you will realize that the teachings of this Prophet (peace be upon him) about the Oneness of God and His attributes and the way of life based on these to which he invites you are absolutely true. Yet you neither try to see with open eyes these signs nor listen to the message this Prophet (peace be upon him) is conveying to you. As a result, you have been involved in ignorance and, therefore, desire to see some wonderful miracle for mere pastime.

28 This is how Allah lets them go astray: (1) He holds back the opportunity for observing His signs from the one who chooses to remain in ignorance; (2) He keeps hidden the pointers to the reality from the one who is a victim of prejudices, even though he should see His signs, and lets him remain involved in misunderstandings and move farther and farther away from the reality. On the contrary, He guides the seeker after truth to the right way by affording him the opportunity to make use of his knowledge for the purpose of discovering the reality, and showing him the signs guiding towards it. We daily notice instances of these types. There are millions of people before whose eyes countless signs are spread in their own persons and in the universe, but they see them like animals and do not learn any lessons from them. Then there are the physicists, chemists, zoologists, botanists, biologists, geologists, astronomers, physiologist, anatomists, historians, archaeologists, social scientists, etc. who observe such signs as may enlighten the minds and the hearts with faith, but they seem to see no sign to lead them to the reality, just because they begin their study with prejudiced minds, merely for the sake of material gains. Not only this, but every sign leads them to atheism, disbelief, materialism and nature worship. In contrast to them, there are those, who observe the wonders of the universe and the phenomena of nature with open eyes and open hearts, and find the signs of God all round them: So much so that they can see His sign in each and every green leaf.

40. Say: "Have you considered, if there came upon you the punishment of Allah, or there came upon you the Hour, would you call upon other than Allah, if you are truthful.

قُلْ أَرَأَيْتَكُمْ إِنْ أَتَاكُمْ عَذَابٌ

اللَّهُ أَوْ أَتَّكُمُ السَّاعَةَ أُغَيِّرَ اللَّهُ
تَدْعُونَ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ صَادِقِينَ ﴿٤١﴾

41. Nay but, it is Him you call, so He would remove that for which you called unto Him, if He wills, and you forget what you have associated (with Him).^{*29}

بَلْ إِيَّاهُ تَدْعُونَ فَيَكْشِفُ مَا
تَدْعُونَ إِلَيْهِ إِنْ شَاءَ وَتَنْسَوْنَ
مَا تَشْرِكُونَ ﴿٤١﴾

29 In answer to the demand of the disbelievers for a sign, they were told that there was not one sign, but innumerable signs scattered all around them and their attention has been drawn in Ayat 38 to study the mystery of the life of any bird or beast and they would find sign of God. Now in Ayats 40-42, they have been directed to another sign that they can find in their own selves. When some affliction befalls a man or death confronts him with all its dreads, then he sees no refuge in any other than Allah. On such occasions even the most confirmed polytheists forget their gods and invoke God's help. Likewise, the most obdurate atheists, in their utter helplessness, involuntary pray to God for rescue, this sign-man's own state of mind is being presented here as a pointer to the reality, for this is a clear proof of the existence of One God. And of the urge of God worship that has been embedded deep in the heart of every human being. Though it might have been kept suppressed by negligence and ignorance, sometimes it comes to the surface under the stimulus of some misfortune. Ikrimah, son of Abu Jahl, who was an arch enemy of Islam, was led towards Islam by witnessing such a sign. When the Prophet (peace be upon him) conquered Makkah, Ikrimah fled to Jaddah and sailed for Abyssinia. During the voyage, there came a furious storm which threatened to sink the boat. At first the passengers began to invoke their gods and goddesses for help. But when the storm became so violent that they feared that the boat was going to sink, they all cried out, “This is not the time to call anyone except Allah, because He alone can save us.” This opened the eyes of Ikrimah and the locked doors of his heart: “If there is none here except Allah to help us, how can there be any to help us in any other place? This is what Muhammad (peace be upon him) has been teaching us for the last twenty years any we have been fighting it out with him.” That was the most decisive moment in the life of Ikrimah. He made a solemn pledge with Allah to this effect: “If I escape from this storm, I will directly go to Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) to become a follower of his.” Allah rescued him from that storm and he fulfilled his pledge. He not only became a Muslim, but spent the rest of his life in the service of Islam by performing jihad.

42. And We did indeed send (messengers) to nations before you, then We seized them with tribulation and adversity, that they might humble themselves.

وَلَقَدْ أَرْسَلْنَا إِلَىٰ أُمَمٍ مِّن قَبْلِكَ
فَأَخَذْنَاهُمْ بِالْبَأْسَاءِ وَالضَّرَّاءِ
لَعَلَّهُمْ يَتَضَرَّعُونَ

43. Then why did they not humble themselves when Our torment reached them. But their hearts became hardened, and the devil made fair seeming to them that which they used to do.

فَلَوْلَا إِذْ جَاءَهُمْ بَأْسُنَا تَضَرَّعُوا
وَلَكِنْ قَسَتْ قُلُوبُهُمْ وَزَيَّنَ لَهُمُ
الشَّيْطَانُ مَا كَانُوا
يَعْمَلُونَ ﴿٤٣﴾

44. So when they forgot what they had been reminded of, We opened to them the gates of all things. Until, when they rejoiced in that what they were given, We seized them suddenly, then they were plunged in despair.

فَلَمَّا نَسُوا مَا ذُكِّرُوا بِهِ
فَتَحْنَا عَلَيْهِمُ أَبْوَابَ كُلِّ
شَيْءٍ حَتَّى إِذَا فَرِحُوا بِمَا
أُوتُوا أَخَذْنَاهُمْ بَغْتَةً فَإِذَا هُمْ
مُبْلِسُونَ ﴿٤٤﴾

45. So the roots of the people who did wrong were cut off. And all the praises be to Allah, the Lord of the worlds.

فَقَطَّعَ دَابِرُ الْقَوْمِ الَّذِينَ ظَلَمُوا
وَالْحَمْدُ لِلَّهِ رَبِّ الْعَالَمِينَ ﴿٤٥﴾

46. Say: "Have you considered, if Allah should take away your hearing and your sight and set a seal upon your hearts, ^{*30} who is a god other than Allah who could bring them (back) to you." Behold, how We put forth

قُلْ أَرَأَيْتُمْ إِنْ أَخَذَ اللَّهُ سَمْعَكُمْ
وَأَبْصَارَكُمْ وَخَتَمَ عَلَى قُلُوبِكُمْ
مَنْ إِلَهُ غَيْرُ اللَّهِ يَأْتِيكُمْ بِهِ
أَنْظُرْ كَيْفَ نُصَرِّفُ الْآيَاتِ

in diverse forms the revelations, yet still they turn away.

ثُمَّ هُمْ يَصْدِفُونَ ﴿٤٦﴾

30 “And set a seal upon your hearts” means, deprive you of the powers of thinking and understanding.

47. Say: “Have you considered, if the punishment of Allah should come upon you suddenly or openly, will any be destroyed except wrongdoing people.”

قُلْ أَرَأَيْتَكُمْ إِنْ أَتَاكُمْ عَذَابُ اللَّهِ بَغْتَةً أَوْ جَهْرَةً هَلْ يُهْلِكُ إِلَّا الْقَوْمَ الظَّالِمُونَ ﴿٤٧﴾

48. And We do not send the messengers except as bearers of glad tidings, and warners. So whoever believes and reforms, there shall be no fear upon them, neither shall they grieve.

وَمَا نُرْسِلُ الْمُرْسَلِينَ إِلَّا مُبَشِّرِينَ وَمُنذِرِينَ فَمَنْ ءَامَنَ وَأَصْلَحَ فَلَا خَوْفٌ عَلَيْهِمْ وَلَا هُمْ يَحْزَنُونَ ﴿٤٨﴾

49. And those who deny Our revelations, the punishment will touch them for that they used to disobey.

وَالَّذِينَ كَذَّبُوا بِآيَاتِنَا يَمَسُّهُمُ الْعَذَابُ بِمَا كَانُوا يَفْسُقُونَ ﴿٤٩﴾

50. Say (O Muhammad): “I do not say to you that with me are the treasures of Allah, nor that

قُلْ لَا أَقُولُ لَكُمْ عِنْدِي خَزَائِنُ اللَّهِ وَلَا أَعْلَمُ الْغَيْبَ وَلَا أَقُولُ

I know the Unseen, nor that I say to you that I am an angel. I do not follow except that which is revealed to me.”^{*31} Say: “Are equal the blind and the seer.”^{*32} Do you not then reflect.”

لَكُمْ إِنِّي مَلَكٌ إِنِ اتَّبَعُ إِلَّا مَا
يُوحَىٰ إِلَىٰ قُلْ هَلْ يَسْتَوِي
الْأَعْمَىٰ وَالْبَصِيرُ أَفَلَا
تَتَفَكَّرُونَ

31 This verse removes the silly notions about prophethood and answers the absurd objections raised against the claim of prophethood by Muhammad (peace be upon him). The foolish people have always had the silly notion that a Prophet of Allah must be supernatural and capable of performing wonderful miracles. For instance, they expected that a whole mountain should turn into a mass of gold at his bidding; that the earth should throw out treasures by his orders; that he should be able to tell the people all about their past and future; that he should be able to locate a lost thing and foretell whether a sick person will get well or die and whether a pregnant woman will give birth to a male or a female. They also believed that such a person should be above the common human limitations. They could not conceive anyone to be a prophet, if he suffered from hunger or thirst and needed sleep, or, if he had wife and children and went to the bazaar to buy and sell the necessities of life, or, if he was sometimes forced to borrow money or was involved in poverty and indigence.

When Muhammad (peace be upon him) put forward the claim that he was a Messenger of Allah, his contemporaries wanted to test his claim with the touch-stone of such silly notions. They would ask him questions about the unseen things and demand supernatural miracles from him. They would also raise the objection that he was merely a common man, who needed food and drank water like them; who had wife and children and who moved about in the bazaars. In answer to these things, Allah told His Prophet (peace be upon him) to inform them that he never claimed to be supernatural; his only claim was that he was following the revelations he received from Allah and that he should be judged by that standard only.

32 The question is meant to bring home to them this fact: “I have seen with my own eyes and experienced directly the realities I am presenting to you, and I have gained their accurate knowledge through revelation; therefore my evidence is that of an eye witness. On the contrary, you are blind with regard to those realities: all your notions concerning them are based on guess-work and speculation or on the blind following of others. Therefore, the difference between you and me is the same as of the man who is able to see and the one who is blind. That is what gives me superiority over you and not that I possess the treasures of God or have the knowledge of the unseen or that I am free from the common human limitations.

51. And warn by this (Quran) those who fear that they will be gathered before their Lord. For them, besides Him, there is no protector,

وَأَنْذِرْ بِهِ الَّذِينَ يَخَافُونَ أَنْ يُحْشَرُوا إِلَىٰ رَبِّهِمْ لَيْسَ لَهُمْ مِنْ دُونِهِ وَاٰلِيٌّ وَلَا شَفِيعٌ لَّهُمْ

nor an intercessor, that they may fear (Allah).^{*33}

يَتَّقُونَ
٥١

33 That is, you should pay special attention only to those who believe that one Day they shall have to go before Allah to render an account of their deeds and who do not cherish any such false hopes that somebody's intercession and help will save them. It is because this admonition can produce good effect only on such people and not on those who are so absorbed in the enjoyment of the pleasures of this world that they never think of their death or of going before Allah. Likewise, this admonition will fall flat on those who are making merry in this world, deluding themselves into believing that no harm will come to them in the Hereafter because of their spiritual relation with such and such a saint or because such and such a holy person will intercede with Allah in their behalf or because such a one has already made atonement for them. Obviously, no admonition can be beneficial to such people.

52. And do not send away those who call upon their Lord in the morning and the evening, seeking His pleasure.^{*34} Not upon you is of their account in anything, nor is of your account upon them in anything. So were you to send them away, you would then become of the wrongdoers.^{*35}

وَلَا تَطْرُدِ الَّذِينَ يَدْعُونَ رَبَّهُمْ
بِالْغَدْوَةِ وَالْعِشِيِّ يُرِيدُونَ
وَجْهَهُ مَا عَلَيْكَ مِنْ حِسَابِهِمْ
مِنْ شَيْءٍ وَمَا مِنْ حِسَابِكَ عَلَيْهِمْ
مِنْ شَيْءٍ فَتَطْرُدَهُمْ فَتَكُونَ مِنَ
الظَّالِمِينَ
٥٢

34 In this passage Allah has answered one of the objections that the big chiefs of the Quraish used to raise in regard to the followers of the Prophet (peace be upon him). They would say that none but the lowest stratum of society, consisting of slaves, menials and the like, had accepted Islam. They would taunt him of having such companions as Bilal, Ammar, Suhaib, Khabbab, etc. and ask in a jeering way, “Are these the only (honorable) people from amongst us, upon whom Allah has showered His blessings?” They did not rest content with making fun of their poor condition, but also passed stinging remarks about their past shortcomings, saying: “Just have a look at the past history of such and such people, who are today forming the pious group of the believers.” Allah has advised Prophet (peace be upon him) not to be disheartened by their unkind remarks.

35 That is, if they had done something wrong in the past, they themselves shall be accountable for it and not you, for everyone shall get the reward of the good or evil one has done. Therefore, no good deed of yours will be put to their credit, nor will you be burdened with any evil deed of theirs. They come to you merely as seekers after truth and it will be injustice to look down upon them and drive them away.

53. And thus have We tried some of them with others, ^{*36} that they might say: “Are these the ones upon whom Allah has وَكَذَلِكَ فَتَنَّا بَعْضَهُمْ

بِبَعْضٍ لِيَقُولُوا أَهَؤُلَاءِ مِنْ
اللَّهِ عَلَيْهِمْ مِنْ بَيْنِنَا أَلَيْسَ اللَّهُ bestowed favor among us.”

Is Allah not best Aware of those who are grateful.

بِأَعْلَمَ بِالشَّكِرِينَ ﴿٥٣﴾

36 That is, by bestowing the blessing of Islam at the outset on the poor and indigent and those who held a low position in society, We have involved the upper rich and proud class in trial.

54. And when those who believe in Our revelations come to you, say: “Peace be on you. Your Lord has decreed upon Himself mercy, that any of you who does evil in ignorance then repents thereafter, and corrects himself, then surely, He is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.”^{*37}

وَإِذَا جَاءَكَ الَّذِينَ يُؤْمِنُونَ
بِآيَاتِنَا فَقُلْ سَلَامٌ عَلَيْكُمْ كَتَبَ
رَبُّكُمْ عَلَىٰ نَفْسِهِ الرَّحْمَةَ أَنَّهُ
مَنْ عَمِلَ مِنْكُمْ سُوءًا بِجَهْلَةٍ ثُمَّ
تَابَ مِنْ بَعْدِهِ وَأَصْلَحَ فَأَنَّهُ
غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ ﴿٥٤﴾

37 Allah has told his Messenger (peace be upon him) to console those of his followers who had committed heinous sins during the days of ignorance by inspiring them with the assurance that He forgives and treats leniently those who repent and mend their ways and, therefore, the taunts of the enemies of Islam need not worry them about what they had done in the past.

55. And thus do We explain in detail the revelations, and (thus) the way of the وَكَذَلِكَ نُفَصِّلُ الْآيَاتِ

criminals may become manifest.*38

وَلِتَسْتَبِينَ سَبِيلُ الْمُجْرِمِينَ

*38 In order to understand the significance of Ayat 55, we should keep in view Ayat 37 in which the disbelievers asked, “Why has no sign been sent down to this Prophet (peace be upon him) from his Lord.” In the subsequent passage (Ayats 38-54), several manifest signs have been cited to show that there is no lack of signs but the disbelievers do not want to see them. Then in Ayat 55 such people have been warned, as if to say, “In this way, We make Our signs clear, plain and manifest so that those, who persist in their disbelief in spite of those signs, should prove themselves to be guilty ones. For they choose the way of deviation deliberately, not because there is a lack of signs to show the right way but because they do not want to see the signs.”

56. Say (O Muhammad):
“Indeed, I have been forbidden that I worship those whom you call upon besides Allah.” Say: “I will not follow your vain desires, for indeed I would go astray then, and I would not be of those rightly guided.”

قُلْ إِنِّي نُهَيْتُ أَنْ أَعْبُدَ الَّذِينَ
تَدْعُونَ مِنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ قُلْ لَأَتَّبِعُ

57. Say (O Muhammad):
“Indeed, I am on clear evidence from my Lord, and you have denied it. I do

*39 This alludes to the demand of the opponents for the scourge of Allah with which they were being threatened. They said, “Why does a scourge not come down upon us, when we are openly denying and defying you? If you have been really sent by Allah, then anyone, who denied and insulted you, would have been swallowed by the earth or stricken dead by lightning. How is it that the Messenger of Allah and his followers are undergoing untold afflictions and sufferings, while their tormentors are enjoying their lives merrily?”

58. Say “If that I had what you are trying to hasten for, the matter would have been decided between me and you. And Allah is best aware of the wrong doers.”

قُلْ لَوْ أَنَّ عِنْدِي مَا تَسْتَعْجِلُونَ judgement. And He is the swiftest of those who take account.

أَلَا لَهُ الْحُكْمُ وَهُوَ أَسْرَعُ الْحَاسِبِينَ

63. Say (O Muhammad): “Who rescues you from the darkness of the land and the sea, you call upon Him humbly and in secret, (saying) if we are saved from this, we certainly will be among the thankful.”

قُلْ مَنْ يُنَجِّيكُمْ مِنْ ظُلُمَاتِ الْبَرِّ وَالْبَحْرِ تَدْعُونَهُ تَضَرُّعًا وَخُفْيَةً لَئِنْ أَنْجَيْنَا مِنْ هَذِهِ لَنَكُونَنَّ مِنَ الشَّاكِرِينَ

64. Say: “Allah rescues you from this and from all (other) distresses, then you associate others (with Him).”^{*41}

قُلِ اللَّهُ يُنَجِّيكُمْ مِنْهَا وَمِنْ كُلِّ كَرْبٍ ثُمَّ أَنْتُمْ تُشْرِكُونَ

41 That is, you yourselves are a witness that Allah alone is All-Powerful: He alone has the sole authority and your prosperity and adversity entirely lie in His power and He alone is the maker of your destinies. That is why you turn to Him in your affliction, when you find that no other means of rescue has been left for you. In the face of this clear sign, you have set up, without any reason or rhyme, others as partners in His Godhead. You live on His provisions but treat others as your providers; you get help from Him in your need, but set up others as your helpers and protectors; He rescues you from your distress, yet you regard others (besides Him) as your rescuers; it is He Whom you humbly invoke in your affliction, yet you take your offerings to others when he removes it. In short, you witness the proofs of His Godhead, day and night, yet you serve and bow down before others.

65. Say (O Muhammad):
“He has the power over that He can send upon you punishment from above you, or from beneath your feet, or to bewilder you with factions, and make you taste the violence of one another.” Behold, how We set forth in diverse forms the signs so that they might understand.*42

قُلْ هُوَ الْقَادِرُ عَلَىٰ أَنْ يَبْعَثَ
عَلَيْكُمْ عَذَابًا مِّنْ فَوْقِكُمْ أَوْ مِّن
تَحْتِ أَرْجُلِكُمْ أَوْ يَلْبِسَكُمْ شِيْعًا
وَيُذِيقَ بَعْضَكُمْ بَأْسَ بَعْضٍ ۗ أَنْظُرْ
كَيْفَ نُصَرِّفُ الْآيَاتِ لَعَلَّهُمْ
يَفْقَهُونَ

*42 It is a warning to those who had become very bold in their enmity with the truth because no scourge from Allah was in sight. They are being warned that the scourge of Allah does not take long to come. A gust of wind can destroy them all at once. A sudden shake of an under ground earthquake can sink their habitations. A spark can set on fire the magazines of enmity and involve clans, nations and countries in endless blood feuds. Therefore, if no scourge is coming on you, this should not make you so bold and neglectful as to go on treading blindly the way you are following without discerning whether it is right or wrong. Instead you should take advantage of the respite that is being given and of the signs that are being presented to you and recognize the reality and follow the right way.

66. And your people (O Muhammad) have denied it, and it is the truth. Say: "I am not a guardian over you."^{*43}

وَكَذَّبَ بِهِ قَوْمُكَ وَهُوَ الْحَقُّ
قُل لَّسْتُ عَلَيْكُمْ بِوَكِيلٍ

*43 That is, it is no part of my duty to make you see what you would not see and to make you understand what you would not understand; nor am I responsible for bringing down a scourge on you, if you would not see or understand it. The only duty that has been assigned to me is to make plain to you the distinction between truth and falsehood. Now that I have done my duty and you have rejected the truth, the evil consequences of which I have been warning you will appear in due course.

67. For every news there is a term appointed, and soon you will know.

لِكُلِّ نَبَأٍ مُّسْتَقَرٌّ وَسَوْفَ تَعْلَمُونَ

68. And when you (O Muhammad) see those who engage in vain discourse about Our revelations, withdraw from them until they enter into another topic. And if the devil causes you to forget,^{*44} then do not sit, after the remembrance, with the wrongdoing people.

وَإِذَا رَأَيْتَ الَّذِينَ يَخُوضُونَ فِي
آيَاتِنَا فَأَعْرِضْ عَنْهُمْ حَتَّى
يَخُوضُوا فِي حَدِيثٍ غَيْرِهِ وَإِمَّا
يُنْسِيَنَّكَ الشَّيْطَانُ فَلَا تَقْعُدْ
بَعْدَ الذِّكْرِى مَعَ الْقَوْمِ
الظَّالِمِينَ

44 That is, if you ever forget this instruction and keep sitting in the company of such people.

69. And it is not upon those who fear (Allah) any accountability for them (the disbelievers) of anything, but (only for) a reminder that perhaps they may fear (Him).^{*45}

وَمَا عَلَى الَّذِينَ يَتَّقُونَ مِنْ
حِسَابِهِمْ مِنْ شَيْءٍ وَلَكِنْ
ذِكْرٍ لَعَلَّهُمْ يَتَّقُونَ

45 Here very important practical instructions have been given to the pious people. Their first and foremost duty is to save themselves from any disobedience of Allah; they should not worry unnecessarily about the disobedient people, for they are not responsible for their disobedience. They should not, therefore, impose it upon themselves as an obligation that they have to convince them anyhow by argument and to refute their absurd objections. Their only duty is to present the truth before them. Then, if they do not accept it, the pious people should not waste their time and energy by entering into useless polemical disputes, discussions and argumentations with the disbelievers. Instead, they should spend their time and energy in educating and training and reforming those who are sincere seekers after the truth.

70. And leave alone those who take their religion for a play and amusement, and whom the life of the world has deluded. And وَذَرِ الَّذِينَ اتَّخَذُوا دِينَهُمْ لَعِبًا وَلَهْوًا وَغَرَّتْهُمُ الْحَيَاةُ الدُّنْيَا

remind with it (Quran) lest a soul be destroyed by what it has earned. It has besides Allah no protector, nor intercessor. And if he offers every ransom, it will not be accepted from him. Such are those who deliver themselves to ruin because of what they have earned. For them will be a drink of boiling water, and a painful punishment because they used to disbelieve.

وَذَكِّرْ بِهِ أَنْ تُبْسَلَ نَفْسٌ بِمَا كَسَبَتْ لَيْسَ لَهَا مِنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ وَلِيٌّ وَلَا شَفِيعٌ وَإِنْ تَعَدَلَ كُلَّ عَدَلٍ لَّا يُؤْخَذُ مِنْهَا أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ أُبْسِلُوا بِمَا كَسَبُوا لَهُمْ شَرَابٌ مِّنْ حَمِيمٍ وَعَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ بِمَا كَانُوا يَكْفُرُونَ ﴿٧٠﴾

71. Say (O Muhammad): “Shall we call on others besides Allah, that which neither benefits us nor harms us, and turn on our heels after when Allah has guided us, (we would then be) like one whom the devils have enticed away (to wander) in the earth bewildered, (while) he has companions calling him to guidance (saying): Come to us.” Say: “Indeed, Allah’s guidance is the guidance, and we have been

72. “And that to establish prayers, and to fear Him, and it is He to whom you shall be gathered.”

73. And it is He who has created the heavens and the earth in truth.*46 And on the Day He will say: “Be”, so it shall be. His word is the truth. And on the Day when the trumpet*47 will be blown, His will be the dominion.*48 All Knower of the unseen and the seen.*49

عَلِمُ الْغَيْبِ وَالشَّهَادَةِ وَهُوَ
الْحَكِيمُ الْخَبِيرُ

*46 It occurs at several places in the Quran that Allah has created the heavens and the earth in all truth. It has very comprehensive meanings.

(1) It means that the heavens and the earth have not been created for fun. It is not the creation of the fancy of some god, or the toy of a child to be played with for amusement and broken after satiety. In fact, this world is a very serious affair and its creation has great wisdom and a grand purpose behind it. It must, therefore, come to an end at the appointed time and then be resurrected so that the Creator may take account of all that has been done in it and ultimately build the next world on the results of that reckoning.

That this world has been created for a purpose has also been mentioned at other places in the Quran in various ways:

(a) Lord, You have not created all this in vain. (Surah Al-Imran, Ayat 91).

(b) We have not created the heavens and the earth and all that is between them for mere fun. (Surah Al-Anbiya, Ayat 16).

(c) Do you think that We have created you without any purpose and that you will never be brought back to Us? (Surah Al-Muminun, Ayat 115).

(2) The whole universe has been built on the solid foundations of the truth. Everything in it is based on just, wise and right laws and there is no room for injustice and folly and falsehood to take root and bear fruit in it. One should not, however, be misled by the partial and temporary successes of falsehood. At times, Allah may allow the worshipers of falsehood opportunity to try their best for the success of falsehood and injustice and wrong ways. This is in order to show that all their efforts shall ultimately fail and every worshiper of falsehood will see at the last reckoning that all the efforts made for the success of this unholy cause had gone utterly waste.

(3) Allah has created the universe in truth and is ruling over it by His own personal right. He wields authority here because of His personal right as its Creator. One should not, therefore, be misled by seeing others holding authority over the affairs of the world. In fact, no one has, nor can have, any right to rule here, for no one has any right whatsoever over anything in the universe.

47 It is beyond our comprehension to understand the real nature of the blowing of the Trumpet. What we learn from the Quran is that on the Day of Resurrection when the first Trumpet shall be blown by the command of Allah, everyone and everything shall perish. Then after this (Allah alone knows how long after this) the second Trumpet shall be blown; then everyone from the beginning of the creation to its end, shall be brought back to life and mustered in the Plain of Resurrection. In short, on the first blowing of the Trumpet, the present system of the universe shall be destroyed and on its second blowing the new system, different in form and with different laws, shall be created.

48 It does not mean that today sovereignty is not His. What it means is this: “On that Day the curtain, that is covering the reality today, will be lifted and it will become apparent that all those who seemed to wield authority or were supposed to wield it, had absolutely no authority, and that sovereignty entirely belongs to Allah alone, Who is the Creator of the universe.”

49 Ghaib is all that is hidden from the naked eye and cannot be seen and Shahadat is all that is visible to it.

74. And when Abraham said to his father Azar: “Do you take idols for gods.^{*50} Indeed, I see you and your people in manifest ﴿ وَإِذْ قَالَ إِبْرَاهِيمُ لِأَبِيهِ عَازَرَ error.”

وَقَوْمَكَ فِي ضَلَالٍ مُّبِينٍ ﴿٧٤﴾

50 The incident relating to Abraham (peace be upon him) is adduced in order to confirm and reinforce the view that just as Muhammad (peace be upon him) and his companions, thanks to the guidance vouchsafed by God, had denounced polytheism and had turned away from all false gods, bowing their heads in obedience to the One True Lord of the universe, so had been done by Abraham in his time. In the same way as ignorant people were then opposing the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and those who believed in him, Abraham, too, had been opposed in his day by the people among whom he lived. Furthermore, the answer Abraham gave to his people in the past can also be given by Muhammad (peace be upon him) and his followers, for he was on the same path as Noah, Abraham and the other Prophets who had descended from Abraham (peace be upon them all). Those who had refused to follow the Prophet (peace be upon him) should therefore take note that they had deviated from the way of the Prophets and were lost in error.

At this point it should also be noted that Abraham (peace be upon him) was generally acknowledged by the Arabs to be their patriarch and their original religious leader. The Quraish, in particular, were proud of their devotion to Abraham (peace be upon him), of being his progeny and of being servants to the shrine built by him. Hence, the mention of Abraham's (peace be upon him) doctrine of monotheism, of his denunciation of polytheism and his remonstration with his polytheistic people, amounted to demolishing the very basis on which the Quraish had prided themselves. It also amounted to destroying the confidence of the people of Arabia in their polytheistic religion. This also proved to them that the Muslims stood in the shoes of Abraham himself, whereas their own position was that of an ignorant nation which had remonstrated with Abraham (peace be upon him) out of ignorance and folly.

75. And thus did We show^{*51} Abraham the kingdom of the heavens and the earth and that he might be of those who have certainty.^{*52}

51 That is, just as the phenomena of nature are before your eyes and the signs of God are being shown to you daily, so were they before Abraham (peace be upon him). But you, like blind men, do not see anything in spite of looking at them. The same stars, the same moon and the same sun rise and set before your eyes, but they leave you, as far away from the reality at the time they set as you were at the time they rose. But when Abraham saw with his heart's eyes, these very phenomena of nature, he reflected upon them and came to know of the reality.

52 In order to understand the true nature of the dispute between the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) and his people mentioned in this passage and others in the Quran, one should keep in view the religious and social conditions of his time. Now that Ur, the birth place of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him), has been unearthed by modern archaeologists, it has helped reveal the real conditions prevailing in that land during that age. Sir Leonard Woolley has published the results of this research in this regard in his book, "Abraham", London, 1935. A resume of the same, which has been translated into English from the Tafhim-ul-Quran, is given below.

It has been estimated that round about the year 2100 B.C. which is now generally regarded by scholars as the period of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him), the population of Ur was nearly 250,000; it might even have been 500,000. It was a flourishing industrial and business center. On the one side, it attracted trade goods from as far off places as Pamir and Nilgiri, and on the other, it had trade relations with Anatolia. The State, whose capital it was, extended a little less to the north and a little more to the west of modern Iraq. The people were mostly craftsmen and merchants by profession. The inscriptions of the age that have been deciphered from the archaeological remains show that they had a materialist outlook on life. Their main object of life was to amass wealth and make merry. They practiced usury and were wholly absorbed in business. They regarded one another with suspicion and resorted to litigation on minor grounds. Their prayers to their gods generally consisted of supplications for long life, prosperity and flourishing business. The population was divided into three classes.

(1) The Amelu: This was the highest class which consisted of the priests, state officials and military officers, etc.

(2) The Mushkenu: These were the merchants, craftsmen, and farmers.

(3) The Ardu: The slaves.

The Amelu class enjoyed special distinctions and privileges. They had greater rights both in the criminal and in the civil law than those of other people and their life and property were held sacred and precious.

Such was the city and the society in which the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) opened his eyes. According to the Talmud, he was a member of the Amelu class, and his father was the chief official of the state (See Surah Al-Baqarah: E.N. 290).

The tablets excavated at Ur mention the names of about 5,000 gods. Each city had its own god and also a special deity, who was regarded as the chief god or the city god and was entitled to greater reverence than the others. The city god of Ur was “Nannar” (the moon god) and scholars of the later ages have also called this city “Qamrinah” after that god. The other big city was “Larsah” which afterwards became the seat of government instead of Ur; its chief god was “Shamash” (the sun god). Under these chief gods there were many minor gods also, most of whom had been adopted from among the stars and planets and a few from among the earthly objects. People thought that their prayers for less important things were granted by these minor gods. The symbols of all these heavenly and earthly gods and goddesses had been formed in the shape of idols and all rites of worship were performed before them.

The idol of Nannar had been kept in a grand shrine built on the highest peak at Ur and near it the sanctuary of his wife Ningil had been built. The shrine of Nannar was just like a royal palace where every night a different female worshiper would go and become his bride. Thus there lived a large number of women in the shrine who had been dedicated to the god and their position was no better than religious prostitutes. The woman who would sacrifice her virginity in the name of the god was regarded very respectable. The common belief was that a woman must surrender herself at least once in her lifetime to another man in the way of god in order to attain salvation. It is obvious that the people to benefit most from this religious prostitution were the male priests themselves.

Nannar was not merely a god; he was the biggest landlord of the country, the biggest merchant, the biggest craftsman and the chief executive of the country's political life, for a very large number of gardens, houses and fields had been dedicated to his shrine. Besides the income from these sources, farmers, landlords and merchants also brought their offerings of corn, milk, gold, cloth, etc., to the shrine. Naturally there was a big staff to look after these offerings. Many factories were run and business on a large scale was done on behalf of the Temple. The highest court of justice had been established in the shrine and the priests acted as judges and their judgments were regarded as from God. The royal dynasty also derived its sovereignty from Nannar, who was the real sovereign. The king ruled over the country on his behalf and was, therefore, himself raised to the rank of a deity and worshiped like the other gods.

The dynasty which was ruling over Ur in the time of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) had been founded by Ur-Nammu who in 2300 B.C. had established a vast empire, which extended to Susa in the east and to Lebanon in the west. It was from him that the dynasty received the title of Nammu which became Namrud in Arabic. After the emigration of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) this dynasty and this nation were visited by continuous disasters. Their downfall was hastened by the destruction of Ur and the capture of Namrud along with the idol of Nannar by the people of Elam. Then the Elamis established their rule at Larsah which dominated over the land of Ur also. The last blow was dealt by Babylon, which had grown powerful under an Arab dynasty and brought both Larsah and Ur under its control. As a result of this downfall, the people of Ur lost their faith in Nannar who had failed to protect them from humiliation, shame and ruin.

Nothing can be said with certainty about the response the people of this land made to the teachings of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) after his emigration, but the law promulgated in 1910 B.C. by Hamurabi (Amraphel of Gen. xiv), king of Babylon, bears evidence that it had been influenced directly or indirectly by the guidance of Prophethood. A pillar inscribed with this complete code was discovered by a French archaeologist in 1902 A.D. and its English version was published in 1903 A.D. by C. H. W. John under the title, "The Oldest Code of Law." Most of the principles and details of this law and the law of the Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) are in general, alike. If the results of the archaeological research, which has been carried out so far, are correct, one thing that clearly stands out is that shirk was not merely a religious belief and basis of polytheistic rituals with the people of Abraham but it was indeed the very basis of their economic, cultural, political and social system of life. In contrast to this, the Message of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) not only clearly struck at the root of idol worship, but also hit hard upon the sovereignty and worship of the royal dynasty and the social, economic and political status of the priests and nobles and the collective life of the whole country. Therefore, the acceptance of his invitation had far reaching implications. It called for a complete metamorphosis of the prevailing social pattern and demanded its re-construction on the basis of Tauhid. That is why, as soon as the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) began to deliver the Message, the common people and the nobles, the priest class and Nimrod, all stood up together to suppress his voice which gave rise to the bitter dispute, mentioned in the Quran.

76. So when the night covered him over (with darkness), he saw a star. He said: "This is my Lord." But when it set, he said: "I do not love those that set."

فَلَمَّا جَنَّ عَلَيْهِ اللَّيْلُ رَأَى كَوْكَبًا
 قَالَ هَذَا رَبِّي فَلَمَّا أَفَلَ قَالَ لَا
 أُحِبُّ الْآفِلِينَ ﴿٧٦﴾

77. Then when he saw the moon rising up, he said:

فَلَمَّا رَأَى الْقَمَرَ بَازِعًا قَالَ هَذَا

“This is my Lord.” But when it set, he said: “If my Lord does not guide me, I shall surely be among the people who go astray.”

رَبِّي لَأَكُونَنَّ مِنَ الْقَوْمِ

78. Then when he saw the sun rising up, he said: “This is my Lord. This is greater.” But when it set, he said: “O my people, I am indeed free from what you associate others (with Allah).”

فَلَمَّا رَأَى الشَّمْسَ بَازِغَةً قَالَ

أَفَلَتْ قَالَ يَاقَوْمِ إِنِّي بَرِيءٌ مِّمَّا
تُشْرِكُونَ ﴿٧٨﴾

79. Indeed, I have turned my face towards Him who created the heavens and the earth, firmly upright, and I am not of those who associate others (with Allah).”^{*53}

إِنِّي وَجَّهْتُ وَجْهِيَ لِلَّذِي فَطَرَ
السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضَ حَنِيفًا
وَمَا أَنَا مِنَ الْمُشْرِكِينَ ﴿٧٩﴾

53 In Ayats 76-78, the way of thinking which led the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) to the reality before his appointment as a Messenger of Allah has been stated. It teaches that if a person uses his brain and eyes rightly, he can reach to the reality, even if he is born and bred, like Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him), in surroundings charged with shirk in which one might have had no chance of learning anything about the Oneness of God. The only condition is that one makes the right sort of observation of the phenomena of nature and reflects upon them carefully and exercises his reasoning to reach to the truth by a connected, logical train of thoughts. It appears from the preceding verse that the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him), from the beginning of his conscious life, was surrounded by the people who worshiped the stars, the moon and the sun. It was, therefore, natural that the starting point of his search for the truth should be the question: Can any of these objects really be the Lord and Sustainer? That is why his thinking centered round this question and when he discovered that all the gods of his people were bound tightly by an un-alterable law and were revolving in accordance with it, he came to the inevitable conclusion that none of these gods possessed, in the least, any quality that might entitle it to be the Lord. The Lord and Sustainer is only that One, Who has created them and bound them to His own obedience.

The wording in which the event has been couched, has generally given rise to an objection. "So when the night covered him over, he saw a star and said... And I am not of those who associate others (with Allah)." The question arises in the mind of the common reader: Did the night not cover over Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) every day of his life ever since he was a child and did he not see the stars, the moon and the sun rise and set before this particular occasion? Though he saw them every night, it is obvious that he began to deliberate like this only when he had attained his maturity. Why has then the event been described in such a way (.....When the night covered over him) as to give rise to the doubt as if he had never seen the stars and the moon and the sun ever before this? As such an assumption cannot hold good in ordinary circumstances, some people have had to invent an extraordinary story to remove this seeming anachronism. They say that the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) was born and brought up in a cave, where it was arranged that he should not see the stars, the moon and the sun before he attained his maturity. The matter, however, is so simple that it does not need the invention of a fantastic story to explain it. It can be easily understood by a well-known incident in the life of Newton. One day when he saw an apple fall down from the tree to the ground, his mind suddenly turned to the problem: Why do things fall down to the ground? At last his deliberation led him to formulate and prove the law of gravity. Here, too, the question might arise: Had not Newton ever seen anything falling to the ground before this incident? It is obvious that he must have seen many things fall to the ground many times before this. How is it, then, that the fall of that particular apple on that particular day stirred up that particular mental activity which the daily fall of hundreds of things to the ground had not roused before this? The simple answer is that the minds are not always excited in the same way by the same kind of observations. Many a time, it so happens that one sees a thing over and over again but that does not stir up his mind to any mental activity; then there comes a moment when the sight of that very thing diverts the mental activity towards a particular problem. Or, if one's mind is engaged in the solution of a problem and one suddenly catches sight of a particular thing which had always been before his eyes, it excites the mind to a mental activity that helps solve the problem. The same thing happened in the case of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him). Nights came and passed away, the stars, the moon and the sun rose and set for years, but on one particular night the observation of one particular star excited that mental activity which led him to the central reality of the Oneness of God. It may be that ever since he attained maturity, he might have been thinking over the problem of the worship of the stars, the moon and the sun, because this was the religion of his people and on this was based the whole system of the life of that community. Then one night the observation of the star suddenly excited the mental activity that helped him solve the problem. It is also possible that the observation of the star was the starting point of that mental activity.

In this connection, there is another possible doubt that must also be removed. Was the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) guilty of shirk (even though temporarily), when seeing the star and the moon and the sun, he said, "This is my Lord." A little thinking will convince one that he was not at all guilty of shirk for in his search for reality, a seeker-after-truth has, inevitably, to pass through several stages of deliberations about shirk. Therefore, what determines his creed is not the temporary deliberation but the direction of one's research and the ultimate destination where he stops. These intervening stages of deliberation have to be made by every seeker-after-truth in his search for reality. These are made for the sake of research and should not be taken as the final decision. The deliberation about any form of shirk is in a questioning manner and is not its practice. When a seeker-after-truth stops to deliberate about anything and says, “it is so,” it is not his final judgment. What he means to say is, “is it so?” That is why he proceeds further in his research as soon as he gets a negative answer at any of these stages.

80. And His people disputed with him. He said: “Do you dispute with me concerning Allah while He has guided me. And I do not fear what you associate with Him, except that my Lord wills something. My Lord encompasses all things in knowledge. Will you then not remember.”*54

وَحَاجَّهُ قَوْمُهُ^ج قَالَ أَتُحْجُونِي

شَيْئًا^ظ وَسِعَ رَبِّي كُلَّ شَيْءٍ عِلْمًا
أَفَلَا تَتَذَكَّرُونَ

*54 The Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) asked the mushrikin to remember the fact that his Lord, whom they also acknowledged as their Lord, had the knowledge of everything and was fully aware of what they were doing. Then he posed the question in order to rouse them from their heedlessness towards the message and use their common-sense to consider the reality. The Arabic word tadhakkur contains this sense.

81. And how should I fear that which you associate

وَكَيْفَ أَخَافُ مَا أَشْرَكْتُمْ

(others with Allah), and you do not fear that you have associated (others) with Allah, that for which He has not sent down to you any authority. So which of the two factions has more right to security, if you have knowledge.

وَلَا تَخَافُونَ أَنَّكُمْ أَشْرَكْتُمْ
بِاللَّهِ مَا لَمْ يُنَزَّلْ بِهِ عَلَيْكُمْ
سُلْطَانًا ۚ فَأَيُّ الْفَرِيقَيْنِ أَحَقُّ
بِالْأَمْنِ ۖ إِن كُنتُمْ تَعْلَمُونَ ﴿٨١﴾

82. Those who believe and do not mix their belief with wrongdoing,^{*55} those are for whom there is security, and they are rightly guided.

الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَلَمْ يَلْبِسُوا
إِيمَانَهُم بِظُلْمٍ أُولَٰئِكَ لَهُمُ
الْأَمْنُ وَهُمْ مُّهْتَدُونَ ﴿٨٢﴾

55 Some commentators are of the opinion that the people of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) did not believe in Allah or were ignorant of His existence and regarded their gods as the sole masters of the universe. Accordingly, they have based their comments of this passage and others about Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) on this assumption. Obviously, they are wrong because the whole passage clearly shows that those people did not deny Allah as the Creator of the earth and heavens, but were guilty of associating others with Allah in His Godhead and Sovereignty. This is clear from these and other words of the Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him):

“There is no reason why I should fear those whom you have made partners with Allah.” Moreover, the manner, in which he mentions Allah, while addressing his people, shows that they also believed in Allah but associated other partners with Him as well.

The word zulm that occurs in this verse stands for shirk. When some companions mistook it for sinfulness, the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself removed their misunderstanding saying, "Here it means shirk."

In this connection, it will also be interesting to note that this most important event of the life of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) which has been described in this here and which was the starting point of his great mission, has not been mentioned at all in the Bible. The Talmud, however, mentions it, but it differs from the Quran in two things:

(1) In it the order is "from the sun to the stars and to God" but it is the other way round in the Quran.

(2) It states that, when he said about the sun, "This is my Lord," he worshiped it also at the same time and did the same with the moon.

83. And that was Our argument which We gave to Abraham against his people. We raise by degrees whom We will. Certainly, your Lord is All Wise, All Knowing.

وَتِلْكَ حُجَّتُنَا آتَيْنَاهَا إِبْرَاهِيمَ
عَلَىٰ قَوْمِهِ نَرْفَعُ دَرَجَاتٍ مِّنْ
نَّشَاءُ إِنَّ رَبَّكَ حَكِيمٌ عَلِيمٌ

84. And We bestowed upon him (Abraham) Isaac

وَوَهَبْنَا لَهُ إِسْحَاقَ وَيَعْقُوبَ and Jacob, all (of them) We guided. And Noah did We guide before, and among his progeny, David and Solomon and Job and Joseph and Moses and Aaron. And thus do We reward those who do good.

كُلًّا هَدَيْنَا وَنُوحًا هَدَيْنَا مِنْ قَبْلُ وَمِنْ ذُرِّيَّتِهِ دَاوُدَ وَسُلَيْمَانَ وَأَيُّوبَ وَيُوسُفَ وَمُوسَى وَهَارُونَ وَكَذَلِكَ نَجْزِي الْمُحْسِنِينَ ﴿٨٤﴾

85. And Zachariah and John and Jesus and Elias. all (of them) were of the righteous.

وَزَكَرِيَّا وَيَحْيَى وَعِيسَى وَإِيلِيَّاسَ كُلٌّ مِنَ الصَّالِحِينَ ﴿٨٥﴾

86. And Ishmael and Elisha and Jonah and Lot. And all (of them) We preferred above the nations.

وَإِسْمَاعِيلَ وَالْيَسَعَ وَيُونُسَ وَلُوطًا وَكُلًّا فَضَّلْنَا عَلَى الْعَالَمِينَ ﴿٨٦﴾

87. And (some) among their fathers, and their offsprings, and their brethren. And We chose them, and We guided them to a straight path.

وَمِنْ آبَائِهِمْ وَذُرِّيَّاتِهِمْ وَإِخْوَانِهِمْ وَاجْتَبَيْنَاهُمْ وَهَدَيْنَاهُمْ إِلَى صِرَاطٍ مُسْتَقِيمٍ ﴿٨٧﴾

88. Such is the guidance of Allah with which He guides whom He wills of His slaves. And if they had

ذَلِكَ هُدَى اللَّهِ يَهْدِي بِهِ مَنْ يَشَاءُ مِنْ عِبَادِهِ وَلَوْ أَشْرَكُوا associated others (with Allah), worthless would be to them all that they used to do. *56

لَحِبَطَ عَنْهُمْ مَا كَانُوا يَعْمَلُونَ

*56 That is, even if the above mentioned people had been guilty of shirk like you, they would never have been exalted to such high ranks. This is because shirk is such a heinous sin that it destroys good works. It is just possible that any such person might have won fame as a great conqueror by ruthless destruction, or might have amassed fabulous wealth by foul means and become a notorious wealthy man like Korah or done some infamous thing and won name for himself but he could never have won the exalted position of being the leader of the pious and the rightly guided. They won the unique distinction of being the source of virtue and guidance for the whole world because they scrupulously avoided shirk and steadfastly followed the way of God worship.

89. Those were the ones whom We gave the Book, and the authority, and the prophethood. *57 But if these disbelieve in it, then indeed We shall entrust it to a people who are not therein disbelievers. *58

أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ آتَيْنَاهُمُ الْكِتَابَ

وَالْحُكْمَ وَالنُّبُوَّةَ فَإِنْ يَكْفُرْ بِهَا

هَؤُلَاءِ فَقَدْ وَكَلْنَا بِهَا قَوْمًا لَيْسُوا

بِهَا بِكَافِرِينَ

*57 Here it has been stated that three things had been bestowed on the Prophet:
(1) The Book, divine guidance.

(2) The Judgment, the good sense to understand that guidance and the capability to apply its principles to the affairs of life and the God given ability to form correct opinions about the problems of life.

(3) The Prophethood, the office of guiding the people in accordance with the divine guidance.

*58 That is, it does not matter at all, if these disbelievers and mushrikin have rejected the guidance of Allah. We have raised a community of the believers, who appreciate fully the worth of this blessing.

90. Those were the ones whom Allah guided, so emulate from their guidance. Say: "I ask of you no reward for it. It is not but a reminder for the nations."

أُولَئِكَ الَّذِينَ هَدَى اللَّهُ
فَبِهَدْيِهِمْ أَقْتَدِهِ^ط قُلْ لَا أَسْأَلُكُمْ
عَلَيْهِ أَجْرًا إِنْ هُوَ إِلَّا ذِكْرٌ
لِّلْعَالَمِينَ

91. And they did not appraise Allah with a true estimation due to Him, when they said: *59 "Allah has not sent down to a human being any thing." Say: "Who sent down the Book which Moses came with, a light and guidance for mankind, which you have put on parchments, disclosing (some of) it and concealing much.

وَمَا قَدَرُوا اللَّهَ حَقَّ قَدْرِهِ إِذْ
قَالُوا مَا أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ عَلَيَّ بَشِيرٍ مِّنْ
شَيْءٍ قُلْ مَنْ أَنْزَلَ الْكِتَابَ الَّذِي
جَاءَ بِهِ^ط مُوسَىٰ نُورًا وَهُدًى
لِّلنَّاسِ تَجْعَلُونَهُ^ط قَرَاطِيسَ
تُبَدُونَهَا وَتُخْفُونَ كَثِيرًا وَعُلِّمْتُمْ

And (by which) you were taught that which you did not know, (neither) you, nor your fathers.”*60 Say: “Allah (sent it down).” Then leave them to play in their vain discussions.

مَا لَمْ تَعَلَمُوا أَنْتُمْ وَلَا آبَاؤُكُمْ
قُلِ اللَّهُ ط ثُمَّ ذَرَهُمْ فِي خَوْضِهِمْ
يَلْعَبُونَ

*59 The context in which the words, “Allah has not sent down to human being anything” occur and their refutation clearly show that these were the words of the Jews. They uttered these words when the disbelievers and the mushrikin of Arabia asked them, “Tell us whether the word of Allah has really been sent down to this man, Muhammad (peace be upon him).” This question had arisen because the Prophet claimed (peace be upon him), “I am a Prophet and the Book is being sent down to me.” The Quraish and the mushrik Arabs turned to the Jews because they possessed the Book and believed in the Prophets and could speak with authority. Therefore, their answer provided the opponents with a strong weapon against Islam and they repeated the answer as an argument to dissuade the people from it. That is why their answer has been cited here and refuted.

Here a possible doubt should also be removed: How can a Jew, who believes that the Torah had been sent down by God, say, “Allah has not sent down to human being anything?” A little thinking will show that a person in his obduracy often utters such things as are against his fundamental principles merely to refute his opponent. As the Jews were bent upon refuting his claim to prophethood, they had been so blinded by their opposition to the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him), that in denying his prophethood they even denied the very office of prophethood.

“And they did not appraise Allah with a true estimation due to Him” means that they committed a grave error in evaluating His powers and wisdom. For the person who says: “Allah has not sent down the knowledge of the truth and guidance for life,” makes either of the two wrong estimates:

(1) He believes that Allah has no power to send down revelation to any man, and this is a wrong estimate of the powers of Allah.

(2) He thinks that though Allah has given man intelligence and authority to exploit the resources of nature, He has made no arrangement for his right guidance, but has left him to act indiscriminately in the world, and this is a wrong estimate of the wisdom of Allah.

60 This answer is meant for the Jews, who had furnished the disbelievers and the mushrikin with the arguments that “Allah has not sent down to human being anything.” To refute their objection it has particularly been pointed out that the Torah was sent down to Moses (peace be upon him) by Allah, for they themselves believed and could not deny that the Torah had been sent down to Moses (peace be upon him) by Allah. Thus, it was by itself a refutation of their assertion that Allah has not sent down anything to any man. It also proved at least that the word of God can be sent down to a man, as it had been sent down to Moses (peace be upon him).

92. And this is a Book (Quran) which We have sent down, blessed, confirming that (revealed) before it, and so that you may warn the mother of towns (Mecca) and all those around it. And those who believe in the Hereafter believe in it, and they are constant in guarding their prayers. *61

وَهَذَا كِتَابٌ أَنْزَلْنَاهُ مُبَارَكٌ
مُصَدِّقُ الَّذِي بَيْنَ يَدَيْهِ وَلِتُنذِرَ
أُمَّ الْقُرَىٰ وَمَنْ حَوْلَهَا وَالَّذِينَ
يُؤْمِنُونَ بِالْآخِرَةِ يُؤْمِنُونَ بِهِ
وَهُمْ عَلَىٰ صَلَاتِهِمْ مُحَافِظُونَ

*61 After showing in the preceding verse that the word of God can be sent down to a man and that it had actually been sent down to Moses (peace be upon him), a man, the Quran in this verse proceeds to prove that the word, which has been sent down to Muhammad (peace be upon him), is actually the word of God. Four things have been put forward as a proof thereof:

(1) It is a blessed Book: it presents the best principles for the welfare and true success of man. It teaches the right creeds and inculcates all kinds of virtues and exhorts the people of follow a high standard of morality for leading a pure life. At the same time, it does not teach in any way whatsoever any vice selfishness, narrow-mindedness, cruelty, obscenity and the like, which you have interpolated in abundance in your sacred Books.

(2) It does not present anything different form the guidance contained in the former scriptures: nay, it testifies to the same teaching that had been presented in them.

(3) This Book aims to fulfill the very object for which the former Books had been sent, that is, to shake up and arouse those people who had become forgetful of the noble object for which they had been created, and to warn them of the evil consequences of their wicked ways.

(4) The message of this Book has not attracted those from among mankind who are the worshipers of this world and slaves of their desires, but only such people as are able to see the higher things of life beyond the narrow bounds of their worldly life. Then the most obvious characteristic of the revolution that this Book has brought about in their lives is that they stand out conspicuously among the people around them for their piety and God-worship. Is it possible for any book invented by an impostor, who has the audacity to say that it is from Allah, to produce such excellent results?

93. And who can be more unjust than he who invents against Allah a lie, or says: "It has been inspired to me," while not a thing has been inspired to him, and who says: "I will reveal the like of that which Allah has revealed." And if you could see, when the wrong doers are in the agonies of death

وَمَنْ أَظْلَمُ مِمَّنِ افْتَرَىٰ عَلَى اللَّهِ
كَذِبًا أَوْ قَالَ أُوحِيَ إِلَيَّ وَلَمْ يُوحَ

وَالْمَلَائِكَةُ بَاسِطُو أَيْدِيهِمْ and the angels extend their hands (saying): “Discharge your souls. This day you shall be recompensed with the punishment of humiliation because of what you used to say against Allah other than the truth. And you were, towards His verses, being arrogant.”

أَخْرَجُوا أَنْفُسَكُمْ الْيَوْمَ
تُجْزَوْنَ عَذَابَ الْهُونِ بِمَا
كُنْتُمْ تَقُولُونَ عَلَى اللَّهِ غَيْرَ الْحَقِّ
وَكُنْتُمْ عَنْ آيَاتِهِ تَسْتَكْبِرُونَ

94. And certainly you have come to Us alone as We created you the first time, and you have left all that We had bestowed on you behind you. And We do not see with you your intercessors, whom you claimed that they were among you partners (with Allah). Indeed, it has all been cut off between you, and lost from you is all that you used to claim.

وَلَقَدْ جِئْتُمُونَا فُرَادَى كَمَا
خَلَقْنَاكُمْ أَوَّلَ مَرَّةٍ وَتَرَكْتُمْ مَا

نَرَى مَعَكُمْ شُفَعَاءَكُمُ الَّذِينَ
زَعَمْتُمْ أَنَّهُمْ فِيكُمْ شُرَكَاءُ لَقَدْ
تَقَطَّعَ بَيْنَكُمْ وَضَلَّ عَنْكُمْ مَا
كُنْتُمْ تَزْعُمُونَ

95. Truly (it is) Allah who splits the seed grain and the fruit kernel (for sprouting).^{*62} He brings forth the living from the dead,

﴿ إِنَّ اللَّهَ فَالِقُ الْحَبِّ وَالنَّوَى ﴾ يُخْرِجُ الْحَيَّ مِنَ الْمَيِّتِ وَمُخْرِجُ and it is He who brings forth the dead from the living.*63

Such is Allah, then how are you deluded away.

الْمَيِّتِ مِنَ الْحَيِّ ذَالِكُمْ اللَّهُ
فَأَنْ تُوَفَّكُونَ

*62 That is, it is Allah Who splits open the seed and the fruit kernel underground and causes those to grow into plants or trees.

*63 It means that Allah creates living creatures out of lifeless matter and discharges lifeless matter out of living creatures.

96. The Cleaver of the daybreak, and He has appointed the night for resting, and the sun and the moon for reckoning. Such is the measuring of the All Mighty, the All Knowing.

فَالِقُ الْإِصْبَاحِ وَجَعَلَ اللَّيْلَ
سَكَنًا وَالشَّمْسَ وَالْقَمَرَ
حُسْبَانًا ذَالِكْ تَقْدِيرُ الْعَزِيزِ
الْعَلِيمِ

97. And it is He who has placed for you the stars that you may be guided by them through the darkness of the land and the sea. Indeed, We have explained in detail the signs for a people who have knowledge.*64

وَهُوَ الَّذِي جَعَلَ لَكُمْ النُّجُومَ
لِتَهْتَدُوا بِهَا فِي ظُلُمَاتِ الْبَرِّ
وَالْبَحْرِ قَدْ فَصَّلْنَا الْآيَاتِ لِقَوْمٍ
يَعْلَمُونَ

*64 That is, We have made clear the signs which show conclusively that there is only One Allah and that none else has the divine attributes or powers and none else is entitled to any of the divine rights. However, those who lack knowledge cannot reach the reality by means of these signs; only those who observe the phenomena of nature in a rational way can attain this precious wealth.

98. And it is He who has created you from a single soul,^{*65} and (gave you) a place of residing and a repository. Indeed, We have explained in detail the signs for a people with understanding.^{*66}

وَهُوَ الَّذِي أَنْشَأَكُمْ مِنْ نَفْسٍ
وَاحِدَةٍ فَمُسْتَقَرٌّ وَمُسْتَوْدَعٌ قَدْ
فَصَّلْنَا الْآيَاتِ لِقَوْمٍ يَفْقَهُونَ

65 That is, Allah has created the entire human race from one single being, Adam, who was the first man.

66 That is, only men of understanding can find clear signs of the reality in the creation of human race and in the different functions allotted to man and woman for its reproduction at the different stages of human life from birth to death. But those, who live like animals and hanker after the fulfillment of the desire of the worldly life, can see nothing worthwhile even in these signs.

99. And it is He who sends down water from the sky, then We produce with it vegetation of all kinds, then We bring forth from it the green (crops), We bring forth, out of which, the thick clustered grain. And وَهُوَ الَّذِي أَنْزَلَ مِنَ السَّمَاءِ مَاءً

فَأَخْرَجْنَا بِهِ نَبَاتَ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ
فَأَخْرَجْنَا مِنْهُ خَضِرًا نُخْرَجُ مِنْهُ
حَبًّا مُتَرَاكِبًا وَمِنَ النَّخْلِ مِنَ out of the palm tree from the sheath of it, (We bring out) thick clustered dates hanging low, and gardens of grapes, and the olive and the pomegranate, resembling and yet different (in taste). Look at their fruit, when they begin to bear fruit, and its ripening. Indeed, in that are signs for a people who believe.

طَلَعَهَا قِنْوَانٌ دَانِيَةٌ وَجَنَّتِ مِّنْ
أَعْنَابٍ وَالزَّيْتُونَ وَالرُّمَّانَ
مُشْتَبِهًا وَغَيْرَ مُتَشَبِهٍ أَنْظُرُوا إِلَى
ثَمَرِهِ إِذَا أَثْمَرَ وَيَنْعِهِ إِنَّ فِي
ذَٰلِكُمْ لَآيَاتٍ لِّقَوْمٍ يُؤْمِنُونَ ﴿٦٦﴾

100. And they associate with Allah jinns as partners,^{*67} though He has created them, and they impute to Him sons and daughters without knowledge.^{*68} Glorified be He and High Exalted above what they attribute (to Him).

وَجَعَلُوا لِلَّهِ شُرَكَاءَ الْجِنَّ وَخَلَقَهُمْ
وَخَرَقُوا لَهُ بَنِينَ وَبَنَاتٍ بِغَيْرِ عِلْمٍ
سُبْحٰنَهُ وَتَعَالٰى عَمَّا
يَصِفُونَ ﴿١٠٠﴾

67 That is, in spite of these clear signs, some people have set up as His partners some hidden beings that are merely the creations of their own imagination and whims. They have gone so far in their ignorance as to allot different powers and duties to them in the management of the universe and in determining the destiny of man. For instance, one has been made the god of rain and another of vegetation; one is the goddess of wealth and another of disease, etc. Such absurd beliefs have been prevalent among all polytheistic peoples about spirits, devils, monks, gods and goddesses.

68 The pagan Arabs called the angels as the daughters of God. Likewise some mushrik communities have invented even a genealogical tree of gods and goddesses descending from God.

101. (He is) the Originator of the heavens and the earth. How can He have a son, and (when) there is for Him no companion. And He created all things, and He is, of all things, the All Knower.

بَدِيعُ السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ أَنِي
يَكُونُ لَهُ وُلْدٌ وَلَمْ تَكُنْ لَهُ
صَاحِبَةٌ وَخَلَقَ كُلَّ شَيْءٍ وَهُوَ
بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ عَلِيمٌ

102. Such is Allah, your Lord. There is no god except Him, the Creator of all things, so worship Him. And He is the guardian over all things.

ذَٰلِكُمْ اللَّهُ رَبُّكُمْ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ
خَلَقَ كُلَّ شَيْءٍ فَاعْبُدُوهُ
وَهُوَ عَلَىٰ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ وَكِيلٌ

103. Vision can not comprehend Him, and He comprehends (all) vision. And He is the Most Subtle, the All Aware.

لَا تُدْرِكُهُ الْأَبْصَارُ وَهُوَ يُدْرِكُ
الْأَبْصَرَ وَهُوَ اللَّطِيفُ الْخَبِيرُ

104. Indeed, there has come to you insights from your Lord. So whoever sees, it is for (the good of) his own

قَدْ جَاءَكُمْ بِصَآئِرٍ مِّن رَّبِّكُمْ فَمَنْ أَبْصَرَ فَلِنَفْسِهِ وَمَنْ عَمِيَ self. And whoever is blind, it is to his own (harm). And I (Muhammad) am not a watcher over you.*69

فَعَلَيْهَا وَمَا أَنَا عَلَيْكُمْ بِحَفِيظٍ

*69 In the sentence, “I am not a watcher over you,” Allah is speaking in the first person on His Prophet’s behalf. Just as the second person in the Quran denotes different people at different places, so the first person also denotes different beings at different places. As is well known, in some places, the second person is the Prophet or the believers or the people of the Book, and at other places it is the disbelievers or the mushrikin or the Quraish or the Arabs or the human beings in general, though the Quran is meant to be the guidance for all mankind, likewise at some places, the first person is Allah Himself and at others it is the angel, the bearer of the revelation, or a group of angels, or the prophets or the believers, though, in every case, the words are of Allah. However, one can determine the real person with the help of the context.

The meaning of the sentence. “I am not a watcher over you,” is: “My only duty is to present the guidance before you. Then, it is for you to open your eyes to see it or to keep your eyes shut like a blind man. It is not my duty to force open the eyes of those who deliberately keep them shut and to make them see what they do not see.”

105. And thus do We diversify the verses, and that they might say (O Muhammad): “You have وَكَذَلِكَ نُنْصِرُ الْآيَاتِ

وَلِيَقُولُوا دَرَسْتَ وَلِنُبَيِّنَهُ لِقَوْمٍ studied” and that We may make it clear for the people who have knowledge.*70

يَعْلَمُونَ

*70 The different ways of expression, in which the revelation has been couched, are a test for the people, because they help to discriminate the counterfeit from the genuine. The same thing has already been stated in Surah Al-Baqarah, Ayat 26, in connection with the mention of insignificant things like flies, gnats, etc. in the parables of the Quran. Just as the mention of these insignificant things helps the seekers in finding the truth, in the same way the different ways of expression help those, who have knowledge and make use of it, to think deeply about their aims and objects and learn lessons for their own good. On the contrary, those people, who are bigoted, pay no attention to the subject matter, but begin to think on other lines. For instance, they begin to conjecture how this illiterate man can compose such excellent discourses. Thus, instead of judging the Quran from its excellent themes to be the revelation from Allah, they turn to every other possible source and say, “You have learned this from such and such person.” Then in the light of this so called successful research into the source of the Quran, they conclude that it could not be the Book of God.

106. Follow that which has been inspired to you from your Lord. There is no god except Him. And turn away from those who associate

اتَّبِعْ مَا أُوحِيَ إِلَيْكَ مِنْ رَبِّكَ لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ وَأَعْرِضْ عَنِ others (with Allah).

المُشْرِكِينَ ﴿١٠٦﴾

107. And if Allah had willed, they would not have associated others (with Him). And We have not made you over them a watcher, nor are you a guardian over them.*71

وَلَوْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ مَا أَشْرَكُوا^ط وَمَا
جَعَلْنَاكَ عَلَيْهِمْ حَفِيظًا^ط وَمَا
أَنْتَ عَلَيْهِمْ بِوَكِيلٍ ﴿١٠٧﴾

71 It means, you have been appointed to invite the people to the message and not to keep watch over them like a police inspector. Therefore your only duty is to present the message to the people and try, your best to convince them of the truth. After that, if someone does not accept the truth, leave him alone. You have not been appointed to force the people to accept it so as to leave no worshiper of falsehood within the range of your prophethood. Therefore you should not worry and try to make them open their eyes which they have deliberately shut. If Allah had, in His wisdom, willed that there should remain no worshiper of falsehood, He would not have entrusted you with this task. He could have made each and every human being a follower of the truth, merely by a single word of His command. But this is not the object of the creation of man. The real object is that man be given the freedom of choice between the truth and falsehood: And then by presenting the light of the truth before him, he be tested which one of the two he chooses. Now the right course for you is to follow the right way for yourself and to invite others to follow it.

Then you should make those, who accept it, your friends and not to forsake them in any case, even though they are very insignificant in the eyes of the worldly people. On the other hand, you should leave those alone who do not accept it and let them go to the evil end to which they themselves want to go and persist in doing so.

108. And do not insult those whom they (disbelievers) call upon besides Allah, lest they insult Allah in enmity without knowledge.*72 Thus We have made fair seeming to each people their deed.*73 Then to their Lord is their return, then He will inform them of what they used to do.

وَلَا تَسُبُّوا الَّذِينَ يَدْعُونَ مِنْ
دُونِ اللَّهِ فَيَسُبُّوا اللَّهَ عَدْوًا بِغَيْرِ
عِلْمٍ ۗ كَذَلِكَ زَيْنًا لِكُلِّ أُمَّةٍ
عَمَلُهُمْ ثُمَّ إِلَىٰ رَبِّهِمْ مَرْجِعُهُمْ
فَيُنَبِّئُهُمْ بِمَا كَانُوا يَعْمَلُونَ ﴿١٠٨﴾

*72 The followers of the Prophet (peace be upon him) have been advised not to lose their balance in zeal for preaching but to remain within proper limits when engaged in discussions and polemics with the non-Muslims and to refrain from offending against their creeds and from vilifying their leaders and objects of worship, for this will repel and alienate them all the more from the truth.

*73 Allah has ascribed their deeds to Himself, for everything that takes place in accordance with the laws of nature does, in fact, happens by the command of Allah. (Refer to E.N. 17 above). As Allah is the Author of all the laws of nature, everything happens by His command: therefore, Allah says, “Thus We have made fair seeming to each people their deed.” The human beings would, however, express the same thing, saying, “This has happened according to the law of nature.”

109. And they swear by Allah their strongest oaths that if there came to them a sign,^{*74} they would surely believe in it. Say: “The signs are only with Allah,^{*75} and what will make you perceive that (even) if it (the sign) came, they would not believe.”^{*76}

وَأَقْسَمُوا بِاللَّهِ جَهْدَ أَيْمَانِهِمْ لِيَنْ
جَاءَهُمْ آيَةٌ لِيُؤْمِنُوا بِهَا قُلْ إِنَّمَا
الْآيَاتُ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ وَمَا يُشْعِرُكُمْ
أَنَّهَا إِذَا جَاءَتْ لَا يُؤْمِنُونَ ﴿١٠٩﴾

74 Here “sign” stands for such a tangible miracle seeing which they should have no alternative left but to acknowledge that Muhammad (peace be upon him) is a true Prophet appointed by Allah.

75 That is, I have no power to bring about and present signs, for these are entirely in the power of Allah and He may or may not show them.

76 These words are addressed to those Muslims, who ardently wished (and sometimes even expressed their wish) that their misguided brethren should be shown such a sign as might bring them to the right way. To this Allah has answered: you should realize that they would not believe even if a sign were shown to them, for this demand is merely a pretext for their disbelief.

110. And We shall turn away their hearts and their eyes (from guidance), as they did not believe therein the first time,^{*77} and We shall leave them in their trespass wandering blindly.

وَنُقَلِّبُ أَفْعَادَهُمْ وَأَبْصَرَهُمْ كَمَا

لَمْ يُؤْمِنُوا بِهِ أَوْلَ مَرَّةٍ وَنَذَرَهُمْ
فِي طُغْيَانِهِمْ يَعْمَهُونَ

77 That is, there has been no change in their mentality since the first time they heard and rejected the message of the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him). They are still following the same crooked and perverted way of looking at the message and, therefore, are unable to see and understand it rightly.

111. And even if We had sent down to them the angels, and the dead had spoken to them, and We had gathered all things before them, they would not have believed except that Allah so willed,^{*78} but most of them are ignorant.

﴿ وَلَوْ أَنَّا نَزَّلْنَا إِلَيْهِمُ الْمَلَائِكَةَ
وَكَلَّمَهُمُ الْمَوْتَى وَحَشَرْنَا عَلَيْهِمْ
كُلَّ شَيْءٍ قُبُلًا مَا كَانُوا لِيُؤْمِنُوا
إِلَّا أَنْ يَشَاءَ اللَّهُ وَلَكِنَّ أَكْثَرَهُمْ
يَجْهَلُونَ ﴾

78 That is, as they are not going to reject falsehood and accept the truth by making a free and deliberate choice, the only alternative left for making them follow it is that Allah should force it upon them. He should change their nature so as to deprive them of the freedom of thought and action like other species which have not been made responsible for what they do. But this is against the wisdom of the object for which Allah has created man. You should not, therefore, expect that Allah would make them believers by

His supernatural intervention.

112. And thus We have appointed for every prophet an enemy, devils from mankind and jinn, inspiring some of them to others with adorned speech as a delusion.^{*79} And if your Lord had so willed, they would not have done it,^{*80} so leave them alone, and that which they invent.

وَكَذَلِكَ جَعَلْنَا لِكُلِّ نَبِيٍّ عَدُوًّا
شَيْطِينَ الْإِنْسِ وَالْجِنِّ يُوحِي
بَعْضُهُمْ إِلَى بَعْضٍ زُخْرَفَ الْقَوْلِ
عُرُورًا ۚ وَلَوْ شَاءَ رَبُّكَ مَا فَعَلُوهُ
فَذَرَّهُمْ وَمَا يَفْتَرُونَ

79 Allah is consoling His Messenger (peace be upon him), so as to say, “You should not worry at all about the united and active antagonism of the satans from among men and jinn against your mission. This is not a new thing only happening to you for it has always been happening like this to the messengers. Whenever a messenger came to show the right way, all the satanic powers girded up their loins to make his mission a failure.”

“Adorned speech” are all those devices, schemes, suspicions, objections, etc., that are employed by the satans to excite and incite the common people against the message and the messenger who invites them to the truth. Then all these things have been called the means of deceit and delusion as a whole, for all the weapons that the opponent use against the truth are, in fact, deceptions not only for others but also for the deceivers themselves, though they appear to be very useful and effective weapons.

*80 We have already explained in E.N. 73 above the fact of this matter, but the fine distinction between Allah's will (mashiyat) and His approval (rada) should also be kept in mind; otherwise there might arise very serious misunderstandings. It must be clearly understood that nothing whatsoever can happen without the will and permission of Allah, for no incident can happen, unless Allah makes room for it in His vast scheme and provides means for its happening. But it does not necessarily mean that Allah also approves of and is pleased with that incident. For instance, no thief can commit theft, no murderer can kill, no tyrant can be tyrannical, no breaker of peace can cause disorder, no unbeliever can disbelieve and no mushrik can commit shirk, etc. without the will of Allah. Likewise, no believer can have faith and no pious person can be pious unless it be the will of Allah. Yet, He is not pleased with the first kind of bad deeds, whereas He is pleased with and approves of and likes the second kind of good deeds. It is true that the will of Allah is working for an ultimate great good, but that can only come about by means of a conflict between light and darkness, good and bad, peace and disorder. Therefore, He allows, for the sake of His great good designs, the necessary freedom both to the powers of obedience and to those of disobedience, of piety and sin, of prophethood and the forces of evil, so that both might be allowed to perform the deeds of their own choice and to those of His creatures (men and jinn) who have been delegated with a limited authority and the consequent responsibility. Everyone is free to make a choice of good deeds or of bad deeds for himself in this world. Both the good and the bad people are allowed to have the necessary means, as far as it suits and fits into the divine design, but only those who make a choice of good works merit His pleasure and approval. For, Allah likes that His servants should make the right use of their freedom of choice and adopt good instead of evil.

In this connection, it will be worthwhile to understand why Allah mentions over and over again that it is by His will that the enemies of truth have been allowed to carry on their nefarious activities. This is to impress upon the Prophet (peace be upon him), and through him on his followers, that the nature of their work is different from that of the angels, who carry out the commands of Allah without meeting with any resistance. Their mission, requires that in their conflict with the wicked and rebellious people, they should exert their utmost to make the way of Allah dominant over their ways. That is why it is the will of Allah to allow such people as have deliberately chosen the way of rebellion against Allah to exert their worst in pursuance of their choice. Likewise, He also allows the believers a full opportunity to exert their utmost in the service and obedience of Allah that they have deliberately chosen. Though He is pleased with and gives His help and succor to the believers and guides them to the right way because they do the deeds He likes them to do, yet they should not expect that Allah will force, by His supernatural intervention, the unbelievers to believe, if they do not want to believe by their free choice. Or that He will remove by force from their way those satans amongst men and jinn who have deliberately chosen to use all the powers of their hearts and minds and bodies against the truth in order to block its way. They should note it well that, if they sincerely intend to work for the cause of truth, virtue and righteousness, they will have to prove this by putting up hard struggle and exerting their utmost in their conflict with the worshipers of falsehood. If Allah had willed to demolish falsehood and make the truth dominate by miracles, there was no need to entrust this work to the believers for in that case He Himself could have arranged the things so as to leave no satan in the world and no room for shirk and disbelief to make their appearance.

113. And that may incline to it (deceptive speech), the hearts of those who do not believe in the Hereafter, and that they may be well pleased with it, and that they acquire whatever they may be acquiring.

وَلِتَصْغَىٰ إِلَيْهِ أَفْعَدَةُ الَّذِينَ لَا
يُؤْمِنُونَ بِالْآخِرَةِ وَلِيَرْضَوْهُ
وَلِيَقْتَرِفُوا مَا هُمْ مُّقْتَرِفُونَ

114. (Say O Muhammad) “Then is it other than Allah I shall seek as judge, and it is He who has sent down to you the Book (Quran), explained in detail.”^{*81} And those to whom We gave the Book (aforetime) know that it is

أَفَغَيْرَ اللَّهِ أَبْتَغِي حَكْمًا وَهُوَ
الَّذِي أَنْزَلَ إِلَيْكُمُ الْكِتَابَ
مُفَصَّلًا وَالَّذِينَ ءَاتَيْنَاهُمُ
الْكِتَابَ يَعْلَمُونَ أَنَّهُ مُنَزَّلٌ مِّن revealed from your Lord in truth. So be not you of those who doubt.*82

رَبِّكَ بِالْحَقِّ فَلَا تَكُونَنَّ مِنَ
الْمُمْتَرِينَ

*81 The speaker in this sentence is the Prophet (peace be upon him) and the addressees are his followers, who desired that a sign should be shown for the conversion of the disbelievers. They have been told that no sign will be shown, for Allah had made all the realities plain in the Quran. As regards to their conflict with falsehood, He has decreed that the followers of the truth will have to exert for its domination in the natural way without expecting any supernatural intervention from Him. The Prophet (peace be upon him) has, therefore, been asked to declare, “Should I, then, seek some authority higher than Allah to revise His decree and to send down such a miracle as should force them to believe?” (Refer to E.N. 76).

*82 That is, these principles, that have been laid down for the domination of the truth, are not new ones which might have been invented today to explain away the difficulties and obstacles of the way. All those people, who possess the knowledge of the divine Books and are acquainted with the mission of the prophets, will bear testimony that whatever is being stated in the Quran is the very truth, which is eternal and has never changed.

115. And the Word of your Lord has been fulfilled in truth and justice. None can change His Words. And He

وَتَمَّتْ كَلِمَتُ رَبِّكَ صِدْقًا وَعَدْلًا لَا مُبَدَّلَ لِكَلِمَاتِهِ وَهُوَ is the All Hearer, the All Knower.

السَّمِيعُ الْعَلِيمُ ﴿١١٥﴾

116. And if you obey most of those on the earth, they will mislead you from Allah's way. They do not follow except conjectures, and they do not but falsify.*83

وَإِنْ تَطَعْتَ أَكْثَرَ مَنْ فِي الْأَرْضِ يُضِلُّوكَ عَنْ سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ إِنْ يَتَّبِعُونَ إِلَّا الظَّنَّ وَإِنْ هُمْ إِلَّا يَخْرُصُونَ ﴿١١٦﴾

83 The right thing for a seeker-after-truth is not to consider what way the majority of the people are following because that is based on guess work instead of knowledge. Their beliefs, theories, philosophies, principles of life and laws are the result of guess work and are, therefore, sure to mislead. In contrast to that, the way of life with which Allah is pleased, can only be the way which Allah Himself has taught. Therefore, the seeker-after-truth should adopt that way and steadfastly follow it, even though he is left alone on it.

117. Indeed, your Lord, it is He who knows best who strays from His way, and it is He who knows best those who are guided.

إِنَّ رَبَّكَ هُوَ أَعْلَمُ مَنْ يَضِلُّ عَنْ سَبِيلِهِ وَهُوَ أَعْلَمُ بِالْمُهْتَدِينَ ﴿١١٧﴾

118. So eat of that on which Allah's name has been mentioned, if you are believers in His revelations.*84

فَكُلُوا مِمَّا ذُكِرَ اسْمُ اللَّهِ عَلَيْهِ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ بِعَايَاتِهِ مُؤْمِنِينَ ﴿١١٨﴾

84 Among the many wrong things which the people have adopted as religious laws without any divine sanction are also the restrictions they have imposed on the articles of food. That is why some people have made certain things lawful whereas they are unlawful in the sight of God, and certain other things unlawful, though Allah has declared them to be lawful. In this connection, the most absurd thing on which some of the former people insisted and on which some of the modern people also insist, is that if Allah's name is pronounced at the slaughter of an animal, it is unlawful and if it is slaughtered without mentioning Allah's name over it, it is quite lawful. In this verse Allah has refuted such ideas and commanded the Muslims to discard all such whims and superstitions which have been invented by the unbelievers and the mushrikin and break all such restrictions which the people have imposed on themselves against the guidance of Allah, if they sincerely believe in it. They should, therefore, make unlawful only that which Allah has made unlawful and vice versa.

119. And what is it with you that you do not eat of that on which Allah's name has been mentioned, and indeed He has explained in detail to you what is forbidden to you, except that to which you are compelled.^{*85} And indeed, many do lead (others) astray by their own desires without knowledge. Certainly, your Lord, He knows best of the transgressors.

هُوَ أَعْلَمُ بِالْمُعْتَدِينَ ﴿١١٩﴾

85 See Ayats 114-116 of Surah An-Nahl. Incidentally, this reference also shows that Surah An-Nahl was revealed before Surah Al-Anam.

120. And leave the apparent of sin and the concealed thereof. Indeed, those who earn sin will be recompensed for that which they used to commit.

وَذَرُوا ظَهْرَ الْاِثْمِ وَبَاطِنَهُ ۗ اِنَّ
الَّذِينَ يَكْسِبُونَ الْاِثْمَ
سَيَجْزَوْنَ بِمَا كَانُوا يَکْتَرِفُونَ

﴿١٢٠﴾

121. And do not eat of that on which Allah's name has not been mentioned, and for sure it is abomination. And indeed, the devils do inspire to their friends to dispute with you.^{*86} And if you obey them, you would indeed be those who associate others (with Allah).^{*87}

وَلَا تَأْكُلُوا مِمَّا لَمْ يُذْكَرْ اسْمُ

اَطَعْتُمُوْهُمْ اِنَّكُمْ لَشُرٰكُونَ ﴿١٢١﴾

86 This is with reference to the different kinds of doubts and objections with which the Jewish scholars used to poison the minds of ignorant Arabs against Islam. According to a tradition of Abdullah bin Abbas, one of the objections taught by the Jews against the Prophet

Muhammad (peace be upon him) was: “How is it that the one killed by Allah (by natural death) should be unlawful, while the other which is killed by us (by mentioning the name of Allah) should be lawful?” This is an instance of the crooked attitude of those so called people of the Book. They would invent and pose questions like this before the common people so as to poison their minds with doubts and to arm them with weapons to fight with the truth.

*87 It is also shirk to acknowledge the Godhead of Allah and at the same time follow the decrees and ways of those who have turned away from Allah. The acknowledgment of the Oneness of Allah demands that one should obey Allah in all aspects of his life. So much so that if a person believes that someone else also should be obeyed along with Allah, he would be guilty of committing shirk in his creed. And if a person obeys such people as arrogate to themselves the authority of making things lawful and unlawful, in utter disregard of the guidance of Allah, he would be guilty of practical shirk.

122. And is he who was dead, then We gave him life,^{*88} and We made for him a light by which he can walk among the people, like him whose similitude is in darkness,^{*89} from which he can never come out. Thus it is made fair seeming^{*90} to the disbelievers that which they

أَوْ مَن كَانَ مَيِّتًا فَأَحْيَيْنَاهُ وَجَعَلْنَا
لَهُ نُورًا يَمْشِي بِهِ فِي النَّاسِ
كَمَن مَّثَلُهُ فِي الظُّلُمَاتِ لَيْسَ
بِخَارِجٍ مِّنْهَا كَذَلِكَ زُيِّنَ
لِلْكَافِرِينَ مَا كَانُوا يَعْمَلُونَ

used to do.

88 Here, “He who was dead” means who was first in a state of ignorance and lacked understanding. Likewise, “Then We gave him life” means then he was given knowledge and understanding and was restored to that mental state which can recognize the truth. And the fact is that one who cannot distinguish between right and wrong and does not know the right way, might be regarded as alive from the physical point of view, but he does not enjoy that life which makes him a real human being. He is no doubt a living animal, but he is not a living man. A living man is only he who can distinguish between right and wrong, good and bad, righteous and unrighteous.

89 That is, how can you expect that a man, who has gotten real understanding of life and recognizes clearly, by the light of knowledge, the straight way from among the countless crooked ways, would live a life like those who lack understanding and blunder blindly into the darkness of ignorance and folly?

90 It is the law of Allah that He makes their deeds seem fair to those who refuse to be guided by the light which is offered to them and who prefer to tread the crooked paths, even though they are invited to the right way. Then they begin to love darkness and like groping their way through it like the blind and to be knocked about throughout their lives. Accordingly, every vice appears to them worth enjoying and every piece of folly a gem of wisdom. After the failure of such an experiment that produces mischief, they get ready for another in the hope that the first failure was due to some accidental mistake that will be avoided in future experiments.

123. And thus We have placed in every town the greatest of its criminals to conspire therein. And they do not conspire except against their own selves, and they do not perceive.

وَكَذَلِكَ جَعَلْنَا فِي كُلِّ قَرْيَةٍ
أَكْبَرَ مُجْرِمِيهَا لِيَمْكُرُوا
فِيهَا وَمَا يَمْكُرُونَ إِلَّا
بِأَنْفُسِهِمْ وَمَا يَشْعُرُونَ ﴿١٢٣﴾

124. And when there comes to them a sign, they say: “We shall never believe until we are given the like of that which was given to Allah’s messengers.”*91 Allah knows best with whom to place His message. There will afflict those who committed crimes, humiliation from Allah and severe punishment, for that which they used to conspire.

وَإِذَا جَاءَتْهُمْ آيَةٌ قَالُوا لَنْ نُؤْمِنَ
حَتَّى نُؤْتَى مِثْلَ مَا أُوتِيَ رُسُلُ اللَّهِ
اللَّهُ أَعْلَمُ حَيْثُ يَجْعَلُ رِسَالَتَهُ
سَيُصِيبُ الَّذِينَ أَجْرَمُوا صَغَارٌ
عِنْدَ اللَّهِ وَعَذَابٌ شَدِيدٌ بِمَا
كَانُوا يَمْكُرُونَ ﴿١٢٤﴾

91 What they meant was: “We are not going to believe in the claim of the Messengers that an angel came to them with a message from Allah, unless the angel comes directly to us to deliver the message of Allah.

125. So whoever Allah wills to guide, He فَمَنْ يُرِدِ اللَّهُ أَنْ يَهْدِيَهُ يَشْرَحْ expands his breast to Islam.*92 And whoever He wills to send astray, He makes his breast tight, constricted, as though he were climbing up into the sky. Thus, Allah places ignominy upon those who do not believe.

صَدْرَهُ لِلْإِسْلَامِ وَمَنْ يُرِدْ أَنْ
يُضِلَّهُ، تَجْعَلْ صَدْرَهُ ضَيِّقًا
حَرَجًا كَأَنَّمَا يَصْعَدُ فِي
السَّمَاءِ كَذَلِكَ تَجْعَلُ اللَّهُ
الرَّجْسَ عَلَى الَّذِينَ لَا
يُؤْمِنُونَ

*92 “He expands his breast to Islam” means: “Allah makes him fully convinced of the truth of Islam by removing from his mind and heart every kind of doubt, suspicion, hesitation and indecision about Islam.”

126. And this is the path of your Lord, (leading) straight. We have indeed detailed the revelations for a people who heed to admonition.

وَهَذَا صِرَاطُ رَبِّكَ مُسْتَقِيمًا
قَدْ فَصَّلْنَا الْآيَاتِ لِقَوْمٍ يَذَّكَّرُونَ

127. For them will be the abode of peace*93 with their Lord. And He will be their protecting friend because of what they used to do.

هُم دَارُ السَّلَامِ عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ وَهُوَ وَلِيُّهُمْ بِمَا كَانُوا يَعْمَلُونَ

*93 “Abode of peace”: The heaven, place of perfect peace and happiness, where the dwellers will be immune from every kind of calamity and misery.

128. And the day when He will gather them together (and say): “O company of the jinns,^{*94} you have indeed (mislead) many of mankind.” And their friends among mankind will say: “Our Lord, we did benefit, some of us from the others,^{*95} and we have reached our appointed term which You did appoint for us.” He will say: “The Fire is your residence, you will dwell therein, except for what Allah wills. Indeed, your Lord is All-Wise, All-Knowing.”^{*96}

وَيَوْمَ تَحْشُرُهُمْ جَمِيعًا يَمْعَشِرُ
الْجِنِّ قَدْ اسْتَكْرَثْتُمْ مِنَ الْإِنْسِ
وَقَالَ أَوْلِيَائُهُمْ مِنَ الْإِنْسِ رَبَّنَا
اسْتَمْتَعَ بَعْضُنَا بِبَعْضٍ وَبَلَّغْنَا
أَجَلَنَا الَّذِي أَجَّلْتَ لَنَا قَالَ
النَّارُ مَثْوَاكُمْ خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا إِلَّا
مَا شَاءَ اللَّهُ إِنَّ رَبَّكَ حَكِيمٌ عَلِيمٌ

94 Here by the jinn are meant the satans of jinn.

95 That is, every one of us made an unfair use of the other and cheated him for selfish ends.

96 As Allah is All-Wise and All-Knowing, both punishment and forgiveness will be based on wisdom and knowledge and, therefore, will be reasonable and just. He will forgive only that wrongdoer, whom He knows not to be personally responsible for his crime and liable to punishment.

129. And thus We shall make the wrong doers وَكَذَلِكَ نُؤَلِّي بَعْضَ الظَّالِمِينَ friends of one another, because of that which they used to earn.*97

بَعْضًا بِمَا كَانُوا يَكْسِبُونَ ﴿١٢٩﴾

97 That is, just as they were accomplices in their sins and crimes in the world, so they shall also share the punishment in the Hereafter.

130. “O you assembly of the jinns and the mankind, did not there come to you messengers from amongst you, reciting to you My verses, and warning you of the meeting of this Day of yours.” They will say: “We bear witness against ourselves.”*98 And the life of the world deceived them. And they will bear witness against themselves that they were disbelievers.*99

يَمَعَشَرَ الْجِنِّ وَالْإِنْسِ أَلَمْ
يَأْتِكُمْ رُسُلٌ مِّنْكُمْ يَقُصُّونَ
عَلَيْكُمْ آيَاتِي وَيُنذِرُونَكُمْ
لِقَاءَ يَوْمِكُمْ هَذَا قَالُوا شَهِدْنَا
عَلَىٰ أَنفُسِنَا وَغَرَّتْهُمُ الْحَيَوةُ
الدُّنْيَا وَشَهِدُوا عَلَىٰ أَنفُسِهِمْ
أَنَّهُمْ كَانُوا كَافِرِينَ ﴿١٣٠﴾

98 That is, we confess that one messenger after the other came from You and informed us of the truth but it was our own fault that we did not believe in what they said.

99 They themselves would confess that they were not ignorant of the truth: it did reach them but they deliberately rejected it.

131. This is because your Lord destroys not the townships unjustly while ذَٰلِكَ أَن لَّمْ يَكُن رَّبُّكَ مُهْلِكَ their people were unaware, (so the messengers were sent).^{*100}

الْقُرَىٰ بِظُلْمٍ وَأَهْلُهَا غَافِلُونَ

100 It means that Allah does not desire to allow the guilty ones the opportunity to protest and say, You did not inform us of the truth, nor did You send anyone to show us the right way. But now when, in our ignorance we have adopted the wrong way, You are going to punish us for it. In order to refute this argument, Allah sent His Messengers and Books to fore-warn mankind and jinn, prior to the execution of His judgments. If, in spite of this, the people choose wrong ways and are punished for this, they themselves are to be blamed and not Allah.

132. And for all, there will be ranks according to what they did. And your Lord is not unaware of what they do.

وَلِكُلِّ دَرَجَاتٍ مِّمَّا عَمِلُوا
وَمَا رَبُّكَ بِغَافِلٍ عَمَّا
يَعْمَلُونَ

133. And your Lord is self sufficient, the possessor of mercy (Compassionate).^{*101} If He wills, He could take you away and cause to succeed after you whom He wills, even as He raised you up from the posterity of other people.

وَرَبُّكَ الْغَنِيُّ ذُو الرَّحْمَةِ إِن
يَشَاءُ يُدْهِبْكُمْ وَيَسْتَخْلِفْ مِنْ
بَعْدِكُمْ مَّا يَشَاءُ كَمَا
أَنْشَأَكُمْ مِنْ ذُرِّيَّةِ قَوْمٍ
ءَاخِرِينَ

101 “Your Lord is Self-Sufficient”: He does not stand in need of any kind of help from you, nor does He need anyone to look after His interests. Therefore, you can do him no harm by your disobedience, nor can you do Him any good by your obedience. Even if all of you rebel against Him, you cannot detract an iota from His kingdom; nor can you add an iota to it, if all of you decide to obey and worship Him. He needs neither your obedience nor your offering. As a matter of fact, he is showering His countless blessings on you without desiring anything in return from you.

In the context in which “Compassionate” occurs, it implies two things. First, it is only out of compassion for you that Allah is showing you the right way and not for His own interest. It will not serve any interest of His if you follow the right way and keep away from the wrong ways: nor will it do Him any harm if you swerve from it. As a matter of fact, you will be serving your own interest and avoiding harm to yourselves by following it. Therefore, it is His kindness that He teaches you the right conduct to enable you to attain higher ranks and restrains you from wrong behavior that will throw you to the lowest depths of degeneration. Second, your Lord is not ruthless: He does not enjoy punishing you for trifling offenses and errors. As a matter of fact; He is very kind and sympathetic to all His creatures and rules over them with great compassion. That is why He forgives and forbears your shortcomings over and over again and shows compassion and leniency to you even though you become guilty of disobedience, sins and crimes. You impudently discard His commandments, knowing well that He is your Providence; yet He forgives and forbears and gives you respite after respite, so that you may understand the reality and mend your ways. Had He been ruthless, He could have destroyed you instantly and raised another people to replace you, or destroyed the whole human race and created another species.

134. Indeed, that which you are promised will surely come to pass,^{*102} and you cannot escape.

إِنَّ مَا تُوْعَدُونَ لَأْتِي وَمَا
أَنْتُمْ بِمُعْجِزِينَ

102 That is, Resurrection, when all human beings, from the first to the last, shall be brought back to life and presented before their Lord for final judgment.

135. Say (O Muhammad): “O my people, work according to your way.^{*103} Surely, I am working too. Then soon you will know who it is whose end will be (best) in the Hereafter. Certainly, the wrong doers will not prosper.”

قُلْ يَاقَوْمِ أَعْمَلُوا عَلَيَّ
مَكَانَتِكُمْ إِنِّي عَامِلٌ فَسَوْفَ
تَعْلَمُونَ مَنْ تَكُونُ لَهُ
عَاقِبَةُ الدَّارِ إِنَّهُ لَا يُفْلِحُ
الظَّالِمُونَ

103 That is, if you do not take the warning from Me and do not give up your wrong ways, then you may go on following the ways of your choice, and let me follow my way. Ultimately, both you and I will see the consequences.

136. And they^{*104} assign to Allah, from that which He created, of the crops and the cattle, a portion. Then they say: “This is for Allah,” by their claim, “And this is for our (Allah’s so called) partners.”^{*105} Then that which was to their partners, so does not reach to Allah. And that which was to Allah, so that goes to their (Allah’s so called) partners.^{*106} Evil is what they decide.

وَجَعَلُوا لِلَّهِ مِمَّا ذَرَأَ مِنَ
الْحَرثِ وَالْأَنْعَامِ نَصِيبًا فَقَالُوا
هَذَا لِلَّهِ بِزَعْمِهِمْ وَهَذَا
لشُرَكَائِنَا ۗ فَمَا كَانَ
لشُرَكَائِهِمْ فَلَا يَصِلُ إِلَى
اللَّهِ وَمَا كَانَ لِلَّهِ فَهُوَ يَصِلُ
إِلَىٰ شُرَكَائِهِمْ ۗ سَاءَ مَا
يَحْكُمُونَ ﴿١٣٦﴾

104 The preceding discourse (Ayat 135) ended with these words: If these people are not willing to accept your admonition and insist on their ignorance, tell them to act in their own way and that you will act according to your own way. The Day of Judgment will surely come one day when they will know the consequences of their conduct. Anyhow, this is certain that the workers of iniquity will not be successful there. Now from here (Ayats 136-146), instances of their ignorance are being cited to tell them what their iniquity was in which they persisted and from which they could not expect any success.

105 They assigned a portion of the agricultural produce to Allah as a mark of their gratitude because they believed that all land belonged to Allah Who caused the crops to grow; likewise they set apart for Allah a portion of the animals which were of great use to them because He was their Creator as well. But at the same time, they also assigned a portion as offerings to the patron gods of their family or clan, for they believed that Allah showed His kindness to them, because their gods, goddesses, angels, jinn, stars and the souls of their dead ancestors interceded with Him in their behalf. They also expected that in this way they would continue their kindness to them. That is why Allah is first of all taking them to task for the iniquity they were committing, so as to say: It is sheer ingratitude that you are making offerings to others of the things that I have created and given you with My own mercy and grace. How is it, then, that you are making others partners in the offerings of your gratitude to Me? Do you think that I give these things to you because of the intercession of others? Then, by implication, Allah has rebuked them for dividing the shares between Him and the partners set up by them with Him in accordance with their own presumptions. This is because they have become their own law makers and assign to Allah and to others whatever share they deem proper. When in fact, Allah is the real giver of everything. Therefore, the portion to be assigned to Him in gratitude should be determined by His law, which should also decide the shares of the other rightful claimants to it. It is thus clear that even that share, which they arbitrarily set apart for Allah and distribute in the poor and indigent, does not merit any worth and there is no reason why it should be accepted by Allah.

106 This implies a fine sarcasm. They have been rebuked for the evil practices to which they resorted in order to reduce even that portion which they themselves ear-marked for Allah, so as to increase the portion set apart for their gods. This showed that they were far more interested in their self-made gods than God. For instance, they would not mind if any fruit or grain out of the share assigned to Allah happened to go to the other side, but would return it, if anything happened to go to the share of Allah from the share of their gods. In case of drought, if they were forced to make use of the consecrated grain, they would use the share ear-marked for Allah but would not touch the share of their gods for fear lest any misfortune should befall them on account of its desecration. If there happened to be a deficiency in the share of their gods, they would make it up from that of Allah's share, but in the reverse case, they would not take even the smallest thing from the share of their gods to make up for the deficiency in Allah's share. Obviously they would invent very plausible excuses for this. For instance, they would say, God is rich and can afford to forgo any decrease in His share, but the case of gods is different because they are not rich like Allah: therefore they inflict punishment even at the slightest decrease in their share.

The root cause of these superstitious practices was the different uses to which the two consecrated shares were put. Allah's share was given to the beggars, the indigent, the wayfarers, the orphans, etc., but the share consecrated to the gods went to the priests directly or indirectly when it was offered to the gods in their temples. That is why their selfish religious leaders had been, for centuries, impressing on their ignorant followers that there was no harm, if any decrease occurred in the share of Allah, but on no account should there be any decrease in the share of their gods, “the beloved of God.” On the contrary, it was rather commendable that their share should continue to swell.

137. And thus to many of the idolaters, their (Allah’s so called) partners have made fair seeming the killing of their children,^{*107} that they may ruin them,^{*108} and make their faith obscure for them.^{*109} And if Allah had willed, they would not have done so. So leave them alone and what they fabricate.^{*110}

وَكَذَلِكَ زَيْنَ لِكَثِيرٍ
مِّنَ الْمُشْرِكِينَ قَتَلَ
أَوْلَادِهِمْ شُرَكَائِهِمْ لِيُرْدُوهُمْ
وَلِيَلْبِسُوا عَلَيْهِمْ دِينَهُمْ وَلَوْ شَاءَ
اللَّهُ مَا فَعَلُوهُ فَذَرَهُمْ وَمَا
يَفْتَرُونَ

107 Here the word shuraka (associates) has been used in a different sense from the one employed in verse 136. There the associates meant the deities whose intercession they regarded as a means of attaining to the blessings and made them partners with Allah in offerings. But, on the contrary, in this verse associates implies the men and devils, who had made the killing of their own children lawful and praiseworthy for them. In the preceding verse they were guilty of shirk because they associated others with Allah in His worship and devotion. Here they were guilty of shirk because they accepted others besides Allah as law givers and made them judges for deciding the lawful and the unlawful. According to Islam, a person who accepts any law made by other than Allah as authoritative and follows it and considers himself subject to the limits prescribed by it, is guilty of making that being partner with Allah. Both of these are acts of shirk. One is guilty of shirk whether or not one gives the title of lord or god to those to whom one consecrates offerings or accepts and obeys the laws made by them.

As regards the killing of their children, the Arabs committed this sin with three objects in view and the Quran has condemned all the three:

(1) They killed their daughters in order to avoid the disgrace of having a son-in-law, or lest they should fall into the hands of the enemy during the clannish wars, or they should become a cause of disgrace for them in any other way.

(2) They killed their children for economic reasons. They feared lest the burden of their nourishment should become unbearable for them.

(3) They sacrificed their children at the altar of their gods to please them.

108 The word “ruin” here is very meaningful. On the one hand, it implies moral ruin, for the man who becomes so hard-hearted and cruel as starts killing his own children, loses not only the tender qualities of humanity but also those of animality; on the other, it also implies destruction of the human race and one’s own nation, for the inevitable result of the killing of children is reduction of the population of one's own nation and consequently of the world as a whole. Obviously, the nation which prevents the birth of its future supporters and builders of its civilization and heirs of its heritage, or kills them as soon as they are born, most surely falls into the abyss of destruction. Above all, this inhuman cruelty to innocent children destroys all the chances of success in the life-after-death because such a one who kills his own humanity, nay, even his own animal instinct of love for offspring, and shows such enmity with the human race and with one's own nation, most surely incurs the most painful torture from Allah.

109 Their religious leaders, their chiefs and the elders of the clans and others who exercised any influence on them and who claimed to be the followers of the Prophets Abraham and Ishmael (peace be upon them), had been adding different creeds, rites and practices to the pure religion taught by the Prophets and causing confusion in the minds of the people about it. Yet the common Arabs of the pre-Islamic period believed that they were following the religion of their Prophets, which was the chosen religion of Allah, though it had been utterly polluted. This was because no record of the real religion of the Prophets had been preserved in their traditions or history or in any other book and none could sift it from the additions and changes that had been made in it afterwards.

110 That is, O Messenger, you do not need to worry about them, if, in spite, of your admonitions, they insist on following the false ways they have invented. All this has come to pass because it is the will of God that they should be allowed to follow the way of their choice; otherwise they would not have been able to do what they are doing.

138. And they say: “These cattle and crops are forbidden. No one can eat of them except whom we will,” by their claim,^{*111} and (certain) cattle whose backs are forbidden (for burden), and the cattle on which (at slaughtering) they do not mention the name of Allah.^{*112} (All that is) lying against Him.^{*113} He will recompense them for what they used to fabricate.

وَقَالُوا هَذِهِ أَنْعَمٌ وَحَرَّتْ
حِجْرٌ لَا يَطْعَمُهَا إِلَّا مَنْ نَشَاءُ

اللَّهِ عَلَيْهَا أَفْتِرَاءً عَلَيْهِ
سَيَجْزِيهِمْ بِمَا كَانُوا
يَفْتَرُونَ

111 Here another self-made religious regulation of the mushrik Arabs has been refuted. They used to make vows to reserve certain cattle or the products of certain fields for some particular temple or saint or deity and had made set rules for their use. Accordingly, the right of the use of different kinds of offerings was reserved for a particular kind of people. Allah has declared these to be acts of shirk and warned them against these self-made laws, as if to say, “We will punish you for making vows concerning offerings to others from provisions provided by Us, because We have neither commanded you to make such vows nor prescribed restrictions for their use. All these things have been invented by the rebellious and arrogant people who shall be dealt with severely.”

*112 We learn from traditions that in certain forms of vows and offerings, it was not considered right to pronounce the name of Allah over cattle. It was also forbidden to ride on them during the Hajj journey, because one has to pronounce: Labbaik, Allahumma labbaik: I am present, O my Allah, I am present, during it. Likewise, they insisted that Allah’s name should not be mentioned while milking them or riding them or slaughtering them or eating them.

*113 That is, these regulations were not prescribed by Allah, but they were following these with the conviction that they had been prescribed by Allah, though they had no authority from Allah for this thing. The only authority, they had, was that it had been the practice of their forefathers.

139. And they say: “That which is in the bellies of these cattle is exclusively for our males and is forbidden to our females. And if it is (born) dead, then they all may share in it.”*114 He will soon recompense them for their (false) attribution. Verily, He is All Wise, All Knower.

وَقَالُوا مَا فِي بُطُونِ هَذِهِ
الْأَنْعَامِ خَالِصَةٌ لِّذُكُورِنَا
وَمُحَرَّمٌ عَلَىٰ أَزْوَاجِنَا وَإِنْ يَكُنْ
مَيْتَةً فَهُمْ فِيهِ شُرَكَاءُ
سَيَجْزِيهِمْ وَصْفَهُمْ إِنَّهُ
حَكِيمٌ عَلِيمٌ

*114 According to another article of the self-made law of the Arabs about the cattle, consecrated by vows and offerings, the males alone were allowed to eat of the flesh of the young ones born from their wombs and the females were forbidden to eat of it. However, if the young one was born dead or it died immediately after its birth, both the males and the females could partake of it.

140. Indeed, lost are those who have killed their children in foolishness without knowledge, and have forbidden that which Allah bestowed upon them, inventing a lie against Allah. They indeed have gone astray and are not guided.*115

قَدْ خَسِرَ الَّذِينَ قَتَلُوا أَوْلَادَهُمْ
سَفَهًا بِغَيْرِ عِلْمٍ وَحَرَّمُوا مَا
رَزَقَهُمُ اللَّهُ افْتِرَاءً عَلَى اللَّهِ قَدْ
ضَلُّوا وَمَا كَانُوا مُهْتَدِينَ

*115 That is, although those people, who invented these rituals and customs, were your forefathers, your religious leaders and your chiefs, yet the fact is that they were wrong and had gone astray. Also it is a fact that those ways were wrong and they cannot become right and sacred simply because these were invented by your forefathers and your religious leaders, who permitted the inhuman slaughter of one's own children, who made unlawful, without rhyme or reason, the pure provisions given by Allah and who introduced innovations in religion and ascribed them to Allah. They cannot be regarded as rightly guided by any stretch of imagination even though they be your forefathers and leaders; they were certainly misguided and shall bear the consequences of their evil ways.

141. And it is He who produces gardens trellised and non trellised,^{*116} and the date palms, and crops of divers flavor, and the olive, and the pomegranate, resembling and yet different (in variety and taste). Eat of their fruit when they bear fruits, and pay its due on the day of its harvest, and waste not by excess. Indeed, He does not love those who are extravagant.

وَهُوَ الَّذِي أَنْشَأَ جَنَّاتٍ مَّعْرُوشَاتٍ وَغَيْرَ مَعْرُوشَاتٍ وَالنَّخْلَ وَالزَّرْعَ مُخْتَلِفًا أَكْلُهُ وَالزَّيْتُونَ وَالرُّمَانَ مُتَشَابِهًا وَغَيْرَ مُتَشَابِهٍ كُلُوا مِنْ ثَمَرِهِ إِذَا أَثْمَرَ وَءَاتُوا حَقَّهُ يَوْمَ حَصَادِهِ وَلَا تُسْرِفُوا إِنَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ الْمُسْرِفِينَ

116 The original Arabic words jannat-im-marushat-in literally mean gardens of creepers, trellised, and has been translated into vineyards; wa-ghaira-marushat-in literally mean gardens of plants that are non-trellised and has been translated into gardens of upright trees.

142. And of the cattle are carriers (for burdens), and for slaughter.^{*117} Eat of that which Allah has bestowed upon you, and do not follow the footsteps of the devil. Surely, he is an open enemy to you.^{*118}

وَمِنَ الْأَنْعَامِ حَمُولَةٌ وَفَرَشَاتٌ كُلُوا مِمَّا رَزَقَكُمُ اللَّهُ وَلَا تَتَّبِعُوا خُطُوتَ الشَّيْطَانِ إِنَّهُ لَكُمْ عَدُوٌّ مُبِينٌ

*117 The original Arabic word farsh refers to animals (like sheep etc.) in the sense that they are of small size and almost touch the ground while they are moving about, or in the sense that they are laid on the ground at the time of slaughter, or in the sense that beds are made of their skins and hair.

*118 From the context in which this verse (142) occurs, it is obvious that Allah wills to impress three things:

(1) The gardens, the fields and the animals you possess, have all been bestowed by Allah, and none else has any share in this favor and, therefore, none else is entitled to any gratitude for this.

(2) As none else has any share in this favor, these should be used in accordance with the law of Allah, and none else has any right to prescribe limits for their use; therefore the one who observes the rituals prescribed by anyone other than Allah, transgresses the limits prescribed by Allah and follows the ways of Satan.

(3) All these things have been created by Allah for food and other uses for mankind and none has any right to make these unlawful without knowledge. Therefore Allah does not approve of the restrictions that have been imposed on these things, as a result of superstitions and presumptions.

*119 That is, your answer should be based on knowledge and not on mere presumptions, superstitions or the traditions of your forefathers.

144. And of the camels twain (male and female), and of the oxen twain (male and female). Say: “Is it the two males He has forbidden or the two females, or that which the wombs of the two females contain.*120 Or were you present to witness when Allah commanded you this.” Then who does greater wrong than he who invents a lie against Allah, that he may lead mankind astray without knowledge. Certainly, Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people.

*120 The question whether some animals of the same family are lawful and others unlawful, has been posed with such a detail so that the absurdity of their superstitions may become obvious even to them. It is absurd on the face of it that the male of the same family should be lawful and the female unlawful, or conversely, the female should be lawful and the male unlawful, or the animal should be lawful, but the young one of the same be unlawful. This is such a nonsensical thing that no right thinking person, nay, no man in his senses, can imagine that Allah could ever impose such unreasonable restrictions. It should be noted that the method applied by the Quran to show the absurdity of the superstitious practices of the Arabs can also be applied with equal force to expose the folly of the superstitious practices of the other nations of the world, which have imposed unreasonable restrictions on food and adopted inhuman indiscrimination against other human beings.

145. Say: "I do not find in that which is revealed to me anything forbidden to an eater that he eats it, except that it be carrion, or blood poured forth, or swine flesh, for that indeed is unclean, or the abomination which was immolated to other than Allah.^{*121} Then whosoever is forced by necessity, without disobedience nor exceeding,

رَبِّكَ غَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ

*121 This subject has already been dealt with in Ayat 173, Surah Al-Baqarah; Ayat 3, Surah Al-Maidah; and Ayat 115, Surah An-Nahl.

There appears to be a little difference in the wording of this verse and that of Ayat 173 of Surah Al-Baqarah. In the latter verse it is simply blood that is forbidden, but in this verse it is the blood that has been shed, when an animal is wounded or slaughtered. The addition of the word masfuh (that has been shed) merely explains the nature of the blood and does not make any difference in the commandment itself. Likewise in Ayat 3 of Surah Al-Maidah, some other things besides these four have also been mentioned. The animals that have been strangled or beaten to death, or killed by a fall, or mangled by a beast of prey. This, too, does not make any difference in the commandment in the two verses, because this is an explanation which shows that the animals which are killed in that way should also be considered as carrion.

Now let us consider the various opinions of the Jurists. Abdullah bin Abbas and Aishah (may Allah be pleased with them) were of the opinion that, out of the animal food, only these four were unlawful and all others were lawful. But there are several traditions to the effect that the Prophet (peace be upon him) prohibited other animals besides these four or held them in detestation, e.g., domestic donkeys and fanged beasts of prey and birds with claws.

Therefore most jurists do not consider the prohibition to be confined to these four things only, but extend it to others; then there is also a difference of opinion among the jurists about the prohibition or otherwise of certain animals. For instance, Imam Abu Hanifah, Imam Malik and Imam Shafai declare the domestic donkey to be unlawful, but there are others who assert that the domestic donkey is not unlawful and say that it was prohibited by the Prophet (peace be upon him) on one occasion only for some special reason. The Hanafi s consider the carnivorous beasts and birds of prey and the animals that live on dead flesh to be absolutely unlawful, but according to Imam Malik and Auzai, the birds of prey are lawful and Laith considers the cat to be lawful. According to Imam Shafai, only those carnivorous beasts are unlawful that (like the lion, wolf, tiger) attack man. According to Ikrimah, the crow and the badger are both lawful. Then according to the Hanafis, all crawling creatures are unlawful, whereas Ibn Abi Laila, Imam Malik and Auzai consider the snake to be lawful.

A careful and critical study of the above makes it quite clear that, in reality, only these four things mentioned in the Quran are unlawful and that there are certain other animal foods that are detestable in various degrees. Therefore those things, which according to authentic traditions were held in detestation by the Prophet (peace be upon him), are almost unlawful, but those things about which there is a difference of opinion among the jurists, their detestation is doubtful. As far as personal detestation of certain things by some people is concerned, the Islamic law does not compel anyone to eat what one dislikes. The same applies to the detestation of certain things by some groups or nations. Conversely, the law does not allow any person or community or nation to force others to consider as unlawful anything that they detest, or to prohibit its use to those who consider them unlawful.

146. And unto those who are Jews, We forbade all (animals) with claws. And of the oxen and the sheep, We forbade to them their fat, except what adheres to their backs, or the entrails, or that which is mixed with the bone. Thus We recompensed them for their rebellion.*¹²² And indeed, We verily are truthful.

وَعَلَى الَّذِينَ هَادُوا حَرَّمْنَا
 كُلَّ ذِي ظُفْرٍ وَمِنَ الْبَقَرِ
 وَالْغَنَمِ حَرَّمْنَا عَلَيْهِمْ
 شُحُومَهُمَا إِلَّا مَا حَمَلَتْ
 ظُهُورُهُمَا أَوْ الْحَوَايَا أَوْ مَا
 اخْتَلَطَ بِعَظْمٍ ذَلِكَ جَزَيْنَاهُمْ
 بِبَغْيِهِمْ وَإِنَّا لَصَادِقُونَ

*¹²² That certain things were made unlawful for them as punishment for their rebellion has been mentioned in the Quran at three places:

(1) All the articles of food, which are lawful in the Muhammadan law, were also lawful for the children of Israel, except those which Israel had forbidden for himself before the Torah was given. Say to them, bring the Torah and read out any passage from it (in support of your objection), if you are right. (Surah Aal-Imran, Ayat 111).

(2) It is because of the criminal attitude of those who became Jews..... that We had made unlawful many pure things which were formerly lawful for them. (Surah An-Nisa, Ayat 160).

(3) Here in this Surah, in Ayat 146.

From the above three verses, we conclude that the difference between the Muhammadan and the Jewish laws in regard to the legality or otherwise of animal food is based on two things. First, centuries before the revelation of the Torah, the Prophet Jacob (Israel) had given up the use of several things, and after him, his offspring also did the same. This went on for such a long time that the jurists of the Jewish law began to believe that those things were unlawful in their religion. Accordingly, they inserted in the Torah, the prohibition of those things, the three of which were the camel, the hare and the coney. That is why the Torah, as contained in the existing Bible prohibits their eating. (Levit. 11: 4-6 and Deut. 14:7). But, the open challenge of the Quran to them to bring the Torah in proof thereof shows that the commandments referred to above did not exist in the Torah at that time and were inserted afterwards; otherwise the Jews would have at once accepted the challenge of the Quran and presented the commandments thereof.

The second difference between the two laws was caused by the rebellious attitude of the Jews against the divine law. They became their own law-makers and made many things unlawful by their hair-splitting and Allah let them remain involved in that misunderstanding as a punishment. These things comprise two categories:

(1) Animals with claws such as the ostrich, the cuckoo, the swan, etc. and

(2) The fat of the cow and the goat, etc. Afterwards, both kinds of prohibitions were incorporated in the existing Torah. (Levit. 11: 16-18, Deut. 14: 14-17, Levit. 3: 17, 7: 22-23). But it is obvious from Surah An-Nisa, Ayat 160 that at first these things were not unlawful in the Torah, but were made so after the Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him). History also bears evidence that the existing Jewish law was formulated by Rabbi Judas at the end of the second century of the Christian Era.

Now let us consider the objection that might arise regarding the above explanation. If these things were made unlawful in the manner explained above, why has, then, Allah used the word harramna (We prohibited) here in verse 130 and in verse 160 of Surah An-Nisa. In considering the objection, we should keep in mind the two ways in which things are made unlawful by Allah.

(1) He prohibits a thing through a Messenger and a Book, and this is the blessing from Him:

(2) He sets false religious law givers and counterfeit law makers over His rebellious servants and they declare pure things as unlawful. As such a prohibition is the curse of God and a punishment from Him, it has been attributed to Him.

147. So if they deny you
(O Muhammad), then say:
“Your Lord is the Owner of فَإِنْ كَذَّبُوكَ فَقُلْ رَبُّكُمْ vast mercy, and never will His wrath be turned back from the people who are criminals.”*123

ذُو رَحْمَةٍ وَاسِعَةٍ وَلَا يُرَدُّ بَأْسُهُ
عَنِ الْقَوْمِ الْمُجْرِمِينَ

*123 That is, your Lord has limitless Mercy and if even now you repent of your disobedience and adopt the right way of obedience, He will forgive you. But if you persist in your criminal and rebellious attitude, you should note it well that none will be able to ward off His wrath and punishment from you.

148. Those who associate others (with Allah) will say: “If Allah had willed, we would not have associated others (with Allah), nor our fathers, and we would not have forbidden anything (against His will).”*124 Thus did deny those who were before them, until they tasted Our wrath. Say: “Do you have any knowledge that you can produce before us. You follow not except conjecture, and you do nothing except guessing.”

سَيَقُولُ الَّذِينَ أَشْرَكُوا لَوْ شَاءَ
اللَّهُ مَا أَشْرَكْنَا وَلَا ءَابَاؤُنَا
وَلَا حَرَمْنَا مِنْ شَيْءٍ
كَذَلِكَ كَذَّبَ الَّذِينَ مِنْ
قَبْلِهِمْ حَتَّى ذَاقُوا بَأْسَنَا قُلْ
هَلْ عِنْدَكُمْ مِنْ عِلْمٍ
فَتُخْرِجُوهُ لَنَا إِنْ تَتَّبِعُونَ
إِلَّا الظَّنَّ وَإِنَّ أَنْتُمْ
إِلَّا تَخْرُصُونَ

*124 That is, The mushrikin will put forward the same old excuses to justify their crime and wrong conduct which have always been put forward by the criminals and wrong doers of every age. They will say, it is the will of Allah that we should commit shirk and make some lawful things unlawful; for, if Allah had not so willed, it would not have been possible for us to commit such acts. As we are doing these things in accordance with the will of Allah, we are doing the right thing. And if what we are doing is not right, Allah is to blame for it and not us. We are bound by the will of Allah to do what we are doing because anything other than this is beyond our power.

149. Say: “Then for Allah is the conclusive argument. So if He had so willed, He would indeed have guided you all.”*125

قُلْ فَلِلَّهِ الْحُجَّةُ الْبَلِيغَةُ فَلَوْ شَاءَ
لَهَدَانَكُمْ أَجْمَعِينَ

*125 In order to understand the significance of this decisive answer to their lame excuse, let us analyze it:

(1) It warns: The will of God has always been made an excuse by the criminals of all ages to justify their wicked acts and erroneous conduct. This misled them so much that they rejected the truth and consequently met with ruin that overtakes those who fight against the truth.

(2) The excuse which you are putting forward is not based on knowledge but on conjecture and guess work. The whole of your argument is based on hearsay about the will of Allah. You do not understand the meaning of the will of Allah in regard to man. Therefore you wrongfully believe that if a thief commits theft he is not to be regarded as a thief, because he had done this under the will of Allah. Its real meaning is that Allah will open for a man whatever way he would choose for himself, the way of gratitude or ingratitude, guidance or deviation, obedience or disobedience. Then Allah will let the man do anything, good or bad, he chooses, and will provide for its fulfillment the means that fit in His vast universal designs. Therefore if you and your forefathers were allowed to commit shirk and declare lawful things unlawful under the will of Allah, they had to bear its consequences, for it does not mean that Allah approved of these things. Likewise you shall be responsible and accountable for your wrong choice and for your evil intentions and wicked deeds.

The last sentence, “Had Allah so willed, He would indeed have guided you all,” settles the issue decisively. It implies: Your argument, had Allah willed, we would not have committed shirk, is incomplete. The complete thing will be this: Had Allah willed, He would have shown guidance to all of us. In other words, You yourselves do not intend to choose the right way, but you desire that Allah should make you inherently righteous like angels. You should, however, note it well, that Allah could have done so if He had so willed. But this is not His will. Therefore He will let you go astray on the wrong way that you yourselves have chosen to follow.

150. Say (O Muhammad):
 “Bring forward your witnesses, who can bear witness that Allah has

قُلْ هَلُمَّ شُهَدَاءَكُمْ الَّذِينَ
 يَشْهَدُونَ أَنَّ اللَّهَ حَرَّمَ هَذَا forbidden this. Then if they bear witness, so you do not bear witness with them.*126

And do not follow the desires of those who deny Our revelations, and those who do not believe in the Hereafter, and they deem (others) as equal with their Lord.

فَإِنْ شَهِدُوا فَلَا تَشْهَدْ مَعَهُمْ
وَلَا تَتَّبِعْ أَهْوَاءَ الَّذِينَ كَذَّبُوا
بِعَايَتِنَا وَالَّذِينَ لَا يُؤْمِنُونَ
بِالْآخِرَةِ وَهُمْ بِرَبِّهِمْ
يَعْدُلُونَ

*126 That is, if they understand the grave responsibility of bearing witness and realize that one should bear witness only to that thing of which one has knowledge, they will never testify that all their self imposed restrictions on food, that are current among them and according to which such and such a one should not eat such and such a thing, have been prescribed by Allah. But if these people do not realize the responsibility of bearing witness and impudently give false evidence in the name of Allah, you should not associate yourself with their falsehood. As a matter of fact, the real object of challenging them to bear witness is to sort out the righteous people, if any, from among them, and not that you should accept their false testimony. It is expected that in response to the challenge to bear witness, those, who have any righteousness left in them, will consider very seriously whether the rituals they were following were really prescribed by Allah and if they find no proof that these were sent down by Allah, they will give them up.

151. Say (O Muhammad):
Come, I will recite that قُلْ تَعَالَوْا أَتْلُ مَا حَرَّمَ which your Lord has forbidden to you.^{*127} That you associate not anything with Him,^{*128} and be good to parents,^{*129} and do not kill your children because of poverty. We provide sustenance for you and for them. And you come not near to lewd things,^{*130} what is apparent of them and what is concealed. And do not kill the soul which Allah has forbidden, except in the course of justice.^{*131} This He has commanded you with, that you may understand.”

رَبُّكُمْ عَلَيْكُمْ إِلَّا تَشْرِكُوا

 وَلَا تَقْتُلُوا أَوْلَادَكُمْ مِنْ

 النَّفْسَ الَّتِي حَرَّمَ اللَّهُ إِلَّا
 بِالْحَقِّ ذَٰلِكُمْ وَصَّوْنُكُمْ بِهِ
 لَعَلَّكُمْ تَعْقِلُونَ

127 That is, the limits set by your Lord are not those which you have imposed on yourselves, but they are the following which Allah has set for the regulation of human life and which have always been the fundamental basis of all divine laws. (Please compare these precepts with those contained in Exodus chapter 20).

128 One is guilty of shirk if:

- (a) One sets up another besides Allah as god, or
- (b) One attributes to another any of those attributes that naturally and exclusively belong to Allah, or
- (c) One sets up a partner with Allah in His powers, or
- (d) In His rights.

According to (a), all those creeds which set up partners with Allah in the essence of His Godhead shall be shirk, e.g. the creed of Trinity of the Christians, the creed of musrhik Arabs to believe in the angels to be daughters of God and to attribute Godhead to their gods and goddesses and the members of the royal families.

According to (b), all those, who believe that someone other than Allah also possesses one or some or all of the attributes which exclusively belong to Allah, shall be guilty of shirk. For instance, it will be shirk if one believes that someone knows all about everything including the unseen or hears everything or is completely free from each and every defect and weakness, and is infallible like Allah.

According to (c), one shall be guilty of shirk, if one believes that someone else besides Allah is able to wield any one or all of those powers that exclusively belong to Him. For instance, one shall be committing shirk, if one believes that someone else besides Allah can, in a supernatural way, benefit or harm or fulfill needs or help or protect or defend, or hear prayers, or make or mar destinies, or set the limits of lawful or unlawful, proper or improper, or prescribe laws (sharia) for human life. These shall be shirk, for all these things are the exclusive characteristics of Godhead.

It shall be shirk under (d) if one surrenders to another any or all of those rights to which Allah alone is entitled. For instance, Allah alone has the right that man should stand with bound hands, bow and prostrate before Him, or he should make vows and give offerings in His name alone or make sacrifices as a mark of gratitude in acknowledgment of His greatness; He alone has the right that He should be invoked to ward off troubles etc. Likewise, Allah alone is entitled to all forms of worship, devotion and glory and He alone has the right to be loved more than anyone or anything else and all other affections should be sacrificed for His love. He alone should be feared so that one would not dare displease or disobey Him openly and secretly. He alone has the right to be obeyed unconditionally and unreservedly, and His guidance alone should be made the sole standard of judging right from wrong and none else should be obeyed except in accordance with the obedience to Allah. If ever, one of these rights is surrendered to someone other than Allah, it will be setting that one as a partner with Him, whether that one is given the title of god or not.

129 “Good to parents” includes respect and honor, obedience and desire to please and serve parents etc. This right of the parents has been stated in the Quran at several places immediately after the rights of Allah. This is a clear proof that this right of the parents is only next to the right of Allah and has priority over all human rights.

130 The Arabic word fawahish applies to all kinds of impure acts, whose obscenity is absolutely obvious. The Quran declares adultery, sodomy, nudism, calumny, marriage with father’s wife as indecencies. Besides these, theft, drinking and beggary have also been included in the list of indecencies in the traditions. Likewise, all other obscene acts are also indecencies and the divine commandment demands that such acts should neither be committed openly nor secretly.

131 This is the declaration of the sanctity of human life by Allah Who has made it inviolable as a basic principle. As regards to its destruction by right, the Quran allows this in three cases and the Prophet (peace be upon him) added two more to these. The Quran makes it lawful to take the life of the one:

(1) Who is proved guilty of the intentional murder of another person.

(2) Who opposes Islam and obstructs its establishment so as to leave no other alternative than to fight with him.

(3) Who spreads disorder within the Islamic territory or exerts to overthrow the established Islamic government.

Besides these, the Prophet (peace be upon him) has made it lawful to take the life of the one:

(4) Who, in spite of being married, is proven guilty of adultery.

(5) Who becomes an apostate and deserts the Islamic community.

These five are the only cases in which it becomes lawful to take human life and there is no other case in which it becomes lawful to take human life and there is no other case besides these in which human life may be taken, be it that of a Muslim, or of a dhimmi, or of an unbeliever.

And when you speak, do justice, even if it be (against) a near relative. And fulfill the covenant of Allah.*134 This He has commanded you with, that you may remember.”

وَبِعَهْدِ اللَّهِ أَوْفُوا ذَٰلِكُمْ
وَصَنَّكُمْ بِهِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَذَكَّرُونَ

*132 “That which is better” will be the one which is based on selflessness, good intentions and the welfare of the concerned orphan, and which is not objectionable in the sight of God or man.

*133 “And give full measure and weight with justice,” is a fundamental principle of the divine law: Allah has added, “We burden not any soul beyond its capacity,” to assure people that whoever tries his very best to be just and right in measuring, weighing and carrying out other trade transactions, will be absolved from his responsibility and will not be taken to account, if in spite of his best efforts, there happens to be an unintentional error.

*134 “Covenant of Allah” is:

- (a) The solemn agreement which man makes with Allah,
- (b) the solemn pledge which he makes with another man in the name of Allah, and
- (c) the natural compact that comes into force as soon as one is born in the human society on Allah’s earth.

The first two kinds of covenants are intentional and optional, but the third one is a moral and natural obligation. Though man has no option in the choice of the third compact, yet it is as binding as the first two and should be honored as much. This is because Allah has given him life with extraordinary physical and mental faculties and furnished the earth for his habitation and provided nourishment, and limitless resources etc. for him. Naturally all this entails some rights of Allah on him. Likewise, it entails some rights of the mother who gives birth to and nourishes him and of the father who brings him up and of the society that affords him many kinds of facilities and opportunities. All these rights become, by their very nature, obligatory on him in varying degrees. It is true that this covenant of man with God and society has not been written in any statute book, nevertheless it has been ingrained by nature in each and every particle of his body, which itself owes its very existence to this covenant. A reference to this has been made in Surah Al-Baqarah, Ayat 27: “Who break Allah’s covenant after ratifying it: who cut asunder what Allah has ordered to be joined and who produce chaos on the earth.” It has again been mentioned in Surah Al-Aaraf, Ayat 172 to this effect: “At the time of the creation of Adam, Allah brought forth all his would be descendants up to the Last Day, from the loins of mankind, and made them stand witnesses to the covenant that He is their Lord.

153. And verily, this is My path, leading straight, so follow it. And follow

وَأَنَّ هَذَا صِرَاطِي مُسْتَقِيمًا فَاتَّبِعُوهُ وَلَا تَتَّبِعُوا السُّبُلَ not (other) ways, that would separate you from His way.^{*135} This He has commanded you with, that you may fear (Allah).

فَتَفَرَّقَ بِكُمْ عَنْ سَبِيلِهِ ذَٰلِكُمْ
وَصَّانِعُكُمْ بِهِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَتَّقُونَ

135 “This is My path, leading straight, so follow it.” This natural covenant demands that man should follow the path shown by Allah, because any deviation from it into the paths of rebellion or independence or in the worship of another than Allah will be the first violation against that covenant, and will mislead one into other violations one after the other. Besides, no man can fulfill the obligations of this most delicate, vast and intricate covenant unless one accepts divine guidance and follows it in every aspect of life.

“And follow not (other) ways” because they will turn you away from His right way which is the only way which leads to His nearness, pleasure and approval. Moreover, when the people deviate from His right way, each man has to make his own choice out of the hundreds of other ways. Thus the people are scattered in all directions and there is bewilderment, confusion and disorder among all mankind and this becomes a hindrance in the way of its real progress and development (See E.N. 35, Surah Al-Maidah).

154. Then We gave Moses the Book, making complete (Our favor) upon him who would do good, and an

ثُمَّ ءَاتَيْنَا مُوسَى الْكِتَابَ تَمَامًا عَلَى الَّذِي أَحْسَنَ وَتَفْصِيلًا explanation of all things, and a guidance and a mercy, that they might believe in the meeting with their Lord. *136

لِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ وَهَدَىٰ وَرَحْمَةً
لَّعَلَّهُمْ بِلِقَاءِ رَبِّهِمْ يُؤْمِنُونَ

*136 “Believe in the meeting with their Lord” means that one should believe that he shall have to render an account of his deeds to his Lord; therefore he should live a life of responsibility. Here it may imply that the Torah was sent: (1) To produce a sense of responsibility among the Israelites themselves and, (2) To induce the other people to make a study of its high moral system of life, and to observe the noble effects of its guidance and blessing on those who adopted its teachings so that they may be convinced that a life of responsibility based on the belief in the life of the Hereafter is far better than an irresponsible life based on its rejection and this observation may convince them to believe in the Hereafter.

155. And this (Quran) is a Book which We have revealed as a blessing, so follow it and fear (Allah), that you may receive mercy.

وَهَذَا كِتَابٌ أَنْزَلْنَاهُ مُبَارَكٌ

137 That is, to the Jews and the Christians.

157. Or lest you should say: “If only the Book had been sent down to us, we would surely have been better guided than they. So indeed, (now) there has come to you a clear evidence from your Lord, and a guidance and a mercy. So who does greater wrong than he who denies the revelations of Allah, and turns away from them.^{*138} We shall soon recompense those who turn away from Our revelations with an evil torment, because of their having turned away.

أَوْ تَقُولُوا لَوْ أَنَّا أُنزِلَ عَلَيْنَا

يَصْدِفُونَ عَن آيَاتِنَا سُوءَ
الْعَذَابِ بِمَا كَانُوا يَصْدِفُونَ

138 Here Ayaat are Allah’s revelations presented in the Quran as well as His Messenger’s (peace be upon him) noble character and the pure lives of the believers which clearly distinguished them from the unbelievers, and also those wonderful phenomena of nature which the Quran was putting forward as proofs of the truth of its Message.

158. Do they (then) wait (for anything) except that the angels should come to them, or your Lord should come,

هَلْ يَنْظُرُونَ إِلَّا أَنْ تَأْتِيَهُمُ
الْمَلَائِكَةُ أَوْ يَأْتِيَ رَبُّكَ أَوْ يَأْتِيَ or there should come some of the signs of your Lord. The day when some of the signs^{*139} from your Lord will come, no benefit will it do (then) to a soul to believe in them, if he had not believed before, or earned through his faith any good.^{*140} Say: "Wait you, we too indeed are waiting."

بَعْضُ ءَايَاتِ رَبِّكَ يَأْتِي
بَعْضُ ءَايَاتِ رَبِّكَ لَا يَنْفَعُ

مِن قَبْلُ أَوْ كَسَبَتْ فِي إِيمَانِهَا
خَيْرًا قُلْ أَنْتَظِرُونَ إِنَّا مُنْتَظِرُونَ

139 Signs are the signs of the Day of Resurrection or some imminent scourge or some other sign that may unveil the reality in such a way as to leave no doubt about it and after which no more chance for test and trial might be left.

140 That is, if after seeing these signs a disbeliever repents of his disbelief and professes faith, such a conversion shall be meaningless; likewise the one who professes to believe but adopts the way of disobedience, shall be deemed to have no faith at all, because faith and obedience can have any value only up to the time that the reality remains hidden behind the curtain, and the prospect of a long life is ahead and the world with all its allurements is deluding one into believing that there is no Allah and no Hereafter; therefore, one should eat, drink and be merry.

159. Indeed, those who have divided their religion, and become sects,^{*141} you are not with them in إِنَّ الَّذِينَ فَرَّقُوا دِينَهُمْ وَكَانُوا شِيَعًا لَسْتَ مِنْهُمْ فِي شَيْءٍ إِنَّمَا anything. Their affair is only with Allah, then He will inform them of what they used to do.

أَمْرُهُمْ إِلَى اللَّهِ ثُمَّ يُنَبِّئُهُمْ بِمَا
كَانُوا يَفْعَلُونَ ﴿١٥٩﴾

141 Though the address is directed to the Prophet (peace be upon him) , yet all the followers of the true religion are, through him, included in it. It means that the righteous people should not follow the ways of those who became sects by causing divisions in the true religion, which has always been the same and is the same today. Its basic principles are that Allah alone is the Deity and Lord of the whole universe. That none should be set up as His equal or partner in His attributes, powers or rights. That there shall be the next world, in which all human beings shall have to render the account of what they do in this world, and that they should mold their lives in accordance with those broad fundamental principles that have been taught by Allah through His Messengers and Books. This is the true religion that had been given to mankind from the very first day of its creation. As regards to the different religions and sects that came into existence afterwards, they were the result of the changes that were made in the true religion by different people at different times. Some of them introduced new things into it, others made changes in it to suit their desires, still others mixed things in it because of their exaggerated reverence. Then they tampered with its creed by mixing with it their whims, their speculations and their philosophies. They also changed it by adding to its commandments their innovations and their self made laws and by corrupting its regulations by hair-splitting and exaggerating the differences in its details and by rendering important things unimportant and vice versa. They went to two extremes: they adored some Prophets too much and opposed and rejected others. In this way numerous new religions and sects came into existence and divided humanity into fighting groups. Therefore it is essential for a follower of the true religion to have nothing to do with any of these sects and to keep his own path clear of them.

160. Whoever comes with a good deed, for him is ten times the like thereof (to his credit). And whoever comes with an evil deed, will not be recompensed except the like thereof, and they will not be wronged.

مَنْ جَاءَ بِالْحَسَنَةِ فَلَهُ عَشْرٌ
أَمْثَالِهَا وَمَنْ جَاءَ بِالسَّيِّئَةِ فَلَا
يُجْزَى إِلَّا مِثْلَهَا وَهُمْ لَا
يُظْلَمُونَ

161. Say (O Muhammad): “Indeed, my Lord has guided me to a straight path, a right religion, the way of Abraham,^{*142} the true in faith. And he was not among those who associated others (with Allah).”

قُلْ إِنِّي هَدَيْتَنِي رَبِّيَ إِلَى صِرَاطٍ
مُسْتَقِيمٍ دِينًا قِيمًا مِلَّةَ إِبْرَاهِيمَ
حَنِيفًا وَمَا كَانَ مِنَ الْمُشْرِكِينَ

142 “Way of Abraham”: This is another distinctive characteristic of the ever-true-faith. This has been given preference to “way of Moses” or “way of Jesus” because the followers of Moses and Jesus (peace be upon them) had applied the misnomers of “Judaism” and “Christianity” to that “way.” Moreover, the term “way of Abraham” has been used because both the Jews and the Christians acknowledged Abraham (peace be upon him) as a true Prophet. They also knew it well that he died long before the births of Judaism and Christianity. The Arab mushrikin also could not deny that his “way” was the right way, for they believed that he was a righteous man and in spite of their ignorance, they had to acknowledge that the founder of the Kabah was a pious worshiper of Allah and not an idolater.

162. Say: “Indeed, my prayer, and my sacrifice, and my living, and my dying are for Allah, the Lord of the worlds.”

قُلْ إِنَّ صَلَاتِي وَنُسُكِي وَمَحْيَايَ
وَمَمَاتِي لِلَّهِ رَبِّ الْعَالَمِينَ

*143 The Arabic word nusuk (rites of worship) may mean animal sacrifice as well as all other forms of prayer and worship.

163. “He has no partner. And of this I have been commanded, and I am the first of those who surrender (to Him).”

لَا شَرِيكَ لَهُ^ص وَبِذَلِكَ أُمِرْتُ
وَأَنَا أَوَّلُ الْمُسْلِمِينَ

164. Say: “Is it other than Allah shall I seek as a Lord, and He is the Lord of all things.*144 And each

قُلْ أَغَيْرَ اللَّهِ أَبْغِي رَبًّا وَهُوَ رَبُّ كُلِّ شَيْءٍ^ج وَلَا تَكْسِبُ كُلُّ soul earns not except against itself. And no bearer of burdens will bear the burden of others.*145 Then to your Lord is your return, then He will indeed inform you of that wherein you used to differ.

نَفْسٌ إِلَّا عَلَيْهَا وَلَا تَزِرُ وَازِرَةٌ
وِزْرَ أُخْرَىٰ ثُمَّ إِلَىٰ رَبِّكُمْ
مَرْجِعُكُمْ فَيُنَبِّئُكُمْ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ فِيهِ
تَخْتَلِفُونَ

*144 That is, when, in fact, Allah is the Lord of everything in the universe, how can any other be my Lord? When I see that the whole of the universe submits to His law and I, too, being a part of the universe, have to submit to Him in my physical life, how can then it be rational that I should seek another Lord for the guidance of that part of my life for the conduct of which I have been given common sense and option?

*145 It means that everyone is responsible and accountable for his own deeds and this responsibility can, on no account, be shifted from one to the other.

165. And it is He who has appointed you vicegerent of the earth, and has exalted some of you above others in ranks, that He may try you through that which He has given you.*146 Indeed, your Lord is swift in retribution, and indeed, He is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

وَهُوَ الَّذِي جَعَلَكُمْ خَلَائِفَ
الْأَرْضِ وَرَفَعَ بَعْضَكُمْ فَوْقَ
بَعْضٍ دَرَجَاتٍ لِّيَبْلُوكُمْ فِي مَا
ءَاتَاكُمْ إِنَّ رَبَّكَ سَرِيعُ الْعِقَابِ
وَإِنَّهُ لَغَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ

146 In this verse three realities have been stated;

(1) That each and every thing in the universe belongs to Allah and all human beings are His vicegerents on the earth in the sense that He has entrusted many of His things to them and delegated powers to exploit them.

(2) That Allah has ascribed different ranks to His vicegerents in regard to the trusts. He has entrusted some with a large number of His things, while others with a small number and endowed some with a greater capacity for work than others. Likewise there is a difference in the powers He has delegated to them: nay, he has even given powers to some human beings over other human beings.

(3) That this worldly life is merely a test and all the things and powers that have been given as trusts are the means of the test. An accurate record is being kept of how each man is making use of his trust and how far he is exploiting these things in accordance with the terms of the trust and how he is using or abusing his abilities, capabilities, etc. in this regard. The result of his test will determine man's rank in the next world.

الأعراف Al-Aaraf

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of Allah, Most Gracious, Most Merciful

Name

This Surah takes its name from Ayats 46-47 in which mention of Al-Aaraf occurs.

Period of Revelation

A study of its contents clearly shows that the period of its revelation is about the same as that of Surah Al-Anaam, i.e. the last year of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) life at Makkah, but it cannot be asserted with certainty which of these two was sent down earlier. Anyhow, the manner of its admonition clearly indicates that it belongs to the same period. As both have the same historical background, the reader should keep in view the preface to Surah Al-Anaam.

Topics of Discussion

The principal subject of this Surah is invitation to the divine message sent down to Muhammad (peace be upon him), which is couched in a warning. This is because the Messenger (peace be upon him) had spent a long time in admonishing the people of Makkah without any tangible effect on them. Nay, they had turned a deaf ear to his message and become so obdurate and antagonistic that, in accordance with the divine design, the Messenger (peace be upon him) was going to be commanded to leave them and turn to other people,. That is why they are being admonished to accept the message but, at the same time, they are being warned in strong terms of the consequences that followed the wrong attitude of the former people towards their messengers. Now that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was going to migrate from Makkah, the concluding portion of the address has been directed towards the people of the Book with whom he was going to come into contact. This meant that the time of migration was coming near and the invitation was going to be extended to mankind in general, and was not to be confined to his own people in particular as before.

During the course of the address to the Jews, the consequences of their hypocritical conduct towards prophethood have also been pointed out clearly, for they professed to believe in Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) but in practice opposed his teachings, disobeyed him and worshiped falsehood and consequently were afflicted with ignominy and disgrace.

At the end of the Surah, some instructions have been given to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers for carrying out the work of the propagation of Islam with wisdom. The most important of these is that they should show patience and exercise restraint in answer to the provocations of their opponents. Above all, they have been advised that, under stress, they should not take any wrong step that might harm their cause.

Topics and their Interconnection

Ayats 1-10. In this passage, the people have been invited to follow the Message sent down to them through Muhammad (peace be upon him) and warned of the consequences of its rejection.

Ayats 11-25. The story of Adam has been related with a view to warning his descendants against the evil devices of Satan who is ever ready to mislead them as he did in the case of Adam and Eve.

Ayats 26-53. This passage contains some divine instructions, and contrasts them with Satan's instructions, and depicts a graphic picture of the results and the consequences of the two.

Ayats 54-58. As the Message has been sent down by Allah Who is the Creator of the heavens and the earth and everything in them, it should be followed, for it is like the rain He sends down to give life to the dead earth.

Ayats 59-171. Events from the lives of some well-known Prophets, Noah, Hud, Salih, Lot, Shuaib, Moses (peace be upon them all), have been related to show the consequences of the rejection of the Message, and the addressees of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) have been admonished to accept and follow the Message in order to escape perdition.

Ayats 172-174. As the covenant with the Israelites was mentioned at the end of the preceding passage, the whole mankind has been reminded very appropriately of the covenant that was made at the time of the appointment of Adam as the vicegerent of Allah so that all of his descendants should remember it and accept and follow the Message that was delivered by the Prophet (peace be upon him).

Ayats 175-179. The example of the one who had the knowledge of the Message but discarded it, has been cited as a warning to those who were treating the Message as false; they have been exhorted to use their faculties to recognize the Message; otherwise Hell would be there abode.

Ayats 180-198. In this concluding portion of the Surah, some deviations of those who do not use their faculties properly to understand the Message have been dealt with and they have been admonished, reproved and warned of the serious consequences of their antagonistic attitude towards the Message of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

Ayats 199-206. In conclusion, instructions have been given to the Prophet (peace be upon him), and through him to his followers, about the attitude they should adopt towards those who reject the Message and deviate from it.

1. Alif. Lam. Mim. Sad.

الْمَصَّ

2. (This is) a Book sent down unto you (O Muhammad).^{*1} So let there not be in your breast impediment therefrom,^{*2} that you may warn thereby, and a reminder for the believers.^{*3}

كِتَابٌ أَنْزَلْنَا إِلَيْكَ فَلَا يَكُنْ فِي
صَدْرِكَ حَرَجٌ مِّنْهُ لِتُنذِرَ بِهِ
وَذِكْرَىٰ لِلْمُؤْمِنِينَ

*1 Here book is meant this Surah Al-Aaraf.

*2 That is, convey this to the people without any fear and hesitation and without minding in the least how the opponents react to it. Let them be offended, let them ridicule, let them talk derisively and let them show more and more enmity, if they like, but you should deliver the Message and propagate it without any fear and hesitation. Literally, the Arabic word harajun (translated into impediment) means a thick bush, through which it is hard to pass. Figuratively the text will mean: There should be no indecision, doubt or unwillingness in your mind in the face of opposition and obstacles about proceeding further on the way of your mission. The same thing has been expressed in Surah Al-Hijr, Ayat 97, “O Muhammad (peace be upon him), We know that you feel depressed in your heart by what they say (against your mission)”, and in Surah Hud, Ayat 12, “... lest you should leave out a part of what is being revealed to you and be depressed in your heart by the fear that they should say, in answer to your invitation: Why has no treasure been sent down to him and why has no angel come along with him?”

*3 It means that the main object of this Surah is to warn people of the consequences of the rejection of the Message of the Prophet (peace be upon him). Incidentally, it also reminds the believers of the implications of the Message while administering a warning to the disbelievers.

3. Follow (O mankind) that which has been sent down to you from your Lord, and do not follow besides Him any

اتَّبِعُوا مَا أَنْزَلَ إِلَيْكُم مِّن رَّبِّكُمْ وَلَا تَتَّبِعُوا مِن دُونِهِ أَوْلِيَاءَ patrons (protecting friends).^{*4}

Little it is you remember.

قَلِيلًا مَّا تَذَكَّرُونَ ﴿٣﴾

4 This is the main theme of this Surah. It invites the people to accept the Guidance that has been sent down by Allah through His Messengers (peace be upon him). For this alone can impart the true knowledge to man about himself and the universe, and tell him the aim and object of his life and teach him the principles on which to build his morality, social life, culture and civilization. Man should acknowledge Allah alone as his Guide and follow only His guidance that has been sent down through His Messengers. The discourse warns that it is basically wrong to turn to anyone other than Allah for guidance, for this has always resulted in utter ruin and will inevitably lead to ruin. Here the word “patrons” has been used for all those beings whom a man follows instead of Allah, whether he praises them as saints or curses them as satans. (See E.N. 6 of Surah AsShura).

4. And how many a township have We destroyed. So Our torment came on them by night, or while they slept at noon.

وَكَم مِّن قَرْيَةٍ أَهْلَكْنَاهَا فَجَاءَهَا
بِأَسْنَاءٍ بَيِّنَاتٍ أَوْ هُمْ قَائِلُونَ ﴿٤﴾

5. So no cry did they utter, when Our torment came upon them, but that they said: “Indeed, we were transgressors.”^{*5}

فَمَا كَانَ دَعْوَاهُمْ إِذْ جَاءَهُمْ
بِأَسْنَاءٍ إِلَّا أَن قَالُوا إِنَّا كُنَّا
ظَالِمِينَ ﴿٥﴾

5 That is, you can learn a lesson from those communities that discarded the guidance of Allah and followed the guidance of others, and consequently became so degenerate as to be a curse for the earth, which was cleansed of their filth by a scourge of Allah.

The words “Indeed we were transgressors” have been cited here to serve as a warning about two things. First, it is absolutely useless to be sorry for and to confess one’s error after the expiry of the term of respite given for its recompense. It is obvious that the individual and the community show utter lack of sense, if they waste the period of respite in negligence and turn a deaf ear to the warning and admonition of those who invite them to the truth, and realize the horror of their conduct only when the scourge of Allah overtakes them. Secondly, you yourselves have seen so many instances of individuals and communities who were suddenly overtaken by the scourge of Allah when they transgressed the bounds and reached to the end of the term of their respite. You have also seen that after the scourge came upon them, there was no way of escape from it. When this has been the repeated verdict of history, why should a man repeat the same error over and over again, and wait for the ultimate end to offer repentance, when it cannot benefit in the least and can produce only grief and regret.

6. Then surely, We shall question^{*6} those to whom (Our message) had been sent, and surely, We shall question

فَلَنَسْأَلَنَّ الَّذِينَ أُرْسِلَ إِلَيْهِمْ وَلَنَسْأَلَنَّ الْمُرْسَلِينَ

the messengers.*7

6 The repeated occurrence of scourge in Ayat 3 is a conclusive proof of the fact that people will be called to account in the Hereafter, because in this life full punishment is not possible for the crimes committed by wicked individuals and communities. Here it comes merely to put a stop to their further crimes, just as a criminal at large is arrested and deprived of the opportunity for committing further iniquities. The real punishment will be in the Hereafter. The numerous instances of scourge in human history are a clear proof of the fact that man has not been left free to do what he likes. There is the Sovereign above him Who allows him to transgress only up to a certain limit and before he reaches that limit, administers warnings one after the other so that he may give up his wicked ways. But if he does not pay heed, then he is all of a sudden overpowered by a scourge that puts an end to his nefarious activities. If we consider the matter seriously in the light of these inevitable occurrences, we will come to the conclusion that the Sovereign of the universe has most surely appointed a time for calling to account those criminals and doing full justice to them. As the warning in this verse is based on the preceding Ayats 4-5. It begins with "Then" to show that this is a sequel to Ayats 4-5.

7 This shows that Prophethood will be the sole criterion of judgment in the Hereafter. On the one hand, the Messengers will be asked about what they did in conveying the Message to mankind; on the other, those to whom the Message was sent, shall be questioned regarding their response to it. As regards to the individuals or communities to whom the Message did not reach, the Quran is silent as to the criterion by which they will be judged and there is no need for us to probe into this because Allah Himself has not deemed it necessary. But in regard to those individuals and communities who have received the Message, the Quran is quite explicit that they shall be unable to put forward any excuse whatsoever for their disbelief and rejection, their evil deeds and disobedience, and they will be wringing their hands when they shall be driven to Hell with ignominy.

7. Then surely, We shall narrate unto them (the whole account) with knowledge, and indeed We were not absent.

فَلَنَقُصَّنَّ عَلَيْهِم بِعِلْمٍ وَمَا كُنَّا
غَائِبِينَ ﴿٧﴾

8. And the weighing on that Day will be the true (weighing).^{*8} Then those whose scale will be heavy, so they are those who will be the successful.

وَالْوَزْنُ يَوْمَئِذٍ الْحَقُّ فَمَنْ
ثَقُلَتْ مَوَازِينُهُ فَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ
الْمُفْلِحُونَ ﴿٨﴾

8 On that Day weight will be identical with the truth. On the Day of Judgment in the just scales of Allah, nothing but truth will have any weight and vice versa. All that which will have weight will be nothing but truth. The weight of one will increase or decrease in proportion to the truth one will have with oneself and that one will be judged solely by the measure of that weight and by nothing else. The life of falsehood, irrespective of its longevity and apparent grand deeds, will have absolutely no weight in those scales of justice. When the deeds of the worshipers of falsehood will be weighed in these scales, they will see with their own eyes that the grand deeds of their lives have no weight at all. This thing has also been stated in Ayats 103-105 in Surah Al-Kahaf. Those who spent all their endeavors in wrong ways during their life in the world with the presumption that what they were doing was all right, are the losers. These are the people who disbelieved in the revelations of their Lord and their meeting with Him. Therefore all their deeds have been lost; so We will cause these to lose weight on the Day of Resurrection.

9. And those whose scale will be light, so they are those who will lose their own selves,^{*9} for what injustice they used to do with Our revelations.

وَمَنْ خَفَّتْ مَوَازِينُهُ فَأُولَٰئِكَ
الَّذِينَ خَسِرُوا أَنفُسَهُمْ بِمَا
كَانُوا بِآيَاتِنَا يَظْلِمُونَ

*9 In other words, all human deeds will be divided into two categories, the positive and the negative. To know the truth, to acknowledge it, to follow it and to exert in its cause, will be on the positive side; for in the Hereafter these alone will have any weight and value. On the contrary, to neglect the truth or to reject it or to tallow one's desires or other human beings or satans or to exert in the way of falsehood, will be on the negative side. The deeds on this side will not only be valueless by themselves but will also decrease the weight of the positive deeds.

From the above it is quite obvious that success in the Hereafter will depend entirely on this that a man's good deeds should outweigh his evil deeds. The case of the one whose evil deeds far outweigh the good deeds, will be like that of a bankrupt who gives away all his possessions to pay off his debts but still has some outstanding liabilities.

10. And surely, We gave you authority on the earth, and We appointed for you therein livelihoods. Little are the thanks that you give.

وَلَقَدْ مَكَّنَّاكُمْ فِي الْأَرْضِ
وَجَعَلْنَا لَكُمْ فِيهَا مَعِيشَةً قَلِيلًا
مَا تَشْكُرُونَ ﴿١٠﴾

11. And surely, We created you, then We fashioned you, then We said to the angels: “Fall prostrate before Adam.”*¹⁰ So they fell prostrate except Iblis. He was not of those who prostrated.

وَلَقَدْ خَلَقْنَاكُمْ ثُمَّ
صَوَّرْنَاكُمْ ثُمَّ قُلْنَا لِلْمَلَائِكَةِ
اسْجُدُوا لِآدَمَ فَسَجَدُوا إِلَّا
إِبْلِيسَ لَمْ يَكُن مِّنَ
السَّاجِدِينَ ﴿١١﴾

10 See also Ayats 30-36, Surah Al-Baqarah, for comparison.

The wording of Ayat 34 of Surah Al-Baqarah, might have given rise to the doubt that the command given to the angels to bow before Adam was meant for the person of Adam, but the wording of this verse clears that doubt. Here the words preceding the command show that the angels were to bow before Adam as representative of the whole of mankind.

As regards the creation of mankind, first of all, Allah made a plan for it; then He made ready the necessary material for this purpose; then He gave it the human shape, and when Adam came into being in the shape of a living man, then the angels were commanded to bow before him, who was the representative of the whole human race.

The above explanation of the verse is based on some other passages of the Quran. For instance, let us examine Ayats 71-72 of Surah Suad:

“Just recall the time when your Lord said to the angels: I am going to create a man of clay, when I perfect it in every way, and blow into it of My Spirit, all of you should bow down before him.”

Here, too, the same three stages, the creation, the perfection and bringing to life, have been mentioned in a different way. First of all, a man of clay was created, then he was given a shape and proportionate limbs and faculties and then he was brought to life as Adam by the blowing of His Spirit into it.

Let us also examine Ayats 28-29 of Surah Al-Hijra:

“Just recall the time when your Lord said to the angels: I am going to create a man out of clay of molded mud, When I perfect it in every way and blow into it of My Spirit, then all of you should bow down before him.”

It is very difficult for us to understand the exact nature of the creation of the first man, for we cannot comprehend fully how man was made from the material of the earth, how he was shaped and perfected and how the Spirit was blown into him. However, it is quite clear that the story of man's creation as stated in the Quran is quite different from Darwinism. According to this doctrine, the evolution of man has taken place from a non-human and semi-human state by a continuous process of elimination, selection and adaptation, and in this there is no line of demarcation to denote the end of the non-human state and the beginning of the species of man as such. On the contrary, the Quran says that man started his life as man; that in the entire history he has absolutely no connection whatsoever with any non-human state. Allah created him as man from the very first day of his life on the earth and endowed him with wisdom and enlightenment from the very start of his life.

The above two points of view of the story of man lead to two opposite conceptions in regard to man. The adoption of the Darwinian conception reduces man to one of the species of animals: therefore all the principles of human life, including the moral principles, will be based on the principles governing animal life and any animal-like behavior of his will be regarded as natural. Then the only difference between human beings and animals will be the ability of the former to make use of instruments for the provision of their necessities and luxuries. On the contrary, the adoption of the divine conception raises him from the low position of animal to the high position of man, His noblest creation. Then he is no longer a mere talking animal or a social animal but the vicegerent of Allah on this earth. Then what will distinguish him from all other creatures will not be his faculty of speech and his social life, but his moral responsibilities and the trust of the power delegated to him by Allah and his accountability for these to Him. This will change man's entire outlook about his life on this earth and will demand a different philosophy of life and system of morality, law and civilization. Then man will, of his own accord, look upwards in search of the principles of life and not downwards.

Now let us consider an objection to the divine conception of man howsoever high sounding this may be from the moral and psychological points of view. How can we reject the scientific Darwinian conception merely on this account? In answer to this, we put a counter question: has the Darwinian theory of the origin of species been scientifically proved? Only those people who have a cursory knowledge of science may be suffering from this misunderstanding that the theory of evolution has been scientifically proved to be true, but the majority of the scientists know that it is merely a theory in spite of its high-sounding technical terms, and that the arguments in favor of this are not conclusive, but merely hypothetical. The most that can be said in this connection is that both the theories of the creation of the species may be equally possible. Their creation might have taken place according to the Darwinian theory of evolution, or each of the species might have been brought into existence individually.

12. He (Allah) said: "What prevented you that you did not prostrate when I commanded you." He (Iblis) said: "I am better than him.

قَالَ مَا مَنَعَكَ إِلَّا تَسْجُدَ إِذْ
أَمَرْتُكَ قَالَ أَنَا خَيْرٌ مِنْهُ
خَلَقْتَنِي مِنْ نَارٍ وَخَلَقْتَهُ مِنْ

You created me from fire and him You created from clay.”

طِينِ ﴿١٢﴾

13. He (Allah) said: “Then get you down from here. It is not for you to be arrogant herein, so get out. Indeed, you are of those humiliated.”*11

قَالَ فَاهْبِطْ مِنْهَا فَمَا يَكُونُ لَكَ أَنْ تَتَكَبَّرَ فِيهَا فَاخْرُجْ إِنَّكَ مِنَ الصَّاغِرِينَ ﴿١٣﴾

*11 That is, it is obvious that you invite your own disgrace because you have formed too high an opinion of yourself, though you are merely a creation and a servant of your Lord. You have arrogantly disobeyed the command of your Creator, thinking it to be below your dignity. The mere fact that you have shown pride, conceit and haughtiness without any personal claim or title to any excellence of your own, cannot make you great and respectable. It will make you mean, low and disgraceful and you yourself will be responsible for this ignominy.

14. He (Iblis) said: “Reprieve me till the day when they are raised (from the dead).”

قَالَ أَنْظِرْنِي إِلَى يَوْمِ يُبْعَثُونَ ﴿١٤﴾

15. He (Allah) said: “You are indeed of those reprieved.”

قَالَ إِنَّكَ مِنَ الْمُنظَرِينَ ﴿١٥﴾

16. He (Iblis) said: “Because you have sent me astray, I shall surely sit in ambush for them on Your straight path.”

قَالَ فِيمَا أُغْوَيْتَنِي لِأَقْعُدَنَّ لَهُمْ صِرَاطَكَ الْمُسْتَقِيمَ ﴿١٦﴾

17. “Then I shall come upon them, from before them, and from behind them, and from their right, and from their left. And You will not find most of them thankful (unto You).”^{*12}

ثُمَّ لَا تَنبَهُمْ مِنْ بَيْنِ أَيْدِيهِمْ
وَمِنْ خَلْفِهِمْ وَعَنْ أَيْمَانِهِمْ وَعَنْ
شَمَائِلِهِمْ وَلَا تَجِدُ أَكْثَرَهُمْ
شَاكِرِينَ

12 This (Ayats 16-17) is the challenge that was given by Satan to Allah. It means, during the respite You have granted me till the Day of Resurrection, I will exert my utmost to show that man does not deserve the superiority You have bestowed upon him over me. I will show how ungrateful, thankless and disloyal he is.

The respite that was asked by Satan and granted by Allah was not merely for time but also for opportunity to do what he intended to do. What he meant was that he should be given the opportunity for exploiting man's weaknesses to prove that he was unfit for the viceregency. Allah granted his request and this has been elaborated in Surah Al-Isra, Ayats 61-65. According to this Allah granted leave to Satan to do whatever he liked to mislead Adam and his offspring from the right way. He was allowed to practice whatever devices he thought to misguide man. In short, all the ways would remain open for him to mislead man with this proviso. “Indeed you shall have no power over My servants.” (Surah Al-Isra, Ayat 65). This means, you will be allowed to make attempts to involve them in misunderstandings and allure them by false hopes, and by making evil look fair to them, and to invite them to evil ways by the allurements of lusts and vain hopes. But you shall have neither any power to force them to your ways nor to prevent them from following the right way if they intend to follow it. The same thing has also been stated in Surah Ibrahim, Ayat 22, “When on the Day of Resurrection, Allah will pass His judgment on His followers, Satan will say to them, I had no power to force you to follow me. The only thing I did was to invite you to my way; therefore do not blame me now, but blame yourselves.”

Now let us consider the charge of Satan against Allah: “Because you have sent me astray.” What he meant was this: You are responsible for my deviation for You commanded me to bow down before Adam, who is inferior to me in position. As this has injured my self-respect, I have disobeyed You. It is obvious that Satan desired that Allah ought not to have exposed the feelings of pride and rebellion he was nurturing in his heart but ought to have let him go unchecked on the way he was going. As his charge was absurd, Allah did not take any notice of it.

18. He (Allah) said: “Get out from here, disgraced, rejected. As for whoever of them will follow you, surely I will fill hell with you, all together.”

قَالَ أَخْرِجْ مِنْهَا مَذْءُومًا
مَذْحُورًا لِّمَنْ تَبِعَكَ مِنْهُمْ
لَأَمْلَأَنَّ جَهَنَّمَ مِنْكُمْ أَجْمَعِينَ

19. “And O Adam, dwell you and your wife in the Garden and eat thereof as you both wish, and approach not this tree, or you both will become of the wrong doers.”

وَيَعَادَمُ أَسْكُنْ أَنْتَ وَزَوْجُكَ
الْجَنَّةَ فَكُلَا مِنْ حَيْثُ شِئْتُمَا
وَلَا تَقْرَبَا هَذِهِ الشَّجَرَةَ
فَتَكُونَا مِنَ الظَّالِمِينَ ﴿١٩﴾

20. Then Satan whispered to them both that he might uncover unto them that which was hidden from them of their shame (private parts), and he said: “Your Lord did not forbid you (eating) from this tree, except that you should become angels or become of the immortals.”

فَوَسْوَسَ لَهُمَا الشَّيْطَانُ لِيُبْدِيَ
لَهُمَا مَا وَرَىٰ عَنْهُمَا مِنَ
سَوَاءِٰتِهِمَا وَقَالَ مَا نَهَاكُمَا
رَبُّكُمَا عَنِ هَذِهِ الشَّجَرَةِ إِلَّا
أَنْ تَكُونَا مَلَكَيْنِ أَوْ تَكُونَا مِنَ
الْخَالِدِينَ ﴿٢٠﴾

21. And he swore to them both (saying): “Indeed, I am, to you both, among the sincere well wishers.”

وَقَاسَمَهُمَا إِنِّي لَكُمَا لَمِنَ
النَّصِيحِينَ ﴿٢١﴾

22. So he misled them both with deception. Then when they tasted of the tree, their shame (private parts) became manifest to them, and they

فَدَلَّلَهُمَا بِغُرُورٍ ۖ فَلَمَّا ذَاقَا
الشَّجَرَةَ بَدَتْ لَهُمَا سَوْءَاتُهُمَا وَطَفِقَا يَخْصِفَانِ عَلَيْهِمَا مِنْ both began to cover themselves with leaves from the Garden. And their Lord called out to them both: “Did I not forbid you both from that tree, and tell you both that Satan is an open enemy to you both.”

وَرَقِ الْجَنَّةِ وَنَادَاهُمَا رَبُّمَا أَلَمْ
أَنْهَكُمَا عَنْ تِلْكَمَا الشَّجَرَةِ
وَأَقُلَّ لَكُمَا إِنَّ الشَّيْطَانَ لَكُمْ
عَدُوٌّ مُّبِينٌ ﴿٢٢﴾

23. They both said: “Our Lord, we have wronged ourselves. And if You forgive us not, and bestow (not) upon us Your mercy, we shall certainly be of the losers.”^{*13}

قَالَا رَبَّنَا ظَلَمْنَا أَنْفُسَنَا وَإِن لَّمْ
تَغْفِرْ لَنَا وَتَرْحَمْنَا لَنَكُونَنَّ مِنَ
الْخَاسِرِينَ ﴿٢٣﴾

13 In this story the Quran has brought to light the following important facts:

(1) The feelings of shyness and modesty are natural and instinctive. Their first expression is the natural shyness one feels in exposing one’s shameful parts before anyone else. The Quran tells us that this shyness has not been artificially created in man by the evolution of civilization nor has it been acquired by him as has been asserted by some disciples of Satan. This is an instinct that has been inherent in man from the first day of his creation.

(2) The sex instinct is the greatest weakness of the human race. That is why Satan selected this weak spot for his attack on the adversary and devised the scheme to strike at their modesty. Therefore, the first step he took in this direction was to expose their nakedness to them so as to open the door of indecency before them and beguile them into sexuality. Even to this day, Satan and his disciples are adopting the same scheme of depriving the woman of the feelings of modesty and shyness, and they cannot think of any scheme of progress unless they expose and exhibit the woman to all and sundry.

(3) It is human nature not to accept easily an open invitation to wickedness. That is why every Satan has to pose as a sincere well-wisher of man in order to entangle him in his snare.

(4) Man has a great natural yearning for a higher position than the existing one, or for obtaining immortality. That is why Satan succeeded in beguiling them by offering to make them angels or immortals. Even now he first tempts man by the allurements of a higher position and a better condition, and then leads him to follow the way that throws him into the abyss of degeneration.

(5) The Quran refutes the commonly known version that Satan first beguiled Eve and then used her to mislead Adam. It says that Satan beguiled both of them and both of them were deceived. Though the difference between the two versions appears to be trivial, yet a careful appraisal of the two will show that they have far-reaching implications. The first version played a great part in degrading woman morally, legally and socially, whereas the Quranic version has helped raise the status of woman to a high level.

(6) This story makes it, quite clear that whenever man disobeys Allah, he is exposed sooner or later. The nakedness of Adam and Eve became visible because they disobeyed the command of Allah, and not because of any inherent quality of the forbidden tree. At first Allah had made His own special arrangement to cover their nakedness, but when they disobeyed Him by eating the forbidden fruit, He undid that arrangement and they were left to themselves to cover themselves in their own way, if they so desired. And if they had no intention of covering themselves, or if they did not do anything in this connection, Allah did not care at all about the condition in which they moved about. This meant to show that Allah would help them only if they remained obedient to Him. As soon as they would transgress the bounds of His obedience, He would withdraw His protection and leave them to do whatever they liked. The Prophet (peace be upon him) also stated the same thing in several traditions. He used to pray, O my Allah. I expect mercy from Thee: so do not leave me to myself even for a moment.

(7) In his conflict with man, Satan wanted to prove that man was not superior to him in any way. So he beguiled him to eat the forbidden fruit. Though Satan was successful in beguiling him into disobeying his Lord, yet on the whole man proved his moral superiority over Satan. (a) Satan exhibited pride by claiming to be superior to man, but man did not put up such a claim. (b) Satan disobeyed Allah solely because of his pride without any external temptation. On the contrary, man did not commit disobedience because he intended it, but he was beguiled into it by Satan, who approached in the guise of a well-wisher. Even then, he was misled because he imagined that he was going towards a higher position. (c) When Satan was warned of his sin, he did not confess it, nor return to the way of obedience, but became all the more obdurate. On the contrary, when man was warned of his sin, he did not show obduracy, nor arrogance; but felt ashamed and sorry; he confessed it, turned to the way of obedience to his Lord and begged His forgiveness in order to seek His blessing.

(8) This story has been related here mainly to teach the lesson that the right course for the offspring of Adam is to follow His way and not that of Satan. The Satan's way has been clearly made distinct from Adam's way. It is to turn away from Allah's obedience and to adopt the way of rebellion against Him and to persist in it with pride in spite of warning, and to beguile into disobedience those who are treading the path of obedience. Therefore the right way for man is to fight against satanic deceptions and to understand and counteract his cunning devices and to be ever on the guard to protect himself from his evil designs, and to repent, if, in spite of all his precautions; he sometimes falls a victim to Satan and disobeys his Allah. He should, then, confess it, feel sorry for it and be ashamed of it and turn to Allah and make amends for it.

It also meant to warn the people who were opposing the Prophet (peace be upon him), as if to say, the way you are following is the way of Satan, who has made you swerve from the right way. The very fact that you have made the satans from among the jinns and mankind your patrons and that you are persisting in your error, in spite of repeated warnings, shows that you have fallen a victim to your open and permanent enemy. As you are going to be utterly ruined by him and meeting with the same consequences that are in store for Satan, if you are not your own enemies, and if you have any common-sense left in you, you should take a warning and turn to the way of your first parents, Adam and Eve, and repent.

24. He (Allah) said: “Go down (from here),^{*14} one of you an enemy to the other. And for you, on earth there will be a dwelling and provision, for a while.”

قَالَ أَهْبِطُوا بَعْضُكُمْ لِبَعْضٍ
عَدُوٌّ وَلَكُمْ فِي الْأَرْضِ مُسْتَقَرٌّ
وَمَتَعٌ إِلَىٰ حِينٍ ﴿٢٤﴾

14 The words “Go down” should not give rise to the misunderstanding that they were exiled from Paradise as a punishment for their disobedience. The Quran has at several places declared clearly that Allah accepted their repentance and forgave them their sin. And there is nothing in this command that might be regarded as punishment. They were sent to the earth as His vicegerents and this was the very purpose of the creation of man. (Refer to E.Ns 48 and 53 of Surah Al-Baqarah).

25. He (Allah) said: “Therein shall you live, and therein shall you die, and from it you shall be brought out.”

قَالَ فِيهَا تَحْيَوْنَ وَفِيهَا تَمُوتُونَ
وَمِنْهَا تُخْرَجُونَ ﴿٢٥﴾

26. O Children of Adam,^{*15} indeed We have sent down to you garment to cover your shame (yourselves and

يَبْنِي ۗ آدَمَ قَدْ أَنْزَلْنَا عَلَيْكُمْ لِبَاسًا يُورِي سَوَاءَ تِكُمْ وَرِيشًا private parts), and as an adornment. And the garment of righteousness, that is better. Such are among the signs of Allah, that they may remember.

وَلِبَاسُ التَّقْوَىٰ ذَٰلِكَ خَيْرٌ
ذَٰلِكَ مِنْ ءَايَاتِ اللَّهِ لَعَلَّهُمْ
يَذَكَّرُونَ

*15 In this passage, the Quran has used the story of Adam and Eve for the eradication of the evil of nakedness. Satan had seduced the Arabs of the pre-Islamic period into believing that clothing was meant merely for the purpose of decorating and protecting the body from the hardships of weather. Accordingly they totally disregarded its real purpose and paid no heed to cover their shameful parts and did not hesitate to uncover them before others in the open. Above all, they would go around the Kabah in perfect nudity during the Hajj season; and their women were even more shameless than their men. That was because they considered it a religious act and did this as if it were a virtuous deed.

The whole human race has been addressed because this evil was not confined to the Arabs alone but many people of the world had been, and even today are, guilty of this. Therefore the entire human race has been warned, as if to say, “O children of Adam! Nudity is a clear manifestation of the fact that you have been seduced by Satan. As you have discarded the guidance of your Lord, and rejected the Message of His Prophets, you have given yourselves up to Satan who has misled you from the way of natural modesty into that shameful state, in which he intended to mislead your first parents. If you consider it seriously, you will come to the inevitable conclusion that you can neither understand rightly the demands of your nature nor fulfill them without the guidance of the Messengers.”

27. O Children of Adam, let not Satan deceive you, as he caused your parents to get out from the Garden, stripping them of their garments, to show them their shame (private parts). Surely, he sees you, he and his tribe, from where you see them not. Indeed, We have made the devils protecting friends for those who do not believe. ^{*16}

يَبْنِيٰٓ ءَادَمَ لَا يَفْتِنٰكُمْ
الشَّيْطٰنُ كَمَا اَخْرَجَ اٰبَوَيْكُمْ
مِّنَ الْجَنَّةِ يَنْزِعُ عَنْهُمَا لِبَاسَهُمَا
لِيُرِيَهُمَا سَوْءَ اٰتِهِمَا ۗ اِنَّهٗ يَرٰكُمْ
هُوَ وَقَبِيْلُهُ مِنْ حَيْثُ لَا تَرَوْنَهُمْ
ۗ اِنَّا جَعَلْنَا الشَّيْطٰنَ اَوْلِيَآءَ
لِلَّذِيْنَ لَا يُؤْمِنُوْنَ

16 This passage brings out clearly the following facts about clothing:

(1) The need of clothing has not been artificially created in man, but it is an important urge of human nature. That is why Allah has not created a natural covering for the human body, as He has done in the case of all other animals. Instead, He has instilled inherently the feelings of modesty and shyness in human nature. Besides this, He has not made his sex organs as merely sex organs, but has also made them shameful organs, which, by his very nature, he does not like to expose before others. Moreover, He has not given man any ready-made covering for hiding the shameful parts, but has ingrained in the human nature that man should hide them with clothing. This is what Ayat 26 implies, Allah has inspired man with the urge to hide the shameful parts of the body. Therefore man should understand the nature of this inspired urge and make clothing for himself from the material provided by Him.

(2) The fact that in Ayat 26 the covering of the shameful parts precedes the protecting and decorating of the body, is a clear proof that more importance has been attached to the moral than the physical function of clothing. Thus it is obvious that the human nature is quite different from the animal nature. That is why nature has made provision for the protection and decoration of the body of the animals, but has ingrained no urge in them for the covering of their shameful parts. But when the human beings discarded the guidance of Allah and began to follow the guidance of Satan, they reversed the above order as if to say, “Your clothing is merely to protect and decorate your bodies just as the skins cover the bodies of the animals. As regards to the covering of the shameful parts, garments have absolutely no importance, for these are merely sex organs and not shameful organs.”

(3) The garments should not only be the means of covering the shameful parts and of protection and decoration but should also enable man to attain piety. The dress should, therefore, be such as to conceal those parts of the body that should be hidden from others; it should neither be too expensive nor too poor with regard to the position of the wearers; it should not smack of haughtiness nor arrogance nor hypocrisy. Moreover, the garment of piety demands that the male should not wear the female dress and vice versa, and that the Muslims should not imitate blindly the non-Muslims in dress. It is obvious that only those who believe in the guidance of Allah and follow it, can attain the desired standard of the garment of piety. But those who discard the guidance of God and make satans their guides, are misled by them into one error or the other in regard to clothing.

(4) Clothing is one of Allah's many Signs which are spread all over the world and which lead men to the recognition of the reality, provided that one sincerely seeks it. If one seriously considers the above-mentioned three facts about clothing, one can easily understand how clothing is an important sign of Allah.

28. And when they commit an indecent act, they say: "We found our fathers upon it, and Allah has commanded us of it."^{*17} Say: "Indeed, Allah does not command any indecency."^{*18} Do you say about Allah that which you do not know."

وَإِذَا فَعَلُوا فَحِشَةً قَالُوا وَجَدْنَا
عَلَيْهَا ءَابَاءَنَا وَاللَّهُ أَمَرَنَا بِهَا قُلْ
إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا يَأْمُرُ بِالْفَحْشَاءِ
أَتَقُولُونَ عَلَى اللَّهِ مَا لَا
تَعْلَمُونَ

^{*17} This refers to the custom of the Arabs of going around the Kabah in perfect nudity (E.N. 15), considering it to be a religious act, enjoined by Allah.

18 This brief sentence (Allah does not command any indecency) contains a very forceful argument against their beliefs and customs of ignorance. In order to understand the force of the argument, it is necessary to understand two basic things:

(1) Though the Arabs practiced nudism in the performance of certain religious rituals, they considered nakedness itself a shameful thing. That is why, in spite of this custom, no respectable Arab ever chose to practice nudism in a civilized gathering, in the bazaar or before one's kith and kin.

(2) Even though they considered nudism to be a shameful thing, they said that they practiced it because this custom had been enjoined by Allah. This claim was based on the wrong notion that their religion was from Allah. But the Quran refutes their claim by arguing like this: "You yourselves consider nudism to be an indecent thing. Therefore your claim that Allah has enjoined the practice of nudism is absolutely false. As a corollary to this, if this indecent custom is approved by your religion, it is a clear proof of the fact that your religion is not from Allah.

29. Say (O Muhammad): "My Lord has commanded justice. And that you set upright your faces (towards Him) at every place of worship, and call upon Him, making religion sincere for Him. Such as He brought

قُلْ أَمَرَ رَبِّي بِالْقِسْطِ وَأَقِيمُوا
وُجُوهَكُمْ عِندَ كُلِّ مَسْجِدٍ
وَادْعُوهُ مُخْلِصِينَ لَهُ الدِّينَ
كَمَا بَدَأَكُمْ تَعُودُونَ

you into being, so shall you return (unto Him).”*19

*19 In Ayat 29, Allah showed, by contrast, that the religion prescribed by Him had no connection whatsoever with their senseless customs, which were contradictory to the following fundamental principles of His religion:

(1) A man should conduct his life in accordance with justice and righteousness;

(2) He should keep his direction right during worship. That is, it should be exclusively directed towards Allah and there should be absolutely nothing of shirk in it and he should not show any sort of obedience or obeisance or servility to any other than Allah.

(3) He should invoke Allah and none else, for guidance, succor, help and protection. He should, however, dedicate his entire life exclusively to Allah before invoking His help, for it is absurd to lead a life of shirk, disbelief, disobedience, and slavery of others, and then invoke Allah, as if to say, “O God, help us in carrying out successfully our rebellion against Thyself.”

(4) Above all, he should sincerely and firmly believe that he shall be resurrected in the next world, just as he has been given birth in this world, and then shall be called upon to render an account of all his deeds in this world.

30. A group He has guided, and (another) group deserved straying upon them. Surely, they are those who took the devils

فَرِيقًا هَدَىٰ وَفَرِيقًا حَقَّ عَلَيْهِمُ
الضَّلَالَةُ إِنَّهُمْ اتَّخَذُوا الشَّيَاطِينَ أَوْلِيَاءَ مِن دُونِ اللَّهِ for protecting supporters, instead of Allah, and they think that they are guided.

وَيَحْسَبُونَ أَنَّهُمْ مُّهْتَدُونَ

31. O Children of Adam, take your adornment at every place of worship,^{*20} and eat, and drink, and waste not by extravagance. Certainly, He (Allah) does not love the extravagant.^{*21}

يَا بَنِي آدَمَ خُذُوا زِينَتَكُمْ
عِندَ كُلِّ مَسْجِدٍ وَكُلُوا
وَأَشْرَبُوا وَلَا تُسْرِفُوا إِنَّهُ لَا
يُحِبُّ الْمُسْرِفِينَ

20 Here the word zeenat means full and proper dress. The verse exhorts the people to be fully clothed, when they are engaged in worship. For this purpose, it does not suffice to cover merely those parts of the body which the law requires to be hidden in public in addition to the shameful parts. Therefore one should dress properly and decently so as to serve both the purposes, in accordance with his means.

This command is meant to refute the wrong attitude which the ignorant people at that time had adopted, and have been adopting since then. They thought that one should worship Allah in perfect or semi-nudity and should put on a disheveled appearance before Him. In utter contrast to this, Allah not only prohibits nudity but also commands that one should be dressed fully, properly and decently at the time of worship and should put on an appearance that might not have even a tinge of untidiness and indecency.

21 That is, Allah does not like those people who transgress the limits imposed by Him by making the lawful as unlawful. That is why He does not approve of those who put on a disheveled appearance or starve themselves or deprive themselves of the lawful and pure things under the foolish belief that they are pleasing their Allah thereby. He does not demand this as essential for His worship; nay, He is pleased if one wears a decent dress and makes use of the pure things provided by Him. According to His law, the only thing that is sinful is to transgress His limits by making the lawful as unlawful or the unlawful as lawful.

32. Say: (O Muhammad): “Who has forbidden^{*22} the adornment of Allah which He has brought forth for His slaves and the good things of provision.” Say: “They are for those who believe, in the life of this world, (and) exclusively on the Day of Resurrection.”^{*23} Thus, do We explain in detail the revelations for a people who have knowledge.

قُلْ مَنْ حَرَّمَ زِينَةَ اللَّهِ الَّتِي
 أَخْرَجَ لِعِبَادِهِ وَالطَّيِّبَاتِ مِنَ
 الرِّزْقِ قُلْ هِيَ لِلَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا فِي
 الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا خَالِصَةً يَوْمَ
 الْقِيَامَةِ ۗ كَذَلِكَ نُفَصِّلُ
 الْآيَاتِ لِقَوْمٍ يَعْلَمُونَ

22 It should be noted that this question is a typical way which the Quran employs to refute false ways and religions. The argument implied in the question is this: As Allah Himself has created all the pure, good and nice things for His servants, it cannot be His will to make these as unlawful for His servants. Therefore, if a religious, moral or social system makes these things unlawful or detestable or considers these as impediments in the spiritual evolution and progress, this very thing is a clear proof of the fact that it is not from Allah.

*23 That is, as a matter of fact all the good things of life are meant for the believers because they are the faithful servants of their real Owner and deserve the reward of faithfulness. But in this world, these are given to the unfaithful also because this world is for the trial of mankind. That is why, sometimes, the unfaithful receive even a greater share than the faithful. But in the Hereafter, where these good things will be distributed on the basis of merit alone, all the good and pure things shall be reserved for the faithful only. On the other hand, the unfaithful, who adopted the attitude of rebellion against Allah, in spite of the fact that they lived on His provisions in this world, shall not get any share in the Hereafter.

33. Say (O Muhammad):
“My Lord has only forbidden indecencies, what is apparent of them, and what is secret,^{*24} and sin,^{*25} and oppression without right,^{*26} and that you associate with Allah that for which He has not sent down authority, and that you say about Allah that which you do not know.”

قُلْ إِنَّمَا حَرَّمَ رَبِّيَ الْفَوَاحِشَ
مَا ظَهَرَ مِنْهَا وَمَا بَطَنَ وَالْإِثْمَ
وَالْبَغْيَ بِغَيْرِ الْحَقِّ وَأَنْ تُشْرِكُوا
بِاللَّهِ مَا لَمْ يُنَزَّلْ بِهِ سُلْطَانًا
وَأَنْ تَقُولُوا عَلَى اللَّهِ مَا لَا
تَعْمُونَ

*24 Refer to E.Ns 128 and 131 of Surah Al-Anaam.

25 The literal meaning of ithm is negligence. The sense of sin has entered into this word from athimah which means a she camel that can run fast but willfully does not do so. Likewise, that man who neglects to obey the commandments of his Lord, in spite of his ability to do so, shall be sinful for he has no intention of pleasing Him.

26 It will be rebellion against the truth, if one transgresses the prescribed limits and enters into the bounds where he has no right. Likewise all such people as transgress the bounds prescribed for the servants of Allah and follow their own will, behave as masters in His kingdom and encroach on the rights that belong to Allah alone, are really rebels against Allah.

34. And to every nation is a term appointed, then when their term is reached, neither can they delay (it) an hour, nor can they advance (it).^{*27}

وَلِكُلِّ أُمَّةٍ أَجَلٌ فَإِذَا جَاءَ أَجْلُهُمْ لَا يَسْتَأْخِرُونَ سَاعَةً وَلَا يَسْتَقْدِمُونَ

27 “And to every nation is a term appointed”, it does not mean a fixed period of time in terms of years, months and days, after the expiry of which that community is exterminated without fail. This means that a moral limit has been set to the opportunity that is allowed to every community for showing its performance as a respectable community. This is determined by the ratio between its good works and its evil works. Allah tolerates a community as long as the ratio of its good works to its evil works does not fall below the normal limits. When it transgresses those limits that wicked community is given no more respite. In order to grasp this see Ayat 4, 10 and 12 of Surah Nooh.

35. O Children of Adam, whenever there come to you messengers from amongst you, narrating to you My revelations, then whosoever fears (Allah), and becomes righteous, so there shall be no fear upon them, nor shall they grieve.

أَصْحَابُ النَّارِ ۗ هُمْ فِيهَا
خَالِدُونَ ﴿٣٦﴾

*28 The Quran has stated the thing contained in Ayat 36 in every place where the mention of the sending down of Adam and Eve from Paradise has been made. (See Surah Al-Baqarah, Ayats 38-39 and Surah Taha, Ayats 123-124). Same thing is mentioned here. (See E.N. 69 of Surah Aal-Imran).

37. So who does greater wrong than he who invents against Allah a lie, or denies

فَمَنْ أَظْلَمُ مِمَّنِ افْتَرَىٰ عَلَىٰ

His revelations. For such, will reach them their appointed portion of the Decrees.*29 Until, when Our messengers (the angels of death) come to them to take their souls, they (the angels) will say: "Where (now) are those whom you used to call besides Allah." They will say: "They have departed from us." And they will testify against themselves that they were disbelievers.

اللَّهُ كَذِبًا أَوْ كَذَّبَ بِعَايَاتِهِ
 أُولَئِكَ يَنَاهُمْ نَصِيحُهُمْ مِّنَ

 قَالُوا ضَلُّوا عَنَّا وَشَهِدُوا عَلَيَّ
 أَنفُسِهِمْ أَنَّهُمْ كَانُوا كَافِرِينَ

*29 That is, they shall live here in this world for the term that has been set for them and get their destined share, good or bad, to live this life.

38. He (Allah) will say: "Enter you in the (company of) nations who had passed away before you, of the jinn and mankind, into the Fire." Every time a nation enters, it curses its sister (nation), until when they have all been made to follow one another therein, the last of them will say to the first of them:

قَالَ ادْخُلُوا فِي أُمَّةٍ قَدْ خَلَتْ
 مِن قَبْلِكُمْ مِنَ الْجِنِّ وَالْإِنسِ
 فِي النَّارِ كُلَّمَا دَخَلَتْ أُمَّةٌ
 لَعَنَتْ أُخْتَهَا حَتَّىٰ إِذَا
 آدَارَكُوا فِيهَا جَمِيعًا قَالَتْ
 أَخْرَبَهُمْ لِأَوْلَانِهِمْ رَبَّنَا هَؤُلَاءِ

“Our Lord, these led us astray, so give them double punishment of the Fire.” He will say: “For each one there is double (torment), but you do not know.”*30

أَضَلُّونَا فَعَاتِبِهِمْ عَذَابًا ضِعْفًا
مِّنَ النَّارِ قَالَ لِكُلِّ ضِعْفٍ
وَلَكِن لَّا تَعْلَمُونَ

*30 There is a double chastisement for every generation for the sins it committed as successor, and for the sins it left for others as predecessor, because it followed the heritage of evil left by its predecessors and then left the heritage of evil for its successors. Therefore if its predecessor shares a part of the burden of responsibility for its sins, it also shares a part of the burden of the responsibility for the legacy of the sins left by it for its successors.

There is a tradition to this effect: The one who initiates an innovation, that is disapproved of by Allah and His Messenger, shall be held responsible for the sins of all those people, who followed his innovation, without lessening in the least the burden of the responsibility for the sin committed by the inventor. Here is another tradition: Whenever a man is killed unjustly anywhere in the world, a part of the guilt of this murder is debited against the account of that son of Adam who was the first to murder his own brother, because he was the first to open the way of murder.

It is clear from the above that the person or the group or the community that starts the wrong idea or a wrong attitude, is not only responsible for his or its own error, but is also partly responsible for the sins of all those who are influenced by the error, and as long as the effects of that error continue to influence others, they are credited to his or its account. This also shows that an individual is not only personally accountable for his own good or bad actions but also for its effects on the lives of others.

As an illustration, let us take the case of an adulterer. All those whose bad example, or bad company or evil inducement misled him to adultery, share the responsibility for him becoming an adulterer and this responsibility extends above to all other persons, from whom those persons received this evil heritage. Thus it will go further and further upwards till it reaches the first person who initiated this evil way of sexuality.

Then the adulterer himself shall have to bear the responsibility of his guilt, because he committed this in utter disregard of many deterrents. He did not discriminate between good and bad: he did not pay attention to the voice of his conscience: he did not resort to the power of self-control within him: he did not make use of the knowledge of good and bad he had received from virtuous people and of their noble examples, and he did not take warning from the evil consequences of sexual immorality. In the face of all the above factors, that could have restrained him from adultery, he gave himself up to the blind sex urge that wanted its satisfaction in any available way.

Now let us consider the case of the adulterer from the point of view of its evil influences and heritage in relation to his contemporaries and successors. The responsibility of his guilt does not remain confined to his own acts of adultery but extends to all those evil acts that were prompted and influenced by these. At first he himself catches the infection of a venereal disease and then communicates it to his own generation and to countless successive generations: he causes illegitimate births and then throws the burden of nourishment on others and makes them unlawful inheritors at the expense of the lawful inheritors, and the evil results of this injustice may continue to influence countless generations. Moreover, he seduces some innocent girl and induces her to surrender herself to sexual immorality, and then she, in her turn, spreads the evil to others and causes the ruin of countless families. Then he sets a bad example for his own children, his relatives and his friends and for the other people of his society and becomes a cause of the moral ruin of many persons, who, in their turn, leave the evil heritage, with all its evil influences on the countless succeeding generations. Therefore justice demands that a part of the responsibility for all these evil results should be laid on him as long as the effects last.

The case of the heritage of virtue may also be considered in the same way. All those persons, up to the first man, who left the heritage of virtue for us are entitled to a share of its reward. Then we shall also be entitled to a share of its reward, if we exert to preserve and increase it. Then we shall also be entitled to a share of its reward, if we leave behind us the legacy of virtue for others to follow, as long as its good effect goes on influencing mankind and they benefit from it.

Every sensible man will admit that the manner of retribution presented by the Quran is the only right and perfect way of doing full justice. The right understanding of this fact will help remove the misunderstandings of those who regard this worldly life to be quite sufficient for retribution, and also of those who believe that this purpose is achieved by the process of the transmigration of souls. As a matter of fact, neither of the groups has fully grasped the extent, the effects and the consequences of human acts, nor the full requirements of just retribution. Obviously it is not possible today to punish here the countless generations, which contributed to the good or bad acts of a person during his life in this world. Moreover the effects of his good or bad acts do not cease with his death, but will continue through the countless centuries and will go on influencing the lives of countless people after him. Justice requires that these should be credited to his account as long as the effects last. Therefore the requital of justice is impossible in this worldly life, when even the smallest part of the effects of his acts has not yet appeared. Then there are not enough means for awarding fully the rewards or the punishments for the acts of a man in the limited life of this world and its limited means. Just imagine the extent of the guilt of a man who kindles the fire of a world war and destroys and ruins the lives of millions of people and leaves a legacy of evil that will continue to influence the lives of billions of people for centuries. Can any punishment in this world, physical or moral, or spiritual, however severe that may be, fully meet the requirements of justice? Or can any reward in this world, however great, fully recompense a man for his lifelong work for the good of humanity, which goes on benefiting millions of people for thousands of years?

Anyone, who will consider the problem of retribution from this point of view, will come to the inevitable conclusion that for the requital of full justice, there should be another world, where all the generations should be mustered together with their accounts: then there should be an all-knowing and all-aware judge to administer justice and there should also be human beings with eternal lives to receive the reward or punishment, as the case may be, and all kinds of means for the dispensation of justice as well.

This way of thinking also helps expose the basic error of the doctrine of transmigration, which has led its advocates to believe in the passage of souls after death into other bodies according to their merits or demerits. This is because they have not been able to grasp the fact that for the retribution of the acts of this short worldly life, a thousand times longer life is required. It is thus obvious that another re-born life of the same length in this world will not help solve the problem of retribution because it is quite insufficient for the purpose. On the contrary, this will make it all the more complex, for the circle of transmigration will go on multiplying such acts good or bad and increasing their effects more and more in an endless chain. Thus, according to the doctrine of transmigration, the account of person will remain unsettled forever.

39. And the first of them will say to the وَقَالَتْ أُولَئِهِمْ لِأُخْرَانِهِمْ فَمَا

last of them: “Then you had no favor over us, so taste the punishment for what you used to earn.”*31

كَانَ لَكُمْ عَلَيْنَا مِنْ فَضْلٍ
فَذُوقُوا الْعَذَابَ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ

تَكْسِبُونَ

*31 The Quran has described, at several places, this sort of altercation between the dwellers of Hell. For instance, in Surah Saba, Ayats 31-33, it says: “And if you could see when the wrongdoers will be made to stand before their Lord, returning the word (blame), some of them to others. Those who were oppressed (in the world) will say to those who were arrogant: “If (it was) not for you, we would have been believers. Those who were arrogant will say to those who were oppressed: “Did we drive you away from the guidance after when it had come to you. But you were criminals.” In simple words, it means, you yourselves are to blame for discarding the guidance. You fell an easy prey to the greed with which we tempted you, to become our slaves, because you yourselves were greedy for wealth. When we wanted to buy your conscience, you sold it because you yourselves were eager to sell it: when we invited you to the worship of materialism, worldliness, nationalism and the like, you accepted our invitation, because you had an aversion of God worship and a liking for this worldliness. That is why you rejected the invitation of the worshipers of Allah, and accepted ours. When we deluded you with false religious things, you at once accepted these, because you yourselves were cherishing the same in yow hearts. For instance, you were in search of such gods as might fulfill your desires without demanding any moral obligations from you, and we supplied such ones, and you accepted them. You were in search of such intercessors as might take the responsibility for your entry into Paradise, allowing you to do whatever pleased you in the world, without minding the guidance of Allah. So we invented such ones and you followed us: you were in search of such religions as might guarantee short-cuts to salvation, freeing you from the hardships, restrictions and sacrifices for the cause of Allah, and permitting you to enjoy all sorts of indulgences, and we invented such easy and pleasant religions for you, and you followed them. In short, we alone are not responsible for your misguidance but you, too, share it equally with us: if we supplied misguidance, you bought it of your own accord.

40. Surely, those who deny Our revelations and turn away in arrogance from them, the gates of heaven will not be opened for them, and they will not enter the Garden until the camel goes through the eye of the needle. And thus do We recompense the criminals.

And we could not truly have been led aright, were it not that Allah had guided us. Indeed, the messengers of our Lord did come with the truth." And it will be called out to them that: "This is the Garden. You are made to inherit it for what you used to do."*³³

الْجَنَّةُ أُورِثْتُمُوهَا بِمَا كُنتُمْ
تَعْمَلُونَ ﴿٤٣﴾

32 It means that if there had been any hostile or unfriendly feelings or misunderstandings between good people in this world, they would all be removed in the Hereafter. Their hearts will be quite free from enmity, and they will enter Paradise like sincere friends. So much so that they will not be displeased to see their opponents, rivals, critics, etc., sharing the joys of Paradise along with themselves. Once when Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) recited this verse, he exclaimed, I do expect that Allah will remove the misunderstandings between me and Uthman and Talhah and Zubair (may Allah be pleased with them all).

If we consider this verse in its wider meaning, we come to the conclusion that Allah will not like to take His good people to Paradise with any blot on their characters but He will cleanse them by His grace before their entrance into Paradise. Thus they will enter it in a perfectly pure condition.

33 This refers to a fine happening that will take place on the occasion of the entry of the faithful into Paradise. On the one hand, they will not be boastful that they have gained Paradise by their good works, but will be grateful and thankful and will praise Allah, saying, “All this is due to Allah’s grace, for we did not deserve this.” On the other, Allah will not even hint that it was due to His favor, but will say, “You have gained this by your services and in return for yow own earnings. This is not a piece of charity but a reward of your own efforts, a fruit of yow own labor; it is a respectable living that you have earned.” To add to His grace, Allah does not say, “We will reply” but “And it will be called out to them.”

In fact the servants of Allah behave like this in this world also. Unlike the workers of iniquity, they do not become proud of any worldly success and say, “This is the result of our own ability, work and effort,” and then grow even more rebellious, and spread disorder in the world. In contrast to these rebels, the true servants of Allah consider every worldly success as His favor and are thankful and grateful to Him. The more they are favored by Him, the more humble, generous and merciful they become. They do not rely on their good works and say, “We are quite sure that we shall get salvation.” Instead of this, they beg Allah’s pardon for their shortcomings and rely on His grace and mercy, and they are always filled with the fear lest their accounts should turn out to be unfavorable against them.

A tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) related by Bukhari and Muslim, confirms the above mentioned thing. Once he warned his companions, saying, “You should know that you will not get entry into Paradise merely by virtue of your works”. They asked, “Is it true of you also?” He replied, “Yes, I, too, shall enter Paradise merely by Allah’s grace and mercy.”

44. And the dwellers of the Garden will call out to the dwellers of the Fire (saying): “We have indeed found that which our Lord promised us (to be) the truth. So have

46. And between them will be a barrier. And on AlAaraf (the Heights) will be men who would recognize all by their marks. And they will call out to the companions of the Garden that: “Peace be on you.” (And at that time) they (men on AlAaraf) will not yet have entered it, although they will hope (to enter it).^{*34}

وَبَيْنَهُمَا حِجَابٌ وَعَلَى الْأَعْرَافِ
رِجَالٌ يَعْرفُونَ كُلًّا بِسِيمَتِهِمْ
وَنَادُوا أَصْحَابَ الْجَنَّةِ أَنْ سَلِّمُوا
عَلَيْكُمْ لَمْ يَدْخُلُوهَا وَهُمْ
يَطْمَعُونَ ﴿٤٦﴾

34 The people on “the Heights” will be those with pending cases. While their positive sides will not be strong enough as to merit admission into Paradise, their negative sides will not be so weak as to condemn them to Hell. Therefore they will wait for the decisions of their cases on “the Height” between Paradise and Hell.

47. And when their (people on AlAaraf) eyes are turned towards the companions of the Fire, they will say: “Our Lord, do not place us with the wrongdoing people.”

﴿ وَإِذَا صُرِفَتْ أَبْصَارُهُمْ تِلْقَاءَ أَصْحَابِ النَّارِ قَالُوا رَبَّنَا لَا تَجْعَلْنَا مَعَ الْقَوْمِ الظَّالِمِينَ ﴾
٤٧

48. And the companions on AlAaraf will call unto men whom they would recognize by their marks, saying: “Of what benefit to you were your gathering (of wealth), and that in which you were arrogant.”

﴿ وَنَادَى أَصْحَابُ الْأَعْرَافِ رِجَالًا يَعْرِفُونَهُمْ بِسِيمَاهُمْ قَالُوا مَا أَغْنَىٰ عَنْكُمْ جَمْعُكُمْ وَمَا كُنْتُمْ تَسْتَكْبِرُونَ ﴾

49. Are they those, of whom you swore that Allah would not show them mercy. (Unto them it has been said): “Enter you the Garden. No fear shall be upon you nor shall you grieve.”

﴿ أَهْتُولَاءِ الَّذِينَ أَقْسَمْتُمْ لَا يَنَالُهُمُ اللَّهُ بِرَحْمَةٍ ۚ ادْخُلُوا الْجَنَّةَ لَا خَوْفٌ عَلَيْكُمْ وَلَا أَنْتُمْ تَحْزَنُونَ ﴾
٤٩

50. And the companions of the Fire will call to the companions of the Garden (saying) that: “Pour on us some water or something of what Allah has provided

﴿ وَنَادَى أَصْحَابُ النَّارِ أَصْحَابَ الْجَنَّةِ أَنْ أَفِضُوا عَلَيْنَا مِنَ الْمَاءِ أَوْ مِمَّا you.” They (the dwellers of the Garden) will say: “Indeed, Allah has forbidden both to the disbelievers.”

رَزَقَكُمْ اللَّهُ قَالُوا إِنَّ اللَّهَ
حَرَّمَهُمَا عَلَى الْكَافِرِينَ

51. Those who took their religion as an amusement and play, and the life of the world deceived them. So this day, We shall forget them, just as they forgot meeting of this Day of theirs. And as they used to repudiate Our signs. ^{*35}

الَّذِينَ اتَّخَذُوا دِينَهُمْ لَهْوًا
وَلَعِبًا وَغَرَّتْهُمُ الْحَيَاةُ الدُّنْيَا
فَالْيَوْمَ نَنْسَهُمْ كَمَا نَسُوا
لِقَاءَ يَوْمِهِمْ هَذَا وَمَا كَانُوا
بِعَايَتِنَا يَجْحَدُونَ

35 From this dialogue between the inmates of Paradise and the inmates of Hell and the people on the Heights, we can form some idea of how strong the faculties of men will become in the next world. The faculty of sight will become so strong that the people of Paradise and those of Hell and on the Heights will be able to see one another whenever they will desire to do so. Likewise their faculties of speech and hearing will grow so strong that the people of the three different worlds will be able to carry on their dialogues without any hindrance. From this and the like descriptions of the next world in the Quran; we learn that the laws of life in the Hereafter will be quite different from the physical laws of this world, though there will be no change in our personalities. It is a pity that such descriptions in the Quran and Hadith have made certain people skeptical because they cannot imagine that there can be another world with greater potentialities than the limited physical world they live in. As they judge everything by the standards of this world, they make fun of such things they come across in the Quran and Hadith. But the fact is that the potentialities of life are not limited as their narrow minds are.

52. And certainly, We have brought to them a Book which We have explained in detail with knowledge,^{*36} a guidance and a mercy for a people who believe.^{*37}

وَلَقَدْ جِئْنَاهُمْ بِكِتَابٍ فَصَّلْنَاهُ
عَلَىٰ عِلْمٍ هُدًى وَرَحْمَةً لِّقَوْمٍ
يُؤْمِنُونَ

36 That is, the Quran gives details of the reality and of the correct attitude man should adopt in the life of this world and of the basic principles of the right way of life. Then it may also be noted that these details are not based on guesswork or conjecture or whim but on pure and accurate knowledge.

37 The Quran is guidance because its teachings are so clear that they show the right way to anyone who ponders over them. Moreover, the practical effects of that guidance can be seen in the lives of those who believe in it and follow its teachings. And it is really a great blessing because it brings a blessed change in the mental attitude, the moral outlook and the character of the one who accepts it. The truth of this was being proved by the wonderful changes that were taking place in the lives of the companions of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

53. Are they waiting except for its fulfillment.*³⁸ On the day when comes the fulfillment thereof, those who were forgetful thereof before will say: “Indeed, the messengers of our Lord did come with the truth. So are there any intercessors for us, so they might intercede for us. Or could we be sent back, so that we might do other than what we used to do.”*³⁹ Indeed, they have lost their own selves, and has gone away from them that which they used to fabricate.

هَلْ يَنْظُرُونَ إِلَّا تَأْوِيلَهُ ۗ يَوْمَ
يَأْتِي تَأْوِيلَهُ يَقُولُ الَّذِينَ
نَسُوهُ مِنْ قَبْلُ قَدْ جَاءَتْ رُسُلُ
رَبِّنَا بِالْحَقِّ فَهَلْ لَنَا مِنْ
شُفَعَاءَ فَيَشْفَعُوا لَنَا أَوْ نُرَدُّ
فَنَعْمَلْ غَيْرَ الَّذِي كُنَّا نَعْمَلُ ۗ
قَدْ خَسِرُوا أَنْفُسَهُمْ وَضَلَّ عَنْهُمْ
مَا كَانُوا يَفْتَرُونَ ﴿٥٣﴾

38 In other words, it means: The distinction between right and wrong has been made clear in the most rational manner, but there are people who do not see it; they have the examples of those who have been totally changed for the better by following the right way, though they were just like them before this, yet they do not learn any lesson from this. Such people will admit their error only when they will suffer the consequences of their wrong ways. Their case is similar to the case of a patient, who does not follow the advice of the physician, nor does he learn a lesson from the other patients, who regained their health by following the instructions of the physician, when they were suffering from the same disease. Such a patient will admit that the ways of life he was following were fatal but only on his death bed.

39 When they will see, with their own eyes, the consequences of the rejection of the message of the Prophets, they will say, "Now that we have witnessed that reality, which we denied at the time, when the Messengers informed us about it, we will behave in a different way if we are sent back to the same world. For response to such a request, see Surah Al-Anaam, Ayats 27, 28; Surah Ibrahim, Ayats 44, 45; Surah As-Sajadah, Ayats 12, 13; Surah Fatir, Ayat 37; Surah Az-Zumur, Ayats 56-59; Surah AlMomin, Ayats 11, 12.

54. Indeed, your Lord is Allah, He who created the heavens and the earth in six days,^{*40} then He firmly established on the Throne.^{*41} He covers the night with the day, which is to follow it in haste. And the sun, and the moon, and the stars, He has made subservient by His command. Surely, His is the creation and the command.^{*42} Blessed be Allah, the Lord of the worlds.^{*43}

إِنَّ رَبَّكُمْ اللَّهُ الَّذِي خَلَقَ
السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضَ فِي سِتَّةِ
أَيَّامٍ ثُمَّ اسْتَوَىٰ عَلَى الْعَرْشِ
يُغْشِي اللَّيْلَ النَّهَارَ يَطْلُبُهُ
حَثِيثًا وَالشَّمْسَ وَالْقَمَرَ
وَالنُّجُومَ مُسَخَّرَاتٍ بِأَمْرِهِ ۗ أَلَا
لَهُ الْخَلْقُ وَالْأَمْرُ ۗ تَبَارَكَ اللَّهُ رَبُّ
الْعَالَمِينَ

*40 Here the word “day” has been used in the sense of period. This word has been used in the same sense in Surah Al-Hajj, Ayat 47: “The fact is that with your Lord a day is equal to one thousand years as you reckon”, and also in Al-Maarij, Ayat 4: “Angels and Gabriel ascend to Him in a day which is equal to fifty thousand years”. Allah alone Knows the real significance of it. (See E.Ns 11-15 of Surah Az-Zumur).

*41 It is very difficult for us to comprehend the nature of “He firmly established on the Throne.” It is just possible that after the creation He firmly established on the Throne of the universe, He fixed some place as the center of His limitless Kingdom, which may have been called “The Throne”, from where He is showering His blessings on the whole universe and it is also possible that the Arabic word AlArsh may have been used figuratively to express His Sovereignty and “Seating Himself on the Throne” may mean “Taking the reins of His Kingdom in His hands”. Whatever be the details of the text, the Quran mentions this to impress the fact that Allah is not only the Creator of the universe but also its Sovereign as well as Ruler, that after its creation He has not cut off all connections with it and has not become disinterested in its affairs, but is practically governing each and every minute part of it; all the powers of Sovereignty are, in fact, in His hands; that everything is under His command and is obedient to Him, and the destinies of everyone and everything are permanently in His hands. In this way the Quran cuts across the basic misunderstanding that gives rise to the errors like shirk and rebellion against Him. The creed that God has nothing to do with the affairs of the universe, inevitably leads to the belief that someone else is the maker or destroyer of one's destiny, and, therefore, one should bow down before that one or one should consider one's own self to be its maker and become independent of Him.

In this connection, it is worthwhile to consider the use of words akin to "kingdom" and "kingship", which the Quran usually employs to express the relation between Allah and man. Though it is quite obvious that the Quran has employed such words, technical terms, figures of speech and a style as may be within the comprehension of human beings, yet some critics with perverted minds have inferred from this use the strange conclusion that this Book is the invention of Muhammad (peace be upon him). The line of their argument is this: "The frequent use of the words like "king" shows that the author of the Quran was irresistibly influenced by the system of kingship that was prevalent all around him during the period when this Book was composed; therefore its author cannot be Allah, Who knows that there can be no comparison between Him and a king, etc. etc." Obviously, this argument is very flimsy. The conception of the Sovereign of the earth and the heavens put forward in the Quran clearly shows that in contrast to the mortal weak kings of this world, having only a limited authority for a limited period, the King, Allah, is Eternal, All-Powerful, having the supreme Authority, above all others and for all times. This conception of the Sovereignty of King Allah falsifies the very basis of the theory of the critics, for no human king can fit in the conception of the King laid down in the Quran. For in this conception there is no scope for anyone to claim or assume powers of sovereignty like the King, because it requires that man should acknowledge Allah alone as the sole object of worship in the religious sense and the sole sovereign in the civil and political sense.

42 This is a further explanation of the meanings of “He firmly established on the Throne.” Allah is not only the Creator but is also the Sovereign and Ruler of the universe. After its creation, He has neither relinquished its rule in favor of others nor has He made the whole of His creation or any part of it independent, but He has kept in His own hands the functioning of the entire universe. Day and night are not following each other by themselves but by the command of Allah, Who has the power, to stop or change the present system totally. Likewise, the sun, the moon and the stars possess no inherent power of their own but are entirely under His command, and are functioning perforce like slaves under His orders.

43 The original meaning of barkat (blessing) is growth, increase and development along with greatness, exaltation, permanence and stability. Besides all these meanings, the word carries with it the idea of goodness and welfare. Thus the text means, His good qualities and excellences are boundless; His beneficence spreads everywhere; He is the possessor of the highest position that has no limits. Above all, all His excellences are absolutely permanent and stable, without decay or decline." For further explanation see E.Ns

1-19 of Surah Al-Furqan.

55. Call upon your Lord humbly and in secret. Surely, He does not love those who trespass beyond bounds.

أَدْعُوا رَبَّكُمْ تَضَرُّعًا وَخُفْيَةً
إِنَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ الْمُعْتَدِينَ

56. And do not cause corruption in the earth after its reformation.*⁴⁴ And call on Him with fear and hope.*⁴⁵ Surely, Allah's mercy is near to those who do good.

وَلَا تُفْسِدُوا فِي الْأَرْضِ بَعْدَ
إِصْلَاحِهَا وَادْعُوهُ خَوْفًا وَطَمَعًا
إِنَّ رَحْمَتَ اللَّهِ قَرِيبٌ مِّنَ
الْمُحْسِنِينَ

44 According to the Quran, the root cause of disorder in the world is that man breaks away from the service of God and, giving himself up to the service of his own self or of others and discarding His guidance, adopts the guidance of others instead for the building up of his morality, society and culture. As this creates disorder and gives birth to many other kinds of disorder, the Quran aims at its eradication. At the same time it warns that disorder is not inherent in the system of the world so that it may be replaced by order. But it so happens that disorder overwhelms the order that was set in it, as a result of man's ignorance and rebellion. In other words, man did not start his life on the earth in ignorance, barbarism, shirk, rebellion and moral disorder, and then reforms were introduced afterwards to remove them by degrees. The fact is that he started life in peace and order, which was corrupted afterwards by the follies and mischief of the evil doers. Then Allah sent His Messengers to eradicate that disorder and to set right the system of life to bring it back to the original state. That is why they always invited the people to adopt the same old system of peace and order, and to refrain from spreading disorder.

It should also be noted that the point of view of the Quran in this matter is quite different from that of the evolutionists who assert that man has gradually come out of darkness into light and his life is being reformed by degrees. In contrast to this, the Quran declares that Allah settled man on the earth in full light and started his life with a system based on peace and order. Then afterwards man himself repeatedly followed the guidance of Satan and went into darkness and corrupted the original right and orderly system. Then Allah sent His Messengers over and over again to invite the people to come out of darkness into light and to refrain from disorder. (Refer to E.N. 230, Surah Al-Baqarah).

*45 It has become clear from this sentence that the chaos referred to above is that man should adopt someone else as his guardian, protector and helper and invoke that one for help. The order can, therefore, be restored by acknowledging Allah as the sole Guardian and Protector and Helper and by invoking Him alone.

57. And it is He who sends forth the winds as good tidings in advance of His mercy. Until when they

وَهُوَ الَّذِي يُرْسِلُ الرِّيحَ بُشْرًا
بَيْنَ يَدَيْ رَحْمَتِهِ حَتَّى إِذَا carried a cloud heavy (with rain), We drive it to a land that is dead. Then We cause water to descend thereon. Then We bring forth therewith fruits of every kind. Thus shall We bring forth the dead, that you may take heed.

أَقَلَّتْ سَحَابًا ثِقَالًا سُقْنَهُ لِبَلَدٍ
مَيِّتٍ فَأَنْزَلْنَا بِهِ الْمَاءَ
فَأَخْرَجْنَا بِهِ مِنْ كُلِّ الثَّمَرَاتِ
كَذَلِكَ نُخْرِجُ الْمَوْتَى لَعَلَّكُمْ
تَذَكَّرُونَ

58. And the good land, comes forth its vegetation by the permission of its Lord. And that which is sterile, come forth nothing except sparsely.^{*46} Thus do We explain the signs for a people who give thanks.

وَالْبَلَدُ الطَّيِّبُ يَخْرِجُ نَبَاتُهُ
بِإِذْنِ رَبِّهِ وَالَّذِي خَبثَ لَا
يَخْرِجُ إِلَّا نَكِدًا كَذَلِكَ
نُصَرِّفُ الْآيَاتِ لِقَوْمٍ يَشْكُرُونَ

46 It should be noted here that the allegorical use of rain and its blessings etc. does not only aim to describe the powers of Allah and to give a proof of the life-after-death (though that has been mentioned incidentally). Its main object is to present Prophethood and its blessings, as also how it helps to distinguish good from bad, pure from impure. The coming of the Messenger and the sending down of the guidance and the teachings have been likened to the winds laden with clouds and the life giving rainfall. Just as the rainfall brings back to life the dead soil, which begins to bring forth the treasures of life, so the teachings of the Prophet and his guidance bring back to life the dead humanity, which begins to pour out the treasures of goodness. Further on, the allegory points out that all these blessings profit only that soil which is intrinsically rich and fertile, and is waiting only for rainfall to bring forth its treasures. In the same way, only those people can benefit from the blessings of the guidance and teachings of the Messengers, who had the required capability but could not develop their latent qualities for lack of right guidance. As regards the mischievous and impure people, they are incapable of benefiting from the blessings of Prophethood for they are just like the bad soil, which brings forth only useless thorny bushes, if rain falls on it. That is why all their hidden mischief come into full play at the coming of the Messenger. The lesson derived from this allegory has been illustrated by citing a series of historical events in the succeeding passages, and it has been shown that on the coming of every Messenger in every age, mankind divided itself into two groups. One group consisted of pure and capable people, who benefited from the guidance of the Messengers, developed their capabilities to the fullest and brought forth the fruit of goodness. The second group that consisted of impure people, displayed all their impurities in their encounter with the Messengers, and was sorted out, just as alloy is separated from gold, as a useless and worthless metal.

59. Indeed, We sent Noah to his people,^{*47} so he said:

لَقَدْ أَرْسَلْنَا نُوحًا إِلَىٰ قَوْمِهِ

“O my people, worship Allah. You do not have any god other than Him.^{*48} Certainly, I fear for you the punishment of a great day.”

فَقَالَ يٰقَوْمِ اعْبُدُوا اللَّهَ مَا
لَكُمْ مِنْ اِلٰهِ غَيْرُهُ رَ اِنِّيْ اَخَافُ
عَلَيْكُمْ عَذَابَ يَوْمٍ عَظِيْمٍ ﴿٥١﴾

47 The first of the historical events referred to in E.N. 46, is being related here. According to the Quran, Prophet Noah (peace be upon him) was sent to his people, who were the first to corrupt the right way of life followed by Adam (peace be upon him) and taught by him to his descendants. We learn from the brief hints in the Quran and the details in the Bible that the people of Noah lived in the country which is now called Iraq. The same is confirmed by the tablets found in the archaeological remains of Babel which are older than the Bible. They tell a story similar to the one related in the Bible and the Quran, and fix the place of its occurrence near Mosul. Moreover, the traditions that have come down from the most ancient times from Kurdistan and Armenia say that the ark of Noah anchored at some place in the same region. They also point out to some relics connected with the story of Noah near Mt. Ararat and the inhabitants of Nakhchiwan claim even today that the town was founded by Prophet Noah (peace be upon him).

Traditions, similar to the story of Noah, are found in the ancient literatures of Greece, Egypt, India and China. Besides these, the traditions that have come down from the most ancient times from Burma, Malaya, East Indies, Australia, New Guinea and from different parts of Europe and America are also similar to it. All this shows that this story is connected with the period when all the descendants of Adam lived in the same region from where they dispersed all over the earth. That is why references to the “Flood” are found in the ancient history of every nation, though they forgot its real facts and mixed it with the fictions of their own imagination.

48 This verse and others, in which the story of Noah (peace be upon him) has been related, show that his people did neither deny the existence of Allah nor were they ignorant of it, nor did they deny His worship. But the root cause of their deviation was that they were involved in shirk and had set up other partners with Allah in His Godhead and regarded them worthy of worship along with Him. This basic deviation led them to numerous other evils. For instance, this gave birth to a special class to represent the false gods they had set up. By and by, this class took possession of all the religious, political and economic powers of the community and created artificial barriers of high and low among people. Consequently, chaos, tyranny and immorality were rampant everywhere and humanity sank to the lowest depths of degradation, Prophet Noah (peace be upon him) was sent to reform this state of affairs. Accordingly, he exerted his utmost with great wisdom and fortitude for a very long time to bring about the desired reform, but that corrupt class had cunningly deluded the common people so much that all his efforts proved fruitless. When no more hope of their reform was left, Prophet Noah (peace be upon him) prayed to Allah and said, “My Lord, do not leave upon the earth even one of these disbelievers for, if Thou leave anyone of them alive, he will lead astray Thy servants and will give birth only to wicked and ungrateful descendants.” (For details please refer to Surah Hud: Ayats 25-48, Surah Ash-Shuara: Ayats 105-119 and the entire of Surah Nooh).

60. The chieftains of his people said: “Indeed, we see you in plain error.”

قَالَ الْمَلَأُ مِنْ قَوْمِهِ إِنَّا لَنَرُكَ
فِي ضَلَالٍ مُّبِينٍ ﴿٦٠﴾

61. He said: “O my people, there is no error in me, but I am a messenger from the Lord of the worlds.”

قَالَ يَقَوْمِ لَيْسَ بِي ضَلَالَةٌ
وَلَكِنِّي رَسُولٌ مِّن رَّبِّ
الْعَالَمِينَ ﴿٦١﴾

62. “I convey unto you the messages of my Lord and give sincere advice to you. And I know from Allah that which you do not know.”

أُبَلِّغُكُمْ رِسَالَاتِ رَبِّي وَأُنصَحُ
لَكُمْ وَأَعْلَمُ مِنَ اللَّهِ مَا لَا
تَعْلَمُونَ ﴿٦٢﴾

63. “Or do you wonder that there has come to you a reminder from your Lord through a man from amongst you, that he may warn you, and that you may fear (Allah), and that you may receive mercy.”*49

أَوْعَجِبْتُمْ أَن جَاءَكُمْ ذِكْرٌ مِّن
رَّبِّكُمْ عَلَى رَجُلٍ مِّنكُمْ
لِيُنذِرَكُمْ وَلِتَتَّقُوا وَلَعَلَّكُمْ
تُرْحَمُونَ ﴿٦٣﴾

49 The incident has been related here because what had happened between Noah (peace be upon him) and his people was exactly taking place at that time between Muhammad (peace be upon him) and his people. His Message was the same as that of Noah and the response of the chiefs to it was also the same. The chiefs of the Quraish were raising the same doubts against his Message that were raised by the chiefs of the people of Noah (peace be upon him) thousands of years before the Prophet (peace be upon him), and the same things were said in reply as were said by Noah (peace be upon him). Further on, it has been shown in the stories of the Messengers that the attitude of their people towards their Message was the same that was being shown by the chiefs of Makkah. Thus, the Quran impresses on its addressees the fact that in every age, the basic deviation of each people had always been the same, and that the invitation of the Messenger of Allah had also been the same in every age, and the ultimate end of all those who denied and rejected that invitation, has always been the same and will always be the same.

64. Then they denied him, so We saved him and those with him in the ship, and We drowned those who denied Our revelations.^{*50} Indeed, they were a blind people.

فَكَذَّبُوهُ فَأَنْجَيْنَاهُ وَالَّذِينَ مَعَهُ
 فِي الْفُلِّ وَأَغْرَقْنَا الَّذِينَ
 كَذَّبُوا بِآيَاتِنَا إِنَّهُمْ كَانُوا
 قَوْمًا عَمِينَ

50 The brief descriptions of certain events from the mission of Prophets at certain places in the Quran have given rise to the conjecture that the whole thing was finished in a couple of meetings. They think that a prophet presented his claim before his people and they raised some objections against it. Then the Prophet answered them, but they rejected him, and declared the Message to be false. This was repeated a couple of times; then God sent down His scourge. This is a wrong conjecture made by those who are ignorant of the style of the Quran. These things are only parts of the long struggle, for the Quran does not give all the details of a story at one and the same place. In relating some historical event, it confines itself only to that part of the story which is directly connected with the theme under discussion and leaves out all other details. As an illustration, let us cite instances of this from the story of Prophet Noah (peace be upon him). Here the aim is to warn the people of the consequences of the denial and rejection of the Message of the Prophet. So it was not necessary to mention the long period during which the Prophet continued preaching the Message to his people. But at places where the story is related to teach fortitude to Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and his companions, a special mention has been made of the long period during which Prophet Noah (peace be upon him) went on preaching the Message. This is to encourage them that they should not lose heart by seeing no great and immediate result of their efforts of a few years but should learn a lesson from the story of Prophet Noah (peace be upon him), who went on performing his mission with fortitude for centuries in very adverse circumstances, without losing heart. (See Surah Al-Ankaboot: Ayat 14). Likewise, some people become skeptical when they read, over and over again, such a thing as this: “We drowned (destroyed) those who denied the Message and treated it as false”: they ask, “Why do such things not happen now a days?” They admit that though the rise and fall of nations is always taking place in the world, this change is of a different nature from the one described in the Quran, e.g. instant destruction of a nation by an earthquake or flood or storm or lightning after due notice by a Prophet. In order to remove this doubt, one should understand the difference between the case of that community in which a Prophet is born and raised from among themselves, and the one where a Prophet is not present in person. He conveys Allah’s message directly to them in their own language and presents a perfect and excellent model of it in his own person in such a convincing way as to leave no excuse whatsoever for them to reject it. Therefore such a community deserves the severest punishment on the spot for rejecting the Messenger of Allah after such clear signs. Obviously the case of such a community is basically different from the case of that community which does not receive the Message directly from the Prophet but received it through indirect means. So there is no wonder if such chastisements are not inflicted on the spot now, as they were during the times of the Prophets. This is because after the Prophethood of Muhammad (peace be upon him), the last in the line of prophets, no prophet has been sent, nor shall any be sent up to the Last Day.

This does not, however, mean that Allah has now totally given up the infliction of chastisements. The fact is that even now He sends disasters by way of warning or punishment on those communities which rebel against Him and deviate into error. But it is a pity that people do not turn their attention towards the real cause. Instead of looking at these as the consequences of their own evil ways, their scientists, their historians and their philosophers, who cannot go beyond physical causes, mislead them by ascribing these to some physical and historical laws. These so called scholars do not let them turn their attention to the fact that there is Allah above them, Who first warns them of their evil ways by inflicting minor disasters, and then, if they persist in the wrong ways, He throws them into the abyss of destruction.

65. And unto Aad^{*51} (We sent) their brother, Houd. He said: "O my people, worship Allah. You do not have any god other than Him. Will you then not fear (Allah)."

وَإِلَىٰ عَادٍ أَخَاهُمْ هُودًا ۖ قَالَ
يَقَوْمِ اعْبُدُوا اللَّهَ مَا لَكُمْ مِن

*51 Aad was one of the most ancient tribes of Arabia. Their stories were well known and were related all over the country. The stories of their power and wealth had become proverbial and their utter annihilation also was cited as an example. Their notoriety helped to produce some new words akin to their name. Every ancient thing is called aadi and archaeological remains are called aadiyyat. The land, which has no owner left and thus becomes fallow, is called adi-ul-ard.

This tribe is often mentioned in the ancient Arabic poetry. The experts in the art of genealogy of the Arab tribes mention Aad as the first of the extinct tribes of Arabia. There is a tradition that once a man of Bani Zahl-bin-Shaiban, who was a resident of the territory where the Aad tribe lived, came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and related stories about Aad, that had come down from ancient times.

According to the Quran, the tribe of Aad lived in Ahqaf, surrounded by Hijaz, Yaman and Yamamah. From here they had established their authority over a vast territory that extended from the western coast of Yaman and Umman and Hadar Maut to Iraq. Though their remains have become quite extinct from the historical point of view, yet there are some remnants in Southern Arabia that are ascribed to Aad. At one place in Hadar Maut, there is a tomb which is said to be of Prophet Hud (peace be upon him). In 1837, James R. Wellested, an officer in the British Navy, discovered near Hisn-i-Ghurab a tablet which contained a mention of Prophet Hud (peace be upon him). Moreover, the writing on the tablet showed that they were the followers of the law of Prophet Hud (peace be upon him). (See E.N. 25 of Surah Al-Ahqaf).

52 The Arabic word alaa means:

- (1) Blessings.
- (2) Demonstrations of nature and,

(3) Praiseworthy qualities.

Thus the verse can be elaborated to mean: Remember the blessings and favors of Allah and do not forget that He also has the power to take away these from you.

70. They said: “Have you come to us that we should worship Allah alone and forsake that which our fathers used to worship.^{*53} Then bring upon us that wherewith you have threatened us if you are of the truthful.”

الصَّادِقِينَ ﴿٧٠﴾

53 This verse also shows that the people of Prophet Hud (peace be upon him) were neither ignorant of the existence of Allah nor did they deny Him nor did they refuse to worship Him. What they refused to accept was the invitation of Prophet Hud (peace be upon him) to worship Allah alone, without associating anyone else with Him.

71. He said: “Surely defilement and wrath from your Lord have befallen upon you. Do you dispute with me about names which you have named, you and your fathers,^{*54} Allah has not sent down for which any authority.^{*55} Then await, I am indeed

*54 That is, you call one the lord of rain, the other the lord of air or lord of wealth or lord of disease, when, in fact, none of these is lord of anything. These are mere names that you have invented. In our own times they call one the remover of difficulties (mushkil kusha) and the other the bestower of treasures (gunje buksh), whereas they have no power to remover difficulties or have no treasure to bestow on anyone. In fact, such titles are empty words without any corresponding possessor of such qualities, entitling anyone to these titles. Therefore, if one argues to justify these titles, he, in fact, raises disputes over mere names that have no reality behind them.

*55 That is, Allah, Whom you yourselves acknowledge to be the Lord, has not delegated to any of these gods the powers of a lord or god. He has never said that He has delegated a part of His Godhead to such and such a one, nor has He sent command authorizing anyone with the powers of giver or remover of difficulties. You yourselves have, of your own accord, bestowed such titles on the ones you pleased.

72. So We saved him and those with him by a mercy

بِعَايَاتِنَا وَمَا كَانُوا مُؤْمِنِينَ

were not believers.*56

56 “We cut off the roots of those who denied” means, We destroyed them so completely that no sign of theirs was left in the world. This is a fact that has been established by the traditions of Arabia. The archaeological remains also bear testimony that the people of the First Aad were so completely annihilated that even their monuments were effaced from the world. The Arab historians count the Aad tribe among the extinct tribes. They, however, assert it as a fact that the followers of Prophet Hud (peace be upon him) were saved and were known as the Second Aad and the tablet of Hisn-i-Ghurab mentioned in E.N. 51, is one of their monuments. Here are some extracts of the inscriptions which were inscribed on it some 1800 years before Christ:

“We have lived for a long period in this fort in great prosperity. Our canals were always full of water.....and our rulers were noble kings who were free from evil. They were, however, hard on those who disturbed the peace. They ruled over us in accordance with the Law of Hud and used to enter all important decisions in a book. We believe in miracles and life-after-death.”

The above extracts bear witness to the fact stated in the Quran that the followers of Prophet Hud (peace be upon him) became the inheritors of the ancient glory and prosperity of the Aad tribe.

73. And to (the tribe of) Thamud*57 (We sent) their brother Salih. He said: “O my people, worship Allah. You do not have any god other than Him. Indeed there has come to you a clear sign from your Lord. This is the she camel of Allah unto you as a sign.^{*58} So leave her to graze in Allah’s earth, and do not touch her with harm lest there seize you a painful punishment.”

يَقَوْمِ اعْبُدُوا اللَّهَ مَا لَكُمْ
 مِنْ إِلَهٍ غَيْرُهُ ۗ قَدْ جَاءَتْكُمْ
 بَيِّنَةٌ مِّن رَّبِّكُمْ ۗ هَذِهِ نَاقَةُ اللَّهِ
 لَكُمْ آيَةٌ ۗ فَذَرُوهَا تَأْكُلْ
 فِي أَرْضِ اللَّهِ وَلَا تَمَسُّوهَا
 بِسُوءٍ فَيَأْخُذَكُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

57 After Aad, Thamud is the second most widely known ancient tribe of Arabia. Before the revelation of the Quran, their stories were very common among the Arabs. Their mention occurs in the poetry and the addresses of pre-Islamic Arabia, and on the tablets found in Assyria. The ancient historians and geographers of Greece, Alexandria and Rome also mention this tribe. Some of their remains existed till some years before the birth of Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him). According to the Roman historians, the people of this tribe joined the Roman army and fought against the Nabataeans, their enemies.

The tribe of Thamud inherited the territory in the north-western part of Arabia and is even today known by the name of Al-Hijr. Its capital was Madaini-Salih, which is now a days a railroad station on the Hijaz Railway between Al-Madinah and Tabuk. Its old name is Hijr. There are even now spread over thousands of acres of land, those stony buildings that they had carved out of hills. Even a cursory glance at this dead city leads one to the conclusion that its population must have been about five hundred thousand people.

At the time of the revelation of the Quran, the trading caravans from Hijaz used to pass through the archaeological remains of Thamud. When the Prophet (peace be upon him) was leading his followers towards Tabuk, he passed by and pointed out towards the remains and asked them to bear in mind the lesson which such things hold out for every close observer. He pointed to a well from which the she-camel of Prophet Salih (peace be upon him) drank water, and told them to drink water only from that well. Then he showed them a pass over a hill and said that the she-camel used to come through it to the well for drinking water. That pass is still called Fajj-un-Naqah (the pass of the she-camel.) Then he assembled together those Muslims who were enjoying a walk through the remains and said: “This is the territory of the tribe on which Allah inflicted His scourge. Therefore pass through this with as much haste as you can, because this is not a place of enjoyment but a place of lamentation.”

58 The wording of the text clearly shows that Allah’s she camel was the clear proof, which has been called a sign in the next sentence. We learn from Surah Ash-Shuara, Ayats 154-158 that the people of his tribe had themselves demanded from Prophet Salih (peace be upon him) to bring a clear sign of his appointment as a Messenger of Allah. In response to this, the Prophet presented the she camel as a sign. This is a positive proof of the fact that the birth of the she camel had taken place in some miraculous manner and her appearance was a miracle of the same kind as presented by other Prophets to the disbelievers at their demand of a proof of their Prophethood. Another proof of her miraculous birth is the fact that Prophet Salih (peace be upon him) presented the she camel to the disbelievers with a warning to this effect: “Your lives are directly connected with the life of this she camel. She shall graze freely in your fields and she shall be privileged to drink water at the well one day all alone by herself, and all your cattle shall drink water the following day, turn by turn; and if you touch her with an evil intention, Allah’s scourge will overtake you all of a sudden.” It is obvious from this that the she-camel could have been presented in such a forcible manner only if the people had seen with their own eyes that she was an extraordinary animal. That is why they let her graze freely in their fields and let her drink water throughout the day all by herself, though in their hearts they were not willing to accede to this. They were so much afraid of her that in order to kill her they had to hold long consultations and hatch secret plots, though Prophet Salih (peace be upon him) had no worldly power to prevent them from this. This shows that they knew there was some hidden power behind her that made her so bold as to roam about wherever she liked.

The Quran does not say anything about its physique as to how it came into being. Moreover, there is no mention of its miraculous existence in any authentic tradition. Therefore, one is not bound to accept the stories the commentators have related concerning her birth, etc. However, it is quite evident from the Quran that she was a miracle in one way or the other.

74. “And remember when He made you successors after Aad and gave you habitations in the earth. You take for yourselves palaces from its plains, and carve out homes in the mountains.^{*59} So remember the bounties of Allah, and do not go about in the land making corruption.”^{*60}

وَأَذْكُرُوا إِذْ جَعَلْنَا خُلَفَاءَ
مِنْ بَعْدِ عَادٍ وَبَوَّأْنَاكُمْ فِي
الْأَرْضِ تَتَّخِذُونَ مِنْ
سُهُولِهَا قُصُورًا وَتَنْحِتُونَ
الْجِبَالَ بُيُوتًا فَادْكُرُوا آيَاتِ
اللَّهِ وَلَا تَعْتَوْا فِي الْأَرْضِ
مُفْسِدِينَ

59 The people of Thamud used to carve out grand houses in the hills as has already been mentioned in E.N. 57. Some of them are still intact at Madain-i-Salih and bear witness to the wonderful skill they had achieved in engineering.

60 That is, you should take a warning from the woeful end of Aad. The same Allah, Who destroyed that mischievous tribe and made you its successor has the power to destroy you, if you become mischievous like Aad, and make someone else your successor.

75. The chieftains of those who were arrogant among قَالَ الْمَلَأُ الَّذِينَ اسْتَكْبَرُوا his people said to those who had been oppressed, those who believed among them: “Do you know that Salih is sent forth from his Lord.” They said: “Surely we, in that which he has been sent with, believe.”

مِنْ قَوْمِهِ لِّلَّذِينَ اسْتُضْعِفُوا
لِمَنْ ءَامَنَ مِنْهُمْ اَتَعْلَمُونَ
اَنَّ صَالِحًا مَّرْسَلٌ مِّن رَّبِّهِ
قَالُوا اِنَّا بِمَا اُرْسِلَ بِهِ
مُؤْمِنُونَ

76. Those who were arrogant said: “Indeed we, in that which you have believed, are disbelievers.”

قَالَ الَّذِينَ اسْتَكْبَرُوا اِنَّا
بِالَّذِي ءَامَنْتُمْ بِهِ كٰفِرُونَ

77. So they hamstrung the she camel,^{*61} and they were insolent toward the command of their Lord. And they said: “O Salih, bring upon us that which you threaten us, if you are of those sent (from Allah).”

فَعَقَرُوا النَّاقَةَ وَعَتَوْا عَنْ اَمْرِ
رَبِّهِمْ وَقَالُوا يَصْلِحْ اٰتِنَا بِمَا
تَعِدُنَا اِن كُنْتَ مِنَ الْمُرْسَلِينَ

61 Though only one man had killed the she camel, the whole tribe has been declared to be guilty of the crime because it was backing him as a whole, and he was, in fact, merely its tool, for every crime which represents the will of a nation or is approved by it, is a national crime, even though it is committed by one individual. According to the Quran, even that crime, which is committed openly by an individual, and is tolerated by the community, is a national crime.

78. Then the earthquake^{*62} seized them, so they lay prostrate (dead) in their dwelling places.

فَأَخَذَتْهُمُ الرَّجْفَةُ فَأَصْبَحُوا
فِي دَارِهِمْ جَثِيمِينَ ﴿٧٨﴾

*62 The catastrophe that overtook Thamud has been called the earthquake, but in other places it has been called a cry, a thunderbolt, a roaring noise.

79. Then he (Salih) turned from them and said: “O my people, I have indeed conveyed to you the message of my Lord, and I have given you good advice, but you do not like good advisers.”

فَتَوَلَّى عَنْهُمْ وَقَالَ يَاقَوْمِ لَقَدْ
أَبْلَغْتُكُمْ رَسُولَ رَبِّي وَنَصَحْتُ
لَكُمْ وَلَكِنْ لَا تُحِبُّونَ
النَّاصِحِينَ ﴿٧٩﴾

80. And Lot, when he said to his people:^{*63} “Do you commit an indecency, such as not any one ever did before you among the worlds (people).”

وَلُوطًا إِذْ قَالَ لِقَوْمِهِ أَتَأْتُونَ
الْفَاحِشَةَ مَا سَبَقَكُمْ بِهَا مِنْ
أَحَدٍ مِّنَ الْعَالَمِينَ ﴿٨٠﴾

*63 Those people lived in the territory now called Trans-Jordan and is situated between Iraq and Palestine. According to the Bible its headquarters was Sodom which was situated somewhere near the Dead Sea or has been submerged in it. The Talmud says that they had four more big cities besides Sodom, and the land between these cities looked like one big garden for miles, and charmed the onlookers. But now those cities cannot be located with accuracy because the whole land is covered with the Dead Sea, which is also called Lot's Sea.

Prophet Lot (peace be upon him) was the nephew of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him). He left Iraq along with his uncle and traveled with him over to Syria, Palestine and Egypt in order to gain experience for the propagation of the Message. Then he was appointed as a Messenger by Allah and sent to reform the wicked tribe, which has been called his people because he might have had some blood relation with it.

It is a pity that in the existing Bible, which has been tampered with by the Jews, the character of Prophet Lot (peace be upon him) has been blemished. Besides other things, even his mission to the plains of Jordan has been described as a migration to a fertile land after a strife between the herdsmen of Abraham's cattle and the herdsmen of Lot's cattle. (Genesis 5: 12,13). But the Quran refutes this allegation and says that Lot was appointed a Messenger and was sent there to reform those people.

81. "Indeed, you come unto men with lust instead of women.^{*64} Nay but, you are a people who exceed all bounds."

إِنَّكُمْ لَتَأْتُونَ الرِّجَالَ شَهْوَةً
مِّنْ دُونِ النِّسَاءِ ۚ بَلْ أَنْتُمْ
قَوْمٌ مُّسْرِفُونَ

64 At other places, the Quran mentions some other crimes of these people, but here it mentions only their most heinous crime that brought about the scourge of Allah on them.

Although wicked people have always been committing this most heinous sin that has given the people of Sodom an everlasting notoriety, yet it has always been considered a filthy and detestable act. But the only people who have ever tried to raise it to a moral excellence, were the Greek philosophers in the ancient world, and the Europeans in the modern world. The latter are doing their utmost to make up the deficiency by making an open propaganda for it, and have succeeded in giving this filthy act a legal sanction. So much so that the legislatures of some countries have legalized it. It does not require elaborate argument to show that homo-sexuality is a horrible social crime and a heinous sin. For, the Creator has made the male and the female of each and every living species different. The difference in the human species has been created to serve another purpose. This is to urge the two to live together in order to form a family along with their offspring. For, this is the foundation of a civilized life for which man has been created. That is why their bodies have been made complementary to attract each other for the satisfaction of sex urges and for the service of the natural function of reproduction of the species. Therefore the one who satisfies this sex urge in an un-natural way becomes guilty of many crimes at one and the same time.

(1) Such a one, so to speak, wages a war against the natural and physical functioning of his own organs and those of the victims of his lust. This inevitably produces very harmful effects on their physiques, their minds and their morality.

(2) He becomes guilty of treachery and dishonesty against nature for he enjoys sexual pleasure, without performing the necessary service of his species and civilization and without fulfilling the rights and obligations attached to it.

(3) He commits a breach of trust against the society in general for he enjoys all the benefits of the civilized society, but in his turn does not take on himself the responsibilities of the married life and wastes all his powers in the un-natural gratification of his sexual desires. This selfish and unworthy attitude is not only useless but also positively harmful to the collective morality. Thus he makes himself unfit for the service of the family and of the human race and produces un-natural feminine characteristics in, at least, one other male, and opens the way to adultery and moral degradation for at least two women.

82. And his people had no answer except that they said: “Drive them out of your town. They are indeed a people who keep (pretend) to be pure.”*65

وَمَا كَانَ جَوَابَ قَوْمِهِ
إِلَّا أَنْ قَالُوا أَخْرِجُوهُمْ مِّنْ
قَرِيَّتِكُمْ إِنَّهُمْ
أُنَاسٌ
يَتَطَهَّرُونَ

*65 The very fact that they could not tolerate even the presence of pious people among them, shows that they had gone to the lowest depths of moral degradation. They were not only shameless, wicked and immoral but also had lost every feeling of goodness and virtue. That is why they wanted to turn out Prophet Lot (peace be upon him) and his followers so that none should be left among them to invite them to virtue. When they, as a community, reached this extreme limit of wickedness and no vestige of goodness was left in them, Allah decreed that they should be totally exterminated because there was then no justification for their existence on the earth. Their case may be likened to a basket of apples, most of which are rotten, and only a few are good. When the good apples are taken out of it, then the remaining fruit becomes utterly useless and should, therefore, be thrown away into a heap of garbage.

83. So We saved him and his household, except his wife, she was of those who remained behind.*66

فَأَنْجَيْنَاهُ وَأَهْلَهُ إِلَّا امْرَأَتَهُ
كَانَتْ مِنَ الْغَابِرِينَ

*66 In other places it has been made clear that Lot's wife, who probably was one of their daughters, supported her disbelieving relatives in their conflict with the Prophet, and did not leave them up to the end. That is why Allah ordained that Lot should not take her away with his followers.

84. And We rained down on them a rain (of stones).*67 Then see how was the consequence of the criminals.*68

وَأَمْطَرْنَا عَلَيْهِمْ مَطَرًا ط فَأَنْظَرُوا
كَيْفَ كَانَ عَاقِبَةُ
الْمُجْرِمِينَ

67 The rain was not a rain of water but a rain of stones as has been explicitly stated at some other places in the Quran. Their habitations were turned upside down and sunk into the earth.

68 Here and at other places the Quran merely declares that sodomy is such a heinous sin that it brought the wrath of Allah on a people. Then we learn from the guidance of the Prophet (peace be upon him) that it is the duty of the Islamic State to eradicate this crime and should punish those who are guilty of it. In regard to this there are traditions with wording to this effect:

(a) Kill the sodomite and the object of sodomy.

(b) Whether they are married or unmarried.

(c) Stone to death the upper one and the lower one. But no definite and specific punishment was prescribed for the criminals because during his time, no case of sodomy was ever brought before the Prophet (peace be upon him).

There are, however, some traditions from his successors regarding this. Ali is of the opinion that the criminals should be killed with sword and the dead bodies should not be buried but burnt to ashes. Abu Bakr also agrees with it. Umar and Uthman are of the opinion that they should be taken under the roof of a dilapidated building, which should be pulled down on them, (May Allah be pleased with them all). Ibn Abbas has decreed that they should be thrown down headlong from the top of the highest building of the habitation and then stoned to death. Imam Shafai says that both the criminals involved in sodomy should be killed, whether married or unmarried. According to Shaibi, Zuhri, Malik and Ahmad they should be stoned to death. Saeed bin Musayyib, Ata, Hasan Basri, Ibrahim Nakhi, Sufyan Thauri and Auzai are of the opinion that the punishment is the same as for adultery, that is, one hundred stripes and exile for the unmarried, and stoning to death for the married. Imam Abu Hanifah is of the opinion that the culprit should be punished in accordance with the circumstances of the crime with an exemplary punishment. There is also a saying of Imam Shafai to this effect.

It should also be noted that it is unlawful for the husband to commit sodomy with his own wife. The Prophet (peace be upon him) has declared, "The man who commits such an act with a woman is accursed" and "Allah will not even look at a person who commits this offense with a woman". In another tradition, he has warned, "The one who cohabits with a woman in her menses or commits sodomy with her or goes to a soothsayer and believes him to be true, is a disbeliever in what has been sent down to Muhammad."

85. And to Midian^{*69} (We sent) their brother Shuaib. He said: "O my people, worship Allah. You do not have any god other than Him. Indeed, there has come to you a clear sign from your Lord. So give full measure and weight, and do not deprive people in their goods."^{*70}

وَالِى مَدْيَنَ أَخَاهُمْ شُعَيْبًا

 لَكُمْ مِّنْ إِلَهِ غَيْرُهُ قَدْ

 فَأَوْفُوا الْكَيْلَ وَالْمِيزَانَ
 وَلَا تَبْخَسُوا النَّاسَ أَشْيَاءَهُمْ

And do not cause corruption in the earth after its reformation.^{*71} That will be better for you, if you are believers.”^{*72}

وَلَا تُفْسِدُوا فِي الْأَرْضِ بَعْدَ
إِصْلَاحِهَا ذَٰلِكُمْ خَيْرٌ لَّكُمْ
إِنْ كُنْتُمْ مُؤْمِنِينَ

69 The territory of Midian lay to the northwest of Hijaz and to the south of Palestine in the eastern side of the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aqabah and extended to a part of the Sinai Peninsula. The Midianites were great traders. Their habitations lay at the crossroads of the trade routes from Yemen to Makkah to Syria along the side of the Red Sea and from Iraq to Egypt. Therefore they were well known among the Arabs and were remembered even after their extermination for their trade caravans to Syria and Egypt had to pass through their archaeological remains.

In order to grasp the significance of their story in the Quran, it should be noted that the Midianites claimed to be the descendants of Midian, a son of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) from his third wife, Qaturah. Though all of them had not directly descended from him, they claimed to be so. For, according to an ancient custom, all those people who became attached to some great man, began, by and by, to be counted among his descendants. That is why all Arabs were called Bani Ismail, though the majority of them were not his descendants. The same was the case with Bani Israil. Likewise all the inhabitants of the territory, who came under the influence of Midian, a son of Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) came to be known as Bani Madyan and the territory itself was called Madyan (Midian).

In the light of the above historical fact, there is no reason to suppose that they heard for the first time the voice of the truth from Prophet Shuaib (peace be upon him). In fact, they were originally Muslims like the Israelites, but had become corrupt at the time when Prophet Shuaib (peace be upon him) was sent to them, just as the Israelites were at the time when Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) was sent to them. Though they had become involved in shirk and immoralities by mixing with the mushrik and immoral people during the six centuries or so after Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him), yet they professed to be believers and were proud of that.

70 This shows that Prophet Shuaib (peace be upon him) was sent to reform them of their two main evils, shirk and dishonesty in trade.

71 For a detailed commentary on this, refer to E.Ns 44 and 45 of this Surah. Here Prophet Shuaib wanted to draw their attention particularly to this: “You should not corrupt by your wrong beliefs and immoral ways the right way of life that had been established by the former Prophets.”

72 The fact that the Prophet appeals to their faith shows that they themselves professed to be believers, as has been pointed out in E.N. 69. They were corrupt Muslims, who, though involved in wrong beliefs and misconduct, not only professed to be believers, but also were proud of this. That is why the Prophet appealed to them, “If you are true believers, you should judge good and evil by the standard of the righteous and honest people, and not by the standards of those worldly people who do not believe in Allah and the Hereafter.”

73 Prophet Shuaib (peace be upon him) hastened to add these words to show that he could not claim with certainty even this much that they would not return to the creed of the disbelievers. A believer who rightly and fully comprehends the significance of the power of Allah, knows that it is His will that prevails over everything. Therefore he cannot claim with certainty, “I will do this or I will not do this, for the fulfillment of this or that depends entirely on the will of my Lord. If He will, I shall become successful, otherwise I shall fail in it.”

Allah has taught the same thing in Surah Al-Kahaf, Ayats 23-24: “Never say about anything, I will do this tomorrow, for you cannot do anything, but say, If it be Allah’s Will.”

90. And the chieftains of those who disbelieved among his people said: “If you follow Shuaib, indeed you shall then be the losers.”^{*74}

وَقَالَ الْمَلَأُ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا مِنْ قَوْمِهِ لِيِنِ اتَّبَعْتُمْ شُعَيْبًا إِنَّكُمْ إِذَا لَخَسِرُونَ

^{*74} We should not pass cursorily over this sentence, but should think deeply about its implications. The chiefs and the leaders of Midian meant and wanted to convince the people of this thing: “We shall be utterly ruined if we accept and practice the fundamental principles of honesty, righteousness, uprightness and morality. It is obvious that our trade and commerce can never flourish if we apply the principle of truth to it and carry out our bargains with honesty. Besides this, if we do not exploit our geographical position on the crossroads of the most important trade routes, and let the caravans pass on without molestation and become peaceful citizens, all its political and commercial advantages will come to an end. This will also bring to an end the awe and influence we wield over our neighboring countries.” This fear of ruin was not peculiar to the people of Shuaib (peace be upon him) alone. In every age the corrupt people have felt the same fear concerning the way of truth, righteousness and honesty. This has always been the considered opinion of all the corrupt people that it is not possible to carry out commercial, political and other worldly activities without resort to lies, dishonesty and immorality. That is why the greatest argument against the Message of truth has always been that the community would be ruined, if it gave up the known worldly wrong ways and adopted the right way.

91. Then the earthquake seized them, so they lay prostrate (dead) in their dwelling places.

فَأَخَذَتْهُمُ الرَّجْفَةُ فَأَصْبَحُوا فِي

92. Those who denied Shuaib became as if they had never dwelt therein. Those who denied Shuaib, it was they who were the losers.^{*75}

يَغْنَوْا فِيهَا ۗ الَّذِينَ كَذَّبُوا
شُعَيْبًا كَانُوا هُمُ الْخَاسِرِينَ ﴿٩٢﴾

75 This total destruction of Midian had become a byword among the neighboring nations. In Psalms (83: 5-9) Prophet David (peace be upon him) invokes the help of Allah against those oppressors who have taken crafty counsel against thy people, saying, “Do unto them as unto the Midianites.” And Prophet Isaiah (peace be upon him) consoles the Israel, saying, “.....be not afraid of Assyrian...he shall lift up his staff against thee, after the manner of Egypt...the Lord of the hosts shall stir up a scourge for him according to the slaughter of Midian....”

(Isaiah: 10: 21-26.).

93. Then he (Shuaib) turned away from them and said: “O my people, indeed I have conveyed to you the message of my Lord, and I have given you good advice. Then how could I grieve for a people who disbelieved.”*76

فَتَوَلَّى عَنْهُمْ وَقَالَ يَاقَوْمِ لَقَدْ

وَنَصَحْتُ لَكُمْ فَكَيْفَ آسَأُ
عَلَى قَوْمٍ كَافِرِينَ

*76 A deep significance underlies all the stories which have been related here. Every story applied appropriately and exactly to the case of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and his people, the Quraish. In every story there are two parties - the Prophet and his people. In every story the Message of the Prophet, his teachings, his admonition and all other things were exactly the same as those of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him). On the other side, in every case his people, who were sunk deep in wrong creeds, immoralities and obduracy, and the chiefs who were puffed up with pride, rejected the Message contemptuously. The Quraish were behaving exactly in the same way towards Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) and his Message. They have been warned indirectly that their doom would be similar to those people if they did not accept his Message, and did not avail of the opportunity that Allah had afforded them. If they persisted blindly in their obduracy they would meet with the same destruction which had always been the doom of those peoples who persisted in their deviation.

94. And We did not send unto a township any prophet, except that We seized its people with tribulation and adversity, that they may humble themselves.

وَمَا أَرْسَلْنَا فِي قَرْيَةٍ مِّن نَّبِيٍّ إِلَّا
أَخَذْنَا أَهْلَهَا بِالْبَأْسَاءِ وَالضَّرَّاءِ
لَعَلَّهُمْ يَضَّرَّعُونَ ﴿٩٤﴾

95. Then We changed in place of the evil plight, the good, until they grew affluent and they said: "Indeed, our fathers were touched by suffering and affluence." Then We seized them suddenly while they did not perceive.^{*77}

ثُمَّ بَدَّلْنَا مَكَانَ السَّيِّئَةِ الْحَسَنَةَ
حَتَّىٰ عَفَوْا وَقَالُوا قَدْ مَسَّ
ءَابَاءَنَا الضَّرَّاءُ وَالسَّرَّاءُ
فَأَخَذْنَاهُمْ بَغْتَةً وَهُمْ لَا
يَشْعُرُونَ ﴿٩٥﴾

77 After citing the individual case of every Prophet and his people, now the general and comprehensive procedure has been enunciated that Allah adopted at the appointment of each one of His Messengers. Whenever a Messenger was sent, Allah afflicted his people with adversities and calamities so that they should become meek and humble, and be conditioned for the acceptance of the Message. Accordingly, He sent famines and epidemics to them and made them suffer economic losses, defeats in wars, and the like, in order to humble their pride and haughtiness and to frustrate their over confidence in their powers, riches, resources, capabilities etc. This was to make them realize that there is a higher Power above them that controls their destinies so that their hearts should be inclined to admonition and they should bow down humbly before their Lord. But, if this failed to incline their hearts to the acceptance of the truth, they were tempted with prosperity. And this was the beginning of their end. As a rule, when such people, as are afflicted with adversity and calamities, begin to flourish and are enriched with blessings, they do not show any gratitude to their Master, and even forget the days of adversity. Then their intellectuals delude them by arguing like this: There is nothing unusual in this. History tells us that the vicissitudes of fortune have always been taking place independent of moral values and these are not taking place under the control of Allah or in accordance with moral laws but blind nature is always working and bringing about adversity or prosperity. That is why our forefathers also had had their adversities and prosperities. It is, therefore, a sign of mental weakness to draw any moral lesson from these and to bow down and humble oneself before Allah.

The Prophet (peace be upon him) had described the same thing in a tradition: Affliction goes on helping a believer to reform himself till he comes out of this furnace cleansed of all impurities. But the case of a hypocrite in affliction is that of a donkey, who does not realize why his master tied him and why he untied him. This implies that if a community does not turn to Allah, even when adversities and calamities are inflicted on it or does not remember Allah in gratitude, when He showers His blessings upon it, and it is not inclined at all to reform itself in any way whatsoever, it is doomed and its destruction is imminent. In this connection it should also be noted that the divine procedure mentioned in Ayats 94-95 was at work at Makkah at the time when this Surah was revealed. The Quraish were showing the same antagonistic attitude and were consequently suffering from a severe famine. We learn from a tradition, related by Ibn Masud and Ibn Abbas, that when the Quraish began to oppose the mission of the Prophet (peace be upon him), he prayed, "O Lord, help me against these people by a seven-year famine, like the one that visited Egypt during the time of Joseph." Accordingly, Allah sent a very severe famine to Makkah and things came to such a pass that they began to eat dead animals, skins, bones and even wool. Then the people of Makkah, under the leadership of Abu Sufyan, went to the Prophet (peace be upon him), and beseeched him to pray to Allah to remove the famine. But when Allah removed the famine and they began to flourish, they became all the more arrogant and their evil geniuses began to hinder even those from it whose hearts were somewhat inclined towards the faith, saying, "the famine was due to the vicissitudes of time, and was not different from the ones that visited us even before the advent of Muhammad (peace be upon him). Therefore you should not fall into his trap by its visitation." Such things, as Our forefathers also had their adversity and prosperity, were being repeated at the time when this Surah was sent down. As these verses applied very appropriately to the condition of the Quraish at the time, this background should be kept in view in order to understand their full significance.

96. And if only the people of the townships had believed and feared (Allah). Certainly, We would have opened for them blessings from the heaven and the earth. But they denied (the messengers). So We seized them for what they used to earn.

وَلَوْ أَنَّ أَهْلَ الْقُرَىٰ ءَامَنُوا
وَاتَّقَوْا لَفَتَحْنَا عَلَيْهِم بَرَكَاتٍ
مِّنَ السَّمَاءِ وَالْأَرْضِ وَلَٰكِن
كَذَّبُوا فَأَخَذْنَاهُم بِمَا كَانُوا
يَكْسِبُونَ ﴿١٦﴾

97. Then, did the people of the townships feel secure from coming to them of Our punishment by night while they were asleep.

أَفَأَمِنَ أَهْلُ الْقُرَىٰ أَن يَأْتِيَهُمْ
بَأْسُنَا بَيِّنًا وَهُمْ نَائِمُونَ ﴿١٧﴾

98. Or, did the people of the townships feel secure from coming to them of Our punishment in the daytime while they were at play.

أَوْ أَمِنَ أَهْلُ الْقُرَىٰ أَن يَأْتِيَهُمْ
بَأْسُنَا ضُحًى وَهُمْ يُلْعَبُونَ ﴿١٨﴾

99. Then, did they feel secure against the plan of Allah.*⁷⁸ So none feels secure from the plan of Allah, except the people who are the losers.

أَفَأَمِنُوا مَكْرَ اللَّهِ ۗ فَلَا يَأْمَنُ
مَكْرَ اللَّهِ إِلَّا الْقَوْمُ الْخَاسِرُونَ ﴿١٩﴾

*78 The Arabic word makr implies such a secret plan as remains hidden from the person against whom it is directed, and keeps him deluded that all is well, till it suddenly strikes him a decisive blow.

100. Is it not a guiding (lesson) to those who inherit the earth after its (previous) possessors, that if We so willed, We could have afflicted them for their sins.^{*79} And We seal over their hearts so they do not hear.^{*80}

أَوَلَمْ يَهْدِ لِلَّذِينَ يَرِثُونَ
الْأَرْضَ مِنْ بَعْدِ أَهْلِهَا أَنْ لَوْ
نَشَاءُ أَصَبْنَاهُمْ بِذُنُوبِهِمْ
وَنَطْبَعُ عَلَى قُلُوبِهِمْ فَهُمْ لَا
يَسْمَعُونَ

79 It is a pity that the succeeding nation does not learn any lesson from the mistakes of the fallen nation it replaces. There would be a great guidance for the people if they considered seriously the question why those people, who were ruling over the land before them and were prosperous and flourishing, were utterly ruined and totally destroyed. The answer would show them the erroneous thoughts and deeds which resulted in their ruin. Then they can also realize that the Sovereign Ruler Who seized them for their mistakes and deposed them is All-Powerful even now, is still ruling over the universe and is able to punish them and depose them, if they commit the same kind of errors that their predecessors committed.

80 According to the divine law, the fall of a nation takes place when it neglects to take a lesson from the history of the former people and from the ruins of their monuments, but tries to delude itself. Then Allah does not let them think rightly or accept the admonition of any well wisher. As regards to the individuals, the divine law is that if a person himself closes his eyes deliberately, the light of the sun does not help him; likewise if he does not want to hear, none else can make him hear.

101. Such were the townships, We relate unto you (O Muhammad) some stories of them. And indeed, there came to them their messengers with clear proofs, but they were not such as to believe in that which they had rejected before. Thus does Allah seal over the hearts of the disbelievers.*81

تِلْكَ الْقُرَى نَقُصُّ عَلَيْكَ مِنْ
 أَنْبَاءِهَا ۗ وَلَقَدْ جَاءَتْهُمْ رُسُلُهُمْ
 بِالْبَيِّنَاتِ فَمَا كَانُوا لِيُؤْمِنُوا
 بِمَا كَذَّبُوا مِنْ قَبْلُ ۗ
 كَذَلِكَ يَطْبَعُ اللَّهُ عَلَى قُلُوبِ
 الْكَافِرِينَ

*81 Here Allah Himself has explained the meanings of the previous verse, “And We seal over their hearts so they do not hear.” From this it is clear that by the sealing of the hearts is meant that state of mind which is caused as a result of the working of the divine law. When one deliberately refuses to accept the truth because of his ignorance, prejudice, selfishness, desires etc. then such a person becomes so obdurate that he persists in error without paying any attention to his own observations or to the arguments of his true well wishers.

102. And We did not find most of them (true) to (their) covenant. And indeed, We found most of them transgressors.*82

وَمَا وَجَدْنَا لِأَكْثَرِهِمْ مِّنْ عَهْدٍ وَإِن وَجَدْنَا أَكْثَرَهُمْ لَفَاسِقِينَ ﴿١٠٢﴾

82 The disbelievers showed no respect for any of the three covenants that should be binding on every man. They respected neither the natural covenant that makes man by his very birth the servant of Allah, his Sustainer, nor that collective covenant that binds every individual to the observance of the known social code of the community of which he is a member, nor that personal covenant which every man undertakes with his Allah at the time of distress and helplessness.

103. Then after them, We sent Moses with our signs to Pharaoh and his chiefs,*83 but they dealt unjustly with them (Our signs).*84 So see how was the consequence of those who did corruption.

ثُمَّ بَعَثْنَا مِنْ بَعْدِهِم مُّوسَىٰ بِآيَاتِنَا إِلَىٰ فِرْعَوْنَ وَمَلَئِهِۦ فَظَلَمُوا بِهَا فَانظُرْ كَيْفَ كَانَ عَاقِبَةُ الْمُفْسِدِينَ ﴿١٠٣﴾

83 The preceding stories were related to bring home to the people of Makkah the fact that the community which receives the Message of Allah and then rejects it, is inevitably doomed to destruction. After these, the story of Moses (peace be upon him), Pharaoh and the Israelites is being related with the same object, though there are also other important lessons for the disbelievers of the Quraish, the believers and the Jews.

In this story the disbelievers of the Quraish have been admonished that they should not be deluded by their apparent favorable balance of power in the initial stages of the conflict between the truth and falsehood. The entire history of the conflict bears evidence to the fact that a single man starts the movement to establish the truth in his nation, nay, in the whole world, and wages war, without the help of any material provisions, against falsehood which had the backing of great nations and powerful kingdoms. But in spite of this, ultimately it comes out triumphant in the conflict. The Quraish have also been warned to note how all the devices of the disbelievers directed against the messenger of the truth in order to suppress his message turn against themselves: that Allah gives a long respite to the disbelievers so that they might mend their ways before He makes the final decision to destroy them: that He gives exemplary punishment to those who do not take any lesson from a warning or a clear sign or an event that serves for a lesson.

There were two lessons for the believers who had become the target of the persecution by the enemies. First, they should not be discouraged because they were smaller in number and weaker in power than their opponents, and they should not lose heart because Allah's succor was late in coming. Secondly, they were warned to guard against the attitude that was adopted by the Jews after they had professed to believe in the truth: otherwise they would become accursed like the Jews.

The past history of the Israelites was related for their own benefit also. They were warned to consider the consequences of the worship of falsehood, and admonished to follow the Prophet (peace be upon him) who was representing the true religion of the former Prophets after cleansing it of all the impurities that had been mixed up with it.

84 “But they dealt unjustly with them (Our signs)” by rejecting them and treating them as pieces of sorcery. It was injustice in the sense that they were not behaving fairly towards the signs and were treating them as pieces of sorcery and scoffing at them. There could be no greater injustice than to reject such signs as were clear proofs of their being from Allah and about which no reasonable man could say that they could be produced by sorcery. Besides this, when the sorcerers themselves bore witness to the fact that it was beyond the power of sorcery to produce such signs, it was nothing but injustice to reject these as pieces of sorcery. Thus they really showed that they were void of wisdom and truth as well.

104. And Moses said: “O Pharaoh,^{*85} indeed I am a messenger from the Lord of the worlds.”

وَقَالَ مُوسَىٰ يَافِرْعَوْنَ إِنِّي
رَسُولٌ مِّن رَّبِّ الْعَالَمِينَ

85 The word Firaun (Pharaoh) literally means “the offspring of the sun god.” The ancient Egyptians called the sun Raa, which they worshiped as their supreme lord, and Firaun was named after it. According to the creed of the ancient Egyptians, every ruler based his authority on his relation to Raa and claimed to be its incarnation and representative on the earth. Therefore every royal dynasty that came into power in Egypt presented itself to be the descendant of the sun-god and every ruler adopted the title of Firaun in order to show to the people that he was the supreme lord.

In this connection, it should also be noted that two different Pharaohs have been mentioned in the story of Moses (peace be upon him) as related in the Quran. The one was that Pharaoh who was ruling over Egypt when Moses (peace be upon him) was born, and who brought him up in his own house, and the second was the one whom Moses (peace be upon him) invited to accept the divine message of God and deliver the children of Israel, and who was drowned .

The research scholars of today are inclined to believe that the first of the two Pharaohs who oppressed the Israelites was Rameses II, who ruled from 1292 to 1225 B.C. And the second Pharaoh who has been mentioned in these verses was Mineptah, who assisted his father Rameses II in the affairs of the government, and succeeded as ruler after his death. But these dates appear to be doubtful because, according to the calendar of the Israelites, the year of the death of Moses (peace be upon him) was 1272 B.C. These are, however, mere historical guesses for it is difficult to reconcile the days of the Israelite, the Egyptian and the Christian calendars.

105. “It is (only) right for (me) that I do not speak

حَقِيقٌ عَلَيَّ أَنْ لَا أَقُولَ عَلَى اللَّهِ about Allah except the truth. Indeed, I have come to you with a clear proof from your Lord. So let the Children of Israel go with me.”*86

إِلَّا الْحَقَّ قَدْ جِئْتُكُمْ بِبَيِّنَةٍ
مِّن رَّبِّكُمْ فَأَرْسِلْ مَعِيَ بَنِي
إِسْرَائِيلَ

*86 Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) was sent to Pharaoh with two missions. First, he should invite Pharaoh to surrender to Allah by accepting Islam. Second, he should demand from him to set the Israelites free from his slavery and tyranny. The Quran mentions both the missions at one and the same place or separately, as required by the occasion.

106. He (Pharaoh) said: “If you have come with a sign, then bring it forth, if you should be of the truthful.”

قَالَ إِنْ كُنْتَ جِئْتَ بِعَايَةٍ فَآتِ
بِهَا إِنْ كُنْتَ مِنَ الصَّادِقِينَ

107. So he (Moses) flung down his staff, then behold, it was a serpent manifest.

فَأَلْقَى عَصَاهُ فَإِذَا هِيَ ثُعْبَانٌ
مُّبِينٌ

108. And he drew forth his hand (from his bosom), then behold, it was white for the beholders.*87

وَنَزَعَ يَدَهُ فَإِذَا هِيَ بَيْضَاءُ
لِّلنَّظِيرِينَ

*87 These two signs were given to Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) as a proof that he was a representative of Allah, the Creator and Sovereign of the whole universe. We have already stated that whenever the Messengers presented themselves before the people as the representatives of Allah, the people always demanded: If you are really a representative of Allah, let such and such an event take place through you as may not be capable of being explained by the ordinary laws of nature, and which may clearly show that it has happened by the direct intervention of Allah to prove that you are really a representative of Allah. In answer to this demand, the Prophets showed those signs that are called ayaat by the Quran and miracles by the common people.

It is a pity that sane learned Muslims try to explain away these signs or miracles as ordinary events that took place according to the known physical laws of nature. They do not realize that in this way they are adopting a skeptical attitude towards the Book of Allah, for, in the context, the Quran cites a supernatural event, and it presents the same as a sign of Allah as a proof of his Prophethood. Therefore to explain it away as an ordinary event is, in fact, to disbelieve the Book. Thus such people make their own position ridiculous. On the one hand, they do not sincerely believe in the Quran as a Book of Allah just because it upholds miracles. And on the other hand, they do not have the courage to declare openly their disbelief in the Book which upholds supernatural events, because it would deprive them of the benefit of the religion they profess, as it would adversely affect their worldly interests.

The decisive question about miracles is whether Allah suspended His activities after starting the system of the universe according to certain laws, and now cannot interfere in any way whatever with the working of that system, Or, whether He keeps the reins of His kingdom in His own hands and enforces His commands every moment in this kingdom and He has full powers to make any change, partial or complete, in shaping things and the course of events, as and when He wills. Those who believe in the first alternative cannot believe in the miracles for it goes against their conception of Allah and His universe, but the most proper course for such people is to deny the divine revelation of the Quran instead of writing any commentary on it so as to refute the Quranic conception of Allah and prove their own. On the other hand, if one is convinced by the arguments of the Quran and accepts the second alternative he would readily understand and believe in the miracles. It is quite obvious that if one believes that a serpent can come into being only through a biological process and it is not possible for Allah to create it in any other way, then such a one should consider it false that a staff was changed into a serpent and again into the staff. On the contrary, if one believes that lifeless matter can come to life by the command of Allah, Who has the power to give any kind of life to anything He wills, he will readily believe that the staff was changed into a serpent just as he believes that a live chicken comes out of a lifeless egg. To such a person, there will be nothing extraordinary, just because the staff was changed into a serpent only thrice and a chicken comes out of an egg over and over again.

109. The chiefs of Pharaoh's people said: "Indeed, this is a قَالَ الْمَلَأُ مِنْ قَوْمِ فِرْعَوْنَ sorcerer well versed.”

إِنَّ هَذَا لَسِحْرٌ عَلِيمٌ ﴿١٠٩﴾

110. “He intends that he drives you out from your land.*88 So what do you instruct.”

يُرِيدُ أَنْ يُخْرِجَكُمْ مِنْ أَرْضِكُمْ
فَمَاذَا تَأْمُرُونَ ﴿١١٠﴾

88 Naturally some questions arise here: How was Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) a danger to Pharaoh and his kingdom? How could a destitute person of a slave community like him be a menace to a powerful and rich king like Pharaoh, who was the object of worship of his subjects as well? How was the turning of the staff into a serpent menace to his great kingdom which extended from Syria to Libya and from the Mediterranean Sea to Abyssinia? Why did they then raise the alarm that Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) intended to deprive the great Pharaoh and the members of the royal dynasty and the big chiefs of their kingdom, and drive them out of Egypt? Above all, why was there a danger at all of a revolution, when he had put forward no other claim than that he was a Prophet of Allah; and demanded the freedom of the Israelites? These questions are specially important because so far no political talk had taken place between them.

The answer is that the claim to Prophethood in itself implied that Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) meant to bring about a complete revolution in the existing system of life, including the political system as well. The very fact that a person claims to be a delegate of the Lord of the universe, contains in itself the demand for total submission of human beings to himself. This is because the delegate of the Lord of the universe does not come to live as a subject of and subordinate to anyone else but as the ruler and the guardian. For, it is the negation of his claim to Prophethood to acknowledge the sovereignty of an unbeliever. That is why Pharaoh and his courtiers felt the menace of a political, social and cultural revolution when Moses (peace be upon him) made a claim to Prophethood.

Let us consider the question: Why did the court of the great Pharaoh of Egypt attach so much importance to the claim of Moses (peace be upon him), who had no other helper than his own brother, and no other emblem of his appointment from Allah than his miraculous staff and his shining hand? In my opinion there were two main reasons: First, Pharaoh and his courtiers were fully acquainted with the great personality of Prophet Moses (peace be upon him). They knew that he possessed a pure and strong character and an extraordinary ability, and was a born leader and commander. Besides this, if we rely on the stories of the Talmud and Josephus, Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) had acquired education in all the sciences of the age, and was fully trained in the art of war and administration, because these things were considered essential for the members of the royal family in which he was brought up, and had proved himself to be an excellent general in the campaign against Abyssinia. Above all, the hard desert life of eight years or so in Midian had helped to remove the effects of a life of ease in the royal palace. Therefore, when this grand, serene and pious man stood in the court of Pharaoh with the claim of Prophethood, they could not brush aside his claim as hollow. Secondly, when they saw the miracles of the staff and the shining hand, they were all filled with awe and were inclined to admit that there was, indeed, some supernatural force at his back. Thus there was an apparent contradiction in their calling him a magician and, at the same time, expressing a fear that he would drive them out of the country. This also showed that they had been nonplussed by the very first appearance of the signs of Prophethood: If they had really considered Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) to be a magician, they would have never felt and expressed the danger of a revolution from him, for magic has never brought about any revolution in the world.

111. They said (to Pharaoh):
 “Put him off (a while),
 and his brother, and send into the cities gatherers.”

قَالُوا أَرْجِهْ وَأَخَاهُ وَأَرْسِلْ فِي
 الْمَدَائِنِ حَاشِرِينَ

112. “Who will bring you all well versed sorcerers.”*89

يَأْتُوكَ بِكُلِّ سَاحِرٍ عَلِيمٍ

*89 These words of the courtiers of Pharaoh show that they had a clear conception of the distinction between the change produced by a divine miracle and the effect of magic. They knew that the change brought about by a divine miracle was real, whereas the effect produced by magic was merely an illusion. That is why they tried to refute the claim of Prophet Moses (peace be upon him), saying: This man is an expert magician. They meant to say that the staff had not actually turned into a serpent but had only appeared so to them to be a serpent because of his magic and they would not acknowledge it as a divine miracle. Therefore they counseled Pharaoh to gather together all the expert magicians so that they may show that they could also turn ropes and sticks into serpents and remove to some extent from the hearts of the people the awful effect that had been produced in their minds by the miracle of the staff of Moses (peace be upon him).

113. And the sorcerers came to Pharaoh. They said: “Indeed for us is a reward if we are the victors.”

وَجَاءَ السَّحَرَةُ فِرْعَوْنَ قَالُوا
إِنَّ لَنَا لَأَجْرًا إِن كُنَّا نَحْنُ
الْغَالِبِينَ

114. He (Pharaoh) said: “Yes, and surely you shall be among those nearest (to me).”

قَالَ نَعَمْ وَإِنَّكُمْ لَمِنَ الْمُقْرَبِينَ

115. They said: “O Moses, either that you throw (first) or that shall we be the (first) throwers.”

قَالُوا يَمُوسَىٰ إِمَّا أَنْ تُلْقِيَ وَإِمَّا
أَنْ نَّكُونَ نَحْنُ الْمُلْقِينَ

116. He (Moses) said: “Throw.” So when they threw, they bewitched the eyes of the people, and struck terror into them, and they produced a great magic.

قَالَ أَلْقُوا ط فَلَمَّا أَلْقَوْا سَحَرُوا
أَعْيُنَ النَّاسِ وَأَسْثَرَهُبُهُمْ
وَجَاءُوا بِسِحْرِ عَظِيمٍ

117. And We inspired to Moses (saying) that: “Throw your staff.” So behold, it swallowed up what they were falsifying.*90

﴿ وَأَوْحَيْنَا إِلَىٰ مُوسَىٰ أَنْ أَلْقِ عَصَاكَ فَإِذَا هِيَ تَلْقَفُ مَا يَأْفِكُونَ ﴾

90 There is no ground to believe that the staff of Moses (peace be upon him) swallowed up the sticks and ropes that had been cast by the magicians and had appeared to be serpents. What the Quran says is that the staff swallowed up the false magic produced by them as soon as it turned into a real serpent. In plain words it means that wherever the serpent of the staff went, it nullified the effects of the magic which had made their ropes and sticks appear as moving serpents and as a result of one round made by the staff they began to look like their real selves as ropes and sticks. (See E.N. 42 of Surah Taha).

118. So the truth was established, and was made vain that which they were doing.

﴿ فَوَقَعَ الْحَقُّ وَبَطَلَ مَا كَانُوا يَعْمَلُونَ ﴾

119. So they were defeated there and then, and they were returned disgraced.

﴿ فَغَلِبُوا هُنَالِكَ وَانْقَلَبُوا صَاغِرِينَ ﴾

120. And the sorcerers fell down prostrate.

﴿ وَأَلْقَى السَّحَرَةُ سَاجِدِينَ ﴾

121. They said: “We believe in the Lord of the worlds.”

﴿ قَالُوا ءَامَنَّا بِرَبِّ الْعَالَمِينَ ﴾

122. “The Lord of Moses and Aaron.”*91

رَبِّ مُوسَىٰ وَهَارُونَ

*91 This defeat and acknowledgment turned the tables on the people of Pharaoh. They had mustered all the expert magicians of the land to demonstrate publicly that Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) was a magician or, at least, to create doubts in the minds of the public about his Prophethood. But after the defeat, their own experts in the art admitted unanimously that what Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) was presenting was not magic at all, but most surely it was the work of the power of the Lord of the worlds, and that every kind of magic was powerless against it.

Obviously their considered opinion could not be brushed aside in an offhand way, for none could judge magic better than the magicians. That is why when the magicians testified, after practical demonstration and trial, that it was not magic, it became impossible for Pharaoh and his courtiers to assert that Moses (peace be upon him) was a magician.

123. Pharaoh said: “You have believed in Him before that I give you permission. Surely, this is the plot that you have contrived in the city, that you may drive out therefrom its people. But soon you shall know.”

قَالَ فِرْعَوْنُ ءَاٰمَنْتُمْ بِهٖ قَبْلَ اَنْ
ءَاذَنَ لَكُمْ ۗ اِنَّ هٰذَا لَمَكْرٌ
مَّكْرَتُمُوهُ فِى الْمَدِيْنَةِ لِتُخْرِجُوْا
مِنْهَا اَهْلَهَا فَسَوْفَ تَعْلَمُوْنَ

124. “Surely, I shall have your hands and your feet cut off on opposite sides. Then I shall crucify you all.”

لَأُقَطِّعَنَّ أَيْدِيَكُمْ وَأَرْجُلَكُمْ مِنْ خَلْفٍ ثُمَّ لَأُصَلِّبَنَّكُمْ أَجْمَعِينَ

125. They said: “We shall surely return to our Lord.”

قَالُوا إِنَّا إِلَىٰ رَبِّنَا مُنْقَلِبُونَ

126. “And you do not take vengeance on us except that we have believed in the signs of our Lord when they came to us. Our Lord, shower upon us perseverance and cause us to die as those who have submitted (to You).”^{*92}

وَمَا تَنْقِمُ مِنَّا إِلَّا أَنْ ءَامَنَّا بِآيَاتِ رَبِّنَا لَمَّا جَاءَتْنَا رَبَّنَا أَفْرِغْ عَلَيْنَا صَبْرًا وَتَوَفَّنَا مُسْلِمِينَ

92 When Pharaoh saw the table turning on him, he thought out another device. He declared that the whole show was the outcome of the plot that Moses (peace be upon him) and the magicians had devised. Then he threatened the magicians with a severe chastisement and death so that they should confess that his accusation was true. But this move also turned against him. As the magicians remained firm in their new faith, and were prepared to undergo any torture for its sake, it became evident that their belief in the truth presented by Moses (peace be upon him) was a genuine confession of faith and not the pretense of any plot. That is why he had to give up the pretense of truth and justice and resort to open tyranny.

In this connection it should also be noted that in a few moments, their faith had brought about a wonderful change in the character of the magicians. The same people who had left their homes for the sake of helping the religion of their forefathers and had, a few minutes before, very humbly requested Pharaoh to give them rewards if they came out successful in the conflict with Moses (peace be upon him), were now filled with the courage of conviction of the true faith. They had become so bold and brave that they were now defying the same king, before whom they were meekly bowing, and begging a reward for their encounter. But now they had become so convinced of the truth of their faith that they were not ready to give it up for the fear of the worst torture with which they were being threatened.

127. And the chiefs of Pharaoh's people said: "Will you leave Moses and his people to cause corruption in the land, and to abandon you and your gods." He said: "We will kill their sons, and let live their women."^{*93} And indeed we are in power over them."

وَقَالَ الْمَلَأُ مِنْ قَوْمِ فِرْعَوْنَ
أَتَذَرُ مُوسَى وَقَوْمَهُ لِيُفْسِدُوا
فِي الْأَرْضِ وَيَذَرَكَ وَآلِهَتَكَ
قَالَ سَنَقْتِلُ أَبْنَاءَهُمْ
وَنَسْتَحْيِي نِسَاءَهُمْ وَإِنَّا فَوْقَهُمْ
قَاهِرُونَ

93 It should be noted that there were two periods of oppression. At first the Israelites were oppressed during the reign of Rameses II, before the birth of Prophet Moses (peace be upon him). The second period of oppression mentioned in this verse started during the reign of Mineptah, after the appointment of Moses (peace be upon him) as a Messenger of Allah. However, there was one thing common. The sons of Israelites were killed and the lives of their daughters were spared so that their race should gradually come to an end and the survivors get merged into other races. A tablet that was dug up during the archaeological excavations in 1896; probably refers to this period, when it mentions the exploits and victories of Mineptah, saying, “The Israelites have been exterminated and no seed has been left for their reproduction.” (For further explanation see Ayat 25 of Surah Al-Momin).

128. Moses said to his people: “Seek help in Allah and be patient. Indeed, the earth is Allah’s, He gives it as a heritage to whom He wills of His slaves. And the (blessed) end is for those who fear (Allah).”

قَالَ مُوسَىٰ لِقَوْمِهِ اسْتَعينُوا
بِاللَّهِ وَأَصْبِرُوا إِنَّ الْأَرْضَ لِلَّهِ
يُورِثُهَا مَنْ يَشَاءُ مِنْ عِبَادِهِ
وَالْعَاقِبَةُ لِلْمُتَّقِينَ

129. They (Children of Israel) said: “We suffered harm before that you came to us, and after when you have come to us.” He said: “It may be that your Lord will destroy your enemy and

قَالُوا أُوذِينَا مِنْ قَبْلِ أَنْ تَأْتِيَنَا
وَمِنْ بَعْدِ مَا جِئْتَنَا قَالَ عَسَىٰ
رَبُّكُمْ أَنْ يُهْلِكَ عَدُوَّكُمْ make you successors on the earth, so He may see how you act.”

وَيَسْتَخْلِفُكُمْ فِي الْأَرْضِ
فَيَنْظُرَ كَيْفَ تَعْمَلُونَ ﴿١٢٩﴾

130. And indeed, We seized Pharaoh's people with years (of droughts) and shortness of fruits, that they might receive admonition.

وَلَقَدْ أَخَذْنَا آلَ فِرْعَوْنَ
بِالسِّنِينَ وَنَقْصٍ مِنَ الثَّمَرَاتِ
لَعَلَّهُمْ يَذَّكَّرُونَ ﴿١٣٠﴾

131. So whenever prosperity came to them, they said: “This is ours.” and if a calamity afflicted them, they attributed it to evil omens of Moses and those with him. Behold, their evil omens are only with Allah, but most of them do not know.

فَإِذَا جَاءَتْهُمْ الْحَسَنَةُ قَالُوا لَنَا
هَذِهِ وَإِنْ تُصِبْهُمْ سَيِّئَةٌ
يَطَّيَّرُوا بِمُوسَىٰ وَمَنْ مَعَهُ ۗ أَلَا
إِنَّمَا طَّيَّرَهُمْ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ وَلَكِنَّ
أَكْثَرَهُمْ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ ﴿١٣١﴾

132. And they said: “whatever of a sign you may bring to us, to work your sorcery on us therewith, we shall not believe in you.”*94

وَقَالُوا مَهْمَا تَأْتِنَا بِهِ مِنْ آيَةٍ
لِتَسْحَرَنَا بِهَا فَمَا نَحْنُ لَكَ
بِمُؤْمِنِينَ ﴿١٣٢﴾

94 This was the height of bigotry and obduracy that the courtiers of Pharaoh were dubbing as magic that thing which they knew could never be magic. Even a fool would not believe that magic can bring about famine and scarcity in the whole country. In connection with the same story the Quran says in Surah An-Namal, Ayats 13-14, “When Our signs came openly before their eyes, they said: This is an obvious magic. Though their hearts were convinced (of their truth), they denied these unjustly and rebelliously.”

133. Then We sent on them the flood,^{*95} and the locusts, and the lice,^{*96} and the frogs, and the blood, as manifest signs. Yet they remained arrogant, and they were a criminal people.

فَأَرْسَلْنَا عَلَيْهِمُ الطُّوفَانَ وَالْجَرَادَ
وَالْقُمَّلَ وَالضَّفَادِعَ وَالدمَّ
آيَاتٍ مُفَصَّلَاتٍ فَاسْتَكْبَرُوا
وَكَانُوا قَوْمًا مُجْرِمِينَ

95 Probably it was a rain-storm that was accompanied by hailstones, though it could have been any other kind of storm. As the Bible does not mention a rain-storm but only a heavy fall of hailstones, the common word storm has been preferred.

96 The Arabic word qummal in the original stands for any of the small insects like louse, small fly, mosquito, small locusts, weevil and the like. Probably this comprehensive word has been used for the reason that lice and mosquitoes had inflicted human beings and seed-weevils had attacked granaries at one and the same time. (For comparison, see Chapters 7-12 of Exodus).

134. And when the punishment fell on them, they said: “O Moses, pray for us

وَلَمَّا وَقَعَ عَلَيْهِمُ الرِّجْزُ قَالُوا يَمُوسَى ادْعُ لَنَا رَبَّكَ بِمَا unto your Lord, because He has a covenant with you. If you will remove from us the punishment, we shall indeed believe in you, and we will let the Children of Israel go with you.”

عَهْدَ عِنْدَكَ لِيْنَ كَشَفْتَ
عَنَّا الرَّجْزَ لِنُؤْمِنَنَّ لَكَ وَلِنُرْسِلَنَّ
مَعَكَ بَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ ﴿١٣٤﴾

135. Then when We removed from them the punishment for a fixed term which they had to reach, behold, they broke their covenant.

فَلَمَّا كَشَفْنَا عَنْهُمْ الرَّجْزَ إِلَى
أَجَلٍ هُمْ بَلَغُوهُ إِذَا هُمْ

136. Then We took retribution from them. So We drowned them in the sea, because they denied Our revelations and were heedless of them.

فَأَنْتَقَمْنَا مِنْهُمْ فَأَغْرَقْنَاهُمْ فِي

137. And We made to inherit the people who were oppressed, the eastern parts of the land and the western parts thereof, that (land) whereon We put our blessing.*97 And the good word of your Lord was fulfilled for the Children of Israel, for they had endured

وَأَوْرَثْنَا الْقَوْمَ الَّذِينَ كَانُوا

الْحُسْنَىٰ عَلَىٰ بَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ بِمَا with patience. And We destroyed all that Pharaoh and his people had built, and that which they had erected.

يَصْنَعُ فِرْعَوْنُ وَقَوْمُهُ وَمَا
كَانُوا يَعْرِشُونَ

*97 That is, the Israelites were made the inheritors of Palestine. Some commentators infer from this that the Israelites were made the masters of Egypt. But we hesitate to accept this version for there is neither any direct reference to it in the Quran nor is there any historical evidence to support it. (Sec E.N. 57 of Surah Al-Kahaf and E.N. 45 of Surah Ash-Shuara).

138. And We brought the Children of Israel across the sea, then they came upon a people devoted to idols of theirs (in worship). They said: “O Moses, make for us a god same as they have gods.”*98 He said: “You are indeed an ignorant people.”

وَجَوَزْنَا بِبَنِي إِسْرَائِيلَ الْبَحْرَ
فَاتَوَّأ عَلَىٰ قَوْمٍ يَعْكُفُونَ عَلَىٰ
أَصْنَامِهِمْ ۚ قَالُوا يَا مُوسَىٰ
اجْعَلْ لَنَا إِلَهًا كَمَا لَهُمْ آلِهَةٌ
قَالَ إِنَّكُمْ قَوْمٌ تَجْهَلُونَ

*98 “The people” were the Egyptians, who lived at Mafqah, a cantonment in the Sinai Peninsula. The Israelites crossed the Red Sea probably at a place somewhere between the present Suez and Ismailiyah, and started on their journey along the coast towards the southern part of the Peninsula, which was at that time under Egypt. In its lower part, there were copper and emerald mines, and for their protection the Egyptians had built cantonments at some places. One of these was at Mafqah, where the Egyptians had set up a big idol temple whose remnants are found even today in the south-western part of the Peninsula. At another place near it, there was another idol temple, which was dedicated to the Moon-god. Probably the Israelites were passing by one of these idol temples, when they made their demand for an artificial god. This shows that slavery under the Egyptians had left a deep mark of their culture on the Israelites.

It can be easily judged from the following remarks made by Joshua, son of Nun, Moses (peace be upon him) first successor, in his last address to the Israelites, seventy years after their exodus from Egypt:

“Now therefore fear the Lord, and serve Him in sincerity and in truth: and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and in Egypt; and serve ye the Lord. And if it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.”

(Joshua, 24: 14-15).

This shows that even after forty years of training and guidance under Prophet Moses (peace be upon him), and 28 years under Prophet Joshua (peace be upon him), the Israelites could not cleanse themselves of the evil effects that had been stamped upon their lives during their long slavery under the Pharaohs of Egypt. That is why these corrupted Muslims were so eager to bow down before those gods, whom their Egyptian masters served, no sooner did they see an idol temple after their exodus.

139. “Indeed, these people will be destroyed for that which they are engaged in. And vain is that which (idols worship) they are doing.”

إِنَّ هَؤُلَاءِ مُتَّبِعُونَ مَا هُمْ فِيهِ

140. He said: “Is it other than Allah I should seek for you as a god. And He has favored you above the nations.”

99 After their departure from Egypt, when the Israelites became free from the shackles of slavery, and won the position of an independent nation, Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) was summoned to Mount Sinai by the divine command so that the law should be given to him for them. This was the first summons of the series that is being mentioned here. Forty days were appointed so that he should prepare himself by fast, devotion, worship, prayer, deep thought, meditation and reflection for the heavy task that was about to be entrusted to him. On this occasion prophet Moses (peace be upon him) left the Israelites at a place now called Wadiy-u-Shaikh, between Nabi Salih and Mt. Sinai. That part of the valley where the Israelites then encamped is now called Maidan-ur-Rahat. At one end of the valley is situated the hillock, where, according to the local tradition Prophet Salih (peace be upon him) migrated from the territory of Thamud. The mosque, which was built in his memory, stands there even today. On the other side, there is another hillock, called Jabl-i-Harun, where, it is said, Prophet Aaron (peace be upon him) had gone in protest against the cow-worship of the Israelites. On its third side is Mt. Sinai, which is 7359 feet above the sea level and is usually covered with clouds. On the top of this is the cave in which Moses (peace be upon him) spent forty days and nights and which has become a holy place of pilgrimage. There is a mosque of the Muslims and a church of the Christians near the cave and at the foot, a monastery built during the reign of Justinian, Byzantine Emperor. (For details, see E.Ns 9, 10 of Surah Al-Qasas).

100 Though Prophet Aaron (peace be upon him) was the elder of the two by three years, he was under Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) in the mission of Prophethood. In fact, Prophet Aaron (peace be upon him) was appointed as a Prophet to work as an assistant to Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) in response to his prayer. The fact that he was appointed by Allah as assistant to Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) has been stated in Surah Al-Furqan, Ayat 35.

143. And when Moses came to the place appointed by Us, and his Lord spoke to him, he said: "My Lord, show me, that I may look at You." He said: "Never can you see Me, but look at the mountain, so if it remains firm in its place, then you shall see Me." Then when his Lord manifested His glory to the mountain, He sent it crashing down, and

101 The Bible says that these two tablets were slabs of stone. Both the Quran and the Bible ascribe the writing upon them to Allah. We have, however, no specific source to say how that was done. Therefore we cannot say with certainty whether the writing was inscribed on the tablets directly by Allah or through the agency of an angel or by Prophet Moses (peace be upon him). Please compare this with Exodus 31: 18, 32: 15-16, Deut. 5: 6-22.

*102 That is, the divine precepts and instructions should be followed in their direct and plain meanings, that can be grasped by a man of average intelligence, who has a pure heart and pure intentions. This condition has been attached lest one should confuse them with the hair-splitting of those who, by their legal quibbling, are able to devise ways of crookedness, deceit and mischief out of the plain words of the divine commandments.

*103 That is, in your onward march, you will pass through the ruins of the homes of those who disobeyed the divine law and discarded the way of Allah's worship and obedience and persisted in the paths of error. When you see these things you will know the end of the people who adopt such ways.

And if they see the way of righteousness, they will not adopt that way. And if they see the way of error, they will adopt that way. That is because they 104 That is, this is My law: such people as behave haughtily cannot take any warning from any exemplary sign and cannot learn any lesson from anything that may teach a lesson.

According to the Quran, a person behaves haughtily who considers himself above submission to Allah and becomes heedless of His commandments and behaves in a way as if he was not a servant of Allah and Allah was not his Lord. Obviously such an arrogance is not based on any rightful claim, for no servant has any right to behave as if he were not His servant, when he lives on Allah's earth. That is why Allah says, who without any right behave arrogantly.

147. And those who denied Our revelations and the meeting of the Hereafter, vain are their deeds. ^{*105} Shall they be recompensed except what they used to do.

105 "Vain are their deeds" produced no good result and were useless and worthless, because these did not satisfy the two elementary conditions that make human deeds worthwhile. First, these should be performed in accordance with the divine law. Secondly, the object of these acts and deeds should be success in the Hereafter and not mere success in this world. If these two conditions are not fulfilled in the performance of any deed, it shall become vain. Obviously anything done without giving heed to or in defiance of the divine guidance does not deserve any reward from Him, for his case is the same as that of a usurper of land, who exploits it against the owner's will. He does not deserve anything but severe punishment for this wrongful possession. Though he may benefit from it as long as the real owner connives at his audacity, he knows that he will be deprived of it when he is dispossessed of it. And there is no reason why (and he himself does not expect that) any portion of its produce should go to him, after the real owner takes possession of his land from the usurper.

148. And the people of Moses made, after him (his absence),^{*106} from their ornaments, a calf (for worship), an image having a lowing sound. Did they not see that it could neither speak to them nor guide them to the way. They took it (for worship) and they were wrong doers.^{*107}

106 They made the image in his absence of forty days, when Moses (peace be upon him) went to Mt. Sinai on the summons of Allah, while his people were encamping in the plain of Ar-Rahah.

*107 Their calf worship was the second manifestation of the change that had taken place in the Israelites during their stay in Egypt. They were so charmed by the cow worship of the Egyptians that the Quran says, "They were so prone to disbelief that they cherished the calf in their hearts." It is really strange that hardly three months after their miraculous escape from Egypt, they began to make demands on their Prophet to make an artificial god for them, and, as soon as he left them for the Sinai, they themselves devised a false god. It appears as if they had forgotten their recent deliverance from slavery, and their safe passage through the sea and the drowning of Pharaoh and his army in it. Though they knew that all those wonderful events had happened wholly and solely through the supernatural power of the Eternal, yet they shamefacedly forgot their Allah. It was this faithless conduct of the Israelites that prompted some of their Prophets to liken the community to that wicked woman who shows love to all men other than her husband and does not hesitate to be faithless even in the very first night of her marriage.

149. And when they regretted the consequences thereof, and saw that they had indeed gone astray, they said: "If our Lord does not have mercy on us, and (does not) pardon us, we shall indeed be among the losers.”

150. And when Moses returned to his people, angry (and) grieved, he said: “Evil is that which you have done in my place after me (my absence). Did you make haste to (bring on) the judgment of your Lord.” And he put down the tablets, and he seized his brother by the head, dragging him towards him. He (Aaron) said: “O son of my mother, indeed the people judged me weak and were about to kill me. So make not the enemies rejoice over me, nor put me amongst the people who are wrong doers.”*108

بِيَ الْأَعْدَاءَ وَلَا تَجْعَلْنِي مَعَ
الْقَوْمِ الظَّالِمِينَ

108 By citing his words “nor put me amongst the people who are wrong doers”, the Quran has absolved Prophet Aaron (peace be upon him) from the wicked blemish that the Jews had stamped upon him. According to the Bible, Prophet Aaron (peace be upon him) was guilty of making the golden calf as god for them:

“And when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down out of the mount, the people gathered themselves together unto Aaron and said unto him, make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wont not what is become of him. And Aaron said unto them, Break off the golden earrings, which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me. And all the people brake off the golden earrings, which were in their ears and brought them unto Aaron. And he received them at their hand, and fashioned it with a Braving tool, after he had made it a molten calf: and they said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. And when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it; and Aaron made proclamation, and said, Tomorrow is a feast to the Lord. And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play. (Exodus, 32: 1-6). The Quran has refuted this allegation and related the fact about the matter that the man responsible for this heinous sin was not Allah's Prophet Aaron but his rebel Samiri. (For details, see Surah Taha, Ayats 90-94).

Though it may appear very strange that the Jews should accuse their own Prophets of the most heinous sins, yet a deep and critical study of their history will show that this was done to justify their own moral degradation. When the whole community in general, and the religious scholars and priests in particular, became involved in deviations and immoralities, their guilty consciences impelled them to invent excuses for justifying their own bad conduct. As they committed heinous sins like shirk, sorcery, adultery, treachery, falsehood and the like, they blemished the pure character of their own Prophets by ascribing such sins to them as were most shameful even for an ordinary good man, not to speak of a prophet so that they could justify their own wicked deeds. They argued like this: When even the Prophets could not save themselves from such sins, how could ordinary people like us be immune from weaknesses? The Hindus also did the same during their moral degeneration and the literature of that period depicts gods, rishis and the like, in the blackest colors so that they could say: When such highly placed beings were involved in immoralities, how could the common people escape from them? And why should such things be shameful for them, when they were not shameful for their gods and rishis?

151. He (Moses) said: “O my Lord, forgive me and my brother, and make us enter into Your mercy. And you are the Most Merciful of those who show mercy.”

قَالَ رَبِّ اغْفِرْ لِي وَلِإِخِي وَادْخِلْنَا فِي رَحْمَتِكَ وَأَنْتَ
أَرْحَمُ الرَّاحِمِينَ

152. Certainly, those who took the calf (for worship), wrath will come upon them from their Lord, and humiliation in the life of the world. And thus do We recompense those who fabricate lies.

And Moses chose from his people seventy men for an appointment with Us.^{*109} So when they were seized with a violent earthquake, he said: "O My Lord, if it had been Your will, You could have destroyed them before, and me. 109 The seventy delegates were summoned to Mt. Sinai so that they should present themselves before their Lord and on behalf of the community beg forgiveness for the sin of calf-worship that was committed by the Israelites, and to renew the covenant of obedience to Him. The Bible and the Talmud do not mention this, though the Bible says that Moses was summoned to Mt. Sinai so that he should be given new tablets for those that were broken, when he had thrown them down. (Exodus chapter 34).

110 That is, every occasion of trial is very decisive for the people: it separates like a winnow useful from the useless out of a mixed mass. On such decisive occasions, the one who comes out successful in the trial does so only by divine guidance and help, and the one who fails in the test becomes unsuccessful because he is deprived of divine guidance and help. Though one gets Allah’s guidance and help in accordance with certain divine laws, which are based on absolute wisdom and justice, anyway the fact is that one’s success or failure in the trial depends entirely on divine guidance and help.

156. And ordain for us good in this world, and in the Hereafter. Certainly, we have turned unto You. He said: “My punishment, I

هُمُ الْمُفْلِحُونَ

*112 After replying to the prayer of Moses (peace be upon him) in the previous verse, the Quran utilizes the opportunity to invite the Israelites to follow Muhammad (peace be upon him). It means: The conditions that were laid down for Allah's mercy upon you during the time of Prophet Moses (peace be upon him), still stand, and require you to believe in this Messenger. It was said to you that Allah's mercy is sent to those people who refrain from disobedience. Now, there is no greater disobedience than to reject the guidance of the Messengers appointed by Allah. If you, therefore, do not refrain from this disobedience, you will have no other basis of virtue left in spite of your show of piety in the observance of minor and trifling religious rituals. You were enjoined to pay the Zakat so that you may be blessed with mercy, but today the only right way of spending of the Zakat is to make contributions towards the success of the campaign that is being carried on for the establishment of the divine way under the leadership of this Messenger, for the basic requirements of Zakat can only be fulfilled in this way. You were told that Allah has prescribed His Mercy for those who believe in His revelations: therefore if you reject the revelations that Allah is sending down to His Messenger, you will have failed to fulfill this last condition, even though you might go on asserting that you believe in the revelations of the Torah.

Here the use of the word ummi for the Prophet (peace be upon him) is very significant. This title was used to break the national pride and arrogance of the Jews, who called the non-Jews ummis (gentiles). In this respect, they were so arrogant that, as a nation, not to speak of acknowledging an ummi as their leader, they were not ready even to concede basic human rights to the gentiles. They asserted, “We are not to be called to account for our behavior towards the gentiles” (Surah Aal-Imran, Ayat 75). That is why Allah has used the word ummi before Prophet, as if to say. “Now your salvation solely depends on following this Ummi Prophet. If you follow him, you will receive a portion of My mercy, otherwise you are doomed to the same wrath to which you have been subjected during the centuries of your deviation.

113 There are clear references in the Bible to the coming of Muhammad (peace be upon him). For instance, see Deut. 18: 15-19, Matthew 21: 33 45. John I: 19-21, 14: 15-17, 25-30, 15: 25-26, 16: 7-15.

114 That is, He makes lawful those pure things which they have made unlawful, and stakes unlawful those impure things which they have made lawful.

115 That is, He relieves them of the burdens that had been laid on them by the legal hair-splitting of their jurists and by the exaggerated piety of their spiritual leaders, and by the superstitious restrictions and regulations imposed by their common people. Likewise this Messenger makes their lives free from the fetters with which they themselves had bound their lives

158. Say (O Muhammad):
“O mankind, indeed I am the Messenger of Allah to you all, Him to whom belongs the dominion of the heavens and the earth. There is no god but Him. He gives life and causes death. So believe in Allah, and His Messenger, the unlettered Prophet, who believes in Allah and His words, and follow him so that you may be guided.

وَمِنْ قَوْمِ مُوسَى أُمَّةٌ يَهْتَدُونَ
بِالْحَقِّ وَبِهِ يَعْدِلُونَ

116 The theme of the address that was interrupted by the parenthesis, Ayats 157-158, is again being resumed.

117 The majority of the translators render Ayat 159 like this: Among the people of Moses there is a group that guides and decides in accordance with the Truth. They mean to say that there existed such a group among the Jews at the time of the revelation of the Quran. But from the context in which this occurs, we conclude that there was such a group of good people among the Israelites during the time of Prophet Moses (peace be upon him). This has been mentioned here to show that there were some good people even at that time, when the Israelites had gone to the lowest level of moral and spiritual degradation and adopted the worship of the golden calf, and were punished by Allah.

160. And We divided them into twelve tribes (as distinct) nations.^{*118} And We inspired to Moses, when his people asked him for water, (saying) that: “Strike with your stick the stone.” So there gushed forth out of it twelve springs. Each (group of) people did indeed know their drinking place. And We shaded over them with the clouds, and We sent down for them the manna and the quails^{*119} (saying): “Eat of the good things with which We have provided you. And they wronged Us not, but they used to wrong themselves.

118 This refers to the organization of the Israelites that has been stated in Ayat 12 of Surah Al-Maidah and given in detail in Numbers, the fourth Book of the Bible. According to this, Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) was bidden in the desert of Sinai by the Eternal to count up the total members of the community of Israel. Accordingly they were numbered and divided into twelve clans, comprising the descendants of the ten sons of Prophet Jacob (peace be upon him) and two sons of Prophet Joseph (peace be upon him). The twelve men, who were at the head of each clan, were made the leaders of their ancestral clans so that they should look after the moral, religious, social, cultural and military condition of each clan and enforce the commandments. However, the ancestral clan of Prophets Moses and Aaron (peace be upon them), the clan of the Levites, the twelfth son of Prophet Jacob (peace be upon him) was left out. It was not counted among the other twelve clans of Israel, but was organized as a separate community and was entrusted with the duty of looking after the religious and spiritual welfare of all the clans of general Israel.

119 The above mentioned organization was one of the great favors that had been conferred by Allah on the Israelites. In continuation of the same, three more favors have been mentioned here:

(1) The miraculous supply of water during their stay in the Sinai Peninsula.

(2) The sky was covered with clouds to protect them from the scorching heat of the desert.

(3) Manna and salva were sent down in a supernatural manner to feed them there. It is obvious that if adequate arrangements had not been made for the supply of these three most important necessities of life, this big community that consisted of about two million people would have perished with heat, hunger and thirst.

A visit to the Peninsula makes one realize that it is not possible even today to arrange for the supply of water and food and for shelter from the sun, if such a large number of people should happen to visit that place without previous arrangements. It is so thinly populated that its total population is not more than a few thousands. It would be a headache even for a modern government, if it wanted to send an army of say, only 500,000 soldiers there in this twentieth century of inventions. That is why many research scholars who believe neither in revealed Books nor in miracles have rejected the historical fact that the Israelites ever passed through and stayed in that part of the Peninsula for years, as mentioned in the Quran and the Bible. They opine that they might have passed through a region somewhere to the south of Palestine and to the north of Arabia. They consider that it is inconceivable for such a large number of people to encamp so long, under the hard geographical and economical conditions of the Peninsula, when in addition to these the means of supplies from Egypt were also cut off, and there was a constant threat of attack from the Amelikites who lived in the eastern and northern parts of the Peninsula.

If we keep in view these things, we can appreciate the true value of the favors that have been mentioned here. At the same time, it also becomes obvious that this community showed ingratitude by committing acts of disobedience and infidelity, which abound in its history. (Compare this with E.Ns 72, 73 and 76 of Surah Al-Baqarah).

161. And^{*120} when it was said to them: “Dwell in this township and eat therefrom wherever you wish, and say repentance, and enter the gate prostrate. We shall forgive you your sins, We shall increase (reward) for those who do good.”

وَإِذْ قِيلَ لَهُمْ اسْكُنُوا هَذِهِ
الْقَرْيَةَ وَكُلُوا مِنْهَا حَيْثُ
شِئْتُمْ وَقُولُوا حِطَّةٌ وَادْخُلُوا
الْبَابَ سُجَّدًا نَغْفِرْ لَكُمْ
خَطِيئَتِكُمْ ۚ سَنَزِيدُ
الْمُحْسِنِينَ

120 Now some incidents from the history of the Israelites are being related to show that their response to the above mentioned favors of Allah was very wicked and rebellious, which gradually threw them into the lowest abyss of destruction.

162. Then those who did wrong among them, changed the word to other (word), that which had been said to them. So We sent down upon them wrath^{*121} from heaven for the wrong that they were doing.

فَبَدَّلَ الَّذِينَ ظَلَمُوا مِنْهُمْ

121 Please refer to E.Ns 74 and 75 of Surah Al-Baqarah.

163. And ask them (O Muhammad) about the township that was by the sea,^{*122} when they transgressed in (the matter of) the sabbath. When their fish came to them on their sabbath day openly,^{*123} and the day they had no sabbath, they did not come to them. Thus, did We try them because they were disobedient.^{*124}

كَذَلِكَ نَبْلُوهُمْ بِمَا كَانُوا
يَفْسُقُونَ

122 The research scholars are of the opinion that the place refers to Ailah or Elat or Elote where the modern Jewish state of Israel has constructed a seaport of the same name and near which is situated Jordan's famous seaport of Aqabah. It is at the end of that long inlet of the Red Sea which is between the eastern pan of the Sinai Peninsula and the western side of Arabia. It was a very important trade center in the heyday of the Israelites. Prophet Solomon (peace be upon him) had made this city the chief port of his fleet in the Red Sea.

The incident referred to here has neither been mentioned in the religious books of the Jews nor in their history books but the way in which the Quran has related it here and in Surah Al-Baqarah clearly shows that at the time of its revelation, it was well known among the Israelites. That is why the Jews of Al-Madinah did not challenge its validity; although they never missed a chance of raising an objection against the Prophet (peace be upon him).

123 Sabbath (Saturday) is the holy day of the week. The Lord made Saturday the Sabbath day for the Jews, saying, “Verily my Sabbaths ye will keep: for it is a sign between Me and you throughout your generations....every one that defileth it shall surely be put to death: for whosoever doeth any work therein, that soul shall be cut off from among his people...wherefore the children of Israel shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant.” (Exodus 31: 12-16). But, in spite of this commandment that held out the punishment of death for any worldly work, from burning fire in the houses to taking any service from animals or slaves, the Israelites had begun to practice open violation of this law. So much so that during the time of Prophet Jeremiah (peace be upon him) 628-586 B.C, they used to carry in loads through the gates of Jerusalem on the Sabbath day. Therefore the Prophet had to hold out the threat that he would light a fire in the city gates that would burn up the buildings of Jerusalem and never be put out. (Jeremiah 17: 21-27). Likewise, Prophet Ezekiel (peace be upon him) 595-536 B.C, also complains bitterly of the desecration of Lord’s Sabbath by the Jews on a national scale (Ezekiel 20: 12-24). From these quotations it appears that the desecration of Sabbath mentioned here in the Quran probably took place during this period.

*124 Allah puts His servants to trial in many ways. When He sees that some of them are turning away from obedience to His law, and are growing more and more prone to disobedience, He opens the doors of disobedience before them by holding out such temptations as are very alluring to those people. Thus their evil intentions openly come to the surface and they commit such crimes from which they had refrained only for the lack of necessary opportunities for them.

164. And when a community among them said: “Why do you preach to a people whom Allah is about to destroy or punish them with a severe punishment.” They said: “To offer an excuse before your Lord, and perhaps they may fear (Allah).”

وَإِذْ قَالَتْ أُمَّةٌ مِّنْهُمْ لِمَ تَعِظُونَ قَوْمًا لَّا اللَّهُ مُهْلِكُهُمْ أَوْ مُعَذِّبُهُمْ عَذَابًا شَدِيدًا قَالُوا مَعذِرَةٌ إِلَىٰ رَبِّكُمْ وَلَعَلَّهُمْ يَتَّقُونَ

165. Then, when they forgot what they had been reminded with, We rescued those who forbade from evil, and We seized those who did wrong with a severe punishment because they were disobedient.*125

فَلَمَّا نَسُوا مَا ذُكِّرُوا بِهِ عَنَّا جُنُودَنَا الَّتِي نَهَوْنَا عَنْ السُّوْءِ وَأَخَذْنَا الَّذِينَ ظَلَمُوا بِعَذَابِنَا بَعِيضٍ بِمَا كَانُوا

125 This shows that there were three kinds of people in that town. First, there were those who were openly and boldly violating the divine rules and regulations. Then there were some who did not violate the laws themselves but silently saw others violating them: they told admonishers that it was no good to give any piece of advice to those hardened lawbreakers. Lastly, there were others who were so much imbued with the sense of honor and courage that they could not tolerate such open violations of the divine law. They enjoined the lawbreakers to practice virtue and refrain from evil in the hope that they would return to the right way, or at least, they themselves would be in a position to present the proof before their Lord that they, on their part, did their duty to admonish those lawbreakers. Accordingly, when the scourge of Allah befell that township, the only people who were delivered from it were those who belonged to the third group. According to the Quran, they were delivered because they had shown their concern for the eradication of evil. The other two groups were counted among the workers of iniquity and punished in proportion to the nature and extent of their crime.

Some commentators are of the view that it cannot be said with certainty whether the second group was among those who were delivered or among those who were punished, for the Quran is not explicit about this. According to a tradition from Ibn Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him), he was at first of the opinion that the second group was among those who were punished, but afterwards his disciple Ikrimah convinced him that it was among those who were delivered. But when we consider deeply the words of the Quran, we feel that his first opinion was correct for it is obvious that on the occasion of a scourge, the concerned township was divided into two groups only. One group consisted of those who were visited by the scourge, and the other of those who were delivered from it. Now when the Quran is explicit that the group that was delivered consisted of those who were forbidding evil, the other two groups must have been among those who were not delivered. This conclusion is supported by “To offer an excuse before your Lord”, and also by the succeeding verse. It is quite clear from this that the whole township, wherein the law of Allah is openly violated, is seized by His wrath, with the only exception of those who forbid evil. One will not be delivered simply because one did not violate the law but shall have to show practically that one did exert his utmost to establish virtue and eradicate vice. This view is further supported by other passages from the Quran and Hadith that this is the law of Allah concerning collective crimes. The Quran says, “Fear that trial which will not involve in scourge only those who will be guilty of transgression from among you” (Surah Al-Anfaal, Ayat 25). Explaining this verse, the Prophet (peace be upon him) says, Allah does not punish the common people for the sins of sinful people unless the common people connive at those glaring sins that are committed before their very eyes and show no displeasure at them, in spite of the fact that they are in a position to do so. When they degenerate to such a degree, then Allah seizes the criminals as well as the connivers.

Besides this, it appears from the verses under discussion that the scourge of Allah was sent to that township in two installments. The first has been called a severe scourge. The second was "Be apes". We are of the opinion that the scourge in the first case was inflicted on both the first and the second groups, but in the second case it was inflicted on the first group only. (And Allah knows best. If I am right, this is from Allah and if I am wrong, it is from me. And Allah is Forgiving and Merciful).

166. So when they were insolent about that which they had been forbidden from, We said to them: "Be you apes, despised."^{*126}

*127 The Arabic word ta-azzana means “to give notice” or “to make known”.

*128 Such a warning had been administered over and over again to the Israelites ever since the eighth century before the Christian era and is contained in the Books of Isaiah, Jeremiah and of the Prophets after them. Then Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) also administered the same in several of his addresses in the Gospels. Last of all, the Quran also gave the same warning. The fact that since then the Jewish people have always been abased and degraded at one place or the other is a clear proof that the Quran and those Books are really the Books of Allah.

168. And We have divided them in the earth as nations. Among them some are righteous, and some among them are other than that. And We have tested them with good things and evil things that perhaps they might return (to Our obedience).”

169. Then succeeded after them a generation, which inherited the book. They took the vanities of this lower life, and saying: “It will be forgiven for us.” And if there came to them an offer like it, they would (again) take it.^{*129} Has not the covenant of the book been taken from them, that they would not speak about Allah but the truth. And they have studied that which is therein.^{*130} And the abode of the Hereafter is better for those who fear (Allah).^{*131} Do not you then understand.

الْكِتَابَ يَأْخُذُونَ عَرَضَ هَذَا

الْأَدْنَىٰ وَيَقُولُونَ سَيُغْفَرُ لَنَا وَإِن يَأْتِهِمْ عَرْضٌ مِّثْلَهُ يَأْخُذُوهُ

129 In other words, they commit a sin, like illegal possession, knowing well that it is a sin, in the expectation of forgiveness. They rely on the presumption that they are the favorites of Allah; therefore, they will be pardoned somehow or other, in spite of what they did. That is why they neither feel ashamed of a sin nor repent of it. Moreover, they would again commit a similar sin as soon as there is another opportunity for it. What a wretched people they are! They inherited the Book that was to make them the leaders of the world; yet they aspired to nothing higher than to grab the transitory things of this world. Thus they became the wretched worshipers of this world, instead of being the bearers of the banner of justice and righteousness and the leaders of virtue and reform.

130 They themselves have studied the Book, and know that there is absolutely no mention in the Torah of an unconditional salvation of the Israelites. When neither Allah guaranteed to them nor did their Prophets ever give them the assurance that they would obtain salvation anyhow, what right do they have to ascribe to Allah what He never told them? Besides this, their guilt becomes more heinous because they were breaking the covenant they had made with Allah that they would say nothing but the truth in the name of Allah.

*131 This verse may be translated in two ways. The one that has been adopted in the text means this: “The abode of the Hereafter is worthy of good people and will be given only to those who are God fearing for it is not the monopoly of any person or family as such. How can it be possible that one should commit such deeds as deserve punishment yet get a good place in the Hereafter, just because one is a Jew or an Israelite? The second rendering will be this: The abode of the Hereafter is better for God fearing people who prefer the good life in the Hereafter to a life of pleasure in this world, for only those people who have no fear of Allah can prefer the pleasures of this life to the joys and peace of the next world.

170. And those who hold fast to the Book, and establish worship, certainly, We shall not waste the reward of those who do righteous deeds.

وَالَّذِينَ يُمَسِّكُونَ بِالْكِتَابِ

171. And when We raised the mountain above them, as if it

﴿ وَإِذْ نَتَقْنَا الْجَبَلَ فَوْقَهُمْ كَأَنَّهُ had been a canopy, and they thought that it was about to fall on them (and We said): “Hold that which We have given you firmly, and remember that which is therein, so that you may fear (Allah).”^{*132}

ظُلَّةٌ وَظَنُّوا أَنَّهُ وَاقِعٌ بِهِمْ خُذُوا
مَا آتَيْنَاكُمْ بِقُوَّةٍ وَاذْكُرُوا مَا
فِيهِ لَعَلَّكُمْ تَتَّقُونَ

132 This is a reference to the event that occurred at the foot of Mt. Sinai on the occasion when the stone tablets containing the covenant were given to Moses (peace be upon him). The Bible says, “And Moses brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God; and they stood at the nearer part of the mount. And mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke because the Lord descended upon it in fire: and the smoke thereof ascended as the smoke of a furnace, and the whole mount quaked greatly. (Exodus 19: 17-18).

Allah caused such conditions before taking a covenant from the Children of Israel in the above environment so that they might realize the greatness, the exaltation and the glory of Allah with Whom they were making the covenant, and the importance of the covenant itself. It does not, however, mean that they were not willing to enter into the compact with Allah and were coerced to do so in this terrifying way. The fact is that they all were sincere believers and had gone to the foot of the mountain for the very object of making a covenant with Allah. But, instead of making the covenant in an ordinary way, these awe inspiring conditions were created in order to impress on them its great importance so that they should keep in mind the power of the Almighty God, with Whom they were making it and the fear of grave consequences of breaking it.

Here the address to the Israelites comes to an end. In the succeeding passages, it is directed to mankind in general, and to the people of the Prophet (peace be upon him) in particular.

172. And^{*133} when your Lord brought forth from the Children of Adam, from their loins, their descendants, and made them testify as to themselves, (saying): “Am I not your Lord.” They said: “Yes, we do testify.”^{*134} lest you should say on the Day of Resurrection: “Indeed, we were unaware of this.”

وَإِذْ أَخَذَ رَبُّكَ مِنْ بَنِي آدَمَ مِنْ
ظُهُورِهِمْ ذُرِّيَّتَهُمْ وَأَشْهَدَهُمْ
عَلَىٰ أَنفُسِهِمْ أَلَسْتُ بِرَبِّكُمْ
قَالُوا بَلَىٰ شَهِدْنَا أَن
تَقُولُوا يَوْمَ الْقِيَامَةِ إِنَّا كُنَّا
عَنْ هَذَا غَافِلِينَ ﴿١٧٢﴾

133 The previous theme ended with this that God took a covenant from the Children of Israel to the effect that they should surrender to and obey their Lord. From here the address is being directed to the whole of mankind, which is being reminded that all the people, and not the Israelites alone, are bound by a covenant. Therefore they shall be called upon to render individually an account as to how far they had observed it.

134 We learn from several traditions that this thing happened on the occasion of the creation of Adam. At that time the angels were gathered together and commanded to bow down before him and man's appointment as Allah's vicegerent was proclaimed; likewise the whole of mankind that was to be born up to the Day of Resurrection was brought into existence at one and the same time and imbued with common sense and brought forth in His presence and asked to testify that Allah is their Lord.

A tradition of Ubayy-bin-Kaab which is most probably based on the knowledge he received from the Prophet (peace be upon him), is the best commentary on this verse. He says:

Allah gathered the whole of mankind and arranged it into separate groups according to their kinds or periods and gave them human shape and power of speech. Then He took a covenant from them and made them witnesses concerning themselves and asked, "Am I not your Lord." They answered, "Most certainly, You alone are our Lord." Then Allah said, "I ask the earth and the heavens and your father Adam to bear witness to this effect lest you should say on the Day of Resurrection that you had no knowledge of this. So note it well that none other than I is worthy of worship and that there is no other Lord than I. You should not set up any partner with Me. I will send to you My Messengers, who will remind you of this covenant that you are making with Me; I will also send My Books to you. At this the whole of mankind replied, "We bear witness to this: You alone are our Lord and our Deity: We have no lord or deity other than You.”

Some people take Ayats 172-173 as a symbolic narration. They are of the opinion that in this way the Quran intends merely to impress the fact that Allahs Divinity is implanted in the human nature and relates it in a way as if it had happened as a tangible event. But we do not consider this interpretation as correct because the Quran and the Hadith describe it as an event which actually took place. More than that it has been asserted that on the Day of Judgment the event of the covenant will be brought forward as an authentic proof against mankind. Therefore there is no reason why we should regard this event as a symbolic narration. We believe that this event actually took place in the physical world. The All-Powerful Allah did actually bring into existence and gave understanding and power of speech to each and every individual in the posterity of Adam whom He intended to create up to the Day of Resurrection and assembled before Himself at one and the same time and took the covenant from all of them to the effect that they had no lord or god other than Himself and that they had no right way of life other than Islam (surrender and submission to Allah).

Those who consider such an assembly as impossible are in fact skeptical of the limitless powers of Allah: otherwise they would not have entertained any doubts about it because this is as easy for Allah as the gradual birth of mankind. The All-Powerful Allah, Who is bringing human beings into existence in the way he is doing now, has also the power to assemble all mankind before its birth and after its death. It appeals to reason that Allah let all mankind know that He was going to make His vicegerents after giving them wisdom and understanding and authority and the right to exploit the resources of the earth, and that He also took the oath of allegiance from them. Thus it is obvious and clear that there is nothing impossible or strange in this assemblage of the whole of mankind on the occasion of Adam's creation.

173. Or lest you should say: "It was only our fathers who ascribed partners (to Allah) before, and we were descendants after them. Would You then destroy us because of that which the unrighteous did."*135

أَوْ تَقُولُوا إِنَّمَا أَشْرَكَ آبَاؤُنَا مِنْ
قَبْلُ وَكُنَّا ذُرِّيَّةً مِنْ بَعْدِهِمْ
أَفْتَلِكُنَّا بِمَا فَعَلَ الْمُبْطِلُونَ

*135 In this verse the object, for which the covenant was taken from the whole of mankind has been stated: it was to make each and every individual fully and consciously responsible for his deeds so that those who would rebel against their Lord should be held accountable for their guilt. It has been made plain that after this covenant they could not justify any sin on the ground that they had committed it in ignorance nor could they shift the responsibility for deviation on to their predecessors. Allah warns that by taking this covenant He has imbued in the heart of every individual that He alone is his Allah and Lord. Therefore none can absolve himself from the responsibility for a deviation, saying, "I was quite unaware of this”, or “I was led astray by my wrong environment.” In this connection, let us now consider a few questions that might arise. Supposing that this covenant did take place, do we have any remembrance of this? Is anyone of us conscious that he was brought before his Allah on the occasion of the creation and that the said dialogue did actually take place? If the answer is in the negative, then how can it be justified to bring such a covenant as evidence against us, when we do not remember it nor are conscious of this covenant?

The answer is that this will be brought against us as an evidence because, though its remembrance and consciousness has been removed from the memory and the conscious mind, it has been retained in the subconscious mind.

As to why it has been removed from the memory and the conscious mind, the answer is obvious. If the impression of the covenant had remained fresh in the memory and the conscious mind, then everyone would have automatically observed it, and the trial and test would have become meaningless. Thus the very object for which man has been created would have been tendered meaningless. It has, however, been retained in the subconscious mind as a potentiality, and can be brought into consciousness by intuition and internal factors as in the case of all other branches of subconscious knowledge. The fact is that whatever man has achieved in culture, civilization, morality, sciences and all other aspects of human activities, they lie hidden as potentialities and are brought out by external factors and intuition. But it is also a fact that no education, no training, no environment, no external factor, no intuition is capable of creating any other thing than the one that already lies potentially in the subconscious mind. Likewise none of these factors is in any way capable of totally effacing the things that lie hidden potentially in the subconscious mind. The most that these factors can do is to pervert its nature, but in spite of all efforts to pervert it, it will still remain latent in the subconscious mind and will try to come to the surface in response to external factors. The following is true of all the branches of potential knowledge: All these exist as potentialities in our subconscious minds and prove their existence when they appear as actual actions.

All potentialities require external stimuli, teaching and training to take practical shapes which, in fact, are a response of our potentialities to the external stimuli.

All these things can be suppressed and made dormant by wrong desires and environment and perversions but can never be effaced totally from the subconscious mind. Therefore these can be reformed and converted by the help of inner feelings and external efforts.

Exactly the same is true of the intuitional knowledge we have regarding our own position in the universe and our relationship to the Creator of the universe.

That this knowledge does really exist is proved by the fact that it has been appearing every now and then in every period of human life in every pan of the earth, in every habitation, in every posterity and in every generation and that no earthly power has been successful in effacing it.

That this conforms to the reality is shown by the fact that whenever this knowledge has actually been applied to practical life, it has always produced good and useful results.

There has always been need of some external appeal to cause them to appear and take practical shapes. Accordingly the Prophets, the Books, and inviters to the truth from among the followers of the Prophets have been performing this service. That is why the Quran calls them reminders. For, the Prophets, the Books and the inviters to the truth do not create anything new in the minds of the people but refresh and bring to the surface by reminding what was already latent in them.

Another proof of the existence of this hidden knowledge in the human mind is that in every age, it has made a positive response to the call of the inviter and has come out as soon as it recognized his voice.

Above all, the greatest proof of the existence of this knowledge is that it has survived in the human heap in spite of the strenuous and continuous efforts to suppress, conceal and pervert it. Though the powers of ignorance and folly, lusts and prejudices, misguidance and temptations, have succeeded in producing shirk, atheism, irreligiousness, deviation, they have failed to efface the impress of this inherent knowledge from the human heart. That is why it comes to the surface whenever efforts are made to revive it.

As regards the evidence of this inherent knowledge on the Day of Judgment, Allah will refresh and revive the memory of this covenant, whereby they all acknowledged Allah alone as their Lord and Deity. Then He will show that this remained embedded in their hearts, in spite of its persistent denial in this world and will provide from their own selves the proof of the fact that the impress of this covenant was always present in their minds and will show from the records of their lives how and when they suppressed the voice of this inherent knowledge: how and when their intuitional knowledge rebelled against their deviations, and how often it urged them to respond to the invitation of the inviters to the truth and how they silenced their inner voice by means of different pretexts. At that time, when all the secrets will be exposed, none will be able to put forward any excuses. Everyone shall have to confess his guilt in plain and clear words. That is why the Quran says that they shall not say, “We had no knowledge of this covenant,” but will have to confess, “We were disbelievers and knowingly denied the truth.” They will stand witness against themselves to the effect that they were disbelievers.

174. And thus do We explain in details the signs.^{*136} And perhaps they may return.^{*137}

وَكَذَلِكَ نَفْصَلُ الْآيَاتِ
وَلَعَلَّهُمْ يَرْجِعُونَ

136 “The signs” are the impresses of the knowledge of the truth that have been embedded in the human heart and point clearly to Allah’s existence.

137 That is, so that these people should turn away from the paths of deviation and rebellion and come back to the paths of obedience and service.

175. And recite (O Muhammad) to them the story of him to whom We gave Our signs,^{*138} then he turned away from them, so Satan followed him up, then he became of those who went astray.

وَأْتَلُ عَلَيْهِمْ نَبَأَ الَّذِي ءَاتَيْنَاهُ
ءَايَاتِنَا فَأَنْسَلَخَ مِنْهَا فَاتَّبَعَهُ
الشَّيْطَانُ فَكَانَ مِنَ الضَّالِّينَ

138 The wording of the text shows that he was not an imaginary person invented for the sake of a parable but did really exist. Allah and His Messenger did not mention him by name because the purpose for which the event had been narrated was served without this. Therefore his name was kept secret so as to avoid giving him unnecessary notoriety; and this generous way has generally been followed both in the Quran and the traditions. That is why they have not mentioned the name of the person who has been cited as a bad example. Some commentators have, however, mentioned some specific names belonging to the ancient history or to the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him). For instance, some mention the name of Baalam, the son of Baura, others that of Umayyah-bin-Abi-Assalt and Saifi-ibn Ar-Rahib. But the fact is that the identity of that person has not been established by the Quran or the Hadith. Therefore it is still a secret, but the parable applies to everyone who bears such a conduct.

176. And if We had so willed, We would surely have raised him by those (signs), وَلَوْ شِئْنَا لَرَفَعْنَاهُ بِهَا وَلَكِنَّهُ

but he clung to the earth and followed his own vain desire. So his likeness is as the likeness of a dog. If you drive him away, he hangs out with his tongue, or you leave him, he hangs out his tongue. ^{*139} Such is the likeness of the people who deny Our revelations. So narrate the stories, that they may reflect.

أَخْلَدَ إِلَى الْأَرْضِ وَاتَّبَعَ
 هَوَاهُ فَمَثَلُهُ كَمَثَلِ الْكَلْبِ
 إِنْ تَحْمِلَ عَلَيْهِ يَلْهَثُ أَوْ
 تَرَكَهُ يَلْهَثُ ذَٰلِكَ مَثَلُ
 الْقَوْمِ الَّذِينَ كَذَّبُوا بِآيَاتِنَا
 فَاقْصُصِ الْقَصَصَ لَعَلَّهُمْ
 يَتَفَكَّرُونَ

139 As this passage deals with a very important subject, it requires detailed continents.

The person, who has been held out as a bad type, possessed the knowledge of the revelations of Allah and was acquainted with the reality.

Therefore it was reasonably expected that his knowledge ought to have guarded him against the way he knew to be wrong, and guided him to the way he knew to be right. Then Allah would have exalted him to the high rank of humanity because of his practice in accordance with the knowledge of the revelation. But he became inclined towards the benefits, lusts and comforts of the world and succumbed to temptations. He was so overpowered by avarice of these lower desires that he discarded all the higher things and let go waste all the rational and moral potentialities of progress. Thus he transgressed all the limits that he ought to have observed in accordance with the demand of his knowledge. When Satan, who was lying in ambush nearby, saw him turning away deliberately and willfully from the truth because of his moral weaknesses, he chased him down and down froth one abyss to the other, till he fell into the company of those who had utterly lost their reason under his misguidance.

Allah has likened such a person to a dog because of his similarity to it in avarice and lust. The dog is proverbial for these characteristics: its ever hanging tongue and watering mouth point to its insatiable greed: it goes on smelling the earth even when it is hit with a piece of stone; it picks it up in its teeth, hoping that it might be a piece of bone. Its intense greed for exclusive ownership becomes manifest when it comes across a big carcass, sufficient to feed a number of dogs; but it does not let any other dog share it. The second characteristic of the dog is its being very lustful. It is because of these things that the worldly man, who transgresses all bounds imposed by faith and knowledge, has been likened to a dog. Then he, like the dog, looks for nothing but the means of filling up his belly and gratifying his lust.

177. Evil as an example are the people who denied Our revelations, and used to wrong their own selves.

سَاءَ مَثَلًا الْقَوْمُ الَّذِينَ كَذَّبُوا rightly guided, and he whom He sends astray, so such are they who are the losers.

وَمَنْ يُضِلِّ فَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ

179. And certainly, We have created for Hell many of the jinn and mankind.^{*140} They have hearts with which they do not understand, and they have eyes with which they do not see, and they have ears with which they do not hear. They are like the cattle. Rather, they are even more astray. Such are they who are the heedless.

140 It does not mean that, there are many jinns and human beings whom We have created for the sole purpose of sending them to Hell and with the intention of making them fuel for it. But what it means is this: We created them and gave them hearts, brains, eyes and ears but these wicked jinns and people did not make use of these faculties to discern the truth from falsehood and made themselves fuel for Hell by their evil deeds.

The way that has been adopted to express the above thing is that of showing intense regret in human language. For example, when the young sons of a mother are killed in the battle she says to the people: I brought them up to become fodder for the cannon. But she does not mean that she really brought them up for this purpose. She wants to show her intense regret and sorrow and blame towards those who were responsible for the battle.

180. And to Allah belong the most beautiful names.*¹⁴¹ So call on Him by them. And leave alone those who blaspheme concerning His names. They will soon be requited for what they used to do.*¹⁴²

وَلِلَّهِ الْأَسْمَاءُ الْحُسْنَىٰ فَادْعُوهُ بِهَا

أَسْمَائِهِ سَيُجْزَوْنَ مَا كَانُوا

*¹⁴¹ Now that the discourse is coming to an end, the people are being admonished and reproved to guard against some well known deviations. At the same time they have been warned of the serious consequences of the attitude of ridicule and denial they were adopting towards the Message of the Prophet (peace be upon him).

*¹⁴² This admonition about giving names to Allah is of great importance, for different names reflect different concepts which people form of Him in their minds. It is obvious that people give such names to things as express their conception of them. The defects in the conceptions of things are reflected by the defects in the names and defects in the names show the defects in the conceptions. Besides this, man's relationships and his dealings depend on that particular conception which he forms about someone or something. The defect in the conception of things shows itself in the defect of one's relationship to it. On the other hand, if his conception of a thing is correct and right, his relationship to it will also be of the correct and right sort. The same is true in the case of his relationship with Allah. The error one commits in giving wrong names to Allah (whether for distinction with reference to His attributes) is the result of his error in the creed and in the conception of Allah and His attributes. A man commits the same kind of error and to the same extent in the formation of his moral attitude towards life that he commits in his creed and his conception of Allah. In fact a man's moral attitude towards life is wholly governed by his conception of Allah and his relationship to Him and the universe. That is why Allah has commanded the people to give most excellent names to Him and to refrain from giving wrong names to Him, for He is worthy of excellent names only. Therefore, the best thing is to give Him excellent names because the results of the perversion of His names are most serious "Excellent names" are those names that point to the greatness, the supremacy, the sanctity, the purity and the perfection of His attributes. It shall be deemed perversion of His names to give Him such names as are below His dignity; which are against the reverence due to Him; which ascribe defects and shortcomings to Him or mislead one to form wrong creeds about Him. Again it shall also be a perversion to give such names to any of His creation as are worthy of Allah alone.

As regards the command "And leave alone those who blaspheme concerning His names" means, you need not to involve yourself in useless discussions with them, if they do not listen to your admonition and do not try to understand what you say, but use crooked arguments to confuse the issue. They themselves shall see the consequences of their deviation.

*143 These questions have been posed to refute the charge that their comrade, Muhammad (peace be upon him), was suffering from a disorder of the mind, for otherwise he would not have given the Message he was conveying. They have been asked to reflect upon the fact that he was born and bred among them and had been their comrade before he claimed that he was appointed a Messenger by Allah. During all those years they had known him to be of a sound mind and of a good nature. Thus it is obvious that they charged him of having a distracted mind not because of what he said before his Prophethood but because of what he proclaimed as a Prophet. That is why they have been asked to reflect upon and point out anything from his Message which they regarded as meaningless, unreal and irrational. If they had ever reflected upon the wisdom of the wonderful administration of the heavens and the earth or observed closely any creation of Allah, they would have come to the inevitable conclusion that the whole system of the universe, nay, each and every particle of His creation is a clear evidence of the truth of His Message. For all these things refute shirk and prove the Oneness of Allah and invite people to His worship and arouse in them the sense of responsibility and accountability. And that was what their brother was preaching.

*144 That is to say, they do not realize even this much that none knows the exact time of his death, and that they should, therefore, make the best use of the respite that has been given to them and repent and reform themselves; otherwise they will meet with serious consequences.

*145 That is, I cannot tell you the exact time of Resurrection because I myself do not know anything about the unseen. Had I possessed any knowledge of the future, I would not have suffered any harm because I would have avoided it and achieved many benefits because of my fore-knowledge. Therefore it is very foolish on your part to ask me about it merely to test my Prophethood.

189. He it is who has created you from a single soul, and He has created from him his mate, that he might take rest in her. Then when he covered her, she carried a light burden, so she went about with it. Then when it became heavy, they both prayed unto Allah, their Lord: “If you give us a good child,

هُوَ الَّذِي خَلَقَكُمْ مِنْ نَفْسٍ وَاحِدَةٍ وَجَعَلَ مِنْهَا زَوْجَهَا we shall indeed be among the grateful.”

لَنَكُونَنَّ مِنَ الشَّاكِرِينَ ﴿١٨٩﴾

فَلَمَّا ءَاتَتْهُمَا صَالِحًا جَعَلَا لَهُ شُرَكَاءَ فِيمَا ءَاتَتْهُمَا
فَتَعَلَىٰ اللَّهُ عَمَّا يُشْرِكُونَ ﴿١٩٠﴾

146 In order to understand this passage, it should be kept in mind that it criticizes the pagan Arabs for associating partners with Allah in the matter of the birth of children. They have been told to remember that the first man and his mate were brought into being by Allah: and they could not deny this. Then they also knew that it is He Who has arranged the birth of human beings after the first pair: that it is He by Whose will a woman becomes pregnant and who nourishes the child in her womb in a wonderful manner, and that it is He Who imbues it with a sound body and sound mind with various powers and capabilities and lets it come out as a healthy human being. They could not deny that all this is in the power of Allah alone. If Allah willed, He could have created a monkey, a serpent or any other animal in her womb or made the child deformed or physically or mentally defective. They knew that no one had the power to make any change in Allah's creation. That is why all their hopes were focused in Allah during the period of pregnancy and prayers were invoked for the birth of a perfect child. But it is an irony that the pagans as well as the believers change their whole attitude after the birth of a child, and, instead of being grateful to Allah, they make their grateful offerings to some god or goddess or saint or the like and give such names as smack of shirk, pir-bakhsh, “favor of the faint,” or abdur-rasul, “servant of the prophet” etc.

Though the passage is quite clear, yet a misunderstanding has arisen about it, which has been supported by weak traditions. The mention of the first man and woman (Adam and Eve) in the beginning, and immediately after it of a man and a woman, has led to the confusion that both the pairs were one and the same. Therefore some commentators were of the opinion that the man was Adam and the woman who became pregnant was Eve and that they prayed to Allah for their child in the womb, but when it was born, they associated others with Allah in this favor. Then, with the help of weak traditions they concocted a complete story about it: When several children of Eve died soon after their birth, Satan came to her at the birth of one, and seduced her saying, “If you give him the name of Abdul Harith, means, the servant of Satan, he will survive.” It is all the more regrettable that some of these traditions have been linked up to the Prophet (peace be upon him). But the fact is that all these traditions are unauthentic and are not supported by the wording of the Quran and by the context in which they occur. The Quran criticizes the pagans for associating others with Allah in the matter of birth, when they themselves acknowledge that it is He Who is the Creator of the children which are born as a result of the cohabitation of a man and a woman. That is why they also invoke Allah for the safe delivery of the child; when they are not sure of the perfection of the child. But after the safe delivery of a sound child, they turn to others with gratitude and offerings. It is thus clear that it is not any particular man and woman who have been admonished for their behavior, but every man and every woman, (including pagan men and women) who behave like that.

In this connection it should also be noted that the condition of the present day Muslims is even worse than that of the pagan Arabs whom the Quran has condemned in this passage. They committed shirk after the delivery of the child, though before this they prayed to Allah for the child. But the Muslims of today, who claim to be the bearers of the creed of Tauhid, go far beyond this. These wretched people pray to others even for the birth of a child and make vows to others during the period of pregnancy, and after the delivery of the child make offerings to the associates they set up with Allah. Yet they consider those Arabs as pagans who deserved Hell, and themselves as believers in One Allah, for whom Paradise has been guaranteed!

191. Do they associate as partners (to Allah) those who do not create a thing, and they are (themselves) created.

192. And they are not able to help them, nor can they help themselves.

193. And if you call them to guidance, they will not follow you. It is the same for you whether you call them or you keep silent.*147

أَدَعَوْتُمُوهُمْ أَمْ أَنْتُمْ
صَامِتُونَ

147 This is to show the helplessness of the deities of the pagans. Not to speak of guiding their worshipers to the right way, they themselves are unable to follow the guidance of others. So much so that they cannot give any answer to the call of any one.

194. Indeed, those you call upon besides Allah are slaves like you. So call upon them then let them answer you, if you are truthful.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ تَدْعُونَ مِنْ دُونِ plot against me, and give me no respite.”

148 It is obvious that here they are being criticized for one of the three kinds of shirk they practiced. First, they worshiped idols, images or some other symbols of the objects of their worship. The second kind of shirk was the worship of some persons or spirits which were represented by idols, pictures, etc. The third kind of shirk consisted of the wrong creeds that were the basis of these practices of shirk. All the three kinds of practices have been criticized severely in the Quran at different places. Here it condemns the idols before which the pagan Arabs performed their religious rituals and presented their supplications and made their offerings.

196. “Indeed, my protecting friend is Allah, who has sent down the book. ^{*149} And He is an ally to the righteous.”

149 This is the answer to the threats which the pagan Arabs held out to the Prophet (peace be upon him) to this effect, If you do not refrain from opposing our deities and from preaching against them they will inflict their wrath on you and destroy you.

197. “And those whom you call upon besides Him, they are not able to help you, nor can they help

150 That is, those who are under the influence of Satans.

151 In this passage Allah has taught His Messenger (peace be upon him) some very important things about the methods of inviting people to promulgating the Message of Islam, and of guiding and reforming people. The object is to instruct the Prophet (peace be upon him) and, through him, his successors to enable them to carry on his mission after him. Some salient points are given below and should be considered in the order they are given:

(1) The most important thing is that the inviter to the truth should have a large and tender heart, and should be forgiving and forbearing. He should be friendly to his companions, kind to the common people, and should show forbearance to his opponents. He should tolerate the weaknesses of his comrades and endure patiently the persecution of his enemies. He should keep cool even under the greatest provocation and connive at the most unpleasant things. He should bear patiently the bitterest words, the most wicked slanders and the most cruel persecutions. Harsh treatment, hard-heartedness, bitter talk, and vindictive retaliations are as harmful as poison for this work: this spoils the work and does not mend it.

There is a tradition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to the same effect: My Lord has enjoined me to utter what is just whether I am in a state of anger or happiness: to try my best to have cordial relations even with those who are inimical to me: to render their rights even to those who deprive me of my rights: to forgive even those who are cruel to me. He advised those whom he sent on this Mission: Wherever you go, your visit should be a harbinger of happiness and not of hatred: you should become the source of comfort to the people and not of bringing hardships on them. Allah has also praised this characteristic of the Prophet (peace be upon him): “O Messenger, it is a great blessing of Allah that you are very lenient towards and gentle with them. If you had been harsh and hard-hearted, they would have scattered away from you. (Surah Aal-Imran, Ayat 159).

(2) The second formula for the success of this Mission is to avoid philosophizing and to enjoin those simple and well-known virtues that are universally accepted to be virtues, and are easily recognized by common sense which an ordinary person possesses. Thus the appeal of the inviter to the truth convinces every one. Its greatest advantage is that it helps win over the common people to the side of promulgators of the truth, against its antagonists. When the common people, in spite of their prejudices, see on one side a gentle and kind person inviting them towards simple virtues, which they themselves understand well, and on the other, his antagonists opposing his noble mission with unmoral and inhuman devices, they turn away by and by from those degraded opponents and come to the inviter of the truth. As a result of this, in the end, only those remain in the field to oppose the truth, whose own interests are closely linked with falsehood or those who are slaves of the traditions of their forefathers and of the customs of ignorance. The Prophet (peace be upon him) owed his great success in Arabia to this wise policy. Then his successors achieved the same in the adjoining countries, where Islam spread by leaps and bounds and was accepted by the overwhelming majority of the people.

(3) The other important instruction that has been given for the promulgation of Islam is to avoid useless discussions with the ignorant people. The inviter to the truth should always be strictly on the guard against involvement in useless talk and discussion with mischievous and quarrelsome people. He should take the utmost care to approach and converse with those people only who adopt a reasonable and rational attitude towards his Message. As soon as he feels that his addressees are adopting the attitude of ignorance and are resorting to argumentations, wrangling and taunts, he should make an honorable retreat from them. This is because it is not only useless to be involved in such things but it is harmful to the mission, as valuable time and energy, that could have been usefully employed for the promulgation of the Message, go to waste.

(4) In case the inviter to the truth feels that the provocations from the mischievous people are becoming too much for him to bear and he cannot withstand their tyrannies, mischief, foolish objections and accusations, he should at once realize that it is Satan who is tempting him to retaliate. Then the best thing is to seek refuge in Allah, and invoke His help to protect His servant from doing in anger anything that might be harmful to his Mission. This is possible only if one remains cool-headed even under the greatest provocations, for one can never think or act wisely if he is easily excited by anger, insult, injustice or cruelty etc. But Satan who does not like this Mission to succeed and is always devising schemes to defeat it, first incites own disciples to attack the inviter to the truth and then incites him to make counter-attacks on them. As Satan's appeal is couched in very alluring words and pious terms, it is not an easy thing to withstand it. That is why pious people have been fore-warned, in Ayats 201-202, of this serious danger and instructed that if they intend to refrain from evil, they should immediately get alarmed as soon as they feel the evil effects of the temptation of Satan and its incitement in their hearts and stand on their guard. Then they will clearly see the right course that they should adopt on such occasions and under such circumstances for the sake of their Mission. As for "the brethren of Satan", they become self-seekers under their influence, and cannot withstand their temptation. So they follow satans, who tempt them to retaliate, and resort to every kind of abuse and dishonesty like their enemies.

Besides the above mentioned particular implications of this passage, it bears a general meaning as well. It helps differentiate the way of the pious from that of the impious. Those who really fear Allah and sincerely desire to refrain from evil, are so sensitive that even if an evil thought so much as touches their hearts, it pricks their consciences and rankles in their hearts and they seek Allah's refuge from Satan. This is because they are not used to evil thoughts, evil desires and evil intentions, for these are foreign to their nature. As soon as they become conscious of their presence in their minds, their eyes are opened and their consciences recognize them. Then they seek Allah's refuge from Satan in order to cleanse their hearts of those dirty things. In contrast to them, those, who do not fear Allah nor desire to refrain from evil and those who have satans as their brethren, go on cherishing evil thoughts, evil intentions and evil designs in their hearts without feeling anything strange in them. So much so that no sense of cleanliness is left in their minds: and in due course, these dirty things take practical shapes and expose them before the world.

203. And when you do not bring them a sign, they say: “Why have you not brought it.”*152 Say: “I follow only that which is revealed to me from my Lord. This (Quran) is insight from your Lord, and a guidance, and a mercy for a people who believe.”*153

وَإِذَا لَمْ تَأْتِهِمْ بِآيَةٍ قَالُوا لَوْلَا
 آجَبْتَهَا قُلْ إِنَّمَا أَتَّبِعُ مَا
 يُوحَىٰ إِلَيَّ مِنْ رَبِّي هَذَا بَصَائِرُ
 مِنْ رَبِّكُمْ وَهَدَىٰ وَرَحْمَةٌ
 لِّقَوْمٍ يُؤْمِنُونَ

*152 This question of the disbelievers implied a taunt. They meant to say: Well, as you are posing to be a Prophet, you ought to have faked up a miracle in proof thereof. The grandeur that is contained in the answer that follows is worthy of the Book of Allah.

*153 This is the answer to the question: I am not in a position to invent miracles or compose or patch up verses on your demand or when I feel their need. I am only a Messenger and my duty is to follow the guidance of the One Who has sent me. Therefore instead of demanding miracles from me, you should consider seriously the contents of the Quran that has been sent down to me, as it contains spiritual lights. Those who accept it, will see the straight path of life, and their good moral qualities will begin to show the signs of divine mercy.

204. And when the Quran is recited, so listen to it, and be silent, that you may receive mercy. ^{*154}

وَإِذَا قُرِئَ الْقُرْآنُ فَاسْتَمِعُوا لَهُ وَأَنْصِتُوا لَعَلَّكُمْ تُرْحَمُونَ

154 It means, in your bigotry and obduracy you turn a deaf ear to the Quran when it is being recited, and make a loud noise so that no one should be able to listen to it. Leave this wrong attitude towards it and listen to it with attention and consider the teachings contained in it. It is just possible that your acquaintance with it may enlighten your hearts and make you co-sharers with the believers in the mercy of your Lord.

Incidentally, it should be noted that the above answer to the taunts of the opponents is so nice and sweet and appealing to the hearts that words cannot describe its excellence. There is also a lesson of wisdom for those who are engaged in the missionary work.

Though the real object of this verse is the same that has been stated above, incidentally it also enjoins the hearers to remain silent and listen to it as a mark of respect which is due to the Book of Allah. It is also deduced from this that when the Imam recites the Quran during the Salat, the followers in the congregation should listen to it in silence, and they should not recite anything. There is, however, difference of opinion among the Imams in regard to its interpretation. According to Imam Abu Hanifah and his companions, the followers in the congregation should not recite anything whether the Imam is reciting the Quran aloud or silently in his mind. However, Imam Malik and Imam Ahmad are of the opinion that only in that case when the Imam is reciting the Quran aloud, the followers should not recite anything, but in the other case they should recite Surah Al-Fatihah. But according to Imam Shafai, the followers must recite Surah Al-Fatihah, whether the Imam is reciting loudly or silently in his mind. He bases his opinion on the traditions according to which one's Salat is not complete without the recital of Surah Al-Fatihah.

205. And remember your Lord within yourself, with humility and fear, and without loudness in words, in the mornings and the evenings. And do not be of those who are neglectful. ^{*155}

وَأذْكُرْ رَبَّكَ فِي نَفْسِكَ
تَضَرُّعًا وَخِيفَةً وَدُونَ الْجَهْرِ مِنَ
الْقَوْلِ بِالْغُدُوِّ وَالْآصَالِ وَلَا
تَكُنْ مِنَ الْغَافِلِينَ

155 “Remember your Lord” means “offer Salat” as well as keep Allah in mind whether by utterance or without it. And “morning and evening” means both the times as well as “always”. Therefore “Remember your Lord morning and evening” means “Offer Salat in the morning and in the evening”, and also “always keep Allah in mind.”

The Surah concludes with the above admonition, which is meant to warn the Muslims against their negligence in the remembrance of Allah, for this alone is responsible for all the chaos and the evils in the world. Whenever man forgets that Allah is his Lord, and that he is the servant of Allah Who has sent him to this world for a trial and that he shall have to render his account to Him immediately after his death, he deviates from the right way and commits acts of wickedness and immorality. Therefore a man who intends to follow the right way and guides others to the same way, should strictly guard against such a negligence. That is why the Quran has emphasized, over and over again, the importance of the observance of Salat and of the remembrance of Allah and of turning to Him on each and every occasion.

206. Indeed, those (angels) who are with your Lord, do not turn away out of arrogance, from His worship,^{*156} and they glorify His praise,^{*157} and to Him they prostrate themselves.^{*158}

AsSajda

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ عِنْدَ رَبِّكَ لَا
يَسْتَكْبِرُونَ عَنْ عِبَادَتِهِ
وَيُسَبِّحُونَهُ وَلَهُ يَسْجُدُونَ

156 In contrast to the ways of pride and vanity of Satans that mislead into disobedience to Allah, and consequently to the depths of degradation, the example of the angels has been cited to teach the lesson of humility. They bow down before Allah and are always engaged in His service. Therefore if one desires to achieve high ranks in the sight of Allah, one should follow the angels and refrain from the paths of Satans.

157 The Arabic word yusabb-i-huna-hu means, they acknowledge and declare that Allah is flawless, and is absolutely free from every sort of defect, error or weakness, and has neither any partners nor compeers nor the like of Him, and that they are always engaged in this

158 Everyone, who recites this verse or hears its recital, is required to perform a sajdah, prostration, so that his physical state may be in agreement with the angels near to Allah to give a practical proof of his humility, servitude and obedience to Allah simultaneously with His angels.

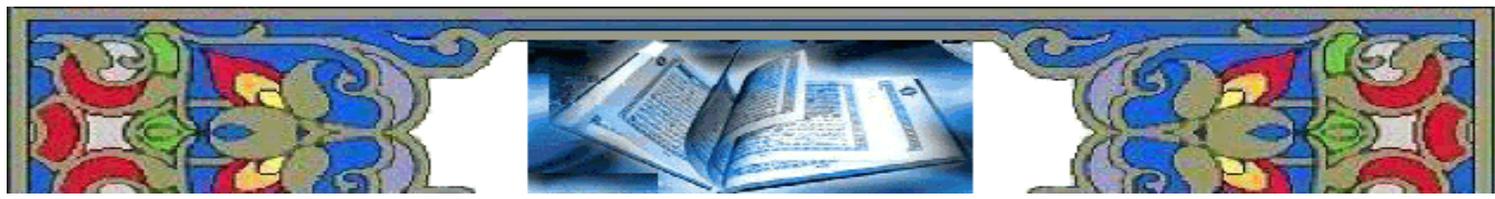

This is the first of the fourteen verses of the Quran, the recital of which requires the performance of a sajdah, prostration. Though all the Jurists agree that a prostration should be performed at these places, there is a difference in regard to its obligatory status. According to Imam Abu Hanifah, it is wajib, compulsory, but the other scholars are of the opinion that it is sunna, optional. It may also be noted that a thing which is sunna is not as binding as wajib but its intentional omission, though not sinful, is considered bad for a true Muslim and its permanent omission is sinful. As regards the manner of the performance of sajdah, we learn from traditions that it was different in form on different occasions. Sometimes while the Prophet (peace be upon him) was reciting a verse that required the performance of sajdah, he himself would prostrate then and there, and everyone in the gathering did the same so much so that if one did not find room for it on the ground, he would perform it by laying his head on the back of the man in front of him. We also learn from traditions that on the occasion of the conquest of Makkah, when the Prophet (peace be upon him) was reciting the Quran, a verse requiring the performance of sajdah occurred. Then those who were standing on the ground performed it on the ground, while those who were riding their horses or camels performed it on the backs of animals they were riding. Sometimes when he recited a verse requiring sajdah during his address, he came down from the pulpit, and performed it on the ground and then climbed the pulpit and resumed his address.

The majority of the Muslims are of the opinion that the conditions for the performance of sajdah are the same as for the performance of Salat. But there is no proof for these conditions in the traditions concerning sajdah. We find from them that when a person hears a verse requiring sajdah, he should bend down his head wherever and in whatever position he may be irrespective of these conditions. He should not mind whether he is in a state of ablutions or not; whether he can turn his face towards the qiblah or not; whether it is possible for him to prostrate his head on the ground or not. We find examples of the learned and pious people in the past following the same practice. According to Imam Bukhari, Abdullah bin Umar would perform sajdah whether he was in a state of ablutions or not. It is cited in Fatehulbari that Abu Abdur-Rehman Sulami would recite the Quran while he was walking and would merely bend down his head when he read a verse requiring sajdah, whether he was in a state of ablutions or not and whether he was facing qiblah or not. From these we have come to the conclusion that, though the method followed by the majority is more prudent, if a person follows a practice different from that of the majority, he should not be reproved for this because there is no proof in Sunnah for the method followed by the majority, while there are examples of learned personages for this practice.

Name

The Surah takes its name Al-Anfaal (The Bounties) from the first verse.

The Period of Revelation

It was revealed in 2 A. H. after the battle of Badr, the first battle between Islam and kufr. As it contains a detailed and comprehensive review of the battle, it appears that most probably it was revealed at one and the same time. But it is also possible that some of the verses concerning the problems arising as a result of this battle might have been revealed later and incorporated at the proper places to make it a continuous whole. At any rate, in the entire Surah there is nothing that might show that it is a collection of a couple of discourses, that have been combined together.

Historical Background

Before reviewing the Surah, it is worthwhile to consider the events that led to the battle of Badr.

During the first decade or so of the Prophethood at Makkah, the message had proved its firmness, and stability. This was the result of two things. First, the Messenger (peace be upon him), who possessed the highest qualities of character, was performing his mission with wisdom, foresight and magnanimity. He had shown by his conduct that he had made up his mind to carry on the movement to a successful end, and therefore, was ready to face all sorts of dangers and obstacles in the way. Secondly, the message was so charming that it attracted the minds and hearts of the people irresistibly towards it. So much so, that all obstacles of ignorance, superstition and petty prejudices failed to check its advance. That is why the Arab upholders of the ways of ignorance, who looked down upon it in its initial stages, had begun to reckon it as a serious menace during the last period of the stay of the Prophet (peace be upon him) at Makkah, and were bent on crushing it with all the forces at their command. But in spite of the above mentioned strength, the movement still lacked certain things to lead it to victory:

First, it had not yet been fully proved that it had gathered around it a sufficient number of such followers who not only believed in its truth, but also had such an intense devotion to its principles that they were ready to spend all their energies and all that they possessed in the struggle for its success and establishment. So much so, that they were ready to sacrifice their lives in the fight against the entire world even though they should be their own nearest relative. It is true that the followers of Islam had endured the severest persecutions at the hands of the Quraish of Makkah and had given a good proof of the firmness of their faith and their strong relation with Islam, yet further trials were required to show that Islam had succeeded in acquiring such a band of followers which considered nothing dearer than its ideal and was ready to sacrifice life for it.

Secondly, though the voice of Islam had reached every part of the country, its effects were yet scattered and its acquired strength was spread here and there. It had not yet gathered sufficient force essential for a decisive conflict with the old established order of ignorance.

Thirdly, Islam had yet no home of its own and had not established itself firmly anywhere in the land where it could consolidate its power and make it a base for further action. For the Muslims were scattered all over the country and were living among the unbelievers as aliens whom their bloodthirsty enemies wanted to uproot from their own homes.

Fourthly, the Muslims had not yet had an opportunity to demonstrate practically the blessings of the system of life based on Islam. There was neither any Islamic culture, nor any social, economic or political system; nor were there any established principles of war and peace for their guidance. Therefore the Muslims had no opportunity for demonstrating those moral principles on which they intended to build their entire system of life; nor had it been proved on the touchstone of trial that the Muslims as a community were sincere in their proclamation of the message.

Allah created opportunities for making up these deficiencies.

During the last four years or so of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) stay at Makkah, the voice of Islam had been proving effective at Yathrab and the people for various reasons had been accepting the message more readily than other clans of Arabia. So much so that in the twelfth year of Prophethood on the occasion of Hajj a deputation of 75 people met the Prophet (peace be upon him) in the darkness of night. These people not only accepted Islam, but also offered to give him and his followers a home. As this was a most epoch making opportunity provided by Allah, the Prophet (peace be upon him) took advantage of it.

The significance of this offer was quite clear to the people of Yathrab, and they fully realized that this was not an invitation to a mere fugitive, but to the Messenger (peace be upon him) of Allah so that he should become their leader and ruler. Likewise they knew that they were not inviting the Muslim refugees to give them shelter from persecution but to assemble them from all over the country for their integration with themselves to form an organized community. Thus the offer of the people of Yathrab was to make Yathrab the city of Islam. Accordingly the Prophet (peace be upon him) accepted their invitation and made it the first city of Islam in Arabia.

And the people of Yathrab were fully aware of the implications of this offer. It was indeed a declaration of war against the whole of Arabia, and an invitation to their own social and economic boycott as well. And when the Ansar from Yathrab declared their allegiance to the Prophet (peace be upon him) at Aqabah, they knew well its consequences. During the course of the formal declaration of allegiance, Asad bin Zurarah, the youngest of all the delegates from Yathrab, stood up and said, "O people of Yathrab! Just listen to me and consider the matter carefully in all its aspects. Though we have come to him, regarding him only as a Messenger (peace be upon him) of Allah, we should know that we shall be inviting the enmity of the whole of Arabia. For when we take him away to Yathrab, we shall be attacked and our children may be put to the sword. Therefore if you have the courage in your hearts to face it, then and then only, you should declare your allegiance to him and Allah will give you its reward. But if you love your lives more than him and his message, then leave this matter and frankly excuse yourselves, for at this time Allah may accept your excuses."

Abbas bin Ubadah bin Naalah, another member of the delegation, reiterated the same thing, saying, Do you understand the implication of the declaration of your allegiance to this person? People responded, yes we know it. He said, you are challenging the whole world to war by your declaration of allegiance to him. There is every likelihood of a serious menace to your lives and properties, therefore consider it well. If you have any idea lurking in your minds that you will then hand him over to his enemies, it is much better to leave him alone now, because that conduct shall bring shame and disgrace to you in this world and the next. On the other hand, if you have sincerely resolved that you will endure all kinds of consequences that will follow as a result of this invitation, then it would be the best thing to take the oath of allegiance to him because, by God, this will surely bring good to you in this world as well as in the next world.

At this all the members of the delegation cried with one voice, we are ready and prepared to risk all our wealth and our noble kith and kin for his sake.

It was then that the famous oath of allegiance, which is known as the “Second Oath of Allegiance at Aqabah” was taken.

On the other side, the people of Makkah also understood well the implications of this matter from their own point of view. They realized that Muhammad (peace be upon him), whom, they knew well, had a great personality and possessed extraordinary abilities, was going to gain a strong footing, by this allegiance. For this would help integrate his followers, whose constancy, determination, and unwavering fidelity to the Messenger (peace be upon him) had been tried, into a disciplined community under his wise leadership and guidance. And they knew that this would spell death for their old ways of life. They also realized the strategic importance of Al-Madinah to their trade, which was their chief means of livelihood.

Its geographical position was such that the Muslims could strike with advantage at the caravans traveling on the trade route between Yemen and Syria, and thus strike at the root of their economy and that of other pagan clans very effectively. The value of the trade done by the people of Makkah alone on this route, not to count that of Taif and other places, amounted to about two hundred thousand dinars annually.

As the Quraish were fully aware of the implications of the oath of allegiance at Aqabah, they were greatly perturbed when they got wind of it the same night. At first they tried to win over the people of Al-Madinah to their side. But when they saw that the Muslims were migrating to Al-Madinah in small groups, they realized that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was also going to emigrate soon from there. Then they decided to adopt an extreme measure to prevent this danger.

A few days before his migration, the Quraish held a council to consider the matter. After a good deal of argument; they decided that one person should be taken from each of the families of Quraish other than that of Banu Hashim to put an end to the life of the Prophet (peace be upon him). This was to make it difficult for the family of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to fight alone with all the other families of the Quraish and thus to force them to accept blood money for his murder instead of taking revenge from them, but by the grace of Allah their plot against the life of the Prophet (peace be upon him) failed because of his admirable foresight and full trust in Allah, and he reached Al-Madinah safe and sound. When they could not prevent his emigration, it occurred to them to exploit Abdullah bin Ubai who had begun to cherish a grievance against the Prophet (peace be upon him) since his arrival at Al-Madinah. He was an influential chief of Al-Madinah and the people had agreed to make him their king. But when the majority of Aus and Khazraj clans became Muslims and acknowledged the Prophet (peace be upon him) as their leader, guide and ruler, all his hopes of becoming a king came to an end. Therefore the Quraish wrote to him, as you have given shelter to our enemy, we tell you plainly that you should either fight with him yourself or exile him from your city otherwise we swear by God that we will invade your city, kill your males and make your females our slave girls. This letter added fuel to the flames of his jealousy and he was inclined to do some mischief, but the Prophet (peace be upon him) took timely precautions and defeated his evil designs.

The Quraish got another opportunity to hold out a threat. When Saad bin Muaz, another chief of Al-Madinah, went to Makkah to perform Umrah. Abu Jahl interrupted him at the very door of the Kabah, saying, "Do you think we will let you perform Umrah in peace while you give shelter and help to renegades from us? Had you not been a guest of Ummayyah bin Khalf, you would not have gone back alive from here." Saad replied, "By Allah, if you prevent me from this, I will retaliate in a worse manner and block your route near Al-Madinah." This incident virtually led to a declaration from the people of Makkah that they would prevent the Muslims from a pilgrimage to the Kabah, and from the people of Al-Madinah that as a retaliation they would block their trade route to Syria against the opponents of Islam. As a matter of fact there was no other alternative for the Muslims than to keep a strong hold on this route so as to force the Quraish, and the other clans, whose interests were vitally bound with this route, to reconsider their inimical and antagonistic attitude towards them. That is why the Prophet (peace be upon him) attached a great importance to this problem. As soon as he was free from making the preliminary arrangements for organizing the newly formed Muslim community and settling peace terms with the neighboring Jewish habitations, he adopted two measures in this connection.

First, he entered into negotiations with those clans who lived between the Red Sea and this route so as to make alliances with them or at least to persuade them to make treaties of neutrality with the Muslims. He was successful in doing this, and he entered into a treaty of non-alignment with Juhainah, which was a very important clan of the hilly tract near the sea coast. Then, at the end of the first year of Hijrah, he made a treaty of defensive alliance with Bani Damrah, who lived near Yanbu and Zawal Ushairah. In 2 A. H. Bani Mudlij also joined the alliance, as they were the neighbors and allies of Bani Damrah. Then it so happened that quite a large number of these people were converted to Islam as a result of the missionary work done by the Muslims.

Secondly, he successively sent small bands of his men on this route to serve as a warning to the Quraish, and himself accompanied some of them. In the first year of Hijrah, four expeditions were sent there, that is, the expedition under Hamzah, the expedition under Ubaidah bin Harith, the expedition under Saad bin Abi Waqqas and the Al-Abwa expedition under the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself. In the first month of the second year two more incursions were made on the same route. These are known as Buwat expedition and Zawal Ushairah expedition. Two things about all these expeditions are noteworthy. First, no blood was shed and no caravans were plundered in any of these expeditions. This proves that the real object of these expeditions was to show to the Quraish which way the wind was blowing. Secondly, not a single man from the people of Al-Madinah was sent by the Prophet (peace be upon him) on any of these incursions. All the bands consisted purely of the immigrants from Makkah so that the conflict should remain between the people of the Quraish themselves and should not further spread by the involvement of other clans. On the other side, the Quraish of Makkah tried to involve others also in the conflict. When they sent bands towards Al-Madinah, they did not hesitate to plunder the people. For instance, an expedition under the leadership of Kurz bin Jabir al-Fihrl plundered the cattle of the people of Al-Madinah from the very vicinity of the city to show what their real intentions were.

This was the state of affairs when, in Shaaban, 2 A.H. (February or March, 623 A. D.) a big trade caravan of the Quraish, carrying a large merchandise with only a guard of thirty to forty men, on its way back from Syria to Makkah, reached the territory from where it could be easily attacked from Al-Madinah. Naturally Abu Sufyan, who was in charge of it, from his past experience feared an attack from the Muslims. Accordingly, as soon as he entered the dangerous territory, he dispatched a camel rider to Makkah with a frantic appeal for help. When the rider reached Makkah, he, following an old custom of Arabia, tore open the ears of his camel, cut open his nose and overturned the saddle. Then rending his shirt from front and behind, he began to cry aloud at the top of his voice, "O people of Quraish dispatch help to protect your caravan from Syria under the charge of Abu Sufyan, for Muhammad with his followers is in pursuit of it, otherwise I don't think you will ever get your goods. Run, run for help." This caused great excitement and anger in Makkah and all the big chiefs of the Quraish got ready for war. An army, consisting of 600 armored soldiers and cavalry of 100 riders with great pomp and show marched out for a fight. They intended not only to rescue the caravan but also to put to an end, once for all, the new menace from the Muslims who had consolidated themselves at Al-Madinah. They wanted to crush that rising power and overawe the clans surrounding the route so as to make it absolutely secure for future trade.

Now the Prophet (peace be upon him), who always kept himself well informed of the state of affairs, felt that the decisive hour has come and that was the right time when he must take a bold step; otherwise the Islamic movement would become lifeless forever and no chance would be left for it to rise again. For if the Quraish invaded Al-Madinah, the odds would be against the Muslims. The condition of the Muslim community was still very shaky because the immigrants (Muhajirin) had not been able to stabilize their economy during the short period (less than two years) of their stay at Al-Madinah; their helpers, (the Ansar) had not yet been tried; and the neighboring Jewish clans were antagonistic. Then there was a strong group of hypocrites and mushriks in Al-Madinah itself; above all, the surrounding clans lived in awe of the Quraish and had all their religious sympathies with them. The Prophet (peace be upon him), therefore, felt that the consequences of this possible invasion would not be favorable to the Muslims.

The second possibility was that they would not invade Al-Madinah but try only to escort their caravan safely and securely by a mere show of force. In that case, too, if the Muslim remained inactive, it would affect their reputation adversely. Obviously, this weak stand in the conflict would embolden the other Arabs also and make the position of the Muslims very insecure in the country and the surrounding clans would, at the instance of the Quraish, start hostilities against them, and the Jews, the hypocrites and the mushriks of Al-Madinah would openly rise against them and not only endanger their security of life, property and honor but make it difficult for them even to live there.

The Muslims would not be able to inspire the enemy with awe so as to keep safe from them their life, property and honor. A careful study of the situation led the Prophet (peace be upon him) to make up his mind to take a decisive step and go into the battle with whatever little strength he could muster, for thus and thus only could he show whether the Muslim community had the right to survive or was doomed to perish.

When he arrived at this momentous decision, he called the Muhajirin and the Ansar together and placed the whole position before them, without any reservation. He said, Allah has promised that you will confront one of the two, the trade caravan coming from the north or the army of the Quraish marching from the south. Now tell me which of the two you want to attack. A large majority of the people replied that they wanted to attack the caravan. But the Prophet (peace be upon him) who had something else before him, repeated the same question. At this Miqdad bin Amr, a Muhajir, stood up and said, "O Messenger of Allah, please march to the side to which your Lord commands you, we will accompany you wherever you go. We will not say like the Israelites said, go and let you and your Lord fight and we will wait. In contrast to them we say, let you and your Lord fight; we will fight by your side to our last breath. Even then he did not announce any decision but waited for a reply from the Ansar who had not yet taken any part in any battle of Islam. As this was the first opportunity for them to prove that they were ready to fulfill their promise of fighting for the cause of Islam, he repeated the question without directly addressing them. At this, Saad bin Muaz, an Ansar, stood up and said, it appears that you are putting the question to us. When the Prophet (peace be upon him) said, yes, the Ansar replied, we have believed in you and confirmed that what you have brought is the truth, and have made a solemn pledge with you that we will listen to you and obey you. Therefore, O Messenger of Allah, do whatever you intend to do. We swear by Allah Who has sent you with the truth that we are ready to accompany you to the sea shore and if you enter it, we will plunge into it. We assure you that not a single one of us will remain behind or forsake you, for we will not hesitate at all to go to fight, even if you should lead us to the battlefield tomorrow. We will remain steadfast in the battle and sacrifice our lives in the fight. We do hope that by the grace of Allah our behavior will gladden your heart. So, trusting in Allah's blessing, take us to the battlefield.

After these speeches, it was decided that they should march towards the army of the Quraish and not towards the trade caravan. But it should be noted that the decision was of an ordinary nature. For the number of people, who came forward to go to the battlefield, was only a little more than three hundred (86 Muhajirs, 62 from Aus and 170 from Khazraj). Then the little army was ill-armed and hardly equipped for battle. Only a couple of them had horses to ride and the others had to take their turn in threes and fours on the back of a camel, out of the 70 they had in all. Above all, they had not got enough weapons for the battle; only 60 of them had armors. It is, therefore, no wonder that with the exception of those who were prepared to sacrifice their lives for the cause of Islam, the majority of those who had joined the expedition, were so filled with fear that they felt as if they were knowingly going into the jaws of death. Then there were people who always looked at things from a selfish point of view. Though they had embraced Islam, they did not realize that their faith would demand the sacrifice of their lives and properties from them; they were of the opinion that it was a mad expedition prompted by irrational enthusiasm for religion. But the Prophet (peace be upon him) and the true believers had realized the urgency of that critical hour which required the risk of life. Therefore, they marched straight to the south-west, wherefrom the army of the Quraish was coming. This is a clear proof of the fact that from the very beginning they had gone out to fight with the army and not to plunder the caravan. For if they had aimed at plundering the caravan they would have taken the north-westerly direction and not the south-westerly one.

The two parties met in combat at Badr on the seventeenth of Ramadan. When the two armies confronted each other and the Prophet (peace be upon him) noticed that the Quraish army outnumbered the Muslims by three to one and was much better equipped, he raised his hands up in supplication and made this earnest prayer with great humility: “O Allah! Here are the Quraish proud of their war material: they have come to prove that Thy Messenger is false. O Allah! Send now the success that Thou hast promised to give me. O Allah! If this little army of Thy servants is destroyed, then there will be left none in the land to worship Thee.”

In this combat the emigrants from Makkah were put to the hardest test for they had to fight against their own near and dear relatives and put to the sword their fathers, their sons, their paternal and maternal uncles and their brothers. It is obvious that only such people could have come out successful in this hardest of tests as had accepted the truth sincerely and cut off all relations with falsehood. And in another way the test to which the Ansar were put was not less hard. So far they had only alienated the powerful Quraish and their allies by giving shelter to the Muslims against their wishes but now, for the first time, they were going to fight to them and sow the seeds of a long and bitter war with them. This was indeed a very hard test for it meant that a small town with a population of a few thousand inhabitants was going to wage a war with the whole of Arabia. It is obvious that only such people could take this bold step who believed in the truth of Islam so firmly that they were ready to sacrifice every personal interest for its sake.

So Allah accepted the sacrifices of the Muhajirin and the Ansar because of their true faith, and rewarded them with His success. The proud, well armed Quraish were routed by these ill equipped devotees of Islam. Seventy men of their army were killed and seventy captured as prisoners and their arms and equipment came into the hands of the Muslims as spoils of war. All their big chiefs, who were their best soldiers and who had led the opposition to Islam, were killed in this battle. No wonder that this decisive victory made Islam a power to be reckoned with. A Western research scholar says that before the battle of Badr, Islam was merely a religion and a state but after the battle it became the state religion, nay, the state itself.

Topics of Discussion

It is this great battle that has been reviewed in this Surah. But let it be noted that in some respects this review is quite different from the reviews that are usually made by the worldly commanders after a great victory.

1. Instead of gloating over the victory, the moral weaknesses that had come to the surface in that expedition have been pointed out so that the Muslims should try their best to reform themselves.

2. It has been impressed upon them that the victory was due to the help of Allah rather than to their own valor and bravery so that the Muslims should learn to rely on Him and obey Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him) alone.

3. The moral lesson of the conflict between the truth and falsehood has been enunciated and the qualities which lead to success in a conflict have been explained.

4. Then the Surah addresses the mushriks, the hypocrites, the Jews and the prisoners of this war in a very impressive manner that should teach them a good lesson.

5. It also gives instructions in regard to the spoils of war. The Muslims have been told not to regard these as their right but as a bounty from Allah. Therefore they should accept with gratitude the share that is granted to them out of it and willingly accede to the share which Allah sets apart for His cause and for the help of the needy.

6. Then it also gives normal instructions concerning the laws of peace and war for these were urgently needed to be explained at the stage which the Islamic movement had entered. It enjoined that the Muslims should refrain from ways of ignorance in peace and war and thus should establish their moral superiority in the world. It also meant, to demonstrate to the world in actual practical life the morality which it had been preaching to the world from the very beginning of Islam and had been enjoining that practical life should be based on the same.

7. It also states some articles of the Islamic constitution which help differentiate the status of the Muslims living within the limits of Dar-ul-Islam (the Abode of Islam) from that of the Muslims living beyond its limits.

Problems of Jihad

This Surah enunciates general principles of war (one aspect of Jihad) and peace while reviewing the battle of Badr and uses them for the moral training of the Muslims.

Topics and their Interconnection

Ayats 1-41. This portion deals with the problems of the spoils of war. The Quran says that these are not the spoils of war but the bounties of Allah and proves this by showing that the victory at Badr (and in all other battles) was won by His succor and not by the efforts of the Muslims. It also declares (in Ayat 40) that the war aim of the Muslims should be to eliminate all unfavorable conditions for the establishment of Islam and not to gain spoils. Moreover, the spoils, being the bounties of God, belong to Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him) and they alone are entitled to allocate them. Then after conditioning the Muslims to accept these things, the different shares have been allocated in Ayat 41.

Ayats 42-54. The battle of Badr was ordained by Allah so that Islam should triumph over ignorance. The lesson from this is that the Muslims should trust in God and prepare themselves for war and should not be beguiled by Satan as the disbelievers were.

Ayats 55-59. Sanctity of treaties has been enjoined and the Muslims commanded to observe them as long as the other party does not break them.

Ayats 60-66. The Muslims should always be prepared for war on every front, but should be ready to make peace if the other party is inclined towards it.

Ayats 67-71. In these verses, instructions about prisoners of war have been given.

Ayats 72-75. In order to keep the Muslims joined together against their enemies, they have been taught to have cordial relations with one another.

1. They ask you (O Muhammad) about the bounties of war. Say: "The (decisions about) bounties of war belong to Allah and the Messenger." So fear Allah, and set things right between you, and obey Allah and His Messenger, if you are (true) believers.*1

*1 A dispute arose among the Muslims concerning the division of the spoils of victory after the battle of Badr, Allah used this opportunity for the benefit of the Muslims and gave instructions for the solution of the problems of peace and war.

As Badr was the first battle fought under the flag of Islam, naturally the Muslims were unaware of the Islamic laws about war and the problems created by it. Some preliminary instructions had already been given in Surah Al-Baqarah and Surah Muhammad, but more instructions were needed for the humanization of war, because their notions were still the same that they had during the pre-Islamic days. That is why according to the old usage each Muslim claimed to be the rightful owner of the spoils which came in his hand after the victory. But there were others, who had gone in pursuit of the enemy instead of plundering the spoils, They claimed that they, too, were entitled to a share of the spoils, for, they said, “If we had not pursued the enemies to a long distance, they would have come back and by a surprise attack turned the victory into a defeat”. There were still others, who were standing guard for the Prophet (peace be upon him): they also claimed a share, saying that they had rendered the greatest service in the battle by protecting the person of the Prophet (peace be upon him), for, without this, there could have been no victory at all. But the people of the first group who possessed the spoils, were adamant and were not amenable to any reason whatsoever; for them, possession was the strongest of all arguments. By and by, the dispute began to take a very serious turn.

It was at this psychological moment that Allah sent down Surah Al-Anfaal and chose the same thorny problem for the introduction of the review of the battle of Badr. And it is a miracle of the divine Book that it solved the thorny problem in a few words. The very first sentence, “They ask you about the bounties of war,” contained the solution for the problem. The use of the Arabic word anfaal means bounties, instead of ghanaim, which means spoils of victory, provided the answer to the problem. The word anfaal is the plural of nafal. It means something which is in addition to the thing to which one is entitled by right. When that something is from the servant, it denotes the additional service to what is obligatory on the servant, but when it is from the master it denotes the additional reward which is bestowed on the servant as a bounty over and above to what the servant is entitled. The verse, therefore, implies: “Are you having a dispute concerning the bounties of Allah? If these are not the spoils of victory, but the bounties of Allah, who are you to decide about their division? It is for the Giver of the bounties to decide whom to give and how much.”

This conception of the spoils of victory helped to bring about a great moral reform in the attitude towards war. Muslims do not go to war for the sake of material gains but for the sake of reforming the moral and social evils in the world in accordance with the principles of the truth; and that they wage war only when the opposing forces make it impossible for them to carry out the reform work by means of preaching and teaching. Therefore the reformers must keep in view only that aim and object and not the material gains that may be bestowed on them by Allah as His bounties. That is why the Muslims were warned after the very first battle for the cause of Islam to guard themselves against the material gains of the battle lest these should become the sole aim and object of the fight.

This also brought about a great reform in connection with the division of the spoils of war. Formerly these spoils became the property of anyone who got possession of them, or of the commander or of the king who became the owner of all of them. In the first case, the selfishness of the soldiers of the victorious army led to a bitter competition for the grabbing of spoils and sometimes even brought about a civil war with all its horrible consequences. In the second case, the soldiers would resort to pilfering, which would degrade them to the low level of thieves. The Quran reformed these evils by declaring the spoils of war to be the property of Allah and His Messenger, and then further on in Ayat 41 by laying down equitable shares for its fair division. The first reform demanded that all these spoils, be they worth much or little, should be brought at one place before the chief commander. Then by the second reform, one-fifth of this should be kept for the Islamic State for the cause of Allah and for the help of the poor, and the remaining part should be divided among all those who had taken part in the battle. In this way the evils of the age of ignorance were reformed to the satisfaction of all.

Here this subtle point should also be kept in view: the Quran leaves the problem of the division after declaring that these bounties belong to Allah and the Messenger (peace be upon him), and does not even touch it so that the minds should first be prepared for obedience and its acceptance: Then in Ayat 41 it gives the command for the division of the spoils. That is why these have been called the bounties here and the spoils of war in Ayat 41.

2. The believers are only those who, when Allah is mentioned, their hearts become fearful, and when His verses are recited to them, it increases them in faith,^{*2} and upon their Lord they trust.

إِنَّمَا الْمُؤْمِنُونَ الَّذِينَ إِذَا
ذُكِرَ اللَّهُ وَجِلَتْ قُلُوبُهُمْ وَإِذَا
تُلِيَتْ عَلَيْهِمْ آيَاتُهُ زَادَتْهُمْ
إِيمَانًا وَعَلَىٰ رَبِّهِمْ يَتَوَكَّلُونَ

*2 This implies that a man's faith increases on every occasion he acknowledges the revelations of Allah to be true and submits to them. Most surely his faith increases and grows, whenever he surrenders himself to the Book of Allah and to the teachings of the Prophet (peace be upon him) though they may be against his own desires, his opinions, his conceptions, his theories, his habits, his interests, his desires, his comforts, his affections and his friendships. For, instead of changing the teachings, he changes himself in accordance with the commands of Allah and the instructions of the Prophet (peace be upon him), and accepts them for his guidance. In contrast to this, if a believer hesitates to accept these, his faith begins to decrease and fade away.

This also shows that faith is not something that is incapable of growth and increase and which always remains in one and the same state, but it is capable of both improvement and decay. Every denial of the truth corrupts its quality, and likewise every acknowledgment and acceptance improves it. But as far as the grading of the rights and ranks of the people, according to the acceptance or denial of the truth, is concerned, all the Muslims shall be placed in one and the same position, and likewise the non-Muslims. In the Islamic society, the legal rights and obligations of all the Muslims shall be the same, irrespective of the differences in the quality of the faith. In the same way, the non-Muslims shall be Zimmis or belligerents or allies of the same rank, irrespective of the quality of their denial of the Islamic faith.

3. Those who establish prayer, and from what We have provided them, they spend.

الَّذِينَ يُقِيمُونَ الصَّلَاةَ
وَمِمَّا رَزَقْنَاهُمْ يُنْفِقُونَ

4. Those are they who are in truth believers. For them are high ranks with their Lord, and forgiveness,^{*3} and honorable provision.

أُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْمُؤْمِنُونَ حَقًّا
لَهُمْ دَرَجَاتٌ عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ
وَمَغْفِرَةٌ وَرِزْقٌ كَرِيمٌ

*3 The promise, that the shortcomings of the believers shall be forgiven, gives great solace to them, for everyone, however great and good he may be, is liable to commit offenses and it is not at all possible that a human being will always do such deeds as conform in every case to the highest standard and are absolutely free from defect, deficiency and fault. Allah, however, shows one of His greatest blessings to those who perform obligatory duties, and forgives their shortcomings by His grace, and rewards His servants with a far greater recompense than the one they deserve. Otherwise, if His rule had been to reward and punish each and every virtue and vice separately, then even the most righteous people could not have escaped punishment.

5. Even as your Lord brought you forth from your home (for the battle of Badr) in truth. And indeed, a party among the believers were averse (to it).

كَمَا أَخْرَجَكَ رَبُّكَ مِنْ بَيْتِكَ
بِالْحَقِّ وَإِنَّ فَرِيقًا مِّنَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ
لَكَرِهُونَ ﴿٦﴾

6. Disputing with you about the truth after it had become evident, as if they were being driven toward death while they were looking on.^{*4}

تُجَادِلُونَكَ فِي الْحَقِّ بَعْدَ مَا
تَبَيَّنَ كَأَنَّمَا يُسَاقُونَ إِلَى
الْمَوْتِ وَهُمْ يَنْظُرُونَ ﴿٦﴾

*4 The verse may mean either of the two things: as translated it means at that time the truth required that they should go to the fight but they were afraid of this; and now the truth required that they should not argue concerning the spoils of war and wait for the command, but they did not seem to submit to this for the sake of the truth. The second meaning will be this: "In the battle of Badr, you have seen with your own eyes the good results of following the truth. Although you were afraid of going to the fight as if you were being driven towards death, yet by obeying Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him), you won a great victory: likewise, if you now abide by the truth in regard to the division of the spoils and submit to the command of Allah and obey the decision of the Prophet (peace be upon him) instead of yielding to the desires of your hearts, you will see good results with your own eyes”. Incidentally, verses 5-6 refute all those traditions about the battle of Badr that are related in the books on the life of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his wars. They say that the real plan of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers was to plunder the caravan and accordingly they had marched out of Al-Madinah for the same purpose. But when they had traveled some distance, they learned that an army of the Quraish was coming for the protection of the caravan, and they held a council to decide whether to attack the caravan or the army. The Quran, however, contradicts this. It says that Allah brought forth the Prophet (peace be upon him) from his home with the truth at the very beginning and he had this truth before him that they should meet the army of the Quraish in a decisive battle. For these consultations were held before they had started from Al-Madinah and not after. It was then that some Muslims were arguing with the Prophet (peace be upon him) concerning the truth that they should go to meet the army of the Quraish, though it had become quite evident to them. That was why these people felt as though they were being driven towards death, when they were commanded to march out of Al-Madinah at the very start of the expedition.

7. And when Allah promised you one of the two groups*⁵ (caravan or army of Quresh)

وَإِذْ يَعِدُّكُمْ اللَّهُ إِحْدَى الطَّائِفَتَيْنِ أَنَّهَا لَكُمْ وَتَوَدُّونَ that it would be yours, and you wished that the unarmed one should be yours.*⁶ And Allah intended that He should establish the truth by His words, and cut the root of the disbelievers.

أَنَّ غَيْرَ ذَاتِ الشَّوْكَةِ
تَكُونُ لَكُمْ وَيُرِيدُ اللَّهُ أَنْ يُحِقَّ
الْحَقَّ بِكَلِمَاتِهِ وَيَقْطَعَ دَابِرَ
الْكَافِرِينَ

*⁵ That is, the trade caravan, or the army of the Quraish.

*⁶ That is, the trade caravan, that was accompanied by a guard band numbering between thirty and forty.

8. That He should establish the truth to be true and the falsehood to be false, even if the criminals might dislike.*⁷

لِيُحِقَّ الْحَقَّ وَيُبْطِلَ الْبَاطِلَ
وَلَوْ كَرِهَ الْمُجْرِمُونَ

*⁷ This makes it clear that the march of the army of the Quraish towards Al-Madinah amounted to a challenge from the system of ignorance to the system of Islam, as stated in the introduction to this Surah. Allah willed that the Muslims should accept that challenge and fight a decisive battle for the survival of Islam in Arabia. If the Muslims had not marched out boldly on that occasion, they would have lost all chances of their survival. Their bold march and victory at Badr in the very first battle crushed the power of the Quraish and created such favorable conditions for Islam that after this it went on defeating the system of ignorance.

9. When you asked your Lord for help, and He إِذْ تَسْتَغِيثُونَ رَبَّكُمْ فَاسْتَجَابَ responded to you: “Indeed I will help you with a thousand of angels, rank on rank.”

لَكُمْ أَنِّي مُدِّدُكُمْ بِأَلْفٍ مِّنَ
الْمَلَائِكَةِ مُرَدِّفِينَ ﴿٩﴾

10. And Allah made it not but glad tidings, and that your hearts may be assured therewith. And there is no victory except from Allah. Indeed, Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.

وَمَا جَعَلَهُ اللَّهُ إِلَّا بُشْرَىٰ
وَلِتَطْمَئِنَّ بِهِ قُلُوبُكُمْ ۚ وَمَا
النَّصْرُ إِلَّا مِنْ عِنْدِ اللَّهِ ۚ إِنَّ
اللَّهَ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ ﴿١٠﴾

11. When He covered you with a slumber as a security from Him,^{*8} and He sent down rain upon you from the sky that He might cleanse you through it, and take away from you the pollution of Satan and strengthen your hearts, and make your feet firm through it.^{*9}

إِذْ يُغَشِّيكُمُ اللَّيْلُ أَمَنَةً مِّنْهُ
وَيُنزِلُ عَلَيْكُمْ مِنَ السَّمَاءِ مَاءً
لِّيُطَهِّرَكُم بِهِ وَيُذْهِبَ عَنْكُمْ
رِجْسَ الشَّيْطَانِ وَلِيَرْبِطَ عَلَىٰ
قُلُوبِكُمْ وَيُثَبِّتَ بِهِ الْأَقْدَامَ
﴿١١﴾

8 The Muslims experienced the same thing during the battle of Uhd. (Surah Aal-Imran, Ayat 154). On both these critical occasions, Allah filled the hearts of the Muslims with such peace and security that they were overpowered by drowsiness.

9 On the eve of the battle of Badr, there was a rainfall, which helped the Muslims in three ways. First, they got an opportunity of storing water in reservoirs. Secondly, it made the sandy ground hard in the upper part of the valley where the Muslims were camping and they could move about with steady footsteps. Thirdly, it created difficulties for the army of the disbelievers who were camping in the lower part of the valley for the rain-water gathered there and made the ground marshy and their feet sank into the mud.

“The defilement (pollution) caused by Satan” was the fear and confusion he had imbued in their minds because of the coming battle. The God sent rainfall and slumber at that critical occasion helped to remove that fear and confusion.

12. When your Lord inspired to the angels, I am certainly with you, so keep firm those who believed. I will cast terror into the hearts of those who disbelieved, so smite at the necks and smite over all their fingers.*10

إِذْ يُوحِي رَبُّكَ إِلَى الْمَلَائِكَةِ أَنِّي مَعَكُمْ فَثَبِّتُوا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا سَأَلِقَى فِي قُلُوبِ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا الرَّعْبَ فَأَضْرِبُوا فَوْقَ الْأَعْنَاقِ وَأَضْرِبُوا مِنْهُمْ كُلَّ بَنَانٍ ﴿١٢﴾

*10 From what we have learned about the basic principles from the Quran, we are of the opinion that the angels were not employed directly to take part in fighting and killing but probably they were used to help the Muslims in making their strokes hard and effective. But the true knowledge is with Allah.

13. That is because they opposed Allah and His Messenger. And whoever opposes Allah and His Messenger, then indeed Allah is severe in punishment.*11

ذَٰلِكَ بِأَنَّهُمْ شَاقُوا اللَّهَ
وَرَسُولَهُ وَمَنْ يُشَاقِقِ اللَّهَ
وَرَسُولَهُ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ شَدِيدُ
الْعِقَابِ

*11 Up to this place references have been made one by one to some events in connection with the battle of Badr: this is to show the real significance of the Arabic word anfaal. At the very beginning of the Surah, it is decreed that bounties belong to Allah and the Messenger (peace be upon him) and not to you because the spoils are not the fruit of your efforts. As a proof of this, these events have been enumerated for the consideration of the believers and they have been asked to judge for themselves how much they contributed to the spoils by their courage and bravery and how these owed to the bounty of Allah.

14. That*12 is your (punishment) so taste it, and indeed for the disbelievers is the punishment of the Fire.

ذَٰلِكُمْ فَذُوقُوهُ وَأَنَّ
لِلْكَافِرِينَ عَذَابَ النَّارِ

*12 The address has been suddenly turned to the disbelievers because of the mention of the punishment they deserved.

15. O those (of you) who believe, when you meet

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا إِذَا لَقِيتُمْ those who disbelieve, in battle, so do not turn your backs to them.

الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا زَحَفًا فَلَا تُوَلُّوهُمْ
الْأَدْبَارَ

16. And whoever turns his back to them on that day, unless maneuvering for war or intent to join to the company, he certainly has incurred wrath from Allah, and his abode is hell, and worst is that destination.*13

وَمَنْ يُؤَلِّهِمْ يَوْمَئِذٍ دُبُرَهُ إِلَّا
مُتَحَرِّفًا لِقِتَالٍ أَوْ مُتَحَيِّزًا إِلَى
فِئَةٍ فَقَدْ بَاءَ بِغَضَبٍ مِّنَ اللَّهِ
وَمَا أُولَئِكَ بِمُصِيرٍ

*13 The Quran does not forbid an orderly retreat if necessitated by military strategy. It is lawful to retreat if there is a hard pressure of the enemy, and the fighting troops retreat to get re-enforcements or to join another pan of the army in the rear. However, what has been forbidden is a rout in utter defeat, involving disorderly and cowardly flight for safety. Such a retreat is obviously a heinous sin, because it is to save one's own life and it deserves the most painful retreat in Hell. Anyone, who runs away in disorder from the battlefield, does so because he loves his own life more than the cause for which he professed to fight. Accordingly the Prophet (peace be upon him) condemns this emphatically, saying, "There are three sins which make virtue vain, shirk, violation of the rights of parents, and flight from the battlefield when fighting in the way of Allah.” Likewise in another tradition, he mentions seven sins that are ruinous and destructive for the life-after-death. One of these is that one should turn his back to the disbelievers and run away from the conflict between Islam and kufr. Such a rout is condemned because, besides being a cowardly act, it leads to serious consequences: the flight of one soldier may cause the rout of a platoon and that in turn of a regiment or of the whole army. Then it is also possible that the rout of the army might ruin the whole country.

17. So you did not kill them, but Allah killed them, and you (O Muhammad) threw not when you did throw, but Allah threw.*14

And that He might test the believers by a fair test from Him. Indeed, Allah is All Hearing, All Knowing.

فَلَمْ تَقْتُلُوهُمْ وَلَكِنَّ اللَّهَ قَتَلَهُمْ وَمَا رَمَيْتَ إِذْ رَمَيْتَ وَلَكِنَّ اللَّهَ رَمَىٰ وَلِيُبْلِيَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ مِنْهُ بَلَاءً حَسَنًا إِنَّ اللَّهَ سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

*14 This refers to an event that happened during the battle of Badr. After single bouts, when a general fight was going to ensue, the Prophet (peace be upon him) took a handful of sand and threw it towards the army of the disbelievers, saying, “May their faces be scorched.” At the same time he made a gesture and the Muslims attacked the disbelievers in a body.

18. That is (the case), and that Allah weakens the plot of the disbelievers.

ذَٰلِكُمْ وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ مُوهِنُ كَيْدِ الْكَافِرِينَ

19. If you sought a judgment, then surely a judgment has come to you.*¹⁵ And if you desist (from hostilities), so it is better for you. And if you return (to war), so shall We return. And never will avail you your forces at all, even if it be numerous, and indeed Allah is with the believers.

إِنْ تَسْتَفْتِحُوا فَقَدْ جَاءَكُمْ
الْفَتْحُ وَإِنْ تَنْتَهُوا فَهُوَ خَيْرٌ
لَكُمْ وَإِنْ تَعُودُوا نَعُدْ وَلَنْ
تُغْنِيَ عَنْكُمْ فِئَتِكُمْ شَيْئًا وَلَوْ
كَثُرَتْ وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ مَعَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

15 This refers to the prayer that was offered by the Quraish at the Kaabah before they marched for the fight. The mushriks held the curtains of the Kaabah and prayed: “O Allah, grant victory to the better of the two parties.” Abu Jahl particularly invoked Allah’s decision, saying, “O God, grant victory to that party which is in the right, and disgrace that one which is the aggressor.” Accordingly Allah gave His decision and granted their prayer to the letter by giving a signal victory to the Muslims to show that they were the better of the two parties and they were in the right.

20. O those (of you) who believe, obey Allah and His Messenger and do not turn away from him, while you are hearing.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا أَطِيعُوا
اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ وَلَا تَوَلَّوْا عَنْهُ
وَأَنْتُمْ تَسْمَعُونَ

21. And do not be like those who say: “We have heard,” while they do not hear.*16

وَلَا تَكُونُوا كَالَّذِينَ قَالُوا
سَمِعْنَا وَهُمْ لَا يَسْمَعُونَ ﴿٢١﴾

16 This exposes the attitude of the hypocrites, who heard the truth with their ears, yet did not accept and believe in it: they professed to believe but did not obey the commands.

22. Indeed, the worst of living creatures in the sight of Allah are the deaf and dumb,*17 those who do not understand.

﴿٢٢﴾ إِنَّ شَرَّ الدَّوَابِّ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ
الصُّمُّ الْبُكْمُ الَّذِينَ لَا
يَعْقِلُونَ ﴿٢٢﴾

17 That is, those who do not listen to the truth and do not utter it with their tongues, are deaf and dumb concerning the truth.

23. And if Allah had known in them any good, He would have made them hear. And even if He had made them hear, they would have turned away, while they were refusing.*18

وَلَوْ عَلِمَ اللَّهُ فِيهِمْ خَيْرًا
لَأَسْمَعَهُمْ وَلَوْ أَسْمَعَهُمْ
لَتَوَلَّوْا وَهُمْ مُّعْرِضُونَ ﴿٢٣﴾

18 As those hypocrites had no love for the truth and no desire to work in its cause, they would have turned their backs from the battle at the first critical juncture, even if Allah had helped them to obey the command and march to the battlefield. Thus their company would have proved to be harmful rather than useful.

24. O those (of you) who believe, respond to Allah and to the Messenger when He calls you to that which will give you life. And know that Allah intervenes between a man and his heart, and that He it is unto whom you will be gathered.*¹⁹

يَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا اسْتَجِيبُوا
لِلَّهِ وَلِلرَّسُولِ إِذَا دَعَاكُمْ لِمَا
تُحْيِيكُمْ وَاَعْلَمُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ
يَحُولُ بَيْنَ الْمَرْءِ وَقَلْبِهِ
وَأَنَّهُ رَاجِعٌ إِلَىٰ إِلَهِ يُحْشِرُونَ

*¹⁹ In Ayats 21-23, the believers were warned to guard against behaving like the hypocrites and here the remedy is being prescribed for it. The most effective antidote against hypocritical behavior is the belief in Allah and the life in the Hereafter. If a person sincerely believes that he has to deal with that Allah Who knows everything, even the intentions, desires, designs, thoughts hidden in the hearts, etc. are known to Him and that one has ultimately to return to Him, he will try his best to refrain from such a behavior. That is why the Quran mentions these two articles of faith over and over again as a remedy to cure the evil of hypocrisy.

25. And fear a mischief that will not strike those who have wronged among you exclusively.*²⁰ And know that Allah is severe in punishment.

وَاتَّقُوا فِتْنَةً لَا تُصِيبَنَّ الَّذِينَ
ظَلَمُوا مِنْكُمْ خَاصَّةً وَاَعْلَمُوا
أَنَّ اللَّهَ شَدِيدُ الْعِقَابِ

20 “That mischief” refers to those collective evils that are not confined to individuals but are so widespread that a large number of persons in a locality become addicted to these at the same time. In such a case, it is not the wrongdoers alone who are seized by the scourge of Allah but also those few people who are involved in those evils. This is because they put up with life in such evil surroundings.

In order to illustrate this, let us consider the case of a town from the point of view of its sanitary conditions. If filth lies scattered at a few places, its evil effects remain confined to that particular locality or localities and only those people who keep their houses or persons dirty suffer from the consequent diseases. But if filth gets scattered all over the town and there is no one to prevent it and restore sanitary conditions, then the air, the water and the soil will all be contaminated and become so poisonous as to cause the outbreak of an epidemic in the whole town. Obviously, it will not discriminate between those who scattered the filth and those who refrained from it, but will affect all the people who live in those surroundings. The same is the case of moral impurity, corruption and obscenity. If these evils are found in some persons individually but the fear of the good people of the society keeps them under check, the evil effects remain confined to the wrongdoers alone. On the other hand, if the collective conscience of the society becomes so weak that it cannot keep the evil suppressed, and the wrongdoers, the indecent and the immoral people become so bold that they begin to commit their filthy acts openly, that mischief takes the form of an epidemic of immorality. Then even those good people who remain content with their own individual goodness and adopt a passive attitude towards the widespread evils, fall victims to the consequent scourge because they did nothing to prevent the spread of the epidemic.

In this way Allah impresses upon the Muslims the importance of the mission of reform and guidance for which the Messenger (peace be upon him) had risen and to which he was inviting them, as if to say, "There is life for you as individuals and as a community in this work. If you do not sincerely exert for its achievement and for the eradication of evils, an epidemic of evils will break out which will involve in its scourge all of you, even though there may be some among you who might not have been guilty of either the commission of those evils or of their spread; nay, they might have been leading good lives as individuals". The same thing has already been enunciated in Surah Al-Aaraf, Ayat 164. And this may be regarded as the fundamental principle of that war which has been permitted by Islam for the reform of the people in general.

26. And remember when you were few and deemed weak in the land, fearing that people might abduct you. Then He provided you refuge, and strengthened you with His help, and provided you

وَأَذْكُرُوا إِذْ أَنْتُمْ قَلِيلٌ
مُسْتَضْعَفُونَ فِي الْأَرْضِ
تَخَافُونَ أَنْ يَتَخَطَّفَكُمُ
النَّاسُ فَعَاوَنَكُمُ وَأَيَّدَكُمُ with good things that you might be grateful.*21

بِنَصْرِهِ وَرَزَقَكُمْ مِنَ الطَّيِّبَاتِ
لَعَلَّكُمْ تَشْكُرُونَ

*21 The words “That you might be grateful” are very significant in the context in which they occur. They require that the Muslims should not merely acknowledge the kindness of Allah that He brought them out of their weak position in Makkah to the security of Al-Madinah and provided them with pure and good things of life. They should also show their gratitude in a practical manner and obey Allah and His Messenger and work sincerely and devotedly for the success of his mission, facing bravely, with trust in God, the dangers, hardships, obstacles and misfortunes that come in the way. They should firmly believe that if they sincerely exert in the way of Allah, He will most surely become their Guardian and Helper as before and bring them out safely from all sorts of dangers. Thus gratitude does not mean mere acknowledgment; it has to be given a practical shape as well. It is not gratitude if one acknowledges the kindness of a benefactor but does nothing to please him or serve him sincerely or entertains doubts about the kindness of the benefactor in future; it is ingratitude.

27. O those (of you) who believe, do not betray Allah and the Messenger, nor betray your trusts while you know.*22

يَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تَخُونُوا
اللَّهَ وَالرَّسُولَ وَتَخُونُوا أَمْنَتِكُمْ
وَأَنْتُمْ تَعْلَمُونَ

22 “Your trusts” is a very comprehensive term and includes all those things that are entrusted to anyone for fulfillment, whether they concern individuals or communities. For instance, one should not violate treaties and agreements or betray secrets of community or misappropriate property and office entrusted to his care. (Refer to E.N. 88 of Surah An-Nisa).

28. And know that your possessions and your children are but a trial,^{*23} and that Allah has with Him an immense reward.

وَأَعْلَمُوا أَنَّمَا أَمْوَالُكُمْ
وَأَوْلَادُكُمْ فِتْنَةٌ وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ
عِنْدَهُ أَجْرٌ عَظِيمٌ

23 Worldly goods and children generally prove to be the greatest temptations that lead a person to the ways of hypocrisy, treachery and dishonesty. That is why Allah has warned the believers to be on their guard against indulging in too much love of money and children, as if to say, “This world is a big examination hall, and your wealth and your children are two of its tests. These have been given to you only to test whether you fulfill their prescribed rights and keep the prescribed limits; whether you walk straight on the right way while carrying the burden of responsibilities or swerve from it because of the attractions of allurements and temptations; and whether you control yourself which is liable to become their slave in a way that it remains the slave of Allah, and at the same time renders their rights in the way He has prescribed.

29. O those (of you) who believe, if you fear Allah, He will grant you a criterion*24 and will remove from you your evil deeds and will forgive you. And Allah is possessor of great bounty.

يَتَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا إِن تَتَّقُوا
اللَّهَ يَجْعَل لَّكُمْ فُرْقَانًا وَيُكَفِّرْ
عَنْكُمْ سَيِّئَاتِكُمْ وَيَغْفِرَ لَكُمْ
وَاللَّهُ ذُو الْفَضْلِ الْعَظِيمِ

*24 The believers have been assured that if they behave in a God fearing way, Allah will provide them with the criterion (that is, the true knowledge and the right understanding of all affairs), to enable them to discern between right and wrong. Thus, if they so intend, they will be able to do the Will of God and follow the way He approves of. That criterion will serve as a signal at every turning, every crossing, every up and down and show them the right way, the Way of God, and warn them of the false ways, the ways of Satan.

30. And when those who disbelieve plotted against you (O Muhammad) to restrain you, or kill you, or drive you out.*25 And they plotted, and Allah did plan. And Allah is the best of those who plan.

وَإِذْ يَمْكُرُ بِكَ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا
لِيُثْبِتُوكَ أَوْ يَقْتُلُوكَ أَوْ يُخْرِجُوكَ
وَيَمْكُرُونَ وَيَمْكُرُ اللَّهُ وَاللَّهُ
خَيْرُ الْمَكْرِينَ

*25 This plot was made at the time when the Quraish realized that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was also going to migrate to Al-Madinah. They felt that if he succeeded in emigrating from Makkah, he would be out of their reach and become formidable. Accordingly, they held an urgent meeting of their chiefs in Dar-un-Nadvah (council house) to discuss the matter and come to a final decision in regard to him. Some were of the opinion that he should be chained and imprisoned for life. But this plan was not approved for it was feared that his companions would go on working for the mission and would do their best to get him released, even at the risk of their own lives, as soon as they would gain some power. The others proposed that he should be exiled from Makkah for that would at least relieve them of the disorder he was creating among them. Then it would not matter for them where he lived and what he did. But the chiefs rejected this plan, saying, this man possesses the art of a charming speech and of winning hearts. If he leaves this place, he may go to the other Arab clans and win them over to his side, and then after gaining power, he may attack Makkah. At last Abu Jahl, putting forward his plan, said, let us select from each of our families one strong, stout and smart young man of high rank. They should all attack Muhammad (peace be upon him) at one and the same time and kill him. In this way, the responsibility for his blood will be divided equally among all the families of the Quraish, and it will not be possible for Banu Abd Manaf, the family of Muhammad (peace be upon him), to fight with all of them and they will be forced to accept blood money for him. They approved this plan unanimously and nominated young men to kill him at the appointed time. Accordingly, the would be murderers reached their places on the night fixed for the crime, but the Prophet (peace be upon him), throwing dust in their eyes, escaped safely from Makkah. Thus their plot ended in utter failure at the eleventh hour.

31. And when Our verses are recited to them, they say: “We have heard. if we willed, we could say the like of it. This is not but legends of the ancients.”

وَإِذَا تُتْلَىٰ عَلَيْهِمْ آيَاتُنَا قَالُوا
قَدْ سَمِعْنَا لَوْ نَشَاءُ لَقُلْنَا مِثْلَ
هَذَا إِنْ هَذَا إِلَّا أَسْطِيرُ
الْأَوَّلِينَ ﴿٣١﴾

32. And when they said: “O Allah if this be that which is the truth from You, then rain down upon us stones from heaven, or bring upon us a painful punishment.”*26

وَإِذْ قَالُوا اللَّهُمَّ إِن كَانَ
هَذَا هُوَ الْحَقُّ مِنْ عِنْدِكَ
فَأَمْطِرْ عَلَيْنَا حِجَارَةً مِّنَ
السَّمَاءِ أَوْ آتِنَا بِعَذَابٍ أَلِيمٍ
﴿٣٢﴾

26 These words were not uttered as a prayer but as a challenge. What they really meant was this: Had this been really the truth sent down by God, He would have rained down stones on us from heaven or sent down some other painful torment on us, in consequence of its rejection by us. But as nothing of the sort has happened, it means that it is neither the truth nor has it been sent down by Allah.

33. And Allah was not to punish them while you are in their midst, nor was Allah going to punish them while they seek forgiveness.*27

وَمَا كَانَ اللَّهُ لِيُعَذِّبَهُمْ
وَأَنْتَ فِيهِمْ وَمَا كَانَ اللَّهُ
مُعَذِّبَهُمْ وَهُمْ يَسْتَغْفِرُونَ

27 This is the answer to their challenge that was implied in their seeming prayer. They have been told that a torment was not sent down during the Makkan period because of the presence of the Messenger (peace be upon him) in their midst. For, Allah gives respite to the people to reform themselves as long as the Messenger (peace be upon him) continues to invite them to the truth, as He does not deprive them of the opportunity of reforming themselves by sending down a scourge before the expiry of the term. The second reason is that Allah does not send down a scourge on an habitation as long as there remain in it any people, who may ask His forgiveness for their past negligence and deviations and mend their ways. However, a scourge is sent down on the habitation when the Messenger considers that he has done all he could to admonish its people and emigrates from it or is expelled from it or is murdered by its people. This is because that habitation proves practically that it cannot tolerate in it even the presence of any good element.

34. And what have they that Allah should not punish them, and they obstruct (others) from Al-Masjid

وَمَا لَهُمْ إِلَّا يُعَذِّبُهُمُ اللَّهُ وَهُمْ يَصُدُّونَ عَنِ الْمَسْجِدِ

al-Haram, and they are not its guardians. Its (true) guardians are not but those who are righteous. But most of them do not know.

الْحَرَامِ وَمَا كَانُوا أَوْلِيَاءَهُ^{٢٨}
إِنَّ أَوْلِيَاءَهُ^{٢٩} إِلَّا الْمُتَّقُونَ
وَلَكِنَّ أَكْثَرَهُمْ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ

35. And their prayer at the House (Kabah) was not except whistling and handclapping.*²⁸ So taste the punishment because you used to disbelieve.*²⁹

وَمَا كَانَ صَلَاتُهُمْ عِنْدَ الْبَيْتِ
إِلَّا مُمُكَّاتٍ وَتَصَدِيَةً^{٣٠} فَذُوقُوا
الْعَذَابَ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ تَكْفُرُونَ

28 They have been further warned to this effect: Now that you have incurred a torment, you should be ready for it for nothing will save you now from it. The Quraish were under the delusion that they would not be visited by any torment because they were the guardians and keepers of the House of God. This misunderstanding has been removed by declaring, so as to say: They are not its lawful guardians for mere inheritance does not entitle them to its guardianship. The pious people alone are the rightful guardians of this sacred place. The people of the Quraish have forfeited that right now if they had any right to it, because they were barring the way of the really pious people to this House, which is dedicated to the exclusive worship of Allah. The Quraish were behaving not as the guardians and keepers and servants of the House but as its masters, and prevented anyone they liked from visiting it. As regards their worship in the House, it was nothing more than making meaningless noises by whistling and clapping of hands: it was void of devotion towards Allah and of His remembrance and of all its requirements. How could they, then, expect any favor from Allah or any guarantee of immunity from His scourge?

*29 They have been told that the scourge of Allah had visited them in the shape of utter defeat in the battle of Badr, which had given life to the Islamic way and brought death to their way of ignorance. This was necessary to remove their wrong notion that the scourge of Allah came only in the shape of rain or storm from the heavens or the like.

36. Indeed, those who disbelieve, they spend their wealth to hinder (people) from the way of Allah. So they will spend it, then it will become for them an anguish, then they will be overcome. And those who disbelieve will be gathered to Hell.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا يُنْفِقُونَ

 وَالَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا إِلَىٰ جَهَنَّمَ
 يُحْشَرُونَ

37. So that Allah may separate the wicked from لِيَمِيزَ اللَّهُ الْخَبِيثَ مِنَ الطَّيِّبِ

the good, and place wicked one upon another, then heap them together, then cast them into Hell. They, it is they who are the losers.*30

وَجَعَلَ الْخَبِيثَ بَعْضُهُ عَلَى
بَعْضٍ فَيَرْكُمَهُ جَمِيعًا
فَيَجْعَلُهُ فِي جَهَنَّمَ ۗ أُولَٰئِكَ
هُمُ الْخٰسِرُونَ ﴿٣٧﴾

*30 “It is they who are the losers”, for all their efforts, abilities, time and wealth ultimately proved to be absolutely worthless. It not only failed to earn any interest or profit for them but has also driven them to utter ruin.

38. Say to those who disbelieve, if they desist, what has been the past shall be forgiven for them. And if they return, then indeed the example of those before has already preceded.

قُلْ لِلَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا إِن يَنْتَهُوْا
يُغْفَرَ لَهُمْ مَا قَدْ سَلَفَ وَإِنْ
يَعُودُوا فَقَدْ مَضَتْ سُنَّتُ
الْأَوَّلِينَ ﴿٣٨﴾

39. And fight them until there is no more persecution, and the religion is for Allah, all of it.*31 So if they cease, then indeed Allah is Seer of what they do.

وَقَاتِلُوهُمْ حَتَّىٰ لَا تَكُونَ
فِتْنَةٌ وَيَكُونَ الدِّينُ كُلُّهُ
لِلَّهِ ۗ فَإِنِ انْتَهَوْا فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ
بِمَا يَعْمَلُونَ بَصِيرٌ ﴿٣٩﴾

*31 Here the war aim of Islam, which had previously been declared in Surah Al-Baqarah, Ayat 193, has been repeated. This aim has two aspects, one negative and one positive. On the negative side, the aim of war is to abolish fitnah, and on the positive, it is to establish Allah's Way completely and in its entirety. This is the only objective for which it is lawful, nay, obligatory for the believers to fight. There is no other object for which fighting is lawful, and it does not behoove the believers to resort to fighting for any other objective. (See E.Ns 204-205 of Surah Al-Baqarah).

40. And if they turn away, then know that Allah is your Protector, an excellent Protector and an excellent Helper.

وَإِنْ تَوَلَّوْا فَعَلِمُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ
مَوْلَانِكُمْ ۚ نِعْمَ الْمَوْلَىٰ وَنِعْمَ

41. And know that whatever of any thing you obtain as the spoils of war, then indeed, for Allah is one fifth of it, and for the Messenger, and for the near of kin, and the orphans, and the needy, and the wayfarer.^{*32} If you believe in Allah and that what We sent down to Our servant on the day of criterion,^{*33} the day when the two armies met. And Allah has power over all things.

التَّقَىٰ أَجْمَعِينَ ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَلَىٰ

كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ

32 This verse contains the answer to the question which was asked about the division of spoils at the very beginning of the Surah. There it was merely said that these are the bounties of Allah and belong to Him and His Messenger, and the authority to divide these belongs to them. In this verse, the verdict on the spoils has been given. After the battle is over, the fighters should bring all the spoils to the leader and hide nothing of these. Then one fifth should be set apart for the requirements stated in this verse, and the remaining four fifths should be divided among those who took part in the fighting. That is why the Prophet (peace be upon him) used to announce after every fight, “These spoils belong to you, and I have no share in these for my own person except only one-fifth and that, too, is spent for your common good. Therefore bring here everything, even a needle and its thread. Do not hide anything, big or small, for this is a shameful thing and leads to Hell.”

This one-fifth share of Allah and His Messenger has been reserved for the cause of Allah and for the establishment of His Way.

During his lifetime, by the relatives were meant the relatives of the Prophet (peace be upon him). A share from the one fifth of the spoils was to be given to those relatives of the Prophet (peace be upon him) who were dependent on him for now he had to devote the whole of his time to the cause of Allah’s religion and it was not possible for him to earn for the maintenance of the members of his own family and of the relatives who were dependent on him. But there has been a difference of opinion regarding this share of the relatives after his death. Some are of the opinion that this share was abolished after the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him), others say that this share should go to the relatives of his successor. But there are still others who hold that this share should be spent for the needy persons from among his offspring. According to my research, this share was given to the needy ones of his offspring during the time of his rightly guided successors.

33 "What We sent down to Our servant" means His timely succor that brought about the victory in the battle of Badr.

42. When you were at the nearer end (of the valley of Badr), and they were at the farther end, and the caravan below you (along the seaside). And if you had made a mutual appointment, you would certainly have failed in the appointment. But (it was) so that Allah might accomplish a matter that was to be ordained. That he should perish, who was to perish upon a clear evidence. And he should survive, who was to survive upon a clear evidence.^{*34} And indeed,

Allah is All Hearing, All
Knowing.^{*35}

34 That is, it should be proved that whichever (Islam or ignorance) survived in the battle, really deserved to live, and whichever perished, ought to have perished. It should be noted that here the conflict for survival was not between different persons as such but between Islam and ignorance as represented by the believers and the disbelievers.

35 As Allah hears everything and sees everything and knows everything, He is running His universe with wisdom and justice and will allow the right alone to survive.

43. When Allah showed them to you in your dream as few.^{*36} And if He had shown them to you as numerous, you would have lost courage and disputed with one another in the matter. But Allah saved you. Certainly, He is the All Knower of what is within the breasts.

إِذْ يُرِيكُمُ اللَّهُ فِي مَنَامِكُمْ
قَلِيلًا وَلَوْ أَرَأَيْتُمْ كَثِيرًا
لَفَشِلْتُمْ وَتَنَزَعْتُمْ فِي الْأُمُورِ
وَلَكِنَّ اللَّهَ سَلَّمَ إِنَّهُ عَلِيمٌ
بِذَاتِ الصُّدُورِ

36 This happened when the Prophet (peace be upon him) was marching from Al Madinah towards the battlefield and it was not then known how large the army of the disbelievers was. In this dream, he saw the army and concluded from what he saw that it was not large. He related what he saw in his dream to the Muslims, and this filled them with courage and they marched on boldly towards the enemy.

44. And when He showed them to you, when you met (enemy in Badr), as few in your eyes. And He made you (appear) as few in their eyes, so that Allah might accomplish a matter that was (already) ordained. And to Allah all matters return.

كَانَ مَفْعُولًا ۗ وَإِلَى اللَّهِ
تُرْجَعُ الْأُمُورُ ﴿٤٤﴾

45. O those (of you) who believe, when you encounter an army, hold firm and remember Allah much that you may be successful.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا إِذَا
لَقِيتُمْ فِئَةً فَاثْبُتُوا وَاذْكُرُوا
اللَّهَ كَثِيرًا لَّعَلَّكُمْ تُفْلِحُونَ
﴿٤٥﴾

46. And obey Allah and His Messenger, and do not dispute (one with another), lest you should lose courage and your strength depart, and be patient (practice fortitude).^{*37} Indeed, Allah is with those who are patient.

وَاطِيعُوا اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ وَلَا
تَنَازَعُوا فَتَفْشَلُوا وَتَذْهَبَ
رِيحُكُمْ وَأَصْبِرُوا ۚ إِنَّ اللَّهَ مَعَ
الصَّابِرِينَ ﴿٤٦﴾

37 As the Arabic word sabr which has been translated into fortitude is very comprehensive in meaning, “practice fortitude” implies: Keep your feelings and passions under control; avoid rashness, bewilderment, despair, and greediness: keep cool and calm and make considered decisions; remain firm and steadfast in the face of dangers and difficulties; don’t take any wrong step even under the greatest provocations; don’t lose your senses even when you are attacked by afflictions and are in a sad plight; don’t take any hasty action in your impatience to achieve your objective without delay with the help of some seeming effective device and don’t be enticed by the temptation of some worldly interest or gain or lust. Allah helps those who practice fortitude (sabr) in accordance with the above implications.

47. And do not be like those who came forth from their homes exulting, and to be seen by people, and hindering others from the way of Allah.*38 And Allah encompasses of what they do.

وَلَا تَكُونُوا كَالَّذِينَ خَرَجُوا مِنْ
دِيَارِهِمْ بَطْرًا وَرِئَاءَ النَّاسِ
وَيَصُدُّونَ عَنِ سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ
وَاللَّهُ بِمَا يَعْمَلُونَ مُحِيطٌ

*38 The Muslims have been forewarned never to behave like the disbelievers of Makkah, who had marched arrogantly out of their homes and who were debarring the Muslims from the Way of Allah. They had singing girls with them and they held singing, dancing and drinking parties at many halting places. Moreover, they made a great display of their power, grandeur, numerical strength and equipment before the clans and habitations which came in their way and freely bragged that none could have the courage to fight with them. This was the state of their morality but the objective for which they were marching out was even worse than this. They had not marched out to raise the standard of truth, righteousness and justice, but to prevent it from rising up. Their objective was to annihilate the only people who were exerting to raise up that standard. This bad example was held out before the Muslims so that they should guard against such behavior for their faith required that their conduct should be righteous and their war aim should be pure and noble.

It may also be noted that this guidance was not needed only at that time but it is equally needed even today and will be needed in future as well, for the moral condition of the armies of the modern civilized nations is the same as of the disbelievers of Makkah. Prostitutes, indecent recreations, and wine constitute their essential parts, and they do not ask for these things secretly but openly and brazen facedly. More than that, their soldiers openly demand from their own people that they should present their own daughters to them for the gratification of their lusts. How can, then, any other people expect from them that they would spare their women and will not make them the plaything of their passions? As regards their arrogance, suffice it to say that each and every soldier and officer of their army is an embodiment of pride and vanity. Then their politicians are never tired of bragging like this: None is able to defeat us today for none is more powerful than us. And their war aims are still wicked. Whereas everyone of their leaders most solemnly and cunningly assure the world that they have nothing but the good of humanity before them, they might have, in fact, all other aims but this. They wage war in order to capture all the resources of the earth that God has created for all mankind, and to monopolize these for the benefit of their own country and nation, and make all other people their servants and dependents. That is why the Quran forbids the Muslims to follow the evil ways of those wicked people and enjoins them to refrain from expending their wealth and life for the achievement of the objective for which the wicked people fight.

48. And when Satan made their deeds seem fair to them and said: “No one can overcome you this day from among the people. And indeed, I am your protector.” Then when the two armies came in sight of one another, he turned on his heels, and said: “Indeed I am dissociated from you. Indeed, I see what you do not see. Indeed, I fear Allah. And Allah is severe in punishment.”

49. When the hypocrites and those in whose hearts is a disease said: “These people (Muslims) are deceived by their religion.”*39 And he who puts his trust in Allah, then indeed, Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.

إِذْ يَقُولُ الْمُنَافِقُونَ وَالَّذِينَ فِي قُلُوبِهِمْ مَرَضٌ غَرَّ هَؤُلَاءِ دِينُهُمْ وَمَنْ يَتَوَكَّلْ عَلَى اللَّهِ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ ﴿٤٩﴾

39 This was the opinion of the hypocrites and the worldly wise people of Al-Madinah. When they saw that the small band of Muslims was going to fight with the large and superior force of the Quraish, they said to one another, “Over enthusiasm for their religion has made these people mad and they are going to meet with utter destruction. As they have been blinded by their Prophet (peace be upon him), they cannot see that they are going into the very mouth of death”.

50. And if you could see when the angels take away the souls of those who disbelieve, striking on their faces and their backs. (Saying): “And taste the punishment of burning.”

40 That is, Allah does not withdraw His favor from any people until they themselves prove by their conduct that they have become unworthy of it.

54. (Theirs is) as the way of the people of Pharaoh and those before them. They denied the signs of their Lord, so We destroyed them for their sins, and We drowned the people of Pharaoh. And all were wrong doers.

41 “Violate their treaty” were the Jews. On his migration to Al-Madinah, they were the first people with whom the Prophet (peace be upon him) had entered into an alliance to cooperate for mutual good. He did his very best to establish good relations with them, for he considered them to be nearer to Islam than the mushriks, and he preferred their way to those of the mushriks whenever a choice had to be made between the two. But their scholars and rabbis did not at all like the pure doctrine of Tauhid, taught by him, and the high standard of morality presented by him, and the exertions put in by him for the establishment of the right way. Therefore, in spite of the treaties they were persistently trying to defeat the new movement. Accordingly, they adopted several measures: they conspired with the hypocrites of Al-Madinah against the true Muslims: they incited the clans of Aus and Khazraj against each other in order to kindle the fire of the old enmity that existed between the two before the advent of Islam and had led to bloody feuds, and they contrived plots with the Quraish and other hostile clans to ruin the Muslims. Though the Jews had all along been violating the written treaty the Prophet (peace be upon him) had made with them. After the victory at Badr their enmity and jealousy had become even more furious than before. For they had expected that the movement would receive a crushing blow at the hands of the Quraish, but the result had been quite the reverse of it. Therefore they increased their inimical activities all the more in order to prevent Islam from becoming a formidable force. So much so that on hearing the news of the defeat of the Quraish, one of their leaders, Kaab bin Ashraf, cried out in anguish, "Today the bowels of the earth are far better for us than its surface". Accordingly, he himself went to Makkah and recited exciting elegies to incite the people of Quraish to wreak their vengeance. More than that: the people of one of their clans, Bani Qainqa, setting aside the good neighborly manners, began to tease the Muslim women who used to go to their habitations for business. When the Prophet (peace be upon him) reproved them, they gave an impudent reply and said, "We are not weak like the Quraish: we are a people who know how to fight even to the death: you will have an experience of our courage when you encounter us."

57. So if you gain dominance over them in the war, (punish them in order) to disperse those who are behind them, so perhaps

فِيمَا تَتَّقَنَّهُمْ فِي الْحَرْبِ فَشَرِّدْ بِهِمْ مَنْ خَلْفَهُمْ لَعَلَّهُمْ

they may be reminded.*42

يَذَكِّرُونَ

*42 That is, if we have made a treaty with a certain people and they disregard its obligations and take part in a fight against us we shall also be absolved from the obligations of the treaty and fight against them. Likewise if we are fighting against any people and find any of our allies among the enemies we should not hesitate to kill them and treat them as enemies. For by discarding the obligations of the alliance as individuals, they forfeit all the rights of an ally in regard to the security of life and property.

58. And if you fear treachery from any people, then throw (their covenant) at them on equal terms.*43
Indeed, Allah does not love the treacherous.

وَأِمَّا تَخَافُ مِنْ قَوْمٍ خِيَانَةً
فَأَنْبِذْ إِلَيْهِمْ عَلَى سَوَاءٍ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
لَا يُحِبُّ الْخَائِبِينَ

*43 This verse lays down a very clear and strict rule for the breaking of a treaty when necessary, and enjoins the Muslims to throw their treaty openly before them. According to this verse, it is unlawful to make a unilateral decision of its termination, even if the Muslims felt that the other party with whom they had entered into an alliance, was not observing the treaty strictly and properly, or if they were afraid that the other party would turn treacherous on the first opportunity. Therefore it forbids them to treat the other party in a way as if there had been no treaty with it at all. On the other hand, this verse binds the Muslims to inform the other party in clear words, before taking any step against it, that the treaty with it had been terminated. This is essential so that the other party should have no misunderstanding whatsoever that the treaty was still in force. The Prophet (peace be upon him) based the international policy of Islam on this verse. He decreed, "The one that has made a treaty with another party is bound by it until the expiry of its term. Or if obliged, then one should throw it before the other party so that both may be set on equal footing". Then he extended the same principle to all other affairs, saying, "Behave not treacherously even towards those who are treacherous to you". And he had impressed the same so deeply on the minds that this principle was observed most strictly both in letter and in spirit. That is why when Amir Muaviyah assembled his army near the frontiers of the Roman Empire with the intention that he would invade their territory immediately after the expiry of the term of the treaty, Amar bin Anbasah, a companion of the Prophet (peace be upon him), strongly protested against this and recited the same tradition before him according to which even concentration of army was a piece of treachery. The Amir had to submit to this, and he gave up the concentration of army.

It may also be noted that the practice of unilateral abrogation of treaties and invading the enemy without any declaration of war was common during the time of ignorance in the ancient times and is also in vogue in the civilized ignorance of today. For example, during World War II, Germany invaded Russia, and Britain and Russia took military action against Iran without any formal declaration of war. It may be noted that the pleas put forward for such breaches and violations are very flimsy: it is argued that if a declaration of war had been made beforehand, the other party would take precautionary measures and give a tough fight; or that if they had not taken action, their enemy would have forestalled them. But they seem to forget that if moral responsibilities were to be set aside on such lame excuses, then there remains no crime and no sin that cannot be justified on one plea or the other, and every thief, every robber, every adulterer and every murderer can put forward a justification for his crime or sin. But it is strange that the modern leaders have two standards of judgment. While they justify the acts of treachery in the international sphere, they condemn the same when these are committed in their own national sphere.

There is, however, an exception to the above principle. The Islamic law allows the Muslims to attack the other party, if it violates the treaty openly and takes some specific inimical action against them. In such a clear case, this verse does not bind them to give a due notice of the termination of the treaty, but grants them the right to take military action against such a treacherous party without giving any ultimatum. The Muslim jurists have deduced this exception from a precedent set by the Prophet (peace be upon him). When the Quraish openly broke the treaty of Hudaibiyah, in regard to Bani Khuzaah, he did not consider it obligatory to give them a notice that he, too, had terminated the same. He, therefore, invaded Makkah without giving them any notice. But here we must strike a note of warning. In order to take advantage of this exception, we must consider all the circumstances under which the Prophet (peace be upon him) thought it right to invade Makkah. In that case, and in that alone, it is lawful for us to follow the precedent set by him; otherwise we are liable to take undue advantage of it. We learn from the books of Hadith and Seerat that the following circumstances led him to take this step:

(1) The violation of the treaty by the Quraish was so glaring that there was absolutely no doubt that there had been a breach and they themselves confessed that the treaty had come to an end. That is why they sent Abu Sufyan to Al-Madinah for its renewal. Though that was a proof that they also knew that the treaty had come to an end, it does not mean that this exception will be justifiable only if those who violate the treaty also know it and confess it. The exception will be only justifiable if the violation would be quite clear and beyond any doubt.

(2) After the violation of the treaty, the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not indicate in any way whatever by word or by deed or by implication that in spite of the violation of the treaty by them he regarded the treaty to be still in force; nor did he continue such relations with them as might indicate the same. All the traditions show that he rejected the offer of the renewal of the treaty made by Abu Sufyan.

(3) He openly took the military action against the Quraish and did nothing at all to show an outward display of peace while harboring secret intentions of war.

This is the excellent precedent set by the Prophet (peace be upon him) in this matter. An exception to the injunction contained in this verse can, therefore, be made under such specific circumstances that existed on the occasion, and that, too, in the same straightforward noble way.

Besides, it is lawful for the Muslims to use force for the settlement of an issue if and when they find that the other party is neither willing to solve it by mutual talk nor by international arbitration, but is bent upon using force. In such a case, this verse makes it incumbent on the Muslims to make a clear and open declaration to this effect before taking any action. Islam considers a secret military action as immoral and does not allow it if the Muslims are not prepared to make an open declaration of war.

59. And let not those who disbelieve suppose they can outstrip (Allah's Purpose). Surely they can not escape.

وَلَا تَحْسَبَنَّ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا سَبِقُوا
إِنَّهُمْ لَا يُعْجِزُونَ

60. And prepare against them whatever you can, of the forces and of well-readied horses,^{*44} that thereby you may dismay the enemy of Allah and your enemy, and others besides them, of whom you do not know. Allah

وَأَعِدُّوا لَهُمْ مَا اسْتَطَعْتُمْ مِنْ
قُوَّةٍ وَمِنْ رِبَاطِ الْخَيْلِ
تُرْهِبُونَ بِهِ عَدُوَّ اللَّهِ
وَعَدُوَّكُمْ وَءَاخِرِينَ مِنْ
دُونِهِمْ لَا تَعْلَمُونَهُمْ اللَّهُ knows them. And whatever you spend of anything in the cause of Allah shall be fully repaid to you, and you shall not be wronged.

يَعْلَمُهُمْ وَمَا تُنْفِقُوا مِنْ شَيْءٍ
فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ يُوَفَّ إِلَيْكُمْ
وَأَنْتُمْ لَا تُظْلَمُونَ ﴿٦١﴾

44 This means, you should always keep in readiness the necessary military equipment and an organized standing army so that you may be able to take military action immediately without the least delay, should the enemy attack you suddenly. These precautionary measures should be taken so that there should be no confusion and no hurry to urge you to enlist semi trained and ill equipped volunteers; nor would there be any fear that the enemy would take you unawares and inflict irreparable losses on you before you could get ready for the defense.

61. And if they incline to peace, then incline you to it, and trust in Allah. Surely it is He who is All Hearing, All Knowing.

وَإِنْ جَنَحُوا لِلسَّلَامِ فَاجْنَحْ
لَهَا وَتَوَكَّلْ عَلَى اللَّهِ إِنَّهُ هُوَ
السَّمِيعُ الْعَلِيمُ ﴿٦١﴾

62. And if they intend to deceive you, then indeed Allah is sufficient for you.^{*45} He it is who strengthened you with His help and with the believers.

وَإِنْ يُرِيدُوا أَنْ يَخْدَعُوكَ
فَأِنَّكَ حَسْبُكَ اللَّهُ هُوَ الَّذِي
أَيَّدَكَ بِنَصْرِهِ
وَبِالْمُؤْمِنِينَ ﴿٦٢﴾

45 That is, your relations with other nations should be based on your trust in God for He is sufficient for you. Therefore you should boldly face the enemy both in war and in peace. When the enemy desires to have a talk with you for peace, you should be willing and ready to negotiate with the other party without any hesitation. Do not reject the offer on the assumption that the other party is not sincere and has treacherous intentions. For no one can have correct knowledge of the intentions of others. If the other party is sincere in its offer, then it will be wrong to reject it and continue the bloodshed. And if the enemy has treacherous intentions, then Allah will protect you from them because of your courage and moral superiority. In that case, fight bravely with the treacherous enemy so as to teach them such a lesson as may prove a deterrent.

63. And He has put affection between their hearts. If you had spent all that is in the earth, you could not have put affection between their hearts, but Allah has put affection between them.^{*46} Certainly He is All Mighty, All Wise.

وَأَلَّفَ بَيْنَ قُلُوبِهِمْ لَوْ أَنْفَقْتَ
مَا فِي الْأَرْضِ جَمِيعًا مَا أَلَّفْتَ
بَيْنَ قُلُوبِهِمْ وَلَكِنَّ اللَّهَ
أَلَّفَ بَيْنَهُمْ إِنَّهُ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ

46 This refers to the blessing of Islam which led to the union of the hearts of the different Arab clans and integrated them into a strong community, although before this there had been permanent enmities between them for centuries. This favor of God had been very conspicuous in the case of Aus and Khazraj clans of Al-Madinah. These two clans had been mortal enemies, and the bloody war of Buath had taken place between them only two years before this. It was really a miracle that such enmities had been changed into such a union as was witnessed by the Islamic community during the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him). It was quite obvious that this thing could not have been accomplished through any human powers or resources, for whatever had been accomplished, it had been accomplished by His grace and whatever will be accomplished, it will be accomplished by His grace.

64. O Prophet, Allah is sufficient for you and those who follow you of the believers.

يَتَأَيُّهَا النَّبِيُّ حَسْبُكَ اللَّهُ وَمَنِ
اتَّبَعَكَ مِنَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

65. O Prophet, urge the believers to battle. If there are among you twenty steadfast (persons), they will overcome two hundred. And if there are among you one hundred, they will overcome a thousand of those who disbelieve, because they are a people who do not understand.*47

يَتَأَيُّهَا النَّبِيُّ حَرِّضِ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ عَلَى الْقِتَالِ إِنْ
يَكُنْ مِنْكُمْ عِشْرُونَ صَابِرُونَ
يَغْلِبُوا مِائَتِينَ وَإِنْ يَكُنْ
مِنْكُمْ مِائَةٌ يَغْلِبُوا أَلْفًا مِّنَ
الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا بِأَنَّهُمْ قَوْمٌ لَّا
يَفْقَهُونَ

*47 Here the word “understanding” has been used in the same sense as morale is used now-a-days. Understanding is a better scientific term than morale: the moral and mental condition which enables a person to keep up courage and enthusiasm, etc. For, it is obvious that the one who understands clearly the objective for which he is fighting would realize that it is more precious than his own life which would be meaningless if that object was lost. He will possess a fighting power far greater than of the one who has no clear understanding of the object for which he is fighting, even though the two may be equal in their physical powers. Above all, the one who has the right understanding of the reality, of the existence of Allah, of his own position in the universe, of his relation with Allah, of the life and death in this world, of the life in the next world, of the distinction between truth and falsehood, of the consequences of the victory of falsehood over truth, has much more power even than those who fight for their country, their nation or for the sake of a class, even if the latter had the right understanding of their cause. Thus it is clear that the power of the believers, who have full understanding of their object, is ten times more than that of disbelievers of the same capability. But along with this understanding, the practice of fortitude is also essential for gaining and maintaining that power.

66. Now, Allah has lightened (hardship) for you, and He knows that among you is weakness. So if there are of you a hundred steadfast, they will overcome two hundred. And if there are of you a thousand, they will overcome two thousand, by the permission of Allah.*48 And Allah is with those who are steadfast.

مِنْكُمْ مِائَةٌ صَابِرَةٌ يَغْلِبُوا
مِائَتَيْنِ وَإِنْ يَكُنْ مِنْكُمْ أَلْفٌ
يَغْلِبُوا أَلْفَيْنِ بِإِذْنِ اللَّهِ وَاللَّهُ مَعَ
الصَّابِرِينَ

*48 This reduction of the ratio of the power of a Muslim to that of a non-Muslim from ten-to-one to two-to-one does not mean that this was due to some deterioration in the morale of the Muslims. It simply means that in Ayat 65 the general principle of the ratio of the power of the believers and the disbelievers was enunciated and in Ayat 66 that principle was applied in accordance with the then existing condition of their morale. At that time (A.H. 2) the morale of the Muslims had not attained perfection, for many of them had only recently entered the fold of Islam and were still under preliminary training. Afterwards when their morale reached the desired standard under the guidance of the Prophet (peace be upon him), the ratio of ten-to-one was actually established, and was demonstrated practically in the battles during his last years and during the time of his rightly guided successors.

67. It is not for a Prophet that he should have prisoners of war until he has sufficiently suppressed (the enemies) in the land. You desire the gains of the world, and Allah desires (for you) the Hereafter. And Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.

68. If there had not been a decree from Allah that preceded, you would have been afflicted for what you have taken by a great punishment.

عَظِيمٌ

69. So eat of what you have as booty in war, lawful and clean, and fear Allah.*49 Indeed, Allah is Ever Forgiving, Most Merciful.

فَكُلُوا مِمَّا غَنِمْتُمْ حَلَالًا طَيِّبًا
وَاتَّقُوا اللَّهَ إِنَّ اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ
رَّحِيمٌ

*49 As regards to the question why Allah rebuked the Muslims in Ayat 68 for taking ransom. The commentators have cited some traditions. According to these, after the battle of Badr, a consultation was held in regard to the prisoners taken from the army of the Quraish. Abu Bakr was of the opinion that they should be set at liberty after the payment of ransom but Umar opined that they should be slain. The Prophet (peace be upon him) agreed to the opinion of Abu Bakr and set them at liberty after the payment of their ransom. At this, Allah sent down this verse as a rebuke. But this interpretation is open to some objections.

The first difficulty of these interpreters is that they are unable to give a satisfactory explanation that might fit into the words: “If there had not been a decree from Allah that preceded”. They say that it refers to the decree that was predestined by Allah or it means that Allah had already decreed to make spoils of war lawful though He had not sent down this decree to the Prophet (peace be upon him). But it is obvious that a thing does not become lawful unless it is made so by an explicit command. The second difficulty is that according to this explanation, the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself and his followers become guilty of the sin of taking ransom for prisoners. Therefore one would think many times before accepting an explanation that is based on traditions emanating from a single source.

In my opinion, Allah rebuked the Muslims for not complying fully with the condition laid down in the ordinance in Surah Muhammad, Ayat 4: “Then when you meet (in battle) those who disbelieve, strike (their) necks until, when you have crushed them, then secure their bonds. Then whether you show favor afterwards or accept ransom until the war lays down its arms. According to this previous ordinance, there was nothing wrong in taking prisoners of war and charging ransom for them, but what was wrong was that they did not fully comply with the prior condition, that is, “when you have crushed them”. For we learn that, when after the battle of Badr, the army of the Quraish was put to rout, many Muslims began to gather spoils or to take prisoners and only a few of them went in pursuit of the enemy to crush them. Had all the Muslims gone in pursuit of them, they would have crushed down their power then and there. Therefore Allah rebuked the Muslims (and not the Prophet) as if to say, “O Muslims, you have not yet fully understood the meaning of the mission of the Prophet (peace be upon him). He is not sent to take prisoners and charge ransoms or gather spoils. The main objective of his mission is to crush down the powers of disbelief. But you are overwhelmed by the worldly greed over and again. During the course of this campaign, you at first desired to attack the trade caravan instead of the army of the Quraish. Then you began to gather spoils and take prisoners, and afterwards entered into a dispute regarding the division of spoils. Had We not previously given you permission for taking ransom (Surah Muhammad, Ayat 4), We would have inflicted a severe chastisement on you. Very well, now you may enjoy what you have taken, but you should, in future, fear Us and refrain from incurring Our displeasure.”

Imam Jassas also is of the same opinion (as expressed in his book Ahkamul-Quran), and therefore the above interpretation is worth considering. This view is also supported by a tradition related in Seerat by Ibn Hisham. According to this, the Prophet (peace be upon him) noticed signs of disapproval on the face of Saad bin Muaz on the occasion when the Muslims were gathering the spoils and taking prisoners. So the Prophet said, “O Saad, it appears that you do not approve this conduct of the Muslims”. Saad replied, “It is so, O Messenger of Allah. This is the first victory that Allah has given us over the mushriks. Therefore it would have been much better for us to crush down their power completely than to save their lives by taking them prisoners”. (Volume II, pp. 280-281).

70. O Prophet, say to whoever is in your hands of the captives: “If Allah knows any goodness in your hearts, He will give you better than what has been taken from you, and He will forgive you. And Allah is Ever Forgiving, Most Merciful.”

يَأَيُّهَا النَّبِيُّ قُلْ لِمَنْ فِي أَيْدِيكُمْ

قُلُوبِكُمْ خَيْرًا يُؤْتِكُمْ خَيْرًا مِّمَّا
أَخَذَ مِنْكُمْ وَيَغْفِرَ لَكُمْ ۗ وَاللَّهُ

71. And if they intend to betray you, then they have indeed betrayed Allah before, so He made you prevail over them. And Allah is All Knowing, All Wise.

72. Indeed, those who have believed and emigrated and strove with their wealth and their lives in the cause of Allah, and those who sheltered and helped (them), they are the true allies of one another. And those who believed and did not emigrate, for you there is no (obligation) of alliance to them at all unless they emigrate.^{*50} And if they seek help from you in (the matter of) religion, then it is (incumbent) on you to provide help, except it be against a people between you and whom is a treaty.^{*51} And Allah is Seer of what you do.

 بَيْنَكُمْ وَبَيْنَهُمْ مِيثَاقٌ ۗ وَاللَّهُ بِمَا
 تَعْمَلُونَ بَصِيرٌ

50 This verse contains a very important article of the Islamic constitution and lays down the terms of the relationship (vilayat-guardianship) between the Muslims. According to it, “Those Muslims only shall be bound by the relationship of vilayat who are either the inhabitants of Dar-ul-Islam or emigrate to it. As for the Muslims living outside the territorial borders of the Islamic State, there shall be the relationship of Islamic brotherhood only, but there shall be no relationship of vilayat with them. Likewise there shall be no relationship of vilayat with those Muslims who visit the Dar-ul-Islam as foreigners in the capacity of the subjects of Dar-ul-Kufr, without emigrating to it permanently.”

The Arabic word vilayat is very comprehensive in meaning and guardianship does not convey its full significance. It denotes the relationship of help, succor, protection, support, friendship, guardianship and the like between the citizens and the state and vice versa, and between the citizens themselves. Thus it is clear that this verse confines the limits of the Islamic, political and constitutional citizenship to its territorial boundaries only and excludes from this particular relationship the other Muslims who live beyond its territorial boundaries.

The legal implications of this negation of guardianship are very extensive, but this is not the occasion for their statement. Here it will suffice to say that according to this, the Muslims of Dar-ul-Kufr cannot become the inheritors of the Muslims of Dar-ul-Islam and vice versa, nor can they be the legal guardians of one another, nor can there be inter-marriages between them; nor can the Islamic State appoint a citizen of Dar-ul-Kufr on any responsible post, until that one renounces the relationship of citizenship with Dar-ul-Kufr. Moreover, this verse affects also the foreign policy of the Islamic State and frees it from the responsibility of the Muslims living outside its territorial borders by restricting it only to the Muslims living within its territory. The Prophet (peace be upon him) also declared the same thing, saying, "I owe no responsibility for the protection of any Muslim who resides among the mushriks."

This foreign policy of Islam cuts at the very roots of such disputes as are generally responsible for creating international crises. For it is obvious that if states refuse to shoulder any responsibilities for the protection, etc. of the minorities living outside their territorial borders, there cannot arise such disputes concerning them as lead to wars over and over again.

*51 Though the Muslims living outside the territorial borders of the Islamic State have been excluded from political protection in the preceding verse, this fact does not deprive them of the brotherly relationship of faith. Therefore it is obligatory on the Islamic State and its inhabitants to help their wronged and oppressed brethren if they ask for help. But even in this case, they should observe the international law and the universally accepted moral code. If Dar-ul-Islam has made a treaty with the persecuting people of Dar-ul-Kufr, the Muslims of Dar-ul-Islam are forbidden to give any help to the oppressed Muslims in Dar-ul-Kufr if that is against the moral obligations of the treaty.

In this verse the word mithaq has been used for treaty. It implies everything that gives the guarantee of peace in the known sense to the parties concerned even though there might not be any explicit mention of a no war agreement. Moreover, the original words of the Arabic text, “between you and whom is a treaty,” clearly show that a treaty of the Islamic State with a non-Islamic State is not merely a treaty between the two states but between the two nations. Therefore it is morally binding on both the Islamic State and the Muslims living in the Islamic State. The Islamic code does not tolerate that the Muslim subjects should be left free from the obligations of the treaty which a Muslim government makes with other countries or nations. Of course, those Muslims who reside outside the territorial borders of the State that makes a treaty are free from this obligation. That is why Abu Busair, Abu Jandal and other Muslims who were not the subjects of Dar-ul-Islam were not bound by the terms of the Treaty of Hudaibiyah, which the Prophet (peace be upon him) made with the disbelievers of Makkah.

73. And those who disbelieve, they are allies of one another. Unless you act likewise, there will be oppression on the earth and great corruption.*52

وَالَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا بَعْضُهُمْ أَوْلِيَاءُ
بَعْضٍ إِلَّا تَفْعَلُوهُ تَكُن فِتْنَةً
فِي الْأَرْضِ وَفَسَادٌ كَبِيرٌ

52 The sentence, “Unless you act likewise,” has two meanings:

(1) If it is considered in connection with the previous sentence, “And those who disbelieve, they are allies of one another”, it means: “If you, the believers, will not help one another just as the disbelievers help one another, there will be mischief and great disorder on the earth”.

(2) But if it is considered in connection with the instructions given in Ayat 72, it will mean: if the people living in Dar-ul-Islam;

(a) Do not become the guardians and protectors of one another,

(b) Do not consider the Muslims, who have not migrated to Dar-ul-Islam and live in Dar-ul-Kufr, outside their political protection,

(c) Do not give help to the persecuted Muslims, living outside Dar-ul-Islam, when they ask for it, and if at the same time, they do not observe the law that the Muslims living in Dar-ul-Islam would not help those Muslims living in Dar-ul-Kufr among the people with whom they made a treaty of peace, and,

(d) Do not break all their friendly relations with the disbelievers, then there will be mischief and great chaos in the world.

74. And those who believed and have emigrated and strove in the cause of Allah, and those who gave shelter and helped (them), it is they who are the believers in truth. For them is forgiveness and honorable provision.

الْمُؤْمِنُونَ حَقًّا لَهُمْ مَغْفِرَةٌ
وَرِزْقٌ كَرِيمٌ

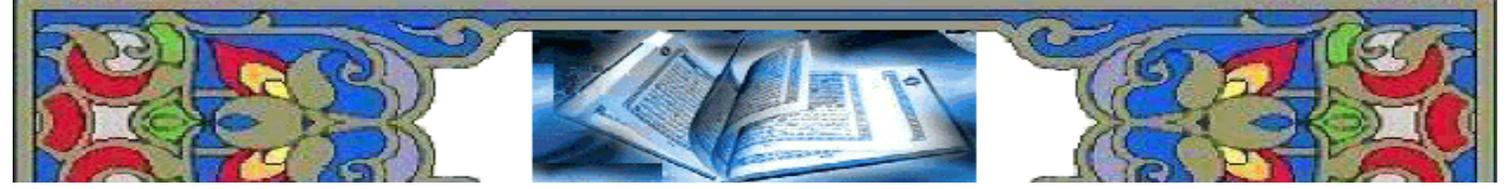

75. And those who believed afterwards and emigrated and strove along with you. They are of you. And those related by blood are nearer to one another in the decree of Allah.^{*53} Indeed, Allah has knowledge of all things.

وَالَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا مِنْ بَعْدُ
وَهَاجَرُوا وَجَاهَدُوا مَعَكُمْ
فَأُولَئِكَ مِنْكُمْ وَأُولُوا
الْأَرْحَامِ بَعْضُهُمْ أَوْلَىٰ بِبَعْضٍ
فِي كِتَابِ اللَّهِ إِنَّ اللَّهَ بِكُلِّ شَيْءٍ
عَلِيمٌ

53 This is to remove a misunderstanding. After migration to Al-Madinah, the Prophet (peace be upon him) had established the relationship of brotherhood between the Muhajirin and the Ansar, which gave rise to the misunderstanding that they had become the inheritors of one another. This verse says that inheritance shall be determined by the blood relationship and not by the relationship of brotherhood in the faith.

التَّوْبَةِ At-Taubah

The Repentance

Name

This Surah is known by two names -- At-Taubah and Al-Baraat. It is called At-Taubah because it enunciates the nature of taubah (repentance) and mentions the conditions of its acceptance. (Ayats 102-118). The second name Bara'at (Release) is taken from the first word of the Surah.

Omission of Bismillah

This is the only Surah of the Quran to which Bismillah is not prefixed. Though the commentators have given different reasons for this, the correct one that which has been given by Imam Razi: namely, this is because the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself did not dictate it at the beginning of the Surah. Therefore the companions did not prefix it and their successors followed them. This is a further proof of the fact that utmost care has been taken to keep the Quran intact so that it should remain in its complete and original form.

Discourses and Periods of Revelation

This Surah comprises three discourses:

The first discourse (Ayats 1-37), was revealed in Zil-Qaadah A.H.9 or thereabout. As the importance of the subject of the discourse required its declaration on the occasion of Hajj, the Prophet (peace be upon him) dispatched Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) to follow Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him), who had already left for Makkah as leader of the pilgrims to the Kaabah. He instructed Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) to deliver the discourse before the representatives of the different clans of Arabia so as to inform them of the new policy towards the mushriks.

The second discourse (Ayats 38-72) was revealed in Rajab A.H.9 or a little before this, when the Prophet (peace be upon him) was engaged in making preparations for the campaign of Tabuk. In this discourse, the believers were urged to take active part in Jihad, and the others were severely rebuked for holding back their wealth and for hesitation to sacrifice their lives in the Way of Allah because of their hypocrisy, weak faith or negligence.

The third discourse (Ayats 73-129) was revealed on his return from the campaign of Tabuk. There are some pieces in this discourse that were sent down on different occasions during the same period and were afterwards consolidated by the Prophet (peace be upon him) into the Surah in accordance with inspiration from Allah. But this caused no interruption in its continuity because they dealt with the same subject and formed part of the same series of events. This discourse warns the hypocrites of their evil deeds and rebukes those believers who had stayed behind in the campaign of Tabuk. Then after taking them to task, Allah pardons those true believers who had not taken part in the Jihad in the Way of Allah for one reason or the other.

Chronologically, the first discourse should have come last; but being the most important of the three in regard to its subject matter, it was placed first in the order of compilation.

Historical Background

Now let us consider the historical background of the Surah. The series of events that have been discussed in this Surah took place after the peace treaty of Hudaibiyah. By that time, one-third of Arabia had come under the sway of Islam which had established itself as a powerful, well organized and civilized Islamic state. This treaty afforded further opportunities to Islam to spread its influence in the comparatively peaceful atmosphere created by it. After this treaty, two events took place, which led to very important results.

Conquest of Arabia

The first was the conquest of Arabia. The Prophet (peace be upon him) was able to send missions among different clans for the propagation of Islam. The result was that during a short period of two years, it became such a great power that it made the old order of ignorance feel helpless before it. So much so that the zealous elements from among the Quraish were so exasperated that they broke the treaty in order to encounter Islam in a decisive combat. But the Prophet (peace be upon him) took prompt action after the breach so as not to allow them any opportunity to gather enough force for this. He made a sudden invasion on Makkah in the month of Ramadan in A.H.8 and conquered it. Though this conquest broke the backbone of the order of ignorance, it made still another attack on Islam in the battle-field of Hunain, which proved to be its death-knell. The clans of Hawazin Thaqif, Naur, Jushm and others gathered their entire forces in the battle field in order to crush the reformative revolution, but they utterly failed in their evil designs. The defeat of ignorance at Hunain paved the way for making the whole of Arabia the abode of Islam (Dar-ul-Islam). The result was that hardly a year had passed after the battle of Hunain, when the major portion of Arabia came within the fold of Islam and only a few upholders of the old order remained scattered over some corners of the country.

The second event that contributed towards making Islam a formidable power was the campaign of Tabuk, which was necessitated by the provocative activities of the Christians living within or near the boundaries of the Roman Empire to the north of Arabia. Accordingly, the Prophet (peace be upon him) with an army of thirty thousand marched boldly towards the Roman Empire but the Romans evaded the encounter. The result was that the power of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and Islam increased manifold and deputations from all corners of Arabia began to wait upon him on his return from Tabuk in order to offer their allegiance to Islam and obedience to him. The Quran has described this triumph in Surah An-Nasr: "When the succor of Allah came and victory was attained and you saw people entering the fold of Islam in large numbers."

Campaign to Tabuk

The campaign to Tabuk was the result of conflict with the Roman Empire, that had started even before the conquest of Makkah. One of the missions sent after the treaty of Hudaibiyah to different parts of Arabia visited the clans which lived in the northern areas adjacent to Syria. The majority of these people were Christians, who were under the influence of the Roman Empire. Contrary to all the principles of the commonly accepted international law, they killed fifteen members of the delegation near a place known as Zat-u-Talah (or Zat-i-Itlah). Only Kaab bin Umair Ghifari, the head of the delegation, succeeded in escaping and reporting the sad incident. Besides this, Shurahbil bin Amr, the Christian governor of Busra, who was directly under the Roman Caesar, had also put to death Harith bin Umair, the ambassador of the Prophet (peace be upon him), who had been sent to him on a similar mission.

These events convinced the Prophet (peace be upon him) that a strong action should be taken in order to make the territory adjacent to the Roman Empire safe and secure for the Muslims. Accordingly, in the month of Jamadi-ul-Ula A.H.8, he sent an army of three thousand towards the Syrian border. When this army reached near Maan, the Muslims learned that Shurahbil was marching with an army of one hundred thousand to fight against them and that the Caesar, who himself was at Hims, had sent another army consisting of one hundred thousand soldiers under his brother Theodore. But in spite of such fearful news, the brave small band of the Muslims marched on fearlessly and encountered the big army of Shurahbil at Mutah. And the result of the encounter in which the Muslims were fighting against fearful odds, the ratio of the two armies being 1 to 33, was very favorable, for the enemy utterly failed to defeat them. This proved very helpful for the propagation of Islam. As a result, those Arabs who were living in a state of semi independence in Syria and near Syria and the clans of Najd near Iraq, who were under the influence of the Iranian Empire, turned towards Islam and embraced it in thousands. For example, the people of Bani Sulaim (whose chief was Abbas bin Mirdas Sulaimi), Ashjaa, Ghatafan, Zubyan, Fazarah, etc. came into the fold of Islam at the same time. Above all, Farvah bin Amral Juzami, who was the commander of the Arab armies of the Roman Empire, embraced Islam during that time, and underwent the trial of his faith in a way that filled the whole territory with wonder. When the Caesar came to know that Farvah had embraced Islam, he ordered that he should be arrested and brought to his court. Then the Caesar said to him, you will have to choose one of the two things. Either give up your Islam and win your liberty and your former rank, or remain a Muslim and face death. He calmly chose Islam and sacrificed his life in the way of the Truth.

No wonder that such events as these made the Caesar realize the nature of the danger that was threatening his Empire from Arabia. Accordingly, in 9 A.H. he began to make military preparations to avenge the insult he had suffered at Mutah. The Ghassanid and other Arab chiefs also began to muster armies under him. When the Prophet (peace be upon him), who always kept himself well-informed, even of the minutest things that could affect the Islamic movement favorably or adversely, came to know of these preparations. He at once understood their meaning. Therefore, without the least hesitation he decided to fight against the great power of the Caesar. He knew that the show of the slightest weakness would result in the utter failure of the movement which was facing three great dangers at that time. First the dying power of ignorance that had almost been crushed in the battle field of Hunain might revive again. Secondly, the hypocrites of Al-Madinah, who were always on the lookout for such an opportunity, might make full use of this to do the greatest possible harm to it. For they had already made preparations for this and had, through a monk called Abu Amir, sent secret messages of their evil designs to the Christian king of Ghassan and the Caesar himself. Besides this, they had also built a mosque near Al-Madinah for holding secret meetings for this purpose. The third danger was of an attack by the Caesar himself, who had already defeated Iran, the other great power of that period, and filled with awe the adjacent territories.

It is obvious that if all these three elements had been given an opportunity of taking a concerted action against the Muslims, Islam would have lost the fight it had almost won. That is why in this case the Prophet (peace be upon him) made an open declaration for making preparations for the campaign against the Roman Empire, which was one of the two greatest empires of the world of that period. The declaration was made though all the apparent circumstances were against such a decision for there was famine in the country and the long awaited crops were about to ripen: the burning heat of the scorching summer season of Arabia was at its height and there was not enough money for preparations in general, and for equipment and conveyance in particular. But in spite of these handicaps, when the Messenger of Allah realized the urgency of the occasion, he took this step which was to decide whether the mission of the truth was going to survive or perish. The very fact that he made an open declaration for making preparations for such a campaign to Syria against the Roman Empire showed how important it was, for this was contrary to his previous practice. Usually he took every precaution not to reveal beforehand the direction to which he was going, nor the name of the enemy whom he was going to attack; nay, he did not move out of Al-Madinah even in the direction of the campaign.

All the parties in Arabia fully realized the grave consequences of this critical decision. The remnants of the lovers of the old order of ignorance were anxiously waiting for the result of the campaign, for they had pinned all their hopes on the defeat of Islam by the Romans. The hypocrites also considered it to be their last chance of crushing the power of Islam by internal rebellion if the Muslims suffered a defeat in Syria. They had, therefore, made full use of the mosque built by them for hatching plots and had employed all their devices to render the campaign a failure. On the other side, the true believers also realized fully that the fate of the movement for which they had been exerting their utmost for the last 22 years was now hanging in the balance. If they showed courage on that critical occasion, the doors of the whole outer world would be thrown open for the movement to spread. But if they showed weakness or cowardice, then all the work they had done in Arabia would end in smoke.

That is why these lovers of Islam began to make enthusiastic preparations for the campaign. Every one of them tried to surpass the other in making contributions for the provision of equipment for it. Uthman (may Allah be pleased with him) and Abdur Rehman bin Auf (may Allah be pleased with him) presented large sums of money for this purpose. Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) contributed half of the earnings of his life and Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) the entire earnings of his life. The indigent companions did not lag behind and presented whatever they could earn by the sweat of their labor and the women parted with their ornaments. Thousands of volunteers, who were filled with the desire of sacrificing their lives for Islam, came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and requested that arrangements for weapons and conveyance be made for them so that they should join the expedition. Those who could not be provided with these shed tears of sorrow; the scene was so pathetic that it made the Prophet (peace be upon him) sad because of his inability to arm them. In short, the occasion became the touchstone for discriminating a true believer from a hypocrite. For, to lag behind in the campaign meant that the very relationship of a person to Islam was doubtful. Accordingly, whenever a person lagged behind during the journey to Tabuk, the Prophet (peace be upon him) on being informed, would spontaneously say, “Leave him alone. If there is any good in him, Allah will again join him with you, and if there is no good in him, then thank Allah that He relieved you of his evil company”.

In short, the Prophet (peace be upon him) marched out towards Syria in Rajab A.H. 9, with thirty thousand fighters for the cause of Islam. The conditions in which the expedition had undertaken may be judged from the fact that the number of camels with them was so small that many of them were obliged to walk on foot and to wait for their turns for several had to ride at a time on each camel. To add to this, there was the burning heat of the desert and the acute shortage of water. But they were richly rewarded for their firm resolve and sincere adherence to the cause and for their perseverance in the face of those great difficulties and obstacles.

When they arrived at Tabuk, they learned that the Caesar and his allies had withdrawn their troops from the frontier and there was no enemy to fight with. Thus they won a moral victory that increased their prestige manifold and, that too, without shedding a drop of blood.

In this connection, it is pertinent to point out that the general impression given by the historians of the campaigns of the Prophet (peace be upon him) about the campaign of Tabuk is not correct. They relate the event in a way as if the news of the mustering of the Roman armies near the Arabian frontier was itself false. The fact is that the Caesar had begun to muster his armies, but the Prophet (peace be upon him) forestalled him and arrived on the scene before he could make full preparations for the invasion. Therefore, believing that “discretion is the better part of valor,” he withdrew his armies from the frontier. For he had not forgotten that the three thousand fighters for the cause of Islam had rendered helpless his army of one hundred thousand strong at Muthah. He could not, therefore, even with an army of two hundred thousand, dare to fight against an army of thirty thousand, and that, too, under the leadership of the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself.

When the Prophet (peace be upon him) found that the Caesar had withdrawn his forces from the frontier, he considered these question whether it would be worthwhile to march into the Syrian territory or to halt at Tabuk and turn his moral victory to political and strategic advantage. He decided on the latter course and made a halt for twenty days at Tabuk. During this time, he brought pressure on the small states that lay between the Roman Empire and the Islamic state and were at that time under the influence of the Romans, and subdued and made them the tributaries of the Islamic state. For instance, some Christian chiefs Ukaidir bin Abdul Malik Kindi of Dumatul Jaiidal, Yuhanna bin Dobah of Ailah, and the chiefs of Maqna, Jarba and Azruh also submitted and agreed to pay Jizyah to the Islamic state of Al-Madinah. As a result of this, the boundaries of the Islamic state were extended right up to the Roman Empire, and the majority of the Arab clans, who were being used by the Caesar against Arabia, became the allies of the Muslims against the Romans.

Above all, this moral victory of Tabuk afforded a golden opportunity to the Muslims to strengthen their hold on Arabia before entering into a long conflict with the Romans. For it broke the back of those who had still been expecting that the old order of ignorance might revive in the near future, whether they were the open upholders of shirk or the hypocrites who were hiding their shirk under the garb of Islam. The majority of such people were compelled by the force of circumstances to enter into the fold of Islam and, at least, make it possible for their descendants to become true Muslims. After this a mere impotent minority of the upholders of the old order was left in the field, but it could not stand in the way of the Islamic revolution for the perfection of which Allah had sent His Messenger.

Problems of the Period

If we keep in view the preceding background, we can easily find out the problems that were confronting the community at that time. They were:

To make the whole of Arabia a perfect Dar-ul-Islam.

To extend the influence of Islam to the adjoining countries.

To crush the mischief of the hypocrites. And,

To prepare the Muslims for Jihad against the non-Muslim world.

Now that the administration of the whole of Arabia had come in the hands of the believers, and all the opposing powers had become helpless, it was necessary to make a clear declaration of that policy which was to be adopted to make it a perfect Dar-ul-Islam. Therefore the following measures were adopted:

A clear declaration was made that all the treaties with the mushriks were abolished and the Muslims would be released from the treaty obligations with them after a respite of four months. (Ayats 1-3). This declaration was necessary for uprooting completely the system of life based on shirk and to make Arabia exclusively the center of Islam so that it should not in any way interfere with the spirit of Islam nor become an internal danger for it.

A decree was issued that the guardianship of the Kaabah, which held central position in all the affairs of Arabia, should be wrested from the mushriks and placed permanently in the hands of the believers, (Ayats 12-18) that all the customs and practices of the shirk of the era of ignorance should be forcibly abolished: that the mushriks should not be allowed even to come near the House (Ayat 28). This was to eradicate every trace of shirk from the House that was dedicated exclusively to the worship of Allah.

The evil practice of Nasi, by which they used to tamper with the sacred months in the days of ignorance, was forbidden as an act of kufr (Ayat 37). This was also to serve as an example to the Muslims for eradicating every vestige of the customs of ignorance from the life of Arabia (and afterwards from the lives of the Muslims everywhere).

In order to enable the Muslims to extend the influence of Islam outside Arabia, they were enjoined to crush with sword the non-Muslim powers and to force them to accept the sovereignty of the Islamic state. As the great Roman and Iranian Empires were the biggest hindrances in the way, a conflict with them was inevitable. The object of Jihad was not to coerce them to accept Islam they were free to accept or not to accept it, but to prevent them from thrusting forcibly their deviations upon others and the coming generations. The Muslims were enjoined to tolerate their misguidance only to the extent that they might have the freedom to remain misguided, if they chose to be so, provided that they paid jizyah (Ayat 29) as a sign of their subjugation to the Islamic state.

The third important problem was to crush the mischief of the hypocrites, who had hitherto been tolerated in spite of their flagrant crimes. Now that there was practically no pressure upon them from outside, the Muslims were enjoined to treat them openly as disbelievers (Ayat 73). Accordingly, the Holy Prophet set on fire the house of Swailim, where the hypocrites used to gather for consultations in order to dissuade the people from joining the expedition to Tabuk. Likewise on his return from Tabuk, he ordered to pull down and burn the mosque that had been built to serve as a cover for the hypocrites for hatching plots against the true believers.

In order to prepare the Muslims for Jihad against the whole non-Muslim world, it was necessary to cure them even of that slight weakness of faith from which they were still suffering. For, there could be no greater internal danger to the Islamic community than the weakness of faith, especially where it was going to engage itself single-handed in a conflict with the whole non-Muslim world. That is why those people who had lagged behind in the campaign to Tabuk or had shown the least negligence were severely taken to task, and were considered as hypocrites if they had no plausible excuse for not fulfilling that obligation. Moreover, a clear declaration was made that in future the sole criterion of a Muslim's faith shall be the exertions he makes for the uplift of the word of Allah and the role he plays in the conflict between Islam and kufr. Therefore, if anyone will show any hesitation in sacrificing his life, money, time and energies, his faith shall not be regarded as genuine. (Ayats 81-96).

If the above mentioned important points are kept in view during the study of this Surah, it will facilitate the understanding of its contents.

Subject: Problems of Peace and War

In continuation of Surah Al-Anfal, this Surah also deals with the problems of peace and war and bases the theme on the Tabuk expedition.

Topics and their Interconnection

Ayats 1-12. This portion deals with the sanctity of treaties and lays down principles, rules and regulations which must be kept in view before breaking them, in case the other party does not observe them sincerely.

Ayats 13-37. In this portion the Muslims have been urged to fight in the Way of Allah with the mushrik Arabs, the Jews and the Christians, who were duly warned of the consequences of their mischievous and inimical behavior.

Ayats 38-72. In this discourse, the Muslims have been told clearly and explicitly that they will inherit the rewards promised by Allah only if they take active part in the conflict with kufr, for that is the criterion which distinguishes true Muslims from hypocrites. Therefore true Muslims should take active part in Jihad, without minding dangers, obstacles, difficulties, temptations and the like.

Ayats 73-90. This portion deals with the problems of hypocrites and lays down rules and regulations governing the treatment that should be meted out to them and points out their distinctive marks from true Muslims.

Ayats 91-110. This portion deals with the case of those who remained behind and did not accompany the Prophet (peace be upon him) for Jihad to Tabuk. For this purpose they have been separated in different categories, that is, the disabled, the sick, the indigent, the hypocrites, the believers who realized their guilt and punished themselves before the return of the Prophet (peace be upon him) from Tabuk and those who confessed their error. Their cases have been dealt with in accordance with the nature and extent of their offense.

Ayats 111-118. In order to make their noble qualities look all the more conspicuous and dignified by contrast, the characteristics of the believers have been mentioned, and they have been reassured that Allah, the Sovereign of the universe, is their helper and guardian. Accordingly, because of their sincerity, He has forgiven the three believers who did not take part in the expedition.

Ayats 119-127. In the concluding portion, general instructions have been given to the believers for their guidance.

Ayats 128-129. This is the conclusion: “Follow the Messenger who is gentle and compassionate and your greatest well-wisher, and trust in Allah, the Lord of the universe”.

1. (Declaration of) disassociation,^{*1} from Allah and His Messenger toward those with whom you made a treaty,^{*2} among the idolaters.

بِرَاءَةٌ مِّنَ اللَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ إِلَى
الَّذِينَ عَاهَدْتُمْ مِّنَ الْمُشْرِكِينَ

1 As has already been stated in the preface to this Surah, this discourse (Ayats 1-37) was revealed in A.H.9, when Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) had left for Makkah as leader of the pilgrims to the Kaabah. Therefore the companions said to the Prophet (peace be upon him), “Send it to Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him), so that he may proclaim it on the occasion of Hajj.” He replied, “The importance and nature of the declaration demands that this should be proclaimed on my behalf by someone from my own family.” Accordingly, he entrusted this duty to Ali (may Allah be pleased with him) and instructed him to proclaim it openly before the pilgrims, and also make these four announcements:

- (1) No one who rejects Islam shall enter Paradise.
- (2) No mushrik should perform Hajj after this.
- (3) It is forbidden to move round the Kaabah in a naked state.
- (4) The terms of the treaties which are still in force (i.e.

with those who have not broken their treaties with the Messenger of Allah up to that time) would be faithfully observed till the expiry of the term of the treaties.

In this connection, it will be worthwhile to know that the first Hajj of the Islamic period after the conquest of Makkah was performed in A.H. 8 according to the old customs. Then in A.H. 9 the second Hajj was performed by the Muslims in the Islamic way, and by the mushriks in their own way. But the third Hajj, known as "Hajja-tul-Widaa", was performed in A.H. 10 in the purely Islamic way under the guidance of the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself. He did not perform Hajj during the two previous years because up to that time the mushriks had not been forbidden from it, and so there were still some traces of shirk associated with it.

*2 This declaration of the abrogation of the treaties with the mushriks was made in accordance with the law enjoined in Surah Al-Anfaal: 58 regarding the treacherous people, for it is treachery from the Islamic point of view to wage war against any people with whom a treaty of peace had been made, without openly declaring that the treaty had been terminated. That is why a proclamation of the abrogation of the treaties was necessitated against those clans who were always hatching plots against Islam in spite of the treaties of peace they had made. They would break the treaties and turn hostile on the first opportunity for treachery, and the same was true of all the mushrik clans with the exception of Bani Kananah, Bani Damrah and one or two other clans.

This proclamation practically reduced the mushriks of Arabia to the position of outlaws and no place of shelter was left for them, for the major part of the country had come under the sway of Islam. As this released the Muslims from the obligations of the treaties made with them and forestalled them, they were driven into a tight corner. For, this smashed all their evil designs of creating trouble by inciting civil war at the time of a threat from the Roman and the Iranian Empires, or after the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him). But Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him) turned the tables on them before the opportune moment for which they were waiting. Now the only alternatives left with them were either to accept Islam that had become the state religion of Arabia, or to fight against it and be exterminated, or to emigrate from the country.

The wisdom of this grand plan became apparent when the mischief of apostasy broke out in different parts of Arabia a year and a half after this at the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him). This disturbance was so sudden and violent that it shook to its foundations the newly created Islamic state and would have done a far greater harm if the organized power of shirk had not been broken beforehand by this abrogation. It may be asserted that, but for this timely action the mischief of apostasy, that rose at the very beginning of the caliphate of Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him), would have done tenfold harm by rebellion and civil war, and might have changed the whole history of Islam.

2. So travel (freely) in the land four months,^{*3} and know that you cannot escape Allah, and that Allah will disgrace the disbelievers.

فَسِيحُوا فِي الْأَرْضِ أَرْبَعَةَ أَشْهُرٍ
وَأَعْلَمُوا أَنَّكُمْ غَيْرُ مُعْجِزِي اللَّهِ
وَأَنَّ اللَّهَ مُحْزِي الْكٰفِرِينَ

*3 The respite of four months from the tenth of Zil-Haj (the date of the proclamation) to the tenth of Rabi-uth-thani was granted to give time to the mushriks so that they should consider their position carefully and decide whether to make preparation for war or to emigrate from the country or to accept Islam.

3. And (it is) a proclamation from Allah and His Messenger to the people on the day of the greater pilgrimage^{*4} that Allah is free from obligation to the idolaters, and (so is) His Messenger. So if you repent, then it is better for you, and if you turn away, then know that you cannot escape Allah. And give tidings to those who disbelieve of a painful punishment.

وَأَذَانٌ مِّنَ اللَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ إِلَى
النَّاسِ يَوْمَ الْحَجِّ الْأَكْبَرِ أَنَّ
اللَّهَ بَرِيءٌ مِّنَ الْمُشْرِكِينَ
وَرَسُولُهُ فَإِنْ تُبْتُمْ فَهُوَ خَيْرٌ
لَّكُمْ وَإِنْ تَوَلَّيْتُمْ فَأَعْلَمُوا
أَنَّكُمْ غَيْرُ مُعْجِزِي اللَّهِ وَبَشِّرِ
الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا بِعَذَابٍ أَلِيمٍ

*4 Hajj-i-akbar refers to the 10th of Zil-Hajjah and is also known as Yaum-un-Nahr. This has been explained by the Prophet (peace be upon him) in an authentic tradition. On the 10th of Zil-Hajjah, during the last Hajj of the Prophet (peace be upon him), he asked the people, “What is this day?” The people answered, “It is the day of sacrifice.” The Prophet (peace be upon him) said, “This is the day of Hajj-i-akbar”. Here the word Hajj-i-akbar (greater pilgrimage) has been used in contrast to Hajj-i-asghar which the Arabs used for Umrah. Thus, the Hajj which is performed in the prescribed dates of Zil-Hajj is called Hajj-i-akbar.

4. Except those with whom you (Muslims) made a treaty among the idolaters, then they have not failed you in anything, nor have aided against you anyone. So, fulfill to them their treaty until their term. Indeed, Allah loves those who are righteous.*5

إِلَّا الَّذِينَ عَاهَدْتُمْ مِّنَ
الْمُشْرِكِينَ ثُمَّ لَمْ يَنْقُصُوكُمْ
شَيْئًا وَلَمْ يُظَاهِرُوا عَلَيْكُمْ أَحَدًا
فَاتِمُوا إِلَيْهِمْ عَاهِدَهُمْ إِلَى
مُدَّتِهِمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ يُحِبُّ الْمُتَّقِينَ

*5 “So, fulfill to them their treaty.” For your violation in such cases shall be against piety. And Muslims should remain pious under all circumstances “Indeed, Allah loves those who are righteous” only.

5. Then, when the sacred months*6 have passed, then slay the idolaters

فَإِذَا أَنْسَلَخَ الْأَشْهُرَ الْحَرَّمَ فَاقْتُلُوا الْمُشْرِكِينَ حَيْثُ

wherever you find them, and take them (captive), and besiege them, and sit in wait for them at every place of ambush. Then if they repent and establish prayer and give the poor-due,^{*7} then leave their way free. Indeed, Allah is Forgiving, Merciful.

وَجَدْتُمُوهُمْ وَخُذُوهُمْ
وَأَحْصُرُوهُمْ وَأَقْعُدُوا لَهُمْ
كُلَّ مَرْصِدٍ فَإِنْ تَابُوا
وَأَقَامُوا الصَّلَاةَ وَءَاتُوا
الزَّكَاةَ فَخَلُّوا سَبِيلَهُمْ إِنَّ اللَّهَ
غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

6 Here “the sacred months” are not those four months during which war is forbidden for the sake of Hajj and Umrah but the four months that were made unlawful for the Muslims to attack those mushriks who were granted respite by Ayat 2.

7 That is, “Mere repentance from disbelief and shirk will not end the matter. But they shall have to perform the prescribed prayer and pay Zakat dues. Without these it will not be considered that they had given up disbelief and embraced Islam.” Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) based his decision on this verse in the case of the apostates, after the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him), who argued that they were not rejecting Islam, because they offered Salat, even though they had refused to pay the Zakat dues. This argument roused doubts in the minds of the companions in general that they had no right to fight with such people as these. But Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) removed their doubts, saying,

“Verse 5 enjoins us to let those people go their way who fulfill all the three conditions, repentance from shirk, the establishment of Salat, and the payment of Zakat. We cannot forbear them, because they do not fulfill one of these three conditions.”

6. And if any one of the idolaters seeks your protection, then protect him so that he may hear the Word of Allah, then deliver him to his place of safety. That is because they are a people who do not know.*8

وَإِنْ أَحَدٌ مِّنَ الْمُشْرِكِينَ
اسْتَجَارَكَ فَأَجِرْهُ حَتَّى يَسْمَعَ
كَلِمَ اللَّهِ ثُمَّ ابْلِغْهُ مَأْمَنَهُ ذَٰلِكَ
بِأَنَّهُمْ قَوْمٌ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ

*8 That is, if during a fight, an enemy makes a request that he should be given an opportunity to understand Islam, the Muslims should give him a surety of protection and allow him to visit them. They should then present Islam before him in order to make him understand it. If, after this, he does not embrace Islam, they should convey him safely to his place. Such a person who comes to Dar-ul-Islam under the above mentioned protection is called mustamin in the Islamic code.

7. How can there be for the idolaters a treaty with Allah and with His Messenger, except those with whom you made a treaty near AlMasjid-AlHaram.*9 So as long as كَيْفَ يَكُونُ لِلْمُشْرِكِينَ

عَهْدٌ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ وَعِنْدَ رَسُولِهِ
إِلَّا الَّذِينَ عَاهَدْتُمْ عِنْدَ الْمَسْجِدِ الْحَرَامِ فَمَا

they stand true to you, so stand you true to them. Indeed, Allah loves those who are righteous.

أَسْتَقِمُوا لَكُمْ فَاسْتَقِيمُوا لَهُمْ
إِنَّ اللَّهَ يُحِبُّ الْمُتَّقِينَ

9 That is: Bani Kinanah and Bani Khuzaah and Bani Damrah.

8. How (can there be any treaty with them) while if they gain dominance over you, they do not respect concerning you any kinship, nor agreement. They seek to please you with their mouths,^{*10} while their hearts refuse. And most of them are disobedient.^{*11}

كَيْفَ وَإِنْ يَظْهَرُوا عَلَيْكُمْ
لَا يَرْقُبُوا فِيكُمْ إِلَّا وَلَا ذِمَّةً
يُرْضُونَكُمْ بِأَفْوَاهِهِمْ وَتَأْبَى
قُلُوبُهُمْ وَأَكْثَرُهُمْ فَاسِقُونَ

10 That is, “Though outwardly they negotiated for peace treaties, they cherished evil intentions in their hearts, and waited for an opportune moment to break them. And this was borne by later experiences.”

11 They were evil-doers because they had no sense of moral responsibilities nor did they hesitate to break moral limits.

9. They have sold the signs of Allah for a small price^{*12} and have hindered (people) from His Way.^{*13} Indeed, evil is what they were doing.

أَشْتَرُوا بِعَايَتِ اللَّهِ ثَمَنًا قَلِيلًا
فَصَدُّوا عَنْ سَبِيلِهِ^ج إِنَّهُمْ سَاءَ
مَا كَانُوا يَعْمَلُونَ

12 That is, when they had to make a choice between the divine guidance and the transitory worldly ambitions, they chose the latter, because they did not comprehend the comparative values of the two. Whereas the revelations of Allah were inviting them to goodness, righteousness and observance of the divine law, which lead to eternal bliss. They chose to follow the unbridled lusts of their selves which gained some transitory worldly benefits for them, but consequently led them to eternal perdition.

13 Those evil-doers “hindered (people) from His Way”, for they not only chose misguidance for themselves but also tried to prevent others from following the right way. They put every kind of obstruction in the way of the invitation to righteousness; nay, they tried their best to gag the mouths of those who were extending that invitation and make their lives hard for them. In short, they did all they could to prevent the establishment of the righteous system of life that Allah required the people to establish.

10. They do not respect in regard to a believer any kinship, nor agreement. And it is they who are the transgressors.

لَا يَرْقُبُونَ فِي مُؤْمِنٍ إِلَّا وِلَا ذِمَّةً
 وَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ الْمُعْتَدُونَ

11. But if they repent and establish prayer and give the poor-due, then they are your brothers in religion. And We detail

فَإِنْ تَابُوا وَأَقَامُوا الصَّلَاةَ
 وَآتَوْا الزَّكَاةَ فَإِخْوَانُكُمْ فِي الدِّينِ وَنُفِصِلُ الْآيَاتِ لِقَوْمٍ

the verses for a people who have knowledge.*14

*14 Here too, it has explicitly been stated that those who repent will not become your brethren in faith without the observance of Salat and Zakat.

“Then they are your brothers in religion”: This means that if they fulfill those conditions, then not only shall their lives and properties become unlawful for you but also they shall enjoy equal rights with you in the Islamic community. There shall be no distinction between them and the other Muslims in regard to social, cultural, legal and political rights, and nothing will stand in their way to the progress for which they are otherwise qualified.

12. And if they break their pledges after their treaty (with you) and assail in (the matter of) your religion, then fight the leaders of disbelief. Indeed, there are no oaths (sacred) to them, so that they might cease.*15

وَإِنْ نَكَثُوا أَيْمَانَهُمْ مِنْ بَعْدِ
عَهْدِهِمْ وَطَعَنُوا فِي دِينِكُمْ
فَقَاتِلُوا أِيمَةَ الْكُفْرِ إِنَّهُمْ لَأَنْ
أَيْمَانَ لَهُمْ لَعَلَّهُمْ يَنْتَهُونَ

*15 In the context, the words, oaths, and compacts mean the compact of the acceptance of Islam. Therefore, the question of making a new compact with them does not arise. As regards the old pacts, they had already broken all of them. It is on account of this that the declaration of immunity (from obligations) by Allah and His Messenger

(peace be upon him) has been clearly made. It has also been stated that such people are not worthy of any treaty and they can only be let off if they repent of their disbelief and shirk and establish Salat and pay Zakat dues. This verse states clearly how the renegades should be treated. As a matter of fact, this verse forestalled the mischief of apostasy that broke out a year and a half after its revelation and Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) followed the guidance given in this verse to crush it.

13. Would you not fight^{*16} a people who have violated their oaths, and intended to expel the Messenger, and they begun (the attack upon) you the first time. Do you fear them. But Allah has more right that you should fear Him, if you are believers.

أَلَا تَقْتُلُونَ قَوْمًا نَكَثُوا
 أَيْمَانَهُمْ وَهَمُّوا بِإِخْرَاجِ
 الرَّسُولِ وَهُمْ بَدَءُوكُمْ أَوَّلَ
 مَرَّةٍ أَتَخْشَوْنَهُمْ فَاللَّهُ أَحَقُّ أَنْ
 تَخْشَوْهُ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ مُؤْمِنِينَ

16 In this passage the addressees are the Muslims. They have been urged to fight perseveringly in the Way of Allah, without paying the least heed to their ties of blood and relationship and to their worldly interests. In order to understand fully the spirit of this passage, the reader should keep in view the state of affairs at the time, when the abrogation of the treaties was declared. Though Islam was reigning supreme in the greater part of Arabia and there was no greater power to challenge its supremacy, still superficial observers saw a number of dangers in the extreme step which was being taken at that time.

First, it was feared that the abrogating of the treaties with all the mushrik clans at one and the same time, and debarring them from Hajj and changing the guardianship of the Kaabah and abolishing all the rituals of ignorance, would so incite the mushriks and the hypocrites and kindle such fire of enmity that they would be ready to shed the last drop of their blood for safeguarding their interests and prejudices.

Secondly, it was feared that the mushriks would be greatly enraged by this declaration which granted freedom of movement to the Muslims to perform Hajj, whereas it forbade the non-Muslims. Obviously this would also affect adversely their economic condition, for Hajj played a very important part in the economic life of Arabia during that period of her history.

Lastly, it was feared that this would put to a hard trial those people who had embraced Islam recently after the peace treaty of Hudaibiyah and the conquest of Makkah. For many of their kith and kin were still mushriks. Some of whom had their interests closely bound up with those offices of ignorance which were abolished. Now it was obvious that the total war against the mushriks demanded that these new Muslims should not only kill their own near and dear ones but should also themselves abolish those ancient offices and distinctions which they had enjoyed for centuries.

Though, it is true that none of these dangers took any practical shape, there were good reasons for these apprehensions, for none could foresee the trends of events at the time of the abrogation of the treaties. And the dangers were averted because these commandments had prepared them beforehand to meet them. More than that: this preparedness produced other good results. The delegates from the remnants of the mushriks, their chiefs and rulers began to visit Al-Madinah and take the oath of allegiance to Islam and obedience to the prophet (peace be upon him), who let them retain their old positions and offices. These things proved that if the Muslims had not been in a state of readiness to take immediate action for enforcing the terms of the declaration with the sword, the events which followed might have taken a different direction. Therefore it was the need of the hour that the Muslims should have been vehemently urged for Jihad, and their apprehensions removed. That is why it was being enjoined that they should not let anything hinder them from doing the will of Allah. And this is the theme of this discourse.

14. Fight them, Allah will punish them by your hands, and He will disgrace them, and will give you victory over them, and He will heal the breasts of a people who are believers.

قَاتِلُوهُمْ يُعَذِّبُهُمُ اللَّهُ
بِأَيْدِيكُمْ وَتُخْزِهِمْ وَيَنْصُرْكُمْ
عَلَيْهِمْ وَيَشْفِ صُدُورَ قَوْمٍ
مُؤْمِنِينَ

15. And He will remove the anger of their (believers) hearts. And Allah turns in forgiveness^{*17} to whom He

وَيُذْهِبُ غَيْظَ قُلُوبِهِمْ وَيَتُوبُ اللَّهُ عَلَىٰ مَنْ يَشَاءُ ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ

wills. And Allah is All Knowing, All Wise.

*17 This was a subtle reference to the possibility of what actually was going to happen afterwards. “And He will remove”: this was to remove the misunderstandings of the Muslims who apprehended a bloody war as a result of the declaration. They were told that it was also possible that some of the enemies might repent and embrace Islam. This was not made quite plain lest it should slacken the war preparations of the Muslims on one side and weaken the force of the warning to the mushriks on the other. The latter thing might have hindered the mushriks from giving a serious thought to the critical position they were in that finally led them to embrace Islam.

16. Do you think that you shall be left alone while Allah has not yet made evident those who strive among you. And they have not taken, besides Allah and His Messenger and the believers,^{*18} (other) intimates. And Allah is Informed of what you do.

أَمْ حَسِبْتُمْ أَنْ تُتْرَكُوا وَلَمَّا
يَعْلَمِ اللَّهُ الَّذِينَ جَاهَدُوا مِنْكُمْ
وَلَمْ يَتَّخِذُوا مِنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ وَلَا
رَسُولِهِ وَلَا الْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَلِيجَةً
وَاللَّهُ خَبِيرٌ بِمَا تَعْمَلُونَ

*18 The addressees in Ayat 16 were those Muslims who had recently embraced Islam. It means to tell them plainly: “Now that you have embraced Islam, you shall have to give a genuine proof by a trial that you have accepted it because you believe in its truth and not because it has become supreme in the country by the exertions of the true believers. The trial is that you shall have to sacrifice your lives, wealth, and your near and dear ones for the sake of Allah and His Way. Then and only then, you will be regarded as true believers.

17. It is not for the idolaters that they maintain the mosques of Allah, bearing witness against themselves of disbelief.*¹⁹ As for such, their deeds have become worthless*²⁰ and in the Fire they will abide.

مَا كَانَ لِلْمُشْرِكِينَ أَنْ يَعْمُرُوا
مَسْجِدَ اللَّهِ شَاهِدِينَ عَلَيْهِ
أَنْفُسِهِمْ بِالْكَفْرِ أُولَئِكَ
حَبِطَتْ أَعْمَالُهُمْ فِي النَّارِ هُمْ
خَالِدُونَ

*¹⁹ This lays down the general principle for the guardianship of the places of worship that have been built exclusively for the worship of Allah. Obviously, those people who associate others with Allah in His essence, His rights and His powers cannot be the proper persons to be the guardians, the servants, the managers etc. of such sacred places. And when they themselves reject the invitations to Tauhid, and openly declare that they are not going to dedicate their worship and obedience exclusively to Allah, they automatically forfeit any right they had for the guardianship of such places of worship that had been built for the worship of Allah alone. Though the principle is of a general nature, it has been mentioned here with the particular object of removing the mushriks from the guardianship of the Kaabah and Masjid-i-Haram and establishing permanently the guardianship of the worshipers of one God over them.

20 “Their deeds have become worthless”: including the little real service they did to the house of Allah because they mixed with it shirk and other practices of ignorance. Their little good was destroyed by their far greater evils.

18. The mosques of Allah shall be maintained only by those who believe in Allah and the Last Day and establish prayer and give the poor-due and do not fear except Allah. For is it expected that those will be of the (rightly) guided.

إِنَّمَا يَعْمُرُ مَسْجِدَ اللَّهِ مَنْ
ءَامَنَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ
وَأَقَامَ الصَّلَاةَ وَءَاتَى الزَّكَاةَ
وَلَمْ يَخْشَ إِلَّا اللَّهَ فَعَسَىٰ
أُولَٰئِكَ أَنْ يَكُونُوا مِنَ
الْمُهْتَدِينَ

19. Have you made the providing of water to the pilgrims and the maintenance of AlMasjid-AlHaram as (equal to the deeds of) him who believes in Allah and the Last Day, and strives in the Way of Allah.^{*21} They are not equal in the sight of Allah. And Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people.

﴿ أَجَعَلْتُمْ سِقَايَةَ الْحَاجِّ وَعِمَارَةَ
الْمَسْجِدِ الْحَرَامِ كَمَنْ ءَامَنَ
بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ وَجَاهِدَ فِي
سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ لَا يَسْتَوُونَ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ
وَاللَّهُ لَا يَهْدِي الْقَوْمَ الظَّالِمِينَ ﴾

21 This question has been posed to bring home the fact that the guardianship of a shrine or attendance at it or other religious acts that are done for show, and are exploited by worldly people to establish and maintain the show of their piety, have no value whatsoever in the sight of Allah. The real worth of a person with Allah is that he should be sincere in his beliefs and make sacrifices in the Way of Allah, no matter whether he enjoys or does not enjoy such distinctions or happens to descend or not from a family of saints. On the contrary, those people who lack these excellences have no value with Allah, no matter whether they be the descendants of saints or inherit the guardianship of shrines from a long line of saints, or perform some religious acts for show on special occasions. And it is not lawful in any way that the guardianship, etc. of sacred places and institutions should be left in the hands of these worthless people just because they happen to inhere such rights from their forefathers.

20. Those who have believed, and emigrated, and striven in the cause of Allah with their wealth and their lives are of much greater ranks with Allah. And it is those who are the successful.

الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَهَاجَرُوا
وَجَاهَدُوا فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ

21. Their Lord gives them good tidings of mercy from

Him, and good pleasure, and gardens for them wherein is everlasting delight.

وَرِضْوَانٍ وَجَنَّاتٍ لَهُمْ فِيهَا نَعِيمٌ مُّقِيمٌ ﴿٢١﴾

22. Abiding therein forever. Indeed, Allah has with Him an immense reward.

23. O those (of you) who have believed, do not take your fathers and your brothers as allies if they love disbelief over belief. And whoever takes them for friends among you, then it is those who are the wrong doers.

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا لَا تَتَّخِذُوا ءَابَاءَكُمْ وَإِخْوَانَكُمْ أَوْلِيَاءَ إِنِ اسْتَحَبُّوا الْكُفْرَ عَلَى الْإِيمَانِ وَمَن يَتَوَلَّهُمْ مِنكُمْ فَأُولَئِكَ هُمُ الظَّالِمُونَ ﴿٢٣﴾ than Allah and His Messenger and striving in His Way, then wait until Allah brings His command to pass.*22 And Allah does not guide the wrongdoing people.”

وَجِهَادٍ فِي سَبِيلِهِ فَتَرَبَّصُوا
حَتَّى يَأْتِيَ اللَّهُ بِأَمْرِهِ وَاللَّهُ لَا
يَهْدِي الْقَوْمَ الْفَاسِقِينَ

*22 That is: “The judgment will deprive them of the blessings of the true faith, and of the honor of bearing its standard and leading the world towards its guidance and bestow these on others”.

25. Truly, Allah has given you victory on many (battle) fields*23 and on the day of Huneyn, when you exulted in your multitude, but it did not avail you at all, and the earth, with its vastness, was straitened for you, then you turned back fleeing.

لَقَدْ نَصَرَكُمُ اللَّهُ فِي مَوَاطِنَ
كَثِيرَةٍ وَيَوْمَ حُنَيْنٍ إِذْ
أَعْجَبْتَكُمْ كَثَرْتُمْ فَلَمْ
تُغْنِ عَنْكُمْ شَيْئًا وَضَاقَتْ
عَلَيْكُمْ الْأَرْضُ بِمَا
رَحَبَتْ ثُمَّ وَلَّيْتُمْ مُدْبِرِينَ

*23 This has been mentioned to allay the fears of those who were afraid of the consequences of the declaration of the abrogation of the treaties, as if to say, “Why are you afraid of war.” That Allah, Who helped you in far worse and dangerous situations on so many occasions before this, is there even now to help you. Had this mission depended on your might, it could not have come out victorious in the hard trials at Makkah, nor in the battle of Badr when the odds were heavily against you. This is because Allah's power has been helping you, and past experiences have shown you how effective that power is. Rest assured that the same power will help you to succeed in your mission. The battle of Hunain had taken place in the valley of Hunain between Taaif and Makkah in the month of Shawwal A.H. 8, a year or so before the revelation of this discourse. This was the first battle in which the Muslim army consisted of 12,000 fighters and this far outnumbered the army of the disbelievers. But in spite of this the archers of the Hawazin clan wrought havoc among the Muslim army and put them to rout. The Prophet (peace be upon him) and a few of his bravest companions, however, firmly stood their ground and rallied the routed army, and ultimately won the victory. It was because of their perseverance that the army reassembled and the Muslims ultimately won the victory; otherwise they would have lost much more at Hunain than they had gained by the conquest of Makkah.

26. Then Allah sent down His tranquility upon His Messenger and upon the believers, and sent down hosts (angles) whom you did not see, and punished those ثُمَّ أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ سَكِينَتَهُ عَلَىٰ

رَسُولِهِ وَعَلَى الْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَأَنْزَلَ جُنُودًا لَّمْ تَرَوْهَا وَعَذَّبَ who disbelieved. And such is the recompense of the disbelievers.

الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا وَذَلِكَ جَزَاءُ
الْكَافِرِينَ ﴿٢٦﴾

27. Then Allah will accept repentance after that for whom He wills,^{*24} And Allah is Oft-Forgiving, Merciful.

ثُمَّ يَتُوبُ اللَّهُ مِنْ بَعْدِ ذَلِكَ
عَلَىٰ مَنْ يَشَاءُ ۗ وَاللَّهُ غَفُورٌ
رَحِيمٌ ﴿٢٧﴾

24 “Allah will accept repentance” refers to the large number of the disbelievers who embraced Islam after the victory at Hunain as a result of the kind and generous treatment they received from the Prophet (peace be upon him), in spite of their former antagonism. This was mentioned to allay the anxiety of those new Muslims who feared that, as a result of the declaration, all of their mushrik relatives would be put to death. (E.N. 16). They have been told to expect, in the light of the previous experiences, that the mushriks would be obliged to accept Islam, when they realize that neither any hope of the revival of the order of ignorance was left nor of any props to support it.

28. O those (of you) who have believed, the idolaters only are unclean. So let them not come near the AlMasjid-AlHaram^{*25} after this their يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا إِنَّمَا

الْمُشْرِكُونَ نَجَسٌ فَلَا يَقْرَبُوا
الْمَسْجِدَ الْحَرَامَ بَعْدَ عَامِهِمْ year. And if you fear poverty, Allah shall enrich you of His bounty if He wills. Indeed, Allah is Knower, All Wise.

هَذَا وَإِنْ خِفْتُمْ عَيْلَةً فَسَوْفَ
يُغْنِيكُمْ اللَّهُ مِنْ فَضْلِهِ إِنْ شَاءَ
إِنَّ اللَّهَ عَلِيمٌ حَكِيمٌ

25 This prohibition was meant to root out all the vestiges of shirk and ignorance. For the mushriks were prohibited not only from the performance of Hajj and attendance at the AlMasjid-AlHaram but also from entering into its sacred precincts.

They are unclean in their creeds, in their morals, in their deeds, and in their ways of ignorance, and not in their physical bodies by themselves. That is the reason why they have been prohibited from entering the sacred precincts of the holy place.

This prohibition has been interpreted in different ways. Imam Abu Hanifah is of the view that it prohibits them only from the performance of Hajj and Umrah, and from the observance of the rites of ignorance in the holy precincts. But Imam Shafii is of the opinion that they have been forbidden even to enter the AlMasjid-AlHaram for any purpose whatsoever. Imam Malik is of the opinion that they are forbidden not only to enter AlMasjid-AlHaram but any mosque at all. It is, however, obvious that the last opinion is not correct, as the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself permitted mushriks to enter the Prophet's mosque at Al-Madinah.

29. Fight those who do not believe in Allah, nor in the Last Day,^{*26} nor make unlawful that which Allah has made unlawful^{*27} and His messenger, and who do not acknowledge the religion of truth, among those who were given the Scripture, until they pay the tribute out of (their) hand and they are utterly subdued.^{*28}

قَاتِلُوا الَّذِينَ لَا يُؤْمِنُونَ
بِاللَّهِ وَلَا بِالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ وَلَا
يُحَرِّمُونَ مَا حَرَّمَ اللَّهُ وَرَسُولُهُ
وَلَا يَدِينُونَ دِينَ الْحَقِّ مِنَ
الَّذِينَ أُوتُوا الْكِتَابَ حَتَّى
يُعْطُوا الْجِزْيَةَ عَنْ يَدٍ وَهُمْ
صَاغِرُونَ

26 Though the people of the Book professed to believe in Allah and the Hereafter, in fact they believed in neither. For only that person really believes in Allah who acknowledges Him as the only one God and the only one Lord, and does not associate with Him any other, whatsoever, in His Being, in His characteristics, in His rights and in His powers and authority. But according to this definition of shirk both the Christians and the Jews were guilty of shirk as has been made plain in the verses that follow: therefore their profession of belief in Allah was meaningless. Likewise they did not really believe in the Hereafter, in spite of the fact that they believed in resurrection. For it is not enough: one must also believe that on that Day absolute justice will be done on the basis of one's belief and actions. One should also believe that no ransom and no expiation and no spiritual relationships with any saint shall be of any avail on that Day. It is absolutely meaningless to believe in the Hereafter without this. And the Jews and the Christians had polluted their faiths because they believed that such things would protect them against justice on that day.

27 The second reason why Jihad should be waged against them is that they did not adopt the law sent down by Allah through His Messenger.

28 This is the aim of Jihad with the Jews and the Christians and it is not to force them to become Muslims and adopt the Islamic way of life. They should be forced to pay jizyah in order to put an end to their independence and supremacy so that they should not remain rulers and sovereigns in the land. These powers should be wrested from them by the followers of the true faith, who should assume the sovereignty and lead others towards the right way, while they should become their subjects and pay jizyah. Jizyah is paid by those non-Muslims who live as zimmi (protégés) in an Islamic state, in exchange for the security and protection granted to them by it. This is also symbolical of the fact that they themselves agree to live in it as its subjects. This is the significance of “they pay the tribute out of (their) hand,” that is, “with full consent so that they willingly become the subjects of the believers, who perform the duty of the vicegerents of Allah on the earth.” At first this command applied only to the Jews and the Christians. Then the Prophet (peace be upon him) himself extended it to the Zoroastrians also. After his death, his companions unanimously applied this rule to all the non-Muslim nations outside Arabia.

This is jizyah of which the Muslims have been feeling apologetic during the last two centuries of their degeneration and there are still some people who continue to apologize for it. But the way of Allah is straight and clear and does not stand in need of any apology to the rebels against Allah. Instead of offering apologies on behalf of Islam for the measure that guarantees security of life, property and faith to those who choose to live under its protection, the Muslims should feel proud of such a humane law as that of jizyah. For it is obvious that the maximum freedom that can be allowed to those who do not adopt the Way of Allah but choose to tread the ways of error is that they should be tolerated to lead the life they like. That is why the Islamic state offers them protection, if they agree to live as its zimmi by paying jizyah, but it cannot allow that they should remain supreme rulers in any place and establish wrong ways and impose them on others. As this state of things inevitably produces chaos and disorder, it is the duty of the true Muslims to exert their utmost to bring to an end their wicked rule and bring them under a righteous order.

As regards the question, "What do the non-Muslims get in return for jizyah", it may suffice to say that it is the price of the freedom which the Islamic state allows them in following their erroneous ways, while living in the jurisdiction of Islam and enjoying its protection. The money thus collected is spent in maintaining the righteous administration that gives them the freedom and protects their rights. This also serves as a yearly reminder to them that they have been deprived of the honor of paying Zakat in the Way of Allah, and forced to pay jizyah instead as a price of following the ways of error.

30. And the Jews say: “Ezra is the son of Allah,”^{*29} and the Christians say: “The Messiah is the son of Allah.” That is their saying with their mouths. They imitate the saying of those who disbelieved before.^{*30} May Allah destroy them, how are they deluded (from the truth).

وَقَالَتِ الْيَهُودُ عُزَيْرٌ ابْنُ اللَّهِ
 وَقَالَتِ النَّصْرَى الْمَسِيحُ
 ابْنُ اللَّهِ ذَلِكَ قَوْلُهُمْ
 بِأَفْوَاهِهِمْ يُضَاهُونَ قَوْلَ
 الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا مِنْ قَبْلُ قَتَلَهُمُ
 اللَّهُ أَنَّى يُؤْفَكُونَ ﴿٣٠﴾

29 Uzair (Ezra) lived during the period around 450 B.C. The Jews regarded him with great reverence as the revivalist of their Scriptures which had been lost during their captivity in Babylon after the death of prophet Solomon. So much so that they had lost all the knowledge of their law, their traditions and of Hebrew, their national language. Then it was Ezra who re-wrote the Old Testament and revived the law. That is why they used very exaggerated language in his reverence which misled some of the Jewish sects to make him ‘the son of God’. The Quran, however, does not assert that all the Jews were unanimous in declaring Ezra as the son of God. What it intends to say is that the perversion in the articles of faith of the Jews concerning Allah had degenerated to such an extent that there were some amongst them who considered Ezra as the son of God.

30 “Those who disbelieved before” were the Egyptians, the Greeks, the Romans, the Persians, etc. The Jews and the Christians were so influenced by their philosophies, their superstitions and fancies that they also invented erroneous creeds like theirs. (See E.N. 101 of Al-Maidah).

31. They have taken their rabbis and their monks as lords other than Allah,^{*31} and the Messiah son of Mary. And they were not commanded except to worship one God. There is no god except Him. Be He glorified from all that they ascribe as partners (with Him).

أَتَّخَذُوا أَحْبَارَهُمْ وَرُهَبَانَهُمْ
أَرْبَابًا مِّنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ
وَالْمَسِيحَ ابْنَ مَرْيَمَ وَمَا

لَّا إِلَهَ إِلَّا هُوَ سُبْحَانَهُ عَمَّا
يُشْرِكُونَ

31 “They have taken their rabbis and monks as their lords”. The Prophet (peace be upon him) himself explained its true significance. According to a tradition, when Adi bin Hatim (may Allah be pleased with him), who was formerly a Christian, came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) with the intention of understanding Islam, he asked several questions in order to remove his doubts. One of these was: “This verse accuses us of taking our scholars and monks as our lords. What is its real meaning. For we do not take them as our lords.”

As a reply to this, the Prophet (peace be upon him) put him a counter question: “Is it not a fact that you accept as unlawful what they declare to be unlawful, and lawful what they declare to be lawful?” Adi confessed, “Yes, it is so.” The Prophet (peace be upon him) replied, “This amounts to making them your lords.” Incidentally, this tradition shows that those who themselves set limits to the lawful and the unlawful without the authority of Allah’s Book, assume for themselves the rank of godhead, and those who acknowledge their right of making laws take them as their lords.

It should be noted that they have been charged with (a) attributing sons to Allah, and (b) giving the right of making laws to others than Allah. These are to prove that their claim that they believed in Allah is false, even though they should believe in His existence. But such a wrong conception of Allah makes their belief in Allah meaningless.

32. They want to put out the light of Allah with their mouths, but Allah refuses except that His light should be perfected, even though the disbelievers may dislike.

يُرِيدُونَ أَنْ يُطْفِئُوا نُورَ اللَّهِ بِأَفْوَاهِهِمْ وَيَأْبَى اللَّهُ إِلَّا أَنْ يُتِمَّ نُورَهُ وَلَوْ كَرِهَ الْكَافِرُونَ

33. He it is who has sent His Messenger with the guidance and the religion of truth, that He

هُوَ الَّذِي أَرْسَلَ رَسُولَهُ بِالْهُدَىٰ وَدِينِ الْحَقِّ لِيُظْهِرَهُ may cause it to prevail over all religions,^{*32} even though the idolaters may dislike.

عَلَى الدِّينِ كُلِّهِ وَلَوْ كَرِهَ
المُشْرِكُونَ

32 The Arabic word ad-din has been translated into 'ways'. For the word deen, as has already been explained in E.N. 204, Al-Baqarah, is used for the 'way of life' or the 'system of life', which is followed in obedience to the supreme authority.

Now let us try to understand the significance of this verse. The object of the mission of the Messenger is to make the guidance and the right way he has brought from Allah dominant over all the other ways and systems of life. In other words, the Messenger is not sent to allow Allah's Way to remain subordinate to other ways in order to enjoy concessions from them. He is sent by the Sovereign of the earth and the heavens to make His Way dominant over all other ways. And if a wrong way is at all allowed to remain on the earth, it should be tolerated only under its own protection by the payment of jizyah under the limits conferred by the divine system as in the cast of the system of life of the zimmis who pay jizyah.

34. O those (of you) who believe, indeed many of the (Jewish) rabbis and the (Christian) monks devour the wealth of mankind in falsehood, and hinder (people) from the

يُنْفِقُونَهَا فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ فَبَشِّرْهُمْ
بِعَذَابٍ أَلِيمٍ

33 These religious leaders are guilty of two sins. First, they devour the wealth of the common people by selling false decrees, and by taking bribes, gifts and presents on different pretexts. They invent religious regulations and rituals as tempt people to buy their salvations and fortunes in life from them and make deaths and marriages dependent on the payment of due price to these monopolists of Paradise. To add to this another sin, they debar the people from the Way of Allah by involving them into different sorts of deviations and by obstructing the way of every righteous mission with the obstacles of learned doubts and pious suspicions.

35. On the day when heat will be produced out of it (wealth) in the fire of Hell, then with it will be branded their foreheads, and their flanks, and their backs. This is that which you hoarded for yourselves. So taste what you used to hoard.

كَنْتُمْ لِأَنْفُسِكُمْ فَذُوقُوا مَا
كُنْتُمْ تَكْتُمُونَ

36. Indeed, the number of the months with Allah is twelve months by Allah's ordinance (from) the day He created the heavens and the earth,^{*34} of them four are sacred. That is the right religion. So do not wrong yourselves in them.^{*35} And fight against the idolaters collectively as they fight against you collectively.^{*36}

And know that Allah is with those who are righteous.

إِنَّ عِدَّةَ الشُّهُورِ عِنْدَ اللَّهِ اثْنَا
عَشَرَ شَهْرًا فِي كِتَابِ اللَّهِ يَوْمَ

أَنْفُسَكُمْ وَقَتِلُوا
الْمُشْرِكِينَ كَافَّةً كَمَا
يُقْتَلُونَكُمْ كَافَّةً وَعَلِمُوا أَنَّ
اللَّهَ مَعَ الْمُتَّقِينَ

34 This means that ever since Allah created the sun, the moon and the earth, the new moon takes place only once in a month; thus the year has always been of twelve months. This has been mentioned to refute the practice of nasi (Ayat 37) whereby the pagan Arabs increased the number of the months of a year to 13 or 14 to enable them to interpose in the calendar the forbidden month which had been made lawful by them.

35 "So do not wrong yourselves in them." Do not let go waste the good things for which fighting has been made unlawful during these months by creating disorder in them that will ultimately be harmful to you also. The four forbidden months are Zil-Qadah, Zil-Hajjah and Muharram for Hajj and Rajab for Umrah.

*36 That is, "If the mushriks do not desist from fighting during these months, you should also fight them and present a united front against them, just as they put up a united front against you". This verse has been explained by Ayat 194 of Al-Baqarah.

37. Postponing (of a sacred month) is only an addition in disbelief whereby those who disbelieve are misled. They make it lawful (one) year and make it unlawful (another) year, that they may adjust the number (of months) that is made unlawful by Allah. So that make lawful that which Allah has made unlawful.^{*37} Made pleasing to them is the evil of their deeds. And Allah does not guide the people who disbelieve.

إِنَّمَا النَّسِيءُ زِيَادَةٌ فِي الْكُفْرِ
يُضِلُّ بِهِ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا
تُحِلُّونَهُ عَامًا وَتُحَرِّمُونَهُ عَامًا
لِيُؤَاطِعُوا عِدَّةَ مَا حَرَّمَ اللَّهُ
فِيحِلُّوا مَا حَرَّمَ اللَّهُ زِينًا
لَهُمْ سُوءُ أَعْمَالِهِمْ وَاللَّهُ لَا
يَهْدِي الْقَوْمَ الْكَافِرِينَ

*37 The pagan Arabs practiced nasi in two ways. Whenever it suited them, they would declare a prohibited month to be an ordinary month in which fighting, robbery and murder in retaliation were lawful for them. Then they would declare an ordinary month to be a prohibited month instead of this month in order to make up for the deficiency caused in the number of the prohibited months.

The other way of nasi was the addition of a month in order to harmonize the lunar with the solar year so that the Hajj should always fall in the same season and they should be saved from the bother and inconvenience that are experienced by its observance according to the lunar year. In this way Hajj was observed for 36 years on dates other than the actual dates. Then in the thirty seventh year it was again observed on the 9th and 10th of Zil-Hajjah, as they should have actually fallen according to the lunar calendar. It so happened that on the occasion when the Prophet (peace be upon him) performed Hajja-tul-Widaa (his last Hajj). these dates by rotation coincided with the actual dates of Hajj according to the lunar calendar. So he declared during the course of his historic address at Arafat: "This year the dates of Hajj have again occurred exactly at their natural and proper time after a long period of circulation." Accordingly, since that last Hajj of A.H. 9, it is being observed up to this day according to the correct dates of the lunar year.

By making nasi unlawful and forbidding it, the law declared that the two objects for which it was practiced were also sinful. First, they not only made lawful what Allah had made unlawful but also tried to practice deception on Allah by the seeming observance of the law. As regards the second object of making the season of Hajj fixed permanently according to the solar calendar, this too, was in fact the worst kind of rebellion against the divine law, although it appeared to be a harmless thing done for public good. But it defeated the very object of the divine law which prescribed the lunar calendar instead of the solar calendar for the observance of obligatory duties. Allah did this to ensure many good things for the Muslims, one of which is that His servants should be so trained as to obey His commandments at all times of the year and under all circumstances. For instance, the month of Ramadan circulates among all the seasons of the year and the Muslims get used to obeying His commandments whether it be summer or winter, dry or rainy season. This gives them that excellent moral training which is the real object of all the obligatory duties imposed by the divine law. Likewise, the dates of Hajj according to the lunar calendar, fall during different seasons: therefore the servants of Allah have to travel during all the seasons, favorable and unfavorable. Thus they come out successful in the divine test under all the circumstances and learn to be steadfast in their obedience.

It is obvious that such a training will make them stand good in many other fields in which one has to fight the battle for the truth.

Now it would have become quite clear why nasi was made unlawful and forbidden. It was designed to fix the season of Hajj in order to suit their own conveniences though it defeated the divine purpose of Hajj and of the forbidden months. It meant that they had rebelled against Allah and become independent of Him; this is kufr. Besides this, Islam is a universal religion and for all human beings. It is obvious that the periods of fasting and performing Hajj cannot satisfy all if they be fixed in accordance with the months of the solar year. For if they are performed in fixed months according to the solar year, the one and the same month will not equally suit all for the simple reason that it will fall during the same seasons in different places, summer or winter or very hot or very cold or rainy or dry or harvesting or sowing, year after year.

In this connection it may also be kept in view that the proclamation about the prohibition of nasi was made on the occasion of Hajj in A.H. 9 and next year the Hajj was performed on right dates which were in accordance with the lunar year. Since that time Hajj is being performed according to exact dates.

38. O those ^{*38} (of you) who believe, what is (the matter) with you, when it is said to you, march forth in the Way of Allah, you adhere heavily to the earth. Do you take pleasure in the life of the world rather than the Hereafter. So what is the enjoyment of the life of this world as compared with the Hereafter except a little. ^{*39}

يَأْتِيهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا مَا لَكُمْ
 إِذَا قِيلَ لَكُمْ أَنْفِرُوا فِي سَبِيلِ
 اللَّهِ أَتَأْقَلْتُمْ إِلَى الْأَرْضِ
 أَرْضَيْتُمْ بِالْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا مِنَ
 الْآخِرَةِ ۚ فَمَا مَتَّعُ الْحَيَاةِ
 الدُّنْيَا فِي الْآخِرَةِ إِلَّا قَلِيلٌ

38 From here begins the discourse (Ayats 38-72) which was sent down at the time when the Prophet (peace be upon him) was engaged in making preparations for the campaign to Tabuk.

39 “The enjoyment of the life of this world” may imply two meanings. First: “When you will find that the life in the Hereafter is eternal and see that the good things and the provisions of enjoyment are countless, you will realize that the potential and the actual enjoyments of the temporary life of this world were nothing as compared with the blessings of that great kingdom. At that time you will regret why you deprived yourselves of this everlasting happiness and bliss for the sake of a very little and short lived enjoyments of the mortal life of this world.” Second: “The goods of this worldly life are of no value in the Hereafter, howsoever abundant they might be. You shall have to give up each and everything as soon as you breathe your last. For nothing of this world can go with you to the next world. Of course, you will get credit for what you sacrificed for the pleasure and love of Allah, and love of Islam.”

39. If you do not go forth, He will punish you with a painful punishment,^{*40} and He will replace you by people other than you,^{*41} and you will not harm Him at all. And Allah is Powerful over all things.

إِلَّا تَنْفِرُوا يُعَذِّبْكُمْ عَذَابًا
أَلِيمًا وَيَسْتَبْدِلْ قَوْمًا غَيْرَكُمْ
وَلَا تَضُرُّهُ شَيْئًا ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَلَىٰ
كُلِّ شَيْءٍ قَدِيرٌ

40 A general rule of the Islamic conduct has been derived from, “If you do not go forth, He will punish you with a painful punishment.” When the Muslims are commanded to go to Jihad by a public proclamation from their leader, it becomes an obligatory duty for those who are called upon to do Jihad, whether they belong to any particular group or region. So much so that the faith of those who do not go for Jihad without a genuine excuse becomes doubtful. But even in cases where the Muslims are called upon to go forth for Jihad and there is no command for the compulsory enrollment of every able-bodied Muslim of a particular group or region, it is a religious duty (though not obligatory), and it shall be considered to have been performed even if only some Muslims go forth for it.

41 That is, “Allah’s work does not depend on you and will be accomplished only if you do it. It is Allah’s grace and bounty that He is affording you the golden opportunity of serving the cause of His Way. Therefore if you miss this opportunity because of any foolish assumption, Allah will raise another people and bestow on them the opportunity and capability of doing His work, and you will be losers”.

40. If you do not help him (Muhammad), then Allah did indeed help him when those who disbelieved drove him out (of Makkah). The second of two, when they two were in the cave, when he (Muhammad) said to his companion: “Do not grieve, indeed Allah is with us.”^{*42} Then Allah sent down His tranquility upon him and

إِلَّا تَنْصُرُوهُ فَقَدْ نَصَرَهُ اللَّهُ إِذْ
أَخْرَجَهُ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا ثَانِيًا
أَتَيْنِ إِذْ هُمَا فِي الْغَارِ إِذْ
يَقُولُ لِصَاحِبِهِ لَا تَحْزَنْ إِنَّ
اللَّهَ مَعَنَا فَأَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ سَكِينَتَهُ
عَلَيْهِ وَأَيَّدَهُ بِجُنُودٍ لَمْ تَرَوْهَا strengthened him with hosts which you did not see. And made the word of those who disbelieved the lowermost, and Allah's Word - that was the uppermost. And Allah is All Mighty, All Wise.

وَجَعَلَ كَلِمَةَ الَّذِينَ
كَفَرُوا السُّفْلَىٰ ۗ وَكَلِمَةَ اللَّهِ
هِيَ الْعُلْيَا ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَزِيزٌ حَكِيمٌ

*42 This refers to the occasion when the disbelievers had decided to assassinate the Prophet (peace be upon him), and the very night, fixed for his assassination, he had left Makkah for Al-Madinah. By that time most of the Muslims had migrated to Al-Madinah in twos and threes and only a few helpless ones had remained behind in Makkah. As he was sure that he would be pursued, he took only Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) with him and went southward instead of following the northern route to Al-Madinah and remained hidden in the Thaur cave for three days. In the meantime the blood thirsty enemies had begun to make a thorough search for him all around Makkah and some of them reached the very mouth of the cave where he was hidden. On this critical occasion Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) naturally felt alarmed lest they should peep into the cave, and see them. But the Prophet (peace be upon him) remained as calm as before and reassured his companion, saying, "Do not grieve, indeed Allah is with us."

41. Go forth, light-armed and heavy-armed,*43

أَنْفِرُوا خِفَافًا وَثِقَالًا وَجَاهِدُوا and strive with your wealth and your lives in the Way of Allah. That is better for you if you did know.

بِأَمْوَالِكُمْ وَأَنْفُسِكُمْ فِي سَبِيلِ
اللَّهِ ذَالِكُمْ خَيْرٌ لَّكُمْ إِنْ كُنْتُمْ
تَعْلَمُونَ

43 The words, “light-armed and heavy-armed” have a very comprehensive meaning: when it is enjoined to march forth for Jihad, you must go forth anyhow, whether you like it or not: whether you are in a state of prosperity or indigence, whether you are well-equipped or ill-equipped: whether the circumstances are favorable or adverse: whether you are young and healthy or old and weak.

42. If it had been a near adventure and an easy journey, they would have followed you, but the distance seemed too far for them.^{*44} And they will swear by Allah (saying): “If we had been able, we would have gone out with you.” Destroying their own selves. And Allah knows, indeed they are liars.

لَوْ كَانَ عَرَضًا قَرِيبًا وَسَفَرًا
قَاصِدًا لَّاتَّبَعُوكَ وَلَكِنْ بَعُدَتْ
عَلَيْهِمُ الشُّقَّةُ وَسَيَحْلِفُونَ
بِاللَّهِ لَوْ أَسْتَطَعْنَا لَخَرَجْنَا مَعَكُمْ
مُيْلِكُونَ أَنْفُسَهُمْ وَاللَّهُ يَعْلَمُ إِنَّهُمْ
لَكَاذِبُونَ

44 They felt the journey to Tabuk to be hard because they had to fight with the army of the great and powerful Roman Empire: because they had to journey in the scorching heat of the summer season of the desert: because there was a famine in the country and the new harvest on which they had pinned their hopes was ready for reaping.

43. May Allah forgive you (O Muhammad), why did you grant them permission, until became manifest to you those who told the truth, and you had known the liars.^{*45}

عَفَا اللَّهُ عَنْكَ لِمَ أَذِنْتَ لَهُمْ
حَتَّىٰ يَتَبَيَّنَ لَكَ الَّذِينَ
صَدَقُوا وَتَعْلَمَ الْكٰذِبِينَ

*45 Allah did not approve of the exemption which the Prophet (peace be upon him) had granted to the hypocrites who had put forward lame excuses. Though he knew it well that they were inventing false excuses, he gave them leave to stay behind because of his inherent kindness. But Allah warned him that such a leniency was not well placed as he gave them an opportunity of hiding their hypocrisy. Had they remained behind without getting an exemption, the false profession of their faith would have been exposed.

44. Those who believe in Allah and the Last Day would not ask your permission to be exempted from fighting with their wealth and their lives. And Allah is Aware of those who are righteous.

لَا يَسْتَعْذِرُكَ الَّذِينَ
يُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ
أَنْ يُجَاهِدُوا بِأَمْوَالِهِمْ
وَأَنْفُسِهِمْ ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ بِالْمُتَّقِينَ

45. Only those would ask permission of you, who do not believe in Allah and the Last Day, and whose hearts are in doubt. So they, in their doubt, are hesitating.*46

إِنَّمَا يَسْتَعِذُّكَ الَّذِينَ لَا
يُؤْمِنُونَ بِاللَّهِ وَالْيَوْمِ الْآخِرِ
وَأَرْتَابَتْ قُلُوبُهُمْ فَهُمْ فِي رَيْبِهِمْ
يَتَرَدَّدُونَ

*46 This verse shows clearly that the conflict between Islam and kufr is the criterion to distinguish between a true believer and a hypocrite. The one who supports Islam in this conflict with the whole of his heart and expends all of his energies and resources in order to make it victorious and does not hesitate in the least to make any sacrifices for this purpose, is a true believer. On the contrary, the one who hesitates to support Islam in this conflict and refrains from making sacrifices in its way, when he confronts the threat of the victory of kufr, is a hypocrite, for such an attitude is itself a proof of the fact that there is no faith in his heart.

46. And if they had intended to go forth, they would have certainly made for it some preparation, but Allah disliked their being sent,*47 so He made them lag behind, and it was said: “Sit among those who sit (at home).”

﴿ وَلَوْ أَرَادُوا الْخُرُوجَ لَأَعَدُّوا
لَهُ عُدَّةً وَلَكِنْ كَرِهَ اللَّهُ
أَنْبِعَانَهُمْ فَثَبَّطَهُمْ وَقِيلَ اقْعُدُوا
مَعَ الْقَاعِدِينَ ﴾

*47 Allah held them back for He did not like that they should join Jihad unwillingly without any sincere intention for it. As they had no mind to make sacrifices to exalt the cause of Islam, and, therefore, would have taken part in it half-heartedly to escape the taunts of the Muslims or to create mischief. This would have resulted in a greater evil, as has been stated explicitly in the next verse 48.

47. If they had gone out among you, they would not have added to you except trouble, and they would have hurried about in your midst, seeking to cause sedition among you. And among you are avid listeners to them. And Allah is Aware of the wrong doers.

لَوْ خَرَجُوا فِيكُمْ مَا زَادُوكُمْ إِلَّا
خَبَالًا وَلَا أَوْضَعُوا خِلَالَكُمْ
يَبْغُونَكُمْ الْأَفْتِنَةَ وَفِيكُمْ
سَمَّعُونَ لَهُمْ وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ
بِالظَّالِمِينَ ﴿٤٧﴾

48. Indeed, they had desired sedition before, and had upset matters for you, until the truth came and the decree of Allah became manifest though they were averse.

لَقَدْ أبتَغَوْا الْأَفْتِنَةَ مِنْ قَبْلُ
وَقَلَّبُوا لَكَ الْأُمُورَ حَتَّى جَاءَ
الْحَقُّ وَظَهَرَ أَمْرُ اللَّهِ وَهُمْ
كَرْهُونَ ﴿٤٨﴾

49. And among them is he who says: “Grant me permission and do not put me into trial.”^{*48} Surely, they have fallen into وَمِنْهُمْ مَن يَقُولُ أُنْذِنْ لِي وَلَا

تَفْتِنِّي إِلَّا فِي الْأَفْتِنَةِ سَقَطُوا وَإِنَّ جَهَنَّمَ لَمُحِيطَةٌ trial.*⁴⁹ And indeed, Hell is surrounding the disbelievers.*⁵⁰

بِالْكَافِرِينَ

*48 Some of the hypocrites, who were requesting the Prophet (peace be upon him) to give them leave to stay behind on one pretext or the other, were so impudent that they were inventing excuses of a religious or moral nature for refraining from Jihad in the Way of Allah. One of these was Jad-bin-Qais, who, according to traditions came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and said. "I am a lover of beauty and my people know that I am very weak in regard to women: therefore I am afraid to go forth lest the beauty of the Roman women should beguile me into sin. Therefore, "do not put me into trial."

*49 Though they wanted exemption, they had already fallen as a prey to the temptations of telling lies, of double dealings and hypocrisy. They deluded themselves that they would be considered pious people, if they would put forward the fear of temptations to avoid Jihad, when, in fact; they had already fallen into the greatest possible temptation of refraining from Jihad in the conflict between Islam and kufr.

*50 That is, "Such a show of piety has not taken them away from Hell; nay, on the other hand, the same thing has caused them to be entangled in the clutches of Hell."

50. If good befalls you
(O Muhammad), it grieves them. And if a calamity strikes you, they say: "We

إِنْ تُصِيبَكَ حَسَنَةٌ تَسُؤْهُمْ وَإِنْ تُصِيبَكَ مُصِيبَةٌ يَقُولُوا indeed took our precaution before hand, and they turn away while they are rejoicing.

قَدْ أَخَذْنَا أَمْرَنَا مِنْ قَبْلُ
وَيَتَوَلَّوْا وَهُمْ فَرِحُونَ ﴿٥١﴾

51. Say: “Never shall we be struck except what Allah has decreed for us. He is our protector. And upon Allah let believers put their trust.”*51

قُلْ لَنْ يُصِيبَنَا إِلَّا مَا كَتَبَ
اللَّهُ لَنَا هُوَ مَوْلَانَا وَعَلَى اللَّهِ
فَلْيَتَوَكَّلِ الْمُؤْمِنُونَ ﴿٥١﴾

51 In this passage a demarcation has been made between the attitudes of a man of the world and of a man of God. Whatever the man of the world does, he does it to please his own self. He exults if he attains some worldly ends but feels utterly dejected if he fails to attain them. Besides, he depends entirely on his material resources for his success and feels encouraged if these are favorable, but loses heart if these are unfavorable.

In contrast to the man of the world, whatever the man of God does, he does it to please Him and trusts in Him and not in his own powers nor in material resources. Therefore he is neither exultant over his success in the cause of Allah, nor loses heart by failure, for he believes that it is the will of God that is working in both the cases. Therefore he is neither disheartened by disasters nor is filled with conceit by successes. This is because he believes that both prosperity and adversity are from Allah and are nothing but a trial from Him. Therefore his only worry is to do his best to come out successful in His test. Besides, as there are no worldly ends before him, he does not measure his success or failure by the achievement or failure of his ends. On the other hand, the only object before him is to sacrifice his life and wealth in the Way of Allah, and he measures the success or failure of his efforts by the standard he achieves in the performance of this duty. Therefore if he is satisfied that he has done his best to perform this duty, he believes that he has come out successful by the grace of God, though he might not have been able to accomplish anything from the worldly point of view; for he believes that his Allah in whose cause he has expended his life and wealth will not let go waste the reward of his efforts. As he does not depend on the material resources only, he is neither grieved if they are unfavorable, nor feels exultant when these are favorable. His entire trust is in God who is the controller of all the resources; therefore he goes on doing his duty even under the most unfavorable circumstances with the same courage and perseverance that is shown by the worldly people unfavorable circumstances alone. That is why Allah asked the Prophet (peace be upon him) to say to the hypocrites, “There is a basic difference between you and us in regard to the conduct of affairs. We believe that both the good and the bad are from Allah: therefore the apparent result does not make us happy or sad. Moreover, we depend on Allah in our affairs and you depend on material resources: so we are content and happy in all circumstances.”

52. Say: “Do you await for us (anything) except

قُلْ هَلْ تَرَبَّصُونَ بِنَا إِلاَّ

one of the two best things (martyrdom or victory),^{*52} while we await for you that Allah will afflict you with a punishment from Himself or at our hands. So wait, indeed we along with you are waiting.”

إِحْدَى الْحُسَيْنَيْنِ وَنَحْنُ
نَتَرَبَّصُ بِكُمْ أَنْ يُصِيبَكُمُ اللَّهُ
بِعَذَابٍ مِنْ عِنْدِهِ أَوْ
بِأَيْدِينَا فَتَرَبَّصُوا إِنَّا مَعَكُمْ
مُتَرَبِّصُونَ

52 This is the answer to those who, as usual, were not taking any part in the conflict between Islam and kufr, but were very wisely watching it from a distance to see whether the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions would return victorious from Tabuk or would be totally destroyed by the powerful Roman army. They were told that either of the two results, they were awaiting, would be good for the Muslims. For it was obvious that it would be a good thing if they won victory. But even if they were killed in the Way of Allah, it would be a success from their point of view, though not in the sight of the world, as the Muslims' standard of measurement is different from that of the hypocrites and the like. A believer considers it his success if he sacrifices his life and wealth in the Way of Allah, irrespective of whether he succeeds in conquering some country, or in establishing a government or not. According to him the criterion of success or failure is whether he has extended or not all the powers of his body and soul, his head and his heart to elevate the word of Allah, though from the worldly point of view the result of his efforts might be nothing at all.

53. Say: “Spend willingly or unwillingly,^{*53} never will it be accepted from you. Indeed, you are disobedient people.”

قُلْ أَنْفِقُوا طَوْعًا أَوْ كَرْهًا لَنْ
يُتَقَبَّلَ مِنْكُمْ إِنَّكُمْ كُنْتُمْ
قَوْمًا فَاسِقِينَ ﴿٥٣﴾

53 This ayat is a sharp retort to those hypocrites who desired exemption froth Jihad but, at the same time, wanted to make some monetary contributions in order to avoid the exposure of their hypocrisy, They said, “Please grant us leave from military service because we are unable to do this, but we are ready to make monetary contributions towards it.” To this Allah retorted, saying, “Whatever you may contribute, it shall not be accepted.”

54. And nothing prevents, from being accepted from them their contributions, except that they disbelieved in Allah and in His Messenger, and they do not come to the prayer except they are lazy, and they do not spend except they are unwilling.

وَمَا مَنَعَهُمْ أَنْ تُقَبَّلَ مِنْهُمْ
نَفَقَتُهُمْ إِلَّا أَنَّهُمْ كَفَرُوا
بِاللَّهِ وَبِرِسُولِهِ وَلَا يَأْتُونَ
الصَّلَاةَ إِلَّا وَهُمْ كُسَالَى وَلَا
يُنْفِقُونَ إِلَّا وَهُمْ كَرِهُونَ ﴿٥٤﴾

55. So let not amaze you (O Muhammad), their wealth, nor their children. Allah only intends to punish them

فَلَا تُعْجِبْكَ أَمْوَالُهُمْ وَلَا أَوْلَادُهُمْ إِنَّمَا يُرِيدُ اللَّهُ through them in the life of the world,^{*54} and that their souls shall pass away while they are disbelievers.^{*55}

لِيُعَذِّبَهُمْ بِهَا فِي الْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا
وَتَرْهَقَ أَنْفُسُهُمْ وَهُمْ كَافِرُونَ

54 “Allah only intends to punish them through them in the life of the world”, because of their great love for their children and wealth as these misled them to adopt the hypocritical attitude which, in turn, degraded them in the Muslim society. Consequently, in the Islamic system they would lose the respect, tire reputation and the prestige they enjoyed in the pre-Islamic society. On the contrary, even the Muslim slaves and the sons of slaves, the farmers and the shepherds, who proved the sincerity of their faith would win honor in the new system, and the big hereditary chiefs, who refrained from this because of their love of the world, would lose their fame, honor and prestige.

In order to illustrate the above, we cite an incident that happened during the caliphate of Umar (may Allah be pleased with him). Once some big chiefs of the Quraish including Suhail-bin-Amr and Harith-bin-Hisham, went to see caliph Umar and took their seats near him. Soon after this some humble people from among the Muhajirin and the Ansar came there. The caliph asked those chiefs to make room for them, and seated these humble people near his own seat. This went on for some time till these chiefs reached the remotest corner in the assembly. When they came out, Harith-bin-Hisham said to his companions, “You have noticed what a humiliating treatment has been meted out to us today!” Suhail-bin-Amr replied, “It is no fault of Umar but it is our own fault. When we were invited to Islam, we turned away from it, but these humble people accepted it and made sacrifices for it.” Then both of them returned to the meeting and said, “Today we have noticed your treatment and we feel that it is all due to our own shortcomings, but tell us if there is a way for us to make atonements for our past failures”. The caliph did not give any reply but merely pointed towards the Roman territory, which meant that the only way of regaining their prestige was to expend their lives and wealth in doing Jihad there.

55 “Their souls shall pass away while they are disbelievers” because of their hypocrisy, which would not let them attain sincere faith till they die. Thus after ruining their moral and spiritual lives in this world, they would leave it in the state of unbelief, which will ruin their lives in the Hereafter in a far worse way.

56. And they swear by Allah that they are from among you, while they are not of you, but they are a people who are afraid.

وَتَحْلِفُونَ بِاللَّهِ إِنَّهُمْ لَمِنْكُمْ
وَمَا هُمْ مِنْكُمْ وَلَكِنَّهُمْ قَوْمٌ
يَفْرُقُونَ

57. If they could find a refuge, or caves, or a place to enter (and hide), they would turn to it while they run heedlessly. ^{*56}

لَوْ يَجِدُونَ مَلْجَأًا أَوْ مَغْرَاتٍ
أَوْ مَدَّخَلًا لَوَلَّوْا إِلَيْهِ وَهُمْ
يَجْمَحُونَ

56 This was the condition of the hypocrites of Al-Madinah, the majority of whom were rich and old. We find from a list of the hypocrites, cited by Ibn-Kathir in Al-Badayah-wan-Nihayah, that only one of them was young and none was poor. These people had large properties and flourishing businesses in Al-Madinah. They were worldly-wise and their wide experience had taught them expediency, but their sense of self-interest had put them into a dilemma. When Islam reached Al-Madinah and a large majority of the population embraced it sincerely and enthusiastically, they found themselves in a very perplexing situation. They could not reject it outright for the majority of their own people, nay, their own sons and daughters, were filled with enthusiasm for Islam. If they had remained unbelievers, they would have lost their high position, their prestige and reputation and run the risk of a rebellion by the Muslims of their own household. On the other hand, if they sincerely embraced Islam, they would incur the danger of war, not only with the whole of Arabia but also with the adjoining nations and empires. Above all, self-interest had so blinded them that, in resolving the dilemma, they would not consider the problem from the point of view of truth and righteousness which by themselves are worthy of every sacrifice. Therefore they decided that the best thing for them was to profess Islam outwardly in order to make their positions, properties and businesses secure, but to adopt a hypocritical attitude towards it so that they might be able to avoid the losses and perils inherent in the sincere acceptance of Islam.

This verse 57 depicts the dilemma of the hypocrites, as if to say, “In reality these people are not Muslims, though they swear that they are Muslims like you; they profess Islam simply because they are afraid of losses they might incur, if they reject it outright. Then they dare not stay at Al-Madinah as non-Muslims for they would lose the high positions they enjoyed and might even have to cut off their connection with their wives and children; and if they decided to emigrate from Al-Madinah, they would have to abandon their properties and business. But they are not prepared for these sacrifices for they have no sincere attachment even to kufr. Therefore they are compelled against their beliefs by the force of circumstances to remain in Al-Madinah: they offer their Salat but regard this as forced labor: they pay the Zakat dues but as a penalty, for they are in their hearts averse to these things. To add to their calamities they are asked every now and then to make sacrifices of their lives and their wealth and to go forth for Jihad and to fight with one enemy or the other. They are so much afraid of these calamities that, in order to escape from them, they would run in frantic haste to take refuge in any hole, if they hoped that it would provide immunity against these calamities.

58. And among them are some who accuse you (O Muhammad) in the matter of the (distribution of) charities. So if they are given thereof, they are pleased, but وَمِنْهُمْ مَّنْ يَلْمِزُكَ فِي الصَّدَقَاتِ

فَإِنْ أُعْطُوا مِنْهَا رَضُوا وَإِنْ لَمْ يُعْطُوا مِنْهَا إِذَا هُمْ

if they are not given thereof, behold, they are enraged.*57

*57 The people referred to were the hypocrites, who felt depressed on every occasion of the distribution of the Zakat collections, for they thought that they were not being given their due share. Then they would taunt the Prophet (peace be upon him) with making unfair distributions. This happened when the payment of Zakat was made an obligatory duty on all those Muslims whose possessions exceeded the prescribed limits. They were required to contribute from their agricultural products, animals, commercial commodities, minerals dug out of mines and the gold and silver they possessed, at different rates, varying from 2.5% to 20%, and all these were collected and spent in a systematic way from a central place.

As a result of this so much wealth flowed into the hands of a single person, the Prophet (peace be upon him), that it had no parallel in the whole territory of Arabia. Naturally the materialists looked at these things with greedy eyes and wanted to grab as much as possible out of this wealth. But their greed could not be satisfied, for the Prophet (peace be upon him), who had made the use of Zakat fund unlawful for his own person and for his own relatives, could not be expected to give anything out of it to anyone who did not deserve it. It is thus obvious that they found fault with the Prophet (peace be upon him) not because he was unfair in the distribution of the Zakat collections but because he did not allow the hypocrites to grab anything from these without any right to them. They, however, very cunningly hid their real grievance, and accused the Prophet (peace be upon him) of showing partiality and injustice in the distribution of the Zakat collection.

59. And if they had been content^{*58} with what Allah and His Messenger had given them, and had said: “Sufficient is Allah for us. Allah will give us of His bounty,^{*59} and (also) His Messenger. Indeed to Allah we are suppliants.”^{*60}

وَلَوْ أَنَّهُمْ رَضُوا مَا آتَاهُمُ اللَّهُ
وَرَسُولُهُ وَقَالُوا حَسْبُنَا اللَّهُ
سَيُوتِينَا اللَّهُ مِنْ فَضْلِهِ
وَرَسُولُهُ إِنَّا إِلَى اللَّهِ رَاغِبُونَ

58 That is, it would have been much better for them if they had been content with their share of the spoils which the Prophet (peace be upon him) gave them and what they earned by the grace of Allah and with the prosperity Allah had bestowed on them.

59 It would have been good for them to adopt this attitude: “Sufficient is Allah for us,” for they ought to have known that they would receive their due shares besides the Zakat collections out of the wealth that would come to the state treasury, just as they were receiving their shares previously.

60 “Indeed to Allah we are suppliants” means we give our attention to Allah and His grace and not to the world and its worthless riches and we desire to obey His will: we direct our expectations and hopes to Him and we are content with what He bestows on us.

60. Zakat expenditures are only for the poor,^{*61} and the needy,^{*62} and those employed to administer thereof (the funds),^{*63} and for attracting the hearts together (for Islam),^{*64} and for those in bondage,^{*65} and for those in debt,^{*66} and for Allah's cause,^{*67} and the wayfarer,^{*68} an obligation from Allah. And Allah is All Knower, All Wise.

﴿ إِنَّمَا الصَّدَقَتُ لِلْفُقَرَاءِ
وَالْمَسْكِينِ وَالْعَمَلِينَ عَلَيْهَا
وَالْمُؤَلَّفَةِ قُلُوبِهِمْ وَفِي الرِّقَابِ
وَالْغَرَمِينَ وَفِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ وَأَبْنِ
السَّبِيلِ فَرِيضَةً مِّنَ اللَّهِ
وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ حَكِيمٌ ﴾

61 According to the Arabic usage, fuqara are all those people who depend on others for the necessities of life. The Arabic word fuqara is a general word for all those who are needy because of some physical defects, or old age, or temporarily out of living means, and can become self-supporting if they are helped like orphans, widows, the unemployed, etc.

62 According to the Arabic usage, masakin are those indigent people who are in greater distress than the needy people usually are. The Prophet (peace be upon him) especially enjoined the Muslims to help such people as are unable to find the necessary means to satisfy their wants and are in very straitened circumstances, but are so self-respecting that they would not beg for anything, nor would others judge from their outward appearance that they were deserving people. According to a tradition maskin is one who cannot make ends meet, though his appearance does not show that he needs help nor does he beg for help. In short, he is a self-respecting person who has become needy.

63 “Those employed to administer thereof” are those who collect Zakat dues, supervise the collections and keep accounts, and help in their distribution, irrespective of the fact whether or not they are needy or indigent; their remunerations shall be paid out of the Zakat funds. In this connection it should be noted well that the Prophet (peace be upon him) had declared the Zakat funds to be unlawful for himself and for the members of his own family (Bani Hashim). Accordingly, he never received any remuneration for collecting or distributing Zakat funds. As regards the other members of Bani Hashim, they were allowed to do this service without receiving any remuneration, but otherwise it is unlawful for them. On the contrary, the payment of the Zakat dues was obligatory on Bani Hashim if their possessions warranted this under the prescribed limits, but under no circumstances whatsoever were they allowed to accept anything out of Zakat collected from others.

There is, however, a difference of opinion as to whether they should accept anything out of the collections made from their own family or not. Imam Abu Yusuf opines that they are allowed to accept these when they are needy or poor or wayfarers, but the majority of the jurists regard this also unlawful.

64 A portion of Zakat funds may also be given to win over to Islam those who might be engaged in anti-Islamic activities or to those in the camp of the unbelievers who might be brought to help the Muslims or to those newly converted Muslims, who might be inclined to revert to kufr if no monetary help was extended to them. It is permissible to award pensions to them or give them lump sums of money to make them helpers of Islam or submissive to it or at least to render them into harmless enemies. A portion of the spoils or other incomes may be spent on them and, if need be, also a portion of Zakat funds. In such cases, the condition of being needy or indigent or on a journey etc. is also waived; nay, they might be even rich people or chiefs who are otherwise not eligible for anything from Zakat funds.

All are agreed that during the time of the Prophet (peace be upon him) pensions and gifts were given under the category of winning over people, but there is a difference of opinion whether this category of expenditure was abolished or not after his death. Imam Abu Hanifah and his followers are of the opinion that it was abolished during the caliphate of Umar (may Allah be pleased with him), and now it is not lawful to spend anything under this category. Imam Shafii is of the opinion that something may be given to sinful Muslims under this category from Zakat funds but not to unbelievers, while other jurists are of the opinion that expenses under this category are lawful even now, if a need arises for them.

The Hanafis base their opinion on an incident that happened after the death of the Prophet (peace be upon him). Uyainah bin Hisan and Aqraa bin Habis came to Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) and asked him to allot to them a certain piece of land. So he gave them a written order for this. They took it to some other highly placed companions for further confirmation and some of them endorsed this order. But when they took it to Umar (may Allah be pleased with him), he tore the paper into pieces before their very eyes, saying, it is true that the Prophet (peace be upon him) used to give something to win over your hearts because Islam was weak at that time, but now Allah has made Islam so strong that it does not stand in need of people like you. At this they went to Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) and complained to him about it and taunted him, saying” Are you the caliph or Umar (may Allah be pleased with him)? But he took no notice of this, nor did any of the companions differ with Umar's (may Allah be pleased with him) opinion. The Hanafis conclude from this incident that when the number and power of Muslims increased by the grace of Allah and they no longer stood in need of any support from such people; the reason for which expenses under this category were permitted in the first instance remained no longer there. Therefore the companions unanimously abolished expenditure under this head.

Imam Shafii says that there is nothing to prove that the Prophet (peace be upon him) ever spent anything out of Zakat funds under this category. All the incidents mentioned in the traditions show that whatever he spent for the purpose of winning over hearts to Islam, was spent out of the spoils of war and not out of Zakat funds.

In my opinion there is nothing to show that the expenses for winning over hearts have been made unlawful forever up to the Last Day. There is no doubt that the action taken by Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) was absolutely right, for if and when the Islamic state does not consider it necessary to spend anything under this head, Islam does not make it obligatory to spend something for winning hearts. On the other hand, if need for this arises at any time, it is authorized to incur expenses under this category for Allah has kept a provision for this. Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) and the other companions agreed only on this that there was no need to give anything for this purpose at that time because the circumstances did not warrant it. But there is no reason to conclude from this that the companions disallowed forever the expenses that were permitted by the Quran under certain circumstances for the good of Islam.

As regards the opinion of Imam Shafii, it appears to be correct in so far as it is not lawful to spend anything under this category out of Zakat funds, if these expenses can be met out of other funds. But if it is necessitated that something should be spent under this category out of Zakat funds, there is no reason why a differentiation should be made in this regard between sinful Muslims and unbelievers. For the Quran has not allocated the share because of the faith of the prospective recipients but because Islam required to win their hearts for its own good and because this could not be achieved except by giving them a portion of wealth. Therefore the Quran allows the Amir of the believers to spend a part of the Zakat funds to achieve this end, if, when and where the required conditions exist. The fact that the Prophet (peace be upon him) did not spend anything from the Zakat funds on unbelievers for this purpose does not mean that it is unlawful to do so, for he did not spend from this fund because there was enough money in other funds for this purpose. Had it been unlawful to spend anything from Zakat funds on unbelievers, he would have explicitly forbidden it.

65 A portion of Zakat funds may be spent for the ransoming of slaves in two ways. First, help may be given to a slave for the payment of the ransom money, if he enters into an agreement with his master that he will set him free, if the slave pays him a certain amount of money. The second way is that the Islamic government may itself pay the price of his freedom and set him at liberty. There is a consensus of opinion about the first way, but there is difference of opinion about the second way. Ali (may Allah be pleased with him), Said bin Jubair, Laith Thauri, Ibrahim Nakhi, Shaabi, and Muhammad bin Sirin, (Hanafis and Shafiis) consider this as unlawful while Ibn, Abbas, Hasan Basri, Malik, Ahmad and Abu Thaur consider this as lawful expenditure from this fund.

66 Help may be given out of Zakat funds to such debtors as would be reduced to a state of poverty, if they paid off all their debts out of their own possessions, irrespective of the fact whether they are earning any money or not, whether they are indigent in the general sense or well off. According to some jurists, the only exceptions to this are those debtors who are spendthrifts or involve themselves in debts by spending money on wicked deeds. Help may be given to them only if and when they repent.

*67 “For Allah’s cause” is a general term which implies all those good works which please Allah. That is why some jurists are of the opinion that Zakat funds may be spent on every kind of good work. But the fact is, and the majority of the earliest Muslim scholars have opined, that here the ‘Allah’s cause’ stands for Jihad in the path of Allah, that is, the struggle to eradicate the systems based on kufr and to establish the Islamic system in their stead. Therefore the Zakat funds may be utilized to meet the expenses of the journeys the people make, or for procuring means of conveyance, equipment, weapons and other articles needed for Jihad, irrespective of the fact whether they are so well off or not as to need any help for personal requirements. Likewise help of a temporary or permanent nature may also be given to those people who devote all of their time and energies, temporarily or permanently, for this work. It should also be noted that there has arisen a misunderstanding regarding the “cause of Allah” for the early scholars usually use for Jihad the Arabic word as (ghazyah) which is synonymous with “fight”. They, therefore, are of the opinion that Zakat fund may only be used for the purpose of fighting. But Jihad in the Way of Allah is a much more comprehensive term than mere fighting in the Way of Allah. Jihad applies to all those efforts that are made to degrade the word of kufr and to exalt the word of Allah and to establish the Islamic system of life, whether by propagating the message of Allah in the initial stage or by fighting in the final stage of the struggle.

*68 Help from Zakat funds may be given to a wayfarer on a journey even though he might be quite well off at home.

Some of the jurists are of the opinion that according to this verse only that wayfarer who does not undertake a journey for a sinful purpose may be helped out of Zakat funds. But no such condition has been laid down in the Quran or the Hadith to this effect. Besides this, we learn from the fundamental principles of Islam that the sins of a needy person would in no way prevent us from helping him. As a matter of fact, such a help may prove very useful in reforming sinful and depraved persons. For if they get a support in the time of need, it may reasonably be expected that they would turn towards purifying their souls.

61. And among them are those who hurt the Prophet and say: "He is (lending his) ear (to every news).^{*69} Say: "He listens to what is best for you,^{*70} he believes in Allah, and has faith in the believers,^{*71} and is a mercy to those who believe among you." And those who hurt Allah's Messenger, for them is a painful punishment.

وَمِنْهُمْ الَّذِينَ يُؤْذُونَ النَّبِيَّ
وَيَقُولُونَ هُوَ أَعْرَضَ عَنْ أُذُنٍ
خَيْرٌ لَكُمْ يَوْمَئِذٍ بِاللَّهِ وَيُؤْمِنُ
لِلْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَرَحْمَةٌ لِلَّذِينَ
ءَامَنُوا مِنْكُمْ وَالَّذِينَ يُؤْذُونَ
رَسُولَ اللَّهِ لَهُمْ عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

*69 This was one of the charges which the hypocrites leveled against the Prophet (peace be upon him). As he used to listen to everyone and let him say freely whatever he had to say, they would find fault with him, saying, “He is a credulous person. Everyone can approach him freely and may say whatever he pleases, and he readily believes whatever he hears” Though it was a good thing that he heard everyone, the hypocrites intentionally spread it as a vice, so that the poor and humble Muslims should be kept away from coming near the Prophet (peace be upon him). The hypocrites did not like that these true believers should inform the Prophet (peace be upon him) about their plots, mischief and hostile talks. They resented it very much that the Prophet (peace be upon him) listened to and believed in the talk of these humble people against such “respectable” people as themselves.

70 The answer to this charge implies two things. First, “Though the Prophet (peace be upon him) listens to everything, he attends only to that which is good and is for the welfare of the community, for he is not the one who would listen to or encourage mischievous things.” Secondly, “It is good for yourselves that he listens patiently to everyone; otherwise he would not have allowed you to put forward lame excuses for your negligence from the struggle in the Way of Allah. Had he not been forbearing, he would not have paid attention to your false professions of faith and hypocritical expressions of good wishes for Islam, but would have taken you to task for your mischief and made it difficult for you to live at Al-Madinah. It is thus obvious that it is good for you that he listens to everyone.

71 That is, you are wrong that he listens to everyone. He puts his trust only in the true believers. Accordingly, he believed only in those things about you that were conveyed to him by good and trustworthy people, who were neither liars nor tale-bearers. Therefore, whatever they said about you was true and should have been taken as true.

62. They swear by Allah to you (Muslims) so they can please you. And Allah and His Messenger have more right that they should be pleased, if they are believers.

تَحْلِفُونَ بِاللَّهِ لَكُمْ لِيَرْضَوْكُمْ وَاللَّهُ وَرَسُولُهُ أَحَقُّ أَنْ يُرْضَوْهُ إِنْ كَانُوا مُؤْمِنِينَ

63. Do they not know that whoever opposes Allah and His Messenger, then certainly for him is the fire of Hell to abide therein. That is the great disgrace.

أَلَمْ يَعْلَمُوا أَنَّهُ مَنِ يُحَادِدِ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ فَأَنَّ لَهُ نَارَ جَهَنَّمَ خَالِدًا فِيهَا ذَٰلِكَ الْخِزْيُ الْعَظِيمُ

64. The hypocrites fear lest a surah should be revealed about them, informing them of what is in their hearts.^{*72} Say: “Ridicule (as you wish).

يَحْذَرُ الْمُنَافِقُونَ أَنْ تُنَزَّلَ عَلَيْهِمْ سُورَةٌ تُنَبِّئُهُمْ بِمَا فِي قُلُوبِهِمْ قُلِ اسْتَهْزِئُوا إِنِ السَّيِّئَاتُ لِلَّهِ

Indeed, Allah will expose that which you fear.”

مُخْرِجٌ مَّا تَحْذَرُونَ

*72 The hypocrites were afraid that their secret plans would be disclosed in the Quran to their great discomfort. Though they did not believe that the Prophet (peace be upon him) was a Messenger of Allah, they were convinced from their experience of the last nine years or so that he possessed some supernatural powers by which he learned their hidden secrets, and revealed these through the Quran (which according to them was written by him).

65. And if you ask them, they will surely say: “We were only talking idly and playing.”*73 Say: “Is it at Allah and His verses and His Messenger that you were ridiculing.”

وَلَيْن سَأَلْتَهُمْ لَيَقُولُنَّ إِنَّمَا كُنَّا نَخُوضُ وَنَلْعَبُ قُلْ أَبِاللَّهِ وَءَايَاتِهِ وَرَسُولِهِ كُنْتُمْ تَسْتَهْزِئُونَ

*73 This refers to the hypocrites who used to make fun of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and the true Muslims in their secret meetings when they were making preparations for the expedition to Tabuk. In this way, they used to discourage those Muslims who sincerely and honestly intended to go forth for Jihad. We learn many things in this connection from the traditions. For instance, in one of their meetings, when the hypocrites were having a gossip, one of them remarked, “I say: Do you think that the Romans are no better than the Arabs? You will see that in the near future these brave men will be bound with ropes.” Another responded to this, “What a fun it would be if after this each one of them is lashed with a hundred stripes.” Still another, ridiculing the preparations by the Prophet (peace be upon him) for the expedition, remarked, “Look at this man, and his preparations. He intends to go forth to conquer the forts in Syria and the Roman Empire.”

66. “Make no excuse. You have indeed disbelieved after your (confession of) belief.” If We forgive a party of you, We shall punish (another) party, because they have been criminals. *74

*74 That is, “Those foolish buffoons, who take interest in such conversations and mock even at serious things because there is nothing serious in the world for them, may be pardoned. But there are others who mock at these serious things deliberately with evil intentions, because they consider the Messenger (peace be upon him) and the way taught by him as ridiculous in spite of their professions of faith. As their real object is to discourage the believers from making preparations for Jihad, they are criminals and not buffoons; therefore they shall not be pardoned at all.”

67. The hypocrite men and the hypocrite women are from one another. They enjoin what is wrong, and forbid from

الْمُنَافِقِينَ هُمُ الْفَاسِقُونَ

75 These are the common characteristics of all hypocrites. All of them are interested in evil and inimical to good. If someone undertakes to do an evil thing, they would dedicate all their sympathies, counsels, encouragements, contributions, good wishes, praises, and their approvals to such a one. They would join hands to accomplish that evil thing and persuade others to take part in it and encourage others in every way. Moreover, they would show in every way their hearty pleasure if they perceived that the evil thing was progressing satisfactorily. On the other hand, if someone undertakes to do a good thing, they are shocked to bear the very news of it for it pains their hearts; nay, they do not even like that such a thing should be undertaken at all. Then, if they see someone coming forward to help it, they feel very uncomfortable and try their best to hinder him from it, and if he does not give it up, they would wish that he should fail in it. Then all of them have this common characteristic that they do not spend anything at all for good ends irrespective of the fact whether they be otherwise parsimonious or generous. At any rate, their wealth is either for hoarding or for evil deeds. As a matter of fact, they would spend large sums on evil works generously but would not be willing to spend a farthing for good things.

68. Allah has promised the hypocrite men and the hypocrite women and the disbelievers fire of Hell, they shall abide therein. It is sufficient for them. And Allah has cursed them, and for them is an enduring punishment.

77 Again they are being mentioned in the third person.

78 These were the people of Lot.

79 “They used to wrong themselves” for they were themselves responsible for their destruction. Allah had no enmity with them and had no desire to destroy them. As a matter of fact, they themselves adopted the way of life that led to destruction, whereas Allah had sent His Messengers to them and afforded them the opportunities of thinking, understanding, and reforming. His Messengers admonished and warned them of the consequences of treading wrong paths, and presented very clearly before them the way that leads to success, and also the ways that lead to destruction. But when they did not benefit from the opportunities that were offered to them to mend their ways, and persisted in treading the ways that led to destruction, they inevitably met with the end for which they were heading. And this horrible end was not due to Allah's will to be unjust to them but due to their own evil doings."

71. And the believing men and the believing women are protecting friends of one another. They enjoin what is right and forbid from wrong, and they establish prayer and give the poor-due, and they obey Allah and His Messenger.*80 Those, Allah will have mercy upon them. 80 The contrast between the characteristics of the hypocrites (Ayat 67) and of the true believers (Ayat 71) clearly shows that the two are entirely different from each other, in spite of their outwardly similar profession of faith in Islam and obedience to it. The difference lies in their morals, conducts, habits, attitudes and ways of thinking.

On the one hand, are the hypocrites whose tongues are never tired of professing faith in Islam, but who are void of sincere faith, and whose conduct belies their professions. They are, as it were, like bottles which have labels of musk, but contain cow-dung which may easily be recognized from its appearance and unpleasant odor. On the other hand, are the true believers, who are like those bottles which contain musk which may be tested in any way by its appearance, its smell and other characteristics to be the musk. Likewise, though the outward label of Islam apparently makes both of them one community of Muslims, the real characteristics of the hypocritical Muslims are so different from those of the true Muslims that they have, in fact, become two different communities. The hypocritical Muslims, men and women, form a separate community with those who have similar characteristics. They all are neglectful of Allah, take interest in evil things and deviate from all that is good and never cooperate with true believers. In short, they are allies to one another and practically dissociate themselves from true believers and form a group of their own. In contrast to them, the true believers, men and women, have practically become one community. All of them take interest in what is good, and abhor what is evil. They remember Allah day and night and cannot think of life without the constant remembrance of Allah. They are very generous in spending in the Way of Allah, and obey Him and His Messenger (peace be upon him) without any mental reservations. These common characteristics have dissociated them from the hypocrites and united them in one community and made them allies to one another.

72. Allah has promised the believing men and the believing women gardens underneath which rivers flow, they will abide therein, and pleasant dwellings in gardens of Eden. And the greater (bliss) is the pleasure of Allah. It is that which is the great success.

وَمَا أُولَئِكَ إِلَّا فِي
جَهَنَّمَ ۚ وَبِئْسَ
الْمَصِيرُ

81 From here begins the third discourse that was sent down after the expedition to Tabuk.

82 This command enunciated the change of policy towards the hypocrites. Up to this time, leniency was being shown to them for two reasons. First, the Muslims had not as yet become so powerful as to take the risk of an internal conflict in addition to the one with the external enemies. The other reason was to give enough respite to those people who were involved in doubts and suspicions so that they could get sufficient time for attaining to faith and belief. But now the time had come for a change of policy. The whole of Arabia had been subdued and a bitter conflict with the external enemies was about to start; therefore it was required that these internal enemies should be crushed down so that they should not be able to conspire with the external enemies to stir up any internal danger to the Muslims. And now it had become possible to crush them. As regards to the second reason, these hypocrites had been given respite for a period of nine years to observe, to consider and test the right way, and they could have availed of it, if they had any good in them. So there was no reason why any more leniency should be shown to them. Therefore, Allah enjoined the Muslims to treat the hypocrites on one and the same level with the disbelievers and start Jihad against them, and to give up the policy of leniency they had adopted towards them and adopt a fine and stern policy instead.

In this connection, it should also be noted that this verse does not enjoin the Muslims to fight with the hypocrites. It merely meant to end the policy of leniency that had hitherto been adopted towards them. This verse enjoined that they were no more to be considered a part and parcel of the Muslim community, nor were they to be allowed to take part in the management of its affairs, nor consulted about any matter, so that they might not be able to spread the poison of hypocrisy. This changed policy required that the true believers should expose all those, who adopted a hypocritical attitude and conduct and showed in any way that they were not sincere allies to Allah, His Messenger (peace be upon him) and the true Muslims. Each and every one of such hypocrites should be openly criticized and reproved so that there should remain for them no more place of honor and trust in the Muslim society. They should be socially boycotted and kept away from the consultations of the community. Their evidence in the courts of law should be regarded as untrustworthy. The doors of offices and positions of trust should be closed against them and they should be held in contempt in the social meetings. In short, every Muslim should show by his behavior to such a one that there was no place of honor or respect or trust for a hypocrite in the Muslim society. Besides this, if any one of them was found to be guilty of treachery, there should be no connivance at his crime, nor should he be pardoned but openly tried in a court of law and should be duly punished. This command was urgently needed at the time it came. It was obvious that in order to save the Muslim community from fall and degradation, it was essential to purge it of all the internal dangers to its solidarity. A community which nourishes hypocrites and traitors and allows the internal enemies to flourish with honor and security will inevitably be doomed to moral degradation and ultimate destruction. Hypocrisy is a plague and a hypocrite is the rat that carries and spreads its germs. Therefore to allow him the freedom of movement in the society is to expose the whole population to the danger of hypocrisy. Likewise, to give a place of honor and prestige to a hypocrite is to encourage many others in hypocrisy and treachery, for this shows that it is not sincerity, true faith, and its welfare that count in it. One may flourish and prosper in it even if one verbally professes to be a Muslim and at the same time indulges in dishonesty and treachery. The Prophet (peace be upon him) has expressed the same thing in a pithy saying. He said, “Whoso honors and respects the inventor of new practices which are un-Islamic, indeed helps to demolish the very structure of Islam.”

74. They swear by Allah that they did not say (anything wrong). And indeed, they did say the word of disbelief,^{*83} and did disbelieve after their (accepting of) Islam. And they planned that which they were not (able) to attain.^{*84} And they did not seek revenge except that Allah and His Messenger had enriched them of His bounty.^{*85} Then if they repent, it will be better for them. And if they turn away, Allah will afflict them with a painful punishment in the world and the Hereafter. And there will not be for nor helper.

 وَمَا لَهُمْ فِي الْأَرْضِ مِنْ وَلِيٍّ

83 We cannot say with certainty what that “word of disbelief” was which they had uttered. There are, however, traditions that mention several things of unbelief which were uttered by the hypocrites during that time. For instance, it is related that a hypocrite, while he was talking to a young Muslim, a near relative of his, said, “If all that this man, referring to the Prophet (peace be upon him), is saying be true, then we are worse than donkeys.” Another tradition relates that when, during the expedition to Tabuk, one of the she-camels of the Prophet (peace be upon him) went astray and the Muslims were moving about in search of it, a party of the hypocrites made a good deal of fun of this, saying to one another, “Just consider the prophethood of this man. He tells news of heavens but cannot tell where his she-camel is.”

84 This is a reference to the plots which the hypocrites had made during the Tabuk expedition. On the return journey they conspired to push the Prophet (peace be upon him) down into some ravine, while he would be passing over some hill at night. The Prophet (peace be upon him) got wind of the plot and ordered that the army should take the longer route through the valley round the hills, while he himself along with Ammar bin Yasir and Huzaifah bin-Yaman would make the short route over the hill. While they were on the way, suddenly they discovered that a dozen of the hypocrites, with covered faces, were following them. At this Huzaifah (may Allah be pleased with him) turned towards them so that he may drive away their camels but they were terrified when they saw him coming towards them and took to flight lest they should be recognized.

The other plot was to declare Abdullah bin Ubayy as king at Al-Madinah as soon as they should hear some bad news about the Muslim army, because according to their expectations, the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his faithful companions could never fare well against the armies of the great Roman Empire.

85 This is an insinuation to put to shame by an indirect suggestion the hypocrites of Al-Madinah. This referred to the prosperity of Al-Madinah and its peoples, for Al-Madinah was a small town before the migration of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to it, and its two clans Aus and Khazraj did not hold any high position in regards to wealth or prestige. But within the short period of nine years or so, this small town became the capital of Arabia because of the residence of the Prophet (peace be upon him), and the sacrifices of the Ansar, the true Muslims. As a result of which, the former peasants Aus and Khazraj of Al-Madinah became the great ones of the Islamic state, and wealth began to flow into this central city on account of spoils of war and increased commercial activity. The hypocrites were rebuked in this verse that, instead of being grateful to the Prophet (peace be upon him), they showed anger and spite against him for no other reason than that he had brought forth prosperity among them.

75. And among them are those who made a covenant with Allah (saying): “If He should give us of His bounty, we will surely give charity, and we will surely be among the righteous.”

﴿ وَمِنْهُمْ مَّنْ عَاهَدَ اللَّهَ لَإِِنْ
ءَاتَيْنَا مِنْ فَضْلِهِ لَنَصَّدَّقَنَّ
وَلَنَكُونَنَّ مِنَ الصَّالِحِينَ ﴾

76. Then when He gave them from His bounty, they hoarded it and turned away, and they become evasive.*86

﴿ فَلَمَّا ءَاتَتْهُمْ مِّنْ فَضْلِهِ
بَخِلُوا بِهِ وَتَوَلَّوْا وَهُمْ مُّعْرِضُونَ ﴾

86 This is an instance of their ingratitude for which the hypocrites were rebuked in Ayat 74.

They broke their covenant with Allah which enjoined them to spend money in charity, if Allah enriched them by His bounty. This shows that they were confirmed criminals and they did not care in the least for the agreements they made, and were niggardly and had no moral code to observe.

77. So He punished them by (putting) hypocrisy into their hearts until the Day they shall meet Him, because they broke that (covenant) with Allah which they had promised Him and because they used to lie.

﴿ فَأَعْقَبَهُمْ نِفَاقًا فِي قُلُوبِهِمْ إِلَى

مِنْهُمْ سَخِرَ اللَّهُ مِنْهُمْ وَهُمْ
عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

87 This refers to the mean conduct which the hypocrites evinced on the occasion of the appeal of the Prophet (peace be upon him) for contributions towards the Tabuk expedition. The well-to-do hypocrites did not themselves make any contributions, but when the sincere Muslims came forward with generous contributions according to their means, they began to deride them. If a well-to-do Muslim made a handsome contribution, they would at once accuse him to be guilty of a showoff. On the other hand, if a poor Muslim contributed a paltry sum which he could hardly spare after sacrificing some of the barest necessities of his family, or contributing the small earnings obtained by hard work, they would at once ridicule, saying, “Lo! Here is the farthing that will help conquer the forts of the Roman Empire!”

80. Ask forgiveness for them (O Muhammad), or do not ask forgiveness for them. If you should ask forgiveness for them seventy times, Allah will never forgive them. That is because they disbelieved in Allah and His Messenger. And Allah does not guide disobedient people.

كَفَرُوا بِاللَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ وَمَاتُوا
وَهُمْ فَاسِقُونَ

88 This verse was sent down to prevent the Prophet (peace be upon him) from saying funeral prayers for Abdullah bin Ubayy, the ringleader of the hypocrites, who died a short while after the Tabuk expedition. His son Abdullah who was a sincere Muslim called on the Prophet (peace be upon him) and requested him to give his shirt for his father's shroud. The Prophet (peace be upon him) very generously granted his request. Then he begged the Prophet (peace be upon him) to lead his father's funeral prayer. The Prophet (peace be upon him) agreed to this also but Umar (may Allah be pleased with him) very respectfully requested him repeatedly not to do so, saying, "O Prophet of Allah! will you say funeral prayer for a person who was guilty of such and such crimes and sins."

The Prophet (peace be upon him), who was a blessing both for friends and for foes, got ready to say funeral prayer even for that man who was a deadly enemy of Islam. At last when he stood up to lead the funeral prayer, this verse was sent down to prevent him from this by a direct command from God, in accordance with the changed policy declared in Ayat 73 which forbade to do anything that might encourage the hypocrites among the Muslims.

The above incident led to the formulation of the regulation that the leaders and prominent people from among the Muslims should neither lead, nor offer the funeral prayers of the sinners against Islam, or for those notorious for their disobedience to Islam. After this, whenever a request was made to the Prophet (peace be upon him) for a funeral prayer, he would first inquire about the conduct of the deceased person. If he came to know that he was a bad person, he would say to his people, "You may perform his burial just as you like".

85. And let not amaze you their wealth and their children. Allah only intends that He punishes them thereby in the world, and ﴿٨٦﴾

87. They were content that they be with those who stay behind (at home). And seal was placed upon their hearts, so they do not understand.^{*89}

رَضُوا بِأَنْ يَكُونُوا مَعَ
الْخَوَالِفِ وَطُبِعَ عَلَى قُلُوبِهِمْ
فَهُمْ لَا يَفْقَهُونَ ﴿٨٧﴾

89 “They do not understand” for they deliberately and intentionally chose the shameful way of staying at home with women, when they were required to go forth for Jihad, though they were healthy, physically fit and well-to-do, and professed Islam. Therefore, according to the divine law of nature, a seal was set upon their hearts and they were bereft of those noble feelings which make one feel ashamed of adopting such a disgraceful conduct.

88. But the Messenger and those who believe with him strive with their wealth and their lives. And those, for them are the good things. And it is those who will be the successful.

لَيْكِنَ الرَّسُولُ وَالَّذِينَ آمَنُوا
مَعَهُ جَاهِدُوا بِأَمْوَالِهِمْ
وَأَنْفُسِهِمْ وَأَوْلِيَّكَ لَهُمْ
الْخَيْرَاتُ وَأَوْلِيَّكَ هُمْ
الْمُفْلِحُونَ

89. Allah has prepared for them gardens underneath which rivers flow, wherein they will abide. That is the great success.

أَعَدَّ اللَّهُ لَهُمْ جَنَّاتٍ تَجْرِي مِنْ
تَحْتِهَا الْأَنْهَارُ خَالِدِينَ فِيهَا
ذَلِكَ الْفَوْزُ الْعَظِيمُ

90. And those with excuses among the wandering Arabs (Bedouins)^{*90} came, that permission might be given to them (to exempt). And those who lied to Allah and His Messenger sat (at home). There will strike those who disbelieved^{*91} among them a painful punishment.

وَجَاءَ الْمُعَذِّرُونَ مِنَ
الْأَعْرَابِ لِيُؤْذَنَ لَهُمْ وَقَعَدَ
الَّذِينَ كَذَبُوا اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ
سَيُصِيبُ الَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا مِنْهُمْ
عَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ

90 Here the word Bedouins refers to those Arabs who lived in the desert near Al-Madinah.

91 The hypocritical profession of Islam has been called the way of unbelief, because that profession of faith which lacks practical proof, surrender, sincerity and obedience is in fact unbelief. As such persons prefer their own interests and worldly desires to Allah and His Way, they shall be dealt with by Allah as unbelievers and rebels, even if they could not be legally treated as such in this world but were considered Muslims due to their profession of faith. This is because in the life of this world, the Islamic law treats as unbelievers only such hypocrites as are guilty of open unbelief, rebellion, treachery, or infidelity. That is why there are many cases of hypocrisy that do not come under kufr in the Islamic shariah. However, this does not mean that if one escaped the penalty according to the Islamic code, one will escape punishment according to the divine judgment also.

91. Not upon the weak, nor upon the sick, nor upon those who do not find anything to spend, is any blame (that they stayed at home), when they are sincere to Allah and His Messenger.^{*92} There is not any ground (for blame) upon those who do right. And Allah is Oft Forgiving, Merciful.

لَيْسَ عَلَى الضُّعَفَاءِ وَلَا عَلَى
الْمَرْضَىٰ وَلَا عَلَى الَّذِينَ لَا
يَجِدُونَ مَا يُنْفِقُونَ حَرَجٌ
إِذَا نَصَحُوا لِلَّهِ وَرَسُولِهِ مَا
عَلَى الْمُحْسِنِينَ مِنْ سَبِيلٍ
وَاللَّهُ غَفُورٌ رَحِيمٌ

92 This implies that even those people who are otherwise excusable because of disability, sickness or indigence will be pardoned only if they are sincerely and truly faithful to Allah and His Messenger (peace be upon him). Without this fidelity, no one shall be pardoned merely because he was sick or indigent at the time when he was called upon to go forth for Jihad. For Allah does not judge merely by appearances, and treats alike, and forgives all those who present medical certificates of their disability because of sickness, old age or some other physical defect. On the Day of Judgment, He will examine minutely the heart of each and everyone, and take into account his whole conduct, open and hidden, and will consider whether his excuse was of a faithful servant or of a traitor and rebel. It is obvious that each and every case, in spite of apparent similarity, requires a separate and different judgment. For instance, let us take the case of two men who suddenly fell ill on the eve of Jihad. One of them thanked his lucky stars for the timely disease, as if to say, "How lucky it is that I have fallen ill on the opportune moment! Otherwise, this calamity of Jihad could not have been avoided and I would have had to suffer it anyhow." On the contrary, the other man was filled with sorrow at his illness, and he cried in anguish, "Ah, what a bad luck! I have been attacked by this sudden disease at the time when I ought to have been in the battlefield instead of lying down here in bed." One of them made his illness not only an excuse for exemption from Jihad but also tried to dissuade others from it. On the contrary, the other one, though lying in the bed, went on urging his own dear relatives, friends, and others to go forth to Jihad; nay, he entreated even those who were attending him, saying, “Leave me in the care of the real Master, and go forth to Jihad. I am sure that the arrangements for my nursing will be made somehow. Therefore, you should not waste your precious chance for my sake but go forth and serve the right way.” But the other, who stayed at home, spent all this time in spreading discontent and bad news and in damaging war efforts and in disrupting the affairs of the families of the fighters. The other man in similar circumstances did his very best to make the home front as strong as he could. Though these two men had similar excuses for exemption, they cannot be considered as equal in the sight of Allah: the second one only may expect Allah’s pardon, and not the first man who was a traitor and rebel against Allah, though he might have had a genuine excuse for exemption.

92. Nor (is the blame) upon those who, when they came to you (asking) that you should mount them, you said: “I can not find anything to mount you upon (for riding).” They turned back and their eyes overflowed with tears out of grief that they did not find the means to spend. ^{*93}

وَلَا عَلَى الَّذِينَ إِذَا مَا اتَّوَكَّ
لِتَحْمِلَهُمْ قُلْتَ لَا أُجِدُّ مَا
أَحْمِلُكُمْ عَلَيْهِ تَوَلَّوْا وَأَعْيُنُهُمْ
تَفِيضُ مِنَ الدَّمْعِ حَزَنًا أَلَّا
يَجِدُوا مَا يُنْفِقُونَ ﴿٩٢﴾

93 Such people as felt a strong urge for Jihad but could not join it because of some really genuine excuse, will be counted by Allah among those who actually took part in it, even though they could not join it in person and do anything practically for it. This is because they were sincerely grieved at their absence from Jihad for no fault of theirs, just as a man of the world would be grieved if he were deprived of some lucrative business or of some high profit. Allah considers such a one as on duty, because his heart was serving in the Way of Allah, though he had been deprived of active service on account of some genuine excuse. The Prophet (peace be upon him), while returning from Tabuk, stated the same thing like this: “There are some people at Al-Madinah (at this time) who have been traveling and marching all along with you through every valley. Naturally the companions to whom he was speaking were wonder struck at this. So they asked, “While staying at Al-Madinah?” He replied, “Yes, while staying at Al-Madinah! This is because they were compelled by the circumstances to stay behind at Al-Madinah: otherwise they would certainly have accompanied you.”

93. The ground (for blame) is only upon those who ask permission of you (for exemption to stay at home) while they are rich. They are content that they be with those who stay behind. And Allah has placed seal upon their hearts so they do not know.

﴿ إِنَّمَا السَّبِيلُ عَلَى الَّذِينَ

الْخَوَالِفِ وَطَبَعَ اللَّهُ عَلَى قُلُوبِهِمْ
فَهُمْ لَا يَعْلَمُونَ ﴾

94. They will make excuses to you when you return to them. Say: “Make no excuse, never shall we believe you. Allah has indeed informed us of your news. And Allah will observe your deeds, and His Messenger. Then you will be brought back to the Knower of the unseen and the seen. Then He will inform you of what you used to do.”

يَعْتَذِرُونَ إِلَيْكُمْ إِذَا رَجَعْتُمْ
إِلَيْهِمْ قُلْ لَا تَعْتَذِرُوا لَنَا

مِنْ أَخْبَارِكُمْ وَسَيَرَى اللَّهُ
عَمَلَكُمْ وَرَسُولُهُ ثُمَّ تُرَدُّونَ
إِلَىٰ عِلْمِ الْغَيْبِ وَالشَّهَادَةِ
فَيُنَبِّئُكُمْ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ تَعْمَلُونَ

95. They will swear by Allah to you when you return to them that you may turn away from them. So turn away from them.*94
Indeed, they are unclean, and their abode is Hell, a recompense for what they used to earn.

سَيَحْلِفُونَ بِاللَّهِ لَكُمْ إِذَا
أَنْقَلَبْتُمْ إِلَيْهِمْ لِتُعْرِضُوا عَنْهُمْ
فَاعْرِضُوا عَنْهُمْ إِنَّهُمْ رِجْسٌ
وَمَا أَوْلَاهُمْ جَهَنَّمَ جَزَاءُ بِمَا
كَانُوا يَكْسِبُونَ

*94 The Arabic words are of the same root but have different senses in the two sentences in which they occur. In the first sentence it means, “You may turn away from them” and forbear them and may not take them to task. In the second sentence it means, “So turn away from them” and break off all connections with them and have nothing to do with them, as if you had broken off completely with them, and they with you.

96. They (the hypocrites) swear to you that you may be pleased with them, but if you are pleased with them, certainly Allah is not pleased with the people who are disobedient.

تَحْلِفُونَ لَكُمْ لِتَرْضَوْا عَنْهُمْ
فَإِنْ تَرْضَوْا عَنْهُمْ فَإِنَّ اللَّهَ لَا
يَرْضَىٰ عَنِ الْقَوْمِ الْفَاسِقِينَ

97. The wandering Arabs (Bedouins) are stronger in disbelief and hypocrisy, and more likely not to know the limits which Allah has revealed to His Messenger.*95

And Allah is All Knower, All Wise.

الْأَعْرَابُ أَشَدُّ كُفْرًا وَنِفَاقًا
وَأَجْدَرُ أَلَّا يَعْلَمُوا حُدُودَ مَا
أَنْزَلَ اللَّهُ عَلَىٰ رَسُولِهِ ۗ وَاللَّهُ

عَلِيمٌ حَكِيمٌ

95 As has already been stated earlier the “Bedouins” here refers to those rustic Arabs of the desert who had settled in the suburbs of Al-Madinah.

The background which may help one to comprehend the meanings of the verse is this. Though these people had outwardly embraced Islam, they had not done so from conviction. When they saw the rising of the organized power of Islam in Al-Madinah, they were so overawed by it that they could not ignore it. So at first they adopted the attitude of the opportunists towards the conflict between Islam and kufr. But when the power of the Islamic government spread over the major portions of Hijaz and

Najd, and the power of its enemy clans began to decline, they thought it expedient to enter the fold of Islam. But there were very few among them who had sincerely accepted Islam from the conviction that it was the right way. That is why they did not make any sincere efforts to fulfill the implications of the true faith, and observe the obligatory duties imposed by Islam. On the contrary, the majority of them had accepted Islam just because it was the best policy for them. They merely desired to take advantages of being Muslims in order to gain those benefits to which they were entitled as members of the ruling party, without performing those duties which became obligatory on them by the very acceptance of Islam. Therefore they were utterly averse to saying the prescribed prayers, observing the fasting, paying the Zakat dues from their date palm gardens and their herds of cattle. Moreover, they smarted under the discipline of the Islamic state and resented being subdued by any power for the first time in history. Above all, it was against their very nature to make sacrifices of their lives and wealth in the Way of Allah, as was being demanded by Islam, for they were accustomed to fight only for plunder and spoils. That is why they always invented one excuse or the other for exemption from the restrictions and obligations that were being imposed on them. For, they had no interest in the truth or the welfare of humanity; their only concern was their camels and their goats, that is, the narrow world around their tents. As regards anything higher than these, the only thing which they could believe in was irrational reverence for those who would guarantee their worldly welfare and protect them from calamities and give them amulets to safeguard them against haram and evil, and say prayers for them as a recompense for their offerings to them. But they were not prepared to accept any faith or belief that would bring under its moral and legal discipline every aspect of their cultural, social and economic life, and demand from them the sacrifices of lives and wealth for the cause of a universal reform.

In this verse, the above mentioned mental and moral condition of the Bedouins has been described like this: "These Bedouins are more hypocritical than the urban Arabs and are more stubborn and obdurate in their denial of the truth. This is because the urban people make use of the opportunities of meeting the learned and pious people and thus learn the laws and regulations of the true way. On the other hand, in all probability, the Bedouins will learn little about the divine way, because they get few opportunities for this. Moreover, they lead lives of economic animals rather than of human beings having moral and spiritual values; therefore they do not think of higher things than their animal urges.

It should also be noted that the main cause of the subsequent storm of rebellion and apostasy during the caliphate of Abu Bakr (may Allah be pleased with him) two years after the revelation of these verses (97-99) was the same that has been mentioned therein.

98. And among the wandering Arabs are some وَمِنَ الْأَعْرَابِ مَن يَتَّخِذُ مَا who take that which they spend (for the cause of Allah) as a loss,^{*96} and they await for you (evil) turns of fortune. Upon them will be the misfortune of evil. And Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.

يُنْفِقُ مَغْرَمًا وَيَتَرْتَضُ بِكُمْ
الدَّوَابِرَ عَلَيْهِمْ دَائِرَةُ السَّوْءِ
وَاللَّهُ سَمِيعٌ عَلِيمٌ

96 This means that they regarded the payment of Zakat dues as a fine and the expenditure on hospitality, an Islamic duty, a penalty. Likewise, if they had to make any contributions towards Jihad, they did so to show that they were loyal to the Islamic state and not because they wanted to please Allah by giving sincere monetary help for His cause.

99. And among the wandering Arabs are some who believe in Allah and the Last Day, and take that which they spend as means of nearness to Allah, and (a cause of receiving) the Messenger's invocations. Behold, indeed it is a means of nearness for them. Allah will admit them to His mercy. Indeed, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

Muhajirin and the Ansar, and those who followed them in goodness, Allah is pleased with them and they are pleased with Him. And He has prepared for them gardens underneath which rivers flow, wherein they will abide forever. That is the great triumph.

101. And among those around you of the wandering Arabs are hypocrites, and among the people of AlMadinah. They persist in hypocrisy. You (O Muhammad) do not know them. We know them.^{*97} We shall punish them twice,^{*98} then they will be returned to a great punishment.

وَمِمَّنْ حَوْلَكُم مِّنَ الْأَعْرَابِ

نَحْنُ نَعْلَمُهُمْ سَنُعَذِّبُهُمْ مَّرَّتَيْنِ
ثُمَّ يُرَدُّونَ إِلَىٰ عَذَابٍ عَظِيمٍ

97 They had become so expert in the art of hiding their hypocrisy that even the Prophet (peace be upon him) could not recognize them, though he possessed immense sagacity and insight into human nature; so Allah informed him about them.

98 This double chastisement will be the loss of their worldly advantages and the victory of the Islamic mission in the teeth of their opposition. Thus one chastisement shall be the loss of their worldly benefits for which they practiced deceptions and adopted hypocritical attitudes, and instead of gaining wealth, honor and prestige they shall meet with disgrace and utter failure. The second chastisement will be in the shape of the victory of the Islamic mission to defeat which they exerted their utmost by their machinations and plots. But the Islamic mission will come out successful in the teeth of their evil wishes, desires, intentions and vicious efforts and they themselves shall witness its victory to their utter despair, regret, grief and sorrow.

102. And others who have acknowledged their sins. They had mixed a righteous deed and another that was evil. It may be that Allah will turn unto them in forgiveness. Indeed, Allah is Oft Forgiving, Most Merciful.

إِنَّ اللَّهَ غَفُورٌ رَّحِيمٌ

103. Take from their wealth a charity, (in order) to purify them and sanctify them with it, and pray for them. Indeed, your prayers are (a source of) security for them. And Allah is All Hearer, All Knower.

105. And say: “Do (as you will), for Allah will see your deeds, and His Messenger, and the believers.*⁹⁹ And you will be returned to the Knower of the unseen and the seen. Then He will inform you of what you used to do.”*¹⁰⁰

وَسَتُرَدُّونَ إِلَىٰ عِلْمِ الْغَيْبِ
وَالشَّهَادَةِ فَيُنَبِّئُكُمْ بِمَا كُنْتُمْ
تَعْمَلُونَ ﴿١٠٥﴾

99 In this passage a clear line of demarcation has been drawn between the hypocritical Muslims and the true Muslims, and instructions have been given regarding the treatment that should be meted out to the hypocrites. Therefore, the one who claims to be a Muslim but does not sincerely devote himself to Allah, His Way, and the Islamic community, should be severely dealt with. If there is a clear proof, from his conduct, that he lacks sincerity or if he offers anything in the Way of Allah, it should be rejected forthwith. And when he dies, the Muslims should neither join his funeral prayer nor beg God’s pardon for him, even though he be one's father or brother. In contrast to this, if a believer is guilty of some sin and confesses it, he should be pardoned, and his offerings should be accepted and prayers should be said for his forgiveness.

As regards the criterion by which it will be judged whether one is or is not a hypocrite, though one might have been guilty of an act of insincerity, three things have been implied in this passage:

(1) A sincere follower will openly and clearly confess his sin without offering any lame excuses and giving false explanations and interpretations of his offense.

(2) It will be judged from his previous conduct whether he was a habitual offender or he committed the sin on the spur of the moment because of some weakness. If he had been behaving like a righteous Muslim and if his record showed sincere services, sacrifices and good deeds to his credit, it will be reasonably concluded that he was not a hypocrite.

(3) His future conduct will be watched to see whether his confession was verbal or there had really been a change of heart. If he sincerely feels sorry for his sins and is anxious to compensate for them and his whole conduct shows that he intends to eradicate the root cause of the weakness in his faith that misled him into the sins, it will be concluded that he sincerely feels sorry for his sins and that he was not a hypocrite but a sinful believer.

The event that is connected with the occasion on which this passage was sent down, makes this subject quite clear. It is related by the scholars of traditions that these verses were revealed in regard to Abu Lubabah bin Abdul Manzar and his companions. Abu Lubabah (may Allah be pleased with him) was one of those people who had embraced Islam on the occasion of the oath of allegiance at Aqabah before the migration of the Prophet (peace be upon him) to Al-Madinah. He had taken part in the battles of Badr, Uhd and other campaigns. But on the occasion of the Tabuk expedition, he succumbed to some inner weakness and stayed at home without any genuine and lawful excuse. The same was the case of the other six companions, who were sincere Muslims. When the Prophet (peace be upon him) returned from Tabuk and they came to know that Allah and His Messenger had a very bad opinion of those who had stayed behind, they were filled with shame and regret. Therefore they tied themselves to a pillar even before they were called upon to explain their conduct. Then they declared, "We will neither eat anything nor sleep unless we are pardoned or die in the same condition." After some days they fell down in an unconscious condition because of hunger and sleeplessness. When at last they were informed that Allah and His Messenger had pardoned them, they went to see the Prophet (peace be upon him) and said: "We request that you accept from us as propitiatory offerings our houses and the whole of our possessions. As these were responsible for our sin of omission, we desire to give them away in the Way of Allah." But the Prophet (peace be upon him) replied, "There is no need to give the whole of your property for only one third of it will suffice."

A deep consideration of this event clearly brings out the kind of weaknesses that are pardonable. All of these people were not habitual offenders and defaulters. Their whole past conduct showed that they were sincere Muslims. None of them invented false explanations to excuse themselves but confessed their sins. By offering the whole of their properties as a propitiatory offerings, they proved that they were really sorry for their conduct and wanted to atone for their sins.

In this connection, another important lesson should also be learned from these verses. In order to atone for one's sins, one should give a practical proof along with the verbal confession and heartfelt regret. One way of this is to give charity in the Way of Allah for this helps to cleanse the filth which was being nourished in the heart and which was responsible for the sins. This not only eradicates the hidden evil but also increases the capacity for good works. For the confession of one's sin is like the feeling of one who has fallen into a pit. He at once realizes that he is in a critical situation in a pit, where he does not like to abide, and is troubled over it. Therefore he thinks out plans for getting out of it and makes practical efforts for this. Likewise the one who confesses his sins and feels ashamed of them and takes practical steps to atone for it by making offerings and doing other good works, intends to come out of the pit of sins.

100 “And you will be returned to the Knower,” Who is the ultimate judge of everything and from Whom nothing can be concealed. Therefore even if one succeeds in hiding one's hypocrisy in this world or is judged to be up to the standard in one's faith and sincerity, it does not mean in any way that such a one will succeed in escaping chastisement for hypocrisy in the Hereafter also.

106. And others who await Allah's decree, whether He will punish them or will forgive them. And Allah is All Knowing, All Wise. *101

وَأَخْرُوتَ مُرْجُونَ لِأَمْرِ اللَّهِ
إِمَّا يُعَذِّبُهُمْ وَإِمَّا يَتُوبُ عَلَيْهِمْ
وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ حَكِيمٌ

*101 The case of these people had been deferred because it could not yet be legally decided whether they were sinners or hypocrites, and not because their case was doubtful in the sight of Allah. This was because the symptoms of their diseases had not as yet come to the surface to indicate clearly which of the two they were. For Islam teaches the Muslims not to pass judgment on a person or a party unless they possess definite knowledge based on conscious reasoning and not on intuition and the like to support it.

107. And those who took (for themselves) a mosque for (causing) harm and disbelief, and (to create) division among the believers, and as a station for those who warred against Allah and His Messenger before. *102 And they will indeed swear: "We did not intend except good." And Allah bears witness

وَالَّذِينَ اتَّخَذُوا مَسْجِدًا
ضِرَارًا وَكُفْرًا وَتَفْرِيقًا بَيْنَ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ وَإِرْصَادًا لِّمَنْ
حَارَبَ اللَّهَ وَرَسُولَهُ مِنْ قَبْلُ
وَلِيَحْلِفْنَ إِنْ أَرَدْنَا إِلَّا الْحُسْنَ وَاللَّهُ يَشْهَدُ إِنَّهُمْ لَكَاذِبُونَ that they are certainly liars.

102 “Who warred against Allah and His Messenger” was Abu Amir who belonged to the clan of Aus of Al-Madinah. He had become Christian monk during the period of ignorance before the migration of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and was well known as a scholar of the Scriptures and was held in great reverence as a pious monk. But his scholarship and asceticism, instead of leading him to the truth, became hindrance in the way. That was why he not only rejected Islam but also became a bitter enemy of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his mission, for he took the Prophet (peace be upon him) for a rival in the holy business of priesthood. At first he ignored the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his mission in the hope that the power of the Quraish would suffice to crush him and his mission. But when the Quraish suffered an utter defeat in the battle of Badr, he could no longer ignore it, so he started a vigorous vicious campaign against the Islamic movement. Accordingly, he left Al-Madinah and visited different clans, in order to incite them against Islam, and was one of those who brought about the battle of Uhd. It is said that he had gotten some pits dug in the battle field of Uhd, and that the Prophet (peace be upon him) fell into one of these and received injuries. Then he played an important role in organizing the armies which came to invade Al-Madinah in the battle of Al-Ahzab. Likewise this Christian monk took a very active part in giving support to the mushriks against Islam in all the subsequent battles up to the battle of Hunain. At last, when he realized that no power in Arabia could withstand the onslaught of Islam, he left Arabia and went to the Roman Caesar in order to warn him of the rising danger from Al-Madinah. It was because of his efforts that the Caesar began to make preparations for invading Arabia, to counteract which the Prophet (peace be upon him) went forth on the expedition to Tabuk.

Now let us consider the background of the building of the mosque that was built to harm the righteous mission.

A section of the hypocrites of Al-Madinah collaborated wholeheartedly with Abu Amir in all the above mentioned hostile activities against Islam. They also fully agreed with him that he should use his spiritual influence to obtain military help from the Roman Caesar and the Christian states of northern Arabia. Accordingly, when he was preparing to go to the Roman Caesar to urge him to invade Arabia, they devised a plan of making a mosque of their own to serve as a safe meeting place for organizing themselves into a separate party because none would suspect that they were carrying on evil activities under the garb of religion. Moreover, this mosque would serve as an ambush for the agents of Abu Amir who could stay in it as travelers and mendicants without raising any suspicion that they were spies of the enemy.

As there were already two mosques in Al-Madinah, one at Quba and the other Masjid-i-Nabavi in the city. Obviously there was no need for a third one. The hypocrites themselves understood this: therefore they began to invent reasons to show that there was really a need for a third mosque. Accordingly, they went to the Prophet (peace be upon him) and said, “We need another mosque because it is very difficult for the people of this area, especially the old, the sick and the disabled, to offer the five prescribed prayers in either of the two mosques, during the winter season and the rainfall. Therefore we intend to build a new mosque only for the convenience of those who live at a distance from the two mosques but are desirous of saying their prayers in congregation.

With such professedly pure motives, these mischief makers built the mosque and then went to the Prophet (peace be upon him) with the request to stand in this new mosque and lead the congregation in one of the prescribed prayers so as to perform its opening ceremony. But the Prophet (peace be upon him) postponed the matter, saying, “At this time I am wholly engaged in making preparations for the expedition to Tabuk. I shall consider the matter on my return home.” After this he went forth to Tabuk, and they started their nefarious activities. They went on organizing themselves and conspiring against Islam in the mosque and decided to crown Abdullah bin Ubayy as their king, as soon as the Muslims would meet with reverses and be utterly crushed down by the Romans, as they had expected. But their expectations were all frustrated by what happened at Tabuk. Then on the revelation of these verses during the return journey at a place, Zi-Avan, near Al-Madinah, the Prophet (peace be upon him) dispatched some men to demolish the mosque before his entry into the city.

108. Do not stand (for prayer) therein, ever. The mosque whose foundation was laid on righteousness from the first day, is more worthy that you stand therein (to pray). In it are men who love to purify themselves.

And Allah loves those who purify themselves.

لَا تَقُمْ فِيهِ أَبَدًا لَمَْسْجِدٍ

رِجَالٌ يُحِبُّونَ أَنْ يَتَطَهَّرُوا
وَاللَّهُ يُحِبُّ الْمُطَهَّرِينَ

109. Is it then he who laid the foundation of his building on righteousness from Allah and His pleasure better, or he who laid the foundation of his building on the edge of a precipice^{*103} about to collapse, so it collapsed with him into the fire of Hell. And Allah does not guide the people who are the wrongdoers.^{*104}

أَفَمَنْ أُسِّسَ بُنْيَانَهُ عَلَى

103 In order to comprehend fully the implications of this simile, let us first consider the significance of the Arabic word Juruf. This applies to the brink of that piece of land which has been undermined by a river or a stream, leaving its surface without any support. In this meaningful simile the construction of the structure of life on the Godless foundations has been compared to that building which is built on the river brink, which has been undermined by its water. It is obvious that the ignorant man who builds a structure on the surface of such a piece of land, merely because it is a piece of land, will not only lose the building but will also lose his own life, for it will inevitably fall down into the river along with him because it has nothing to support it. Likewise, the one who lays the foundation of the structure of the system of his life on the surface of worldly things, without any regard to God's fear or His favor which are the only permanent supports of human life, is like the man who builds his structure on the surface undermined by the river. For such a man, he himself undermines the structure of his life by his wrong deeds which inevitably follow if there is no bedrock of God's fear and His favor. Therefore the surface on which he had built his life would one day inevitably tumble down into the abyss of Hell along with the earnings of his whole life.

104 "Guide", that leads to man's real success.

110. Their building which they built will not cease to be a doubt in their hearts until that their hearts are torn to pieces.^{*105} And Allah is All Knowing, All Wise.

لَا يَزَالُ بُنِيْنُهُمُ الَّذِي بَنَوْا رِيبَةً فِي قُلُوبِهِمْ إِلَّا أَنْ تَقَطَّعَ قُلُوبُهُمْ ۗ وَاللَّهُ عَلِيمٌ حَكِيمٌ

105 That is, these hypocrites have deprived their hearts of the capability of receiving and accepting faith by the commission of the most heinous sin of building a mosque to do harm to that very Islam for the propagation of which mosques are built. This crime has set the desire of disbelief so deep in their hearts that it will remain there as long as they are alive and will leave them only at the time of death when their hearts will cease to beat in their breasts. Obviously, the case of such people is quite different from that of those unbelievers, who openly build idol-temples or openly make preparations for war against God. For it is possible that such a one may get guidance just because he is honest, sincere and bold. Moreover, his open antagonism shows that he has the courage of his convictions and may, therefore, accept Islam, when he would be convinced of its truth. But there is no hope for that cowardly lying and cunning man who builds a mosque for the service of kufr and puts on the garb of God's worship for fighting against Allah's Way. This is because a conduct like this kills all the noble sentiments within him and renders him utterly incapable of understanding and accepting Islam.

111. Indeed, Allah has purchased from the believers their lives and their wealth (in exchange) for that theirs shall be the Paradise.^{*106} They fight in the Way of Allah, so they kill and are killed. A true promise (binding) upon Him in the Torah and the Gospel and the Quran.^{*107} And who fulfills His covenant more than Allah. So rejoice in your bargain that which you have contracted. And it is that which is the great success.

﴿ إِنَّ اللَّهَ اشْتَرَىٰ مِنَ الْمُؤْمِنِينَ أَنفُسَهُمْ وَأَمْوَالَهُمْ بِأَنَّ لَهُمُ الْجَنَّةَ يُقَاتِلُونَ فِي سَبِيلِ اللَّهِ فَيَقْتُلُونَ وَيُقْتَلُونَ وَعَدَّا عَلَيْهِ حَقًّا فِي التَّوْرَةِ وَالْإِنْجِيلِ ﴾

وَالْقُرْآنِ وَمَنْ أَوْفَىٰ بِعَهْدِهِ

الَّذِي بَايَعْتُمْ بِهِ ۚ وَذَٰلِكَ هُوَ
الْفَوْزُ الْعَظِيمُ

106 In this verse that aspect of the Islamic faith which determines the nature of the relationship between Allah and His servants has been called a transaction. This means that faith is not merely a metaphysical conception but is, in fact, a contract by which the servant sells his life and possessions to Allah and in return for this accepts His promise that He would give him the Garden in the life after death. In order to comprehend the full implications of this transaction, let us first understand its nature.

We should note it well at the outset that, in reality, this transaction is not in regard to the actual selling of the life and possessions of the servant to Allah in the literal sense, for Allah is in fact the real Owner of man's life and possessions. Allah alone has the right of ownership because He is the Creator of man and of everything he possesses and uses. Therefore there is no question at all of selling and buying in the worldly sense; for man possesses nothing of his own to sell, and Allah has no need to buy anything because everything already belongs to Him. However, there is one thing which has entirely been entrusted to man by Allah, that is, the freedom of will and the freedom of choice, and the transaction concerns that thing.

Of course, it is true that this freedom does not make any change in the real position of man with regard to the right of ownership to his own life and his possessions. They belong to Allah Who has delegated to him only the authority to use or abuse these things as he wills, without any coercion or compulsion from Him. This means that man has been given the freedom to acknowledge or not to acknowledge that Allah is the owner of his life and property. The transaction mentioned in Ayat 111 is concerning the voluntary surrender of this freedom to Allah's will. In other words, Allah wills to test man whether he acknowledges the ownership of Allah over his life and property, in spite of that freedom, and considers himself to be their trustee only, or behaves as if he were their owner and so could do whatever he liked with them.

Thus, the terms of this transaction from Allah's side are these: "If you voluntarily, and not by compulsion or coercion, agree to acknowledge that your life, your property and everything in this world, which in fact belong to me, are mine: And if you consider yourself only as their trustees; And if you voluntarily surrender the freedom I have given you to behave; And if you, in a dishonest way do not intend to become their master and owner; Then, I will give you in return, Gardens in the eternal life of the next world". The one who makes this bargain with Allah is a believer, for faith is in fact the other name for making this bargain. On the other hand, the one who refuses to make this bargain, or after making it adopts the attitude of the one who has not made the bargain, is a kafir. For, technically, kufr is the term applied to the refusal to make this bargain.

The following are the implications of making this transaction:

(1) Allah has put man to two very hard tests in this matter. The first is whether he acknowledges the real Owner as owner, in spite of the freedom of choice given to him. Or he refuses this and becomes ungrateful, treacherous and rebellious. The second test is whether he puts his trust in his God or not. And he surrenders his freedom and sacrifices his desires and wishes in this present world in return for His promise of the Gardens and eternal bliss in the next world. Even though the world were to proclaim, "A bird in hand is worth two in the bush".

(2) This matter helps to draw a clear line of demarcation between the legal conception of the Islamic faith and the higher and spiritual one according to which Allah will judge one in the Hereafter.

According to its legal conception, the mere verbal profession of the articles of the faith is a sufficient proof that one is legally a Muslim and after this no jurist is authorized to declare such a one to be a disbeliever or to expel one from the fold of the Islamic community, unless there is a definite and clear proof that the one made a false profession of the faith. But this is not so with Allah. Allah considers the faith of only that person to be true, who makes this bargain with Him and sells his freedom of thought and action to Him and gives up his entire claim to ownership in His favor. That is why a man might profess the articles of the faith and observe the prescribed obligatory duties, but if he considered himself alone to be the master and owner of his body and soul, his heart and brain and his other faculties, his property and his resources and other things in his possession, and reserved to himself the right of expending them as he willed, he shall be regarded a disbeliever in the sight of Allah, even though he should be regarded a believer in the sight of the world. This is because such a man has not made that bargain with God which is the essence of the faith according to the Quran. The very fact that a man does not expend his life and property in the way Allah approves of, or expends these in the way He disapproves, shows that the one who claimed to profess the faith either did not sell these to Allah, or after having made the transaction still regarded himself to be their master and owner.

(3) The above conception of the Islamic faith draws a clear line of demarcation between the attitude of a Muslim and that of a disbeliever towards life. The Muslim, who sincerely believes in Allah, surrenders himself completely to Allah's will, and does nothing whatsoever which may show that he is independent in his attitude, except when he temporarily forgets the terms of the bargain he has made with Him. Likewise no community of the Muslims can collectively adopt an independent attitude in political, cultural, economic, social and international matters and still remain Muslim. And if sometimes it temporarily forgets its subordinate position and its voluntary surrender of its freedom, it will give up the attitude of independence and readopt the attitude of surrender, as soon as it becomes aware of its error. In contrast to this, if one adopts the attitude of independence towards Allah and makes decisions about all the affairs of life in accordance with ones own wishes, whims and caprices, one shall be regarded to have adopted the attitude of disbelief, even though one was a Muslim or a non-Muslim.

(4) It should also be noted well that the will of God to which a man is required to surrender himself is that which is specified by Allah himself and not the one which the man himself declares to be the will of God. For in the latter case one does not follow God's will but one's own will, which is utterly against the terms of the transaction. Only that person (or community) who adopts the attitude that conforms to the teachings of His Book and His Messenger, shall be deemed to have fulfilled the terms of the transaction.

From the above implications of this transaction, it also becomes clear why the fulfillment of the terms by Allah has been deferred to the next world after the termination of the life of this world. It is obvious that the Garden is not the return for the mere profession that the buyer has sold his life and property to Allah but it is the actual surrender of these things in the worldly life and their disposal by him as a trustee of Allah according to His will. Thus, this transaction will be completed only when the life of the buyer comes to an end in this world and it is proved that after making the bargain, he went on fulfilling the terms of the agreement up to his last breath. For then and there alone, he will be entitled to the recompense in accordance with the terms of the transaction.

It will also be worthwhile to understand the context in which this matter has been placed here. In the preceding passage, there was the mention of those people who failed in the test of their faith and did not make the sacrifice of their time, money, life and interests for the sake of Allah and His Way, in spite of their professions, because of their negligence or lack of sincerity or absolute hypocrisy. Therefore after criticizing the attitudes of different persons and sections, they have been told in clear words the implications of the faith they had accepted: "This is not the mere verbal profession that there is God and He is One, but the acceptance of the fact that He is the Owner and the Master of your lives and possessions. Therefore, if you are not ready and willing to sacrifice these in obedience to the command of Allah, but expend these and your energies and resources against the will of Allah, it is a clear proof that you were false in your profession of the faith. For, the true believers are those who have truly sold their persons and possessions to Allah, and consider Him to be their Owner and Master, and expend their energies and possessions without any reservations, where He commands them to expend, and do not expend the least of these where He forbids them to expend.

107 Some critics say that the statement of promise in the Torah and the Gospel is not confirmed by these Books. Their objection in regard to the Gospel is obviously wrong for even in the existing Gospels there are sayings of Prophet Jesus (peace be upon him) that confirm this verse. For instance:

“Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness’ sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.” (MAT. 5: 10).

“He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.” (MAT. 10: 39).

“And every one that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name’s sake, shall receive an hundredfold and shall inherit everlasting life.” (MAT. 19: 29).

It is, however, true that the matter of this transaction is not confirmed in its entirety by the existing Torah. For instance, there is a mention of the first part of the bargain at several places in one forth or the other:

“Is not He thy father that hath bought thee? hath He not made thee, and established thee?” (DEUT. 32: 6).

"Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." (DEUT. 6: 4-5).

But as regards the other part of the bargain, that is, the promise of the Gardens, they applied it to the land of Palestine:

“Hear therefore, O Israel, and observe to do it; that it may be well with thee, and that ye may increase mightily, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promised thee, in the land that floweth with milk and honey.” (DEUT. 6: 3).

This is because the Torah does not give any conception of the life-after-death, the Day of Judgment, rewards and punishments in the Hereafter, though this creed has always been an inseparable part of the right way. This does not, however, mean that the Torah did not originally contain this creed. The fact is that the Jews had become so materialistic during the period of their degeneration that they had no other idea of a reward from God than the well-being and prosperity in this world. Therefore they perverted all the promises made by God in return for man's service and obedience to Him and applied those to the land of Palestine.

In this connection, it should also be noted that the above-mentioned changes became possible because the original Torah had been tampered with in several ways. Some portions were taken away from it and others were added to it. Thus, the Torah in the existing form is not purely the word of God but also contains the comments, etc. of the Jewish scholars mixed up with it. So much so that at some places it becomes difficult to distinguish the word of God from the Jewish traditions, their racial prejudices, their superstitions, their ambitions and, wishes, their legal interpretations, etc. all of which have gotten mixed with the word of God. (See E.N. 2 of Aal-Imran).

112. Those who turn repentant (to Allah),^{*108} those who worship (Him), those who praise (Him),^{*109} those who fast, those who bow down, those who fall prostrate (in prayer), those التَّائِبُونَ

الْحَامِدُونَ
السَّائِحُونَ
الرَّاكِعُونَ
الْعَابِدُونَ

who enjoin the right and who forbid from the wrong and those who observe the limits (ordained) of Allah.*110 And give good tidings to believers.

الْأَمْرُونَ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ
وَالنَّاهُونَ عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ وَالْحَافِظُونَ لِحُدُودِ اللَّهِ وَبَشِّرِ
الْمُؤْمِنِينَ

*108 The Arabic word atta-i-bun literally means “those who repent”. But in the context it occurs it implies “those who possess repentance as their permanent characteristic”, that is, they repent over and over again. Moreover, the literal meaning of taubah is “to turn to” or “to turn back”. Therefore its explanatory translation will be “those who turn back to Allah over and over again”. This is the first and foremost characteristic of a true believer because even a true believer is liable to forget the bargain he makes with Allah by which he sells his life and property to Him. As this matter does not concern his sense organs but pertains to his mind and heart, he is liable to forget that these things are not really his property but they belong to Allah. Therefore, even the true believer occasionally forgets the bargain, and behaves in a way as if he were their owner. But as soon as he becomes conscious of this transitory lapse and realizes that he had violated the terms of his agreement, he feels sorry and ashamed of his conduct and turns to his God, begs His pardon and renews the terms of the bargain with Him, and pledges his allegiance to Him after every slip of its violation. This kind of repentance alone is the guarantee that one will always come back to one's faith: otherwise it is not possible for man because of the inherent human weaknesses, to observe strictly and deliberately the terms of the bargain without ever falling a prey to negligence and error. That is why Allah says in praise of the true believer that "he turns back to Allah over and over again" and not that "he never slips into error after making the bargain of obedience and service to Him". And this is the greatest excellence that man can accomplish. Let us now consider the wisdom of placing this characteristics first in the list of the characteristics of the true believers. It is to admonish those who had been guilty of crimes after the profession of their faith. They have been told in Ayat 3 that the true believers are those who sell their lives and property to Allah. After this they are being told that if they sincerely intend to become true believers they should first of all create in themselves this characteristic and at once turn to Allah without showing any obduracy so that they should not deviate further into error.

109 Some commentators are of the opinion that here Assa-i-hun means "those who observe fast". As this is not the lexical meaning of the word but only its figurative sense, which has been based on an unauthentic tradition attributed to the Prophet (peace be upon him). We are of the opinion that there is no need to depart from its lexical meanings, that is, "move about in the land (for His sake)". For here the Arabic word does not mean merely to "move about in the land" but "move about in the land for the sake of noble and high aims, e.g. to propagate Islam, to do Jihad, to emigrate from those places where the unbelievers are in power, and to reform the people, to seek true knowledge, to earn a lawful livelihood and the like”. This characteristic of the believers has been especially mentioned here to reprove those who had not gone forth to Jihad, in spite of their claim that they were believers. They have been admonished that a true believer is the one who goes forth into the land to raise high His word, and exerts his utmost to fulfill the implications of his faith, and not the one who stays behind when he is called upon to move about in the land.

110 That is those who “strictly observe the limits prescribed by Allah” in regard to the articles of the faith, worship-morality, social behavior, culture, economics, politics, judiciary, peace and war, and in all the aspects of their individual and collective lives. They neither transgress these limits in order to follow their lusts nor invent laws, nor replace the divine law by other laws. They establish these limits and prevent their violations. Hence, the true believers are those who not only strictly observe the limits prescribed by Allah, but also do their very best to establish them and safeguard them so as to prevent their violation to the best of their powers and capabilities.

113. It is not for the Prophet, and those who believe, that they ask for the forgiveness for the idolaters even though they may be near of kin, after it has become clear to them

مَا كَانَتْ لِلنَّبِيِّ وَالَّذِينَ
ءَامَنُوا أَنْ يَسْتَغْفِرُوا
لِلْمُشْرِكِينَ وَلَوْ كَانُوا أَوْلَىٰ
قُرْبَىٰ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا تَبَيَّنَ لَهُمْ that they are companions of Hellfire.*111

أَنْتُمْ أَصْحَابُ الْجَحِيمِ

*111 “That they ask for the forgiveness for the idolaters.” implies two things. First, we love them and sympathize with them. Secondly, we consider their crime to be pardonable. There is no harm to cherish these things for the one who is loyal, though a sinner, but it is absolutely wrong in principle to love and sympathize with a person who is an open rebel and to consider his case as pardonable as it renders our own loyalty doubtful. Besides, it adds to the intensity of the crime, if we pray for the forgiveness of a mushrik, who is our near relative. For it means that we consider our relationships to be more valuable than the fulfillment of the implications of our loyalty to Allah and that our love with Allah. And His Way is not wholly unalloyed and that we desire that Allah should also be influenced by the love we have with His rebels and pardon our criminal kinsmen, even though He should throw the other criminals into the fire of Hell. Obviously, all such things are wrong and are against loyalty and sincerity and the faith demands that our love with Allah and His Way should be absolutely unalloyed and that His friend should be our friend and His enemy our enemy. That is why Allah has not said, “Do not pray for the forgiveness of the mushriks.” But has instead warned, “It is not for the Prophet (peace be upon him), and those who believe, that they ask for the forgiveness for the idolaters”, which implies this: “The right thing for you is that you yourselves should regard it as improper to show sympathy with our rebels and consider their crime as pardonable: nay, you should not wait for any command from Us about this.” In this connection, it should also be noted well that it is forbidden to show sympathy with the mushriks only in matters of faith. As regards the human relationships that demand the observance of the rights of one’s own relatives, of showing love, sympathy and kindness, and cherishing fellow-feelings with them is not forbidden at all but it is considered to be a virtue. We must fulfill the worldly rights of a relative whether he be a believer or a disbeliever: we should help him in affliction and give support to the needy ones and the orphans and show all possible sympathy with a sick or wounded person, irrespective of whether he is a Muslim or a non-Muslim.

114. And the prayer of Abraham for the forgiveness of his father was not except because of a promise, he had promised it to him,^{*112} but when it had become clear to him that he (father) was an enemy to Allah, he (Abraham) disowned him. Indeed, Abraham was soft of heart, forbearing.^{*113}

وَمَا كَانَ اسْتِغْفَارُ إِبْرَاهِيمَ
لِأَبِيهِ إِلَّا عَنْ مَوْعِدَةٍ وَعَدَهَا
إِيَّاهُ فَلَمَّا تَبَيَّنَ لَهُ أَنَّهُ عَدُوٌّ لِلَّهِ
تَبَرَّأَ مِنْهُ ج إِنَّ إِبْرَاهِيمَ لَأَوَّاهٌ
حَلِيمٌ

112 The reference is to what Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) said when he broke off all connections with his father:

(1) “Peace be upon you. I will pray to my Lord to forgive you: for He is very kind to me”. (Surah Maryam, Ayat 47).

(2) “And forgive my father: indeed he is of those who have gone astray. And disgrace me not on the Day, when mankind shall be brought back to life; when neither riches nor children shall avail anyone, and none shall obtain salvation except the one who comes before his Lord with a sound and pure heart”. (Ash-Shuara Ayats 86-89).

(3) “I will pray for your forgiveness, but I have no power to rescue you from Allah”. (Al-Mumtahina Ayat 4).

In the first place it should be noted that even the wording and the tone of the prayer for his father were very guarded, but when Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) realized that the person for whom he was praying was an open rebel against Allah and a bitter enemy of His Way, he refrained himself from saying even such a guarded prayer for him and declared in clear words that he would have nothing to do with him in future, even though the rebel was his father who had brought him up with love and care.

113 The words awwah and haleem which the Quran uses for Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) are very comprehensive in meaning. Awwah is the one who is lamenting, humble, weeping, grief-stricken and God fearing. And haleem is the one who can keep control over himself under all circumstances, and is neither beside himself in anger and enmity nor transgresses the proper limits in his affections, friendships, and relationships. Here both the words have been used in their comprehensive senses. Prophet Abraham (peace be upon him) prayed for his father because he was tender-hearted and lamented for him that he would become the fuel for the fire of Hell. As he had full control over himself, and was very forbearing, he prayed even for that father who had persecuted him cruelly in order to hinder him from the way of Islam. Lastly, he was God fearing and did not want to go beyond the limits in his love for his father; so he broke off all his relations with his father when he realized that he was an enemy of Allah.

115. And Allah would not let a people astray after when He has guided them until He has made clear to them what they should avoid.^{*114} Indeed, Allah is the All Knower of every thing.

وَمَا كَانَ اللَّهُ لِيُضِلَّ قَوْمًا
بَعْدَ إِذْ هَدَاهُمْ حَتَّىٰ يُبَيِّنَ
لَهُمْ مَا يَتَّقُونَ ۚ إِنَّ اللَّهَ بِكُلِّ
شَيْءٍ عَلِيمٌ

114 “He has made clear to them” beforehand that they should avoid such and such thoughts, deeds, and ways. But if they take no heed, and persist in wrong thinking and wrongdoing, Allah withholds His guidance from them and lets them follow the wrong way they themselves choose to follow.

This is the general formula that helps understand those passages of the Quran in which Allah ascribes to Himself the guidance and the deviation of the people. Allah’s guidance is that He makes plain to them the right way through His Prophets and Books. Then He enables those who have the intention, to follow the right way. On the other hand, He does not force and compel them to follow the right way, if they themselves intend to persist in the wrong ways in spite of the fact that the right way has been made quite clear to them; He rather enables them to follow the way they themselves intend to follow.

As regards the context in which this occurs here, it is plain that it is meant to warn those people who have been mentioned in the preceding passage, and to introduce those who are going to be mentioned in the succeeding passage.

116. Indeed, to Allah belongs the sovereignty of the heavens and the earth. He gives life and He causes death. And you do not have, other than Allah, any protecting friend, nor a helper.

إِنَّ اللَّهَ لَهُ مُلْكُ السَّمَوَاتِ
وَالْأَرْضِ طَيِّحِي وَيُمِيتُ وَمَا
لَكُمْ مِنْ دُونِ اللَّهِ مِنْ وَلِيٍّ
وَلَا نَصِيرٍ

117. Allah has indeed turned with forgiveness to the Prophet, and the Muhajirin, and the Ansar, those who followed him in the hour of hardship.^{*115} After the hearts of a party of them had almost deviated (from the right path),^{*116} then He forgave them.^{*117} Indeed, He was to them Kind, Most Merciful.

لَقَدْ تَابَ اللَّهُ عَلَى النَّبِيِّ
وَالْمُهَاجِرِينَ وَالْأَنْصَارِ
الَّذِينَ اتَّبَعُوهُ فِي سَاعَةِ
الْعُسْرَةِ مِنْ بَعْدِ مَا كَادَ يَزِيغُ
قُلُوبَ فَرِيقٍ مِّنْهُمْ ثُمَّ تَابَ
عَلَيْهِمْ إِنَّهُ رءُوفٌ رَّحِيمٌ

115 Allah forgave the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his companions for those inadvertent lapses that had been made in connection with the Tabuk expedition, in view of their excellent services. The inadvertent lapse made by the Prophet (peace be upon him) was that he had given leave to stay behind to those people who were able to take part in the Jihad. (Ayat 43).

116 This refers to those sincere companions who were at first somewhat unwilling to go to war on that critical occasion, but at last overcame their weakness, for they had true faith in their hearts and loved the right way.

117 That is, Allah will not take them to account for their wrong inclinations for He does not punish a man for that weakness which he himself has overcome and corrected.

118. And upon the three, those who were left behind,^{*118} until when the earth, in spite of its vastness, was straitened for them, and their own souls were straitened for them, and they perceived that there is no refuge from Allah but towards Him. Then He turned to them, that they might repent. Indeed, Allah is He who accepts repentance, Most Merciful.^{*119}

118 These three were among those who came to the Prophet (peace be upon him) to present their excuses for staying behind. More than eighty of them were hypocrites, who put forward lame excuses and the Prophet (peace be upon him) accepted these and let them go. Then came the turn of these three, who were true believers, and they confessed their fault plainly. Therefore the Prophet (peace be upon him) postponed the decision of their case and ordered the Muslims not to have any social relations with them till the decision of their case came from Allah. This verse was sent down to decide their case.

In this connection it should be kept in mind that the case of these three was different from the case of the seven mentioned in E.N. 99. They had inflicted the punishment on themselves before they were called to account for their fault.

119 The three whose condition has been described in this verse, were Kaab bin Malik, Hilal bin Umayyah and Murarah bin Rubai. They were sincere believers, as has been stated above, and had made many sacrifices and given proofs of their sincerity before this. The last two had taken part in the battle of Badr also, and therefore their faith was above every kind of suspicion. Though Kaab had not taken part in the battle of Badr, he had accompanied the Prophet (peace be upon him) in every other expedition. But in spite of all these services, they were severely punished for the negligence they had shown on the critical occasion of the Tabuk expedition, when all the able-bodied Muslims were commanded to go forth to Jihad.

When the Prophet (peace be upon him) came back from Tabuk, he ordered the Muslims to break away completely from them; so much so that they should not even respond to their greetings. After forty days of this boycott their wives also were ordered to have nothing to do with them. In short, they were reduced at Al-Madinah to the same sad plight which has been described in this verse. At last, after a boycott of fifty days, this verse was sent down to announce their forgiveness.

The story of the above-mentioned boycott has been described in detail by Kaab bin Malik, who was one of the three. When he became old and blind, he himself told his story to his son, Abdullah, who used to accompany him everywhere. As this story is an excellent lesson for all, it is given below in Kaab's own words:

“When the Prophet (peace be upon him) urged upon the people to get ready for Jihad, I made up my mind to make preparations for this. But when I went home, I became negligent, saying to myself, “There is no hurry. When the time comes I will readily make preparations and start forthwith”. In this way I went on putting off my preparations till the time came when the army was going to start on the expedition. As I had made no preparations for the journey, I said to myself, “It does not matter. I will be able to join the army in a couple of days during the journey”. But again the same negligence prevented me from putting my intention into practice. At last no occasion was left for me to join the army. To add to my misery my conscience pricked me over and over again that the people with whom I had stayed behind in Al-Madinah were either the hypocrites or those Muslims who were old or otherwise unfit for Jihad.

When the Prophet (peace be upon him) came back from Tabuk, he, as usual, said two rakats of prayer in the mosque. Then he sat there to meet the people. At first, the hypocrites, whose number was a little more than eighty, came to him and offered lame excuses on solemn oaths. The Prophet (peace be upon him) listened to the false story of each of them and accepted their apparent excuses and left the decision about their hearts to Allah, saying, “May Allah forgive you”. Then it was my turn to put forward my excuse. I went forward and uttered my salutations. He smiled and said, “Well, what kept you behind?” I hesitated for a moment. By God, I would have invented one excuse or the other to satisfy any man of the world, for I am well versed in the art of conversation. But here was the Prophet (peace be upon him) who was demanding an explanation from me. I believed that even if I succeeded in satisfying him by making a false excuse, Allah will inform him of the truth of the case and I shall again incur his displeasure. On the other hand, if I told the truth, I expected that Allah would forgive me, even though I were to incur his displeasure for the time being. So I replied, “I have no excuse for staying behind. I was in every way able to go forth (to Tabuk)”. At this the Prophet (peace be upon him) remarked, “This is the man who has told the truth”. Then turning to me, he said, “Go and wait till Allah decides your case”.

I rose from there and took my seat among the people of my own clan. They at once began to tease and reprove me because I had made no excuse. At this, I was tempted to go and make some false excuse. But when I came to know that there were also two good people (Murarah bin Rubai and Hilal bin Umayyah), who had told the same thing that I had, I felt satisfied and stuck to the truth.

After this the Prophet (peace be upon him) issued a general order that no one should have any kind of talk with us. The other two confined themselves to their houses but I used to go out of my house and say my prayers in congregation and walk through the bazaars. As nobody spoke to me, it appeared to me that I was a foreigner in some strange city where I had no acquaintances. When I attended the mosque, I would utter the usual salutations and wait in vain for a response from the Prophet (peace be upon him). I would turn stealthy looks at him to read his thoughts in regard to me, but he would turn his eyes away from me, though he had been looking at me while I was engaged in prayer. As this condition became intolerable for me, one day I went to see Abu Qatadah who was a cousin of mine and a friend from childhood. I climbed over the wall of his garden and uttered my salutations, but even he did not make any response to it. Then I said, "O Abu Qatadah! I ask you to tell me on oath whether I love or do not love Allah and His Messenger". But he remained silent. Again I repeated the question but he kept silent. I asked him on oath to answer my question. Then he merely replied, "Allah and His Messenger know best". At this my eyes were filled with tears, and I came back.

Another incident happened during those days. Once I was passing through the bazaar, when a Syrian came to me and gave me a letter wrapped in silk. This was from the king of Ghassan and read like this: We have come to know that your leader is persecuting you these days. As you are not an ignoble person, we will not leave you to rot there. Therefore come to us and we will honor you (as you deserve). I said to myself, "Here is another hard trial for me". Then I threw the letter into the burning oven.

The boycott continued for forty days, when a man brought this message from the Prophet (peace be upon him) that I should separate from my wife. I asked whether I should divorce her but was told that I should only separate from her. Accordingly I said to my wife, "Go to your parental home and wait till a decision comes from Allah."

On the fiftieth day, when after the morning prayers, I was sitting in a state of utter despair on the top of my house, all of a sudden someone cried aloud, "O Kaab bin Malik! please accept my congratulations." Hearing this, I fell prostrate to the ground before Allah, for I understood that the command of my forgiveness had come. After this, people began to pour in, each trying to forestall the other in congratulating me on the acceptance of my repentance. I rose and went directly to the Mosque. I noticed that the face of the Prophet (peace be upon him) was glowing with happiness and in response to my salutations, he said, "I congratulate you on this: it is the best day of your life." I said, "Is this forgiveness from you or from Allah?" He replied, "It is from Allah." Then he recited these verses (117-118). I asked, “O Messenger of Allah! Does my repentance require that I should give the whole of my property in charity?” He replied, “Keep a part of it, for it will be better for you.” Accordingly, I kept my property at Khaibar for myself and gave all the rest in charity. Then I solemnly pledged that I would stick to the truth throughout rest of my life, for Allah had forgiven me in return for the truth I had told. That is why I have never uttered a word against reality intentionally up to this time and hope and expect that Allah will protect me from lies in future as well. This story contains many lessons, and every believer should impress these on his mind and heart.

The first and foremost lesson we learn from this story is that the matter of the conflict between Islam and kufr is so important and delicate that we should take the greatest possible care to be on our guard in regard to this. Not to mention the case of one who takes active part on the side of kufr, if a Muslim shows the least negligence even inadvertently in taking part on the side of Islam once in his life; and that, too, not with any evil intention, he is liable to lose all the lifelong services and devotions rendered by him in the cause of Islam. That was why such a severe action was taken even against those worthy people who had done great deeds of valor in the battles of Badr, Uhd, Ahzab and Hunain, and whose sincerity and faith were absolutely above suspicion.

The second thing, which is as important as the first, is that one should never consider lightly any negligence in the performance of a duty, for this often misleads one to commit an offense that is counted among heinous sins. The fact that one did not commit the offense with any evil intention cannot save one from punishment.

Lastly, this story presents the true spirit of the society that had been evolved out under the leadership of the Prophet (peace be upon him). On the one side, there were the hypocrites whose treacherous deeds were quite well known to all. They offered lame excuses which were accepted without demur for nothing better could be expected from them. On the other side, let us take the case of Kaab bin Malik, who was a tried believer, and whose sacrifices were above every kind of suspicion. He did not invent any false story to justify himself but confessed his fault quite plainly and clearly. But in contrast to the hypocrites, a severe chastisement was inflicted on him, not because there was any suspicion about his faith but because a sincere believer like him had behaved in a way in which only a hypocrite could behave. Thus the chastisement was meant to remind them: "You are the salt of the earth. But if you, too, become tasteless, from where will then salt be obtained?"

There is another noteworthy side of the matter. The part played by the leader and the follower and the Muslim society in this incident is unique. The leader inflicts the most severe punishment but with the feelings of affection and without any tinge of anger or hatred in it. It is like the punishment which a father gives to his son. It is always understood that the punishment is given for the good of the son, who knows that as soon as he mends his ways, he will regain the fatherly love. And the follower sets an excellent example of obedience under very trying circumstances. He suffers hard from the severity of the chastisement but never thinks of rebelling against the leader because of any false personal or clannish pride; nay, he does not cherish in his heart any complaint against his beloved leader, but begins to love him even more than before. During this saddest period of his life the only thing he yearns for is a look of affection from his leader. For he is like a famine-stricken farmer whose only hope is the piece of cloud which he sees floating in the sky.

Now let us have a glimpse of the Muslim society, which displayed the greatest discipline and the highest moral spirit that had ever been shown by any society. No sooner does the leader order the boycott than the whole community becomes a stranger to the follower not only in public but also in private. So much so that his nearest relatives and closest friends do not even speak to him; nay, his own wife leaves him alone. He implores them on oath to tell him if they suspected his sincerity, but even his lifelong companions make a point-blank refusal, saying that he should ask Allah and His Messenger for that testimony. But in spite of the show of this strict discipline, the moral spirit of the community is so high and so pure that not a single person tries to take advantage of the position of the fallen brother by adding insult to his injury; nay, everyone feels sorry for his brother in disgrace, and is important to embrace him as soon as he is forgiven. That is why the people run in haste to tell him the good news.

The above is the model of the righteous community that the Quran aims.

This background makes it plain why Allah not only forgave them but also manifested His kindness; gentleness and compassion in His forgiveness to these people. It was because of their sincerity which they proved during the fifty days of their chastisement. Had they shown arrogance after the commission of their offense and retaliated by taking angry and hostile actions as does every self-worshiper whose pride is wounded: had they behaved during their boycott in a manner as if they would break away from the community but never bow down before it: had they passed this period in spreading dissatisfaction in the community and gathering around them all the disgruntled people in order to organize a strong opposition against the leader, then they would have most certainly been expelled from the community, as if to say, “Go you now and worship the idol of yourself, for henceforth you will never be given any opportunity for exerting to raise the word of Allah”. But these three did not adopt this way though it was open to them. On the contrary, they took a different way, as has been seen, and proved that God-worship had destroyed every idol that might have remained hidden in their hearts: that they had dedicated themselves entirely to the exertion in the Way of Allah: that while joining the Islamic community they had burnt their boats to make it impossible for themselves to go back anywhere: that they would put up with every kind of treatment but would remain in the community and die as a member of it and would scornfully reject any offer of an honorable place outside it; and would rather bear disgrace in it. That was why they were again taken in the community with the same honor as before. This is the explanation of the kind words of forgiveness: “Then He turned to them, that they might repent.” In these concise words, the Quran has depicted the true picture of the matter. The Master had at first turned away His attention from His three servants but when He saw that they had not left His door but had remained there with broken hearts, He again turned to them in appreciation of their fidelity so as to bring them back into the fold.

119. O those (of you) who believe, fear Allah, and be with those who are true.

يَأَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا اتَّقُوا اللَّهَ
وَكُونُوا مَعَ الصَّادِقِينَ

120. It was not (proper) for the people of AlMadinah and those around them of the wandering Arabs that they remain behind after (the departure of) the Messenger of Allah, nor they prefer themselves over his self. That is because they are not afflicted by thirst, nor fatigue, nor hunger in the cause of Allah, nor they tread any ground to enrage the disbelievers, nor do they inflict upon an enemy any infliction, but is written for them that as a righteous deed. Indeed, Allah does not waste the reward of those who do good.

122. And it was not (necessary) for the believers to go forth (for battle) all together. So why did not go forth from every division of them a party, so that those (left behind) may gain sound knowledge in religion, and that they may warn their people when they return to them, that they might avoid (wrong). *120

120 In order to comprehend the meaning of this verse, Ayat 97 with which it is connected, should be kept in view: These bedouins are most stubborn in unbelief and hypocrisy, and, in all probability, will remain ignorant of the laws of the way which Allah has sent down to His Messenger.

In Ayat 97, the Quran merely diagnosed the disease and pointed out its symptoms. The bedouins were suffering from the disease of hypocrisy because of their ignorance of the laws of the Way of Allah. This was so because they had not had any connections with the center of that knowledge. Here in this concluding portion of the Surah, the remedy of that disease has been prescribed so that they should have an understanding of Islam and its implications. It is not necessary that for this purpose all of them should leave their homes and come to Al-Madinah to learn that knowledge, but some of them should come from each habitation, clan and region to the centers of the knowledge (Al-Madinah, Makkah and the like) and understand Islam. Then they should go back to their own habitations and create its understanding among the common people.

This was a very important instruction that was given at the opportune moment to strengthen the Islamic movement. For, at that time, the people were entering into the fold of Islam in large numbers without its proper understanding. Obviously, this instruction was not needed in the initial stages of the movement, for at that time everyone who embraced Islam did so with its full understanding. No one would think of becoming a Muslim without this as this was an invitation to persecution. When the movement became successful and won power in the land, the clans and the habitations began to enter en bloc into the fold of Islam. Naturally very few of them understood the full implications of the faith before accepting it, but the majority of them were being carried into the fold, as it were, by the strong current that had been generated by the movement. Outwardly this immense increase in numbers appeared to be a source of strength to Islam, but in reality such people as had no true understanding of Islam and were, therefore, not prepared to fulfill its moral obligations, were not only useless for the Islamic system but were actually harmful to it. This side of the matter became quite apparent during the preparations for the Tabuk expedition. That is why Allah sent down the instruction that necessary steps should be taken for the integration of the Islamic community so that it may keep pace with the immense increase in its number. Therefore some people should be brought out from every habitation and taught and trained in the requirements of Islam and these in their turn should teach and train their own people so that the whole Muslim population should understand Islam and obtain the knowledge of the limits prescribed by Allah.

In this connection, it should also be clearly understood that the command about mass education given in this verse is not merely about literacy but it had the definite aim of imparting the understanding of the way of Islam among the masses and enabling them to refrain from un-Islamic ways. This is the real and permanent aim of education that has been set before the Muslims by Allah himself. Therefore every system of their education shall be judged by this criterion and shall be regarded Islamic only to the extent it fulfills this aim. It does not, however, mean that Islam is against the spreading of literacy and teaching of the purely mundane subjects to the masses, but it simply means that the primary aim of the Islamic education should be the achievement of the objective which has been mentioned above in italics. Without this, it does not consider any education to be education at all, even if it were to produce Einsteins and Freuds of the age.

It will be worthwhile to consider the true significance of the words used in the context, for they created a strange misunderstanding among the people of the later period, and produced lasting poisonous effects on the religious education of the Muslims, nay, on their whole religious life in general. It is obvious that Allah used these words in order to lay down the objective of education before the Muslims, which was this: to understand the Islamic way of life and have an insight into its system: to be familiar with its true nature and spirit so as to be able to judge and differentiate between the Islamic and the un-Islamic ways of thought and conduct in every aspect of life. But later on when the knowledge of the Muslim law was given the technical name of fiqh, it gradually developed into the science of the details of external form (as opposed to the spiritual aspect of the Islamic law). As the word fiqh is of the same root as used in this verse, a misunderstanding was created that this command of the Quran was about acquiring the knowledge of fiqh in the above-mentioned sense. It is true that this knowledge is of great importance in the Islamic system of life, but it is not all that is required by the Quran but only a part of the objective. It is not possible to recount here all the damages that the Muslim community has suffered because of this misunderstanding, but suffice it to say that this is the thing, which is responsible for reducing the religious education of the Muslims to the knowledge and interpretation of the external form of Islam without paying any attention to the spirit of Islam. This inevitably resulted in making lifeless formalism the ultimate goal of the life of the Muslims.

123. O those (of you) who believe, fight those who are near to you of the disbelievers,^{*121} and let them find harshness in you.^{*122} And know that Allah is with those who are righteous.^{*123}

يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا قَاتِلُوا
الَّذِينَ يَلُونَكُمْ مِّنَ
الْكُفَّارِ وَلِيَجِدُوا فِيكُمْ غِلْظَةً
وَاعْلَمُوا أَنَّ اللَّهَ مَعَ
الْمُتَّقِينَ

121 From the apparent wording of this verse, it may be inferred that only those Muslims have at first been held responsible to fight with those enemies of Islam who live near their territory. But if we read this verse along with the succeeding passage, it becomes clear that here disbelievers who are near you refers to those hypocrites who were doing great harm to the Islamic society by mixing up with the sincere Muslims. This very thing was stated in Ayat 73 at the beginning of this discourse. The command has been repeated at its end in order to impress on the Muslims the importance of the matter and to urge them to do Jihad and crush these internal enemies, without paying the least regard to the racial, family and social relations that had been proving a binding force with them. The only difference between the two commands is that in Ayat 73, the Muslims were asked to do Jihad with them, while in this verse stronger words “fight those” have been used, which were meant to impress on them that they should crush the hypocrites thoroughly and completely. Another difference in the wordings is that in Ayat 73, two different words, “disbelievers and hypocrites” have been used, while in this verse only one word, “disbelievers” has been used so that the hypocrites should forfeit all their claims as Muslims. For there was room for this concession in the word hypocrite.

122 This is meant to impress that they should not, in future, show the lenient treatment they had been meting out to them up to that time. This has already been commanded in Ayat 73 as be firm and stern with them.

123 This warning has two-fold meanings and both are implied here. First, If you show any kind of leniency towards them because of your personal or family or economic connections with them, you should know that such a thing shall be against the fear of God. For the fear of God and friendly relations with the enemies of Allah are contradictory things. Therefore, you should give these up if you desire to obtain Allah’s help. Secondly, You should scrupulously observe the moral and humane limits in doing Jihad, and in fighting against them. For you should always keep yourselves within the prescribed limits in everything. If you transgress these in any way, you should know that Allah will forsake you for He helps only those who are God-fearing.

124. And whenever a surah is revealed, there are among them those who say: "Which of you has this increased in faith." As for those who believe, it has increased them in faith and they rejoice.

وَإِذَا مَا أَنْزَلَتْ سُورَةٌ فَمِنْهُمْ مَن
يَقُولُ أَيْكُمُ زَادَتْهُ هَذِهِ
إِيمَانًا فَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا
فَزَادَتْهُمْ إِيمَانًا وَهُمْ
يَسْتَبْشِرُونَ

125. And as for those in whose hearts is disease, it only increases wickedness to their wickedness,^{*124} and they die while they are disbelievers.

وَأَمَّا الَّذِينَ فِي قُلُوبِهِم
مَّرَضٌ فَزَادَتْهُمْ رِجْسًا إِلَى
رِجْسِهِمْ وَمَاتُوا وَهُمْ
كَافِرُونَ

124 As regards the increase and decrease in faith, disbelief and hypocrisy, please refer to E.N.2 of Surah Al-Anfal.

126. Do they not see that they are tried in every year once or twice.^{*125} Then they do not turn

أَوَلَا يَرَوْنَ أَنَّهُمْ يُفْتَنُونَ فِي كُلِّ عَامٍ مَّرَّةً أَوْ مَرَّتَيْنِ ثُمَّ in repentance, nor do they remember.

لَا يَتُوبُونَ وَلَا هُمْ
يَذْكُرُونَ

*125 That is, during the course of every year such circumstances are created as put to test once or twice their claim to the faith, and these disclose that their profession of Islam was like a counterfeit coin. For instance, some time their faith is tested by:

- (a) A commandment of the Quran which lays some new restriction on their lust or by;
- (b) A demand of the faith that hits hard at their self interests or by;
- (c) an internal dispute which discloses their preference for worldly interests and for their personal, family and clannish relations to Allah, His Messenger and the faith or by;
- (d) A war that requires the sacrifice of their lives, wealth, time and energies. All these tests help bring to the open that filth of hypocrisy that lay hidden in their hearts under the garb of the profession of Islam. Besides, these things increase that filth which had already gathered in their hearts because of their deviations from the implications of the faith.

127. And whenever a surah is revealed, they look at one another (saying): "Does any one see you." Then they turn

وَإِذَا مَا أَنْزَلَتْ سُورَةً نَّظَرَ
بَعْضُهُمْ إِلَى بَعْضٍ هَلْ يَرَىٰكُمْ مِنْ أَحَدٍ ثُمَّ away.*¹²⁶ Allah has turned their hearts because they are a people who do not understand.*¹²⁷

أَنْصَرَفُوا صَرَفَ اللَّهِ قُلُوبَهُمْ
بِأَنَّهُمْ قَوْمٌ لَا يَفْقَهُونَ

*126 This happened when the hypocrites had to attend a meeting that was specially held for the recital of some new Surah. The Prophet (peace be upon him) used to recite as an address every new Surah before the assembly. The true believers would listen to it very attentively and respectfully. But the hypocrites, who had to attend the meeting to show that they were Muslims, would sit listlessly in the meeting for they had no interest in the recital. But when they would be assured that their attendance had been marked, they would look for an opportune moment to slip away without being seen and noticed.

*127 Allah has turned away their hearts from the Quran, because they do not understand that it is in their own interest to listen to the Quran and to act upon its teachings. These foolish people do not realize that by ignoring the Quran and the Prophet (peace be upon him), they in fact deprive themselves of a great blessing. As they are deeply engaged in their own narrow interests, they do not see that the great knowledge of the Quran and the right guidance of the Prophet (peace be upon him) has the potentiality of making them the leaders of this world, and of bringing salvation to them in the next world. As a result of their folly and neglect of the great blessing, Allah has, in accordance with His law, deprived them of the capacity of making use of this blessing and turned away their hearts from it. That is why these unfortunate, people do not even feel the great loss they are suffering, while the blessed people are taking full advantage of this great fountainhead of power and strength and are preparing themselves for achieving the greatest success that human beings could ever achieve.

128. There has certainly come to you a Messenger from amongst yourselves. Grievous to him is that you should suffer (any difficulty), concerned over you, for the believers full of kindness, merciful.

لَقَدْ جَاءَكُمْ رَسُولٌ مِّنْ

129. Then if they turn away, (O Muhammad) say: “Sufficient for me is Allah. There is no deity except Him. In Him have I put my trust, and He is the Lord of the Tremendous Throne.”

يُونُسَ Younus

بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

In the name of Allah, Most Gracious, Most Merciful

Name

The Surah takes its name from Ayat 98, in which there is a reference to Prophet Yunus (Jonah). The name, as usual, is symbolical and does not indicate that the Surah deals with the story of Prophet Jonah.

Period of Revelation

We learn from traditions, and this is supported by the contents of the Surah itself, that this entire Surah was revealed at Makkah. But there are some people who are of the opinion, that some of its verses were revealed at Al-Madinah. This is, however, a superficial view. The continuity of the theme clearly shows that this does not comprise isolated verses or discourses that were revealed at different times and on different occasions. On the contrary, it is, from the beginning to the end, a closely connected discourse which must have been revealed at one sitting. Besides this, the nature of its theme is itself a clear proof that the Surah belongs to the Makkan period.

Time of Revelation

We have no tradition in regard to the time of it's revelation, but its subject matter gives clear indication that it must have been revealed during the last stage of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) residence at Makkah. For the mode of the discourse suggests that at the time of its revelation, the antagonism of the opponents of the Message had become so intense that they could not tolerate even the presence of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers among themselves, and that things had come to such a pass as to leave no hope that they would ever understand and accept the Message of the Prophet (peace be upon him). This indicates that the last stage of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) life among these people had come, and the final warning like the one in this Surah had to be given. These characteristics of the discourse are clear proof that it was revealed during the last stage of the movement at Makkah.

Another thing that determines more specifically the order of the Surahs of the last stage at Makkah is the mention (or absence) of some open or covert hint about Hijrat (emigration) from Makkah. As this Surah does not contain any hint whatsoever about this, it is a proof that it preceded those Surahs which contain it.

Now that we have specified the time of its revelation, there is no need of repeating its historical background because that has already been stated in Surahs Al-Maidah and Al-Anaam.

Subject

This discourse deals with the invitation to the message, admonition and warning. In the very introductory verses, the invitation has been extended like this:

The people consider it a strange thing that this message is being conveyed by a human being and charge him with sorcery, whereas there is nothing strange in it nor has it any connection with sorcery or sooth saying. It simply informs you of two realities. First, Allah, Who has created the universe and manages it is, in fact, your Master and Lord, and He alone is entitled to your worship. The second reality is that after the life in this world, there will be another life in the next world, where you shall have to render full account of the life of this world and be rewarded or punished according to whether you adopted the righteous attitude as required by Him after acknowledging Him as your Masters or acted against His will. Both of these realities, which the Messenger (peace be upon him) is presenting before you, are realities in themselves whether you acknowledge them as such or not. He is inviting you to accept these and regulate your lives in accordance with them. If you accept these, you will have a very blessed end, otherwise you shall meet with evil consequences.

Topics

After the introduction, the following topics have been dealt with in an appropriate order:

1. Proofs of the doctrines of Tauhid, providence and life-after-death have been given by such arguments as may satisfy the minds and hearts of those who listen to the message without prejudice and bigotry with the sole intention of safeguarding themselves against deviation and its evil results and not for the sake of seeking opportunities for useless discussions.

2. Those misunderstandings which were (and always are) hindering people from accepting the doctrines of Tauhid and the Hereafter, have been removed and they have been warned to guard against those negligence that stand in their way.

3. Those doubts have been removed and answers to those objections given which were being raised about the Prophethood of Muhammad (peace be upon him) and the message brought by him.

4. Graphic descriptions of the life in the Hereafter have been presented in order to warn the people beforehand so that they should mend their ways here and be not sorry afterwards for their conduct in this world.

5. They have been admonished and warned that the life in this world is really a test and a trial, and that the time allowed for it is only up to the last moment of the earthly life, and that this is the only opportunity that shall be given to them for accepting the message and achieving success in the test. Therefore, they should make the best use of the opportunity that has been provided for them by the appointment of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) for their guidance and obtain the true knowledge of the reality from the Quran that is being sent down to him. Otherwise, they shall be remorseful forever and ever.

6. Their attention has been drawn to some of their acts of manifest ignorance and deviation which were the direct result of discarding divine guidance from their lives.

In this connection, the story of Prophet Noah (peace be upon him) has been related in brief and that of Prophet Moses (peace be upon him) in detail in order to impress four things on the minds:

First, as your behavior towards Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) is like that of the peoples of Prophets Noah and Moses (peace be upon them) towards them, you should know it for certain that you shall also meet with the same consequences which they met with. Secondly, you should not be deluded into believing by the helpless and weak condition of the Prophet (peace be upon him) and his followers, you are witnessing today, that it will always remain like this. You should know that the same All-Powerful Allah Who supported Prophets Moses and Aaron (peace be upon them) is supporting them and that He changes the circumstances in such a sudden and thorough manner that none can foresee it. Thirdly, if you do not make use of the term that has been granted to you by Allah and mend your ways now, and postpone this to the last moment like Pharaoh, your repentance shall not be accepted. Lastly the followers of the Prophet (peace be upon him) have been reassured that they should not lose heart because of the severity of the circumstances created by their opponents, especially at the time when they themselves were in an utterly helpless condition. They have also been given instructions as to how they should carry on their mission under those harsh conditions. Moreover, they have been warned to be on their guard against the kind of behavior which was adopted by the Israelites, when they were rescued by Allah from the tyranny of the People of Pharaoh.

7. At the end of the Surah, the Prophet (peace be upon him) has been commanded to make a declaration to this effect: This is the creed and this is the rule of conduct that has been prescribed for me by Allah. No change can be made at all in this. He who will accept this will do so for his own good and the one will reject this will do so at his own peril.

1. Alif. Lam. Ra. These are verses of the wise Book.*1

الرَّحْمَٰنُ
تِلْكَ آيَاتُ الْكِتَابِ
الْحَكِيمِ

*1 This introductory verse contains a subtle answer to those foolish people who presumed that the discourses, which the Messenger (peace be upon him) was presenting as the Quran, were nothing more than eloquent speeches, poetic lofty thoughts, and some predictions like those of the soothsayers. They are being warned that the Quran is not what they supposed it to be but this is the Book of wisdom, and that if they did not pay due attention to it, they would deprive themselves of wisdom.

2. Is it astonishing for mankind that We have revealed to a man (Muhammad) from among them, (saying) that: "Warn mankind and give good tidings to those who believe that they shall have a

أَمَّا لِلنَّاسِ عَجَبًا أَنْ أَوْحَيْنَا
إِلَىٰ رَجُلٍ مِّنْهُمْ أَنْ أَنْذِرِ النَّاسَ
وَبَشِّرِ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا أَنَّ لَهُمْ قَدَمَ صِدْقٍ عِنْدَ رَبِّهِمْ قَالَ firm footing with their Lord.”*2 The disbelievers say: “Indeed, this is an evident sorcerer.”*3

الْكَافِرُونَ إِنَّ هَذَا لَسَاحِرٌ

*2 This question has been posed to impress on them that if they considered the matter coolly, they themselves would come to the conclusion that:

(a) There is nothing strange in appointing a man to warn his fellow men of the consequences of neglecting the Message. For it is obvious that a man, and not a jinn nor an angel nor any other being, was the proper messenger for human beings.

(b) There is nothing strange in it that the Creator and Lord of mankind should make arrangements for the guidance of erring human beings; nay, it would have been strange if He had made no such arrangements, and

(c) There is nothing strange in this that real honor and success should come to those who accept the guidance and not to those who reject it.

*3 They dubbed him “evident sorcerer” but did not consider whether the epithet appropriately applied to him or not. It is obvious that the mere fact that he was moving the hearts and influencing the minds of the believers with his eloquence was not a sufficient proof that he was using magic to achieve this object. And it is not difficult at all to distinguish rhetoric of a Messenger from that of an sorcerer for these are quite distinct from each other in their nature, in the objectives for which they are used and in the effect they produce on the lives of the believers. The irresponsible sorcerer does not care at all whether what he utters is correct, just and righteous because his only object is to influence the hearts of the hearers in order to achieve his own unlawful ends. That is why he does not hesitate at all to utter any false, exaggerated or unjust thing, if it serves his purpose. For his only aim is to produce an emotional effect in order to deceive the people by using an artificially ornamented and exaggerated language rather than to state things of wisdom. As a result of this, his talk is contradictory, imbalanced and unsystematic. As his sole object is self-interest, he abuses his rhetoric for exploitation, or for sowing seeds of discord or for setting one party against the other. Therefore, the sorcerer fails to produce any high moral effects on the lives of the people or to imbue them with any righteous thoughts or to urge them to noble deeds or to bring about any healthy change in their lives; nay, as a result of his magic the people begin to exhibit even worse qualities than they did before.

Thus it is implied that by the application of this criterion, the charge of the unbelievers that “This man is a manifest sorcerer” is refuted, for it means to say to them: You yourselves are witnessing that the talk of this person is wise, systematic, balanced, right and just. Every word he utters is well-thought out and everything he says is most valuable and precious. His eloquence aims at nothing but reform of the people. There is not the least tinge of personal, family, national or any other worldly interest in his talk. His only intention and desire is to warn the people of the consequences of their negligence and to invite them to the way of their own good. Then consider the effects of his eloquence and you will find that they are quite different from those produced by the rhetoric of the enchanters. The lives of all those who have been influenced by him have been so reformed that they have become models of high moral character and excellent conduct. Therefore, you should consider the matter and decide for yourselves whether he is an enchanter or a prophet.

3. Indeed, your Lord is Allah, He who created the heavens and the earth in six days, then He established Himself upon the Throne, governing all affairs.*4 There is not any intercessor (who can plead with Him) except after His permission.*5 That is Allah, your Lord, so worship Him.*6 Will you then not receive admonition.*7

إِنَّ رَبَّكُمْ اللَّهُ الَّذِي خَلَقَ
السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضَ فِي سِتَّةِ
أَيَّامٍ ثُمَّ اسْتَوَىٰ عَلَى الْعَرْشِ
يُدَبِّرُ الْأَمْرَ مَا مِنْ شَفِيعٍ إِلَّا
مِنْ بَعْدِ إِذْنِهِ ذَلِكُمْ اللَّهُ
رَبُّكُمْ فَاعْبُدُوهُ أَفَلَا
تَذَكَّرُونَ

*4 This is to impress the fact that after creating the universe, Allah has not cut off connection with it, but has sat Himself upon His Throne and is practically directing and conducting and governing each and every part of it. The foolish people think that after creating the universe, Allah has left it to itself or to others to exploit it as they will. But the Quran refutes this and says that Allah Himself is governing His entire creation and He has kept all the powers and the reins of government in His own hands and whatever is taking place in each and every part of the universe is happening with His command or permission. In short, He is not only the Creator but also the Ruler, Designer and Supporter of the universe, which is working in accordance with His will. (See also E.Ns 40, 41 of Surah Al-Aaaraf).

5 This is to emphasize the other side of the matter. He is All-Powerful and there is none who dare make even a recommendation to Him about anything, not to speak of interfering with His management of affairs so as to cause any change in His decrees or in the making or marring of anyone's fate. The most one can do is to make a supplication to Him but it all depends on His will to grant or reject it. There is none so powerful in His Kingdom as to have his own way in anything or to get his recommendations through anyhow.

6 After stating the bare fact that Allah alone is the Lord, people are being told the kind of conduct that fact demands from them. That is, when Allah alone is your Lord, you should worship Him alone. In this connection, it should also be noted that just as the Arabic word Rabb implies three things namely Providence, Supremacy and Sovereignty, likewise the Arabic word ibadat also contains three corresponding implications.

(1) Worship: As Allah is his sole Providence, man should show his gratitude to Him by worshiping Him alone. He should pray and supplicate to Him and bow his head in reverence to Him and none else.

(2) Servitude: As Allah is the only Supreme Being, man should behave like His servant and slave and should not adopt the attitude of independence towards Him nor should he subject himself to the mental or practical servitude of anyone else.

(3) Obedience: As Allah is his sole Sovereign, man should obey His commands, and follow His law, and he should neither become his own sovereign nor should he acknowledge anyone else as his sovereign.

*7 That is, will you not then understand the implications of the reality that has been expounded? Will you not open your eyes and see the misunderstandings which have been misleading you into wrong ways opposed to Reality? Will you persist in them?

4. To Him is your return all together.*8 The promise of Allah in truth. Indeed, it is He who begins the creation, then He repeats it,*9 that He may reward those who believed and did righteous deeds in justice. And those who disbelieved, they will have a drink of scalding water and painful punishment for what they used to disbelieve.*10

إِلَيْهِ مَرْجِعُكُمْ جَمِيعًا^ط وَعَدَّ اللَّهُ
حَقًّا^ج إِنَّهُ يَبْدَأُ الْخَلْقَ ثُمَّ
يُعِيدُهُ لِيَجْزِيَ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا
وَعَمِلُوا الصَّالِحَاتِ بِالْقِسْطِ^ج
وَالَّذِينَ كَفَرُوا لَهُمْ شَرَابٌ مِّنْ
حَمِيمٍ وَعَذَابٌ أَلِيمٌ بِمَا كَانُوا
يَكْفُرُونَ

*8 This is the second basic principle of the teachings of every prophet; “You shall have to return to your Lord and render an account of all you did in this world.” The first principle has been stated in the preceding verse: Allah alone is your Lord: therefore worship only Him.

9 This sentence contains both a statement and its proof. The statement is, “Allah will again bring to life all human beings,” and the proof is, “This is as easy for Allah as it was to create them the first time.” The one who acknowledges that Allah has originated all creation (and who can deny this except those atheists who accepted the absurd theory of “creation without a creator” merely to get a plea for discarding the religion of the Christian clergy?) cannot consider this as impossible or irrational.

10 The reason why Allah will again bring the whole mankind to life is to reward the believers and to punish the disbelievers. After showing that this is possible to raise the dead, it is stated that it is absolutely necessary to fulfill the demands of common sense and justice, for full justice cannot be done without this. Common sense and justice demand that those who believe and do righteous deeds should be given their full rewards, and those who disbelieve and reject the truth and do evil deeds, should be duly punished. As every sensible and just person knows that this demand of justice is not fulfilled in its entirety, and cannot be fulfilled, in this world. It is absolutely essential that the entire mankind should again be brought to life for this purpose. (See also E.N. 30, Surah Al-Aaraf and E.N. 105, Surah Hud.)

5. It is He who made the sun a radiance and the moon a light, and measured out for it stages, that you may know the number of the years, and the reckoning (of time). Allah did not create this but in truth. He explains in detail the signs for people who have knowledge.

هُوَ الَّذِي جَعَلَ الشَّمْسَ
ضِيَاءً وَالْقَمَرَ نُورًا وَقَدَّرَهُ
مَنَازِلَ لِتَعْلَمُوا عَدَدَ السِّنِينَ
وَالْحِسَابَ مَا خَلَقَ اللَّهُ ذَلِكَ
إِلَّا بِالْحَقِّ يُفَصِّلُ الْآيَاتِ
لِقَوْمٍ يَعْلَمُونَ ﴿٦﴾

6. Indeed, in the alternation of the night and the day, and what Allah has created in the heavens and the earth, are indeed signs for a people who fear (Allah).^{*11}

إِنَّ فِي اخْتِلَافِ اللَّيْلِ وَالنَّهَارِ وَمَا
خَلَقَ اللَّهُ فِي السَّمَوَاتِ وَالْأَرْضِ
لآيَاتٍ لِّقَوْمٍ يَتَّقُونَ ﴿٦﴾

11 This is the third argument in proof of the doctrine of the life in the Hereafter. It is based on Allah's manifestations in the heavens and on the earth. The greatest and most manifest of these are the sun the moon and the alternation of the night and day, for these are ever present before each and every human being. All these clearly show that the Creator of this great and vast universe is not a child who has made all this for mere fun and will break it up when he is satiated with it. These manifestations of His are a clear proof of the fact that the Creator is All-Wise, for there is a system, a wisdom, a design and a serious object in each and every particle of His creation. These seem, as it were, to say: When you yourselves learn from the signs and manifestations of His wisdom that He is All-Wise, how can you, then, expect that He will not call man to account after granting him common sense, moral feelings, independent responsibility and authority to exploit His endless resources, and that He will not reward those who make the right use of these and punish those who abuse them?

Thus, it has become obvious that in Ayats 4-6, three arguments have been given in their logical order to present the doctrine of the Hereafter:

(1) The fact of the origination of life in this world is a proof that life in the next world is also possible.

(2) There must be life in the Hereafter, because it is essential for the recompense of the deeds that one does, and of the use or abuse one makes of the moral responsibilities that have been entrusted to man. Therefore, it is the demand of common sense and justice that there must be another world in which one should bear the consequences of his deeds, for this is not possible in this world.

(3) When common sense and justice demand that there must be life in the Hereafter, this need will surely be satisfied, for the Creator of man and the universe is All-Wise, and it cannot be conceived that the All-Wise will not satisfy the demands of common sense and justice.

A serious thinking will show that these are the only possible arguments for the proof of the life in the Hereafter and these suffice, too. After this the only thing that might be demanded in this connection is that it should be actually demonstrated before man to convince him that this thing is possible, necessary and demanded by the Wisdom of Allah. But it is obvious that this will not be done in this world for this is for the trial of man and not for recompense, and Allah wills to test whether man believes in the Hereafter without seeing it, merely by his reasoning on the right lines. Besides this, the words, “He explains in detail the signs for a people who have knowledge” and “Are indeed signs for a people who fear Allah” are worthy of serious consideration. These words imply this: Allah has in His wisdom spread such signs in each and every manifestation of His as clearly point to the realities that are hidden behind them; but only those people can reach to those realities, who (a) free themselves from the prejudices of ignorance and acquire knowledge from the sources with which Allah has provided man for this purpose, and (b) have the intention of avoiding wrong ways and following the right way.

7. Indeed, those who do not expect the meeting with Us, and are content with the life of the world, and are satisfied with it. And those who are neglectful of Our revelations.

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ لَا يَرْجُونَ
 لِقَاءَنَا وَرَضُوا بِالْحَيَاةِ الدُّنْيَا
 وَاطْمَأَنُّوا بِهَا وَالَّذِينَ هُمْ عَنْ
 آيَاتِنَا غَافِلُونَ ﴿٧﴾

8. Those, their abode will be the Fire because of what they used to earn.^{*12}

أُولَئِكَ مَأْوَهُمُ النَّارُ بِمَا
 كَانُوا يَكْسِبُونَ ﴿٨﴾

12 This passage also contains a statement and its proof. The statement is that those who reject the doctrine of the Hereafter shall inevitably go to Hell and its proof is that those who reject or pay no heed to this, commit such evil deeds as deserve nothing less than the fire of Hell. The fact which is supported by the experience of thousands of years, is that those who do not consider themselves responsible and accountable to God in the Hereafter, go astray into wrong ways for lack of any control over themselves, and commit immoralities and fill God's earth with tyranny, chaos and filth and thus merit Hell. This is inevitable. If a man leads his life on the presumption that there is no other life, he will have no fear that he shall have to render a full account of all his deeds in this world. Therefore his sole aim in this life will be to win, by hook or by crook, prosperity, happiness, fame and power in this world. Naturally these materialistic attitudes make people heedless of the signs of Allah and mislead them into wrong ways that lead to Hell. The above argument for the doctrine of the Hereafter is in its nature different from the previous three arguments. This is based on the knowledge gained by human experience while the former were based on rational reasoning. Though here only a hint has been given about it, the same has been stated in detail in other places in the Quran. This is the argument in brief: Human beings cannot adopt individually or collectively the right attitude towards life unless the doctrine of accountability to God is deeply embedded in their hearts. The fact that human beings begin to behave erroneously, if and when their belief in this doctrine disappears or becomes weak, is borne out by a long experience. Had not the creed of the Hereafter been real, its acceptance or rejection would not have produced the results inevitably and continuously for centuries. The fact that the acceptance of a doctrine should have continuously produced right sort of results, and its denial wrong results, is a clear proof that it is real. Though the premises of the above argument and the conclusion drawn from these are clear and closely connected, there are some people who do not agree with this proposition. They argue their point like this. There are many instances of people who deny the Hereafter and base their moral philosophy and their rule of conduct on atheism and materialism, still they possess high moral characters and abstain from every sort of evil. In short, they are virtuous in their affairs and render great services to the people. But a little thinking will show that this is a weak argument. If we probe into the materialistic philosophies and systems, we shall find that all these lack solid foundations for the moral excellence and practical virtuous deeds; therefore they cannot produce those qualities with which the atheists and the materialists are credited. Indeed no such motivating factors exist in those philosophies as may produce the qualities of righteousness, honesty, trust worthiness, justice, compassion, generosity, sacrifice, sympathy, self control, purity, the fulfillment of duties, obligations and pledges and the like. The only alternative to the doctrines of Tauhid and the Hereafter is utilitarianism which might become the basis for a practical moral system, for all the other philosophies are merely hypothetical and impracticable. It is quite obvious that the motivating power of utilitarianism is very limited because it is incapable of carrying a person farther than utility itself. Therefore the one who believes in this doctrine will consider a virtue a “virtue” only as long as it is useful to his own person, family, society etc. and will direct all his efforts towards promoting their welfare and happiness and will adhere to moral qualities only as long as they are conducive to his own good or to that of his own people. But he will discard these virtues when he is convinced that these will be harmful. That is why a utilitarian does not believe in absolute morality but adopts truth or falsehood, honesty or dishonesty, faithfulness or treachery, justice or injustice, in short, any virtue or vice that may suit the occasion and be useful for his own interests.

Nevertheless, if there be any up-holders of absolute morality from among the disbelievers of Allah and the Hereafter, they could not have gotten these virtues from the doctrine of utilitarianism but from those latent religious influences that might have remained embedded in their hearts without their conscious knowledge. Such a person is, in fact, indebted to religion for his moral excellences, though he may be attributing these to secularism and materialism, for he cannot point out anything, whatsoever, in them that might have motivated those virtues.

9. Indeed, those who believe and do righteous deeds, their Lord will guide

إِنَّ الَّذِينَ ءَامَنُوا وَعَمِلُوا
الصَّالِحَاتِ يَهْدِيهِمْ رَبُّهُمْ them because of their faith.

Rivers will flow beneath them in the Gardens of Delight.*13

بِأَيْمَانِهِمْ تَجْرِي مِنْ تَحْتِهِمْ
الْأَنْهَارُ فِي جَنَّاتِ النَّعِيمِ

*13 We should not pass cursorily over this verse and should consider it deeply in the order it has been presented:

(1) Why will they be given Gardens of delight in the life of the Hereafter? This will be because they followed the right way in the life of this world and adopted the right ways in every aspect of life, both as individuals and as a community, and discarded the false and erroneous ways.

(2) How did they obtain at every step, at every turning and at every crossroad the correct criterion of judging between the right and the wrong, the true and the false, the righteous and the erroneous? Then from where did they get the power to remain steadfast on the right way, avoiding scrupulously wrong ways, after getting the right sort of discernment? It was their Lord Who is the real source of everything, Who gave them the guidance and the power of doing good works on every critical occasion.

(3) Why did their Lord give them that guidance and power? He gave them these things because of their faith.

(4) What is that characteristic of the faith which produces the above results? The faith which produces those results does not comprise mere profession but it is that faith which becomes the moving spirit of one's conduct and character and has the power of reforming one's morals and deeds.

In order to illustrate this point, let us consider, in the physical life of man, the case of food that is consumed for nourishment, health, energy and happiness. It is obvious that these results cannot be produced by the mere taking in of any food, but by that food which is so digested as turns into blood and circulates into every vein to provide energy to every part of the body for its proper functioning. In the same way, in the moral life, guidance, righteous attitude and pure conduct and true success, depend on those right creeds that get deeply embedded in the mind, heart and soul. Otherwise, creeds which are merely professed by the tongue or lie dormant in some corner of the mind and the heart cannot produce such results, for they cannot influence one's conduct, character, way of thinking and attitude towards life for the better. Just as one may eat food and still not obtain those useful results which are produced only if it is digested properly according to the physical laws of God. In the same way, one who professes those right creeds merely with his tongue, but does not make them a part of his mind, heart and soul does not deserve those rewards which are only for those whose deeds correspond to the creeds.

10. Their call therein will be: "Glory be to You, O Allah." And their greeting therein will be: "Peace." And the conclusion of their call will be that: "Praise to Allah, Lord of the worlds."*14

دَعْوَتُهُمْ فِيهَا سُبْحَانَكَ اللَّهُمَّ
وَتَحِيَّاتُهُمْ فِيهَا سَلَامٌ وَءَاخِرُهُ
دَعْوَتُهُمْ أَنْ الْحَمْدُ لِلَّهِ رَبِّ
الْعَالَمِينَ

*14 These facts about the life in Paradise have been stated in order to make conspicuous the high thinking and the noble qualities of the believers. When they enter Paradise after coming out successful in this worldly test, they will manifest the same high qualities of character that they had in this world. Instead of making urgent and immediate demands for beautiful articles of luxury, musical instruments, wine and women, they will sing hymns of praise to their Lord. This also belies that picture of the life in Paradise that some crooked people have formed of it. The fact is that the noble personalities which the believers build in this world and the high ways of thinking and the excellent moral characters they form in this world and the great and rigid training they give to their feelings, emotions and desires, will become all the more prominent in the pure surroundings and environments of Paradise. That is why they will love it most to sing hymns of praise to Allah and glorify His name just as they did in this world. Besides this, their greatest wish and desire in Paradise will be peace for one another, as it was in their collective life in this world.

11. And if Allah^{*15} were to hasten evil for mankind, just as they seek to hasten good, their term would have been decreed for them. So We leave those who do not expect the meeting with Us, in their transgression wandering blindly.

﴿ وَلَوْ يُعَجِّلُ اللَّهُ لِلنَّاسِ الشَّرَّ أَتَعَجَّلَهُمْ بِالْخَيْرِ لَاقْضَىٰ إِلَيْهِمْ أَجْلُهُمْ ۗ فَنَذَرُ الَّذِينَ لَا يَرْجُونَ لِقَاءَنَا فِي طُغْيَانِهِمْ يَعْمَهُونَ ﴾

15 After the introductory verses (1-10), the Quran takes up admonition which is the main subject of the Surah. In order to understand this fully we should keep two things in view as its background:

First, a little before its revelation, the continuous horrible famine, which had afflicted Makkah for seven long years and humbled the haughty Quraish, had come to an end. Naturally this had given a blow to idol worship and acted as a stimulus to God worship. For, in their utter helplessness, they had to supplicate to Allah and cry meekly for help. So much so that Abu Sufyan had to approach the Prophet (peace be upon him) with this request: Please pray to Allah to remove this affliction from us. But when the famine was over, and rains began to fall, and prosperity returned, they began to show rebellion and do evil deeds and started their hostile activities against the believers. Thus the hearts that had turned to Allah, again became neglectful of Him. (See Surah An-Nahal, Ayat 113, Surah Al-Mominoon, Ayats 75-77, Surah Ad-Dukhan, Ayats 10-16).

Secondly, the Quran answered the question with which they confronted the Prophet (peace be upon him) whenever he warned them of the consequences of rejecting the truth. They would say” You are always threatening us with Allah’s wrath; why doesn’t the divine torment visit us and why is it being delayed?

Keeping the above background in view, Ayats 11-12 may be expanded like this: Allah does not hasten in punishing and seizing the people for their sins as He hastens in showing kindness and compassion to them. Do they, then, want Him to hasten His torment for their rebellions, as He hastened to remove famine in answer to their supplications? As this is not Our Way, We give them time to mend their evil ways in spite of their transgressions and rebellions. We send warning after warning and give them respite until their term comes to an end. Then the law of requital comes into force. In contrast to this, their way is the way of mean and narrow minded people. When affliction comes, they remember Allah, begin to cry and call Him meekly, but forget it all during the time of prosperity. Such bad ways as these are leading them to divine torment.

12. And when affliction touches man, he calls upon Us, reclining on his side, or sitting, or standing. Then when We have removed from him his affliction, he goes his way as though he had not called upon Us because of the affliction that touched him. Thus it seems fair to the transgressors that which they used to do.

وَإِذَا مَسَّ الْإِنْسَانَ الضُّرُّ دَعَانَا
لِجَنبِهِ أَوْ قَاعِدًا أَوْ قَائِمًا فَلَمَّا
كَشَفْنَا عَنْهُ ضُرَّهُ مَرَّ كَأَن لَّمْ
يَدْعُنَا إِلَى ضُرِّ مَسَّهُ كَذَلِكَ
زِينٌ لِلْمُسْرِفِينَ مَا كَانُوا
يَعْمَلُونَ ﴿١٢﴾

13. And indeed, We destroyed the generations before you,^{*16} when they wronged,^{*17} and their messengers came to them

وَلَقَدْ أَهْلَكْنَا الْقُرُونََ مِنْ قَبْلِكُمْ
لَمَّا ظَلَمُوا وَجَاءَتْهُمْ رُسُلُهُمْ
بِالْبَيِّنَاتِ وَمَا كَانُوا لِيُؤْمِنُوا ﴿١٣﴾ with clear proofs, and they would not believe. Thus do We recompense the people who are criminals.

كَذَلِكَ نَجْزِي الْقَوْمَ الْمُجْرِمِينَ

*16 The Arabic word qarn is commonly used for the people living during the same period. But from the way the Quran has used this word on different occasions, it is evident that by qarn is, meant the community which had been invested with power and authority and appointed wholly or partially to the position of leadership of the world. One way in which such a community is destroyed is that it is totally exterminated but there are other forms of its destruction also.

*17 Here the word zulm has not been used in its commonly known limited sense, but it covers all sorts of sins that are committed, when people transgress the boundaries of Allah's slavery. (Refer to E.N. 49 of Surah Al-Baqarah).

14. Then We appointed you as successors in the land after them, that We might see how you would act.*18

ثُمَّ جَعَلْنَاكُمْ خَلَائِفَ فِي الْأَرْضِ
مِنْ بَعْدِهِمْ لِنَنْظُرَ كَيْفَ

*18 Ayats 13-14 have been pointedly addressed to the Arabs so as to say, "O Prophet (peace be upon him) of Arabia, learn a lesson from the communities that have passed before you. They were given an opportunity for doing good deeds in their time but instead of this they adopted the attitude of transgression and rebellion and rejected the teachings of the Messengers who had been sent for their guidance. As they failed in Our test, We dismissed them from leadership. Now, O people of Arabia, your turn has come and you have replaced them and have gotten the opportunity for doing the same work under the guidance of Our Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him). You must understand that you are undergoing the same test in which your predecessors have failed. If you do not want to meet with the end they met, you should make the right use of this opportunity by learning a lesson from their end and by avoiding the errors, which became the ultimate cause of their destruction.

15. And when Our revelations are recited to them as clear evidence, those who do not expect for their meeting with Us, say: “Bring a Quran other than this, or change it.”^{*19} Say: “It is not for me to change it on my own accord. I do not follow but that which is revealed unto me. Indeed, I fear, if I were to disobey my Lord, the punishment of a Great Day.”^{*20}

وَإِذَا تُلَىٰ عَلَيْهِمْ آيَاتُنَا بَيِّنَاتٍ
 قَالَ الَّذِينَ لَا يَرْجُونَ لِقَاءَنَا
 أَنْتَ بِقُرْآنٍ غَيْرِ هَذَا أَوْ بَدِّلْهُ
 قُلْ مَا يَكُونُ لِي أَنْ أُبَدِّلَهُ
 مِنْ تِلْقَائِي نَفْسِي إِنْ أَتَّبَعُ إِلَّا
 مَا يُوْحَىٰ إِلَيَّ إِنِّي أَخَافُ إِنْ
 عَصَيْتُ رَبِّي عَذَابَ يَوْمٍ عَظِيمٍ

19 They implied two things when they said these words. First, they meant that what Muhammad (peace be upon him) was presenting as divine revelation was really the product of his own mind but he was ascribing it to Allah merely to make his claim weighty. Secondly, they implied this: If you want to be the leader of your people, present something that may make them prosperous in the world and give up the doctrines of Tauhid and the Hereafter and the moral restrictions you are prescribing in your teaching. And if it is not possible, make some amendments in the Quran so that a compromise may be made between you and us on the principle of give and take so that there should be some scope for our shirk in your Tauhid and for our self worship and for our salvation in the Hereafter, irrespective of what we do in this world. You should also note it well that we cannot accept your absolute morality: therefore you should make an allowance for our prejudices, our rites and customs, our personal and national interests and our desires. We propose that with mutual agreement we should make a list of those religious demands which should be obligatory on us for the fulfillment of Allah's rights, and beyond that we should be free to conduct our worldly affairs in any way we like. This compromise is necessary because we cannot accept your demand that human life in all its aspects should entirely be led in accordance with the implications of the doctrines of Tauhid and the Hereafter and the regulations of the Islamic code of life.

*20 This is the answer to the two above mentioned demands: I have no authority of making any alterations in this Book for I am not its author but Allah is the One Who is sending it down to me. Therefore there is no question of any compromise about it. If you want to accept its way, you will have to accept it as it is; otherwise you are free to reject it.

16. Say: “If Allah had so willed, I would not have recited it to you, nor He would have made it known to you. Surely, I have lived amongst you a life time before this. Have you then no sense.”*21

قُلْ لَوْ شَاءَ اللَّهُ مَا تَلَوْتُهُ
عَلَيْكُمْ وَلَا أَدْرَاكُمْ بِهِ فَقَدْ
لَبِثْتُ فِيكُمْ عُمُرًا مِّن قَبْلِهِ
أَفَلَا تَعْقِلُونَ

*21 This is a very strong argument against their accusation that Muhammad (peace be upon him) was himself the author of the Quran but was ascribing it to Allah, and in support of the Prophet's (peace be upon him) claim that it was being sent down to him by Allah, Who was its Author. The argument is this: You yourselves have witnessed the forty years of his life before his appointment to Prophethood. He was born in your own city and passed his boyhood, youth and middle age before your very eyes. He lived among you and had all kinds of relations, social, marital, economic, etc. with you. So much so that no aspect of his life was hidden from you. Did you notice anything in his whole life that might show that he could be the author of this Book? Do you not use your commonsense?

The question posed in the Quran implied two things which were well known to everyone in Makkah about the Prophet (peace be upon him):

First, during the forty years of his life before Prophethood, he had neither received any education nor training nor sat in any company that should have enabled him to become the author of such a Book as was full of unique things that were unknown to the people around him. No one had ever heard from him anything about the problems that had been dealt with in different Surahs of the Quran. So much so that not even a relative or close friend of his had ever noticed anything in his talk or in anything about him that might have shown any signs of gradual development towards it before he made his great claim to Prophethood when he reached the age of forty. This was a clear proof of the fact that the Quran was not the invention of his own mind and that it must have been sent down to him from outside. For it is impossible for a human being to produce anything like this, all of a sudden and without ever manifesting any signs of its evolution and development in his earlier life. That is why when some intelligent people of Makkah felt the absurdity of this accusation, they began to say that it was some other person who taught these things to him. But this was even more absurd than the first thing because they could not point out specifically a single person in the whole of Arabia, not to say of Makkah, who had the ability of producing such unique things as were contained in the Quran. They also knew that a person of such high caliber could not have remained obscure in some unknown corner for forty years.
